0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

PrimaPreussen 8 7 6 5 3 2 3

Jeg elsker Dansk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Kadmos_Thebes 10 7 5 3 3 2 1

Jeg har altid elsket dette sprog.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TheUnknown 8 7 4 2 2 2

I love Danish do to its Vikings history.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

431 "The woman eats rice."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3357948>

Translation: Người phụ nữ ăn cơm.

22 years ago

Leave a new comment

37 Comments

revdolphins 25 17 10 6 13

If you're in the United States and you ever forget how to say rice, whatever you do, don't use the Vietnamese word. "The woman eats cơm" means something very different to an English speaker.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

LMAO! It's best not to mix up the languages. FYI : "rice" means both "gạo" and "cơm" in Vietnamese. "Gạo" in uncooked rice. "Cơm" is cooked rice.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KhiHuynL 4

you in england

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

thuynadoantfboy 7

cho m hoi khi nao thi dung man va men vay

2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Saturday289 9

tại sao lại là eats và ko phải là eat hả các bạn

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gacon1a 16

vì the woman là số ít nếu the women thì dùng eat

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LeuvenSojourner 5 3

Because of the "the" in front of "woman," should the translation be "Một người phụ nữ"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

Không bạn à. "the" là một mạo từ xác định (definite article) trong tiếng Anh dùng để diễn tả một người, việc, sự vật đã được xác định rồi, có nghĩa là bạn và người nghe biết rõ cụ thể người/sự vật/sự việc trong câu Còn mạo từ không xác định (a, an) dùng để miêu tả bất cứ MỘT người/sự vật/sự việc nào mà không xác định cụ thể, chỉ chung chung.

Tóm lại: "the" thì cụ thể, "a" hay "an" thì chung chung.

Trong ví dụ này: "The woman" dịch ra là người phụ nữ. Còn "A woman" mới là một người phụ nữ.

Hi vọng là sự giải thích này giúp ích cho bạn. :)

12ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

LeuvenSojourner 5 3

Thanks. I was just checking ckhadung's rule of thumb here "vì tiếng Việt không có mạo từ nên "the" sẽ được dịch là "một" (đối với singular) hoặc bỏ qua, không dịch (đối với plural)"

I know now.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

Mình sẽ không dịch chữ "the" là "một", chỉ "a" với "an" là một. "the sun" là mặt trời chứ không thể là "môt mặt trời"

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xikenguyen87 3

tkb bạn!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

phamthianh_1211 8

làm thế nào để phân biệt được woman và women nhĩ cách đọc cách phiên âm đều giống nhau cả

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

phamthianh_1211 8

rice dịch ra là gạo mà

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luckyngan 9

hânhu hu mik nhấn women rùi

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Linh927439 6

Women với woman nghe khó quá

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

maianhkq 8

the women =những người phụ nữ true or false ???

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

thuynadoantfbboy 7

những người phụ nữ ăn cơm cũng đc đúng k các bạn

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

phongtu 7

các bạn có thể cho mình biết trường hợp nào dùng women trường hợp nào dùng woman ko

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

khanhkhánh567 5
fuck

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

nguyenthit657227 3
Khó hiểu quá dị

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

NguyenVnLin697881 5
woman và women phát âm khác nhau chỗ nào mọi người

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

kimvandai 6
không biết các bạn trong quá trình nghe có bị lẫn lộn giữa the và a không? "the" mà t nghe như đọc là "a" ý.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11
Nếu không chắc bạn bấm vào nút nghe chậm lại nhé.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kimvandai 6
khi nghe nhanh thì t nghe được là "ơ" nhưng nghe chậm lại nghe là "di". Sao lại có khác biệt quá thế nhỉ? P/S: không viết được phiên âm quốc tế nên các bạn thông cảm nhé. Hiểu ý nhau mà.hihi

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

huuthaohau 4
chẳng biết khi nào là woman hay women hay khi nào là the a an. linh tinh quá. thế người nước ngoài người ta học khi nào là the a an ntn ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kimvandai 6
Theo nguyên tắc thì khi chỉ số nhiều thì ta thêm "s" hay "es", nhưng từ "woman" là bất nguyên tắc. "woman" là số ít, khi chuyển sang số nhiều thay vì ta thêm "s" thì ta dùng "women". "a", "an", "the" thì bạn có thể hiểu đơn giản như thế này: "a" và "an" là để chỉ nói đến cái mà người nói chuyện với mình chưa biết, còn "the" dùng để nói đến cái mà người nói chuyện với mình biết rồi. Ví dụ nhé: khi nói "Tôi có một con chó", người đối thoại với mình không biết đấy là con chó nào nên trong trường hợp này ta dùng "a", còn khi nói "tôi có 1 con chó, con chó đấy rất đáng yêu" thì trong vế thứ nhất ta dùng "a" vì người đối thoại không biết đấy là con chó nào, còn con chó trong vế thứ 2 sẽ dùng "the" vì người đối thoại biết đấy chính là con chó đã được nhắc đến ở vế 1 rồi.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

Bạn kimvandai nói khá đúng. Tại mình đang soạn bài về cách dùng mạo từ "the/a/an" vì tiếng Việt không dùng mạo từ nên việc dịch đôi khi gặp trở ngại. Nhìn chung thì "a/an" có thể dịch là "một"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

huuthaohau 4

the girls và the girl khác nhau như thế nào và nếu dịch nghĩa thì ntn ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kimvandai 6

Ồ. Đây là chỉ số nhiều hay số ít thôi mà. Khi b nói tới 1 cô gái thì dùng "the girl", còn khi nói tới nhiều hơn 1 cô gái thì dùng "the girls". "the girl" dịch là "cô gái" còn "the girls" dịch là "những cô gái"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CunYeu1 10

Thế nếu cô gái đó chưa xác định thì có dùng "The" không, hay dùng gì vậy bạn ? Xin cảm ơn.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

quynhlan2001 4

Chưa xác định thì dùng "the" nha bạn

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CunYeu1 10

Cảm ơn bạn quynhlan2001,

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

phamthianh_1211 8

ai bảo chưa xác định thì dùng a an

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

thanhliemhah 6

ai cho tôi biết khi nào dùng woman khi nào dùng women ko

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gacon1a 16

woman: một người phụ nữ; women: những người phụ nữ

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

huyhuyhuy03 4

viết thế kia cũng được chứ sao

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

432 "The interview went smoothly."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1308457>

Translation: L'entretien s'est bien passé.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

Siniara 20 12 7 3

Is there a difference between "...s'est passé bien" and "...s'est bien passé" or is the former just wrong?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

Yes, "bien" has to be placed between the auxiliary and the past participle.

il se passe bien (simple tense)

il s'est bien passé (compound tense)

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kysernj 17 16 13 1

Thanks. That was my question too. Is that true of all adverbs, or just a select group?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KATEJ15 13 9

Thank you for prompting a reminder about this!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

frogarms 12

L'entretien allait en douceur was my answer and is wrong. Anybody know why as there is no resource to find out. We learn more from our mistakes but only if we know where we went wrong.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

I think that "en douceur" is fine, but you still should use verb "se passer" at the compound past (passé composé for an action of the past now finished):

l'entretien s'est passé en douceur

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wrenbob 20 13 11

I think Duolingo is using the word "smoothly" wrong. It should be just "good"

-5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

milesnagopaleen 16 11 7 2

"The interview went good" would not be acceptable in the British Isles. We still use the adverb "well"

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mlindal 17 7

"Smoothly" works well for this sentence. "It went well" or "it went smoothly". Never -> it went good. But: "It was a good interview, it went smoothly" is a long form to get the idea behind the sentence.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DianaM 22

These turns of phrase that can be translated multiple ways are very frustrating. I just put "went smoothly" into Linguée and got a variety of translations - "s'est fait en douceur", "s'est bien déroulé", "s'est passé en douceur", "s'est poursuivie tranquillement", "s'est effectué en douceur", "s'est déroulé sans heurts" [also "...sans heurt"], "allait bien", "s'est passé comme sur des roulettes", "s'est déroulé sans anicroche", and on and on.

"S'est bien passé" was well down the list. My answer of "allait bien" was not accepted.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

The issue is with the verb/tense you have used here.

My best matches: - "s'est bien passé/déroulé" = went well - "se passait/déroulait bien" = was going well - "se passait/s'est passé en douceur" = smoothly

Now, for "allait bien", it is just that verb "aller" is not the best verb when it comes to an event vs a person.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ag3n7_z3r0 17 13 11 11 11 10 9 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 3 2 2

I looked at the hints and saw marchait comme sur des roulettes but this was rejected for the tense of marcher in favor of a marché. :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

clnoy 22 13 12 10 10 8 6 5 2 10

It's because "marchait" is imperfective and means "was going" or "used to go". On the other hand "a marché" is perfective and means "went" (or "worked", but that's not the case).

L'entretien a marché comme sur des roulettes is ok

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ag3n7_z3r0 17 13 11 11 11 10 9 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 3 2 2

Merci beaucoup ! I still have some difficulty matching the tenses, since it's not always 1:1.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

clnoy 22 13 12 10 10 8 6 5 2 10

Is English your native language? Seeing you also have a high level in Spanish, I can say that knowing that Spanish tenses and French tenses are almost the same really helps, especially when dealing with past actions. The verbs and their conjugations might be very different, but the tenses by themselves are very much alike.

Comparison:

French passé composé: Il a joué avec les jouets en bois.

Spanish pretérito (perfecto) compuesto: Él ha jugado con los juguetes de madera.

English present perfect: He has played with the wooden toys.

Though, in English and Spanish, this sentence could be in simple past instead of being in the compound form.

French imparfait: Il jouait avec les jouets en bois.

Spanish pretérito imperfecto: Él jugaba con los juguetes de madera.

English past continuous: He was playing with the wooden toys.

You could do a triple translation work until you get it right. xD

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ag3n7_z3r0 17 13 11 11 11 10 9 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 3 2 2

Hahaha, nope, native English speaker here! Thanks for the tip about Spanish. I've been wary of referencing Spanish while learning French for fear of ending up with some sort of... Franspagnol, especially since I have to use Spanish for my job.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

clnoy 22 13 12 10 10 8 6 5 2 10

Gotta love being able to speak more than 2 languages :D

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

433 isst vs esse

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/609047>

SillyLion 14 7

Hallo! I'm trying to figure out when to use isst and esse. I always end up guessing, and I feel like I need to figure this out before I keep moving on. Danke!

Give Lingot

133 years ago

Leave a new comment

5 Comments

flboiler 12 8 3 3 3

"Isst" is used for du and er/sie/es, whereas "esse" is used for ich ich esse = I eat du isst = you eat er/sie/es isst = he/she/it eats

Hope this helps!

6ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

SillyLion 14 7

That helps a lot, thanks! Can you elaborate a bit more, or give more examples of when to use each version? I was just doing a lesson practice, and a question was to translate "the women are eating," so I put isst, but it was essen; would essen be used if the subject is plural?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

flboiler 12 8 3 3 3

All you have to do is conjugate the verb (essen). Instead of memorizing the entire conjugation table at this level, it might be easier to divide it into groups based on the subject of the sentence (I, you, he, she, etc.):

Ich esse Singular subject: isst Plural subject: essen

Just note that "ihr" has it's own conjugation, but I'm not sure you'll need it on here.

Here is the full conjugation of the verb "essen"

ich esse – I eat du isst – you (informal) eat er/sie/es isst – he/she/it eats wir essen – we eat ihr esst – you (all) eat sie/Sie essen – they/you (formal) eat

I hope this helps without diving too deeply into grammar rules. Viel Glück! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

SillyLion 14 7

That helps a lot. Thanks for your help!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Willowfae 13 11 10 8 8 6 3 2

If you think about it 'the women' can be replaced by 'they'. It can't be replaced by you. So you use essen. Basically you are saying 'the women [they] are eating'

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

434 "The elephants eat an apple."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/173756>

Translation: Les éléphants mangent une pomme.

04 years ago

Leave a new comment
36 Comments

dessiner 11 9 2 1
not much food for an elephant

65ReplyGive Lingot1•4 years ago

johnarnold 25 25 25 25 25 14 8 1528
They must have either much bigger apples or much smaller elephants in France than they have here.

26ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

hackneyduo1510 14 6
yeah! lots of elephants eating one apple? seriously?

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LubinGuiha 5 3
One = un(number) A=une/un

-10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dessiner 11 9 2 1
That is not correct. 'One apple' would not be translated to 'un pomme', because pomme is feminine. 'Une pomme' can mean both 'one apple' or 'an apple'.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hackneyduo1510 14 6
We're just saying that a load of elephants nicely sharing an apple between them is a bit unlikely!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Fuzzy.Panda 10 2 3
They're on a diet

2Give Lingot•10 months ago

Fuzzy.Panda 10 2 3
Really, it refers to the elephants eating an apple each, rather than sharing.

1Give Lingot•10 months ago

Susan836179 7
Yeah. Big apples and small stomachs.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ShaneSakae 21 9 72
Make that multiple elephants

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dessiner 11 9 2 1

True, it's multiple elephants who eat an apple (each).

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

soniq2005 6

I can imagine a circus show with this headline...

14ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

dkhaupt 9

I peeked at the word for elephant to check the spelling, and it showed "éléphants" as well as "éléphantes". I used the latter form and got it wrong, but wouldn't each work without any other context suggesting gender?

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

macacodeduolingo 24 16 15 14 13 12 14

As you probably have found out since, éléphantes is for female elephant.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bobbigmac 25 11 6 6 5 5 3 2 12 12

Why would you not say L'elephants mangent une pomme ?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

waphle 7 6 3

Only "le" and "la" contract to "l'" when followed by a vowel sound; "les" does not.

I guess a good way to think about it is that these contractions occur to make the language sound and flow better, avoiding the awkwardness of two consecutive two vowel sounds (same principle behind using "an" instead of "a"), and with "les," there is a different principle at play to help the language sound and flow better, which is the liaison.

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9

I agree with you in principle about the reason for contractions and you are perfectly correct with the a/an analogy. However in "les elephants" you are repeating a vowel sound anyway "les" = 'lay' and "elephants" = 'aylay' so in this case it does not function to smooth the double vowel.

A comparison might be the way some people in English stubbornly write "an history" even though that makes no sense unless you have a Cockney accent.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ksriram 13

The pronunciation of les éléphants is not 'lay aylay...' but 'layz aylay...'. Hence there are no double vowels.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lesbianmoonbase 12 2

I believe that "les" is pronounced "lez" (or maybe "layz") specifically in order to avoid repeating a vowel sound. the singulars get contracted to avoid it, and the plural get their pronunciation changed to avoid it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PersistentCat 8

No, le, la and l' are singular, les is plural. In this phrase, it's "éléphants" plural.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

PersistentCat 8

Because elephants is plural, hence you have to write "les."

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ohmariamaria 11

How would you indicate that multiple elephants are sharing one apple versus them having an apple each?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lesbianmoonbase 12 2

as in English you'd have to specify 'an apple each' or each eating an apple'. i remember the word is 'chaque' but i'm not entirely sure where in the sentence to stick it :P

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KATYPERRYLOVER33 10 2 2 2

ok

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Berriegirl12345 13 3

That's one big pomme!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AlisAlexan1 13 2

Why is it mangent and not mange?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ksriram 13

Because the conjugation of manger for third person plural is mangent.

The verbs in French change according to the subject. This is called conjugation. It goes as "Je mange, Tu manges, Il/Elle/On mange, Nous mangeons, Vous mangez, Ils/Elles mangent". Here Les éléphants is third person plural so we use mangent.

On doit apprendre la conjugaison pour chaque verbe. Ne vous inquiétes pas! Il y a un motif.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AlisAlexan1 13 2
Oh right, thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RheaSamantha 11
If the elephants are all female, would they be "Les éléphanttes" or "éléphantes" or is it spelled the same as the masculine form?

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

deeptendu 21 14 8 2 2 86
Why not mangents

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MohamedAla512867 11 10 3
It's a grammatical rule in french you cannot change, we add " ent " without "s" to plural verbs of (ils and elles). But of course not always, there are "drôle/irregular" verbs in french as well.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MohamedAla512867 11 10 3
Les éléphants mangent une femme :o ... oh scary

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sabrina753863 6 5
Isn't haricots the word for beans? So that option says "The beans eat an apple" !! France has some pretty dangerous beans, if they're eating anything.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Smartasseissa 10 7 2
You all making nonsense comments, size doesn't matter.

0ReplyGive Lingot•yesterday

shawmeeyan 6
follow me I follow back promise

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

435 Grammar: The Possessive pronouns in Dutch

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3732923>

Lavinae 25 25 20 13 12 12 11 8 7 7 7 3 3 2

1. AN OVERVIEW OF THE PRONOUNS, PRONOUNS AND ADJECTIVES OF POSSESSION

When you don't want to repeat the noun you possess, you can also use the possessive pronouns included below. Mind that depending on the gender and article used for the noun, you use 'de' or 'het' and that there is no such form for 'jullie':

Example sentences of the different possessive pronoun forms:

It is mine – Het is van mij/Het is de mijne

The car is yours – De auto is van jou/De auto is van jullie/De auto is de jouwe

The pants are ours – De broek is van ons/De broek is de onze.

2. THE DUTCH ['S] FORM

Another way in which you can indicate possession in Dutch, like the 's form in English, is by adding –s to the end of proper names and members of the family. If there will be pronunciation issues, the [s] will receive a ['] in front. If pronunciation is no issue, the –s is simply stuck to the end of the name/noun:

John's book – Jans boek

Grandma's car – oma's auto

In Dutch, in more colloquial speech it is also possible to use the unstressed forms of the possessive adjectives instead of the –s form. The unstressed forms of the possessive adjectives are as follows:

mijn = m'n

jouw = je

zijn = z'n

haar = d'r

ons = ons

jullie = je hun = hun

Examples:

John's book – Jan zijn/z'n boek

Grandma's car – Oma haar/d'r auto

Return to Grammar Overview!

Give Lingot9

532 years ago

Leave a new comment

14 Comments

Aronvanstek 6

There's a catch though. 'Jullie = je' only seems to work when 'jullie' is the subject. "Waar hebben jullie je spullen gelaten?" vs. "Waar hebben jullie jullie spullen gelaten?". It would not be okay in other ways. Wrong: "Waar zijn je spullen? Ik heb ze jullie net gegeven?".

Also never ever write d'r in formal situations. To me it just looks way too colloquial. More so than if you would write the others, as they are more just shorter versions. With haar/d'r there is a total sound change (H vs. D).

Often when you say z'n or d'r in speech you still write zijn or haar when transcribing, because it looks neater.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Preste 14 13 12 12 11 11 11 10 8 4
wow! I love this course!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carolind 14 11 11 10 10 5
What about direct object pronouns? Are they like the subject pronouns, the indirect object pronouns or a completely different form?

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Jitt91 12 9 2
Are jouw and jou pronounced the same?

Is it van hen or van hun? In the tips and notes it says van hen but here it says van hun.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FreekVerkerk 25 25 25 6 6
JOUW and JOU are pronounced a little bit differently, but these words are used in different situations so there is no confusion. For example: Het is jouw fiets AND die fiets is van jou. And about your second question: Is it VAN HEN or VAN HUN. Officially it is VAN HEN, but locally, like in Amsterdam, people say: VAN HUN

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jcbos 25 25 16 15 13 10 6 3 3
'van hun' is wrong, it has to be 'van hen'

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Jitt91 12 9 2
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BeckyCarr 25 931

Yes. My native Dutch friend has specifically said he uses "je" instead of "jou" most of the time to avoid confusion - though I would imagine context would also give enough clues for you to understand which word is meant.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Simius 19 10 5 5

The Dutch possessive pronouns cannot refer to plurals, right? The object it refers to is always singular, unlike in English. Please correct me if that is wrong, but otherwise it might be worth adding to this page.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gypsybird 12 11 6 4 2

In the tree, when we start the lesson on possessives, we are given the form "van hen" for 3rd person plural in the tips & notes section. Should this be "van hun", as on this page?

Also, for the 3rd person singular neuter gender, we see "ervan" and "hiervan" in the same tips & notes section, but on this page, we see "van hem".

Lastly, in the same tips & notes section, we can read that "You use je to avoid saying jullie twice in a row. For example: I give you your books - Ik geef jullie jullie boeken - Ik geef jullie je boeken", but this information is not given here. We only see "jullie" as 2nd person possessive adjective.

Thanks for your attention. :-)

PS - Great course, btw... I'm having so much fun, and I'm driving my spouse crazy when I mumble in Dutch to myself. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Elou-u 5 2 2

thanks for helping me

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vanMidorij 21 15 13 12 9 8 7 6 5 4 4 3 519

there aren't endings added to possessives like in German?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

danielbenve 14 11 79

Is it more common to use -s to indicate possession, or to use the pronouns?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

xMerrie 21 17 16 15 11 11 10 4 3

To use the pronouns, unless there are "two possessed things":

Mijn vaders auto - My father's car

But you can also say:

Mijn vader z'n auto / M'n vader z'n auto (Both 'M'n vader zijn auto' and 'Mijn vader zijn auto' are not common)

De auto van m'n/mijn vader

If the owner is a name, -s is not uncommon either:

Piets boek

Anna's huis

Also common:

Piet z'n boek

Het boek van Piet

Anna d'r huis

Het huis van Anna

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

436 differences among niño, chico and muchacho

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/15582>

Posted 4 years ago by [deactivated user]

It seems they all mean "boy" but I'm not sure... is there any difference? In my mind I have this fixed:
niño-> kid (not older than 10-14 years) chico-> boy (from 14 to 20) muchacho-> guy (from 20 to 35)

Give Lingot

244 years ago

Leave a new comment

25 Comments

ablemonkey 11

While travelling in Latin America I learned that calling a young man that you don't know muchacho is appropriate. If you call someone señor or señora instead of muchacho or muchacha, you can make them feel old. I found this particularly true for waiters or merchants who were on the younger side.

31ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

agenthoneywell 11 2 2

They do all basically mean boy, but there are different nuances. Niño is boy, or child if you're talking about a group of children (the masculine is used when talking about a group of people of mixed gender; you can have a group of 100 girls, but if you add even one boy you have to refer to the group with the masculine). Chico refers more to a little kid since it also means "small". A muchacho is a kid or a young person, so you can use it when talking about kids or about the young lady that helped you at the store.

Hope this helps!

14ReplyGive Lingot1•4 years ago

smithy372 18 7 6

The difference between these terms is not an exact science and males do not fit into exact age groupings of which term is appropriate for them. "Muchacho" is more colloquial to mean lad, bloke etc or it can be a term of endearment.

10ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

irepas 17 11 8 7 5

My spanish friend from Madrid answered me to the same question as follows: niño is the youngest, chico is like someone who is 10-14 years old, and muchacho is a bit older than this. Obviously it is not a big difference and you can even use the three words in other ways, but that's the idea!

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ruby1110 25 25 18

In my experience, niño refers to a little boy, chico is a young man, and muchacho more or less means "guy."

3ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

FoxyRoxyToxy 11 10

that's also my experience

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

janefondle 11

In Spain I hear niña used a lot amongst my peers to each other (in their late 20's and older), otherwise it's generally guapa and guapo. I have also been called niña by the sales girl in the supermarket and other strangers (I'm 30!). I'm a big fan of 'guapo/a', both using it and being referred to as 'guapa' and I have even been called 'guapa' by old ladies on buses, trains, etc so it seems to be a very common, casual and warm way to refer to someone here in Spain. It can mean pretty or sexy so I guess it depends how you use it and maybe you need to be careful if you're a male but I feel like it's a term of endearment. Not for your waiter/waitress unless maybe you think you might have a chance of getting their number ;) When my spanish boyfriend first meets my non-spanish girlfriends he greets them with "hola guapa" and it's not the same as saying "hello sexy"... or he wouldn't be my boyfriend. Though they also don't understand what he's saying. haha! I also hear 'chicos' and 'chicas' used all the time for adults and this is my preferred option for how to address someone I don't know who is aged between 20 - 50, depending on who they are and the level of respect you need to show. Obviously I wouldn't refer to a policeman as 'chico'. I've never heard muchacha here but I've always thought of it more as a Latino word.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lised65 12

I try to remember that in English, even though our various terms have age differences (kid, boy, child, little boy, lad, girl, etc) we often use them as terms of endearment or familiarity toward people of almost any age. It's the same in any other language.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

agenthoneywell 11 2 2

At 25 you'd call him a "man" in English just as you'd call him "un hombre" in Spanish. Technically true but sounds a little funny in everyday speech. You could definitely call him a muchacho since he's technically an adult but still young. By 30 he'd be too old for it unless you're speaking jokingly.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

[deactivated user]

@smithy372 I agree with you when you say that males don't fit into exact age grouping, I repeat exact... but anyway I'm Italian and in Italian language we have different names for males when they grow up: bambino, ragazzino, ragazzo, uomo... Maybe that's the reason why in my mind I needed to distinguish them in Spanish too. Never mind.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6 1

I hear the word "ese" used in American TV programmes, and it seems to have a similar meaning to "muchacho" - does anyone know if/where/when this is used for real?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ReubenTD 17 5

<http://www.urbandictionary.com/define.php?term=eSe>

It is basically slang meaning something like homey.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6 1

thanks - I'll steer clear of using this one then!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Acarlosbunnell 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 5 3 2

Only steer clear if he's not your homey! If so, feel free :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

In El Paso, you don't call any kid a niño/niña unless they're still in diapers. If you call a school-age kid that, they think you're calling them a baby and are teasing/bullying them. Around the schools where I work, adults regularly refer to the students as mijó/mija (mi hijo/mi hija), and despite it seeming overly familiar to non-Latino Americans, it's acceptable pretty much anywhere in polite situations. But I do here children referred to as los niños collectively.

Chico/chica here often is used to refer to young adults who are seen as not being very irresponsible or don't have their priorities in order. I mostly hear it when someone's talking down to a young man or being a sexist pig/creeper scumbag towards a young woman. It is sometimes used around here in more neutral terms in different settings, like among family or friends, and by Spanish speakers who are from other areas outside of El Paso/Juarez, but this is one term that as a non-Latino I steer away from.

Hermano/hermana is used here in some groups regardless of whether they're actually related, but it denotes familiarity that may not be welcomed by someone who doesn't know you. I hear muchacho/muchacha sometimes, not often, but it is used and as far as I've heard it, it's polite and neutral.

I do hear ese used, but that too is a terms as white person I stay away from. It's slang and how it's taken depends on who's saying it and in what context it's used. It can be pretty insulting.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

janefondle 11

Good to know. But then what would you call a school-aged child you're not familiar with? And young adults?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lised65 12

good question. like, what's the equivalent in Spanish to, "young lady/man"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

hmm maybe... what about "guy" then? A male person aged about 25, for example, how do you call him in spanish? Is that hombre yet?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

SteveVan 12 6 3 1

The most common translation of "guy" that I have heard and read is "tipo"; e.g. Jorge es un buen tipo. But in Peru, strangely enough, it is sometimes rendered as "tio" which really makes it confusing.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

feklee 15 4

In a burger restaurant in Las Palmas de Gran Canaria, the old lady at the counter was repeatedly calling me "niño", which I thought was funny (I'm in my thirties). I later asked a Spaniard, and she told me that this is common in the Canaries and in Latin America. Indeed, now when I pay attention, I sometimes hear adults calling each other "niño" or "niña".

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Acarlosbunnell 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 5 3 2

Like "You go, Girl" etc.for an adult female friend

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

alicealex 12

And what about "joven"--if addressing someone who's an adult but clearly younger than you?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pablolen 7 4

you are right on the niño, chico part, however it is not appropriate to call an adult a muchacho its more commonly used on teens.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

professorleah 25 19 7 5 2 2 2 2 2
I'm sure it varies regionally.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pamaki 8
In Mexico there is another term--joven. Any young person (boy or girl) is called "joven", like a waiter or if you want to get their attention.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

437 What's the difference between "ningún" and "cualquier" ?
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3835257>

Hollyyy16 9 7 7

They both mean "any" but duolingo sometimes accepts one but not the other! Please help me clarify! Thank you so much

Give Lingot
52 years ago

Leave a new comment
7 Comments

aabanicoss 14 11 8 8

I'm not quite sure how to explain this, but I'll try.

Ningún and cualquier (along with a few other adjectives) fall into the category of indefinite adjectives. It's tough to explain in English, because, as you said, they both mean "any"—well, sort of.

Ningún means "any" in a negative sentence, but it could also be translated a little differently.

Ex.: No hay ningunos lápices. There aren't any pencils. But we could also say, "There are NO pencils."

It's better to think of ningún as the negative version of algún, which is exactly what it is. Spanish uses double negatives. We can't say, "No hay algunos lápices." That's bad grammar.

As for cualquier, it has a different sense and feeling, which you'll learn to recognize. "Any person can learn a language."

"Which book do you want?" "Any book would interest me."

In that sort of general sense. "Which city would you like to travel to?" "Any city."

The Spanish About.com page (link at bottom of post) translates "cualquier" as "any, whatever, whichever, whoever, whomever." It's a word that encompasses many meanings and usages.

Hope this helped! Ask if you have any doubts/questions!

Spanish About.com Page Link: http://spanish.about.com/od/adjectives/a/indef_adjective.htm

28ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Hollyyy16 9 7 7

This helped A TON!!!! Thank you sooo much!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnthonyMan200 17 8 5

Yeah it did!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AnthonyMan200 17 8 5

Thanks!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ryan.jin.happy 15 2

So basically you usually use ningunos after a no? Is that what you mean by negative? Thanks a lot!
This really helped!

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Seamus733504 9 2

Thankyou. It is not natural for english to use so many "anys" but I nevertheless, I understand.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

AdlerDelgado 9 7 5

Te lo explico con un ejemplo si te preguntan: ¿cual quieres? y tu respondes: ninguno significa que tu no quieres las opciones que te ofrecen y si respondes: cualquiera significa que te es indiferente la que te den, pero quieres una de las que te ofrecen

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

438 – 463 of 912

[accessed March 16, 2017]

438 How to bots?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/18167482>

Scootalove 8

Does anyone know if the bots work on the ipad? I can't seem to find the option for it. Is it for the Iphone exclusively?

Give Lingot

05 months ago

Leave a new comment

35 Comments

Mado4586 15 157

Can you do bots on a computer with out downloading?

7ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

SunsetRain 11 10 6 4 2

You can't use duolingo bots on a computer, only on the app.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

mojavejeep 25 20 533

DL says its in V5. The app store info says Bots are there. Too bad nobody can find them on the iPad.

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Elizabeth261736 16 15 14 7 2

I don't know if it's supposed to work on the ipad, BUT I have it on my iphone but not on the ipad. Clarification from Duolingo would be welcome!

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

CodyORB 22 13 5 7

It's not on my iPad nor my sister's

3ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Scootalove 8

It's not on my sister's Iphone either I just checked. and both my ipad and her phone are updated

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

TrustyTube 11 1

It doesn't work on my iPad, but it works on my iPhone.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Ksenia122018 6 2

My brother got an iPad and he has a bot but I have an iPad mini and it still doesn't work

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Svita10 8

I just noticed... At the very bottom, it specifically says "Unlock Bots by completing the first two rows of a course." If you do that, you WILL unlock bots on your iPad or whatever device.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

RandomTed 20 18 8

From what I can find out, it is not on the iPad.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

wittykittycute 10 69

<https://itunes.apple.com/us/app/duolingo-learn-languages-for/id570060128?mt=8>

Download the Duolingo app, update it, and you will see the bots in the app.

What's New in Version 5.0.0 of Duolingo

The most advanced way to learn a language is here.

Introducing Bots, the first AI-powered way to practice conversation in a new language. From grabbing a slice of pizza to hailing a taxi, Bots will prepare you for real-life conversation—minus the awkwardness. No more fear of making mistakes. Or being judged. Or sounding weird.

For now, Bots are available for the Spanish, French, and German courses.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

RandomTed 20 18 8

I have updated my Duolingo on my iPad. I am studying French. I still can't see the bots.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Skier73 25 299

I'm studying French too and despite updating only have the bots on my iPhone not my iPad.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Robian64 21 4

I am studying Spanish and the bots are on my account on my iPod but not on my iPad who knows maybe they will update it for the iPad later. I really don't see why it wouldn't also work on iPad as well.....

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

dreamy22 10 8 6 2

Where do you see the bots? Can you put in a screenshot here?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Mike40buck 11 4

Just wanted to say the bots are an awesome addon

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Svita10 8

Bots was not working for me but I use the app on my ipad and i just got to level 6 and it came up.
Bots is really cool... Hope it starts working for you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Mantrasaiaa 13 2 2

I'm lvl 12 on my course and it hasn't unlocked anything. I am an Android user, do you guys know if they're only available on iOS?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

waiyu2014 13 10 14

They are on ipad now at the bottom with a chat bubble that has a smiley face on it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

NicalaineB 18 12

I have it on my iPad. It doesn't work real well. I haven't been able to finish a few of the convos because they just quit.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

psionpete 25 21 16 15 14 6 5 4 3 1154

It should work on both.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

chrisgmarks 16

No bots on my iPad for any of the listed languages, some which were added after updating the app. Clearly, there's a bug if others have bots on their iPads.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Shantee289 8 6 3

It also works on the Ipod 5th and 6th generations. But i don't know why it's not there for the iPad.
Anyways just letting you know ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Shantee289 8 6 3

Oh and btw Bots only are available in German, Spanish and French i think

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

rosenthalec 13 2

Is this still true? I can't find Bots for Italian on my iPhone and it's up to date.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

j6p6k6 12

I'm using Duolingo to practice my German. I just updated it on my iPhone 5s and I still can't find the chat feature on the bottom...little help please?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Minion-Dylan 12 3 77

Bots work on iPad

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TrinityRos14 10

I'm also wondering the same thing. They are not on my Android, but on my friend's iPhone.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

WonderZach 9

This topic has surprisingly useless comments. Let me shed the light. It seems that you can use bots only if you choose a course from the section "for English speakers". In this case, for example, you'll be learning French in English.

I am Russian so if I choose learning French for Russian speakers, I can't see the bots.

I hope it helps.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

GermanOfficial 13 12 11 10 4

We will never forget you Hymie

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

TollDeutschKatze 7

Das ist Dumm

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

knudvaneeden 16 12 9 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 2 2 2

Tested today 17 February 2017 and it is present and works in the latest Duolingo app (on both the iPhone and also the iPad).

Run the latest 'Duolingo' app on your iPad or iPhone > choose one of these natural languages (French, German or Spanish only currently) > then click on the 'chat' icon on the bottom of your screen. Then start typing answers to questions of the chat bot.

Note: this artificial intelligence machine learning chat bots are not for available for Android and also not for the Duolingo Internet web page at this moment.

<http://bots.duolingo.com/>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

JacksonBey1 4
poo poo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

JamesMolfetta5 4
you go on the app store DUH!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

439 mio, mia

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/346>

euckele 14 13

If I am a female, would it be correct to say "El perro es mia."?

Give Lingot
575 years ago

Leave a new comment
12 Comments

[deactivated user]

A possessive adjective like "mio/mia" agrees with the gender of the noun it is describing or qualifying; in this case "mio" describes the noun "el perro."

30ReplyGive Lingot•5 years ago

sephie 11

The possessive pronoun is made by the noun (excuse the weird wording, I'm not good at explaining grammar), so it should be "El perro es mio," or "Las perras son mias."

12ReplyGive Lingot•5 years ago

cayman 10
I quote from the website :

"Note that the possessive adjectives vary by number and gender. The change is with the nouns they modify, not with the person(s) who possess the object. For example, for a male cat you say "El gato es tuyo" (The cat is yours) regardless of whether you are talking to a man or a woman."

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

mikeg8pb 7

One of the question was The map is mine and I wrote la mapa es mia but it said it was incorrect and should be mio. Why?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JonesSophie 8

because it's not "la mapa" it's "el mapa". The word "mapa" is masculine even though it ends in an 'a'. So, the sentence should be el mapa es mío.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BethanyJoyP 16 6 4 2

Okay, I have a question about mio/mia. Someone says "mio/mia agrees with the gender of the noun it is describing" But, what if you are writing something like "The hat is mine". "Hat" doesn't have gender forms. How would I know which form of "mine" to use in that sentence?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

ElDestello 8 7 2

The hat is 'male'; el sombrero. So you would say: El sombrero es mio. Nearly every Spanish word I have come across has a gender. A rule of thumb is that words that end in 'o' are masculine while those that end in 'a' are feminine. To state a case: La gata es mia (The cat is mine).

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

viollamckate 12 6 2 2

In Spanish every word has a gender to it I think. just like how "leche" is masculine and "cebolla" is feminine.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

JV82 10

"leche" is feminine.

8ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

RosalynFae 11 4 11

LA leche

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JoelLituma1 8 2

Mio es para masculino. Mia para femenino, No puedes decir el perro es mia, porque el perro es masculino y No femenino por lo tanto se usa Mio, Y la oracion queda: El perro es mio

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sophiee.sw 7 2

i dont know.... soooo sorry :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

440 "The red apple"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/554159>

Translation: La pomme rouge

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

colea18 3

This is ridiculoless!!! I lost my last heart on this!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

drewbeals

Same, and best part is I made the same mistake twice. Damn definite and indefinites lol.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Hessieng 2

Cant i say la pomme est rouge?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

no, because "the red apple" is not "the apple is red"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rp283368 6 4 2 2 2

could you do put, " la rouge pomme"? why cant everyone just say hi and bye to each other. it is totes annoying :-(

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kate.brice

The noun goes before the adj. French is a difficult lang. To learn so work hard

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mukeshleo5 3

why "La pomme rouge" instead of "La rouge pomme" ?? as it clearly say if translated "the red apple".

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

here are the exceptions: http://french.about.com/od/grammar/a/adjectives_4.htm

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Windfall 9 8

I recommend this article.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

erudis 25 14 10 4 1354

Languages don't translate back and forth like that. The standard placement for adjectives in French is after the noun, although there are several exceptions.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

quack17 3

i got stuck too. But like chinese, sometimes words flip

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

441 "The more the merrier."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11277468>

Translation: Je mehr, desto besser.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

16 Comments

Uberling 25 11 655

If "je grosser, je starker" is accepted for "the bigger, the stronger," why isn't "je mehr, je besser" accepted?

38ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

wpliao 22 5 2

Unfortunately, according to my research, I think this is because "je mehr, desto besser" is a German idiom and Duo really want you learn it.

Just like you could also say "the more the happier" or "the more the more joyful", they are not wrong, it's just that the idiom goes 'the more the merrier'.

28ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Uberling 25 11 655

Makes sense. Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

erinwall 19 2 2

I found this very helpful: <http://yourdailygerman.com/2011/12/22/je-desto-german/>

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

siamndossi 13 10

great explanation! thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

nazelet11 19 13 7 6 4

What is the difference between 'je' and 'desto'?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Seoman6 10 2

IF you have something like "the more, the merrier", "je" always opens the statement/gives the cause, "desto" gives the effect.

24ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Ladron 21 14 5 3

Please keep rigid phrases within phrase modules where we can expect inflexibility, not in a grammar or vocabulary section. Literal translations should be accepted here and are not.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TorDog 23 7

Can umso not be used in place of desto here? If not, what is the difference between these words?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Seoman6 10 2

Technically it can be used. But "je...,desto...." is more frequent (at least in my area) and "je mehr, desto besser" is a very usual phrase.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

wpliao 22 5 2

I've actually found references to umso, so I'm going to report that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Evolution.2977 20 13 9 5 2 2

"merrier" means "besser"? I thought it is something like "funny" not "better"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kristina821524 18 15 11 10 5 3 603

Besser does not mean merrier. Since it is an idiom, it doesn't translate word for word..

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

3rdCircle 15 3

This should be in 'Sayings.'

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

tomerrisrael 25 17 14 12 11 6 5 5 4 4

Shuld accept "Umso" as well

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bekir978479 25 185
Je mehr desto glücklicher

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

442 "Love is blind, but the neighbors ain't."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1423278>

Translation: El amor es ciego, pero los vecinos no.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment
33 Comments

Maria7Potter 14
These phrases weren't even in the lesson! :/

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LexiBlakeley 16 2
yea, I never got this one either! also, ain't certainly is no word of English that I use! surely it should be "aren't"

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

OjosDelMundo 24
<http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/aint>

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2
I just hope this isn't in the English for Spanish speakers course.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 5 4 3 2 121
Well I am doing the English for Spanish speaker and I saw more than once the word "ain't" ;)

But I googled it to see its meaning (sort of meaning, actually)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mrmandias 20
I don't think the translation is an actual English saying. It looks like its a song lyric.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

berge0 11
Booker Brown, "Love is blind, but the neighbors ain't".

7ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

mrmandias 20
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GoodApples 18 1
Thanks for a bit of fun Duolingo.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bergeio 11
Why 'el amor' instead of just 'amor'?

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Yerrick 25 23 22 9 7 98
Because it's speaking generally, of the concept of love. Concepts like this in Spanish require the definite article.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

April345108 9 4
Like in the lion king song "can you feel the love tonight"

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

babydoc17 21 8
Why can't the end say 'pero no los vecinos'?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

naldurien 12 6
In what situation is this even used as an idiom? When someone's chosen a partner and you think they could do better? Or when someone has a really annoying habit and everyone can see it but their significant other? I'm lost as to the appropriate use of this phrase.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

RachidENSI 9 2
I think, it means that love makes people do foolish/bad/unaccepted things, but others are not blind of what you do. so be careful toward others.

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

BrianMeagh1 14 13 6
It strikes me as a very, VERY crude warning against PDA.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 11
Personal Desk Accessories?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hugmin42 10 10 3
Public Display of Affection

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BrookeByrd 15 7 4
The original use for this phrase refers to adultery. It is basically saying that while your significant other will ignore obvious signs of cheating and is too blind with love to realize you are cheating, the neighbors see you bringing other people home and will know what you are doing.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AtlanticCityNick 10
I think you hit the nail on the head with your second explanation.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jesicartz 13
I'm going to use this phrase sometime today--love it!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Velasar000 7
Ai!Nt AInt No GUD GRAMMA?goood grammar

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Nasaka 12 10
Why there is no pronunciation?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

grangerstudent 13 11 11 10 584
This expression was used in a song, that is probably the inspiration for this quote:
<http://www.amazon.com/Love-Blind-But-Neighbors-Aint/dp/B001A2WAIW>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CorrinaCou 17 15 4
Lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AllyFiesta 11
I don't understand what this means?? Any native speakers use this?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

This question is a good example of how much chatter we can save by reading the comments first. Your question was already answered above.

However in order not to tell you of only, I stick in my 2 cents: I think it could mean that romantic love makes you look in distorted ways at your lover, but non-involved outsiders may look at the person in a more objective way.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AllyFiesta 11

The app doesn't show all the comments in the order as the website.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Fair enough - I apologize and give you a lingot as compensation (and for not shouting back straight away).
By now I learned that Duolingo has many bugs.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

grangerstudent 13 11 11 10 584

"Ain't" is just an alternative form of isn't or aren't. It is not generally accepted as correct grammar, but it is common. Here is the original quote:

"Never kiss by the garden gate. Love is blind, but the neighbors ain't"

In this case the author needed a word that rhymes with "gate". "Aren't" does not rhyme with "gate" so the author chose "ain't".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

raton1492 21 21 603

¿Es fiable esta fuente? <http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/aint> Saludos

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

WesselvanB 11 10 9 2

lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

John_Payne 25

I did not have a clue on this one (didn't know the word for blind), but as for the English translation, "Ain't" is really not good English, it should be "Are not", or "Are'nt". Some say "Ain't isn't even a word, but at best it is a very uneducated use of the negative contraction.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 days ago

443 "The time has finally come."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/521353>

Translation: Endlich ist es soweit.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

50 Comments

CarolZack 24 44

Oof. This lesson is hard. So much to remember.

49ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Beneficium 25 16 7 1018

Agreed, this is probably the lesson in which I lose the most hearts, as it is permeated with idioms that don't always make immediate sense. :L

17ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Nerdator 25 18 11 11 9 7 6 5 2

I put 'Schließlich hat die Zeit gekommen' as the translation, not accepted by Duo. Is it grammatical and does it make sense though?

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

You can say "die Zeit ist endlich gekommen". Schließlich would be okay, too, but it has a slightly different meaning. "Endlich" implies that the moment was anticipated, "schließlich" is pretty indifferent about it (so you better say "schließlich" on a funeral, not "endlich" ;)).

86ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

lexicalpianist 19 6 4 4 2 3

Sakasiru, I just want to personally thank you for all of your comments. I have found them consistently to be the most helpful, and occasionally funny!

31ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MsLagerkvist2 21 19 14 262

Your explanations are fantastic and RESPECTFUL, kind, not put-downs.

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

magicfiresnake 17 11 4 4

Duo accepted my (word-by-word) version: "Die Zeit ist schließlich gekommen". Sakasiru, thanks for your efforts. You are really helping is a lot.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FabrizioIb 19 10

I agree with the others, thank you so much

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Beatles-Musician 20 13 13 13 12 10 10 10 8 7 7 7 6 4 4 3 2 2 2 49
To be precise: schließlich is more like "eventually"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biscuitbarrel 22 9 4 4 3
Hello! Why is "Endlich ist die Zeit gekommen" not correct? Thank you very much :)

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2
It's fine.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gvaley 24
It's accepted now

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anebz 25 22 16 10
Why is it 'ist gekommen' and not 'hat gekommen'?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9
For verbs of movement, the auxiliary verb is usually "sein" (ist, sind etc).

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

anebz 25 22 16 10
And time coming is a movement?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9
kommen/ to come is a verb of movement.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anebz 25 22 16 10
of course... thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MannyOD 14 12 8
Why not "Uhr" here? I thought that "Zeit" was for quantities of time, and "Uhr" for points in time.
Am I wrong?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

Yes, that's wrong. Uhr alone just means a clock. Together with a number, it means o'clock.

16ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MannyOD 14 12 8

Thanks!

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2 6

What about der Zeit kommt endlich an?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

it's die Zeit,

you used a different tense. "the time has come*" is perfect, while "kommt" is present.

you do not use ankommen with die Zeit in German, just kommen.

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

gvaley 24

But "Es ist an der Zeit" works, at least according to a dictionary I'm using.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

There you have "Zeit" in the dative case since it's the object of the preposition "an".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2 6

D'oh at die Zeit. :P Thanks for the other pointers though.

Then what about die Zeit ist endlich gekommen?

Edit: Nevermind, I see your comment above.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xenoglot 21 10 395

Endlich, es ist soweit. Is that really wrong?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

It's two sentences instead of one. If you don't put the verb in second place, you can as well make a full stop between them.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xenoglot 21 10 395

Can you explain further? I don't follow...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

"Endlich, es ist soweit."

and

"Endlich! Es ist soweit."

are basically the same. The "endlich" is taken out of the sentence order. If you want to really add it into the sentence, you have to follow the sentence rule that the verb has to come in the second place, so you have Endlich ist es soweit.

or

Es ist endlich soweit.

Only then it's a proper part of the sentence.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xenoglot 21 10 395

Danke

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2

Endlich. Es ist soweit.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sack11 21 20 7 559

Why is gekommen used? I used just kommen.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

biscuitbarrel 22 9 4 4 3

"ist gekommen" is Perfekt (past tense) whereas "kommen" is Präsens (present tense). They translate to "has come" and "is coming" respectively. <http://www.vocabulix.com/conjugation/kommen.html>

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sack11 21 20 7 559

Really helpful thanks :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

david_av 19

I don't get why "ist" and "es" are in the order that they are :/

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

The position of the verbs in German is fixed. The fleeted verb has to be in second place:

[] ist [] [].

The subject (es) comes either before or right after the verb, depending on what you want to emphasize, which leaves you with two options:

Es ist [] [].

or

[] ist es [].

I won't go into soweit/ so weit here, it simply has to come at the end and actually has to be written "so weit" here according to http://www.duden.de/rechtschreibung/so_weit so we get:

Es ist [] so weit.

or

[] ist es so weit.

which leaves only one spot for "endlich". If you put it in the front spot, you have to follow it with the "ist es" order. If you put it further down the road, you have to precede it by the "es ist" order.

8ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

gosnellr 14

Sakasiru, I would also like to thank you for your many, detailed, precise explanations throughout the site. They have cleared up a number of points for me.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kikiriki70 20 9

I have no idea what you do for a living, but you could and should be a teacher of something. Your explanations are absolutely amazing. Thanks for everything!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

Thanks. I actually studied to become a German teacher. But life goes strange ways.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kreuzbergerin 25 22 10 11

Why is it wrong to say "es is endlich Zeit" ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anebz 25 22 16 10

'is' should be 'ist'

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Feras.. 12 8 7 6 6 2

same: "Es ist schließlich soweit."

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Eyrian 23 10 5

I wrote 'Die Zeit ist endlich gekommen.' which was accepted and all, but then I've seen the other translation with this 'soweit' at the end. Problem is, that I can't really get my head around this word/expression. How does one use it in practice? What does it actually mean? Is it just simply used as 'ready'? The more I read about it, the more confused I get. Can someone help me out here? Thx.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nova46 24 13 11 801

Is your issue with the German or the English translation? It is a normal expression in English: "Today is the championship game. The time has finally come to find out who is the best."

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Eyrian 23 10 5

Definitely the german. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Pulverkuss 19 4 3 2

Okay, how do you get "the time has finally come" from, "Finally, it is ready"??? ... -_- ...like bad oxford poetry translations...

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

Es ist soweit means "the time has come" -- perhaps you could think of it as "It is at-the-time-of-culmination" or something like that.

Translating soweit as "ready" misses the point, I think, because that's not what it means here.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Pulverkuss 19 4 3 2

One of those contextual things. :) My dictionary lists it as "as far as," so now I'm wondering where I learned the "ready" from... :/ As always, your explanation is helpful. Thank you.

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Rudayn 14 10 6

Is the translation here accurate? "soweit"!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

444 "The specialists speak with the king."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/972852>

Translation: Los especialistas hablan con el rey.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

57 Comments

williammeddey 9 9 7 6

why los especialitas and not los especialitos

33ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RastaFerrari 10 2

When it ends in 'ista' it's masculine and you don't change the ending, only the 'el' or 'la'

77ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mistyp 17 7 4

Thank you!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

williammeddey 9 9 7 6

thank you :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

copcardvr 16

last exercise I typed el rey and it was supposed to be al rey, now I typed al rey and it's supposed to be el rey. What gives?

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Eloise23 25 24 11 1237

I think it's because it uses 'con' as the preposition, not 'a' in this case.

16ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jkesp 9 8 7

To the king is al rey, shortened from a el rey

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Grizzlybear13 13

"Al rey" is a combination of "a el ray" and "el rey" goes with "con"

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ellemadlo 10 2

El is the article, like the. Al is "to the" all in one word

2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

josdurham 8

Thanks. I find I am relearning a fair amount of English grammar that I use every day but haven't thought about since Eng 101.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jabuk 13 10 9 9 7

I have the same feeling here... I failed countless translations from French to English even though I understood all of the sentences perfectly just because my English grammar was inferior; thanks to learning French on Duolingo finally I've started to understand "a", "an" and "the" articles :D

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

josdurham 8

No personal a here?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rspreng 24

The king is not a direct object. They speak with him, they do not 'speak him.'

16ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Holly263690 17 3

Why is it los instead of las?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Majklo_Blic 24 15 11 894

Because not every Spanish word that ends in "a" is feminine. Exceptions include words that come from Greek roots (el mapa, el sistema, el problema) and many occupations, which keep the root word the same while indicating gender with the article (el/la artista, el/la policía^, el/la especialista).

See the link in Eloise23's answer to CaitlinBer3, above, for a more detailed explanation.

^And yes, la policía also refers to the police as a collective group, just to confuse you further. Bienvenida a español.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CoconutCurry 14

Las especialistas is marked wrong in the multiple choice...

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bearsign 17 8

Why is "Las especialistas" wrong. Can't it be used, if all the specialists are women?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

chantalmaliha 9

When is it EL rey and when is it AL rey?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jabuk 13 10 9 9 7

AL rey is when EL rey is preceded with a preposition A.

I'm talking with the king - Hablo con el rey. I'm talking to the king - Hablo al rey (a + el = al).

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hoosuu 10 7 6 5 3

por qué aquí dice que 'los expertos' es incorrecto?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eloise23 25 24 11 1237

Informe, por favor.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

CaitlinBer3 10

Why is it "los" when the follow word is "especialistas"? Isn't it feminine?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Eloise23 25 24 11 1237

March 31, 2015 - Occupations often end in A, and often can be either gender. This should help:
http://spanish.about.com/od/nouns/a/double_gendered.htm

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hisbelovedsoul 8 5

Sooooo, whats the difference between "con" and "entre?"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Majklo_Blic 24 15 11 894

It's the difference between "with" and "between/among".

In the context of speaking (hablar), we often do the former (talk with someone), but not so much the latter. One such example might be the expression, "Talk among yourselves," which means to discuss something as a group.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vanish007 14 13

"...duerme con el rey"... it's good to be the king!

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

The.Other.Caleb 15 5 4 4

"¡No puedo esperar ser el rey!" -Simba

(Somebody correct me, I'm sure I translated this wrong.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

SpriteYagami 9 7

I've been doing this for a while, and noticed that I have never seen more than one correct answer on questions like these! I'm not complaining or anything, but I am kind of paranoid!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

tango100 10

I'm having difficulty knowing when to use "para" and when to use "con."

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

c0letta 9 2

Para=for, con=with. Los especialistas hablan (con) el rey. The specialists speak (with) the king.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rony.fayss 15 10 7

Why hablan and not hablen ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eloise23 25 24 11 1237

Spanish has three classes of infinitives, -ar, -er, and -ir. Hablar is conjugated with the -ar endings. This website <http://www.studyspanish.com/tutorial.htm> explains it all very clearly. I have used it as an adjunct to DuoLingo the whole way. Then there's Spanish Dictionary <http://www.spanishdict.com/> -their definitions are thorough with examples. I still keep a physical Spanish/English dictionary on hand. Spanish Dictionary also has a very useful conjugator: <http://www.spanishdict.com/conjugate/hablar> I check my own conjugation against it, and then find out what I did wrong if needed. DuoLingo is a good source of practice. With patience and reading the comments it will take you far.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RyanGunn 11

Thanks for the resources!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

panda.queen 9 3

why wouldn't Las especialistas platican en el rey be right

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ellemadlo 10 2

Because they are talking and not doing whatever placitan is

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

BonitaMaginn 10

I was to choose all the correct answers. Couldn't it be las especialistas if they were all women specialists? I got it marked wrong by choosing los and las.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

RuthBStubb 11

Thanks Aaron your answer w/William help before I even asked

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

CoreyJNSpencer 8

I find it so difficult to say "el rey" because I previously couldn't roll my RRs and I just learnt so I'm not too good at it. Additionally, I have a stamma and therefore I get stuck on pronouncing rey/reina.
R.i.p me

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

delilahg8 6

d

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

delilahg8 6

d

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

ZevSpencer 9

plz give lingotz

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

154471 15 8 8

What are especializados?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eloise23 25 24 11 1237

Usually the -ados ending means 'those who were...' or 'that which has been...', 'Especializados' would mean 'those who were specialized'. I suspect especializados isn't used much. :-) The -ista ending means 'a person who does....' - 'especialistas' is therefore 'people who do special stuff', ie specialists.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cathykirby 11 8
Good info.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

zmjb1 17 15 14 13 12 12 8 441
Especializados. What is wrong with that

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

snourzad 6
I typed eye because that means king, I got it right, and for this I said the same. I got it wrong, how come?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ellemadlo 10 2
Eye?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

HarryMoxon 6
cool

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jaymendoza1 9 7 5 2
Los especialistas hablan con Lana Del Rey.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gaygouya 12 8 6
-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lmc1234 12 3
Its las especialista no Los especialistas

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nyanaza 7
I picked 'ista' instead of 'istas'

-1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

dpscr51 21 13
Ha ha ha! Prefiero: Los especialistas duermen con el rey.

Naughty Duolingo...naughty!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ellemadlo 10 2
Thats just wrong

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

445 Easiest to Hardest Romance Languages

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12000257>

.luisito 11 8

How would you rank the Romance languages in terms of difficulty ?

Give Lingot
91 year ago

Leave a new comment
35 Comments

CosmoKaiza 17 11 9 8 5 1
From the easiest to the hardest :

Spanish (very similar to english, no hard letters to pronounce)

French (very similar to english, but grammar is really hard and the prononciation is tricky)

Portuguese (Just the pronunciation but it is the easiest if you speak Spanish or French)

Italian (Grammar, some things don't make sense)

Romanian (Has a lot of slavic influence so a lot of grammar, vocabulary changed a little and also the cases)

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 881
I think Italian is as easy as Spanish.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

headlesscookie 25 14 12 3 606

I had the exact same thing only with Italian and French flipped and a bit more of an explanation, yet I liked the dang post right before I submitted it and my whole comment got deleted. Has that ever happened to anyone else by the way?

But either way just try each of the languages out, as "easiest to hardest" is only a matter of opinion after all. Go to about level 5 on each and make some decisions from there.

Best of luck and happy learning!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SebastianMolin 22 11 2 2

You're right that Romanian is influenced by Slavic languages, but it's not "a lot" rather, some. Grammar wise it is mostly Latin especially when it comes to things such as definite articles and cases.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CosmoKaiza 17 11 9 8 5 1

Yeah you are right, I shouldn't have put a lot. I understand some written Romanian because my native language is French but I still have some troubles when someone speak it. How about you and the other romance languages ? What is the easiest and hardest for a Romanian native speaker ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SebastianMolin 22 11 2 2

Well it depends on what we're talking about... For written language I would say Catalan but for spoken it's without a doubt French or Portuguese... However that's just because I have no prior experience with either :-)

*For a Romanian _ Aromanian would be the easiest to learn... It's the language spoken by the latinized Tracians and Makedonians -long story- but other than that, Spanish and Italian are easy for us to learn too...

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Synthpopalooza 12 11 6 6 4 3

I would also put Galician and Catalan, and possibly Corsican, just slightly behind Spanish and ahead of French, based on my limited knowledge of them.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CosmoKaiza 17 11 9 8 5 1

But I ain't an expert on those languages. I know that Catalan and Occitan are really close to French, Galician to Spanish and Corsican to Latin. So I would say that Corsican is harder than French

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

avrichard 14 13 12 11 11 11 10 10 10 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 4

Not exactly. Galician's closest relative is Portuguese (it's kind of like if you wrote a dialect of Portuguese according to Spanish orthography).

Corsican is very close to Italian, not really that close to Latin.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

josephkt 2

no hard letterst o pronounce you forget the r

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 2 hidden comments

erykzim 10

I think Romanian would be the hardest. Lots of grammar (cases), least similar to English. I guess we're leaving out Latin.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lusofono 25 19 18 13 6 1

That's what I said.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheDivineMrs.M 10 10 8 6 2

Hi there! I speak English but from my experience with the Romance Languages I think the easiest to hardest to learn are Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, Romanian, then French. Personally, I think Italian and Portuguese are about the same difficulty so you could list them interchangeably (I have been attempting to learn Portuguese longer than Italian, so I listed Portuguese as easier) I have been learning Spanish for a while, I believe this really helped when I tried Portuguese and Italian. If you are considering learning a Romance Language best of luck and have fun :)!

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vvkrastev 25 25 25 25 24 16 15 15 15 12 9 8 8 8 8 6 6 5 4 4 3 3 2 1185

Agree. French is very hard compared to Spanish, Italian, and Portuguese. Looking forward to finding out how hard Romanian is :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheDivineMrs.M 10 10 8 6 2

I'm glad you agree with my list :) Good luck with Romanian! I never really tried but I know it sounds beautiful when spoken. Happy Language Learning:~)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kozma.Dani. 14 11 11 11 8 7 4

As a Hungarian I think Italian is the easiest Romance Language.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ilmarien 25 25 25 15 14 13 2

I honestly wouldn't, because I don't really think that any one Romance Language is objectively harder than any other. I do think that Portuguese and French have the trickiest pronunciation, and I also think that the tendency to not teach the literary tenses in French makes it seem harder than it actually is. (The thing about grammar is that it is only difficult until you've gotten comfortable with it, so being told to never bother with a tense means there are whole aspects of the language that are a mystery to you well past when they should be. That's probably a problem in Italian as well, though I've never studied it formally.)

When I was more involved with and better at French than Spanish, I found French a lot easier. Now that the reverse is true, I find Spanish much easier, though that's more a matter of familiarity than anything else. I do think that French sentence structure is the easiest from an English perspective, though.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vegjjany 20 14 12 12 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 7 7 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 2

Spanish: it don't has a lot of gramatical rules as other romance languages and has a simple phonetic system.

Italian: simple phonetic system, but a lot of unique terminologies.

Catalan: a little bit more complex than spanish and italian for me, but the phonetics is simple.

Portuguese: complex phonetic system and a lot of semantic rules that aren't followed even by native speakers.

French: Very complex phonetics and grammar.

Romanian: Complex in all senses, except for the phonetics, which is pretty simple.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CosmoKaiza 17 11 9 8 5 1

The vocabulary in French is really close to the English one. I mean 1/3 words in French are the same in English : influence, motivation, continent are both French and English words. Which is nothing you find with Portuguese, Catalan nor Italian

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vegjjany 20 14 12 12 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 7 7 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 2

That is true, however I didn't rank this based on English, but in the literal complexity of these languages. I prefered this way, because is a more "universal" view. Excluding French, I don't notice so many identical words between English and any romance language. Also, i am brazilian.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

salapls 20 19 19 19 17 12

All romance languages form a kind of "dialect continuum" - but with Romanian, which is isolated, it's not so evident -. In my opinion, a good path to learn romance languages could be: Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, Catalan, French, and Romanian. Little changes can be made, but spanish as a starting point seems reasonable, especially for its phonology and the large amount of learning material. Then, portuguese grammar is almost the same as the spanish. Despite people here say that Italian has a difficult grammar, in fact its verbs are very similar to the spanish and it's a language that can be easily pronounced. The rest of its grammar is almost the same as French or Catalan and can be used as a bridge to these languages.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DocHatteras 25 23 19 14 7 11

I would agree with your list. I have read that Brazilian Portuguese specifically is the least complex Romance language, but many people would find the nasal pronunciation very difficult (from an English standpoint). Therefore, I would list it as slightly harder than Spanish, too. Italian and French are abundant in irregularities, but French seems to be a little harder to understand for listeners.

Personally, I love the sound of Romanian, but its grammar is very different from the other Romance languages. It is more specific, but also harder for an English learner.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SebastianMolin 22 11 2 2

I would say Romanian :D

However, if you already speak a Romance language, it wouldn't be hard at all! :-)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vadimfowler 14 13 9 7

French is the only Romance language that I know. But I advocate for it mainly due to my experience in struggling with several very different languages: vocabulary similarity matters a lot! The initial stages for language learning are usually well structured and "easy"- any conventional language course takes you in a few months to a level where you know basic grammar and a few hundred words. Then it becomes really difficult - because you have to expand your vocabulary, which means learning thousands of new words, and this may take years (given that you have patience for learning and practicing).

In this light, I advocate for French as the language with vocabulary that is the closest to English (for obvious historical reasons).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

josephkt 2

this is subjective question Spanish the so called easy language that myth is as old as time it self how is it that foreigners can't speak this language properly after years of learning hmm maybe because it's not that easy(easier to pronounce ,tons of irregular verbs and i4 tenses

French harder to pronounce uses less verb tenses and tons of irregular verbs

Italian the clearest pronunciation but proper intonation takes work grammar similar to French

Portuguese has the most verb tenses tricky pronunciation two different dialects tons of irregular verbs similar to Spanish in grammar don't know romanian

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gatiano2015 12 8 8 3

Spanish is heard more than any of the others in the U.S. It would be the easiest to learn in the U.S. because of all the material available and of all the native speakers to practice with. Brazilian Portuguese is exploding due to the growth and influence of Brazil. French is still almost always available on product translations, but the number of native speakers in the U.S. is much lower than Spanish. Portuguese from Portugal can be learned once you master the Brazilian variety. Italian is not difficult to learn, if you have any Spanish base. Romanian is going to be the hardest due to the lack of people to practice with and less materials available (movies, product translations, etc.).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SteveLando 22 18 17 16 14 12 11 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 6 6 6 5 5 3 1

Of those available here I would say that Spanish is by far the easiest, and Italian the hardest - when Romanian comes it will take that place.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ALoUSyUseRnaME 25 25 16 9 5 5 4

Out of the Romance languages on Duolingo, I'd say that Spanish, Italian and Portuguese are very similar, about the same level, with Italian and Portuguese slightly harder in different aspects. French is even harder.

Spanish is a good base/starting point with the Romance languages. I'm not sure about Catalan, though. I have no clue about Romanian either. Sorry.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PinefrostLTU 15 13 8 8 7 6 5 5 5 4

Catalan

Spanish

French

Italian

Portuguese

Romanian

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lusofono 25 19 18 13 6 1

Here's my sense of the relative difficulty of those Romance tongues I've studied (list runs from highest to lowest).

Romanian

French

Spanish

Portuguese

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

avrichard 14 13 12 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 4

From my experience, I've only studied Spanish and French in any formal way. I found Spanish much more beginner-friendly, although it evens out later. Looking forward to trying Romanian, though I'm guessing it would be the most challenging... Although I speak Russian and German, so the things that people find hard about Romanian are things I'm already used to... But we'll see!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PauBofill 14 13 11 11 11 9 7 6 6 5 4 4 3 3 3 2 488

For someone like me that already speaks two Romance languages (Catalan and Spanish), the rank of the ones I've studied would be:

1- Occitan, probably since it's so close to Catalan.

2- Italian, I started learning it with DL but I'm now learning it at school and it's being pretty easy for me.

3- Portuguese, from what I've been learning with DL I've made a lot of Portuguese probably because it's pretty similar to Spanish.

4- French, I just don't really like French and with the three years of French that I did at school I didn't make much progress.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ElijahClydeSK7 16 15 12 9 8 7 4 3 2 2 2 137

I've been learning French for about two years now, I think pronunciation was hard the first few weeks but once you get the hang of it, it's super easy. Compared to English, there's really no pronunciation rules in English, you just memorize these patterns of pronunciation and rack your brain for a hint. I've been learning Spanish for about half a year to a full year, not as intense as I did with French. But I'm surrounded by lots of Spanish people so hearing Spanish was extensively easier than hearing French. When it comes to speaking, I'm almost intermediate in French, but with hearing, it's quite elementary. Spanish is the opposite, I'm not the best at speaking Spanish, but I understand a lot more of it. I haven't tried learning Italian super hard yet, and already I can understand a lot of it, about a half or a third of how much I'd understand in a Spanish conversation. Therefore, I think the languages from easiest to hardest is: Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, French, and Romanian. I think Catalan is easier than Italian if you know as much Spanish and French words as I do, but at the same time, no matter what, learning these languages get easier whenever you know the others quite well. So, possibly Italian is hard for others, possibly Romanian is easiest. I tried learning some Romanian though, and it's super hard for me to pronounce anything and remember everything. Even though I have so much knowledge of French and Spanish and Italian now, Romanian has really stumped my brain in some instances, unlike when I tried learning Catalan, Italian, Portuguese. I'm not as smart in those three languages as I am with French and Spanish, however, learning the basics of them were wildly easier than Romanian. I still need to learn how to pronounce stuff in Portuguese and Catalan though. I learned Italian, Spanish, French, and a lot of Romanian pronunciation (Although I understand the pronunciation in Romanian, it's still really hard for me to speak in it as well as I do the others). I don't think Portuguese would be too hard, but I haven't really delved into it as much as I have delved into Italian lol.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

446 Switching between courses

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1820697>

AndreasTraber 10 8

I am a German native Speaker. I started learning Spanish via English (I also started German via English for fun). Now I'd also like to improve my English skills via German. I noticed that I can not easily Switch between my courses. When I am in the "Spanish via English"-Course I can switch to "German via English" in the upper bar, but when I want to switch to "English via German" I have to go to my Settings-->Learning Language.. In my opinion, you should be able to Switch to all courses you have started.

Give Lingot4
713 years ago

Leave a new comment
35 Comments

PedroTecla 10 10 10 5 5 3 3 2 1

I've got the same problem, and it seems the languages that appear on my profile appear by starting language. I'm learning Dutch and German via English, and Portuguese via Spanish. Dutch and German appear in the languages I'm learning only if I'm in English, and Portuguese appears only when I'm in Spanish. D::

It's a shame that a platform that's supposed to make you a polyglot can't handle polyglots!

13ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

anna_b11 10 10 8 3 2

same for me. plus: I started English -> French in the first place but in the meantime there is German -> French available. I'd like to transfer my progress into the new, native course but it doesn't seem to be possible.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chaos_theory 8 7

Seems like duolingo didn't consider people that are already bilingual

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Bosex90 13 11

Exactly!!! I'd like to switch from Spanish to French, since my native language is Spanish. I think it would be easier learning French from Spanish

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

endios 21 15 14 6

That is true, course switching sucks for now, but I'm sure they are working on a better solution. For now there is one easier way to switch courses than going into settings - click here

8ReplyGive Lingot4•3 years ago

AndreasTraber 10 8

Thanks. OT: What does the heart besides "Give Lingot" mean?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

melanie86 20 8 8 2

It means that someone has given endios a lingot. The number to the right of the heart says how many lingots have been given.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Marcotonio 20 12 12 1

Thank you, this will have to do for now.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

chaos_theory 8 7

I have the exact same situation and was wondering, if the devs of duolingo are working on making this easier.

Anyway, bumping this topic so it won't be forgotten!

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NOSCOPEDOG 8 7

Same here

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Manny.Delgado 19 10 8 7 6 2

Please fix this, it's July 2016 and I still have to go through the settings to switch to "English Via Spanish" and I thought I lost all my progress... you don't lose it, but it's still a pain

8ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

edumelo 15 13 10

I have made the same: I am a Portuguese native speaker and I've started French via English, but I'd like to try the English via Portuguese in order to improve my English. However, I was afraid of losing my French progress when changing my native language in the settings. Don't you lose your progress in the English->Spanish course when you start a German->English course? So I'm going to try it too =)

4ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

AndreasTraber 10 8

No, you don't ;)

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

edumelo 15 13 10

Great, thank you

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CochaYuyo1

I lost all my progresses and settings when I did!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

crovifu 11 10 2

Bump. Got the same issue.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

giolt75 8

I have the same problem.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Benimation 13 11 9 6 5 3 2

Yes, especially since people are trying to do "reverse trees" after having finished one.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

nvanderhoeven 18 16 16 16 10 3 192

I really agree with this. Changing your interface language should be separate from changing your learning language. You should be able to have only one interface language at a time, but multiple learning languages (one for each course). I imagine that many people on Duolingo know more than one language fluently, and to assume that we'll only ever want to learn new languages through one language is unnecessarily limiting.

3ReplyGive Lingot2•6 months ago

Dmitry528048 8 2 41

Hard to believe, but after two years the problem is still here.

It seems to be really hard to implement it, though this feature is definitely required by many users.

Actually we are not asking for some new functionality - it does already exist and you can switch to other course now, but it must be simplified to single click action.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

kolob17 10

I'm glad i'm not the only one with this issue....hopefully doulingo will fix this soon :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SaraMiller8 21 17 7 4 3 2

I agree

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sameperson 12 8 6 3 2 2

Bump, problem is not fixed yet. I have different achievements on English and on Russian profile. Also switching between courses is still painful.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lemiin 10 9 5 5

YES, I NEED THIS! I'm bilingual in French and English and go back and forth between lessons with a different source language. I'm in my English one right now, so only the Welsh appears.

2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Lemiin 10 9 5 5

Well, it just appeared so alleluia!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

yourradio 7 4 3 2

bumping this topic so it won't be forgotten!

2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

steven2308 14 12 10 9 7

This was asked two years ago and still it's a pain to change languages, you guys are great but please we need this!

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

gonzalogallard 10 8 4 2

Same problem here, I'm a native speaker of Spanish and I use Duolingo to learn French and other languages via English, I happen to know English because I'm an English teacher, and since it's not my native tongue I think I should be able to add it to my profile as a language I've learnt.

Please Duolingo team, fix this! It's been years!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CryaoticDave 4

I agree with you.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

zyzor 16 14 13 10 10 9 3 2

me too

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Misaelz 10 10 8 5 4

i want it too

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

s4kul 10 6 5 3

We all need this feature. s'il vous plait, ce serait vraiment plus simple.

ou au moins pouvoir avoir deux langues maternelles. et la langue du site dans les paramètres. cdt

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

erwinried 11 10 6 43

Why this is still a thing? please enhance this!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

m0rticia 14 7 2

Yes! I'm a Spanish native speaker learning German in English, but it would be a lot easier to switch to Spanish quickly when practising my Italian (since it's easier for me to practice Italian in Spanish and German in English.)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Marcotonio 20 12 12 1

Maybe there is a URL we can type to switch between courses, no?

For instance, something like [duolingo.com/en/fr] redirects me to the French course for English speakers, while [duolingo.com/ja/en] redirects me to the English course for Japanese speakers.

I tried extracting the URL from a course switching page, but to no use.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

447 "She tried to reach the train."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/732270>

Translation: Ella intentó alcanzar el tren.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

39 Comments

miza713 12

Can someone please explain the difference between intentar and tratar?

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

From my understanding "tratar de" is more common, but both carry basically the same meaning.
<http://forum.wordreference.com/showthread.php?t=22569>

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vacio 14

Why not "ella intentó a alcanzar el tren"? In Spanish, we could just put two verbs together, next to each other? I remember in some cases, we have to put "a" between two verbs. Please enlighten me. Thank you.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

You're correct, some verbs require a preposition after the verb. For example: tratar (to try) always has a "de" if a verb follows it. Tratar de hablar=to try to speak. It just depends on the verb, some need it, but many don't. "Intentar" is a normal verb, it doesn't require a preposition after it. Intentó alcanzar is enough in this case because "intentó"=she tried, "alcanzar"=to reach. Intentó alcanzar=she tried to reach.

18ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RobChristiansen 11

trater de = to be about yet you say it means, try.

[<http://www.spanishdict.com/translate/tratar%20de>] I am confused

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

neiht20 15 6 5

If you look closer at what your link says, there are two translations for "tratar de". One is "to be about", the second is "to try". I've never heard it used to mean "to be about" (I would use "sobre"), but that doesn't mean it doesn't exist. Sometimes certain words/phrases have multiple translations/meanings, this would be an example of that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

winandfx 14 7 3

hm, "ella trató alcanzar el tren" was accepted

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

wwang.1 11

Does "reach the train" mean "catch the train", or does it literally mean "to get close to"?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Talca 25 13

Yes, in English we would use the idiom "catch the train." For example: She was late, but she tried to catch the train." Duolingo probably doesn't have catch the train in its database. Duolingo accepts: Ella trató alcanzar el tren. but I wonder of a hispanohablante would ever use that phrase...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Clor 17 2

The suggested answers are both 'alcanzar al tren' and 'alcanzar el tren'. Are they both correct, and is there a difference in their meaning?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

llegar al tren? Why should it use "Personal A" for "Tren"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

There shouldn't be a "personal a" here, the object is neither a person nor an animal.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Heikheik 12 4 2

In this case the "a" is needed, it's not a personal but a preposition "a". As in "Vamos a la playa". ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

I just wanted to ask, where do you see the "a"? The answer I see is "ella intentó alcanzar el tren".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

I definitely saw "Al" instead of "El". BTW, I posted this question months ago, so Duolingo may have changed it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ShelleyMcInroy 18

Why not "Ella tratado a alcanzar el tren." ?? What trato? I'm getting confused.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JuevesHuevos 15

Tratado is the past participle, and is only used with the helping verb "haber" in some of the "perfect" tenses.

Ella había tratado = she had tried

Yo he tratado.... = I have tried

Trató = he tried/she tried/it tried.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ShelleyMcInroy 18

Thank you! That is SO SO helpful!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

majurogirl 14 10 9 5

Why not "Ella intento de alcanzar al tren."?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

Because "intentar" is not a linked verb, it doesn't need the "de".

<http://users.ipfw.edu/jehle/courses/VRBSPREP.HTM>

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Falling_Up_3 15 6

Why no "Ella intento a alcanzar el tren?"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Casiquire 20 14 8 3 61

You don't need the A. Alcanzar means to reach, so without the A you're already saying "she tried to reach the train". The place where you COULD use an A is before "tren" where it would shorten to al tren. The reason you would do that is to add movement. It's like "she tried to reach toward the train" instead of "she tried to reach the train". But other than that, verbs in the infinitive (tratar, intenter, alcanzar) already mean to try, to reach, so you don't generally need to add an A before them except in specific circumstances. I hope this helps!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

wratsey 25 2 10

I used the imperfect, wrongly as it turned out. I thought the action was incomplete and so thought the preterite might be wrong. I guess not. Must go back yet again to the grammar books.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Casiquire 20 14 8 3 61

You're right that she didn't reach the train but it was still a one-time attempt that's over in the context of this sentence. An easy way for me to think of the imperfect is to imagine whether it's fitting to say, for example, "she WAS TRYING to reach the train" instead of just "she tried". So if the sentence was "she was trying to reach the train when her mother called" it would be imperfect and the call would be preterite. The thing that was happening is imperfect, the thing that happened is preterite. Of course I'm sure this is a gross oversimplification but that line of thinking has helped me before.

0ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

demetrius1111 13

why cant i use "a" in between ntento and alcanzar

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

neiht20 15 6 5

"intentar" is not a linked verb, it doesn't need the "a".

<http://users.ipfw.edu/jehle/courses/vrbsprep.htm>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GinoSamethini 10

Can somebody tell me why "probar" is wrong?? Conjugated in the sentence : "Probó" Thanks in advance!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JuevesHuevos 15

Probar is to try as in to try something out, to test something.

Intentar de and tratar de both mean to try to DO something.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GinoSamethini 10

Ok...one hour ago I flagged my answer as "should be correct". Now Duolingo has changed the exercise to a set of words you have to put in order instead of a writing exercise with many different variables. Good work!! Thanks for the improvements Duolingo! !

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

andre.bour 16 9 6

I put "Lo intentó alcanzar el tren" but got it wrong? :s

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Casiquire 20 14 8 3 61

The lo isn't needed. Lo intentó means she tried IT, and the word IT is extra here. Otherwise you're exactly right.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bonifaciu 11 9 9 4 2 1

intentó? It is not a word of this lesson.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tessbee 24 16 67

Bonifaciu - "intentó" is the simple past (preterite) of "intentar" conjugated for Él/Ella/Ud.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JewelAriel 10

Anyone know the when to use pretender and intentar interchangeably?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

neiht20 15 6 5

<https://answers.yahoo.com/question/index?qid=20110411062532AAYEb6U>

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

cassiapres 12 8 2

ella trató a alcanzar el tren. Why not?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

neiht20 15 6 5

"To try to" is "tratar de"

<http://www.wordreference.com/es/translation.asp?tranword=try>

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

RobChristiansen 11

it was her intention to 'try/tried' - intentó

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

hankdoug 14 10 5

Why '... llegar al tren' and '... alcanzar el tren'?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

448 "The boy eats fruit."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11417652>

Translation: Der Junge isst Obst.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

18 Comments

adorsa 14 9 8 5 4 2

why must Frucht be plural here?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

Since there is no determiner before the English word "fruit" (it's not "the fruit, a fruit, his fruit, ..."), the meaning must be collective or plural. (That is, he is eating an unspecified quantity of fruit, not just one fruit.)

So in German, you have to use either the collective "Obst" or the plural "Früchte".

(Duo's recommended translation uses the former.)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JoeOcher 25 9 3 29

Obst vs Früchte. Which is better, what's the difference?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sygmoral 14 12 9 2 1

I would say Obst is better here, because it is used as a general word. Früchte is not wrong but feels more specific. For one thing, with Obst, it doesn't matter whether he eats one or more.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JoeOcher 25 9 3 29

Okay great, do you know more about the two words in general.

What makes Früchte more specific? Does Obst cover more types of fruit? (Ist eine Tomate ein Obst aber keine Frucht z.B)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

"Früchte" looks at the fruit individually. You can pick one of them out and call it "eine Frucht".

"Obst" is a mass noun, so it looks at the fruit collectively.

Also, "eine Frucht" is one fruit: one apple, one pear, one orange.

Since "Obst" talks more about the material than about object identity, "two pears and an apple" can be "Obst", but so can a little slice of watermelon. It's not a complete fruit, but it's still "Obst".

English does this a little bit with collective "fruit" vs. count noun "one fruit, two fruits" -- if I eat a little piece of pear, I have eaten "fruit" but not "a fruit", while if I eat a pear and an apple, you could say that I have eaten "two fruits" (zwei Früchte) but you'd probably simply say you "ate fruit" (Obst gegessen) here as well.

I don't think there's a difference in the range of objects they cover, just in how they look at them (individual pieces, vs. unspecified amount of a particular group of food).

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

akgrinden 7 6

Find it strange that fruit is plural here. The sentence does not make sense.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Amujala16 6

*sense

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

IngeHerzog 15 3

Why can't "frisst" be used here instead of "isst"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

Because it sounds rude to use fressen when speaking about people.

Animals fressen, people essen.

If you say der Junge frisst, you are implying that he is eating like an animal (messily, perhaps).

2ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Betashadow 9

Will this sentence be the same if I say "Der Junge esst Obst"? I don't understand the difference between isst and esst.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

No, Der Junge esst Obst is wrong -- a bit like "The boy are eating fruit".

You have to pick the right form of the verb depending on the subject:

ich esse

du isst

er, sie, es isst

wir essen

ihr esst

sie, Sie essen

Singular nouns take a verb form like er, sie, es; plural nouns like sie, Sie.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Betashadow 9

Thanks a lot for clearing that up!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

glorifico 14 12 12 11 10 9 9 8 7 6 5 2 404

why "knabe" is not accepted?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

quis_lib_duo 25 25 25 25 14 9 6 6 3 2 1222

It is a regional, and pretty much dated term, not much in use anymore.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

...but should be accepted nevertheless, I think.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

quis_lib_duo 25 25 25 25 14 9 6 6 3 2 1222

Has been reported and discussed countless times – and refused by mods / the powers that be. But give it a try.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 13 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 663

Ah, I didn't know that. Odd. But ah well.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

449 Du vs Ihr

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2130066>

807561 23 8 7

What is the difference between "du" and "ihr"?

Give Lingot2

383 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

daauyi 10 9 9 7 6 5 2

"Du " is singular and "ihr" is plural. In spanish "du" is "tu" and "ihr" is "vosotros".

55ReplyGive Lingot8•3 years ago

youmah2525 10 9 2

danke

17ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Acerspyro 10 10

Oh so that's why it's so hard for an english speaker, where "you" is the same for singular and plural.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Raven_Whisper 9 7

oh that makes so much more sense! I was thinking it's formal vs informal but it wasnt adding up.

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Sarah_Koshiol 5

Thanks, this helped me a lot, especially since I learned Spanish first and then German.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

FrederickB26318 6 3

same, but in spanish we never used vosotros....:(im screwed lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

potatobear 23 2

Think of "ihr" as "you guys" or "you all". It's you plural.

22ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

Doo18 11 6 5 2

or y'all :)

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

S0S_90 25 24 15 12 2 14

You use "du" for "you" when talking to just one person and you use "ihr" as a translation of "you" when talking to / about several people. "Ihr" can also mean "her".

6ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

Crazycow141 6 6 3

"Du" is used when there is only one person or if you are talking directly to that person only and "ihr" is when you are talking to a lot of people so, it's plural. "Ihr" in English could also be like "y'all" or something like that

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

kylekaough 13 9 8 6 4 2 2 3

Du is an informal, singular you Ihr is more of an informal, plural you like "y'all" or a "you guys"

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

3251bimmer 18

The difference between du and ihr as a form of you is that ihr can be used to mean you (singular) or you (plural similar to you all). Was dankst du? = what do you think Was dankt Ihr? = what do you think (singular) Was dankt ihr? = what do you think (plural or asking a group)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pamacool 19

vielen dank

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Rachelhunt17 7 5

So ihr so "you all" or "you everyone" and du is "you only"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

flacorivas 10

finally I got it, thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Forr-Score 9 2

I learned German in a Texas high school. So Du was translated as you, and Ihr was translated y'all.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 month ago

450 "The pleasure is ours."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2358066>

Translation: Le plaisir est pour nous.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

20 Comments

FlyMarth 20 12

Can it be 'Le plaisir est nous?' instead?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DXLi 25 3 1261

No, because nous cannot function as a possessive pronoun. You could, however, say Le plaisir est le nôtre .

13ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FlyMarth 20 12

Great, thanks for clarification DXLi!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

boooke 13 8 6 5 2 2

And also "pour-" and "à nous". But which one would make most sense when talking french?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ElGusso 16 12 10 8 8

Nobody would say "le plaisir est à moi / nous".

And actually, even "le plaisir est le nôtre", suggested above, is grammatically correct but does not sound natural (and/or too formal). I would rather say "le plaisir est nôtre" without "le", if I wanted to sound a bit posh or pedantic :-)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

heller5tein 21 16 9 31

Can one say "Le plaisir C'est à nous"?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ElGusso 16 12 10 8 8

No. "C'est à nous" is generally used to express proper possession (i.e. "it's ours" as in "it belongs to us"), or to mean "it is our turn":

Whose turn is it ? = À qui le tour ? / C'est à qui de jouer ?

It's our turn ! = C'est à nous [de jouer] !

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

virginian8v 25 26

Are "pour nous" and "le notre" equally correct?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

malabhargava 20 3
Le plaisir est à nous was accepted!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

codiggity 22 3 3
Why not "Nous avons le plaisir"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Basiliou 12 5 2
Your sentence means, 'We have the pleasure... '.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tmaddox00 10
True, but doesn't that mean the same thing?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Basiliou 12 5 2
No. Consider these two examples: (1) - Hello everyone, today I have the pleasure of introducing to you my daughter's fiancé. (2) - What a pleasant surprise! It's a pleasure seeing you all here. - The pleasure is all ours

You couldn't use one instead of the other in each of the given examples.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tmaddox00 10
Hmm ... I see what you mean. However, it seems purely a matter of typical usage in English. For example, if you posed it slightly differently, you could use either one: person A: "We have the pleasure ...", person B (interrupting): "No, we have the pleasure ..." Granted, it is awkward and not normally used that way, so I can accept it might not be used that way in French either. However, the actual meaning of both statements seems to be: "We have/possess pleasure."

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Basiliou 12 5 2
Even though they both carry similar sentiments, they are not interchangeable in English.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

JacquesSal2 22 13 11 9 8 6 6 2
whats the difference between nôtre and notre

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ElGusso 16 12 10 8 8
(le) nôtre = ours

notre = our (+ noun)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JacquesSal2 22 13 11 9 8 6 6 2

Got it. merci!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tsongololo 23 275

If you use nôtre by itself you use the circumflex.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Pillow33895 13 9 5 3 2 2 2 2 2

Why did this come up for me in nature?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

451 su vs sus? vs tu and tus?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/429614>

gmartins 14

Can someone please explain the difference between tu/tus and su/sus and when you would use each?

Thanks, Gary

Give Lingot

33 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

Babella 17 14

"Su/sus" are the singular and plural and they mean "his/her/its". "Tu/tus" is "yours" and if you see "su/sus" in what would mean "yours" in English, it's because the formal "tú" ("usted") uses it too.

Sorry for posting at the same time, Mavry!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gmartins 14

thanks guys, makes sense!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

452 Where are the graphics for Danish and Swedish?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3540911>

skyehoppers 21 12 9 6 4 2

On the select-a-course page, all the languages are represented with a really cool little graphic of a famous landmark from the language's country. This is one of my favorite parts of Duolingo's aesthetics and it really makes me feel that with learning this language, I am also learning a foreign culture. However, with the Danish and Swedish courses nearing completion, there still is no picture, and someone visiting the website would have no idea the courses were being built. Is Duolingo nixing the whole landmark thing, or are they just a bit slower for these languages? I hope the graphics are kept as they're a neat addition to the website, but if not I still can't wait to see what Duolingo has in store.

Give Lingot
132 years ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

bjarkehs 12 10 6 4

We are waiting for the design team to finish the logos. We are all waiting for it to be done. And it'll be a surprise for all of us what they choose to do :)

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

andrewmof 11
If you could see them now, would you like to?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bjarkehs 12 10 6 4

Nah, I want to be surprised together with you guys. I want to share it with. Because I feel like most of us are equally excited about it.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
They are most likely in the creation process.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ryanriver321

Different languages in the Incubator create parts of their courses at different times. The ones that you already see graphics for simply prioritized the creation of these graphics before other aspects of the courses. Don't worry though; I'm sure that they will design superb ones for Danish and Swedish when they are ready!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

453 Je, tu, il/elle, nous, vous, ils/elles : I, you, we, they.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2663207/Je-tu-il-elle-nous-vous-ils-elles-I-you-we-they>

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5

Links: learning loom | Verbs hop by hop

" Je, tu, il/elle, nous, vous, ils/elles " : I, you, we, they.

pronomes sujets : subject pronouns, or personal pronouns - that affect the verbs.

Singular:

" je " 🎵: I

" tu " 🎵 : you singular and very personal . Used amongst family and very close personal friends.

" vous " 🎵 : you singular - more formal and polite and used in all situations where you are not family or are not very close personal friends. It is wise to always use "vous" when you talk to a french person, until the other person says or proposes otherwise.

" il " 🎵 : you singular male

" elle " 🎵 : you singular female

" on " 🎵 : one, or informal we "nous"

Plural:

" nous " 🎵 : we

" vous " 🎵 : you plural .

" ils " 🎵 : they / you plural - male

" elles " 🎵 : they / you plural - female

NOTE: most of the french words in this stream - will give you an audio file - so you can "hear" how to pronounce them, and hopefully understand them when you hear them.

sounds is a little youtube video by Kylie Hicken, which is great for sounds in French.

Give Lingot

72 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5

" ON " : ONE, OR INFORMAL WE / "NOUS"

" On " 🎵 can be an informal " nous " 🎵 OR a "one",

" On " 🎵 in, for instance: "One does not change a team that wins" (It's probable the English "one" used for this is from the French " on ") 🎵 ""subnote by lindakanga: This is probably where we get comments made in English such as "One should brush (implied - your teeth) several times a day" ""

In informal unwritten conversation, it's very common to use " on " 🎵 instead of " nous " . 🎵

" On " 🎵 is not "it". Even if it's often a person we don't know (but not always, when the " on " 🎵 is used instead of " nous " 🎵, the person is known, because it's us!). " On " 🎵 is not "it" because it's a person. (opposed to "ce", " ça " 🎵, "cela"), " on " 🎵 is often translated by "it" (when it's not by "we" or "one"), but it's an impersonal (not a particular person who makes the action), not a neutral in the sense that it can't be a thing, it's always a person. See it as an impersonal "we". Imagine: " We (human beings) are forced to work to live " - in a very general sense.

" On " 🎵 can be used when you don't know the subject, to translate the passive voice in English. But it's not a passive voice, it's an active voice, the subject is " on " 🎵. For example: "Cashier wanted" = " On demande un caissier " is an active voice and impersonal. Compared to " Un caissier est demandé " where the voice is passive.

This information was provided by the ever informative and instructional PERCE_NEIGE

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5

AND THAT, there it is, it is THAT, those great comments by PERCE_NEIGE that make this site so great. Better than relying on un-reviewed information on the internet - that can have miss-information, which I had stumbled across, and had thought was correct - until PERCE_NEIGE set me straight. Here discussions can happen, and review can occur. I am ever so thankful to have this opportunity, and for the input of people like PERCE_NEIGE :) He has put me straight on an understanding of "on", that a popular web site had incorrect information on. (The wrong information came from the site <http://french.about.com/> . Although other articles on the same site are quite enlightening and I believe can be recommended.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

454 Reading the bible with English and Italian side by side is easy!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2550361>

xyphax 24 21 4

Bible gateway allows free reading parallel versions of bible passages

Just wanted everyone to know a fabulous way to combine bible reading time and Italian immersion time. I use this everyday and it is simple todo:

browse to the biblegateway site

<http://www.biblegateway.com>

choose a passage and English version you like and bring up the passage e.g. enter 'John 1' into the search textbox and hit enter

click on the yellow "add parallel" button choose your favorite Italian version to display in parallel (I like Nuova Riveduta 1994) and now you can read your passage in English and Italian side by side. In fact, you can read any two or more versions side by side by continuing to add additional parallels (in case you are learning German and Italian, for instance!)

I LOVE reading the bible in Italian because the words are so expressive and I often find a depth of meaning I do not find in English translations, so this has helped me learn Italian and deepened my understanding of the Bible at the same time.

Enjoy a new immersion technique!

xyphax

Give Lingot17

412 years ago

Leave a new comment

16 Comments

DianneCapoccia 20

Thank you for the GREAT idea ;) I love the Lord and also have been studying Italian b/c my daughter and family are heading to Italy to be missionaries soon. This will be tremendously helpful. Thanks ;D

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xyphax 24 21 4

I am so happy for you and your family .. I can hardly imagine what joy lies in wait for them in Italy! The Lord blesses the work of His hands and feet and He will surely do wonderful things through them there.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sigmacharding 18 17 15 15 14 12 11 11 10 10 10 8 4 4 2

Thanks for sharing! I am hoping that when Latin is added to duolingo we may be given to opportunity to read English/Latin side by side in the immersion section. Could be really interesting seeing how the text changes over time. Good luck in your reading and hope you learn a lot both linguistically and spiritually

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Andreinish 7

Thank you, I really love reading the Bible, and this is a great resource... love it!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xyphax 24 21 4

Yes, I love reading the word too. I think my favorite use of this resource is when a passage is read aloud by someone else in English (say during church), then I am able to read along simultaneously in Italian. I have only recently reached a level of proficiency in Italian where I can do this. I find that hearing in one language and reading simultaneously in another is very rewarding as an immersion technique.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Andreinish 7

That is helpful, I will try it... thank you so much xyphax, you blessed my life with that:)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jfink01 16 11 8 3 2

This is great! Thanks! Do you find it difficult when the translations are from different versions? Eg NIV and KJV

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xyphax 24 21 4

I usually find it enriching .. for some reason seeing it from different angles seems to help me make connections. I think the trick of it is to allow the concept in the verse to remain fluid in my mind, and as I read the various versions allow God to impart His meaning to me. Seems to work for me anyways. I have often wished I could learn the root languages so I could better discern the original meaning, even if only from a technical perspective; maybe duoLingo will make this possible for me :-)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jfink01 16 11 8 3 2

Yes, thanks. I have just had a go with some well known passages like 1 Corinthians 13. I think I am going to learn a lot this way - about Italian and German as well as about God. I appreciate your post. It would be great if Duolingo included the root languages - maybe they will some day. Thanks a lot. :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CanyonBluffs 23 14 8 6 3 3 2

I have used this technique with Spanish (pre-Bible Gateway on the Web) and now I'm doing it with French on my iPhone and iPad. It is especially rewarding when reading passages that I am already familiar with (for example, the Gospels).

I asked one of my French friends to recommend a French translation of the Bible. Fortunately, Bible Gateway has it available: La Bible de Semeur (The Sower's Bible).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Rompip 25 25 10 12 01

Thank you for this really great idea... I would never have thought of it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Melaninja 12 11 10 10 9 3 3 2

:)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Prof007 24 4

Great idea xyphax. I will have to try it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PamPucky 5

Hi Brian, I find your comment very interesting. What you say about comparing Bible translations in different languages is so true. I love doing the same thing and it's truly amazing :) My native language is Spanish, but I also have translations in English, Italian, Greek, Hindi, Punjabi and Urdu. A very accurate translation I personally enjoy is available in 50 languages in <http://www.jw.org>. There is also the free JW Library app for Android/iPhone that allows to compare among several translations. It has really enriched my personal reading & understanding of it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NicolasDC 10 9 5 5 4 2

Grazie per dire questo a tutto il mondo! Io faccio questo, tutte domenica o qualsiasi giorno che leggo La Sacra Bibbia! Mi ha aiutato(?) in imparare la bella lingua d'italiano! :)

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xyphax 24 21 4

mi fa grande gioia fare questo :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

455 How to change the male to female duolingo voice?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8283538>

Hy ! How can i change my Duolingo voice? Before was having a female voice on my german course that i can understand much better the words speech, but now it is a male voice and i do not understand very clear and i type wrong the words and is irritating. Can someone help me with this please? Thank you! :)

Give Lingot

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

3 Comments

iwc2ufan 25 25 23 21 19 17 17 16 14 14 13 10 10 9 9 9 8 7 7 6 5 906

It isn't an option to change it back. It appears to be an a/b test where some of us have that voice and some don't. If the man is more popular, he will probably stay. If not, he will probably go.

I am getting used to him. I still slightly prefer her, but who knows. I did fully get used to the change in voice for Swedish.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Plyze

Unfortunately, this is not something you can change. I believe it's an A/B test which is completely random. Hope this helps!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MikaelMello 25 25 20 10 6 5 5 5

Use it as an advantage for you, with a voice harder to understand, you will be actually improving your listening skills!

-2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

456 Conditionals in Portuguese

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6887315>

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Hey there. I think this should have been posted long ago, specially because of the confusions with past subjunctive and other conditional tenses in incomplete sentences.

So here is how we form conditionals in Portuguese, with full cause-consequence phrases.

I took the four conditionals from here in English: <http://www.perfect-english-grammar.com/conditionals>

If you think there are more conditional forms than these, please tell me, they would be gladly added to the others

The Zero Conditional

In Portuguese, it can take two forms:

(en) If + Present Simple, ... Present Simple

(pt) Se + Present Indicative, ... Present Indicative

(pt) Se + Future Subjunctive, ... Present Indicative - Tenses seem to mismatch, but this is very common

See:

If you heat water to 100 degrees, it boils.

Se você esquentar a água a 100 graus, ela ferve.

Se você esquentar a água a 100 graus, ela ferve.

The first just relates cause and consequence. It's better for "you" since it doesn't really expect the subject to take that action. It fits: "If/When one heats water, it boils", or "the result of heating water is it boiling".

The second is more related what happens if the subject actually tries doing that.

The First Conditional

It has only one form, although the Portuguese future is often used in two forms:

(en) If + Present Simple, ... Will + Infinitive

(pt) Se + Future Subjunctive, ... Future Indicative

(pt) Se + Future Subjunctive, ... Informal Future

If it rains tomorrow, we'll stay home

Se chover amanhã, nós ficaremos em casa

Se chover amanhã, nós vamos ficar em casa (informal future: present ir + infinitive)

Now....why subjunctive?? What should be the difference in English??? Well, see the difference " If it happens to be future subjunctive ".

The Second Conditional

This can take two forms, one formal and one informal:

(en) If + Past Simple, ... Would + Infinitive

(pt) Se + Past Subjunctive, ... Futuro do Pretérito (1) - formal

(pt) Se + Past Subjunctive, Imperfect Past - informal

(1) - Future of the Past

So, here are the examples:

(en) If I had money, I would travel around the world.

(pt) Se eu tivesse dinheiro, eu viajaria ao redor do mundo - formal

(pt) Se eu tivesse dinheiro, eu viajava ao redor do mundo - informal

The Third Conditional

This one can also take two forms, following the same formal/informal versions above:

(en) If + Had (Simple Past) + Past Participle, Would + Have + Past Participle

(pt) Se + Ter (Past Subjunctive) + Past participle, ... Ter (Future of the Past) + Past Participle

(pt) Se + Ter (Past Subjunctive) + Past participle, ... Ter (Imperfect Past) + Past Participle

Examples:

If I had gone to bed early, I would have caught the train

Se eu tivesse ido para a cama cedo, eu teria pego o trem (formal)

Se eu tivesse ido para a cama cedo, eu tinha pego o trem (informal)

Another one - Past condition, present result:

Here is one more not listed on the link above:

(en) If + Had (Simple Past) + Past Participle, Would + Infinitive

(pt) Se + Ter (Past Subjunctive) + Past participle, ... Future of the Past

(pt) Se + Ter (Past Subjunctive) + Past participle, ... Imperfect Past

Examples:

If I had listened to my mother, I wouldn't be in trouble now

Se eu tivesse escutado a minha mãe, eu não estaria em apuros agora

Se eu tivesse escutado a minha mãe, eu não estava em apuros agora

Curiosity about these ones:

Although tenses don't fit quite well, they are often used for the previous case too (called here third conditional).

Please notice that the informal versions shown above that use "imperfect past" may not make sense if it's not a full sentence with both parts: if + then. If you use just the second part, the "consequence" only, it might make no sense (well....it does in some cases....). So, avoid using the imperfect past in sentences like these:

I would take the train = Eu pegaria o trem (not pegava, because it means took, used to take)

I would like to go = Eu gostaria de ir (not gostava....)

Go back to the Portuguese Help Index:

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6331998>

Give Lingot15

182 years ago

Leave a new comment

23 Comments

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Awesome! =]

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

For those who may be interested, I made an equivalent post, with credit to Danmoller, for learners of Spanish over here.

1ReplyGive Lingot5•2 years ago

ER4ngel 24 11 10 2 896

I have been working very hard to understand this. Your post will help me a lot, Thank you! (Have a lingot)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

decoccp 16 13 7 4

Eu como brasileiro tenho que dizer que a explicação ficou muito boa! Parabéns!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

emeyr 25 25
Excellent, Daniel.

Re: the third conditional:

If I had gone to bed early, I would have caught the train. (Se eu tivesse ido para a cama cedo, eu teria pegado/pego o trem.)

That's "past condition with a past result".

=====

You said that this sentence was not a good translation, but it is:

Se eu tivesse ido para a cama cedo, eu pegaria o trem. = If I had gone to bed early, I would take the train.

That's past condition with a present result.
Another example:

If I had studied Portuguese in school, I would not be confused about ser/estar. (Se eu tivesse estudado o português, não estaria confusa sobre ser/estar.)

Edit: pego -> pegado

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2
Oh!!!! So you got a good usage for those :p Great!

I meant them with the same meaning of the previous ones, that's why I said tenses are not quite good.

Thanks for the comment! This case got included.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

May I ask, out of interest, how "If you touch me, you're dead." would be expressed in Portuguese? This takes on the form of the zero conditional in English, but it is effectively expressing a first conditional notion.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2
That fits perfectly the second version for conditional zero shown:

Se me tocar, você morre

Se me tocar, você está morto
1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
Obrigadinho!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2
Don't go threatening people ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
There's no chance of that. I'm a mere innocuous language enthusiast :-)

2ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Simoziko 14 6
Se eu tivesse dinheiro, eu compraria um carro novo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

JohnXYZ 20 19 3 1
In the examples for the third conditional, shouldn't teria pego and tinha pego be teria pegado and tinha pegado, pegado being the past participle of pegar?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

emeyr 25 25
Right. Will edit. Thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Davu 25 25
In Brazil it seems "pegar" has two past participles: "pegado" (regular) and "pego" (irregular). With most other verbs like this you use the irregular version with "ser" and the regular version with "ter". Interestingly, according to one source "pego" is becoming preferred in both roles:

Contudo, a forma regular pegado, considerada a mais correta segundo a norma culta, está sendo cada vez menos usada, privilegiando-se o uso da forma irregular pego.

or as Google Translate puts it: :-)

However, [pegado] regularly considered the most accurate according to cultural norms, being less and less used, favoring the use of [pego] erratically.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

emeyr 25 25
Thanks, David. I checked with conjuga.net which gave "pegado" as the one past participle available.

"...the use of [pego] erratically"....Diglossic portuguese strikes again! Perhaps it's time to substitute Whitlam for Mário Perini's gramática: "Sofrendo a gramática".

<http://www.estantevirtual.com.br/livrariadaana/Mario-A-Perini-Sofrendo-a-Gramatica-Nova-Ortografia-Editora-Atica-209859812>

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Davu 25 25

I included the Google Translate version as a joke, but perhaps it does describe the situation better than the Portuguese it was meant to translate. :-)

It doesn't look like "pego" has caught on, or should I say pegado, in Portugal which explains why conjuga-me.net doesn't mention it. In fact, it's difficult to find a conjugator that does list "pego" as an option, although this one tags it on to all the compound tenses as a Brazilianism:
<http://tinyurl.com/gnybron>

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Well.... I'd certainly frown a little upon "pegado".

"Pego" is the most used form in Brazil, despite the rule for using the regular form in compound tenses.

1Give Lingot•11 months ago

Beijemee 15 6 3

(Era/Seria bom que vocês sobrevivessem.) Why does this mean: "It would be good if you were to survive"

And not: "It would be good if you survived"

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

emeyr 25 25

Seria bom.....translates as both "were to survive" and "survived". The first option indicates that surviving is less likely.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Beijemee 15 6 3

Is the "past subjunctive" to do with "things that happened in the past"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Sometime yes. But sometimes it's just hypothetical things that might or not happen. Like the conditionals.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

mignonahn 12 11 9 9 7 4 3
wow good

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

457 "The cake contains an egg."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/707987>
Translation: Le gâteau contient un œuf.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
30 Comments

Diplospouse 19 3 3
Do you know why the French never put two eggs in a cake? It's because one egg is un oeuf.

109ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

OmranQassar 11 9
LOL Nailed it

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sweetcake19 9 2
Hahaha this is gold

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Glenna1167 7
Smooth

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

verticordian 12 11 9 7 3 2
The pronunciation of oeuf is very odd.

20ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

01m8 8 3 3
Yeah, the mechanical voice adds a little extra "ah" sound at the end.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

anwark 16 6
Œuf sounds like dog barking --O

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BenHamler 22 6 2 610
Would saying, "Le gâteau a un oeuf" get the same point across?

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

borthwick 11

I don't think so as it might imply that the cake owns an egg. French like to think of itself as a precise language.

18ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

tantsurin 8 4

I believe the spoken (and commonly used) one is simply: Il y a un oeuf... Source: Doulingo (one of the threads)

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

antnauman 21

Œuf makes me laugh every time :-D

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cristisalceanu 16 16 10 7 14

"Le cake"?!? Vraiment???

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NathanShap 10

Le Gâteau, en fait

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cristisalceanu 16 16 10 7 14

Oui, maintenant... Mais a ce moment-la j'ai perdu une vie a cause de ca...

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NathanShap 10

not having the a's accented made this hard for me to understand xD i got it in the end though.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PhilAstley 9 4 2

Has anyone ever figured out why an egg is not feminine in French?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aisling-taibhse 14 12 8 7 6 2 2

Just French being weird. There are a few like that.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

david.molina.h 13 2
Why not "la tarte"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

r.amsay 13 12 7
I think "tarte" means "pie"...

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JasonH565 17 9 8 6 1
Do French people write oeuf or œuf? Is there any difference between the two such as degree of formality?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Fatih120 11 7 2
Boy, I hope the egg was part of the mix and not a hard-boiled one in the middle...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aisling-taibhse 14 12 8 7 6 2 2
Bwaha! I thought that too! Glad I am not alone in my craziness!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Yen393882 8 4
How do you conjugate the the word for "to contain?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

somedayapolyglot 11 5
Why is it that contenir is conjugated like this "Le gateau contient un œuf"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

BrianDuqua 21 6 5 2
It's ironic that 'oeuf' is masculine.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

458 "He is on the radio."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1093359>
Translation: Er ist im Radio.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
6 Comments

SimoneBa 15 13 9 104

You're right. "Er ist im Radio" is correct, meaning he's speaking on the radio, he's "on air", like you said. "Er ist auf dem Radio" would mean he's physically standing on the thing, lol.

18ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

karlsefni 17 10

thanks for your kind reply :) Since I don't know what were the real intentions of who wrote this sentence, I'll report it. They'll then take their own decision. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

karlsefni 17 10

the accepted translation is 'er ist auf dem Radio'. I wonder if the purpose of the sentence is to describe someone who stays physically on a radio, or rather that he is on air. Because in the latter case I'd go with 'er ist im Radio'.

What do you all think?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mcgriff 21 9

'er ist im Radio' sounds like a tiny man is trapped inside the radio.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bekir978479 25 185

Ist "Er ist auf der Sendung" ganz unmöglich zu sagen? Aenlich ich wie "Er ist auf dem Konzert"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

Das_model 23 7 6 6 3 2 420

meanwhile i am still trying to figure out how and when to use "dem" :(

-1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

459 IOS App: Tap the pairs -- "il y a" paired with "ago"??

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8808901>

rkwnyc 25 11 3 2

"Tap the pairs" exercise provides no context - so in what context would 'ago' be an acceptable english translation of 'il y a'???? "Ago" was the only response accepted for "il y a" by my app today....

Give Lingot

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

5 Comments

EmmanuelBouh 24 15 12 11 7 5 4 2 2 824

That's correct, in French you can say for example: "il y a trois ans", which means "three years ago".

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

rkwnyc 25 11 3 2
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2
It's metaphorical, like how "hace" means "ago" in Spanish.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rkwnyc 25 11 3 2
Good point, thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2
You're welcome :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

460 Welcome to the Duolingo Educators Forum!
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6467870>

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

Welcome to a new discussion forum for educators on Duolingo. We recently launched the Duolingo Dashboard to make it easier to use Duolingo as an educator. If you haven't already taken a look and are interested in learning more please check out our announcement post here or go directly to dashboard.duolingo.com.

Also, here are the Frequently Asked Questions about Duolingo for Schools.

This forum is a place to:

Give feedback to the Duolingo team - What features would you love to see that aren't already there?
How can we make this tool more helpful and fun for you and your students?

Learn from each other - Share lesson plans, teaching methods, ways to use technology in the classroom with other language learning educators

Connect with educators from around the world

Be notified of updates on new features and community initiatives

Share your stories, successes, challenges and questions

We hope you introduce yourself in the comments below and share a little more about your story.
This is just the beginning! Welcome!

Give Lingot25
1522 years ago
375 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Thank you team and community for asking for and creating this feature! My name is Usagi and I'm a volunteer TA and tutor for first year Japanese students. I'm exploring the reverse course (ENG for JPN students) in preparation for the JPN for EN release. I'm very excited about the school feature and looking forward to using it to help the students. I'm loving it so far and looking forward to new developments. Here are a few suggestions I've gathered from around the forum:

Collapsible progress by student name, month, week, day, and skill.

Ability to zero in on area students are struggling most with.

Organize via toggle: students most to least progress, least to most progress (according to their course).

Moving the minus sign to somewhere less precarious. And giving it either an immediately clear label, or a hover label like the change language portal badge on the Home tab.

Give students ability to remove educator--student autonomy over the flow of their information.

Link website guidelines inside of of the school feature.

Educator to set goal and students to see progress on goal and when they've met goal. (like the golding of a skill, but where a teacher sets the goal.)

Chat forum for the educator and their students that is separate from the main forums so we can focus on the topics immediately relevant to our students

Separate Immersion points from course points.

Keep people from seeing my email when sent the link to join the course.

Allow educators to know how far away a skill is from becoming gold.

Small FAQ

(Already possible(see Dashboard) A way to invite several students at once.

Total XP column, and progress a daily/weekly progress until daily/weekly goal completion column.

Thank you for considering these suggestions :)

EDIT: For those interested, here is an unofficial School feature user guide.

66Give Lingot11•2 years ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

>Ability to zero in on area students are struggling most with

I think this is a really great idea - would be even better if you could find the weakest areas for one student, a selection of students, or the whole class!

13Give Lingot12•2 years ago

iron_bun 25 24 8 5 1096

>A way to invite several students at once.

The "invite more students" button generates a link that you can send to everyone via regular email.

8Give Lingot12•2 years ago

herrthomas2013 9

I tried this, but the class name then came with a weird character. In other words, the students I invited via email were in my "German 3" class. The students I invited via clicking on the link on a secure class website were in my "German%203" class. Any ideas?

3Give Lingot14•2 years ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

Hi there! This could have been caused by an issue we resolved late January. If you generate a new link, your students' class should display properly. For the ones in class "German%203", you can click the checkboxes next to their names and then click on "Change Section" in the upper right corner. You should then be able to change their class name to "German 3". I hope this helps!

3Give Lingot6•2 years ago

herrthomas2013 9

Thanks. I just created the class on Feb 18th. It could be the way it was posted on our secure class website (Canvas). Nonetheless, I was able to edit it. Thanks.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

tjayson 6

Thanks for being involved with duolingo, really helps me out! My class love it.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

Wonderful, that's great to hear.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

sragerritsen

We use Canvas as well and my students had trouble with following the link through from Canvas. I ended up having them register by "sharing" with me, then I moved them into their proper classes.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

sragerritsen and herrthomas we hope everything is working smoothly for you, please let us know if you experience any more issues.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

iron_bun 25 24 8 5 1096

Sometimes, special symbols in web links get encoded. The space in the class name is being translated into %20. The problem is that when duolingo picks it back up it has to check for the encoding, which Erdnuss seems to be saying wasn't done quite right but has now been fixed. I just checked it now and it looks good.

If you want to know more then you could look up <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Percent-encoding>.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1249

I mean the other way around: one student, two (or more) teachers. For example, a students has a Spanish and a French class and two different teachers.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6345085>

edit: as a "student" you only have one option to subscribe ("share") edit: and at once does not imply clicking a link/button several times.

1Give Lingot11•2 years ago

iron_bun 25 24 8 5 1096

You can generate the link and send a regular BCC email to several students at once. Since you currently need to know their email addresses anyway (which maybe isn't the best thing either) that shouldn't present a problem.

Agree on an option for a student to have several teachers. That would be useful.

3Give Lingot3•2 years ago

bill.martel 11 5 1

You could also use the Remind (formerly Remind101) app to communicate with a whole class in a one way text fashion. I sent me whole class the link and they registered quickly that way...no need to know their email

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

PedroRodri396456 4

Google' s Universal University. It will be the best project, where Duolingo...

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

itslavish 5

yee

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1249

If I haven't missed it:

subscribe to more than one teacher/class (edit: already mentioned below by @Z.Shan) support on mobile devices for teachers (edit: dashboard)

dd2927a3e0

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

MrLeeSpanish

The dashboard should be available in the app too!

6Give Lingot•2 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1249

Also: email address revealed is a killer-feature for personal sharing. I know this is for teachers/schools. But doesn't this apply there, too?

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

I agree. I would like to project the dashboard on the Smartboard, but then students' email addresses would be right there for others to see.

6Give Lingot10•2 years ago

MrLeeSpanish

Why not use district emails? In the districts I've worked, every student has an email associated with their school ID.

1Give Lingot11•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Districts always provide staff with email addresses, but only one of the four I've worked for provided students with emails. Perhaps it depends on the software they use... the one who had it used SchoolLoop, the three that don't use Aeries. What programs did your districts use?

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Seen some great suggestions on here, hopefully the DL team will take them on board :)

1Give Lingot10•2 years ago

SoengJuHan 4 3

You are saying too much I dont understand at all

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MichaelPHenry 21 88

Can we make a BUTTON to add students to our sections? Right now they have to go to settings and it is complicated... Here are the directions i am giving to my followers:

How to join Cada Dia Spanish on Duolingo:

Go to My Profile > Settings > Progress Sharing (or use this link)

<https://www.duolingo.com/settings/observer>

Share progress with: CadaDiaSpanish@gmail.com

Section or Class: CadaDiaSpanish

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Thanks again Luis, Duolingo Dashboard and the Educators Forum are really fantastic. Suggestions:

It would be really nice if teachers could unlock skills that may be pertinent to what they are doing in class;

It would be nice if a little bell icon would light up next to students' usernames when they post in discussions;

It would be useful if the date when they studied would be indicated next to what they did. This has been suggested by others, but I'm repeating the request as it's important. Or as an alternative, I wish DL would have a weekly progress bar graph displayed on people's profile. I have a script but it hasn't been working for a long time. :(The script also showed people's trees, which would be useful for me as an educator.

24Give Lingot1•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8
Great suggestions

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Thanks. Luis said that they are going to add the dates soon. :) Idk about the other two.

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

bookrabbit 22 22 20 19 19 17 16 16 16 16 14 13 13 13 13 12 12 8 5 22

I really wish duolingo had been around when I was home educating my children. What you are doing is fantastic.

22Give Lingot14•2 years ago

Z.Shan 21 12 10 2 1205

I'm not a teacher, although I do tutor Chinese at the local Confucius Institute. I tried the Schools feature to track the learning progress of my family members, especially my sister's. Her school requires all the students learning French to go on Duolingo. It has become part of their official curriculum. After observation, here are two suggestions I have to raise:

Allow students to enroll in multiple sessions. Right now, my sister's school is not using the dashboard to track their students' progress, but some day they may. And as her brother, I would also like to know how she is doing at school. Alternatively, different language teachers at her school may want to track her progress in different language courses, for example, both French and Spanish.

Create a separate place for students to comment. I'm not quite sure how you can do this, but I know the problem is there. Children don't know the forum regulations, and may leave spam comments when they get bored, especially when they are forced to use Duolingo by their school teachers. To avoid clutter, or at least to reduce the workload of forum mods a little bit, the educators should be allowed to moderate the comments/posts of their students. It would be perfect if there would be a place for educators to follow all the activities of their students. This may also help educators answer their students' questions more quickly.

2015.01.16 EST

20Give Lingot10•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

In response to your second suggestion, your students' email address and name on the dashboard are linked to their profile. Therefore, all you need to do is click on them and the app will take you to their profile where you can read their comments in their activity streams. It would be nice if there were a little notification (such as the little yellow bell) that would give us a heads-up that they have posted.

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

Z.Shan 21 12 10 2 1205

Or a place like our "Activity" tab in the navigation bar. It will gather the posts of all students and give a better visual.

2015.01.17 EST

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Good idea. Right on the dashboard though, and only posts of our students.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

beardpower 20

I'm a university student who is trying to help build a Language Studies program at my school and I'm using this to not only learn languages myself, but to encourage my friends to learn. Right now, using the Teacher function helps me see what my friends are doing. Here are some suggestions after the first week of me using it:

1) A reminder button to send notifications to students (individual and mass) to practice their language(s). 2) A way to minimize and sort students by language being learned. As someone who is learning multiple languages and who has friends learning different languages, sorting to see who is doing which language and their progress in it would be beneficial. 3) A progress bar for each student on the Dashboard. I can see the total xp for the week they earn, what lesson they've done, etc..but I'd like to see how close they are to leveling up in their language and maybe how far they have advanced down the tree. 4) A "recommended skill" button to suggest to students a specific skill to work on. For example, if I wanted my students/friends to work on Plurals or Food, I could click the button to let them know (individually and/or collectively) to focus on that lesson for the week

I realize that these suggestions might be a lot of work, but that's what suggestions are for. I recommend Duolingo to pretty much everyone who has ever told me that they had an interest in a language and certainly to all of my friends, especially ones in university/college. I love the work you guys are doing and hope to see more great things in the future! Thank you so much!

13Give Lingot10•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Yes yes yes ! Love these suggestions, exactly would I would want as a teacher !

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

RosendoRGlez 13

Thank you Duolingo team. I hope you continue working very good this year and always. I think you can add largest audios or short videos to see real conversations in real situations like a job interview, order food in a restaurant, make a hotel reservation, asking for an address, etc. For example we can listen an audio o watch a video and try to translation all phrases in the conversation, something like that. Another idea is we can record an audio and send it to a teacher o educator and the teacher listen the audio and send us a feedback about our pronunciation and fluency. Thanks a lot and congratulations for your kind support to learn other languages.

7Give Lingot10•2 years ago

JulieEnevo 8 6 6

Does Duolingo for Schools address the problem for elementary-school students of limiting their access to the social media component of the platform? Is there even a way for a teacher to monitor students' connections with others?

7Give Lingot•2 years ago

sadfhrw 24 22 2

It is sad that this issue has to crop up... The "Discuss this sentence" screen is IMO very useful and I hate to see that students have to be banned from it due to "safety" concerns. Once we dreamed that the Internet will turn the whole world into one huge classroom. Seems humanity is not ready for it yet.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

palitroque77 8

I have the same question. Is only for younger elementary students that is a concern.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Yes! A teacher can disable social features in their settings next to their avatar in the main page. You can turn off their ability to participate in forums, activity streams and Immersion. :) Let us know if you need help, or access the Schools Help page (scroll down).

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

fernanc01

I have the same question

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

1179175583

Hi,

Technology integration teacher (with experience of reading intervention, special education, and language learning) here. I wanted to share my thoughts, coming from the ESL side of things.

Multiple teacher per student support is a must. Just look at the massive disgust of teachers across the country when Google launched Classroom with only single teacher support. In my school an ESL student has (or can have) classroom teachers, Intervention Specialists, ESL coordinator, and an ESL aide who all want to be able to access student information for support. Google Classroom does a bad job at this, Khan Academy is an example of one that does a great job at offering multiple "coaches".

It would be massively more relevant and helpful for any K-12 language learner to have access to the education lessons early on. It is not good practice for me ESL students to be practicing words like vegetarian, when words like "whiteboard, desk, pencil, marker, gym, hallway, bathroom, water fountain" etc are pivotal, and allows them much sooner to understand and make sense of the words they hear around them in their environment.

Spelling kills. I sat today with an ESL student trying to get him to write 3 sentences because he gets so stuck on spelling. You can ask many teachers, but when punish learners harshly for spelling. We have students (and there are adults out there too, some very bright) who are not great spellers. Duolingo will never be an option of a large portion of our ESL students because they will not be able to pass the lessons. Students with dyslexia or just a very poor sense of spelling. These kids are just cut off from Duolingo forever. I know on the iOS app you could tap words to put them into sentences. An option to set sentence writing to this style would work for those kids.

5 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

jsabindemedina 6

Insightful post, 1179175583. I teach in a rural, Title I school -- many students struggle with reading and spelling. Making the "tap words" feature available across all platforms would be a most-welcome upgrade (especially at the Basic and Intermediate skill levels) and would provide much needed support for struggling students. We introduced Duolingo one week ago and already students are reciting the basic phrases just for fun, sharing Duolingo with family and friends, proudly showing me their progress and golden trees, and asking "Are we going on Duolingo today?" I truly hope the momentum builds -- my hesitation is: Will the struggling students lose motivation if they get road-blocked by spelling? It's important to remember that beginning learners should be held accountable for Recall and Recognition and much, much less for Production. Thanks!

1 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Taryn_Temple 4

I agree with this discussion! My students like it and want to succeed, but they get held up and frustrated by the picky spelling criteria. It ruins their flow and they disengage.

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

MichaelPHenry 21 88

Great response "1179175583" - Teamwork in teaching is going to be required in future classes. Mentoring may be one teacher, but on the whole we are moving to a collaborative world.

Audio interaction is a must in language learning, and frankly I would suggest all learning needs that Socratic give and take. I would imagine Duolingo has some ideas or we may be able to link other resources, with more audio interaction. With great people like you suggesting changes, we will certainly advance our online teaching resources. ~Michael

0 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

dlansberry 5

Thank you so much for offering this. I just started using the dashboard with me AP Spanish class today. I teach High School Spanish 2, 3, AP, and French 1. I used Duolingo with all of them last year so it will be great to be able to track online now.

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

DkBybee 13 11 6 2

Wow! I wish this program was available when I took French in high school. You may be glad to know that 25+ years later the vocabulary is coming back, almost like muscle memory.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

CarmenZaragoza 10 6

I just want to thank the Duolingo team for such an amazing resource for teachers. My students are fully engaged and really enjoy using it. What I miss right now is to be able to merge two accounts so that I don't lose my progress and friends in my personal account. I don't know why I chose a different email address when I registered as a teacher :(

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

kellymeredith1 12

I just did the same thing, I hope I don't regret it! I'm new to Duolingo.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MrCardona 11 5

I can finally stop my students from repeating easy lessons! Many of my students would decide to just repeat Basics 1 over and over again to meet their daily XP goals. I've now made it very clear to them that they will only get credit for assigned lessons. I've been waiting for this for a long time and it was great to finally see what lessons each student is actually completing. I have 60 students so it has always been difficult to keep track.

4Give Lingot1•2 years ago

fernanc01

How can you assign lessons?

Thanks

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Simple! Write it on the board. Tell them during the lesson. Post it on your school's gradebook system (Aeries, SchoolLoop, whatever your school uses). Then you can check on the dashboard if they have done it or not.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

FJoyB 11 5

It's nice to see the new forum section here!

I do math tutoring occasionally and, especially in math, have found it really useful to be able to see how much time a student is putting into the work. So, perhaps we could see a running total of the time each student spends added to the dashboard at some point.

Ideally, it would also help to see when a student worked on things. I've had at least one student who would put a lot of time into his homework, but he did all of it at the end of the week when I was coming back to tutor him; naturally this didn't work out very well. So, something like this might help to pinpoint why a student might not be doing as well as the data suggests.

~~~~~

Also, progress reports would be nice. Perhaps you already do that and I just have them turned off for some reason; if not, those would be useful from a teacher's perspective and for a student to receive each week. (Maybe they can set an optional goal to try to beat the amount of points they earned the previous week...)

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

aegisnyc 13 6

I second that--I'd love to see a report on ACTIVE TIME SPENT on site. I don't care if they're practicing or taking a lesson. I just would like to see them work.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Mrs.McKinney 16 3 67

Here are my suggestions:

could there be a generic letter print out available so we can send home a little letter with the student's username and password? I'm using this in an elementary school and am writing my own letter to send home explaining duolingo and how they can use it at home could there be a class forum where students in the same class can comment?

for younger students I think they would like if the little owl or some little character is on the screen when they do lessons.

another activity other than just lesson or flashcards (especially something that feels like a game)

Thank you for making this program available for free! Keep up the good work!

4Give Lingot14•2 years ago

FrauKnapp 12 2

Hi! When does progress tracking for a particular week END? I want to assign an XP amount for my students to earn by a certain date/time, but I do not know when the week ends, according to Duolingo.

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

bbeattie 11

This is my third year to use Duolingo for my Spanish class. The first year I used it with my second year students. They all agreed that they learned more in that year than in the year before I discovered Duolingo.

One of the things I miss is the vocabulary list that was grouped by topic and lesson. It made it easy to create vocabulary lists for my kids to double check before testing off line. I also miss the verb conjugation charts that were tied to each verb in the vocabulary lists. I used to be able to view the progress chart or tree and see where they were in completing the different sections. (Like knowing that one student hadn't completed the required topic by the test date.

I LOVE this program. My kids are able to translate more than ever before and have more confidence in their ability to understand and learn Spanish. The fact that you can use the phone app is also a great bonus.

3Give Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

I want a chatroom of students and their teacher

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

tinavienna 12 5

Dear colleagues abroad,

I teach grade 5 beginners English class (11 year olds) in Vienna, Austria. Would anyone be interested in connecting our pupils as pen pals?

Greetings,

tinavienna

3Give Lingot1•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Great idea!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

lingo.berry 17 4 3 2

I am slightly confused on start Duolingo for Schools. Could anybody help?

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I put together a user guide, you can give it a try HERE. It's a bit rough around the edges, but, hopefully it helps. :)

10Give Lingot•2 years ago

lingo.berry 17 4 3 2

Thanks much.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Mrs.Sudbrock 9

As well as using DL at home with my own children, I have also recommended it to my Jr. High students (Germans learning English ). I look forward to seeing how we can best integrate this program into our school English department.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

EllieJaneHart95 16 13 9 6 6 5 4

I am so happy that this is happening! I am an English schools worker, living and working in Germany. I teach classes from year 5 to year 10 and I've been telling my older classes that they should use Duolingo. Now I have a solid way to see that they are using it! I haven't got any student's on it yet, so I can't point out flaws or give any solid feedback, I just want to say thank you that this has been introduced!

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

aruizlhs 11

I am a Spanish teacher currently I am teaching Spanish 3,4 and 5 at a high school level. Thank you for creating this great feature for teachers. In the future I would like to be able to see the type of grammar that students are practicing in each lesson and also if they are having difficulties understanding the topic. I progress report will be also a great help. Thank you again for creating a free tool for students to learn and practice a new language.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

15lopezlbj 9

Does anyone know of a method to alphabetize the name in dashboard? This would be sooooo helpful. Thank you.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

We'll have this soon!

4Give Lingot10•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

More kudos and lingots to you! That will be really helpful. Thank you! :)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

fernanc01

Can I block the discussion and immersion sections for my students? if so how??

Thanks

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4

I just introduced this into my Spanish I classes today offering extra credit for leveling up a certain amount of times and challenging my classes to compete against each other for the most levels completed. However, I have already run into one major problem, one annoyance, and another problem:

1) Students tried to "cheat" by testing out of every level to earn a ridiculous amount of points (they used the Internet for answers). Well, now I can't figure out how to reset their account to zero so they can legitimately participate in our contests. Please have a way teachers can undo testing / work if they know students did it dishonestly. Or have a way users can reset their own accounts without eliminating their account or link to gmail and I'll have the students do that. (Or is there already a way to do this??)

2) Can there please be a quick and easy way for me to get from my own Duolingo home screen to the teacher dashboard? On one of the drop-down menus (preferably the one under my name) can it just say "Dashboard" somewhere?

3) As mentioned by many on this forum, we need separate links to teacher accounts for separate languages. One student wants to learn Italian, too, but I don't want her Italian lessons to count toward the Spanish class totals.

Trust high school kids to figure out how to outsmart the system already. :) Now please just help me outsmart them!

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

1) Have a serious talk with your students about the futility of cheating and the consequences. Cheating is like telling lies; sooner or later it will be discovered. Last year I caught a kid who was making enormous progress in XPs; he had found a way to "hack" DL through a glitch that occurs if one's wi-fi connection is lost in the middle of a lesson. He ended up with a zero on a big assignment and had to sit with his parents in front of one of our vice principals. If the same thing happened at university, they simply would throw you out.

2) In Chrome (Opera too), all I have to do is move my cursor into the address bar and type "d" and already the whole URL appears; click on it, and the browser takes you to the page. I can type 50 wpm but I never get to type even "dash;" the response is immediate! It takes much longer to use a bookmark.

3) I'm personally not bothered by seeing students' progress in other languages; there's enough info there for me to evaluate their progress in Spanish. I'd love to be able to see their trees as well as a bar graph of daily progress, but I've actually created a printable version that my students fill out weekly to show me where they are in the tree. I'll share that soon in a separate post.

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4

Now that I see that the other languages are tallied separately from the Spanish I'm fine with them practicing other languages! I thought it would just have their tallies all together, I didn't realize a little heading would tell me what language they were practicing. Now that I see what it looks like on the Dashboard I can tally what I need to, so hooray for all languages! (Plus I'm thinking I might start using Duolingo to learn some Italian...it's always been a dream of mine to add that to my foreign language repertoire. :)

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

They implemented some changes today! Isn't that wonderful? We talk and they listen. Luis, are you and your team listening? You're awesome! :)

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4

Agreed, the new Dashboard is much more user-friendly and gives me good additional data.

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1249

Good points.

Cheating, testing out.

Maybe you could set the extra credits just on a per-lesson basis? Two lessons or something?

Resetting a tree: <https://www.duolingo.com/settings/direction>, then "reset or remove languages".

However, caution (!), this removes the whole progress of a tree.

Quick way to access dashboard.

This would be great. However, a bookmark to <https://dashboard.duolingo.com> would do the trick in the meantime.

One students, many teachers.

Yes! Actually, a student can just subscribe to one teacher. If your students takes an Italian class and subscribes to that teacher, it automatically unsubscribes the student from your class. That I would even consider a major design flaw.

edit: typos, formating.

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4

I'm okay with erasing their entire tree for cheating. They didn't actually learn the info, they just looked it up online. That's the penalty for pretending to know things you don't and trying to find loopholes to win.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Why not make the Test Outs timed ? That way, it will really separate out those who really know their stuff and just want to advance more quickly and those, like your students, who use the internet for answers !!

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4

They're using Duolingo completely outside of class as an enrichment activity so I don't have any control of how long they take or what other screens they have open as they use it.

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Hence my suggestion to time the Test Out (for Duolingo to do). As really, if you're going for a Test Out, you know your stuff and should be able to do it against the clock no problem - not too much "against" the clock but enough to stop students being able to google the answers !!

0Give Lingot1•2 years ago

15lopezlbj 9

I appreciate the expanded ability to filter students and languages. Thank you.
2 suggestions:

Can we separate and filter students by Last name as well. Presently, I am making them all change their names to LastName, FirstName format for ease.

Can we get an export option. That way I could possibly manipulate data how I please.
Just something else to think about-- I am using the Spanish to English with Heritage Speakers and they are loving that they are learning English. Many are recommending Duolingo to their Spanish speaking family members to learn English at home as well. Targeting and accommodating English Language Learners (ELL's) could take duolingo out of foreign language classrooms and into Core Subject language arts classrooms. I am recommending it to our ESL teachers. Kudos to you guys.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

ToddPhillips 20 19 16 12 11 11 10 7 12

There is also a separate duolingo app for a semi-official english Language test. You have to keep your face in the camera while you do the duolingo test and even need to take a picture of your liscence to verify ID. It's pretty nifty.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

castaner 21 20 15 11 8 6 5 2 305

This is extremely interesting. What is the app called?

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

cdntr 18 12 12 10 4

It's called Duolingo Test Center. You can find it at <https://testcenter.duolingo.com>

There's a web app, as well as apps for iPhone/iPad and Android. There's also a short video explaining the idea.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Pegasus278 8 5

Hi there, my name is Laura and I am a student at the University of Michigan. I love using Duolingo and I believe it is a very beneficial site. While browsing the site, I noticed it is basically ran by the users when it comes to translations. I understand this is a way to keep the site running free of cost, but I sometimes feel unsure about some of the words I am learning because of this. For example, Spanish is a very diverse language among latin cultures, therefore it is generalized within the different Spanish's but the user would not be able to fully communicate the language in all latin-based places speaking Spanish because some words are used differently then others and different things are called different names by different Spanish-speaking areas. How are the users sure of the learned languages and translations when they are being translated by its own Duolingo users? How accurate are the languages learned?

Thank you, Laura

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Hi Laura,

Duolingo teaches a little less than 2,000 words of Latin American Spanish. It is not intended to cover all words a person will need to know in order to become fluent. Duolingo is best when combined with other resources, such as a class or other online resources, and when people utilize everything there is to offer (such as discussion, the Immersion and Words feature, as well as conversing with others via Activity). Some folks have finished their course and tested out of 2nd year university level language courses, some one year, some one term. So, personal factors come into play, such as ability to retain etc. for how much an induale will benefit. The official study showed that in 34 hours of study, Duolingo is the equivalent of 1 university semester. Source.

Many of Duolingo's course moderators are graduate students and I believe one requirement is fluency in both languages for the courses they are building. Additionally, the courses have a paid staff mentor, who is a language expert.

That said, errors happen just like with any other course. Once a course enters phase 2 (beta) it is released for public participation. At this stage there are often many errors because the course is still in the process of error checking. Once a course graduates to Phase 3, it is a full fledged course and it receives (someone please check my number) fewer than 3 error reports per 100 people happening across the sentence. Many of these remaining error reports are not viable reports. Even still, Duolingo continues to collect and process reports to continuously improve the courses.

While Duolingo teaches only Latin America Spanish, it accepts alternative dialects for answers.

I do not work in the Incubator, so some of my information could be off. Hopefully someone will correct me if that is the case. However, this is the information as I currently understand it. So, I hope this helps! :)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Pegasus278 8 5
Thanks a bunch! This helps a ton :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ToddPhillips 20 19 16 12 11 11 10 7 12

When you guys assess Duolingo, do you usually do a combination of progress on new skills and xp? I was doing just xp for awhile because duolingo schools didn't exist. I just gave students a meter to gradually color in and told them that the more new skills they added, the more their duolingo would correspond to what we were doing in class. (You don't want to be stuck back on jobs when in class we are doing the subjunctive, you'd want to be also doing subjunctive for the extra practice.).

anyhow, now that there is duolingo schools, I see that doing basics 1 over and over again is more prevalent than I thought.

Please comment any means you've found for assessing well.

Thanks

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

DerekMcCloud 18 1

I mostly measure students by their XP. I actually don't mind if they review a lesson multiple times. I assume that they needed the extra practice. Perfect practice makes perfect. Most students want to learn, they will get bored if they never make progress. I made a custom test for my students to take next week. It will be on the time lesson on up...meaning all of the lessons up to the time part. This test also helps ensure that students are moving forward. I hope this helps. Cheers!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ToddPhillips 20 19 16 12 11 11 10 7 12

I agree that they should be strengthening old skills, but I am seeing basics one done nine times in a row (on the phone so they are still earning 10xp per lesson) for a couple students. I am not OK with that! A Spanish 3 student should not be hearing el hombre, la mujer over and over. At some point they need to move on. That said, would it be possible to offer differing number of xp to students for strengthening a skill?

Ex: strengthening a gold skill = 0xp or 1 xp. Strengthening a skill with one bar missing = 3 xp with 2 bars missing = 5 xp. with 3 bars missing 7 xp with 4 bars missing = 9 xp. New skill = 10xp

Thanks

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

I think this grading system could be really valuable, giving people a push to go further!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Caterpillar2014 14 4 4 3 2

Thank you! It's already super useful for tracking our studies.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

ajooron 13 9

This is sooo helpful, thank you. My whole school is using Duolingo and this year I bought a trophy for the Duolingo champion. I made some certificates but it would be nice to have a template with the logo. One comment: one of my very clever student cracked the system and managed to see all the answers! There must be a loop hole. Also, is there a way to stop students to spend their time on the discussion button instead of doing their work?

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

I think a feature which might help students to push forward and advance their skills would be if they could see how far they were from the next level - this might spur them to greater progress if they knew they were only one or two practices away!

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1249

Isn't this already covered by the tree? Unless you are talking about different levels.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

Sorry yes - I meant the numerical levels, as opposed to the different skills (I never know when I'm going to level up, which can be a nice surprise but it can also encourage me to focus more on practicing what I've already seen instead of advancing)

1Give Lingot2•2 years ago

FJoyB 11 5

Yes, this used to be a feature, but somehow it's disappeared within the last year or so. I think it would be nice to have back, too. =)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Yes I agree :) it would be a good incentive to keep them going ...

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

jorma1998b 17 11

I teach Sp 9-12 and celebrate this new feature. While checking my Facebook found this link about 11 channels to learn Spanish in Youtube, none of them was Duolingo! We need to establish this community in Facebook too, gee. <http://www.fluentu.com/spanish/blog/learn-spanish-on-youtube/>

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Thanks for the link.

There are already several FB Duolingo groups - here's the link to the Spanish one : <https://www.facebook.com/groups/DuolingoSpanishLearners/?ref=ts&fref=ts>

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

profegross 3

Thank you! I've been waiting for something like this for a long time. It's a phenomenal way to give my advanced students something to do with extra class time, review old skills, and have fun with the language. All 110 of my students are using it.

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

kmillien

I am so grateful to have found this website, I have use other programs in the pass but Duolingo has solve most of ours problems. I teach at a private school where there isn't much funding and the computers are limited. So I love the fact that the students can download this program on any device and use any type of headphones. Programs that we've paid for in the pass does not give us the amount of options that Duolingo provides. Best of all students love it cause its fun. I am a new language teacher and this program helps students reiterate what has been taught as well as help me give out assignments. Thanks so so so much. Duolingo has been a life saver. What I would like to see is, the amount of hours a students spent on their assignments and an option to learn Japanese.

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

SenoraGuetzko 7

Margaret Guetzko from Highland High School in Iowa. All my students are working on Duolingo and really seem to enjoy it! They all started at the beginning level to get a feel for the program and are happy people learning! Thank you Duolingo!

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

larimar7 8

First of all I must thank you team! I'm teaching Japanese in China, in fact, most of my students do not love English ,Because in China , we have to study it hardly from very early time.So students try to learn their favourite things except English,.But as a teacher,I always chat with those kids,and tell them the importance of the English in the work or further study,although they have knew it clearly. Now I can show them Duolingo,and let them learn their favorite Japanese and English at the same time,it's really a good way for my lovely students and me! That also make me realize the importance of Everyday-Listening .

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

DoryFish 13 5 1

Thank you for this extension of Duolingo. An interesting feature for the students would be to be able to ask their teacher about errors they made during practice (that they could transmit the error(s) in question and ask their teacher about it).

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

ReaganJH 4

why is there so much adults on Duolingo there should be more kids.

1 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

Santos_Priscilla 4

I am Portuguese as Second Language's teacher in Brazil and teach to the Middle School, in School of the Nations. I'm using Duolingo in PSL classes for four weeks, and students are more interested and engaged in our classes. They are using the DL even when we do not have classes. I am so happy with the results. I am learning about the Dashboard for Educator yet. In same time, I am learning English with Duolingo, and I like it so much. Thanks for all!

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

castaner 21 20 15 11 8 6 5 2 305

Good morning everyone, My name is Angel Castaner, and I am an ESL teacher in the Washington, DC area. At the moment I am teaching advanced level reading and writing to a great variety of students, and am constantly looking for new ways to incorporate technology into the classroom.

I've recently completed two language trees on DL (German and Italian) and absolutely love the ease with which one can improve their language skills. For this reason I was hoping to include Duolingo into my teaching, but I've encountered a problem I was hoping could be addressed.

In short, I have an extremely diverse group of students from all over the world, which means that for some, the prevailing Native Language ---> English model would be unavailable. What I would be interested to see is a "English ---> English" tree, where the goal would not necessarily be learning a new language, but improving skills within one. Explanations could be posted in simplified English to get students thinking about grammatical structures and proper word order and sentence structure. Is this possible? Does anyone know if something like this already exists? I look forward to hearing back from you all!

Angel

1Give Lingot10•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

English<>English course does not exist at this time. Duolingo's Incubator is not set up to create a course like that at this time either because it is based on translating a sentence or word from one language into another. Also have some lingots to use for rewarding your students. :)

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

castaner 21 20 15 11 8 6 5 2 305

Thanks for your reply (and the lingots). Any ideas for how I could use this program with students whose native language isn't on the site?

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I don't. Not unless there is a course that goes from a language they already know to English. Here is a list of all courses in all phases on Duolingo (Students can begin using a course once it hits Phase 2 (beta ) It will be have more mistakes than a course in Phase 3 though.
<https://www.duolingo.com/courses/all>

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

stephmauge 8

I have created a class and have had my students join it via the link but I cannot see their detailed progress on my dashboard. I do not have the pill shaped button on the top right end corner to change progress views. Do I need to do an update of some sort? Thank you!

1Give Lingot13•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hi steph! Please check out the newest version of Duolingo for Schools launched today. It should be much easier to switch between views! :)

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

KristinaCarvey 11 5

Is there a way to move students into the sections you've created when they accidentally create their own?

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

DerekMcCloud 18 1

Yes. First tell them to pay attention better. Ha ha. I had some students do this. 1) Go to settings 2) Go to Progress Sharing 3) Retype the section or class. (BTW This is case sensitive!) 4) Make sure it's linked to your email. Good luck!

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

Hola. I teach pre-K through high school Spanish 2 (9th grade). I use Duolingo as a regular homework requirement and would LOVE it if Duolingo would somehow notify me with bells and whistles when a student finishes all lessons/skills on the Spanish tree. I have had four students complete the tree in the last month and I was not aware that they finished. (They came to class and told me, but I didn't know via the Duolingo dashboard.) I like to recognize them for this awesome accomplishment but need to know when it occurs. I teach 150 students so it isn't reasonable that I can individually track each of their trees. Mil gracias.

1Give Lingot11•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

I've been using Duolingo as required homework practice for my Jr High Spanish students. It is an awesome tool! Thank you for making it available! Every Monday I print their reports to track homework credit. A couple weeks ago I didn't get my weekly reports on Monday, and you Duolingo wizards got that glitch worked out for last week's reports. However, today I don't have reports again. Could you help me get a printable option for weekly reports? Printing the dashboard reports weekly would be ideal.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

Our weekly emails are going out right now, sorry about the delay!

As far as a data export function is concerned, we are hoping to work on that soon, so stay tuned!

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2
Gracias

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

paoandrearias 8
Hello! I am an English teacher in Colombia and I invite my students to learn English using this program, at the same time, I am learning French! :D This program is just great! I love it! Thank you.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

SenoraRousos 9
Hi there, is there a way to change the name of a class under our dashboard? I have classes that will be in a different grade and would like to keep the same link. Thank you!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347
Yes! On this page you can hover over each class and you'll see a tiny gear icon show up on the bottom right of the square of the class. Click on it to rename the classroom. :]

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

peplinse 14
Very excited to start using Duo Lingo with elementary. How young have other users tried it?

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
The youngest I've come across is 3 years old. That discussion is Here :)

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

EmilyDaly0 6
I use this in my language classroom and would love to see an option to pause mid lesson. Many of my students have complained about losing work due to spotty connectivity or needing to stop in the middle of a lesson for whatever reason. They have all be redirected to start the whole lesson from the beginning, and get frustrated when the whole motivation is to make progress and count XP points.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2
I agree - I know that you can't sub-divide lessons infinitely, but if there was a possibility to either save lessons part way or quit mid-lesson with partial XP credit, I think that'd be really useful

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

LoneMurph 18 5

English for Arabic speakers on the app version. Is this available? A Kuwaiti student of mine couldn't find it on the app version. I'm excited to get my class signed up for Duolingo for Schools! Thanks! - Jon

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Yes, it is! Tell him/her to select "add a course." Which app do they use?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

FrauBau 10

Is there a limit to the number of sections I can have? I have three successfully completed and number 4 is not showing up. Most of us would need five - seven sections for schools. This is a very interesting tool for us - particularly for differentiating learners. It will never be the core of my classroom teaching - but might well transform my classroom time into real spoken language practice which is not as well accomplished by Duolingo.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

Hi, there is not limit in terms of sections. Are you sure you added students to the fourth one?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

FrauBau 10

Got it - period 6 has not yet met, so the students have not yet entered. That is what I needed to know.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

JuliaTMBowie 9 6

I am an ESL and Russian language teacher. I just started using the dashboard for my ESL 1 class. The student's reaction has been very positive. They like seeing their native languages as the site language. Here is a question. I have 2 students from Georgia in my ESL 1 class. They have some knowledge of Russian and are also enrolled in my Russian 1 class. I made Russian their site language. How do they type responses in Russian? Otherwise, thanks for a great resource!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

On a Mac you can easily change the keyboard language; look for an icon at the top of your screen next to the clock. If they are already familiar with the QWERTY keyboard, have them select Russian - Phonetic. In Windows 8.1, look on the lower right. You can find a brief tutorial by just googling "changing the keyboard language in (add your OS)."

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

It would be really useful to be able to upload documents for translation in specific groups - I find that often when I put something useful for my students up, by the time they get there the community has already done most of the work. Clearly Duolingo is a victim of its own success!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

marianneleirvik 12 10 6

Thanks Duolingo for making the school feature. :) This has made it so much easier for me to track the progress of my students. I teach Spanish in Norway, so I hope it will one day be possible to learn Spanish via Norwegian, but learning via English works fine for now.

However, I have encountered a problem. When the students click the link I have generated for my group they don't always arrive at the Progress tracking site. They have to manually click it via settings and then the info in the link is already filled in, but it's not possible to click Save changes before they write something and then erase it again.

As a suggestion I miss being able to sort by the different categories at the top, like xp points and name. Also I wish it wasn't possible to do the same lesson over and over or that I would be able to delete the points they get for doing the same lesson several times.

Thanks again! I'm looking forward to the new developments on Duolingo.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

Their section is set by them clicking on the link.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

It would also be able to have some more control over the activity feed - prioritising certain types of information (for example levelling up) or certain students (if you've identified a student with particular difficulties, it's good to be able to follow them a little more closely)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Trudi.M

I created students accounts last week but this morning I logged on to the Dashboard and none of my students had achievements. Last night two had completed the basics with one working particularly hard and completed two basic units earning 150+ XPs. What has happened?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

Most likely because the reporting period changed from last week to this week. You can change the dates in the top right side.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

FrauKnapp 12 2

WHEN does the reporting period start/end? I am assuming it ends at 12 midnight on Sunday according to the dates on the top right side... but WHEN on Sunday? (Time zone?)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

It seems to me that it resets on Sundays at 7:00pm EST, 4:00pm PST. This is midnight UTC between Sunday and Monday. A clean slate for the new week.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Tuminu 13 3

I don't know if this is me being unobservant or what but once you generate a link for a class in the teachers section I can't see a way of generating the same link again. Help?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

Just do it over with the same section.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Silvia241276 6

Est ce que ce forum est specific que pour les enseignants ? Ou pour tous...

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

marronne 11 9 8

Ce forum est specific pour les enseignants. Si vous alliez à la rubrique "discussion" en haut de la page, vous trouveriez tous les discussions "générales" :)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Sra.Mitchell

I love this! Thank you so much for incorporating the class feature! Receiving the reports in my email really saves me some time :-)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

FrauKnapp 12 2

Can you tell when exactly the reporting period ends? I am trying to set a due date/time for my kids, and I am confused.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Mundaysa 19 11 7 167

In my experience, it resets on Sundays at 7:00 pm, so if a student does a lesson after that time, it will count as Monday. I wonder if this is different in other time zones. I live in the East Coast of the US.

2Give Lingot1•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Yes, that makes sense. So they reset it at midnight UTC (Greenwich Mean Time) between Sunday and Monday. This occurs Sunday at 7:00 pm EST, 4:00 pm PST, etc.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

FrauKnapp 12 2

Thank you Mundaya! That is the information I was looking for! :)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Sra.Mitchell

Looks to me like they start on Mondays and end on Sundays.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Sra.Vallejo 10

I started doing duolingo with one class through duolingo.com. I asked my students to send me their e-mail address so I could send an invitation from my account. They started following me, I am following them back, this way I can see their progress. So far I have seven students. Then for my other class, I did it through dashboard.duolingo.com. I did it using my phone, the screen is little so I missed how to do the different sections, and I ended up creating three for the same class. So far I have three students. I think I will have to give directions again to this class, because I asked them first to go to duolingo.com and look for my section name, they could not find me. Now I have the link for this particular class on the school website; I am also advising them to go to dashboard.duolingo.com and look for my section name in case the link doesn't work.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Ms.Meyer 9

I would like to start assigning weekly Duolingo homework for my middle school students. Does anyone have any suggestions on how many XP points or levels for them to reach? I'm still not completely clear on how someone move from one level to the next, so it seems like having them complete 50 XP points per week seems reasonable and doable... most have already started so are on different lessons. Thanks!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

BBeLCJ 7

How can my students using a tablet add their specific course for my progress monitoring?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hi BBeLCJ, do you mean they are using an app? If they are unable to send you an invite to view their progress, you can email them a link where they can click and accept your offer to view their progress via email. There are instructions in this User Guide ^_^

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

MmeParkey 9

Hello all! I'm a new teacher at my school and I've decided to pilot Duolingo with my French students. :) I'm trying to use it in the same way that my fellow English teachers use Membean (for those of you who know about this awesome app!). So, I'm leaving my students with some simple requirements: get a minimum of 70 XP per week in at least 4 different skills.

On the teacher dashboard, it lists the weeks from Monday to Sunday, so I set their assignment to be due by Sunday, but in reality the teacher dashboard resets to the next week on Sunday! :O That's extremely confusing considering that it's linked to dates! Some of my students have worked on Sunday assuming that that day counts towards their goal (& I assumed that also based on the way the dashboard lists the weeks)... Is there a way to fix/change this so that it is more transparent?

Merci! :D

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

FrauKnapp 12 2

I think it synchs at about 7pm EST. I made my due "time" at 4pm on Sundays (with heavy encouraging to get it done Saturday), and it seems to work. Only a few kids seem to have done it "late" this week.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

MmeParkey 9

Thank you Frau! :) For now I'm just going to have the XP due every Sat. to avoid any time zone issues. :)

Duolingo, please give us the option to change the time zone that we're in and to set how we'd like to see our weekly breakdown.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 10

Duolingo is used all over the world, so they chose UTC as their time zone (rather than EST where their offices are located). I'm glad you came up with a way to work around this little inconvenience. So, yes, the week changes at midnight UTC so that's 7:00 pm EST.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

MmeParkey 9

Ah!!!! That makes more sense. :P

I still think that Duolingo should give us the ability to change when we want our dashboards to reset. :) What if a teacher wants their students to finish their XP by Friday? There's no way to change it currently.

Having a time zone feature is definitely important! :)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1249

You get an email report every Monday. I assume this also contains all of the last Sunday. On the dashboard, you can select the week(s) before (upper right).

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

MrLeeSpanish

When will it be possible to access the dashboard in the app?

Also, is there LMS integration in the future? (Blackboard, Schoology, Edmodo)

OGive Lingot1•2 years ago

KulhaneckCamille 5

j'arrive pas a parler couramment anglais car j'ai que 10 ans

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4

So in order to experience Duolingo as my students are experiencing it I started to learn Italian and I have some critiques to offer. 1) Love the picture choices, that's a great format because they see pictures, hear the language, plus it is easy to get right. 2) I got SO frustrated with the "Select the missing word" and "Listening" questions because there are NO resources for you to look anything up and they are SUPER picky about spelling. If I miss even one little "i" not only do I not gain points, but I'm knocked back on my total. I actually gave up after a while because I was getting so mad. I kept getting listening question after listening question, I could not figure out how to spell anything, so I lost so many points I was basically back to the beginning. Like I said, I quit in frustration. Please either have less of those questions, provide some sort of dictionary (like the word hover that you offer with the typing ones), or don't make me lose points when I get things wrong! Or if a student is failing miserably at these types of questions give them less of these types of questions. Grrrrr! 3) That's my overall gripe--that students lose points when they get answers wrong. It's so disheartening. STUDENTS SHOULD NOT LOSE PROGRESS FOR GETTING THINGS WRONG, THEY SHOULD JUST NOT ADVANCE. This is my biggest frustration and my biggest piece of advice. 4) The lesson rarely actually taught me the words I needed, it just expected me to know them. A listening or translate question would pop up with verb forms I'd never seen before, there were no additional resources on the page, and I'd be penalized for guessing incorrectly. How can I learn it if I'm never presented with the material first? There should be a way to through the vocabulary of the lesson before you start having to answer questions about it (possibly getting points for going through it), or have a lesson-specific pop-up dictionary always available. 5) Overall waaaaay too much of an emphasis on perfectly correct spelling. I have special education students who are not good typists or spellers but they know what things mean. More multiple choice, matching, pictures, etc. questions would be appreciated so ALL students can use this resource.

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kymika

Thank you Duolingo !!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! :D

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

LanaFrazie 13 10 1

My name is Lana Frazier. I teacher French/Spanish at Gatesville High School in Gatesville, Tx. I have a question regarding XP's. I have some students refreshing their basic skills. Do they receive less points when they have already done these units previously? Thanks for your responses.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

deadkite 12 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 3 3 2 2
they do. I think they only get 3 XP

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Judah_ 8 2

My name is Arthea and I just won't to say Thank you Guy's very much, I think Duolingo is the best way to learn a language and it's free, I'm going to be traveling in the near future so I won't to know the languages of the countries that I'm going to be traveling to and so this is the best way for me. I plan on being fluent in all the languages I attempt to learn, thank you and may God bless y'all

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

MaryE.Ober 11

I'm newly a French teacher (after years of music/directing), with one class of 24 middle schoolers in HS level French I... When I set up my school account here, the invite I got in my school email said welcome to learning Spanish? I did go back and add "French from English" to my profile, but how do I make sure the link I generate to invite students is linking them to the right option, the French from English?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

HannahRoy 20 13 10 8 4 2

I think they individually choose what language to learn. All my students are in a single class, and we have English from Chinese, English from Japanese, English from Spanish, and Spanish from English. Some even signed up for German from English or Italian from English in addition (not as part of my class, but on their own profiles).

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

HannahRoy 20 13 10 8 4 2

Hi everyone! I'm a middle school ESL teacher in Nashville, TN. I have been letting several of my native Spanish speakers use Duolingo to practice English in class. I have a problem though. For the ones who attended school in Latin America, they can read and write Spanish, and thus fully participate in English Duolingo. For the ones who were born here in the U.S. but speak primarily Spanish at home, almost none of them can read Spanish (SO SAD!!). Does anyone else have this problem? I let them sign up with English accounts to learn Spanish; even though they already speak Spanish, I want them to read it--even though they're in my class to learn English. Can anyone else relate or give suggestions? Thanks!

0Give Lingot11•2 years ago

dlansberry 5

Could you have them do English to Spanish? I have my heritage speakers doing that in my Spanish class. Even though they speak Spanish, this program is helping them with the reading and writing.

The translation activities builds their English and Spanish at the same time. I had them start with the placement test.

0Give Lingot11•2 years ago

Ms.Meyer 9
HELP!

I'm trying to set up a class on my Duolingo Dashboard, but many students are not appearing when they clicked the link I generated for their section. I created a "fake" account to try it out myself (I thought they just were clicking "cancel" instead of "allow"), but I couldn't get my fake account to appear in my real teacher Dashboard either- I tried both clicking on the generated link and manually adding the progress sharing under the settings.

Anyone else have this problem or have an idea of how to fix it? Thank you!

0Give Lingot12•2 years ago

Taryn_Temple 4
Many of my students had to click the generated link twice for me, one time to make their account and then a 2nd time to link that account with mine. Try having the students just click that generated link a second time after they've made their account and see if that works. (When they click the link a second time they will need to "accept" or "agree" or something so that you can follow them.)

0Give Lingot10•2 years ago

nussa000 8
Hi..please could any one tell me how to sign in for a Spanish teaching course ?

0Give Lingot12•2 years ago

AdrianZamora0
I am super confused on how I log in to my the dashboard. I put in my username and password but cannot find my students! It just shows me as a user. I have it bookmarked at school but not at home and I cannot see their progress.

Also, I have had no success in receiving support. Has anyone else ever tried to e-mail for certain problems and received a response?

0Give Lingot12•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Hi Oxandale, I'm not a tech but I did put together an amatuer userguide if you want to check it out HERE I hope this helps!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

deadkite 12 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 3 3 2 2
Hello i am Sam and I teach French and German classes. I am happy with this place

0Give Lingot10•2 years ago

MrBrewster 2

I would like to use Duolingo with my year 4s but because it is not a closed system it will be possible for them to interact with anyone through the app and this concerns me. Is it possible to have accounts that can only interact with people in the class or the teacher and not "the outside world"?

OGive Lingot13•2 years ago

krista.keller 11 6

I'm in the same position... I want to use it with my 4th graders. I'm wondering if there is a way that the teacher can create one login for the class so that the class is contained in a closed system and do not need their email to get on. This would be so great for elementary level!

OGive Lingot17•2 years ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

You can change your students' privacy settings in your Schools dashboard so they cannot access forums, post on user stream. You can also block Immersion for them. Check out the Schools help page and scroll down to "What privacy features are offered?"

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

iceman0426 10

My Dashboard changed back to the previous version. The new version I just had told me how many skills and lessons students had done and I could sort them. How do I switch back to that version?

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

We temporarily switched users with large classrooms back to the old version, since the dashboard takes a long time to load when there are more than 100 students. We are currently working on making it faster and should be able to switch everybody to the new version towards the end of the week. Sorry for the inconvenience!

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

iceman0426 10

Mine hasn't switched back yet. I am fine with the speed it was going before. Can my account be switched to the new version? Especially with the large number of students I have on here, the old version is making it VERY difficult to track them.

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

We just switched everybody to the new version! Sorry again for the inconvenience.

OGive Lingot•2 years ago

embeam1992 8

I am so excited this feature is being added! I tried using duolingo for my Spanish classes. I was a great review at first for my Spanish 2 but I felt it started off really advanced for a beginner. For me, I wish I could put the levels in the order I wanted them or type in a small item I am covering and a bubble be generated for me.

0Give Lingot14•2 years ago

iceman0426 10

Is there a way to see students' current levels? I thought it was in the new group view, but I don't see it any more. It made it very easy to see if students had reached the levels they were assigned. Can that be added back?

0Give Lingot15•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 9 1094

I have 4 500 lingots. I would like to donate these to the school course to reward young students when a teacher deems it appropriate. The logistics would appear to be a nightmare though! Three keystrokes to give one lingot away - 13 500 keystrokes in total. And who would the recipient be?

I am also willing to help here as a tutor - but only with Dutch, English and Portuguese.

0Give Lingot10•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hold down the enter key and click "Give Lingot". Hold the enter key for as long as you like and it will keep giving them lingots. BUT, caution. Soon, the lingots will be disbursing very quickly.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 9 1094

Hi, my old friend from my earlier days here! My problem is where to send these lingots. They need to be shared between the schools. I will leave it up to you Mods to decide. You are welcome to take the 4 500 lingots from my profile and use them as you like. Tchauzinho meu amigo!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

That is very kind! I will make sure to distribute them to teachers whenever I see them making posts.

In order to do that though, you will need to give them to me using the technique I mentioned above. :)

Also, did you previously have a brown bunny icon? I know the name, I just can't place the current icon. Hello!

0Give Lingot2005•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 9 1094

Eu acho que AlexisLinguist usa o coelho marron. She is a Mod as well.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Alexis uses a red bear named Lotso. :)

1Give Lingot243•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 9 1094

There must be a better way to get these lingots to you! Duo transfers five and then I have to begin again!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I'll ask Alexis if that's as fast as it goes. She's always having lingot wars with people. I think that technique is the fastest one there is though.

0Give Lingot436•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

That's the fastest, Mark. But, the servers have been upgraded, so it shouldn't be taking that long. Obviously 4000 is greater than 500 (my usual amount limit), but it should be constantly transferring.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Pal258 8

Hola, yo soy de Argentina!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

carlyHeartBeat 3 2

thats nice and very important

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

FrancoisHar2 18 4

I am a new student who works with Duolingo. This method is mervallous to begin to learn english grammar and to learn to speak currently....

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

krista.keller 11 6

Hi everyone! I love using duolingo myself, and have used it to improve my German since moving to Switzerland. I teach at a primary international school and would love to use it with my class.

However I am stuck with the email addresses, as my students are too young to have their own. Is there any way to make a class account without them having to use their email to confirm the link?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hello krista.keller! right now the students need to have their own accounts in order to be tracked by you. And to have an account, they need to sign up with an email address. We realize this a common issue for elementary teachers and there are ways some people have found to work around it.

Secret workaround:

You can create student accounts by adding a + symbol and characters after it, between your name and the @ symbol. For example, let's say you have a student called Maria B. in your 2015 class. If you have/create a gmail account called myname@gmail.com, you can add her to your class by creating an account using the email address myname+mariab15@gmail.com

Advantages of doing it this way:

- Students can create accounts without having an email address
- Teacher gets all emails and notifications (however, students do not get reminders)
- Teacher can help students recover lost passwords
- Teachers can always pass student account to student/parents once they leave their class (pass on account to new email address)

We know this is not an ideal solution, but it might help teachers in your situation who want to use Duolingo as soon as possible. Good luck and let us know how it goes! =]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

krista.keller 11 6

Sounds like a good solution to try, thanks!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tamigierhan 8 4

Hoping to start an elective class using Duolingo. I'm looking for ideas of how to format the class, grade student progress, and include presentations.....

0Give Lingot15•2 years ago

KatePrzybylo 6

how do you set lessons to do as homework?

0Give Lingot10•2 years ago

iceman0426 10

Personnaly I tell each class how many lessons they need to complete (although I usually try to keep it as whole skills). We have marking periods, so I break it up over the 1st half (pre-interim) and 2nd half (post-interim) of the marking period. One of my classes is on Present 2.

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

kmillien

Thanks Duolingo, this is a great program, but I need your help. As an educator it would be great if I can find articles to assign to my students no matter what the level. I found the tutorials on Immersion to be lengthy and overwhelming and was not sure where or how to have them start the articles. Also since I have students learning different languages, is it possibly to have the same article translated into different languages? Thanks for your help

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tamigierhan 8 4

How is your class set up? Do your students each chose a language they want to learn? I am trying to set up a class at my middle school and I'm not sure where to start. It sounds like you might be doing something similar. I would appreciate your input!

0Give Lingot12•1 year ago

v.court 5

It would be very valuable as a teacher to be able to print (by sections) a list of students and their progress (ie: lessons, skilss, xp points)

0Give Lingot20•1 year ago

iceman0426 10

Do the colors of the skills (i.e. Blue, Green, and Red) have any significance?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Yes, they coincide with skill strength. Gold is full strength. I'm not sure about the other colors though.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

iceman0426 10

Does anybody know what the Blue, Red, and Green stand for?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

They do not mean anything specific, they are just different images picked for the icons. :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Fabriceboutain 16 10 2

ok

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ErkanArkin 13 8

Hi, I am an instructor teaching a group of English language teaching (ELT) students in Cyprus. I am learning Spanish. The group I am teaching will be English teachers in a few years and to get them understand how it feels learning a new language I added them to my dashboard as Spanish language learners. We are experimenting with the dashboard feature and who knows maybe when they become teachers my students will continue using Duolingo with their students supporting their English language learning ...

0Give Lingot10•1 year ago

Ms.Meyer 9

Is there any way to double check your own XP points from the previous week? I have a student who only had 10 XP points listed on my Dashboard, but he says he definitely did more than that...and we couldn't find where it shows it on his profile.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

spanishnsms 10 2

I am having some of the same issues. Also some students are showing up in my weekly progress report, but then are not showing on the class dashboard they are connected to.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

fraudunning 10 3 2

Ditto this. It's end of term, and I'm hearing this from a few kids as they look at their grades. I'd love to be able for them to see the same progress report I get (broken down by week).

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

We'll look into the data issues!

Also, it is currently not possible for your students to see the same report that you see unless they share progress with themselves, as Usagiboy7 said. However, this will remove them from your dashboard, as students can only share progress with one person at a time (for now). As the dashboard evolves, there will almost definitely be some sort of data export option.

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

A data export option would be dynamite for me - I have almost three hundred students on the platform, and the ability to export study history using .odf, .xls or .xlsx format would be really useful.

Similarly, some of my students do two or more foreign languages - it would be really great if they could share their Spanish progress with their Spanish teacher and their English progress with me.

In any case, still loving the application - great work!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Thanks for that clarification, erdnuss! I thought I was still part of two classes, one being mine. I'll change the user guide to reflect this insight.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

They are able to share progress with themselves just as they were able to share progress with you. ^_^ Here are some instructions for navigating the Schools feature if necessary. I am nearly done updating it. I should be done by tomorrow.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

fraudunning 10 3 2

So they need to have a progress report sent to themselves? Is there no way that they can just see a list of weeks and how many points they earned? I don't think I'm getting it...

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Using the link below, they need to add their own email address under "Share progress with" :)

Share progress with....

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

applebee 22 15 11 10 8 8 6 5 5 4 4 3 3 2 2

Voice Comments on Duolingo

One of a few features I miss from LiveMocha is the ability to record comments.

(I noticed tonight how helpful that would be with the Turkish "su soguk" that Selcen Ozturk says, in comments, is not enunciated correctly. That is good to know, but even better would be if she could then record the phrase for others to hear.)

As a teacher I would like it if my students could record short speaking practice phrases or immersion selections for me to listen to and the ability to record myself in reply so they can hear any differences I may want to point out to them.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

redditduonorsk

I created a dashboard account for a group of independent Norwegian learners so that when the Beta is developed we can monitor the progress of the entire group as a way of encouraging each other. In order to do this I want to allow all of the "students" to have access to the dashboard account so that we can all check in on each other at anytime.

Is there any reason that this would not work? I.e. Will it be an issue if multiple people log in to the user dashboard at the same time?

This was the easiest way I could figure out how to create a duolingo learning team with everyone's info all in one place. Before I distribute our group's info to all of the users I just want to make sure that this method will work!

Thanks!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

sean_chin 8

Technically, this is possible. But like any other internet service, I would recommend against sharing usernames and passwords, as people can always change the password and create headaches.

A safer alternative would be to utilize the leaderboard on the home screen. Students can add/follow each other by clicking on each other's profiles and they will appear on each other's leaderboard.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

iceman0426 10

I LOVE the new class view! This makes it SOOOOO much easier to see where my students are! Great work!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Profe_Cavalli 11

An awesome platform - can hardly believe it's FREE!!! Thank you so much for this!!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

KCHquist 8

Hello. I wish there was an easy way to search your forum posts, as someone else may have asked this, but I don't see one, so here I go with my question/concern , , ,

My colleagues and I have just started assigning Duolingo as homework in the past month. We ask students to complete a certain number of lessons each week, which we track on the very useful Schools Dashboard. Just today, I have learned that students are cheating and "completing" whole lessons instantaneously by starting a lesson then turning off their wifi and clicking through the lesson with nonsense answers. When they turn their wifi back on, the lesson is shown as "complete". Students are "completing" multiple lessons and tests, which should take at least 10 minutes each, in 5 minutes time.

Please let me know if there is a fix for this. Otherwise, our use of Duolingo as an assignment may be over.

Thank you.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

sean_chin 8

Hi Kathryn, This is definitely something we are aware of and are trying to fix. The issue is a bit technically complex, so we are unsure how quickly we can fix this, but it is a priority.

Sean

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

KCHquist 8

Thanks for your reply. In the meantime, is there any way to reset student accounts? We may ask some of our students to go back and complete earlier lessons that they "completed" using the trick mentioned above. Thank you.

1Give Lingot10•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@KathrynHag, yes. You can have them reset their course through their Settings. By resetting, they will start at the beginning of their course again. They will be offered a placement test that will jump them ahead according to their knowledge level. Or, they can test out of individual skills along their way through the tree again. :)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

KCHquist 8
Thank you!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Lock29 8
Hello. Is there the option for me to create small pieces of work for students to complete (and ideally submit online). These would just be small pieces of homework on a weekly basis.

0Give Lingot10•1 year ago

applebee 22 15 11 10 8 8 6 5 5 4 4 4 3 3 2 2
I give them an xp number per week as part of the course. Depending on how much other work I am assigning them I require 40 - 80 XP points per week. You could also require so many lessons passed. I prefer XP points because then the perfectionists can practice already completed lessons while the ones who want something new are free to continue along the language tree. The dashboard tracks each students activity so you can document it or use it for the grade for that activity.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

applebee 22 15 11 10 8 8 6 5 5 4 4 4 3 3 2 2
Also if you have time you can view each student's progress details and assign individual lessons, but to my way of thinking, that takes a lot of the fun and all of the freedom out of the learning.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ecappleby 11 10
Please add English to the languages in the language drop down menu on the dashboard. I have French, Spanish, and English classes. I am using Duolingo with my French and Spanish classes, but am about to add my English language students and noticed that English is not in the drop down menu. Thanks. :-) Love the program, by the way!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1
The drop down menu is a reflection of the languages that your students are learning - once your first English language student shares their progress with you, you should see English as an option in the drop down menu. :)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

ecappleby 11 10
Thanks, I understand now. :-) I wondered why I had Danish and Portuguese on my list and not English, now I know.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ecappleby 11 10

What happened to the Japanese for English speakers course I see mentioned in one of the earliest posts?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Duolingo has a English for Japanese speakers course in beta. However, they've run into some difficulties with trying to reverse the course. More info about that here.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ecappleby 11 10

I am having a problem getting my ESL students onto my dashboard. Many of them have duolingo on their smart phone, but can't remember their passwords to log onto the computer. I can't send them the link because they don't have email addresses and many of them don't even have access to computers. It is easy to add a professor to share your progress once you log into duolingo via the computer. But, since they cannot do this, is there a way to share progress via the phone app? If there is, I could not find it. Thank you for your help!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

sean_chin 8

If your students go to their "Profile" on the Duolingo app, they can find a setting called "Progress Sharing." Once they press on that, they can type in your email address (the one you use Duolingo with) and a section name (if you have any).

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ProfeShupperd

What time is the cutoff for reporting student scores for the week? I get an email Monday AM but my kids aren't sure when the week officially ends.

0Give Lingot10•1 year ago

aegisnyc 13 6

I'd like to be able to create a list of words I'm having trouble with, so I could create my own stack of flashcards and drill a little. Maybe users could tag new words in lessons to keep on the list AND be able to add the flashcards that they didn't know to that list?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I recommend <http://www.cram.com> I've used it a lot. :)

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

frogblue

I am a Spanish teacher and I am adding students to this app and tracking their progress. But to look at the lessons they have completed, I have to have completed the lesson myself to look at the words they had. I just created an account on this. What I am saying is, do I have to complete my Spanish tree just to see what my students are learning?

0Give Lingot14•1 year ago

Mundaysa 19 11 7 167

I was having the same problem and got together with other people here and we have created a Google Doc document with the content of the Spanish tree.

Here's the link to the discussion and document:

https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6938091?comment\_id=8206693

Hope it is useful!

1Give Lingot11•1 year ago

kristinemc 16 9 7 4 2

Here's how you can move classes into sections (scroll down):

https://dashboard.duolingo.com/dashboard\_help

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Kristine, will you check that link? I think the doubled word in the beginning is causing it to reroute to the general help menu.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

KristinaCarvey 11 5

This helps with splitting classes, but I don't see how I can merge classes...

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

costick 15 5

Hi - I need some help. When last on Duolingo, I was getting an update of how many points my students were getting per week. I was giving them extra credit based on those points. Now Duolingo has changed their system. I cannot see the points and they are not sending me an update. If you hover over the green check a date pops up - I assume it is the date that the student completed the section. But I have a very trustworthy student who says that she completed 200 points recently but her most recent date says Feb. Is there a way to see it under the old system so that I can properly give our extra credit? Thanks!!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

Hi there - we added the view with the green checkmarks as a way to explore how far along the skill tree each student in your class is. The date on the checkmark does indeed show when they student completed a particular skill. It does not replace the detailed list view though! If you need more detailed information, you can switch back and forth between the "course progress view" and the list view by clicking the button in the upper right. See this screenshot: screenshot

In the detailed list view, you can click on each student row to see a summary of their activity on Duolingo, so you should be able to see exactly where your student earned their 200 points.

As far as the weekly email is concerned, I checked out your account and it looks like our system blocked your email address. This can happen if your email provider marks emails from Duolingo as spam (at which point our system stops sending them). I fixed that and you should get your next email Monday morning. Sorry for the inconvenience!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

SenoraGuetzko 7

I have a student who has determined a "shortcut" that passes him through a level without completing it? I cannot determine exactly what he/she is doing (yet), but it seems highly suspect. Anyone know how he/she is doing this?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

SenoraGuetzko 7

Yes, it is the turn the wifi off and on as you work. I looked on line in the cheat code areas. Thank goodness I have skills in gaming and know where to find "cheat codes."

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

C.Hollick 7

Feedback:

The only homework I generally give my students is to practice their skills on duolingo. I tell them I am able to review their progress and use their current experience as their weekly participation mark. However, I can't quite do this any more since one of my students found out to cheat the system. He now has over 1000XP and gold levels because he figured out how to tamper with the coding. Also, apparently if you turn off the wifi and continue working on duolingo, every answer will be marked as correct not matter what. That same student figured out that he can keep his answers by turning on the wifi connection before leaving the page. He is now incredibly ahead of the class according to duolingo, but in reality, he has 0XP.

Also, is there a way to send a mass email to all my "followers" . I would like to be able to remind students of upcoming tests and such on duolingo.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Thanks for the feedback, C.Hollick! Is this "cheating" while offline still an issue for you? Please let us know.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

SenoraGuetzko 7

A couple of students found the cheats for turning on and off the wireless and it pushes them through with garbage answers and scores them as perfect. I am not sure how to "prove" that they are cheating and need some suggestions. As stupid as this sounds, they have put several hours into the cheating effort- which tells you what sort of goofs they are. It could be that their accounts may accidentally be deleted or blocked soon. Darn internet. Then they would have to start over. Can Duolingo 1) fix the cheat 2) send them a note saying "You are cheaters! Our records indicate...." Then I can take some stronger action.... Anyone else have suggestions?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

We'll be fixing this soon!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

davidcwalls 24 22 18 12 1337

I am not sure this will give you any concrete help, but maybe you will find it somehow useful. I think that I probably had a somewhat similar disposition to your students, once upon a time. My guess is that they find two things appealing about what they are doing: the emotional thrill of beating the system, and the intellectual challenge of figuring out how to do so. I don't think they are just "lazy", i.e. trying to put as little time in as possible (though they may not realize it consciously) because of the amount of work you describe. The tricky part is how to redirect their ingenuity into more productive endeavors.

For myself, I had two specific incidents that helped me: when I was in high school, we setup the first computer classroom. The teachers knew from my previous experience using the couple of individual computers that a friend of my and I would find the situation a challenge, so, they made us an offer: we could write a program that could be used for the class to take tests and we wouldn't have to do any of the regular coursework. However, we had to provide reasonable proof that the system was "unbreakable" by any other students, and we had to fix any bugs that arose in the first two semesters. Of course, we took them up on the offer, and it was a huge success - they played our egos perfectly, giving us the the opportunity to show that we could make a system that no other students could outwit, and in the meantime, we were so busy that we didn't have time to disrupt the education of the rest of the class.

The second incident was in my first year at college - a grad student who had taken me under his wing found me working away in the computer lab for several days and eventually worked out that I was decompiling a computer game so I could break the copy protection. He let me go at it for a while, then took me to lunch and asked me how much time I had spent, how much the game cost, and how much I made per-hour when I worked at the computer department. It was obvious that if I spent the time working, I could buy the game outright, and still come away with dollars in my pocket. If I recall correctly, I never did buy the game, because it wasn't nearly as challenging as breaking the copy protection, but I did come to realize that I should be more discriminating in the selection of challenging tasks I undertook.

The second example is probably closer to your case, and giving the kind of advice I got from my mentor is not always an easy thing, especially coming from a teacher directly to her student. The first example took place at a very specific moment, when the faculty had an opportunity that is rarely present.

One concrete thought I had: perhaps you could offer extra credit or something similar for students who can document how to beat the system in DuoLingo. In the course of working out the shortcuts, they will, necessarily expose themselves to the material, and to some extent (hopefully) lose the thrill of not doing the actual work since it will then be clear that you and they know that they have the capability to do so. It will also help you and DuoLingo with regard to preventing future bypassing of the intended course progress (I do hate to use the word "cheating")

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

SenoraGuetzko 7

Those are great comments and suggestions. As the mother of two male "gamers" for an extended time, my students seem stunned that I have a Steam account, play Minecraft, and have access to GTA whatever edition. Scribblenauts in Spanish is one of my favorites. I wish more gaming software were available in Spanish! Disney Latino has some on line, but it is not geared towards beginner students.

This program is by far one of the better ones I have seen to date. And of course, the price is perfect! As of now, I grade the students on vocabulary work on DuoLingo with a paper and pencil complete what I learned to day. Keeping it simple while we work out all the bugs. Thank you again for your comments!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

fraudunning 10 3 2

I'm having problems again with students who have done the work (and they are reliable students) but the points aren't showing up on my dashboard.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tony 17 13 10 8 7 6

We're sorry to hear that, we'll look into it.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

KristinaCarvey 11 5

Double check to make sure they used your email correctly and selected the class that they belong.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

I have the same problem occasionally. :( I trust the students that report that they did their work and it's not showing up.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

SenoraGuetzko 7

Thank you Luis! Te lo agradezco.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

em.ing69 14 3

Can you tell me how can i make golden ring when i winish one rang.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

I'm afraid this isn't very clear - could you explain what you mean?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

I would love access to my Spanish students' progress quiz scores, and word counts. Also, I would like to get a notification when one of my students finishes all the skills on the Spanish tree. I feel bad when that goes unnoticed. Gracias for this fantastic teaching tool!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Thanks for the ideas, emilybwilliams! :D

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ryanbeaboss 3 2

thanks for the help man!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

Hello,

I'm really loving the Duolingo Teacher Tools - the programme just keeps getting better. I'm intending to roll the programme out with my colleagues at the beginning of next semester, and everyone who's been involved in the test programme is very happy with it.

One of the few difficulties we have had is getting the students to work on the collaborative translations, not just on the language training. Part of the difficulty seems to be that the translation material is only available on the website, and most of our students tend to use the mobile app. Might it be possible to incorporate the translation element of the programme on the app?

Secondly, Duolingo is partly a victim of its own success, as any texts we teachers publish on the platform tend to be translated by the community before our students can get to it - would it be possible to add a function to the teacher mode where we could publish a text for translation by a specific group that we are following?

As I said, I love the platform, and I know my students get a lot out of it. I think if I can get them to do more translation on top of their language training, it'd be even more useful. Thank you all very much for making this widely available!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Thanks for the insights, MTaylor! How much do you use the translation feature vs the Duolingo language tree?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

I'm afraid to say I've rather given up on the translation features - partly because they're not available on the app, and partly because when I put something on by the time my students have got to it it's often been translated by the wider Duolingo community. It's a real shame, as the language tree can get to be a bit repetitive for more advanced learners.

What I think would be really great would be firstly, to incorporate translation features in the mobile app, and secondly to have a way of assigning texts to specific groups. I don't know how technically challenging that would be, but if it were possible I'd probably aim for more of a 50:50 split, with weaker learners using the language tree and stronger learners doing more translation.

Hope this helps!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

It sure does! We Duolingo for Schools to be the best tool it could be, so this is super helpful. Thank you and please keep your ideas coming!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

HannahRoy 20 13 10 8 4 2

Hello teachers! Where do you go online to find language teaching resources? Any discussion forums particularly helpful?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

For teaching which language?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

HannahRoy 20 13 10 8 4 2

Well, I teach English to speakers of other languages. But I'm asking for a friend who wants to know generally about language teaching in the U.S. so could be any foreign language, really.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2

I'm in EFL myself, and I use a lot of stuff freely available from the "BBC Learning English" website. The new site is available here (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/learningenglish/>), and has some good stuff, but there is also an enormous amount of material in the archive, available here (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/worldservice/learningenglish/language/>) - General and Business English, Discussion Skills, Pronunciation. In terms of other languages the BBC has some material available here (<http://www.bbc.co.uk/languages/>), not sure how applicable it is in a classroom setting. Hope that helps!

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

TINAABCDEFG 9

I'm using the BBC series in class, Mi Vida Loca, and it has been well-received by students and myself. It has vocab lists you can print for each exercise and I've used puzzlemaker (on the web) to make vocab reinforcement study sheets. It is a drama in Spanish that has 18 episodes with lots of instruction embedded throughout .

1 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

HannahRoy 20 13 10 8 4 2
Thanks so much!!

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

MTaylor_IGS 14 14 12 9 8 2 2
No worries - hope all of that helps, and happy teaching!

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

TINAABCDEFG 9
I would like to know in the standards for FL which levels of Spanish are covered in Duolingo. I would like to know if this program can be used for Spanish I and Spanish II.

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Pankunchi 7 5
Does anyone know what users on here are team members and how can you tell if they are a team member?

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Are you asking how to identify staff and moderators? Staff have a blue ring around their profile icon in the forums and moderators have a green ring.

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Pankunchi 7 5
Can anyone become either one of them?

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Staff are hired by Duolingo. There is a jobs link at the bottom of this page for folks interested in getting hired. Most moderators these days are folks who help build the courses. Once in a while someone from the discussion forums is also invited to become a moderator through email. :)

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Pankunchi 7 5
Are you a moderator?

0 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Yup. I got an invite via email about a year and a half ago. :) If you want to discuss it more though, we should move our conversation to the Activity stream. (Just click my username and you can message me there.) Thanks!

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

gvandermeer 9 2

Hello! I have been using Duolingo for about 4 months, and I think it's great. I'm having a problem getting it set up for my students, though. When they click the link to join the class, they get a 404 message. What could the problem be?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

Can you post your link here?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

gvandermeer 9 2

https://www.duolingo.com/o\$o=gvandermeer@fgcu.edu&s=FGCU%20Adventure%20Abroad

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 474

This just worked for me.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

gvandermeer 9 2

Luis, this problem is persisting. Here is a screencast: <http://screencast.com/t/fOEmx6ES9Kve> I appreciate your help!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

sean_chin 8

Try copying and pasting the link directly instead of clicking on the link. It looks like that website is encoding the link differently.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

tony 17 13 10 8 7 6

sean_chin is right, when you click on that link, it shows up as:

"<https://www.duolingo.com/o%24o=gvandermeer...>"

when the correct one should be:

"https://www.duolingo.com/o\$o=gvandermeer..."

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Maestro_Yoda 25

Hi, I am a professor of secondary and university also, I have more than 8 years working with virtual education and truth Duolingo I feel great and I use in my classes with the DashBoard, would be excellent teachers we could raise or create your own lessons English para our groups. Greetings from Colombia

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

EdeHernand

I am writing because I have two questions:

As a teacher: It is possible to unlock the language that you teach so I can look at the content that is being taught on each lesson? Or do I have to go through the lessons and pass each of them by myself?

Is it possible to assigned or choose lessons and quizzes to students that already in my roster?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

myra 20 12 10 7 5 5 3 2

Great questions, Edehernand!

You can click on the individual skill icons in your dashboard view to see which words are taught there. Soon educators will be able to try out the entire Duolingo course for their students without unlocking the skill tree themselves, but this isn't something we offer yet. You can however unlock major portions of your course by clicking the padlock checkpoints to test out and skip ahead. When you create an account and start a new course, you also have the option of taking a placement test, which should unlock most of the course for advanced learners.

Many teachers assign their students a particular skill in the tree and give them a deadline by which point they should have completed everything up to that point (communicated in class or email etc). The dashboard can be used to follow up and track students' work towards milestones like these.

We're also eager to hear your ideas around this. What sort of assignment feature would you find the most useful for your purposes?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

EdeHernand

Hello Myra, Thank you for replying. It is great to know that someone is working diligently asking for input. One of the things that probably should be consider for Duolingo is for teachers to be able to pick and choose lessons for students. In addition, having access to the assessments and being able to modify, if necessary. This upcoming year, I am working with a school that is going full blended learning and I would like for instance integrate Duolingo to my learning platform; these are some of the things that I would need, but I am not sure if you have have the capabilities yet: - Direct link in - Single sign on - Data send back

I think that we are moving to new time education where teachers and schools don't want to be navigating through different sites to access data or resources.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Schtefan 14 10 7

Hello, my name is Schtefan and I am learning French. I am looking forward to join classes as a student and study together with others in a pleasant way. Would be happy to be guided by a teacher and share the knowledge (and the progress :) ).Thank you...

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

SusanaLHS 2

Do we have a friendly way to print the students results by chapter or activity??

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Do you mean as a spreadsheet? Please tell us more about how you would like it to look like. :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

melissamorris 21

I've been using Duolingo to track my about 200 students in French for TWO years now! It's fantastic, and they love it. I would like to give them some lingots so they can do the quiz as a diagnostic assessment, or as a reward for evident hard work. Is there a way to do that?

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Right now, the only way to do that is by giving them lingots through comments in the forums (like I just gave you). We are studying ways to allow teachers to encourage and reward students, as we know this is important for educators. :]

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

PedroRodri396456 4

Pon los 200 estudiantes a emitir sus ideas al respecto. Recoge la esencia del pensamiento. Trabaja con la crema de la crema.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

melissamorris 21

yo no hablo español, pero gracias

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

richardnjones 7 6 6 3 2

You have google classrooms as a quick invite but could you add others such as edmodo?

Great program anyway.

All the best

Richard Jones

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Thanks Richard! We investigate clever ideas we find in this forum. :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ashley930564 8

Are we able to join classes because for me i dont have a lot of time to learn by myself so i think i would be more motivated in a class

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MichaelPHenry 21 88

8Ashley - If you are trying to learn Spanish, we are organizing a large group web meeting in Duolingo to practice in a web meeting. Here is how to join:

How to join Cada Dia Spanish on Duolingo: Go to My Profile Settings Progress Sharing (or use this link)

<https://www.duolingo.com/settings/observer>

Share progress with: CadaDiaSpanish

Section or Class: CadaDiaSpanish

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

AnuragMalh 6

:)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

veronicanurma

Hello, I am Veronica but surely to call me with Eron. Basicly, I join duolingo to enrich my languages skill since I really am in love with challenge especially to learn about the other language beside of my mother tongue. I planned to learn about Dutch, German, and still want to upgrade my English skill. So, I hope people there can give me some assists to reach the goal that I have made. Thank you in advance.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hello veronicanurma! What's your native language? I suggest you visit the Duolingo general forum for extra tips about learning languages on Duolingo. The community is helpful and we are glad you're here!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MissWinn 8

Is it possible to create word lists for each lesson? For instance, I want to print the words the 3 basic lessons on one sheet for homework-review. How can I accomplish this?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

K-4SpanishEWA

I downloaded a complete word list from the Duolingo site.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

MissWinn 8

Great! Can you show me how to do so as well?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Check out the new features too! Some exciting news :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MissWinn 8

Thank you! It seems that duolingo has added almost all of my requested features!!!!!! Wonderful!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

MissWinn 8

Also, it would be great to have verbal only quizzes where the students have to translate from english to spanish or spanish to english without any hints.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

We are always looking for new feature ideas, and keep an eye in this forum for those, so thank you for sharing! =]

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

MissWinn 8

Glad to share and know my voice is being heard.

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

kellymeredith1 12

I'm very new to Duolingo. I just found it a month ago and got permission from my school admin. to incorporate it. Very excited about using it in my Spanish 1 and 2 classes. However, I am limited in my tech skills and am very nervous about whether I can do it! I was wondering if anyone would be willing to share their lesson plans, and/or ways that you integrate this into your classroom, as well as your grading system? Is there already a link for lesson plans? I have not found one, if there is.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

K-4SpanishEWA

I use Duolingo for my elementary students. They use iPads for 15-20 minutes of their 50 minutes per week of Spanish class. I created half sheets for each lesson that students glue into composition books. By writing in the English meaning for each Spanish vocabulary word, they are creating a resource for themselves. Once a month, students use these interactive notebooks to make sentences using gathered vocabulary from class time as well as Duolingo. I use TPRS to teach.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

kellymeredith1 12

Thanks. So, they write down the words and meanings as they are completing Duolingo exercises on the iPads?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

K-4SpanishEWA

Yes, I give them a list of 10 words maximum. That's the most a lesson covers. Writing the English words helps in the learning process and helps them to remember when there are no word banks. So far, I've made about 60 lesson sheets. I created individual student accounts. Luckily at my charter school, all students are assigned an email address so that helped. Otherwise I would have created 350+ gmail addresses for their Duolingo accounts. I have nearly 500 k-4 students.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

PatriciaFoley1 4

Hello - I have been using Duolingo on my own Ipad for the past year, but now that we have abandoned another software subscription service, I would like to implement Duolingo in my language class. However, our IT person is not in favor of setting up emails for our students. Is there any way of getting around this so I can still use Duolingo and monitor progress? Ideas? Suggestions?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

K-4SpanishEWA

You can create email accounts for each student on gmail. I had to do this for a couple of students since their school email address is for internal use only. So, 'forgot my password' won't work. Students do not need access to the gmail account information. You keep it along with their login and password in a spreadsheet. For Duolingo user names, I'd stick to first names dot school initials (John.EJB) for user name and unique password (like their phone number) for each student. These items should be readily available through a school database. I'd create a database to help it go faster. I did this for 350 students in 3-4 hours. To create gmail accounts, it'd use the Duolingo user name (John.EJB@gmail.com) and keep the password the same for each student since the teacher will be the only one accessing.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hello PatriciaFoley1! Right now the students need to have their own accounts in order to be tracked by you. And to have an account, they need to sign up with an email address. We realize this a common issue for elementary teachers and there are ways some people have found to work around it.

Secret workaround:

You can create student accounts by adding a + symbol and characters after it, between your name and the @ symbol. For example, let's say you have a student called Maria B. in your 2015 class. If you have/create a gmail account called myname@gmail.com, you can add her to your class by creating an account using the email address myname+mariab15@gmail.com

Advantages of doing it this way:

- Students can create accounts without having an email address
- Teacher gets all emails and notifications (however, students do not get reminders)
- Teacher can help students recover lost passwords
- Teachers can always pass student account to student/parents once they leave their class (pass on account to new email address)

We know this is not an ideal solution, but it might help teachers in your situation who want to use Duolingo as soon as possible. Good luck and let us know how it goes! =]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MrsDeMonner 20 17

I would like to use the Duolingo progress quiz as an assessment for placement. Is there a way to see my students' scores without having them log into their account? Or should I just have them take a new-account placement test instead, and then junk all of the accounts we created?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hi! The placement test should put them in the appropriate place on the tree. You don't have to remove entire accounts if they missed the opportunity to take it. If you need them to take a placement test in an existing tree, you could remove the language and add it again (this will replace their previous progress). You can also have them "test out" at certain checkpoints in the tree to see how far they can get. If your Duolingo account is in English, try these instructions from the Duolingo Help page:

How do I skip the basics?

How do I reset my progress?

I hope it helps!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MrsDeMonner 20 17

Thank you, yes this does help!

It seems like I can't do this for my students. Do I have to have them go in a clear their trees themselves?

Do they have to remove and re-add the language, or can it simply be reset to go back to the placement test?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

You are correct, they have to reset their own progress. Teachers can monitor but not alter student progress. If they "reset" progress, it should allow them to take the placement test (no need to remove and re-add). Please remember while they will not lose their XP (points), they will lose their progress and have to start over. However, the placement test should open up the tree up to the appropriate place. :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

sragerritsen

I don't know if this has been brought up before, but it would be really great if we as teachers could edit the order of the students in the list. That way I could place them in the same order as my gradebook-- grade transfer would be a lot smoother!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hi! There are awesome features suggested by teachers and we investigate all of them to make Duolingo better and more useful. Did you know you can download a CSV file (spreadsheet format file) of your classroom? That could be re-ordered by name if you like, and even printed out if you like to make notes by hand. :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MrRees

Would it be possible to export the points (on a weekly/monthly basis) as an excel file as Khan Academy does?

Would make it easy to total up points for teachers, like me, who are using it for their form rather than class.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

You can export the points as a spreadsheet. Once you are in your classroom view, select "Activity details" on the left column. There will be a button above the list of students that says "CSV" -- click on it to download the excel file. :]

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

BaeteLora 24 8 5 4 4 2 983

Hi, have you experienced an inconsistency in the number of xp that different views give? My students have a goal of 100 xp per week plus a given number of skills to have completed. Their points on Dashboard don't match with what they think they have. For instance, everyone ended their first year with 3000 minimum but on returning found they had dropped. Also, they can show on their phones that they have one number but the dashboard doesn't match. Any thoughts?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hello! XP should be consistent throughout Duolingo; it should only vary depending on view (which week you are viewing). Could you send username(s) (and, if you can, screenshots) of that problem, and any other information you can think of (course/date/device setup) to teachers@duolingo.com? It helps if we can try to replicate or look in to the issue on our end, but we'd need more information than is shareable in the forum. We'll be expecting your message!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

rebeccaellner 18 12 10 5 4 3

Help! I can no longer change the course info for individual students in my classes. I can merge whole classes, but not move individual students. Please help.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

erdnuss 15 13 9 9 5 4 1

You can still move individual students by clicking on "Activity details" or "Course progress" in the sidebar on the left and checking the boxes next to students' names. We're working on extending that functionality to the new overview page!

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

rebeccaellner 18 12 10 5 4 3

Oh, fantastic! Phew. Thanks so much! :-)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

RebeccaGon19

Luis como estas yo quiero aprender Esperanto pero en epanol , como le hago , ayudame por favor espero que tu hables espanol

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

There is no Esperanto for Spanish speakers available yet. Please check out the current list of courses from Spanish here.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ashevans225 14 1

Hello! I'm using Duolingo with my 3-5th grade Spanish students. When they complete lessons at home, they receive fake euros that they can use to "purchase" items from my little store. It has been working great but lately students have been losing their progress in the app. They complete a lesson and receive the gold bars but when they reopen the app later, it appears that they have not completed the lesson. Any ideas on why this could be happening?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hello! Can you tell us more about this? I'd like to try replicating the problem on my end, but I'd need to know more details: what lesson/unit? what course? when was this and what type of browser were they using? how do you know they got the gold bars earlier? Sorry to ask so much, but it helps us detect the issue. Thanks! :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

KellyninFontes 11 6 4

Duelingo should have fun games, so people just don't get bored with the lessons.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

PatriciaFoley1 4

It would be nice, but I have found that for French french-games.net has some excellent games as well as tutorials and tests. I use both.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Good suggestion! :] Do you have favorite game, KellyninFontes? And have you been learning on Duolingo?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

friendlyyak 13 13 8

Hi Is there some way of tracking what students have done over a given period of time - e.g. 7th Sept - 14th Sept, rather than on a specific day? Thanks

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Not at the moment, but we are aware that it is something teachers would like to do. Do you usually track XP, number of skills, or time spent?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

I track days spent, and number of lessons passed and practiced. I'd love for those stats to be part of the weekly emails I get from Duolingo. Currently, I go to my dashboard and add those stats to their weekly reports.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Noted, thank you for sharing! :]

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

@friendlyyak You can track what they do weekly by viewing your class ACTIVITY DETAILS and then clicking on the top right bar that says ALL TIME. This allows you to choose which week you'd like to see their activity. The reports run Monday-Sunday. I track days spent and lessons passed and practiced each week. I require my Jr High students to practice 3 days a week and pass a minimum of 6-9 lessons a week, depending on the student. Hope that helps. :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

friendlyyak 13 13 8

Thanks emilybwilliams :) We have computer room lessons once a fortnight so it would be really good to be able to specify the exact period you want to look at (so it would cover say Weds til Weds 2 weeks later, the period of time between 2 IT lessons) but it doesn't look like you can do that can you?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

EnsMark

Help. Using the newest link, most of my students have been able to join my virtual class. When others use the link, it just takes them to their regular duolingo account and doesn't authorize me to see it. Any advice?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Taryn_Temple 4

It did that to me, too. Have them go click on the link a 2nd time and then authorize you to supervise their account. The first time they clicked on it they just made an account, but if they go click it a 2nd time it will connect that new account to you.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

EnsMark

Thanks for the quick reply. I've done it up to 4 times with the same students and still no prompt to allow me to see...

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hi! That seems odd. Can you give us more information? We'd like to know if your students who are not able to sign up are on a phone or computer, and if so, which browser they are using. Is it that the pop-up confirmation isn't showing up to them? Please let us know a little more so we can try to help! :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

EnsMark

School desktop computers first, then school tablets, I didn't see which browser they started from, and yes it just seems that there is no option to be surveilled (excuse the Foucaultian language)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Thank you for the reply. Well, the pop-up should show up when they click on your invitation link. It is really difficult for us to try to replicate the issue here because we need to know as many details as possible (a reliable way to see this happening on our end).

If you would like to help us solve this mystery, please have your students take notes with exact information (what the link looks like, what browser, what device, what operating system, screenshots and how I recreate the issue too). Have a student try again from a completely different device and add to the notes. You can even take a screen video. Send those notes to us at teachers@duolingo.com. Fun science/tech/language project if they do it in their learning language. ;] If you just want to get it done and fix the problem manually, have the students visit their progress sharing page from their profile and fill in the teacher's email and the name of the classroom. Let me know how it goes! :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

LoraEarnest1 7

I can see that my students are completing levels, but fluency percents would be more impressive to administrators. Currently, I am looking over their shoulders for their percents. Students on phones seem to have a more difficult time coming up with their percents too.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

There is a cap on how high the fluency percentage goes, and I think it is still being tested. I wouldn't use it as a basis for grading.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

marisolvirgil 10

I really love this site. I use it as a center in my Spanish class, and my students really like it! They see their progress in their speaking and understanding of the language. There is only one question I have. Is there a way to send a class message? I have over 100 students and it is hard to message each one. I was wondering if there could be a tab to send a class message for the whole class to be able to read, and the teacher only has to send one message. let me know if that is already in place, and if it is not in place, it would make communication with the students a whole lot better. Thanks for this site!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

We do not offer a way to message all your students at once via Duolingo right now. Could you elaborate on the suggestion and give us an idea of what type of message you would like to use that for? Thanks! :]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

friendlyyak 13 13 8

Just a general notification to everyone e.g. reminding them when their deadline is or encouraging them or letting them all know who is in the lead that week, that kind of thing.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Great, thanks for the clarification. :) (that would be cool)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

madamemuscatello 15 14

I use this in my French classroom and have my students create a weekly goal that I track. I would love them to be able to set a weekly rather than daily goal on duolingo. I would also like to know why their duolingo weekly progress restarted before 10:30pm Sunday night. They all created their accounts in EST and the progress should be set to reset at midnight Sunday, I believe. Lastly, for some reason, a lot of them have trouble seeing their weekly XP if they, for instance, do not have any followers. Is there a way to find this?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hi! We want to give teachers more and more control over how to split up the measurements, and intend to make that happen. I can see the value of weekly goal for a teacher, and I think it is worth considering. For now, are they counting their points manually, or are you using the weekly reports that are sent via email? What type of device are they using? Their XP for the past week should be on the right column, under the Duo coach and goal reached symbol.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

Has Duolingo considered a way to balance XP for practice vs. passing new levels? I would like to give more weight to earning XP but since reviewing basics gives equal XP to passing a difficult new level down the tree, it doesn't seem right.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

We already do! If a student practices the same skill over and over again, they get way fewer points than learning a new skill or refreshing a skill they haven't seen for a long time. We created this inspired by teacher requests. :]

1Give Lingot2•1 year ago

emilybwilliams 13 2

That's great! I didn't realize that the change had been made! I'll start paying closer attention to XP again. Is there a formula for the points given; is there a certain amount given for review and another amount given for new levels?

1Give Lingot1•1 year ago

madamemuscatello 15 14

I am not receiving weekly emails...? They are using their computers, but can't seem to see their weekly XP because that spot is taken up by Duo asking if they want to try to find friends. I am going in at the end of each week and reading their points on the teacher portal. Any response on the question about resetting the weekly XP before midnight Sunday?

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 15 13 9 7 5 4 1347

Hi! Please go to settings > notifications and make sure "There is an announcement" is enabled. Remember to save! If receiving announcements from Duolingo is turned off, you won't receive teacher emails. As for the other issue: in order to see themselves in the leaderboard, students need to follow at least one other person. That could be you, a family member, or a friend. They can search another user by typing in their username. Resetting the weekly XP is not possible at the moment. We will need to make some site-wide changes in order for that to happen and we are looking into how to do that. Thanks!

1Give Lingot5•1 year ago

461 Student vs. Schüler

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2333>

Dinama 12 9

What is the difference between Student and Schüler. Are they just synonyms?

Give Lingot

404 years ago

Leave a new comment

20 Comments

xingu13 20 2

I've actually been having this discussion with my German boyfriend lately, who gets really confused when children in middle school or high school are called "students" in the US. "Ein Schuler" (can't use the umlaut on this keyboard) is more like "pupil" or "schoolboy" (Schulerin for "schoolgirl"). "Ein Student" is used almost exclusively for people studying in university.

69ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Monsignor 15

Conventional replacement of umlat characters: ä - ae ö - oe ü - ue

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Berchtesgaden 14 2

<http://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Umlautpunkte.png>

Entwicklung der Umlautpunkte: z.B.: Ä ^

The umlaut was created to save space on once expensive parchment paper. the ae, oe, and ue combinations were common along with the ss and were later replaced with the characters we use today: ä, ö, ü, ß. If you look at that link i posted, it shows German writing being used from beginning to modern, look how the "e" was placed above, then the figures on the side were dropped, this font is known as "sütterlin" or "Deutsche Schreibschrift"

14ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

tinatica 22 22 18 11 10 8 7 6 4 4 3 2 1225

thanks for the link! even though i'm a german native speaker I never knew the dots originated from the old writing (Kurrent).

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

grantangi 25 23 13 7 4 2 2 287

Schüler is someone who goes to school. And "Student" is someone who studies, usually in a university.

27ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Nandorocker 12 5 4 3

The problem with this answer is that "school" in English can also be used for University. So "pupil" is a better translation.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Chesman 14 8 6 3 3

School is only used as University in America. British people would never say school to mean university. Schuler is pupil (goes to school), Student is student (goes to university).

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

catascouts 8

cheers for the tip!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

forsty01 17 14

Studentinnen und Studenten studieren an einer Universität. Schülerinnen und Schüler lernen in einer Schule (Gymnasium, Realschule, Hauptschule, Gesamtschule, usw.). Which verb goes with which situation ("study" only with "university" but "learn" with all other formal and informal schooling situations) is a little tricky for Americans and possibly (probably?) other native English speakers.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Dinama 12 9

Thank you for clarifying

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Hania 13 11 7 7

Schüler=pupil ; Student= (College) student

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

davidw 10 8 6 3

btw, same as french. A student => university.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

jobemon 10 8

I had the same doubt about "Schüler" and "Student", but the comments posted here make it clear now.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Brodzko 14 6

They can be considered to be synonyms, though "der Schüler" usually means a child at the elementary school, whereas "der Student" someone visiting high school, university etc. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

jerome_es 17
schule is school?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Picrasso 16 2
Ja.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

duoderSie 12 3

I was surprised that even attending a language school full time I was still "ein Schüler". "Student" is only use for those at a university or Fachhochschule (polytechnic)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Guliavan 12 9 8 3

As in French: Student = étudiant and Schüler = écolier. Schüler are usually people in young age going to pre-school and even high-school I think.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

hansebodziuchsp 10 9

Studenten are those at the university...Schuler are those at levels below...Gymnasium, Realschule, etc... I was corrected recently in Germany by Schuler, when I referred to them as Studenten. In the U.S. they are all "students." That's the best I can do for now!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Dorothea_An 10 3

Nice q, thank you all for your replies!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

462 "They have missed the train."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/744508/They-have-missed-the-train>

Translation: Han perdido el tren.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment
15 Comments

ericnosborn 13 7 7 6 6 6 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

Can "faltar" really not work here? I've seen it used to describe missing a class or sporting event so I would have thought that would mean it could.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

August18 17 16 14 1

Is "han perdido el tren" really what native speakers tend to say? My first reaction is "a ellos el tren se ha ido" and this seems more normal to me, but it's marked as incorrect.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

J-win 10

It is. a ellos el tren se ha ido is confusing and unnecessarily complicated.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Talca 25 13

Which verb is used to used for "to miss" someone? Gracias.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

echar de menos or extrañar

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cristoffer6789 13 7 6

echar de menos or extrañar have a different meaning, they mean to miss someone personally as in "I miss my mom", not for the sense of missing a boat or train.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MelissaMil981126 17 9 8 11

Faltar

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

labadav 11 11 9 6 4

What about "Se les ha escapado el tren"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

guelen13 12 11

"They have lost the train" would be correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13

No, "lost" does not fit here. To lose = perder. Por ejemplo: Yesterday I lost my credit card! Pedro lost his key. I always lose my cell phone. Mother to kid: Where did you lose your hat?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cristoffer6789 13 7 6

I believe that native speakers would not use this translation "Han perdido el tren" because it means that the people have lost a train that was theirs, as in a personally owned train. It doesn't make sense. A native speaker would say: "Se les dejó el tren".

-3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicolescbr 11 11 8 4

I'm from Chile and we do say "he perdido el tren" o "he perdido el vuelo". "Se les dejó el tren" doesn't have sense

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

guelen13 12 11

I agree.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

J-win 10

No that's not true. How many people own a train? That's like saying people don't say "I missed my train" in English, because that implies ownership. They do. It's the same in Spanish, han perdido el tren is completely valid.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cristoffer6789 13 7 6

Yes, it may be valid as a literal translation, but I haven't heard this form used. In some Spanish speaking countries it is a less polite form implying fault with those who missed the train. Se les dejó el __ (fill in the mode of transport) is neutral as to whose fault it was that someone missed the transport.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

463 "The juice is red."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/226790>

Translation: Le jus est rouge.

04 years ago

Leave a new comment

20 Comments

arronhunt 10

Juice is masculine but beer is feminine? :(

9ReplyGive Lingot4•4 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

Yes, that's right.

14ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Angelica_WORK 8 5 2

Yup. Got a problem with that?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

RebeccaHartman 5 2

Would you pronounce the 's' in jus or would it be silent?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

It is silent.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

Shanayavdpot 5

When do I use "est" and when do I use "es"? Is it just something you have to learn with no rules attached, not like a rule you use true the build up from a sentence?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Thomas998804 8 7 3

An easy way to remember when to use "es" is that is always goes with "Tu"

Remember - Tuesday - "Tu" "es" day

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

Please read the rest of this thread.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

porschia4 13 5

What gender is l'

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1

Either masculine or feminine, according to the noun following:

l'eau = feminine (une eau)

l'alcool = masculine (un alcool)

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hazel8910 6

Why does everything seem to be red? I mean, the cake is red, the dress is red. And now the juice is red. Introduce some other colours why dont you, because im sick of the colour red and we wouldnt like black juixe now would we? Am i right or what?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

kali._w 3
Oui

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

TinsaeBayu 8
why is it est and not es

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1
"es" is the conjugation reserved for "tu".

"est" is the 3rd person singular conjugation and works for "il" or "elle".

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DerpSan1 18 14 74
When is it appropriate to say Le or La? What's the difference?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7 1
At level 7, you have already learned many French nouns. You know that all nouns are gendered and you have translated many sentences with nouns and articles.

If you still don't know these nouns and their genders by heart, please go back and learn them each with their gendered indefinite article: un homme, une femme, un garçon, une fille, une orange, une robe, un livre, une lettre, un menu, un journal, un enfant, une pomme... etc.

Back to your question about the French definite articles:

"le" is "the" in front of a masculine noun starting with a consonant = le garçon
"la" is "the" in front of a feminine noun starting with a consonant = la fille
"l' " is "the" in front of any singular noun starting with a vowel sound or mute H= l'homme (masc), l'orange (fem).
"les" is "the" in front of any plural noun.
5ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

BobConcannon 8 4
the juice is red

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

464 – 493 of 911

[accessed March 20, 2017]

464 Switch language

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2026538>

Oliwia 20 19 17 14 12 8

Hi,

I've just noticed there is a much simpler way to switch languages than to go manually to the settings, when you switch interfaces too. Is it something new or did I miss it before?

alt text

You end up in the settings anyway but much faster!

alt text

Give Lingot1

53 years ago

Leave a new comment

15 Comments

nchuskerboy 16 5

i accidentally switched my language to Chinese and since i can't read Chinese i can't log on to duolingo can you help

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

You have to be logged in to leave a comment. But, if you mean you can't change your course, there are two options, go to <http://www.duolingo.com/settings/direction>. Don't touch any grey text. Use the drop down menu to help you navigate to a course whose language you understand.

Another option is to log out, and change you site language. Here are instructions for that.

site language at log-in

I hope this helps! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jack.Elliot 25 25 25 25 21 13 10 10 9 9 8 5 3 2 2 1279

I noticed it when then they changed the incubator and i got confused and people like Usagiboy7 and the staff pointed me the way .... it does make the switch easier... enjoy all the best

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

This is not a new one. I remember that Usagi used to introduce about this feature somewhere :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Oliwia 20 19 17 14 12 8
Oh ok, thanks, I didn't know :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
It's been there since beta group. But, I can imagine it would be easy to miss. I only found it on accident when my mouse skimmed across it. It's my favorite way to access the languages though ^_^

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232
haha at the same time

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
@TrangBeta :D high five

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

argenteo 3 3 2
thank you, i didn't notice that

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

HannaSu 13 10 6 3
thank you

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
english

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
english

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kamal_Shahin 10 3
Clear cash in your app in Mobil ,this will clear your log, then log again and you will turn to virtual site language in both site and app.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

SenneSwift 6 6

This app looks so different?? How did you change the language of the interface?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Chrisdevries03 10 6 6

I'll try that

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

465 "The boss's secretary reads the letter."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9792516>

Translation: El secretario de la jefa lee la carta.

21 year ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

monita257042 9

Whats wrong with el secretario del jefe?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JohnPaulBi1 15 15

Boss is usually jefe but in this case is jefa. And i need to remember "carta" is feminine. la carta. not el carta

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

Maybe it helps you: most nouns ending in -a are feminine (though there are some exceptions such as "el mapa").

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AJSeldow 11 126

How do we know the boss is feminine in this case?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

RonAlmstea1 10

So "El secretario de él jefe lee la carta" is wrong because "de" and "el" aren't combined into "del"? When do they combine and when don't they? Is there some rule for that?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

"de" + "el" (the article "el", not the personal pronoun "él") are always combined to "del", as far as I know.

So the sentence "El secretario de él jefe lee la carta" has two mistakes: first you use "él" (he) instead of "el" (the) and then you don't combine "de" + "el" to "del".

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CrimsonRegret 17 16 10 253

Please stop flagging stuff wrong from one simple spelling letter typo. Thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

biertopf 19 2

From my experience: If your typo is another existing word (e.g. "type" instead of "typo") it's considered wrong. If your typo is not an existing word and is not too wrong (e.g. "tyop" instead of "typo"), it's accepted and it tells you that there's a typo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

KaitlynBender1 9 3

In Spanish, adjectives come after nouns rather than before (like in English). Why is it el secretario THEN de la jefa. I don't understand this at all. Can anyone explain this?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CHURROSARELIFE 11

yes i do not know that either! please help! @rspreng

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CHURROSARELIFE 11

also can someone explain when to use del in a sentence? thanks! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

biertopf 19 2

"del" means "de el"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

biertopf 19 2

There is no adjective in the whole sentence "El secretario de la jefa lee la carta."

The reason why "de la jefa" comes after "el secretario" is that Spanish says it more like "the secretary of the boss" than "the boss's secretary". "De la jefa el secretario" would then be "Of the boss the secretary" - that's grammatically not correct.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

466 a / an / the / this / that / these / those

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1599675>

devfull 11 7 2

Przerabiając testy natknąłem się na ogromną liczbę błędnie przetłumaczonych zdań, które wprowadzają w błąd mniej doświadczonych uczniów. Chodzi o tłumaczenie "the" jako "ten" i nie podam tu przykładu, żeby nie utrwaląc błędnego myślenia

a => (coś niesprecyzowanego, w liczbie pojedynczej i wymowa rozpoczyna się spółgłoską)

a user => użytkownik

a house => dom

an => (coś niesprecyzowanego, w liczbie pojedynczej i wymowa rozpoczyna się samogłoską)

an honor => honor

an apartment => apartament

the => (coś konkretnego/określonego/dużego bez wyróżniania bliskości, także przed liczbą mnogą)

the bridge => most (jakiś konkretny, np. jedyny most w danej miejscowości "near the bridge") the best => najlepszy (jedyny i niepowtarzalny)

this => ten / ta / to (bliski, l.poj.)

this shoe => ten but this lamp => ta lampa that => tamten / tamta / tamto (odległy, l.poj.)

that house => tamten dom

that tower => tamta wieża these => ci / te (bliski, l.mn.)

these cats => te koty

these boys => ci chłopcy

those => tamci / tamte (odległy, l.mn.)

those cars => tamte samochody

those students => tamci uczniowie

Prawda, że proste i sensowne?

Proszę wszystkich o raportowanie błędnie przetłumaczonych zdań, żeby każdy nowy student nie musiał się głowić nad ich sensem.

Give Lingot207

2883 years ago

Leave a new comment

74 Comments

Honiariez 14 8 6

Myślę, że chodzi tutaj o pewne nieprzetłumaczalne niuansy językowe. Devfull, podałeś świetne reguły, które, mam nadzieję, ułatwią użytkownikom życie. Bardzo się cieszę, że ten temat został poruszony i bardzo klarownie wytłumaczony.

Jednak dla tych, którzy lubią sobie nieco połamać głowę jasnym jest, że "the" jest często tłumaczone na polski jako "ten", aby podkreślić tę "określoność", o której pisałeś. Np. Yes, I am THE man - jest używane najczęściej w kontekście "tak, (to) ja jestem TYM mężczyzną" (np. którego szukasz), albo I borrowed THE book jako "pożyczyłem TĘ książkę" (np. tę o której rozmawialiśmy wczoraj, którą kazałaś mi wypożyczyć) itp. Tak samo z tym mostem (jedyny most w okolicy) - TEN most, a nie inny. Wszystko zależy od kontekstu. Wydaje mi się, że dlatego tak to zostało przetłumaczone również przez moderatorów.

Cieszę się, że można się tutaj "wyżyć" na takie tematy ;)

29ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rafcio369486 8 19

Dzięki za wyjaśnienie..też się z tym męczyłam

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Jaro2048 24 7 5 589

This / That / These / Those

<http://i.stack.imgur.com/x5tSM.png>

Mi to zdjęcie pomogło, łatwo zapamiętać.

25ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

winnergirlxx 7

Faktycznie, bardzo pomocne :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

BasiaKar 11 2

mnie też

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Pearl.Bolger 8 8 4

Fajne!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

kinga609621 10 1

super, dzięki!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

SalamandraJe 17 15

Mnie też wkurza jedna rzecz. W tłumaczeniach angielski--> polski często mam słówko np. z "a/an" czy "the", natomiast jak tłumaczę z polskiego na angielski, to zawsze rzeczownik trzeba pisać bez przedrostków, bo inaczej policzy jako błąd...

17ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hana.pl 6

mnie też to drażni... i jeszcze przed niektórymi wyrazami raz jest "a" innym razem "the" a przecież to są pojedyncze zdania nie dotyczące żadnej całości (tak mi się przynajmniej wydaje ;) ) więc skąd "the" przed 'newspaper' w niektórych przykładach?

6ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

sunot 22 5 76

...tak, też się w tym gubię i nie rozumiem zasady. mam też problem z wersją amerykańską, bo czy "house" nie może być jako "dom"

0ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

mariasty 8 6 3 2

wszystko zależy do zdania np: "I will go home" (ide do domu) albo "Go home" ( idź do domu) nie możemy powiedzieć "I will go house" (dokładnie ma być- I will go to the house) albo "Go house" (dokładnie ma być- Go to the house!).

5ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Vancom_a 16 2 25

dawno temu jedna z moich nauczycielek podała mi prostą definicję. house - to najzwyczajniejszy budynek jako dom home - to cała atmosfera tego budynku, ciepła rodzinna nie wiem na ile ta definicja jest prawidłowa ale wydaje się być logiczna

8ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

Piter432 18 20

„wydaje się być” — „wydaje się” (czyt.: użyta przez Pana forma jest modna i bardzo często używana, ale niepoprawna)

0Give Lingot2•11 months ago

Dydona55 14

Will to chyba czas przyszły a nie teraźniejszy

1ReplyGive Lingot2•10 months ago

karomar123 10 4 1

I nie wiadomo kiedy a/an kiedy the, mimo że wiemy, że a/an to jest przedimek nieokreślony a the to przedimek określony. nawet jest dyskusja, o tym czy przed słowem "shirt" rzeczywiście powinno być "the".

4ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

[+] 1 hidden comment

agoosh 19 12 4

Zgadza się w pełni, sama starałam się poruszyć wcześniej ten temat ale mój post nie był tak klarowny i zniknął w tłumie :)

Przy okazji, czy ktoś wie czy w nowym interfejsie można dawać lingoty twórcom nowych dyskusji? Mam jeszcze stary interfejs i z tego co widzę, nie mam takiej możliwości (a chciałabym dać :P).

10ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

abcedbca 22 14 13 10 4 3
W nowym można

7ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

Bolko1 11 6 2 2 134

Jeszcze policzalne i niepoliczalne. Tylko przed rzeczownikami policzalnymi występują rodzajniki "a" lub "an".

8ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

KrystynaSa 25 559

Mam ogromną, gorącą prośbę w sprawie wymowy rodzajnika "a". Czy może mi ktoś wytłumaczyć zasady wymowy tego rodzajnika. W żaden sposób nie mogę zrozumieć kiedy wymawia się go jako "ej" a kiedy jako "a". Dlaczego wymawiamy a /ej/ boy a dlaczego a /a/ car? Czy obowiązują tu jakieś zasady tak jak na przykład przy the, kiedy to przed rzeczownikiem rozpoczynającym się spółgłoską wymawiamy jako /da/ ale przed rzeczownikami zaczynającymi się samogłoską jako /di/.

7ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

Mufinka19 16 15 13 4 3 300

W podręczniku wymowy Bałutowej "a" jest zawsze wymawiane jako [ə], czyli rozchylamy lekko usta, tak od niechcenia i mówimy "e". Polecam książkę "Wymowa angielska dla wszystkich" B. Bałutowa.

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

KrystynaSa 25 559

Bardzo dziękuję, na pewno zaopatrzę się w polecaną przez Ciebie książkę

2ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

rafcio369486 8 19

też to zauważyłam i też nie rozumiem

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

madzialke 9 9 5

Hej, mój nauczyciel angielskiego całe lata temu przedstawił nam prostą regułę jak rozpoznawać a/the/-

a/an używamy gdy rzeczownik jest jednym z wielu podobnych, nie żadnym konkretnym (dla ułatwienia można sobie to wyobrazić jako 'jakiś'); musi to być rzeczownik policzalny; w liczbie mnogiej wstawiamy sam rzeczownik (a/an nie ma liczby mnogiej)

the używamy gdy rzeczownik jest jednym w swoim rodzaju (konkretny)

nie używamy niczego gdy mówimy o pojęciu abstrakcyjnym

Jest od tego trochę wyjątków, ale wydaje mi się że to przyjemna zasada żeby w miarę załapać temat.

Natomiast wydaje mi się, że 'a honour' nie jest dobrym przykładem, bo honor jest abstrakcyjny+niepoliczalny, więc nie powinien być używany z 'a'

5ReplyGive Lingot5•2 years ago

KasiaBurzawa 23 18

No tak, ale jest też np abstrakcyjna przyjemność --> It is a pleasure. Niepoliczalna, i abstrakcyjna.

Eh, z tym angielskim.. ;)

4ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

mateziom 10

"an honor => honor" A przecież h to spółgłoska

1ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Maldin7 5

ale wymawia się 'ɒnə(r), więc "h" znika, stąd "an honor"

4ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

mateziom 10

Sory nie doczytałem

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

beatka194 5

w końcu rozróżniam these i those :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

EvanLisinski 22 13 10 10 9 9 9 8 6 6 6 5 4 4 473

Thanks!

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

TomekMichniewicz 15 8 4 3 13

mi to pomogło zapamiętać

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Marek_Paprocki 11 64

"Mnie to pomogło zapamiętać" lub "Pomogło mi to zapamiętać". "mi to pomogło zapamiętać"- popularna ale bardzo nieprawidłowa forma

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

pawel_fci 17 7 5

dzięki przyda się

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bas55 13

Dzięki wielkie za ten tekst,bo już myślałam, że to ze mną coś niedobrze.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jordi-Jurek 16 10 8 6
użyteczny!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

andzixx_01 8
dziekuje :) i like it ^^

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

kropeczkaania 7
bardzo przydatne. dzięki

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dana494 24 10
Skorzystałam z tłumaczenia . Dzięki

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

barbara581177 15 121
Takiego wytłumaczenia szukałam. Dziękuję.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

smokos18 5
dzięki wszystko zrozumiałem.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

katjuszka86 13 4
mam z tym problemy. Dopiero zaczęłam i these, those, that różnią się w niewielkim stopniu (dla mnie wszystko to wygląda tak samo) Dzięki za wskazówki

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

renata-ada 14 12
i!devfull Bardzo mi pomogły obrazki z jabłkamiBędę teraz ćwiczyć.Uczę się angielskiego od 3 ch miesięcy z powodu wyjazdu mej córki na wyspy.CChoć znam 2 języki obce angielski jest trudny dla mnie .Wymowa i zasady gramaryki są niekiedy śmieszneMam nadzieję że nauczę się aby móc się porozumieć w tym języku

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

kris_and_such 9 9 8 8 8 7
[deleted]

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

devfull 11 7 2

Rozumiem, że nie wszystko jest idealne i dużo zależy od przyjętych konwencji. Nie sądzę jednak, że nauka na wyjątkach jest wydajna i prowadzi do zrozumienia podstaw. Tak samo proces uczenia się ma sens, kiedy koryguje nasze luźne, nieprecyzyjne interpretacje.

Można wzorować się na systemie edukacji i wysiadywać frekwencję przy uczeniu się czegoś, co nie jest spójne i logiczne, a możemy użyć Zasady Pareto (20% przypadków - 80% pokrycia) i nauczyć się.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kris_and_such 9 9 8 8 8 7

Jasne. Tylko to jest nie do wykonania. Na 137 osób, które uważają, że wersja A jest niepoprawna, znajdzie się 321 osób, które uważają, że istnieje taki kontekst w którym jest poprawna. I mają rację i jedni i drudzy.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

devfull 11 7 2

Chodziło mi o to, żeby zostawić zdania, co do których nie ma wątpliwości. Inne wstawić do osobnych lekcji z 2 np albo extended.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kris_and_such 9 9 8 8 8 7

[deleted]

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

devfull 11 7 2

Przykładowo - "those are horses". Gdy przetłumaczymy to jako "tamci są końmi" to brzmi idiotycznie. Jeśli przetłumaczymy "to są konie", to cały sens wypowiedzi stracony. I proste zdanie - "are those horses happy?" - "czy tamte konie są szczęśliwe?". Ile razy by nie było tłumaczone en-pl-en, to sens będzie dalej zachowany.

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

kris_and_such 9 9 8 8 8 7

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

devfull 11 7 2

a/the - klein Problem, kein Problem

Co do systemu, to kiepsko, że to tak wygląda od kuchni.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bpochwat 21 8 5

chyba raczej: ein Problem/das Problem

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lee777333 16 4 3 2
[deleted]

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

gizzard123 25 25 19 11 8 8 5 3 835

Using AN and A does not depend on the SPELLING of the word it comes before, it depends on the PRONUNCIATION of the word.

<http://www.ecenglish.com/learnenglish/lessons/vowel-sounds-when-use-a-and-an>

http://www.grammar-monster.com/lessons/an\_or\_a.htm

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Usayo 10 8 3 2

jest „an honor” bo to „h” jest nieme i wymowa zaczyna sie od samogłoski dlatego „an honor”

„a user” dlatego, że to „u” na początku wymawia sie jako spółgłoskę, „ju” i stąd „a user” a nie „an user”

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jolo222 4

a tak właściwie to ty masz gdzieś około 214/220 lingotów?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Marek_Paprocki 11 64

Postaraj się pisać bez błędów ortograficznych

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

jolo222 4

LOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO-

OOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOL!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•5 days ago

25-07-2012 5

an => (coś niesprecyzowanego, w liczbie pojedynczej i wymowa rozpoczyna się samogłoską) an honor => honor <----- angielskiego nie umiem ale polski tak i od kiedy h jest samogłoską?

-4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mirriel 22 13 6

Chodzi o wymowę, nie o zapis. Fonetycznie zaczyna się od samogłoski (wersja brytyjska: 'ɒnə(r), wersja amerykańska: 'ɑːnər).

Tutaj możesz posłuchać wymowy http://oald8.oxfordlearnersdictionaries.com/dictionary/honour\_1

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

beavis242 20 11 7 6 2

HA! Gadam po Angielsku 30 lat i nigdy nie wiedziałem dlaczego tak jest. Dzięki. :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

aszewc 7

Na serio???

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kris6284 17 4 3 2 406

:)

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

gizzard123 25 25 19 11 8 8 5 3 835

Lepiej by było jak byś mówił a nie gadał. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

devfull 11 7 2

Nieźle =D Czy brak tej wiedzy był dla Ciebie problematyczny, a jeśli tak, to w jakich sytuacjach?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

beavis242 20 11 7 6 2

Nigdy nie był, generalnie w szkole Kanadyjskiej nie uczą Cię gramatyki. Nie znając gramatykę bez problemu skończyłem Uniwersytet. (ale z Angielskiego dostawałem C lub 3) Moje braki gramatyczne zauważyłem dopiero w Polsce i szczególnie na Duolingo. (drank vs drunk) Generalnie najważniejsze to umieć się dogadać, nikt Angielskiego nie poprawia bo sami zazwyczaj gorzej gadają.

11ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

karomar123 10 4 1

Są tacy co uważają, że gramatyki nie trzeba umieć:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=78FpZVVEpk8>=youtu.be

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

25-07-2012 5

przepraszam moja niewiedza

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mirriel 22 13 6

Po to właśnie jest ta strona, by się uczyć :)

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FilipRomanczuk 22 4
Zgadza się z tobą :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ArturSasza 15 28
h jest nieme ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Nikodem75 14 9 9 4 3 3 2
W angielskim słowie 'Honor', nie mówi się litery 'H'. Nie pytaj mnie dlaczego... Tak samo w słowie 'Hour' (Godzina), nie mówi się litery 'H', ale to jedyne takie słowa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kris59_8 11
Nie jedyne! Chociażby "an honesty" (uczciwość, szczerłość)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ArturSasza 15 28
h jest nieme ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dydona55 14
bo czytamy onor h jest nieme

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

467 GRAMMAR Italian Verb Conjugation Rules
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8068100>

kittycattus 9 5

note: I don't know if this has already been posted anywhere else, but I can't seem to find anything like this in the discussions area. If this is repetitive of information elsewhere, just let me know and I'll remove it. :)

I know duolingo is supposed to a different kind of learning experience, that's more natural immersion and less rote memorization, but personally I find it easier to memorize a few verb conjugation rules and know how to conjugate most regular verbs. For anyone else out there who's like me, I hope this helps! :)

(rules apply to regular verbs in present tense only)

Rules of conjugation: to conjugate an infinitive, take off the infinitive stem (-are, -ere, or -ire) and replace it with the designated conjugated stem (see below.)

For example: (capital letters are stems) mangiARE (to eat) turns into mangiO (I eat)

Conjugation patterns:

-ARE Examples: mangiare (to eat), cucinare (to cook), pranzare (to eat lunch), cenare (to eat dinner), incontrare (to meet), passare (to pass), studiare (to study), comprare (to buy), dimostrare (to demonstrate)

Conjugations

io -o tu -i lui/lei -a noi -iamo

voi -ate

loro -ano

Example

Mangiare-to eat

Io mangiO (I eat)

tu mangi (you eat)

lui/lei mangiA (he/she eats)

noi mangiAMO (we eat)

voi mangiATE (you all eat)

loro mangiANO (they eat)

note: in the case of mangiare, since the infinitive has an "i" at the end of the stem, for the "tu" and the "noi" forms replace that "i" with the conjugated one. (In other words, you only have 1 "i".) This applies to all verbs with the infinitive stem ending with "i"

-ERE Examples: scrivere (to write), leggere (to read), cadere (to fall), aggiungere (to add), crescere (to grow), vivere (to live)

Conjugations

io -o

tu -i lui/lei -e

noi -iamo

voi -ete

loro -ono

Example

Scrivere-to write

io scrivO (I write)

tu scrivi (you write)

lui/lei scrive (he/she writes)

noi scrivIAMO (we write)

voi scrivETE (you all write)

loro scrivONO (they write)

-IRE Examples: scoprire (to discover), dormire (to sleep), morire (to die)

Conjugations

io -o

tu -i lui/lei -e

noi -iamo

voi -ite

loro -ono

Example Scoprire-to discover

io scoprO (I discover)

tu scoprI (you discover) lui/lei scoprE (he/she discovers) noi scopriamo (we discover) voi scoprite (you all discover) loro scoprono (they discover)

The fourth conjugation, which is often seen as a derivative of the third one because the infinitives have the same endings (-ire), you add the suffix -isc at the stem for the io, tu, lui/lei, and loro forms. (before the other original suffix.) The noi and voi forms are the same as regular -ire verb conjugations.

-IRE with -ISC Examples: capire (to know), preferire (to prefer), gioire (to rejoice)

Conjugation

io -isco

tu -isci

lui/lei -isce

noi -iamo

voi -ite

loro -iscono

Example

Capire-to know

io capISCO (I know)

tu capISCI (you know)

lui/lei capISCE (he/she knows)

noi capIAMO (we know)

voi capITE (you all know)

loro capISCONO (they know)

Irregulars-these verbs follow no particular rule, you just have to memorize them. Below are the two most basic and commonly used irregular verbs, to be and to have.

ESSERE-to be

Io sono (I am)

tu sei (you are)

lui/lei è (he/she is)

noi siamo (we are)

voi siete (you all are)

loro sono (they are)

AVERE-to have

Io ho (I have)

tu hai (you have)

lui/lei ha (he/she has) noi abbiamo (we have)

voi avete (you all have) loro hanno (they have)

Conclusion/general rule of thumb: the io, tu, and noi forms of regular verbs are conjugated the same, while the lui/lei, voi, and loro have slight differences based on the first letter of the infinitive stem.

Hope this helps :)

Give Lingot13
291 year ago

Leave a new comment
18 Comments

Janetmullender 12
This is JUST what I wanted - it clarifies the whole Duolingo course. Thank you.

4ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Tvistnek 9 7 6
One thing you should mention is that, if an -are verb has g, gi, c or ci at the end of the infinitive stem, it keeps that pronunciation (tu mangi vs tu giochi), whereas the -ere and -ire verbs change the pronunciation.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

harry6116 7
Helps a great deal . Grazie

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

PandaPandaInnit 20 10 7
Brilliant mate! I actually asked the other day, for a break downs of the rules. I didn't get the answer I wanted :( But this was the reply I was wanting :).

I'm totally in the same boat as you, I prefer to memorize my grammar.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kittycattus 9 5
glad I could help :)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

robin4duo 23 11 2
Ciao PandaPandaInnit, I believed I answered your question, but I certainly admit that not with so much details as this discussion offers. Anyhow, good luck with conjugations! I agree that getting the grammar under your skin is important... although I found out that Italians will not give you hard time if you just mess up the verb conjugation :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MarthaOw 17 7
You can download some great grammar books from slideshare.net!! Great explanations of rules and exceptions await you, ahahah

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DarienGS 21 12 11 10
I agree - a few simple verb tables would really improve Duolingo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MABBY 25 22 1441
Items like yours have been posted in the past but, after a couple of weeks, they disappear so far down the list of topics that they get lost.

Don't worry about it-- post away (just as you have done). It will undoubtedly help out some new user who has the same questions or problems as you did.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SophieTort 8
Perfect!

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

jennifer11742 9
This is incredibly helpful! Grazie mille!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Lani_Mo 17 9 5 5 2 12
Thank you , thank you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

KirraSmith1 9 1

Thank you SO much this has clarified everything

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MichaelJMorgan 6 2

yass

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

meljbuck 10

Thank you so much, just started learning with my husband and this is exactly what we've been trying to figure out. This is incredibly helpful.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

SusanSkomo 7

Thank you so much, this is exactly where I have had problems in learning the language.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago kibelucas 7 6 1

great info! Grazie

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

Nater992979 7 2

thank you so much little boi

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

468 The easiest language for those learning multiple languages?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2405359>

Sanjnamani 2

Hi, I'm hoping someone can help me out here. I am interested in learning several languages here on duolingo. But to start off, which language do you suggest is the easiest to learn and will help me in catching up on the other languages faster? I started off with french and am simultaneously learning italian. I feel like grammatically, they are very similar. What are your suggestions? Which language should i start off with first? and should i see the whole course through before i start another one or go parallely?

Give Lingot

52 years ago

Leave a new comment

19 Comments

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Hi, great you decided to join DuoLingo. It would be great to know what your mother tongue(s) is/are - if it is Spanish, it will be easier for you to learn Portuguese than German.

Generally, the easiest language is the one you are emotionally attached too. If there is nothing like that, try to figure out what interests you and which language you really want to learn. Esperanto is often referred to be the easiest language to learn, but if you don't want to learn it and would have been forced too, it would be cruel to you to learn it as well.

Also, take into account which languages could be useful for your work situation. Are you European? Take French. Are you from the US? Learn Spanish. Are you an artist? Learn Italian. Interested in South America? Do not hesitate to learn Portuguese. Do you want to trade internationally and a good job situation? Learn German.

That's why it is not that easy to give some suggestions - you have to ask more questions first I guess =>

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

My mother tongue is English. I'd love to learn French, Italian and German.

So out of these, which do you suggest is the best to start off with. I found french a little harder than i did italian.

Thanks :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Well, then I would not suggest you to learn Italian first but French or German (because of economical reasons; it will increase your job opportunities much more significantly than Italian unless you want to become an interpreter or translator in Italian ;-)).

I would take those steps: Try out learning French and German for a short period of time and stick with the one language that you like more! You can also learn German and French on the same time, but this is much tougher than learning only one. Both German and French have a lot of tough idiosyncrasies and exceptions, both are fantastic languages to learn and both are extremely important for the economy in Europe. (I don't want to disregard Italian; it is awesome as well, but not that important than French and German in Europe).

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

Thank you for the reply. I will start off with French first- Do a few levels and then start with German. Just wish i lived somewhere in Europe where i can practice speaking :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Living in India is fab (I have to answer here because one cannot answer within this last branch of the thread) because of the multilingualism... If you are going to stick to learn French, I can help you a little bit (but I just passed roughly a third of the tree) and I'm curious what language you might want to learn first.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

Yes it is! Indians have a knack of picking up on several languages at once. I'd love some help with my French!

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

May I ask in which country you reside?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

India :) I speak several Indian languages but i'm doing all the courses on Duolingo in English.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Anglea 22 15 11 6 5

I was trying to learn both French and German at the same time. I now think it might be better to finish one before doing the other. I've abandoned my German until I've completed the French tree. It seems to be quicker to work this way - I'm not getting confused between "Du" and "Tu", or "est" and "ist", any more. That's my experience. I hope it helps.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

roodvuur 25

Purely for learning, and assuming you are a native English speaker, German would be a little harder than the rest because it comes from another family of languages (although not a completely different family, like Mandarin, Japanese or Finnish). Portuguese, French, Spanish and Italian are all very similar to each other with similar grammar and vocabulary. Portuguese and Spanish are obviously the most similar. But keep in mind, even though they are very similar, words that look a lot like each other are still not the same.

There are different opinions on whether it is smart to learn multiple languages at the same time. Words that look, or sound, very similar are hard to keep apart if you do not have a profound base in either one of them. If you, for example, try to learn Spanish and Portuguese at the same time there is a good chance you end speaking a mixture of the two. French and Italian are quite similar, you would probably be better of getting a solid basis in either one of them before attempting the other. French and Spanish / Portuguese are further apart and either one of those four and German should give no problem whatsoever.

Keep in mind that mastering a language costs time, and a lot of it. Learning two at the same time will probably not give you an advantage whatsoever, other than the fact that learning an hour of two languages a day instead of two of one could be more exciting. The lexical advantage you get by learning a certain Roman language will be there regardless of learning two at the same time or one after another. Learning two at the same time could be demotivating because you get half the progress on each of them than you would focusing on one, but I believe in the end it does not matter too much.

If you are certain of learning two at the same time, try it out. See if it works for you. If you start mixing them up badly, ditch one and pick it up in a later point of time. I would recommend you to start with any one of the Romance (on Duolingo those are Spanish, Portuguese, French and Italian) languages, picking up other Romance languages is a lot easier after you have mastered a decent level in one of them. For example, I can understand a great deal of French and Portuguese texts despite only having studied Spanish. But ultimately, it is up to you. Some strategies might work for others but not for you, and vice versa.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

Hahaha that is absolutely true! I'm just done with 2 levels in French and 1 in Italian and find myself confusing the two! It's tempting to do both simultaneously because they are so similar. I think for now i will stick to a few levels of french before i move onto Italian and German. Baby Steps :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnneAho 18 11 8 7 6 6 3

What MultiLinguAlex says is completely true, and what I'm about to say won't apply to you if your native language is, say, Dutch (which would make German really easy), but I'll try to an answer from a grammatical perspective.

I've studied Italian, French, Spanish and German at different points in my life (now intending to refresh them on Duo), and I'd say that grammatically / structurally the simplest language is definitely either Spanish or Italian. French and German are objectively more complicated, and although I haven't studied Portuguese, it's a well-known fact that the verb forms are far more complex than in Spanish or Italian.

Between Spanish and Italian it's a bit of a toss-up. Both are easy languages and structurally very similar, Spanish grammar possibly the simpler of the two (although each has its own little quirks), but on the other hand understanding spoken Italian is by far the easiest listening comprehension experience I've ever had. (I've been to Italy. The southernmost parts are an exception, though.)

One more point to consider is that picking any of the four Romance languages will make the other three easier to learn. German is kind of the odd one out in the current selection and won't help with the others as much. (I do enjoy German, though.)

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

Ah, so you say French , Italian and Spanish are comparable in the structure of their grammar or with the level of difficulty?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnneAho 18 11 8 7 6 6 3

I'm trying to say that French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese are closely related --> if you learn one, you will have a much easier time learning both the vocabulary and grammar of the other three.

But in my opinion Italian and Spanish are simpler versions of the same grammatical ideas, whereas French and Portuguese are more complicated. So I would start with Italian or Spanish and leave French + Portuguese for later.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Red_Rat_Writer 11 8 5 5

In high school, picking up a bit of Esperanto grammar helped me in Spanish for some reason. It became a breaking point where I could realistically read Spanish. (I know someone said Esperanto before, but I'm just here to testify).

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

inkybaba 17 12 9 7 7 5 5 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 2

I think it is best, if you plan to learn many languages, to stick to one branch what I mean is this:

Learn these together:

Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, French, Romanian

German, English, Dutch, Frisian, Norwegian, Danish, Swedish

Russian, Serbian, Ukrainian, Bulgarian, Belarusian

Finnish, Estonian (maybe Hungarian)

Latvian, Lithuanian

Czech, Slovak

Croatian, Slovenian (could also be learned alongside the Slavic ones like Russian)

There are some languages that are quite isolated, meaning they have little in common with others, some examples:

Hungarian Albanian Korean Basque some others.

Hope it helps! You don't have to follow this path, but it would seem easier to do it this way.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sanjnamani 2

Whoa! Thats a great list. Thanks :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

harryclark17 24 14 10 9 7 6 48

Italian and Spanish are very similar.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PortugueseHeart 14 7 6

It all depends on what you are interested in! Like others said, I would not suggest learning Portuguese and Spanish at the same time. (But by studying just one of those two, it is amazing how much of the other language you can understand) However, if you do learn two similar languages (take, for example, French and Portuguese) your studies in one language can help out the other and vice versa. Learning two languages is definitely exciting though, and I wish you luck in your studies!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

469 "The ice is mine."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/13907128>

Translation: El hielo es mío.

21 year ago

Leave a new comment

PostCancel

37 Comments

SoldenSpy 6

A bit overprotective with their ice! ;)

41ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

WaffleFox2 6 6 3

Why is Hielo pronounced like jello in the audio clip?

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alezzix 18 16 15 14 14 12 9 8 6 5 2 1091

Because the combination ie creates a 'j' or 'y' sound, that's why words like hielo and hierba are an exception to the 'e' for 'y' rule, for instance, you have to write verano e invierno because invierno starts with an 'i' sound, but not fuego e hielo because hielo starts with a consonant sound, it has to be fuego y hielo.

21ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

OwlSeaMoon 6 6

You gotta start thinking like a Spanish person XD Even though I'm not a native Spanish speaker, I've been learning it for seven years from when I was 3 through elementary school (I went to an international school that teaches French and Spanish). Since we only had Spanish class twice a week for 4 hours total, we couldn't really get that much learning in, but we accomplished a lot of verbal skills, since we would sometimes run into our Spanish teacher in the hallways and talk to them. All of my Spanish teachers were native speakers, and it depends on what region people are from. If you say "hielo" enough, quickly and slowly, maybe you'll figure out where that accent originated.

4ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Telisa7 21 14 9 8 7 7 6 4 3 2 2 36

<http://forvo.com/word/hielo/#es>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

deckmm 19 316

My dictionary says that helado can be "ice cream" or "ice." In English, "ice cream" is ALWAYS a frozen dessert or sweet treat. "Ice" is ALWAYS frozen water. I like to travel, but now I don't know if I want to visit any place where I could order ice cream and be given frozen water..... That's just wrong.....

7ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

zwiglM 13 8 2

El Helado? I am pretty sure I would not care about "hielo", but I would definitely care about "helado". (As far as I have read "helado" is for eating and "hielo" is "any other" ice like the ice on a frozen lake....)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biancamartinezz 21

Helado = ice cream, hielo = ice.

19ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zwiglM 13 8 2

That's pretty much what I said. :-) But helado is not accepted as correct solution. I am not sure if native english speakers differ that much between ice and ice cream. Do they?

-4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biancamartinezz 21

It isn't because the sentence in English says ice, not ice cream.

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rspreng 24

Native English speakers are very much aware of the difference between ice and ice cream. The original sentence says hielo, ice

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OwlSeaMoon 6 6

To us, ice cream is VERY different from normal ice. We put ice in drinks, but we eat ice cream by itself (or with toppings).

5ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

zwiglM 13 8 2

Yes, I am pretty sure that native english speakers are aware of the difference between ice and ice cream. My question was toward language, if they also use it that properly in everyday speech.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rspreng 24
Of course we do.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biancamartinezz 21
They do.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DreamsOfFluency 14
The words "ice" and "ice cream" are never ever confused and we never ever say "ice" as a slang word for short or when we mean "ice cream". They are very different in every way imaginable, and it is unimaginable that anyone in the U.S. would exchange either word for the other.

4ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

sojoyolo 17 8 7 2
I agree with the previous replies, but let me add: If I am going to eat ice and pay for it (at least where I live), it will come with flavored syrup on it and be called a snowball. Where I grew up, they called it a "snow cone" (it comes in a cone-shaped cup).

4ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

JazziJane 13
Apparently putting a period at the end of the sentence makes a difference.... sometimes.

2ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Dataslayer 17 10 5
Previously I learned to say something is yours one would say "[objeto acá] es del mío." Is "del" only for emphasis?

2ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Jacob89187 6
The ice is mine all mine!mwahahahaha!

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Tankiun 13 2
I thought hielو sounds exactly like yellow

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

DreamsOfFluency 14
Are you asking a question? In my understanding, they do not sound the same. The "e" in yellow sounds like the shore "e" sound in "bed". Whereas, the "hi" in "hielo" sounds like the English word, "he" with a long "e" sound, quickly followed by a long "a" sound, which is the sound that a Spanish

"e" makes. "Hielo" actually has 3 syllables, but "yellow" only has 2. When said at normal speed, it is hard for a native English speaker to pick up the difference, but it is certainly there. Spanish does not use short vowel sounds.

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Telisa7 21 14 9 8 7 7 6 4 3 2 2 36
<http://forvo.com/word/hielo/#es>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

JRPN94 13 11 5
Does mio come in a feminine form?

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

DreamsOfFluency 14
Yes, and plural. Possessive pronouns must agree in number and gender with the NOUN they replace.

La imagen es la mía = The picture is mine

Los patos son míos = The ducks are mine

El traje es mía = The suit is mine

Las sillas son mías = The chairs are mine

Mías son naranja = mine are orange (Feminine plural if the noun is, too, like tables which is "las sillas")

el libro mío = the book of mine

los libros míos = my books = books of mine

la casa mía = my house = the house of mine

las casas mías = my houses = the houses of mine

<http://www.spanishdict.com/answers/100019/possessive-pronouns#.V-lcmJMrKYU>

<http://www.spanishdict.com/topics/show/23>

http://spanish.about.com/od/adjectives/a/long\_form\_possessive\_adjectives.htm

<https://studyspanish.com/grammar/lessons/posspro>

<http://www.lrc.salemstate.edu/spanishgrammar/pronoun-chart.htm>

However, google translate does not seem to recognize the feminine plural. When I type in "The chairs are mine", it translates it to be "Las sillas son míos." Yet, when I type in the Spanish with "Las sillas son mías," google translate says it means the same thing. So, if I have explained the above incorrectly, could someone please clarify?!

2ReplyGive Lingot1•6 months ago

JRPN94 13 11 5

Thank You for the thorough reply

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

wzhnify 9

Does hielo mean just a single ice cube? Or is it a bunch of ice? But then what would be the plural? Los hielos?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

FlappyCheeseCake 9 3

what a silly thing to fight over

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

srenajade 10

why is it 'el' instead of 'la'? It has an o on the end

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

JoeyMitolo 6

Please!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

ella1389 6

Person yelling the ice is mine: Give it back! Me: But you are crool. Another person: But the Ice is mine

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

Claire242751 7

No!

El AZUCAR es mío!

No HIELO!!!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

470 Daily reminder notification time

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1088573>

BerkinAyberk 15 3 1

Hello there, For the past few days my Duolingo app on my android phone started to notify me at 00:01 every night, how do I change the notification time? In settings I can only turn on or off the notifications and the email reminder.

Give Lingot

93 years ago

Leave a new comment
13 Comments

royblumenthal 14 2 1

Where is the setting for the time of the popup notification in Android?

I have no idea why mine notifies me every night at 10pm. Why isn't there a simple way to set the reminder time?

I'm NOT talking about email reminders, by the way. Android popups.

Duolingo... Please respond?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nephridian 19

mdesbois had the correct answer up above. If you change the time online (not in the app) for the email reminder (and you can still say not to send emails), it will change the time for the app pop-ups as well.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

thyra_of_shadows 11 2

It's been some time since this question has been posted but there's still an issue. I get notifications first thing in the morning, when I first touch my phone. That is not cool if it's 5 a.m. and I'm just checking the time and the notification beeps and wakes up my partner. I would love to keep them turned on but go off at a time I can choose. Can this be done?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mdesbois 10

I changed mine by login online to duolingo. Go to settings and change the time for the email. It also changed the time for the app reminder. Hope it helped

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JECaine 10 3

thank you so much. found that setting. I just set it. now I have to wait until 6 to see if it worked.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Kitrek 7 2

I am also getting mine at 5am. I will have to shut this off if I can't change it to a more reasonable time. Anyone know how?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LICA98 25 25 20 18 12 11 11 11 11 8 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 11

You just click on the time

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BerkinAyberk 15 3 1

I can't see any time setting for notification time, where is it? (I am not talking about the e-mail reminder time by the way)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LICA98 25 25 20 18 12 11 11 11 11 8 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 11

Are you talking about the mobile one then (the one which usually says "you're on fire, continue your streak")? I think that's just either off or on...

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BerkinAyberk 15 3 1

It notifies me in the middle of the night so I just turned it off.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AileTheAlien 7

This is a feature in the iPhone version of the app. Could we please get the same thing on Android?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

shmooth 17

i built a small tool to alert/bug you until you finished your daily goal. starts at 3 pm. been working for me. only does email right now, only at certain times, etc.

<http://www.webhelperz.com/duolerts/>

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

kiwibrew 6

I can't find the setting for changing alert time for iPhone or logged into the website.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

471 Use of "ese" v. "eso" (or "este/esto")

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4832311>

Amalina14 14 14 9 3

Could anyone provide -- or direct me to -- a clear and concise explanation of when "ese" should be used and when "eso" should be used, and whether the same distinctions apply for "este" and "esto"?

I find myself messing them up a lot.

Thanks!

Give Lingot3

112 years ago

Leave a new comment

8 Comments

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Ese - used for masculine nouns, and when the noun is also in the sentence. Ese niño juega.

Eso - used when there is no noun in the sentence, simply that. Eso es bueno.

The same applies to esto and este.

However, only esos and estos are valid plural formations. Estes and eses do not exist.

40ReplyGive Lingot24•2 years ago

Samsta 17 16 12

"Ese/esa*" also means "that one":

Ese (coche, sombrero, etc.) es el mejor = That one (masculine) is the best

Me gusta esa (manzana, chancla, etc.) = I like that one (feminine)

Here's a more difficult one:

Este (día) es un nuevo día = This (day) is a new day

The confusing thing is that we translate "este" as "this" instead of "this one". The reason for this is that the question isn't whether it's a day; it's about what kind of day it is. We don't say "This one/day is a new day" in English because it's repetitive, but in Spanish, simply changing the "o" to an "e" adds no repetitiveness.

*Some people may write this as "ése/ésa" (éste/ésta) since that was what was considered correct by the RAE before, but now the RAE says the accent is not required.

18ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Gracias. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Amalina14 14 14 9 3

Incredibly helpful, thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

1flyingpancake 17 10 7 5 4 3 2 12

very straightforward and simple explanation para los nuevos estudiantes como yo. gracias! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Resonance2001 15 11 10 5

I've written a document that should answer your question perfectly

<http://spanishplus.tripod.com/DemonstrativePronounAdjective.htm#TopOfPage>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Amalina14 14 14 9 3
Awesome, thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nickvitalevgc 8 5
.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

472 How to use the Troubleshooting forum

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11788513/How-to-use-the-Troubleshooting-forum>

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hello everyone!

Before making a post to Troubleshooting, please check the Help Menu to see if the solution to your problem is there.

When submitting a bug report by form, please state what browser and operating system you're using (or which app). Be very clear when describing what is happening with your account, because many problems sound very similar. If you can, attach a screenshot

Example post

What forum should you post in? See This discussion

For new users

Please give a quick read-through of Duolingo's Community Guidelines.

If you're experiencing difficulties with another user, please do not post about them by name in the forums. First, Block the user. Then contact a Moderator

For an extended FAQ, please see This Post.

Please remember to keep casual conversation to your friends' activity stream. The forums are for asking questions and making suggestions about the website and sharing language related content with the community.

Thank you, and good luck with your studies! ^_^

Give Lingot189

2651 year ago

No one has commented yet.This discussion is locked.

473 "Patience is the mother of science."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/730198>

Translation: La patience est la mère de la science.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
4 Comments

suenic 13 13 11 7 2

Can science not be translated by 'les sciences'? If 'no', why not?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IvanaTravel 13 11

Never heard that expression.

Prudence est mère de sûreté.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Me neither in french. "Patience est mère de sagesse" / "Patience est mère de (toutes les) vertu(s)" but never "mère de science". But it seems to be an english expression that doesn't exists (in its literal translation) in french...

NB : I think that Duolingo should give "Patience est mère de science." as basis translation because I would rather say that in french !

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Agreed, re: "l'oisiveté est la mère de tous les vices" or "oisiveté est mère de tous les vices".

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

474 Difference lo siento/Disculpe/Perdon
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4175976>

AyoubRossi 7 6 4

Hello Is there a difference between lo siento, disculpe and perdon? Thanks :p

Give Lingot
02 years ago

Leave a new comment
13 Comments

Mister_De 15 10 2 2

Well, I'm a native speaker from Spain and they are all almost the same and in most situations they are interchangeable, so you don't have to worry if you use one or another. I can't think in a situation in which one of them wouldn't be correct.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Adina_atl 25 26

In English I'm sorry, pardon me, and excuse me are all used somewhat differently. "I'm sorry" expresses regret, while "excuse me" and "pardon me" are mostly polite noises.

If you told me your cat died or that you broke your arm, in English I might say "I'm sorry". What would I say in Spanish? Would "Lo siento" be right or does this mean that it's my fault? ("I'm sorry" does not mean it's my fault in English, but some people treat it as if it does.) "Pardon me" or "excuse me" would be very, very strange and inappropriate.

If I accidentally broke a glass at your house, in English I would also say "I'm sorry". Again, "pardon me" and "excuse me" would be strange, though not as inappropriate.

If I need directions on the street or in a store I would say "Excuse me" or "Pardon me" when approaching you. In Costa Rica I've usually said "Perdón" but I don't know if that is right.

If you're a waiter at a restaurant and I need to get your attention from a short distance away, I would say "Excuse me". I probably would not say "pardon me," though I'm not sure why not.

If I'm trying to pass you (and would like you to get out of my way) I would say "pardon me" or "excuse me."

If I bumped you accidentally while trying to pass you, I would say "pardon me" or "excuse me" or "sorry". If I bumped you and you fell down (or dropped and broke something) I would say "I'm sorry" or "I'm so sorry", not "Excuse me" or "Pardon me." If I'm squeezing through a crowd of people and might be stepping on feet I would probably say "Sorry, sorry, sorry..." as I went.

If I did something deliberately wrong--I stole money from you or punched you in the face--I would say "I'm very sorry, can you forgive me?" or "I'm very sorry, what I did was unforgivable." "I'm sorry" alone would not be enough.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mister_De 15 10 2 2

If I told you that my cat died or that I broke my arm you should say "Lo siento". "Disculpe" wouldn't have any sense in this situation and if you said "Perdón" I would think you are the one who killed my cat!

If you accidentally broke a glass the usual thing would be to say "Lo siento" but the other options would be also correct.

If you need directions "Disculpe", "Lo siento" and "Perdone" are right.

If you need to catch the attention of a waiter you should say "Disculpe" o "Perdone", but not "Lo siento".

And well, in conclusion, you are right; I should have thought a bit more before giving an answer. "Disculpe" and "Perdone" are almost always interchangeable, and most times they can also mean the same as "Lo siento"; but you only use "Lo siento" when you feel bad about a situation.

I hope my answer is now more precise. When you are a native speaker you sometimes dont think too much about these differences haha ^^U

15ReplyGive Lingot7•2 years ago

asavin 14 10

Thanks for explanation!

P.S. That's why native speaker and good teacher are not the same usually)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Adina_atl 25 26

Thank you. It's easy in our own languages to see the big rules and forget the exceptions. I've learned things about my own language by reading the "English from Spanish" forum. In English we say something is "As clear as the nose on your face" But without a mirror you can't see the nose on your own face. A foreign language can be a mirror.

Gracias. Es fácil en su propia lengua ver las reglas grandes y olvidar las excepciones. He aprendido sobre mi propia lengua por leer "Inglés desde Español" en Duolingo. En inglés decimos que algo es "tan claro que el nariz en el rostro." Pero sin espejo se no puede ver el nariz en su propio rostro. Una lengua extraño puede ser un espejo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

amapoladorada 9

And is there a difference between perdon and perdone?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Absalem999 11 10

Thanks for your answer!

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Mister_De 15 10 2 2

You are welcome! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

IndiePotato 25 9 9 4 3 2 2

I might be wrong because I'm only a beginner, but I believe that: "Lo siento" means "I am sorry." "Disculpe" means "Excuse me" and "Perdon" means "Pardon?"

But I re-iterate, I might be wrong.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rspreng 24

'con permiso' is another way of saying excuse me, may I pass, or "I'm coming through!" ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mister_De 15 10 2 2

Oh, and you misspelled "perdon", the correct form is "perdón". I know it's difficult but try not to forget the accent marks! :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lrtward 25 25 8 166

About the same as I'm sorry, excuse/forgive me, and pardon me. There is also excuseme. They are all just polite ways of asking to get by, or when you need to interrupt a conversation for a moment, or what you say when you accidentally bump into someone.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xXfashiongamerXx 3

are there any more formal than the other ones maybe?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

475 Impossible to delete course if it's the only one from starting language

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1943557>

saschambaer 12 6 5 5 4

I just tried out the English from German (my native language) course. Did the placement test to see if Duo deems I still need to learn something (answer: nope). Now I can't delete the course anymore. I am able to reset it, but not remove it completely, meaning I now have an English level 1 flag in the German->English forum (or however exactly the flags work).

I don't want this flag as it would indicate I can't speak English, while in reality I'm pretty fluent. How can I remove it again?

Give Lingot1

173 years ago

Leave a new comment

21 Comments

[deactivated user]

Yes there is but it is slightly roundabout. Your English level (or any other language level) is combined across all the different user interfaces in different languages on which you are learning it. i.e If you are level 3 from Dutch, you will be level 3 from German and all the other languages you can learn English from too (but your trees will not be combined). If you want to delete your English progress from only one language, I'm sorry but I don't know how to do it. This method allows you to delete your English progress from all interface languages.

Go to a user interface in a language which teaches the language you want to delete, English, and another language which you are already learning (but not necessarily from that interface language). For example, if you want to delete English from x language and are learning French from English, you could go to the Spanish interface as that teaches English and French. From now on, I will use this example, but you can substitute in different language combinations.

Start learning French from Spanish. Your French level in the Spanish interface will be the same as your French level in the English interface, but your trees will not be combined. You will also be learning English from Spanish automatically, at the same level as you are in the English from x language interface, but again the trees are not combined.

Go to the option in settings which allows you to delete or reset a language (still in the Spanish UI). Click 'delete' for your English progress. YOUR ENGLISH PROGRESS HAS NOW BEEN DELETED ACROSS ALL INTERFACES!

Basically, this works because you only have one level per language. This means that you only have ONE level for each of the Duo languages you are learning, even if you are learning the same language from several user interface languages. If you delete your progress in one language, it is across all the interfaces. Since you can only delete a language in a given interface if you are learning another language in that interface, you have to delete your progress in English from an interface where you are learning another language.

If the second language in that interface is one you are already learning, it will not make any difference to the number of flags shown when you are posting as levels are combined across all the different language interfaces.

If you still want to use the English/German forums or similar, subscribe to these BEFORE you carry out these steps. If you do go back to learning English you can delete it again using the steps above. Sorry if this has been quite complicated or unclear but I hope it helps. If you have any questions feel free to ask!

EDIT: Reorganisation to make this easier to read.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

saschambaer 12 6 5 5 4

Wow, that's quite a complicated way for something as simple as this...

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

I know - sorry! Its not as bad as it sounds. I did this to delete my English from French progress by going into the Spanish interface and learning French. Hope this helps, even if it is complicated! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

A lingot for the answer. A bunch more if you can simplify your explanation, because that would be useful for many people including me.

Maybe a flowchart/decision tree?

In my case, I accidentally added Portuguese from English. Can I just delete it now without any repercussions at all? Or do I need to add Portuguese from Spanish first? (if that's out already...)

I have and want to keep French from English and from Spanish. Also Spanish from English and German from English. No wish to mess those up.

Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

Since you are learning other languages from English, you should be able to delete Portuguese normally. Just go to your settings and click delete or reset languages.

You only need to do the above steps if the language you want to delete only has that one in the UI language you are using. E.g. If you start learning English from Dutch, you can delete ALL your English progress by going to the Spanish interface, (Spanish is best because it has the most languages after English) and start learning another language from Spanish, e.g. French. You can then delete 'Learning English' in the Spanish UI and it deletes it across all the interfaces.

Thank you for the Lingot!

2ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

You're welcome, and another for the clarification. Hope it helps others, too!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@tariqnisarahmed,

Go here <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1426103> and read two sections, 1) Levels and 2) Resetting Tree :)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@tariqnisarahmed, That one won't be updated until the Duolingo Wiki is much further along (Duolingo Wikia: http://duolingo.wikia.com/wiki/Duolingo\_Wiki#Getting\_Help). I'm hoping the Duolingo Wiki will be better organized.

The FAQ I linked you to previously is a bit of a mess. It started out much smaller and required a lot of of formatting and image manipulation. So, when I added things, it was a lot of work to move stuff around. Eventually, I just started moving things to the end of it when I could get the time to update it at all.

As for removing courses, the target language (language you are learning) is what you want to be careful with.

No matter how many courses you are learning Portuguese from, Duolingo considers that you are only taking 1 Portuguese course total. So, if you reset any course that has Portuguese as a target language, you reset your entire Portuguese course. (Let me know if that makes any sense. If it doesn't, I'll find another way to resay it. It made my head spin a bit the first time I tried to understand what was going on. ^_^)

PS thank you for the lingot :D

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

How often do you update that post? It's a bit like a Hitchhiker's Guide in scope. :) So if I understood what I read, as long as I do not mind losing all my progress in Portuguese from any language at all (currently at zero), then I can safely delete Portuguese?

Obrigado. :)

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

My pleasure. :) (to give the lingot)

Also: have deleted Portuguese, and so far no ill effects to my DL account.

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

Bellatrix86 18 12 9 8 6

Thanks for this explanation! Even though it's so complicated (that's not your fault!).

I asked the same thing last week but never got a reply:

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1868194> The Troubleshooting Forum is sometimes not the most active... Hope this changes a bit with the new Forum view.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I'm not surprised that Troubleshooting is slow sometimes Staff was pretty limited. They are getting ready to hire many new people. And moderators are just community volunteers, we don't generally have Duolingo tech expertise. (I don't know very much about computers and programming at all, just bits and pieces I pick up from Duolingo. :) I would suggest trying the search bar there and experimenting with a few different keywords. Sometimes, a question has already been answered. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bellatrix86 18 12 9 8 6

Yeah, I know. It wasn't terribly important, so I didn't bother any more.

But it's nice that it got answered here now. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hi sashambaer,

I suggest moving this to the Troubleshooting forum. You'll need to subscribe to that forum first. To do so, go back to the General Discussion forum, look to the right where it says Subscriptions and click Edit. Add Troubleshooting. Then come back, edit your post, and select Troubleshooting in the drop down menu at the top of your post. Make sure to add your Operating System and Browser (for example, mine are Windows7/Firefox).

Update These instructions are accurate. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

saschambaer 12 6 5 5 4

Huh? I thought I posted this to troubleshooting... lemme fix this Edit: fixed... I think

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@saschambaer,

It was probably a user error on my side. I'm still figuring out now the new Discussion update and all. I just brained on the fact that ALL forums I'm subscribed to probably show up in the "Discussion stream". It would make sense. ^^;

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

OlderThanRome 23 14 14 12 10 5 5 4 2 1

Your level 1 English flag isn't visible when you're in the English section of Duolingo, as you can easily verify by looking at the flags next to your user name (Portuguese and French).

Also, did the placement test really tell you you have nothing left to learn? I took the German one and it placed me about two thirds down the tree, because of a few sentences where Duo expected a different answer. The same happened to an Italian friend of mine.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

saschambaer 12 6 5 5 4

No, it just left me with the very last "level" undone. I had one mistake in the test, early on on something easy but I don't know if that's what caused this or if the placement test can't actually finish the whole tree for you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GaujosVadas 18 8

I have the same problem, let's check if your tips worked...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GaujosVadas 18 8

Yes! Thank you. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jan-Bella 20 19 109

Hi, I wanted to try the Placement test for English from Czech language. Now I'd like to remove the language, but I'm only able to reset the progress. How do I delete it? I don't want to add any course like English from French or such.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

476 "The following weeks"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1004136>

Translation: Las siguientes semanas

23 years ago

Leave a new comment

37 Comments

eGhost57 19 4 3 3 2 2 2

Why not "Las semanas siguientes" ?

71ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jjindr004 25 14 8

Because it is a limiting adjective, as rspreng notes, and the position of the adjective changes the meaning.

"Las siguientes semanas" = The following (defined set) of weeks.

"Las semanas siguientes" = The weeks after some event (implied to be open ended).

But, as UlyssesOdysseus notes, the difference is not always observed because the meaning is there either way and the difference is subtle.

65ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

M132T003C 23 19 19 18 17 16 14 12 12 10 10 9 9 9 8 8 6 6 6 6 4 3 3 2 1239

"The following weeks" in English can mean "The weeks after some event (implied to be open ended)", in fact this may even be the most common meaning. So your message suggests to me that you can translate "The following weeks" into "Las semanas siguientes".

11ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

Both can be said as "the following weeks" in English, hm?

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rspreng 24

From what I know, when an adjective limits the noun, it comes before. Words like this, that, one, first, last -- and following. Adjectives that 'narrow' the noun and divide it from others of its group.

15ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

haxilo 12

Doesn't all the adjectives have the same function? Dividing the noun from others of its group

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

UlyssesOdysseus 12

I lived in Chile for some some years, Argentina and Mexico, and I always said both and hear people do the same , so I think they are correct no actual information about the rules.

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

YvesPellet 18

Based on jindr004's informative comment I would tend to side with those who say that "Las semanas siguientes" should be accepted. The subtle change of meaning he describes has no direct equivalent in English and seems out of scope for a beginner level course, especially if native speakers don't always observe it.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Exosus 11 10

Why not proximas?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

naranjachocolate 15

that does work too. maybe someone reported it, because "las pro'ximas semanas" was just accepted for me.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jamaicarose2 16 14 6

Why is it siguientes and not siguientes since its a plural feminine noun.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

av223119 20 15

because the adjective "siguiente" doesn't change its form according to gender. Like "grande", which is the same for both masculine and feminine.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gfixler 15 687

Is this just another thing I have to remember per word?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

av223119 20 15

No, the rules is: adjectives are either ending in -o/-a and change their form according to the gender, or they end in something else and they don't.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

gfixler 15 687

This is what I came in here to find out, but no one has answered you :(

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jamaud 25 16 11 6 4

It accepts las semanas siguientes now

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

spiderloft 15

why is las semanas siguientes not accepted???

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

shadowbreakz 23 15 13 12 11 5 4 2

They accepted los meses siguientes but not las semanas siguientes

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

yeseniacastrillo 7

its las semanas siguientes **

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

slycoffee 19 11 2 2

does "las semanas que vienen" sound alright?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

galyendianna 11 2

Seems fine to me. I would use it for "the coming weeks".

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fauna1 15

I agree with that translation for what dl gave me: las semanas que vienen, which I don't think is the same as the following weeks. In English.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mahanizubedy 14

I wish duolingo accepts both. Beginners should not be expected to know the difference, it is confusing and discouraging.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nm53 16

Thank you jindr004 for the thoughtful response. It feels to me that 'the following weeks' could fit into either of your definitions. A bit too subtle for me.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Google translate says either: las semanas siguientes or las siguientes semanas. Why not accepted here?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

t.winkler 21 14 12 11 11 3 287
Forget google translate...

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

2027801 11 9 6 6
pipol way u dizlayk t. winkler? forget gugl transleyt

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

t.winkler 21 14 12 11 11 3 287
et liizt won ahnderstenz mi ;-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

2027801 11 9 6 6
people why you dislike t. winkler? FoRGET GooGLe TransLATE!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

t.winkler 21 14 12 11 11 3 287
DE Die Leute wissen nicht, wie schlecht Google übersetzt. Je komplexer die Satzstruktur, desto schlimmer ist die Übersetzung. Um das Ganze zu testen, übersetzt man am besten einen Satz in eine andere Sprache und dann wieder zurück. Die Ergebnisse haben sich in den letzten Jahren sicher verbessert, allerdings sollte man sich nicht zu 100% darauf verlassen. Nur darum ging es mir mit der Aussage: Vergiss Google Translate... ;-) DE->EN People do not know how badly translated Google. The more complex sentence structure, the worse is the translation. To test it, to translate best one sentence into another language and then back again. The results have improved in recent years, however, one should not rely 100% on it. Just putting it came to me with the statement: Forget Google Translate ... ;-)

DE->ES La gente no sabe lo mal traducida Google. La estructura de las oraciones más complejas, lo peor es la traducción. Para probarlo, para traducir mejor frase en otro idioma y luego de vuelta otra vez. Los resultados han mejorado en los últimos años, sin embargo, no se debe confiar al 100% en él. Sólo ponerlo vino a mí con la declaración: Olvídate Google Translate ... ;-) DE->EN->ES La gente no sabe lo mal traducida Google. La estructura de las oraciones más complejas, lo peor es la traducción. Para probarlo, para traducir una frase en otra especificación lengua y luego de vuelta otra vez. Los resultados han mejorado en los últimos años, sin embargo, no se debe confiar al 100% en él. Sólo ponerlo vino a mí con la declaración: Olvídate Google Translate ... ;-) DE->ES->EN People do not know how badly translated Google. The structure of more complex sentences, the worst is the translation. To try to translate best phrase in another language and then back again. The results have improved in recent years, however, you should not rely on it 100%. Just put it came to me with the statement: Forget Google Translate ... ;-)

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

av223119 20 15

Las semanas entrantes is not accepted.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

l8rgator 16

That's what i thought i learned with pimsler earlier today so i thought maybe i heard wrong

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Abigail.White 10 6 2 2

the following weeks can be so hard especially on a test!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AmP101 7

I got that partially right. I hate when I'm right and wrong, at the same time.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

EdwinoRasmijn 12 12 12 12 291

Why doesn't Duo provide context in the sentence, corresponding with the selected alternative?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Suzume22 19 12 5 2

Can anyone explain why "siguiendo" is a word, but "siguienda" is not?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

skeets 17 19

can someone educate me on how to use the 'immersion' aspect of this program. It seems I can only check other people's translations, but I want to try to translate something myself.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

477 The Spanish Subjunctive. A Lesson for Beginners.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8507401>

paulaha88 16

If you are relatively new to Spanish, subjunctive can be confusing and overwhelming. In this post, I want to build the first few baby steps in your understanding, and I want to lay a foundation that you will be able to build on when you are ready to learn more.

To begin your journey into subjunctive, there are only three simple things you need to know.

Subjunctive is used for uncertainty and emotion. Don't worry about what that means precisely. Not just yet. I simply want you to stick those two words into your brain: uncertainty and emotion.

Subjunctive is normally found in a phrase that begins with que. Now you have three words to remember: uncertainty, emotion, and que-phrases.

You can recognize subjunctive because it has what a call a “swapped vowel.” habla becomes hable, comen becomes coman, puedes becomes puedas. Commands (imperative) has the same flipped vowel, and many of the verb forms are identical. How can you tell whether something is a command or subjunctive? The context of the sentence.

These two sentences are good, clear examples of subjunctive. Learn them.

Es bueno que puedas venir. It’s good that you could come.

Que tengas un buen día. (I hope that you) have a good day.

With these three facts, you have the first layer of the foundation of understanding subjunctive. A. You have a vague idea of what it is used for. B. You can recognize it. C. You have two sentences to use as models. Now I want you to step away from the lessons.

Take your new knowledge out for a test drive. Start reading and listening. Every time a verb uses the wrong vowel at the end (swapped vowel), figure out if it is a command or subjunctive. If it is subjunctive, ask yourself why. Does it line up with your criteria and examples? Is there a que phrase? How is it structured? In what way is the phrase related to uncertainty or emotion? Observe and analyze what you see out there. This step will deepen and broaden your comprehension of subjunctive. It will help you begin to get a feel for it. When you can pull together your knowledge and your instinct, you will conquer subjunctive.

After some practice, you will have built the second layer of your foundation. Then, and only then, you will be ready to study a grammar lesson about subjunctive.

Lessons, for when you are ready to take the next step.

SpanishDict.com’s grammar index. Many articles about subjunctive here.

<http://www.spanishdict.com/grammar>

StudySpanish.com’s Intro to Subjunctive page. <http://www.studyspanish.com/lessons/subj1.htm>

FluenU.com A very good lesson on Subjunctive. <http://www.fluentu.com/spanish/blog/spanish-subjunctive/>

A word to the Spanish veterans reading this:

+ I know subjunctive is a mood, not a tense.

+ I know it is used in a clause, not a phrase.

+ I know I skipped -ir verbs.

+ I know there are times when there is no “que” trigger.

+ I know I didn’t explain how to conjugate stem-changing or irregular verbs.

+ etc., etc.

I skipped over those points on purpose. This thread is meant for new learners, and at that stage subjunctive can be very overwhelming. Therefore I plead with you, do not add that information to this post. If someone wants to create a post which teaches the next stage of understanding subjunctive, I would be very grateful – that would help a lot of people. Let me know, and I’ll gladly link to it from here. But for the sake of those who are easily overwhelmed, please don’t post the next stage of information here.

Give Lingot13

471 year ago

Leave a new comment
26 Comments

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907
The WEIRDO tip/method is really useful.

27ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DaddyTiger 25 15 11 11 8 7 7
This is amazing!!! Thank you :)

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907
De nada. There are some people discussing the W.E.I.R.D.O method on YouTube.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125
Is it "Weird" or "Wierd"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907
;-) Yes . . .weird is the correct spelling!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125
Thanks :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

RGL14 18 12 6 5
¡ Muchas gracias !

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DaddyTiger 25 15 11 11 8 7 7

- Bookmarked for future reference -

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bach4ever 16 13 374
As a relative beginner, the subjunctive intimidates me. Thanks for this post.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 934

If you are looking for a book specifically for subjunctive mood take a look at this one.

<http://www.amazon.com/Practice-Makes-Perfect-Spanish-Subjunctive/dp/0071492259>

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RGL14 18 12 6 5

I am cutting and pasting your suggestions into my notes and will try this out when I get there. Thank you for the tips and the links!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RGL14 18 12 6 5

Thank you for the tips and the links - I have cut and pasted them into my notes and will use this when I get there!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

If you have any doubt feel free to ask me :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MelissaRoberta 6

Haha I've been saying "tienes un buen dia" to lots of people. Now I can say it properly :D Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Anna__Leo 9 7 2

Man, having Latin classes at school really pays off... All this hard grammer-stuff with Spanish is pretty much the same as I already learned with Latin!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pillowtibers 15 10

I think this is a great way to start learning any new verb form: get a little information on it, observe it in the wild, then start studying it. Excellent advice! Thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

paulaha88 16

Thank you, all. I'm glad to hear that it is helping you. I love teaching - if I give you my strawberries, there are no strawberries left for me. But if I give you my knowledge, you gain, I don't lose, and in fact I learn a little more. I like that kind of economics. And I still have my strawberries!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Leslie_Duo 25 24 1189

Un buen primer paso. ¡Excelente!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Talca 25 13

Excellent, timely and helpful. Kudos to Paula. Gracias.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aiigsh 22 9 8

Best post ever!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

oletuv 25 16

A very good beginner's lesson for the subjunctive, Paula. You cover the essentials in a clear and easy to understand way. Btw, to me the subjunctive is in many ways what makes Spanish such a beautiful language.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

paulaha88 16

That's a very interesting perspective, Ole. Could you tell me what makes you say that?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

oletuv 25 16

Btw, I use one of your examples all the time when I'm in Spain: "Que tenga un buen día", "Que tenga una buena tarde/noche", "Que tenga un buen fin de semana" etc. People at the local restaurants, supermarked, hairdresser, golf course etc. become more friendly when talking to them in their own language. You get a nice smile and "Igualmente".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

paulaha88 16

Funny you should say that. "Igualmente" is my favorite reply to subjunctive because it saves me from language embarrassment.

When well-mannered Mexicans part company, they don't say goodbye. They make a polite comment like, "I hope you spend a relaxing evening with your family." The phrase is always something different. It's an awkward moment for a Spanish learner like me because:

The phrase is harder to decipher because it's unrelated to the conversation.

I can't think of an equally polite response because it's not a part of my culture.

My Spanish is lacking, so it takes me another moment to form a response into Spanish, especially since it's usually in subjunctive.

So I used to just stand there, unable to say anything. But then I learned a handy trick. If I get stuck I just say, "igualmente." Not very creative, but at least I don't sound like a barbarian.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

oletuv 25 16

Kind of hard to explain. I guess it is the mood, the sense of emotion and uncertainty, and that many words feel and look prettier, at least to me :) I just love the subjunctive, and luckily enough since most things in this world tend to be uncertain or involve emotions, one hears and reads subjunctive phrases all the time. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

paulaha88 16

I will try to listen for it, with that perspective in mind. It will probably help me learn it better because of learning theory. When you learn something, you connect it to other things you already know. The more different things you can connect it to, the better you know it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

478 "I don't know where to receive the box."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3979795>

Translation: Non so dove ricevere la scatola.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

Lolologist 20 4

As with any other blasted verb, I can't tell any way to see if it needs "a" "per" "da" or anything else before the infinitive!

13ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

shafali09 18 11 4 3

I also have big problems with that. What helps me is to memorize the verbs together with the matching preposition: like pensare a qc. or sapere di qc. and so on...

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

russodo 25 353

I never made the connection. Is the same preposition always paired with the same verb? Do you know of a link to a study list?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Yulia_Shch 14 9 7 3

the preposition before the infinitive is defined by the verb before it) here goes everything i've already shared while doing this unit, it answers all your questions:

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4117423> <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/995941>

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3063612>

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

russodo 25 353

Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mimiducky 9

Someone shared this earlier and I found it super useful:

<http://italian.about.com/od/verbs/a/aa031908a.htm>

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

cmp82 14

Marked wrong for translating as 'non io...etc' - any ideas why io shouldn't have been there? I generally tend to skip it for brevity but didn't think it was actually incorrect to include it..?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Yulia_Shch 14 9 7 3

It's not about "io", it's about "non") the negative particle always goes before the verb, so if you want to use "io" it will be "io non so..." But mind that in italian personal pronouns are not used (ever!) unless you want to underline the subject.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

langman. 22 18 13 12 12 11 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 3 2 2

Il pacco is right Duo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JoyceBurge 12 11 9 3

I reversed two letters grrr

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rcpjenn 23 8 6 3 4

I am using Duolingo as a supplement to the main course I'm using to learn, and all along they have been teaching that "I don't know" is "non lo so." Why won't DL accept this? It only accepts "non so."

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

David1685 24 21 1053

The "lo" in "non lo so" means "it". So "non lo so" literally means "I do not know it". You don't need "lo" in this sentence because the "it" is "la scatola". If you wanted to say "I don't know where to receive it", I think you would say "Non so dove riceverla".

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

italianjdl 19 1

I regularly say to myself "Non" (and I'm half sure that's what I'm typing), what ends up appearing is "No"(I think there may be some auto correction going on)! It's so annoying when the rest of the sentence is perfect and I get the answer marked wrong because of a typo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

479 "The animal hurts itself."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4473987>

Translation: L'animale si ferisce.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

celisjr 17 11 10 6 4

I still don't know when to use "se" or "si." Does anyone know a rule for that?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lukman.A 20 20 15 14 6

se = if

si + verb means a reflexive verb, which implies that the subject does an action towards him/herself.

cmiiw

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stuart.hol2 25 12 7 4 38

My understanding is that it's si before the verb and se after. Same with ti and te etc. Someone else suggested remembering it as "i before... e (after)". Willing to be proved wrong though.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

celisjr 17 11 10 6 4

Hello stuart.hol2. A native Italian speaker told me that se = if. Hope it helps!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Catia9 18 19

Hi, I keep getting muddled on this - I thought it's 'il animale' cos it's masculine - but no, you still have to say 'l'animale' - I don't get why! Has someone got a good explanation that'll help me remember?! Thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kenan820 24 11 9 29

You are correct that it's masculine, but it's "lo animale" rather than "il". And because you have "lo" next to a vowel in the noun, "lo" becomes shortened to l', therefore "l'animale".

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Catia9 18 19

Thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 56

Because 'animale' starts with a vowel.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Turtlerider 23 12 10 6 2 549

Exactly. Il is always shortened to I' when the next word starts with a vowel.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

480 No sound effects

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1272528>

FelixKatze 18

Sound effects (for right/wrong answers, completing skill, etc.) are no longer working for me. Voice playback is still working normally.

I've tried toggling it on/off in the settings, which didn't change anything. Also tried logging out of the site, and logging back in.

They were working fine yesterday.

If it helps, I'm using XP Pro and Firefox.

Give Lingot1

113 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

riisko 10

Bump, sound effects are not working again for couple of days. Tested on Windows 8.1 Firefox, OSX Yosemite Chrome and Safari.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alfie4574 6

I have the same problem. Yesterday they were working, today they are not working (I tested Chrome and Firefox)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ziggKogg 25 11 8 3

Try using Chrome or IE. See if anything changes. Maybe some Firefox add-on is messing around.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FelixKatze 18

Thanks for the add-on suggestion! After some testing, it seems the problem is caused by the Firefox HTTPS Everywhere add-on, which I can disable while using this site.

Problem solved.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ziggKogg 25 11 8 3

Fantastic! ^_^

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GRRBurgess 7 2

Thanks for this. After reading this I turned of privacy badger on firefox and the sound effects worked again.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kendra_h 9

I'm having the same problem. I really miss the little "bing" when you get something right. I use Duolingo on my iPhone exclusively and would really like the sound effects back. Voice playback and microphone-based questions still work fine.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BenTheGeek 20

Is your ringer turned off?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kendra_h 9

I think perhaps it was. The next time I tried it after posting, the "bing" was back, and that was the only thing that had changed.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BenTheGeek 20

Okay! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kendra_h 9

One last bit of data - I discovered yesterday that if I'm in a car equipped with Bluetooth, the kind where your phone calls are on "speaker" through the car's system, the sounds don't play. I verified that my ringer was on and my volume was up. That time, though, I also couldn't hear the microphone or recording.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mephyle 11 7 56

Yes, that was it in my case! The ringer was turned off. It is quite easy for the little switch that toggles the ringer to get accidentally pushed just by holding the phone in that area. At the time it first happened, I was new to the phone and hadn't discovered this yet.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BenTheGeek 20
I'm glad it helped! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mephyle 11 7 56

This happened to me with Duolingo on iPhone. I was in the middle of using it when I saw some sort of "settings" page briefly flash on the screen, and then it returned to the unit I had been working on, but with the sound effects off. The voice playback still sounds correctly in Duolingo, but the effects (the happy little dings) are muted. I checked sound settings in both Duolingo and in the iPhone in general, and couldn't find anything that would restore the sound effects. Any clue?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]
Is it possible to turn off all sounds on the iPhone version?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarlCampbell 18 16 11 10 8 1

Having this problem on a Windows 8.1 laptop running Chrome. Have adblock installed but I have done so for a long time, haven't added any new Extensions recently either :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ramsay61 14 2

HAS this problema On my iPad. Try Settings>general>UseSide Switch to> Lock rotation.

I had accidentally set the side switch to "mute" which killed the sound effects but not the lesson.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

481 "She is the worst student."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/163185>

Translation: Ella es la peor estudiante.

24 years ago

Leave a new comment
109 Comments

critter615 12

Ella just needs some words of encouragement.

214ReplyGive Lingot2•4 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

I think Ella needs to think about her future, buckle down and get her act together :-)

72ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

TheAwesomeClair 11

Awww..... she just needs to study more! ;{

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheAwesomeClair 11

;)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PeteSF 11

Ella está la peor estudiante

15ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bobtheengineer 20

Ella es la peor estudiante, por el momento.

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

mitaine56 15 6

petesf- Wrong- in front of a noun , an article, always SER.

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

DerekWoodh

No ella no es la estudiante peor

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tessbee 24 16 71

Why "está"? It's a description so that's "es".

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Soro_Hanosh 11 1

I think it was a joke about her status being only temporary

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

tessbee 24 16 71

Maybe so :). But being temporary or permanent has nothing to do with it in this case.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

aussieleepea 14 75

haha

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fallingwalls 11

So superlative adjectives must go before their noun? Or just this one?

80ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

gusbemacbe 25 25 12 12 12 11 11 2

Not only the superlative, it also depends on the adjective. For example, malo and bueno are not superlatives and always are before the noun. It's very similar almost in all the neo-Latin languages.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ZeNeece 8 3

Why is the adjective before the noun in this case, but in other cases it has to be after?

73ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dkfailing 25 24 23 7 602

Superlatives are used differently from "normal" adjectives.

59ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

Talca 25 13

A little more about adjectives: This apple is delicious. This apple is more delicious. This apple is the most delicious. Esta manzana es deliciosa. Esta manzana es más deliciosa. Esta manzana es la más deliciosa.

10ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

gusbemacbe 25 25 12 12 12 11 11 2

Yes, it is all correct.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gusbemacbe 25 25 12 12 12 11 11 2

I disagree. Not only the superlative, it also depends on the adjective. For example, malo and bueno are not superlatives and always are before the noun. It's very similar almost in all the neo-Latin languages.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

magickit 14

Why?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

martinlus 25 842

It's just the grammatical rule. Take it up with RAE.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JuanitaJacobs 25 8 4

Where you put it influences the meaning: <http://www.spanishdict.com/topics/show/20>

2ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

DondeMahou 12 3

JuanitaJacobs gracias por el provehoso enlace :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tink38570 10

I'm wondering the same thing.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rspreng 24

yep -- before

28ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Means-Shields 12 2

If peor is worse, then why isn't mas peor = worst?

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mendota 10

using the definite article la is what elevates peor from worse to worst.

86ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

EugeneTiffany 25 12

NO. The placement of "peor" In front of the noun is what changes poor to worst.

17ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

buenasolas 10

Thanks! That helped.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LawrenceBarker 12 12

Yeah, can someone explain this? My understanding was that in order to use an adjective like that you had to use mas. Like, bonita is pretty, mas bonita is prettier, and la mas bonita is prettiest. I thought this was explained somewhere on this site, am I wrong?

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kcmurphy 21 15

It is because "peor" does not mean "bad"; it means "worse." With the definite article (el/la), it becomes "worst."

worse = more bad

peor = más malo

[the] worst student = la peor estudiante

Think of it this way: "bonita" is the same kind of adjective as "malo", "más bonita" is like "peor," and "la más bonita" (the prettiest) is like "la peor."

43ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

hairyfox 10

OK, so I used "el estudiante mas peor", and the worst would be 'la peor'?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

hairyfox- yes, because nothing can be more than la peor

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Furbolg 18

Unless something is "la peor de la peor"

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

4Elysa 11 9

I think my question might be the same as hairyfox's question... What if I wanted to say 'She is the worse student' rather than 'She is the worst student.' If, for example, I was talking about my two daughters and pointing at one. In this case, she is a worse student than her sister, but hopefully not the worst student in the class.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

brunomi_fr 20 13 5 2

i don't know for Spanish but i know for sure in French. If you write: "elle est plus mauvaise que sa soeur, mais pas la pire de sa classe." It means that the other daughter is not necessarily considered as bad. If you write: "elle est pire que sa soeur", It necessarily means that the first daughter is considered bad herself. However i don't know if Spanish would allow the first form.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chenf156 12

So how would I say in Spanish "she is the worse student"?

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

brunomi- Good answer. In French you can't say, plus pire/ más peor, because nothing can be more than PIRE/peor, same in Spanish.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

4Elysa 11 9
Hmm... ok. Merci :)

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

ellistea 12
Thank you - I also got it wrong and NOW I really get why. Have a lingot!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mitaine56 15 6
lawrence- It's only because its impossible to find a word that means more than peor, so peor means that it can be more than peor. Same thing in French, we can't say plus pire / more worst / más peor.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Espaniolisto 14 3
"mas peor" would be like "more worst" if before the noun. After the noun it would be like "more bad", if i understand correctly.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iymkristine 14
Why is la used instead of el for peor? Or are we only using la for the word estudiante?

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

EugeneTiffany 25 12
She is the worst student.

"Ella es la peor estudiante."

He is the worst student.

"Él es el peor estudiante."

26ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

indyute 17 13
Yes, la for estudiante (she)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Anodyne 8 2
Why is the adjective before the noun?

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rkelbaugh 21 96

Why is "élla es la estudiante peor"wrong here?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13

comparative and superlative adjectives are put in front of the noun; the latter must include an article

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gersgraeme 13 95

This is contradicting other courses which states that if the adjective states a quality that is usually taken for granted then it comes before the noun. If the adjective is descriptive then it follows the noun,

"We use comparative adjectives to describe people and things" = So basically all adjectives. If this is the case then why is it "coche rojo" and not the other way around.

This course is terrible for explaining stuff.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Talca 25 13

So sorry. I typed verb in lieu of noun. Now corrected.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

royce1998 7

Ella es el estudiante peor. ?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

schlenkerm 9

Why is it la estudiante? Ella is feminine but isn't estudiante masculine? And I thought adjectives could only be before masculine nouns?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

according to SpanishDict.com, estudiante is either masculine or feminine depending on the actual gender of the person. I'm not aware of any rule that adjectives only apply to masculine nouns... you may be right, but I'm not sure how that could work - for example, how would you say "the worst chair" if you couldn't use "el/la peor"?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

schlenkerm- I think the superlatives always go before the verbs. Adjectives often go in front of the noun. there's a rule that says when you put the adjective before, it changes the meaning, EX : su nueva casa, means his new house, belongs to him. Una casa nueva, a new house. and probably we don't know who's the owner. You see the difference?. Also adjectives like bueno, become buen before the noun, For grande, una gran casa / a big house..

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ErikRed1 16 5 2

So, "ella es la estudiante peor" would mean that she is the worse student, suggesting a direct comparison to another student?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

merryllilli 17 8 2

What is a superlative adjective?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ImpInTraining 16 6 2

A superlative adjective compares three or more nouns. This takes the comparison of nouns to the highest degree. In this case, from poor to worst.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Arsha123 25 11 6 6 2 313

Finally... Something that I can use!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

hmm... i thought peor was "worse" so assumed "la mas peor" would be worst...

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kcmurphy 21 15

That would be literally "the more worst." But you know now!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

brunomi_fr 20 13 5 2

Peor actually means both worse or worst depending on the context.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Deltido 10

Somebody has got to be the worst. Maybe she's the worst in a school of geniuses.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

hola.soy.carl 8

Shouldn't the adjective go after the noun?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ImpInTraining 16 6 2

If it is a ranking adjective... Best, worst, 1st, 2nd, etc... No.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ClasedeProfe 8

Usually adj. go after the noun, but there are ALWAYS exceptions to that rule and it depends on what you're trying to convey for meaning. Take a look at this, Carolota. I think this will help. :)

<http://www.spanishdict.com/topics/show/20>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KLTAh 12 11 2 2

i said ella es la peor estudiante, but it corrected me saying that es la peor alumna is the correct answer instead

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jeanine 25 203

It seems like lo has been used for objects before.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pepe0001 13

lo is for him or it, not ella.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ayePete 24 12 8 7 6 5 3 3

what's the difference between 'lo' and 'el'?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

el, is an article, which goes with a noun, el estudiante. él, is a personal pronoun, 3rd person sing. él es estudiante. lo is a direct complement, no lo conozco. lo takes the place of the noun in this sentence.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

robinjacob-I don't know why someone put me a down vote here, If this person thinks that my comment is wrong, please at least tell me why. I will give another exemple ; I saw him / Lo he visto. Who did I see? the answer is him. Lo is the direct complement of visto. I don't know him no lo conozco. I know WHO? him, so lo is the direct complement.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RobinJacob4 11 4

brunomi_fr and mitaine56: you are both very helpful, thank you. I have never heard the term "complement" used in grammar. These comments are so eye-opening

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

RobinJacob4 11 4

In "No lo conozco" is lo the reflexive? What is a direct complement?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brunomi_fr 20 13 5 2

"no lo conozco" is not reflexive because "lo" refers to a third person (or thing). Reflexivity would mean that you are both the subject and the complement (such as in "I hurt myself"). Here it would be "no me conozco"

As for the definition of direct and indirect objects I suggest you consult the material there:
<http://studyspanish.com/lessons/dopro1.htm>

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

I'm ready to be corrected (not sure of this at all), but I think that lo is used with adjectives to turn them into nouns... For example... "Que coche es el tuyo?" "Lo peor". "The worst" is a noun in its own right in this example, so we would use "lo" to create the noun from "peor".

In this case (the worst student), "the worst" is just a modifier of the word estudiante (which can be either masculine or feminine), so you use "la". If it was a male student you would say "El es el peor estudiante".

This may all be rubbish, and if someone can give a better explanation I'll happily delete my post :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ayePete 24 12 8 7 6 5 3 3

Thanks, @ph516503 and mitaine56! Now clear to me!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

yiminhao 11 5

If "He is the worst student" should be "El es el peor estudiante"? la or el, depends by "ella" or "el", not "peor" itself. Am I understanding this correctly?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

I think technically it's "estudiante" that determines whether you use "el" or "la". This can be either masculine or feminine, depending on who the student is, so yes, IMO it would be "el es el peor estudiante".

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

yiminhao 11 5

Let me think. thanks!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

HomesickTourist 24 11 213

Why all adverbs are after noun but this is before ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rooseveltnut1 22 7 3 8

I think you mean adjectives.....Not ALL adjectives are. Before or after sometimes changes the meaning. English is a lot goofier than Spanish, for me anyway, so I try not to get frustrated with it. Sometimes it is really hard not to. I try to remember that I'm not winning a contest here, I'm just trying to learn a new language and it's not easy.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

audreymam1 22

I know how she feels.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

brunomi_fr 20 13 5 2

Why is la estudiante peor not accepted?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sherrie.ha3 14 2 74

Ok my issues is more with the use of 'es' instead of 'esta' (sorry for the non-accent on the 'a'). I understood that 'es' is more for a permanent/fixed condition (He is tall) versus esta is used for temporary circumstances (She is the worst student.) BUT she could improve later. I don't see a tall person changing to be short. What am I missing here?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

brunomi_fr 20 13 5 2

I suggest you read the following series of articles on Ser and Estar. They help a lot understand how to use both verbs. <http://studyspanish.com/lessons/serest1.htm>

2ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

The more I learn about this, the more I think the permanent / temporary thing is a red herring. There's a whole set of rules, and exceptions to those rules that mean it's much more complicated than that. I'd suggest reading up on it, trying to learn the DOCTOR / PLACE mnemonic, and just trying to soak it up until you get a "feel" for it...

2ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

rkelbaugh 21 96

two out of three translations on "SpanishDict" use "el" here.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rkelbaugh 21 96

why is "es la estudiante peor" wrong here?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mattiechi 13

What would it mean if i said ella es la estudiante peor? Would the meaning change or would it just sound weird?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

m.sandhu123 12 6

So does "peor" mean worst?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kowshik.no 20 16

Is it okay to say "ella es la estudiante peor"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

gusbemacbe 25 25 12 12 12 11 11 2

No, because "malo" and "peor" always are before the noun.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

AlessandroSy 10

Young Savage why u trapping so hard?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

wendystrom1 9 21

why is peor in front of estudiante

0ReplyGive Lingot•yesterday

stefk3 7

good to know - thanks

-1ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

redneckray 17 13

She ain't as bad as I am

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ph516503 20 15 15 12 9 6

I'm much more worserer than both of youse

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ayePete 24 12 8 7 6 5 3 3
lol. I can't say I'm the worstest!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Neverletmigo 17 9 8
Lol. I am the most worstest. Hahaha

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago
[+] 2 hidden comments

knklbrr11 10 5
Google translate has it as, "ella es el peor de los estudiantes" - is that also acceptable for duolingo?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

werewolfzzz1712 15
Ella needs to worry about her future McDonald's job

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jaujeno 8
Surely "peor" is "worse" and "the worst" is "la mas peor"?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rkelbaugh 21 96
it seems that the (el/la) refers to student, which is masculine. How come it is feminine?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

482 Golden Owl Hall of Fame - Please Sign Up on the New One (#2)
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3886368>

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
If you found this link, please post here instead. The amount of comments is making it difficult to scroll through. Thank you!

Give Lingot44
1032 years ago

Leave a new comment
219 Comments

Jequé 24 15 15 13 10 10 9 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 201
I love this idea!

If you (or anyone) would like the full-sized owl sprite sheet, Duolingo has their current version here. It has every present owl sprite as well as the Dutch and Irish golden owls. There are some other really neat ones in there...

By the way, I've completed the German and Spanish trees :D.

EDIT 1/13/17: current version here

24ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jlhuiz884 15 3 2

Cool find! Anybody else noticed the small "mistake" in the Dutch flag around Duo's shoulders? It's red on both sides.. :)

Anyway, I hope to finish my first (German) tree in a couple of days, will report back here then!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HeteroSapiens 8 5 4 4

The Dutch Flag isn't on there...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jlhuiz884 15 3 2

I'd say you're right, however, Duolingo portrays the Dutch flag rotated 90 degrees in this picture as well as in the ribbons with the level inscribed on the profile pages. If you look at the picture, that's also the case for the German and Spanish flag..

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HeteroSapiens 8 5 4 4

Duolingo must have made a mistake. I'm pretty sure that was supposed to be the French flag, since it would be extremely hard to complete the Dutch Course already.

Good job finding the error btw

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-patrycja- 11 8 6

Surprisingly, someone did.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3904256>

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

AmirYousef1 9

in a couple of days?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

My goodness, this is fantastic! Thank you so much! Lingots for Jeque, and you are in!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jeque 24 15 15 13 10 10 9 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 201
You're very welcome! And oh my goodness that's a sea of lingots!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ALoUSyUseRnaME 25 25 16 9 5 5 4
Where did you find that page?

0ReplyGive Lingot10•2 years ago

Jeque 24 15 15 13 10 10 9 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 201
I wrote on your stream :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

araparseghian 21 21 21 18 17 15 13 12 12 12 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 3 3 3 2
I'm in - got 5 golden owls and coming very close to a sixth

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

araparseghian 21 21 21 18 17 15 13 12 12 12 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 3 3 3 2
Better add that sixth trophy now

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Samsta 17 16 12
Have you done an English tree? That would count as your seventh.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

araparseghian 21 21 21 18 17 15 13 12 12 12 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 3 3 3 2
I actually have, I forgot about that! English for Spanish speakers!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Added in. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

buunny 13 10 9 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 4 3 3
Me, too! Good luck to you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CloverPhan 11 9 8
how amazing! how can you get it?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ThompyAlpaca 21 14 12 8 6 6 3
I have finished my french tree!

End of the tree.

Certificate of proof.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
You're in. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ThompyAlpaca 21 14 12 8 6 6 3
Sorry, the image didn't load. I have fixed the issue.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dan_The_Man1912 22 14 6 6 2
I have completed the Spanish tree

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CodyORB 22 13 5 11
And probably the Italian tree

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zwaasdorp 25 21 18 16 9 6 4 3
I've finished Spanish, French, German and Italian! Thanks for doing this, I'm excited to report when I finish more!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

heathermagoo 25 25 23 17 14 11 11 10 9 191
Three cheers for AlexisLinguist (Update! and Mr. Aaren and stephenba4. Yay!) Duolingo inspires so many of us to complete the language trees and then to keep building and sharing... That's worth spotlighting.

Please sign me up. Golden Duos in German (from English) and Spanish (from English). More to come when the glorious summer draws to a close and winter sends me indoors.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

1.5 of those cheers have to be for Mr.Aaren. He had the idea, I implemented. :) Thanks, and you are in.

0ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

What about 1.5 cheers for me for giving Mr.Aaren the idea :P.

0ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

This is how we'll do it, then: 1 cheer to stephenbal4 for the preconcept, 1 cheer to Mr.Aaren for the concept, and 1 cheer to AlexisLinguist for the implementation. Satisfied? :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

haha sounds good. i didn't even realize the cap was three and that i'd tried to steal the rest xD.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ALoUSyUseRnaME 25 25 16 9 5 5 4

Did you actually give me the idea? It just popped into my head one day...

0ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

That's an unintentional lie, because you responded to his post several times. Stephenbal4 must be Dom Cobb from Inception.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

Lol. I like this comment.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

That question I posted about seeing a list of who'd finished a tree lol. Maybe you had the idea beforehand. idk.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ALoUSyUseRnaME 25 25 16 9 5 5 4

Hmm... I never saw that post. I think a lot of other users were probably thinking the same thing though.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3864608>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Anirudhtiware 4 4
i get surprised when i see people complete 2 to 3 trees when i am just another noob

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

swtoby 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 7
You can sign me up too, if you want. I have five golden owls (FR, ES, DE, PT, IT). :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3
#thingsilearnedfromthisthread araparseghian, buunny, Knoxienne, swtoby, ajcee7, Soolrakm, stwel,
and zwaasdorp have even less of a life than me :).

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3
Deutsch! Allemagne! German! Deutschland! Allemand! Germany!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Gratulation!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
In this format (no spaces in front of the exclamation mark or between brackets):

! [leave it empty if you want] (the direct photo link)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3
Got it. Proof is there :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
I'll take your word for it. Nice trophy.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3
Danke :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Soedori 21 10 8 6 4
One English (KOR reverse course) Golden Duo spot for me!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jluhuiz884 15 3 2
Finally finished my German tree, coinciding with my 100 day streak!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Gratulation!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

skyehoppers 21 12 9 6 4 2
I've completed the Spanish tree. Do I need to provide proof?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tomklemm 18 14 11 7 6 6 3
Hello. It seems to be a nice idea to collect trophies here. I finished the German tree and the English (for speakers of Hungarian) tree. However, I studied German at the university - so it does not really count as a great achievement in Duo. It will be really great when I finish French, which I learn totally 'from scratch' here.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

harryclark17 24 14 10 9 7 6 48
I've got my French trophy!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Soolrak 25 25 25 22 20 19 17 16 15 14 14 11 7 1
I have the English, Spanish, Italian and French golden owl :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lavmarx 15 15 13 13 12 9 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2
Now I want to be there, I finished my Italian and Portuguese tree. (I also think I finished the 21 days challenge in time)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DXabier 23 20 14 13 6

I have completed the English tree.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_lusofono_ 25 19 18 13 6 3

Would you put me on? I've only got one golden owl; I didn't realize how rare even that was.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

leehaber 17 16 16 15 10 6 4

I have one for Portuguese - Eu tenho um para português

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jsprwstr 25 24 20 19 17 16 11 9 6 6 4 4 3 104

I'd like to be on it. :) I finished my Spanish, Portuguese, and German trees.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Nitram. 25 16 16 11 6 6 5 2

I have an Italian golden Duo :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lavinae 25 25 20 13 12 12 11 8 7 7 7 3 3 2

Hey Alexis,

Great idea!

I have a Spanish and a French trophy. ^^

I wonder what my third trophy will be.... Dutch won't count and neither will English. (;

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Thanks! Yes, it will. :) I count them because a trophy is a trophy. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lavinae 25 25 20 13 12 12 11 8 7 7 7 3 3 2

Hm....well to that, I won't object. (;

Thanks!! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

Then can you post my English course trophy ? ;-) Btw I got the trophy for Spanish course, not Italian course (not yet anyway ;)

Thanks Alex!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

No problem. My name is Alexis, actually. AlexisLinguist.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

Thanks Alexis :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kai_E. 25 23 20 12 4 3

This looks fun! Alright let's see... I have trophies for German, French, Italian, English and Dutch...

Thank you for adding me :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wombatua 25 25 14 13 13 13 12 11 8 5 3 1392

German and Spanish here.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EliseBalho 14 11 6

I finished the Spanish tree! French here I come..

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

Yayuh!!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nakajimab5n 25 20 6 3

Would you add me to the list? I've just gotten my French trophy and I am so happy.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Congratulations!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

daninell 25 11 1070

I also just finish my reverse tree (spanish to english).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Congratulations, as did I! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Magnvs 11 10 9 2
What is a reverse tree?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pobrecito13 17 11 9 8 7
Say your native language is English, you learn Spanish, and then when you finish you go back and "learn" English from Spanish. That is what is called a reverse tree, but it is not available for every language combination.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Magnvs 11 10 9 2
Oh, thanks. Btw, is that how one reaches lvl 25, or can that only be done by Immersion?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lrtward 25 25 8 166
@stephenbal4, it depends on what tier you have reached in Immersion. As peers vote that your translations are good, and as you gain experience translating, your tier will change to 2, then 3, etc. At the top of the Immersion page is an update that explains how the upvotes work to help advance you to the next tier.
As your tier increases, the amount of points you earn per word increases. When you begin, you are at tier one and you get few points for your efforts. If you go to Immersion and look at your progress "thermometer" there is a blue question mark. Click it and it explains how the points break down.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

pobrecito13 17 11 9 8 7
No, then it is a second tree, so the points earned are different for each tree. I think immersion, uploading articles to immersion, and timed quizzes is where you get all the points. I've only done the immersion, so I'm not positive on the last two.

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
It's easier to reach Level 25 with Immersion.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3
Really @Alexis @pobrecito13? How fast does immersion up your xp?

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

danielramosmelo 23 15 14 11 8 6 5 3 2 5
I have completed the spanish tree :) (back in January) ! Will post soon when I finish the german ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vic3685 18 15 14 13 11 11 8 6

I just finished my German tree :-) I'm up to 3 owls now! BTW, it's not Italian, it's Spanish that I completed.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Fixed! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vic3685 18 15 14 13 11 11 8 6

Thanks! I love this post, keeps me going :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KerrieSalsac 25 21 12 11

I finished the Spanish tree last night! :D I don't know how to add an image to these posts though, how do I post my fancy Duolingo certificate :P

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

¡Felicitaciones! Puede usar este formato (pero no espacios:

! [] ( direct link to the photo )

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KerrieSalsac 25 21 12 11

Golden Spanish Owl

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

I can't see it. :/

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KerrieSalsac 25 21 12 11

No me gusta tecnologia! :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Did you make sure there were no spaces, and that the link you have is the direct link? You might have to upload it to a photo storage site like Photobucket.

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

KerrieSalsac 25 21 12 11

I think it was because I used dropbox :-/ Just used facebook instead and it worked :) Thanks :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Awesome, you're welcome!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Marinia 15 13 8 6 5 4

Just finished my very first tree in german, so happy!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Gratulation!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aussiedom 12

Hi Alexis - I just finished the Spanish tree. Can I be added please? Many thanks, Dom

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Felicitaciones. Sí, le agregué.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MThoriqMalano 16 16 15 14 11 10 3

I've finished the Spanish tree and French tree! Now I just need to golden them up and then start conquering the German tree :3

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnaH135 18 17 16 8 6 6 5 3 2 598

Exciting! I finished my Spanish tree a little while ago and now I'm working on the Portuguese one.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sabisteb 24 23 15 14 12 12 1078

I have 3 owls FR/EN/DE

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Great idea, Alexis! Can I be added? I've finished my German tree, btw....

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
No problem, I'll add you later today. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
Excellent, thanks :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

M132T003C 23 19 19 18 17 16 14 12 12 10 10 9 9 9 8 8 6 6 6 6 4 3 3 2 1239
I've only just seen a link to this thread. So far I have golden owls for Spanish from English and French from English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ceaeer 25 25 23 16 932
I have my owl trophies for Spanish and Portuguese :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kimojima 25 22 14 14 13 13 8 8 6 1208
0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maria.nils 24 21 17 14 13 13 12 11 10 9 9 8 8 8 7 5 3 2 413
I'm in - one tree so far (Italian), but working on more

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CtrlZED 20 8 6 4 17
I have my Italian owl :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

uermsi 24 18 16 13 10 10 4 3 2
I have my french trophy!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hrelinho 23 10 6
I have finished portuguese tree!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jaye16 25 25 25 13 6 3 2 174
I've completed the German tree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vic3685 18 15 14 13 11 11 8 6

I want to be on the hall of fame too! I finished French and Spanish. I'll get the German and Dutch ones someday too.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mrankin15 19 4 3 2

I finished the German tree :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

northwesterly 22 8 6 4 3

Just my French trophy so far! :) This is a nice idea.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sojinjung 14 13 9 9 5 3 2 2

Spanish tree for me! I completed it in 40 days, but I wouldn't say I'm even close to being past a beginner in Spanish. I'm working on Dutch and German now, but not allowing myself to lose hearts in lessons. Though really I'm just waiting for Irish (and Swedish which is a ways away).

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

makemusic 24 13 9 8 5 2

LOVE THIS. I'm gonna hurry up and finish my German tree and join the Golden Owl club! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

makemusic 24 13 9 8 5 2

Sweeeeet!!! A duolingo-disney combo? Two of my favorite things! :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

superlyke 17 10 2

I have my Spanish trophy!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Wonderboy6 25 14 8

Have my Spanish Owl ^^,,,stating wheter the person has hit a maximum of lvl 25 next to perhaps would be a cool feature edit: also a shoutout to lolaphilologist who has five golden owls all at level 25!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SoccerStripes 15 7 5 5 3

Hello! This is an amazing idea! I've finished my Spanish tree. (hint, hint) ;) I love this idea. Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

Fantastic idea Alex! I've got my Spanish owl. I also got an owl for the English course for Vietnamese speakers, but I don't think that count since I'm the contributor for that course lol .

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jsprwstr 25 24 20 19 17 16 11 9 6 6 4 4 3 104

Hey, thanks for adding me to the list! Just one small thing — I've finished my Spanish tree, not my Italian one. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LeMaitre 21 15 13 12 11 9 8 8 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 2 2

Great idea! You can sign me up for the French trophy.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Elen-ka 17 14 12 8 6 6 3

Add me, add me! I have 2 owls as well, for Portuguese and Italian trees. Thanks in advance!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

badacz 18 18 18 17 17 14 12 11 11 10 9 8 8 6 6 4 137

Hey, nice idea! I've got five trophies - for Spanish, Italian, French, Portuguese and German.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dinnernugget 23 22 22 20 19 12 8 65

Just finished Spanish tree. All gold, all done! Put me up there.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rubinger 20 14 11 8 5 4 3 3

That's amazing! :) I have the English and German trophy.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Isrianth 25 25 23 21 16 4 1305

I have two Dúos for English and Spanish. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jamestheproducer 20 6 5 2

I just finished the french tree.. How do I get my name on the wall?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

Probably. Natives, yeah definitely. There's probably a non-native who is retired and just does this all day. EDIT: Whoops. Wrong comment to reply to.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SOS_90 25 24 15 12 2 18

This topic came exactly the right time as I finished my French tree today. I also have a German trophy but I don't know if this counts as German is my native language and I could test out of nearly all the skills and finish the rest in about half an hour...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Yes, it will. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SOS_90 25 24 15 12 2 18

Another cheat tree finished: English for German speakers ;-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

3wereld 19 19 16 16 12 10 9 8 7 5 5 5 4

I've completed the German, English and Dutch tree, how do you enter this thing?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

You just post here and she'll add you up above.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

3wereld 19 19 16 16 12 10 9 8 7 5 5 5 4

Oh okay, great! Im already in the list haha. I really love this!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

choeisa 22 14 12 11 11 9 8

Until they fix the hack that lets people finish trees without obtaining any knowledge of the language, this won't have much credibility.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carolind 14 11 11 10 10 5

I wouldn't worry too much about credibility. There isn't even a way to check if the people have the owls they say they have. It is based on trust. And that's how it should be. Posts like this are about celebrating an achievement and motivating yourself and others.

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Mennjai 16 4 4 2 2 2

Well said. When people "cheat" here, they only cheat themselves.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Yes, what is this hack? I've never heard of it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stephenbal4 19 19 14 12 11 9 7 7 6 5 5 4 2 3

How do you do that?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

psyon82 20 9 7

I have the Spanish tree complete

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Townsy11 25 15 10 2 2 2 2

A fantastic idea! Just in case you weren't busy enough AlexisLinguist, I've just finished my French tree! Thanks for doing this! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

You're welcome!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ferrobattuto 25 22 17 6 5 3

I have the Portuguese one.

0ReplyGive Lingot6•2 years ago

LICA98 25 25 20 18 12 11 11 11 11 8 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 11

I've done the Spanish tree too :P

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rosebud131 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 15 14 14 13 13 12 11 1327

Sign me up! I've finished the French, Spanish, and German trees. Next up is Italian!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lavmarx 15 15 13 13 12 9 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2

My Italian owl doesn't appear. :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Fixed, Lamarz! I'd switched the photo tags when I was naming them.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

glavkos 22 14 14 10 8 7 6 6

Please include me to the list. 2 trees are done: German (from English) and English (from Greek) more than a month ago. I noticed just today about this list :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adri_f 20 18 14 12 10 8 5 5 5 4 3 2 2 2

I have completed the Italian (which is my mother tongue) and German trees. The next one will probably be Dutch... or French, I don't know it yet. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

svs29 22 21 21 21 14

Please add me :) I completed 3: Spanish, Italian and most recently French. Working on Portuguese now.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

uermsi 24 18 16 13 10 10 4 3 2

I just finished my german tree, so you can add one more tree for me! Yay!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Congratulations!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rachael.cr3 18 15 14 13 13 13 12 11 10 9 9 9 8 8 7 7 7 7 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 182

French for me! Hoping to add more soon...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pobrecito13 17 11 9 8 7

Put me down for un búho dorado.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JamesTomMajor 8

so cool i am nearly there can't wait!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

I like it. :)

Put me down for French, s'il vous plait.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Magnvs 11 10 9 2

I just got my spanish owl!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Congratulations. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Magnvs 11 10 9 2

Gracias! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Coby_Hughes 24

Thanks for adding me. It feels good to be finished and to be able to go out and learn with renewed confidence.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

De rien.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

Hello! Add me: Spanish, English and French are done! Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Done and done.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

I'd love to be on here too. I've got the Spanish, French and German owls + German from Russian.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Your wish is my command. I'm still deciding exactly what I want to do for the reverse trophies, so you won't see it up yet.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

Hello again, I just finished my English-from-Russian tree, please add that owl when you've got time for it! I'm pretty proud of this one. :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Congratulations!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

Thanks a lot! (I'm afraid you put me too high on the list though, I should probably go between ajcee7 and Mavry since I've only got 4 visible owls).

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Lo siento. :) I did indeed! I tend to get confused with all the links:

.

0Give Lingot1•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

@AlexisLinguist Pretty confusing indeed! Thanks all the more for being the keeper of this owlery :)

0Give Lingot1•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

Thank you! I do hope Duo will add the owls to our profiles eventually.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

graham_wildzaner 15 14 10

I have finished the Spanish tree. In less than 40 days I will have the French tree complete

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

graham_wildzaner 15 14 10

How do I get on the list ? I posted that I completed the Spanish tree a few weeks ago.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Sorry, Graham. I didn't see your name, or I did, and completely forgot to put you on the list. You are there now, though.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

graham_wildzaner 15 14 10
Thank you

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pixelstars 25 9 4 75
I just finished my French tree! :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ProfesorAxel 11 11 3 2
I have completed the Portuguese and English trees

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dcall498 25 25 22 11 9
I've completed the Spanish and French trees.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

e-nawar 21 15 5
Add me to the list! I just finished my English tree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FresnoVegas 12 11 11 10 7 7 7 7 5 4 3 19
I finished my Spanish tree. May I be included?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

finn.fr 15 8 8 8 7 6 5 5 5 3 2
J'ai terminé mon arbre/He terminado mi árbol :) (De francés)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13
I finished spanish tree in January 2014. How do I add my name? Thanks, Talca

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
I add it for you. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13
Gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Khajiit7952 18 2
I've completed the French tree :)

<http://imgur.com/BZ0wCj9>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Trisha1961 25 25 25 25 21 15 14 12 9 7 4 3 3 1273
Hi, I have my 3 owls in French, Spanish and German (on my way to getting Italian, but I think Portuguese and Dutch will take for ever!!).....so could I join the Hall of Fame please. Thanks very much.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Objectivist 16 14 13 12 11 1241
Can I be added? I've completed the German, Spanish and Dutch skill trees.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Done!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

robin.west 16
I just finished my Spanish tree. Can you add me? Thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Congrats and yes. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

roee97 20 14 10 9 6 5 2 2
I completed my spanish tree, can you please add me to the list?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
You're on the list!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

roee97 20 14 10 9 6 5 2 2
Muchas gracias (:

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Szab 25 22 21 9 8 3 2 1200

I have finished the german tree a few month ago, but I am not on the list. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

I don't add people here and there, I have to get their permission. ;) This is my first time seeing your name on the forum...I'll add you in later today.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Szab 25 22 21 9 8 3 2 1200

Thank you. I find this topic today.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Teahl 10 6

Great idea! I'm taking my language-learning very slowly, so I won't qualify for this Hall of Fame any time soon... but I do plan on finishing at least Italian and Irish, so I'll be up there eventually!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

babybrotherangel 19 14 2

Yes this is great I would like to join the list.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kendaps 25 21 11 7 3 2

I have my spanish owl trophy - still working on getting the whole tree golden.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlfonsoACCA3003 18 11

I finished my English Tree

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

babybrotherangel 19 14 2

Thank you. So nice to see myself up there. I will work on adding owls. Many inspirations there.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ModelT800 25 7

I just finished the Spanish tree. Please add me to the list. Thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

oogaboogabooga 15

I finished the Spanish tree. Please add me to the list. Thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1065
Hi Alexis, I finally finished my French tree to add to the other five... Can I also join the ranks ?

I'll go for the English one now while I'm waiting for Irish :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Awesome, puts you up high on the list! Congrats to the Fab Five completion!

0ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1065
Fantastic, thanks! It's actually the Fab Six... the novelty factor lead me to complete Nederlands before Italian and French :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1065
Completed my first reverse tree now too: English from Spanish :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Szab 25 22 21 9 8 3 2 1200
I finished my second tree!! :) "english for hungarians" after the "german for english"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

whyavuz 12 3
please add me for german

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kgkoon 25 17
I finished the Spanish tree!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jonathan-- 18 17 13 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 2
I just finished the Dutch tree (previously finished the Spanish tree). Could you update my listing in this august assemblage?

Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

manjot297756 11
Golden Owl Hall of Fame - Please Sign Up on the New One (#2)

f you found this link, please post here instead. The amount of comments is making it difficult to scroll through. Thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CoenJones 18 8 4 3 2 2 2

have finished my french tree :) could you please add it :) thank you

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dragocards 16 11 11 10 8 8

I have 4 trophies: English (from French), French, Russian, and Esperanto. Next conquest: Spanish and Hebrew (when it is released of course)

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Joshexplore 20 12 8 2

Completed German Duolingo course after an incredibly fun 7 months. Moving to Hamburg in two weeks to work and really push my skills to the next level

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

French_Bunny 22 14 12 11 9 5 5 4 3 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 864

English, french, italian and german gold owls for me please !

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

HojaDelDragon 24 4

Just finished Spanish tree!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Stevalion 15 14 8 7 443

I have golden owl in English tree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

483 eine vs einen

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1022>

iBrow 4 4

When to use eine vs einen?

Give Lingot

85 years ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

CSYPRV 4 4 2

"Eine" is used for feminine nouns that are the subject and direct object of a sentence (the noun being directly acted upon by the verb.) "Einen" is used for masculine nouns that are the direct object of a sentence. Feminine and masculine are merely types of nouns. Some nouns are masculine. Some are feminine. This has nothing to do with biological gender, and in fact is arbitrarily assigned.

"Zeitung" which means "newspaper" is a feminine noun despite being an inanimate object. You just have to remember what gender a noun is when you memorize it.

"Apfel" meaning "apple" is a masculine noun. When it's the subject, we say "ein Apfel". When it's the direct object, "ein" changes to "einen". Consider these two sentences. "Ein Apfel ist gut." This means "an apple is good." The apple is the subject of the sentence, so it uses "ein". "Ich esse einen Apfel." Now it's the direct object of the sentence. I am the subject. It is the thing being eaten. Therefore, "ein" becomes "einen".

The same thing happens with "der" to "den" for masculine nouns. Feminine nouns retain "die" when they are the direct object. You may be wondering why articles do this in German. It allows for unique word order. In English, the sentence is understood through word order. The subject comes first. The verb follows. Next, the direct and indirect objects end. In German, we can say "Einen Apfel esse ich." and the "einen" tells us that "Apfel" is the object and not the subject, despite being the first noun in the sentence!

33ReplyGive Lingot•5 years ago

FrogMeDanny 8 7

"In German, we can say "Einen Apfel esse ich." and the "einen" tells us that "Apfel" is the object and not the subject, despite being the first noun in the sentence!"

This is truly amazing, I never thought German was this complicated, yet so intelligent!

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

achudars 23 7

eine - female; einen - Akkustativ & male. This cheat sheet should help:
http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_sum.htm

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 years ago

2027801 11 9 6 6
eeds

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jcrist0711 2
I dont get it

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

ueritom 11 9 8 6 6 312
I did get it.. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

484     "The boy is eating an apple."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/568574>
Translation: Der Junge isst einen Apfel.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

36 Comments

Gibbo23 6

why is it einen and not "eine" or "ein" ?

24ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Eqazart 8 7 7

Because it is in accusative case, which indicates the direct object of the sentence. Only masculine changes in acusative

16ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Santiago_Soares 10 6 4

But Isn't 'Apfel' masculine, is it? I thought 'Apfel' is feminine

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

Bia_26 4 3 2

Its like in english. We say 'an apple' and not 'a apple'. And on this case is 'einen apfel' and not 'ein/eine apfel'. I hope you understand. Sorry, my english it isn't so good. I'm brazilian and I'm studying english.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

matt766491 10

It is a little different in English. "A" is used when the following word begins with a consonant, "an" is used when following word begins with a vowel.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

xxxhannnxxx 6

because einen is an

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

randyrandy 14

why not den Apfel?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

katiebeth01 10

Den Is the in German

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

randyrandy 14
Thanks:)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

katiebeth01 10
No problem!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

zoehbird 11 10 5 2
I don't get it. Einen is plural ....

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Eqazart 8 7 7
Eine is plural. Einen is masculine accusative. Accusative indicates the object that receives the action (being eaten in this case). Also, Apfel is singular, and changes to Äpfel in plural (note the umlaut).

21ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

zoehbird 11 10 5 2
Ok thanks. So eine is both feminine and plural in the nominative case? Like Die?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chaosmiasma 3
yes.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rmajunior 15 13 11 11 11 7 6
Danke! Now I get it! Great explanation! =D

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

HassanFarr 9
Einen is like an before A in nouns...

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

scottdk1 4 2
Why is it isst instead of esse and how can I tell when to use them

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

danipi67 4
"Isst" is for the third person in singular (er/sie/es isst), "esse" is for the first person in singular (Ich esse)

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NurulAries 7

Thank you so much. This helps a lot. Really.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ccahyana 4

hmhh... I just consider that "the boy" translated with "der Junge" not "die Junge".. Anyone can explain why is it "der" and not "die" since Junge = boy (masculine) ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

KtG1 8 2 2 2

"Der" is the masculine version, "die" is female or plural

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

torsvik 7

why cant i use "den Apfel?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

zelos91 7 2

that would be The boy is eating the apple der Apfel - ein Apfel the apple - an apple

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

joeker87 5

So how is correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

hipocampelo 7

Der Junge and der Mann are grammatically similar.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mithun98 5

What is the difference between das and der

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jnlrrn 2

Both das and der stands for "the" in english. However, das is for neuter words and der is for masculine words.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jnlrrn 2

When should i use trinke trinkt and trinkst? Do they differ in tenses??

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RobynAyles 6

Why is der Knabe not acceptable...doesnt that mean boy?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cecereandr 3 3

Why is it used der?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Monkeyfire16

When do I use esse and where do I use isst? How do I know?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Malasribun 6

I get confussing with this two

Der Junge isst einen Apfel.

and nother one

Der Junge isst den Apfel.

Can anyone help Please.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vandana100 2

awesome

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

nicholas.b247719 6

Why 'isst' instead of 'essen'?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

485 "Die," "Das," "Der," and "Den"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2704060>

seltian 25 25 14 7 6 6 4 2

Is there any good heuristic for judging when 'tis appropriate to use these articles? I continue to get tripped up by this.

Give Lingot1

42 years ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

[deactivated user]

Die: Feminine and plural (most nouns ending in -e are feminine)

Der: Masculine (most nouns are masculine) and dative/genitive feminine and genitive plural (http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_sum.htm)

Das: Neuter (no real way to tell, but most nouns beginning with ge- are neuter and also nouns ending in -lein/-chen)

Den: Masculine accusative and plural dative (refer to above link)

I hope this helps in some way :)

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

I think below the first few lessons in the course (basics 1 +2) there are short explanations about noun genders and cases. Have you read those?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maltekh1 13 12 9 7 6 5 5 4 3 2 2

There is, you just have to look at the gender and the case of the word.

http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_sum.htm

If you don't know what the different cases are look at these links:

http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_nom.htm

http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_gen.htm http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_dat.htm

http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_acc.htm

It is a lot but if you keep learning and also try reading some German you will get used to it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

haleygrace 20 2

I have made note cards and added the 'die, das, der, and den' to the words and that makes it a lot easier!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

johaquila 16 16 15 15 14 14 12 10 8

The normal method is to learn the gender of a noun along with the noun by learning the noun complete with its definite article, e.g.: der Mann, die Frau, das Kind. It's only a little bit harder than just learning the nouns.

The other thing is understanding how the definite articles change for the three grammatical genders with the other three cases. This is totally systematic, though the system doesn't really make sense.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SNSingh 5

so these are the articles which is used for a particular word

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

johaquila 16 16 15 15 14 14 12 10 8

Unfortunately, you need to get a table and learn how it works. (Alexinireland posted an explanation that contains such a table.) Which article you need depends on the following information:

the case of the noun (nominative, genitive, dative, accusative)

whether the noun is in singular or plural

the gender of the noun (only if the noun is in singular).

Or you can use the following, which has all examples in the order nominative / genitive / dative / accusative.

Plural: die Menschen / der Menschen / den Menschen / die Menschen

Singular feminine: die Frau / der Frau / der Frau / die Frau

Singular masculine: der Mann / des Mann(e)s / dem Mann(e) / den Mann

Singular neuter: das Kind / des Kind(e)s / dem Kind(e) / das Kind

This system is totally chaotic. The only regularity I can see is that feminine singular is almost like plural, and neuter singular is somewhat similar to masculine singular. Also accusative is almost like Nominative.

These complications do not have a purpose. They just happened accidentally during language change. At some point they will disappear. In English and Dutch this has already happened. (They used to have the same complicated system.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

486 Quel vs lequel (quelle vs laquelle, etc.)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/26926>

lhayes 10

Both quel and lequel (and their various forms) can ask "which." What makes them different when used? When should I use lequel instead of quel? I am assuming quel is a derivative of lequel.

Give Lingot4

714 years ago

Leave a new comment

19 Comments

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

I'll try and make it simple for a start:

'quel' is an interrogative adjective.

it can be masculine or feminine, singular or plural depending on the object of the question (quel/quelle/quels/quelles) it defines the quality of the person or object of the question.

ex: "quelle heure est-il?" (what time is it?) or "quel fruit manges-tu?" (which fruit do you eat?)

'lequel' can be (among other things) an interrogative pronoun.

it can be masculine or feminine, singular or plural depending on the object of the question (lequel/laquelle/lesquels/lesquelles).

it relates to a choice among several persons or objects.

ex: "voici deux pantalons; lequel veux-tu?" (here are two pants; which one do you want?).

therefore, my advise would be to get the meaning before you can translate because it is not automatic.

243ReplyGive Lingot19•4 years ago

KittyIV 11

Thank you. This one has caused me grief. Other sites have given me convoluted, esotericed, and nuanced explanation. I just want to visit Paris and know which to use.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•3 weeks ago

tweetlebeetle 13 7 6

To add to the excellent explanation above, and to oversimplify slightly, 'quel' is an adjective, 'lequel' is a pronoun. Quel jardin? = which garden? Lequel? = which one?

118ReplyGive Lingot2•4 years ago

E.T.s_Son 11 11 8 8 6 3 2 2

Merci

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

starbunnie 13

I have been using Quel as "Which" and Lequel as "Which one" and it seems to be working for me.

78ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

buffalump21 25 11 6 5 3 2 3

me too... I just remember it as quel = needs a noun, lequel = noun already included :-)

67ReplyGive Lingot3•3 years ago

adeletayles 13 2

Good tip! Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

E.T.s_Son 11 11 8 8 6 3 2 2

Good explanation

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FJProenza 19 11 10 142

Good and simple. Just what I was looking for.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

mb0742 17 9

This should be on the front page of duolingo. Cheers mate.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Tha's a synthetic mind! congrats!

10ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

vasant 9 3

thanks for the lucid explanation

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

northernguy 25 22 14 1283

Duo did present a multiple choice in the interrogative lesson where both which and which one were required answers. The point of the exercise was to deal with translating them correctly. So, according to Duo, it is not quite as cut and dried as presented in this thread. However the conventions suggested here will work most of the time.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Je.Suis.Napoleon 25 23 20 15 5 2 717

A good link: <http://french.about.com/od/grammar/a/lequel.htm>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

__Ms.Grey__ 8

Thanks Leon!

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Je.Suis.Napoleon 25 23 20 15 5 2 717

De rien ^^

-1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

MammaMariaNatale 20 15 12 11 8

bonjour SiteSurf

selon vous, ces deux phrases sont-elles correctes? : lequel est le tien? quel est le tien? La première me gêne mais je ne sais pas dire pourquoi. Merci pour la clarté générale de vos explications :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

As you can see, I have partly explained it at the top of this page.

The main difference between "lequel est le tien ?" and "quel est le tien ?" lies in the 'field of reference':

"lequel" assumes that there is a limited choice known to the speaker

"quel" does not have a pre-determined set of choices to pick from.

3ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

MammaMariaNatale 20 15 12 11 8

ok thanks!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

487 "The dove likes wine."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16269669>

Translation: יין אהבתו ונה.

09 months ago

Leave a new comment

21 Comments

Lord_Xnaut 13 9 3 2 16

What is the pronunciation of יין?

8ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Simpotato123 10 5 3

ya-yeen

18ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

synp 23 15 11 28

That's rather difficult. It usually comes out as Ya-een

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

GogqvC 5

Hi ! Yes I agree. But finally the better is "ya-yeen" or "ya-een" ? Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

synp 23 15 11 28

Things that are unpronounceable don't get pronounced. That is why סבתא (grandmother) is pronounced saf-ta, and why יין is pronounced Ya-een. There is not point to making an effort to pronounce it the way it's written. In time spelling might follow pronunciation (not likely for Biblical words) but we don't try to force speech to conform to writing..

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Kwen 10 4 2 2 2 2 2

Duolingo knows to be funny :))) Search what is that means... ;)

5ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

homeschooledgirl 6 6 2

How do you pronounce הַיּוֹנָה

3ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Kwen 10 4 2 2 2 2 2

Ha'yona

6ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

homeschooledgirl 6 6 2

Thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Avabelieve 11 10 4 4 18

what's the masculine form of הַיּוֹנָה and how to pronounce?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

synp 23 15 11 28

The word יוֹן (yon) exists and can be used for a male dove. But nobody uses it. Ever. It is also the word for ion (the charged atom) so don't ever use it unless you're writing a poem and you need it for a rhyme.

The common thing to say is זָכַר מִיּוֹנָה

And you'll only say that if it's important for you to distinguish. Otherwise יוֹנָה can be used for male and female doves.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Simpotato123 10 5 3

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•9 months ago

LordLior 9 6 6 5 4

For once in Duolingo, in Hebrew this actually makes sense, as there's a common profanity saying "don't threaten a dove with wine"

13ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

cracragirl 2

I just did that and it count it wrong!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Burgash 4 2

Whoever contributed to this section is taking the piss...very funny. Not a cool thing to do. Will be complaining. We have an Israeli in our house and it's not funny.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

GogqvC 5

Hi ! Please how to know if "the dove" is female or male for the hebrew ? (because it is : תבואה)
Thanks !

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

simone.bogni 11 10 5

+1 for the wonderful idea of putting this "saying" here. I had lots of laughs :) You guys are wonderful

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

Nihao.feli.meow 8 3 2 42

Why is everyone laughing at this sentence?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

synp 23 15 11 28

Because we're all juvenile?

We've been dancing around this for months. If you replace the first yod ( י ) in both words with a zain ( ז ) you get "dirty" words, and a stupidly "dirty" sentence. It's what English-speakers call minced oaths. Like "Oh, fudge", "shoot", or "gosh darnit"

A similar but less crude example is "השן מרח לוץ"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

cracragirl 2

"ן

-2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

488 "The nineties called and wanted its shirt back."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6277401>

Translation: Nittiotalet ringde och ville ha tillbaka sin skjorta.

42 years ago

Leave a new comment

27 Comments

kalcy 13 3
BOOM ROASTED

167ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

Nerdator 25 18 11 11 9 7 6 5 2
This bit is great!

42ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarkBorkBorkBork 15 10 2
Oh snap!

Vad är den svenska motsvarigheten till "oh snap"?

32ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zmrzlina 14 13 12 10 4
Equivalent = motsvarighet

Among people of age 30 and under among my acquaintances, we just say "oh snap". :p

45ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

MarkBorkBorkBork 15 10 2
Corrected, thanks!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zmrzlina 14 13 12 10 4
And you should make it definite too: motsvarigheten. :)

13ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

MarkBorkBorkBork 15 10 2
Oh snap!

27ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108
Lägg av! is a pretty neutral one I think. But in the 90s, I guess people would have said släng dig i väggen – literally 'throw yourself against the wall' :-D

48Give Lingot1•2 years ago

haiwonn 19 14 13 12 10 6 5 4 2 2
Sassolingo.

16ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Fantomius 25 25 25 25 14 13 12 12 7 7 7 6 6 17

I believe the joke "The [decade] called; they want their ... back" originated from comedian David Spade from his days on the American comedy sketch show "Saturday Night Live."

It's often said to tactlessly point out that what you have, wear, or are doing is very outdated.

10ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

tivasyk 15 11 8

«It's often said to tactlessly point out that what you have, wear, or are doing is very outdated» — and what would be a tackful way of saying that? LOL

5ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

chaered 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 8 7 5 5 59

Being tackful wouldn't nail it.

11ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ion1122 21 17 16 15 180

Do you guys mean 'tactful'?

4ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

chaered 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 8 7 5 5 59

Yes, and my reply was punny way of pointing that out (a tack is a kind of nail). You now owe the internet 1 (one) pun, in return for making me explain this one.

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

devalanteriel 24 21 16 16 14 12 8 1277

I feel like this is the proper place to introduce the word göteborgsvits - literally "Gothenburgian joke". It means "really bad pun".

6Give Lingot•4 months ago

chaered 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 8 7 5 5 59

-> devalanteriel: Jag är mycket tackfull till ditt svar! :-)

1Give Lingot•4 months ago

RichardWal211702 13 12 11 11 10 7 7 5 5 1

Göteborgsfisk more like, it stinks

0Give Lingot•4 days ago

nordist 14 13 10

What does this mean?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lundgren8 12 10 9 9 9 7 6 6 3

It's a tongue-in-cheek way of saying that someone's shirt is from the 90s and thus out of fashion.

66ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Synthpopalooza 12 11 6 6 4 3

We say that in English too! Hilarious. :)

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lundgren8 12 10 9 9 9 7 6 6 3

I'm pretty sure it's a newly borrowed saying from English.

21ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HaroldWonh 23 23 18 13 59

Not from my English! I hadn't a clue what it meant. Maybe because most of my shirts are that old?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

Nothing like a good old quality shirt.

1Give Lingot•1 week ago

catsins99 13 2 2

This is why i love this app lmao

4ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

ricscu 10 10 4

90-talet should be ok, right?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

It's correct, but since we're teaching you the numbers in Swedish, you can't write them in numbers in Swedish. When translating to English you can though.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ricscu 10 10 4

That makes sense. Thanks. I was just sad because I was trying to jump ahead and had to start over for that "mistake" ;-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

489 "He likes working in the garden."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/513100>

Translation: Il aime bien travailler dans le jardin.

03 years ago

34 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

sgoudail 11 5

I am almost positive one would say: "Il aime travailler dans le jardin" to mean "he likes working in the garden". Il aime les travaux seems to mean that he likes the renovations or construction or something.

21Give Lingot•3 years ago

willijanb 22 3 3

Well, based solely on what my French dictionary says, "les travaux" can mean jobs, therefore "Il aime les travaux dans le jardin" would mean he likes garden jobs. However "Il aime travailler dans le jardin" sounds a lot better to me. But what do I know?

6Give Lingot•3 years ago

Bronshtein 25

I'm also wondering this. I was just asked to pick translations for "he likes working in the garden", and it wanted me to pick « il aime les travaux dans le jardin » which sounds like it has a different meaning to me.

I'm just wondering if this is idiomatic though, and whether « les travaux dans ... » might be a way to say "to work in...".

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
[deleted]

Give Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7
[deleted]

Give Lingot1•3 years ago

Wonderboy6 25 14 8

I think like me he meant about why it is 'les travaux' instead of 'travailler', I am completely clueless as to why this is?

edit: ahh, is it like jazzy said 'les travaux' is refering to the noun, so literally the translation is 'he likes THE WORK in the garden' rather than ' he likes WORKING in the garden'?

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

JazzyFrench 12

Because it is the plural noun travaux not the verb. It changes the meaning to "garden jobs" vs "working the garden".

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

IAmAFish 15 11 8 2

I'm no Sitesurf, but I believe that would mean "He likes to work in the garden" which is slightly different.

-6Give Lingot•3 years ago

mathwizard1232 17 8 7 6 4 4 3 3 3 2

It's not really. There is no difference in meaning between "He likes to work in the garden" and "He likes working in the garden". Two different grammatical structures; same meaning.

6Give Lingot•3 years ago

FrenchAddict7 22

Why les? Is this referring to generality?

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Verb aimer (+ adorer, détester, haïr, préférer, apprécier) makes it a generality.

8Give Lingot•3 years ago

francophoney 25 5

Why can't it be "Il aime faire le jardinage" ?

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

il aime le jardinage (generality) or il aime faire du jardinage (partitive).

in this sentence, we cannot know if it is about gardening or another activity (landscaping, digging or even writing his novel?).

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Purpletigy 9

I still dont understand why les must be in front of travaux... confused (and sleepy)

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

WeiDeTaiwan 20 14 12

Because travaux is a noun, you need the article

2Give Lingot•3 years ago

Cornishcynic 13

No, it should be a verb . He likes working (verb) , not he likes the work (noun) that has been done

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

JazzyFrench 12

No, it is a noun as travaux is the plural form of the noun travail. Travailler is the verb. So, the sentence is saying actually "He likes the jobs in the garden" or "He likes garden jobs". This answers also the question why "les" is present. So, it appears that DL got wrong the English translation. Opinions or better yet facts :-).

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

WeiDeTaiwan 20 14 12

Please see answer above

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

Cornishcynic 13

But then this is an incorrect translation. In English, "working" in the garden is a verb

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

WeiDeTaiwan 20 14 12

I see your point. But in my opinion, both should be correct, because French sentence is not always identical to English one, such as J'ai honte, which means i am ashamed, but we won't translate as i have shame.

3Give Lingot•3 years ago

VioletGreen122 18

Working, in this case, is a gerund so it is a noun

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

rachelgoldring 25 12 2 595

why not "il aime bien les travaux...? I thought

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

rachelgoldring 25 12 2 595

I have gone from almost 80% to 70 + % and find that I can't remember or maybe never understood much of what I thought I learned. Now I am redoing this section which went from gold to not gold... In this sentence, for example: Why not "Il aime bien..." I thought "il aime" and "Il aime bien" both mean he likes.

Someone please help. I am totally dejected. Thank you.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

DianaM 22

How it was explained to me: "Aimer" means "love" when applied to persons (and possibly pets?), and it means "like" when applied to anything else. Adding the "bien" to "aimer" actually brings the intensity down a notch, so when talking of a person, it means to like, and when talking of non-person items, it means something along the lines of "rather like"

Hope that helps..

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

rachelgoldring 25 12 2 595

Diana, thank you very much for taking the time to respond. I read almost all your comments and always learn something. I appreciate this and all your comments and explanations.

I understand your explanation. However, in a multiple choice where "Aimer" referred to an object, I selected both "aimer" and "aimer bien" and was marked wrong. I don't remember the exact sentence but it was fairly simple: "J'aime les pommes" and "J'aime bien les pommes," or something along those lines. Why were both answers not accepted. The speaker could have been saying "I like apples," or "I rather like apples." Or am I still missing something?

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Would you please try to give us the exact sentence you had this issue with? Otherwise we cannot give you any accurate answer nor correct any potential error.

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

rachelgoldring 25 12 2 595

Thank you, Sitesurf. I understand. This was a while ago, and I have not located my notes yet. I do appreciate your time and offer to help.

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

No problem, for next time, then.

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

LINHARS 15 13 11 6 5 66

Hello Sitesurf, I live in France . I have a big garden. I have never heard anyone talk about ordinary work in the garden as 'les travaux'. In this part of France 'les travaux' means constructing a garden, have your house redone ect. I even heard a construction worker who did some big work on our house explain to his French wife that he used the word 'les travaux' because that meant big construction work. In this sentence 'he likes working in the garden' I think he is doing some weeding, planting a tree, or tending to his salad plants, not constructing the whole garden.

'Il aime travailler dans le jardin' ought to be accepted as well.

OGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

The French sentence means that he likes "les travaux" (irrespective of what they are about, construction or else), done in the garden.

So you get 2 interpretations: either he is the one who has done the work or not.

For the sake of translating directly, the same duality should appear in the English version where what he likes should be "the work(s)" and not "(his) working".

However, I have added your translation to the list of accepted answers.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

LINHARS 15 13 11 6 5 66

Actually, I got this sentence in English to translate to French. I wrote 'let travaux' because I remembered that this was used in another sentence when I did this the first time. However, 'les travaux' is not at all a good translation for the English 'He likes working in the garden. As most of the comments say.

I know you like to translate back to the original and in this case 'he likes working in the garden' to 'les travaux' and then back would not be 'working'.

I am glad you made travailler dans le jardin an acceptable translation since that is the right translation of the English sentence.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

My problem has been that the source sentence was written in French. Therefore to get a proper set of translations in English that would reverse correctly, I have had to choose one meaning only: he is not the one who does/has done the works in the garden, so he likes the works (done/being done/in progress) in the garden. I think this should crack that nut. What do you think?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

LINHARS 15 13 11 6 5 66

This could be two different sentences, one with 'he likes working ( to work) in the garden = 'il aime travailler dans le jarden', and the other: 'he likes the work (works) in the garden, work (works) done in the garden' = il aime les travaux dans le jardin. It is almost the same that you suggest, but made into two different sentences.

I understand that it is difficult, when you translate from one source, and then it is given as a translation from another language. My language is Norwegen, so I have to translate from one foreign language to another. Sometimes I make spelling mistakes because the Norwegian word is similar to the French word, sometimes similar to the English word.

Often the problem with the translation is that there are so many possible ways to do it. Therefore many possible solutions ought to be accepted. Another problem is that we translate too many sentences from French to English. As you can see from the discussions, many of them are about English, the English grammar, English words and how to use them etc. Maybe you could make a French 2 tree where all the sentences would be translation from English to French. That way we really had to write French all the time. That would be a real challenge.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

490 Teenage Girls Rule the Language: Theme Song from Aifric
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6869166>

heathermagoo 25 25 23 17 14 11 11 10 9 191

Theme song from Aifric, a TG4 series (now defunct) about a 14-year-old girl (normal) and her family (very ditsy) who move from the big city to rural Connemara. Lots of episodes on Youtube. Many as Gaeilge. Many dubbed into (I think) Farsi. Engaging.

You can also see the lyrics (originally by the Chalets) with translation right beneath the YouTube video. Much of that translation originally appeared on the Irish Translation Forum.

I'm only playing the role of scribe and am copying it here for fun. I've added a glossary at the bottom (many words familiar from Duolingo lessons). Succinct corrections welcome. Here's the link to the theme song:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=k702\_qnFu8w

<h1>Aifric, téamamhrá / Aifric, theme song</h1>

Seo mé ar aistear

This is me on a journey

Seo mo scéalsa

This is my story

Seo mé ar aistear

This is me on a journey

Anonn 's anall a théim

To and fro I go

Uaireanta ar strae

Sometimes straying

Le fáinne geal an lae

With the dawning of the day

Uaireanta ar strae,

Sometimes straying,

ó saol.

from life (the world, ? the beaten track?).

Nuair a bhíonn tú óg

When you are young

Siúlann tú an ród

You walk the road

Féileacán ar rince romhat

A butterfly dances before you
Astaíonn do bhuille

Your sending out your beat

Dúisithe an súil

Awakening hope

Athraíonn do shaol go buan.

Your life is constantly changing.

<h1>Glossary</h1>

Seo mé - this is me (demonstrative pronoun that counts as the copula in this construction)

aistear - (m) journey

mo scéal - (from scéal; assuming that –sa makes it emphatic, my own story)

uaireanta - sometimes anonn - other side

anall - far side

anonn agus anall - to and fro (agus contracted to 's)

téim - I go

fáinne (m) - ring, halo; fáinne geal an lae, the light of dawn, literally, "the bright ring of the day" (also the title of a lovely song recorded by Iarla Ó Lionáird <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=HUQAsKAXRZQ>)

strae - stray

ó - from saol - life

nuair a - when

bhíonn tú - you are (the habitual "do be" tense of bí)

óg - young siúlann tú - you walk

ród - road

féileacán - butterfly

rinne - dance

romhat - before you (roimh + tú)

astaíonn - emits, sends (astaigh - emit, send a signal) buille (m) - beat (like a heart beat, beat of music)

dúisithe - awakened (dúisigh - wake up )

súil - hope (also means "eye")

athraíonn - changes (athraigh - change )

do shaol - your life (saol)

go buan - constantly

Give Lingot8

152 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

niamhwitch 16 11 3 786

Thanks! I like that show.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

heathermagoo 25 25 23 17 14 11 11 10 9 191

I only discovered it this week. It's really encouraging to understand phrases and words from the dialog. :D I even read Aifric had been dubbed into Scottish Gaelic for BBC Alba.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

491 "She will have found the documents by the time she finds the bag."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2480285>

Translation: Ela terá encontrado os documentos quando encontrar a bolsa.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

JohnGrunewald 25 25 25 25 22 55

A really clumsy translation. 'By the time' denotes something that will happen before something else happens, not when, or at the same time, it happens. I tried "pelo tempo que encontra" but that didn't sound right either. And Duo agreed with that. Oh well.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

If I understand it right (I'm not sure), "by the time" is somewhat like "then". Meaning at the time pointed by "by the time" or "by then" she will "already" have found the documents. Is it right?

If so, I believe best Portuguese option is:

Ela já terá encontrado os documentos quando encontrar a bolsa

7ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

JohnGrunewald 25 25 25 25 22 55

Way to go Dan. That is an effective and really quite exact translation of 'She will have found the documents by the time she finds the bag. The addition of 'já' makes all the difference, Ja!!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

blaxalb 12 11 9 4 2

I'm not sure, I feel like a more proper translation for "Ela já terá encontrado os documentos quando encontrar a bolsa" would be "She will already have found the documents when she finds the bag/purse" while "by the time" would fit better with "até a hora que"/ "ate o momento em que". Also, the answer considered correct by duolingo "quando encontrar a bolsa" is a better match for "when she finds the bag" rather than "by the time"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mmedina721 24 12

can someone explain why the infinite "encontrar" is used? i don't get why

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

That's a future subjunctive: "quando encontrar". It happens to match the same form of the infinitive, but it's conjugated.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

SilentAnnie 20 6 3

I love learning this language, but sometimes (with these kind of sentences) I wanna call it a day pffff

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Soon you will have learned everything and turned into SpeakingAnnie

5ReplyGive Lingot6•2 years ago

SilentAnnie 20 6 3

Thanks Danmoller. I am proud to to be able to tell you, that last spring when I visited the north of Portugal, I had several proper conversations with the locals. Also Otherwise, thank you for your feedback here. It helps.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

grantwhite 12

This is incorrect, as mentioned below by Dan & co, still needs fixing, keep reporting :D.

This sentence implies she will find the documents before she finds the bag.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

492 What does Duolingo do with the students' personal information?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000035083-What-does-Duolingo-do-with-the-students-personal-information->

To sign up for Duolingo, only an email address is required. The reason we need that is in case the student wants practice reminders and password reset instructions. The email addresses can belong to a parent, teacher or language learner, so adults can choose to be in control of the account or even keep it anonymous if they reach that agreement with their student.

We use learning data to improve learning, and do not share student information with third parties. If you want to know more details, please refer to our Privacy Policy and Terms of Service.

You can change the email associated with an account at any time in the account settings.

Please take the time to talk to your students about appropriate and responsible internet behavior and safety.

493 The Ukrainian Language Portal [UNDER CONSTRUCTION]

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/17635866>

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

Hi! This is a post where you can find out a whole load of references to the Ukrainian, including grammar, alphabet, free resources, listening comprehension and more!

ABOUT UKRAINIAN

Here you can learn all about the beautiful language that you have decided to learn. Ukrainian is an east Slavic language spoken by about 40M primarily in western and central Ukraine and is considered as melodic as Italian or French!

UKRAINIAN GRAMMAR PORTAL

This is a great resource for learners of the Ukrainian language, it includes explanations on verbs, cases, alphabet and more!

DICTIONARIES AND CONJUGATORS

These are works in progress, they will be closer to completion at a later date!

English -> Ukrainian Dictionary

Ukrainian -> English Dictionary
How you can help!
RESOURCES

Here you can find a list of FREE resources to help you in your Ukrainian language journey!

PHRASEBOOK [COMING SOON]

A free online phrasebook so you can learn Ukrainian (and a smidgen of Russian) for your trip to Ukraine!

COMPREHENSION

This post will include dialogues, activity sheets and short stories written in Ukrainian with the aim of helping you understand more of the Ukrainian language!

RESOURCES

Here you can find some great resources for learning the Ukrainian language!

CLUBS

Here are a list of clubs for the Ukrainian language. If you want to add yours, comment your code below!

TseDanylo -
cwl1217 - 4MGFSY
Give Lingot18
466 months ago

Leave a new comment
24 Comments

SilverCharacter 14 13 9 8 6 5 3 3 3 175

I just wanted you to know what a wonderful resource this is to learners everywhere. Once it is finished, I think it should be stickied. :) Also, I see your open discussions and was wondering if I could help make some of the posts? I'm not an expert but would be happy to help if possible, especially on the Kyiv vs. Kiev and Comparing Ukrainian to other Slavic Languages.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
To answer your questions;

It's already sticked (Woop woop!)

The open discussions will be on the discussion forums where people can discuss things (it will be up after the portal is finished) Help will be gladly accepted! XD

I've seen the website, but I think the Read Ukrainian! section is the most relevant :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

MihaiRedWaddle 12 8 6 6 5 5 2 2

Дякую <3 Ви найкращі ! Я дуже люблю українську мову, отже це чудово <3

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

Дякую! Я теж люблю це :D

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Neco_Coneco 22 21 16 16 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 4 4 3

Thank you for this!

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

No problem :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Bobboski 15 14 12 12 10 9 6 3 2

You're really doing a great job with this, especially for the "Back To The Grammar Portal" which is really a chic touch. Well done and well-doing! ;]

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

Thank you very much. Your comments are very kind :) Are you considering learning Ukrainian?

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Bobboski 15 14 12 12 10 9 6 3 2

I'm learning Russian right now and I would like to master it so that I would manage to understand some Ukrainian too. I've done the first skill though and learnt its alphabet.

However, I think I'll move on learning it because I love the fact that it's very similar to Russian and I don't usually get confused between languages, even if they're similar to each other. And well, with your posts it will be a pleasant stroll!

So, yeah, thanks for the input!

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

No problem. If you have any questions; Just leave a comment on the portal, despite my streak(s) I'm pretty active and will try to answer your questions as soon as I can. Have a nice day :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Abrilita723 14 11 6 6 6 4 4 3 2 2 7

Дякую!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Нема за що

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

p8c 16 16 16 16 16 16 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 655
GREAT! thank you!! a model for the other duo languages!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Aww thanks :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

p8c 16 16 16 16 16 16 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 655
and have a lingot!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Thanks so much! You're really kind!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Clever_Rat 16 14 6 5 210
У посиланні на цю сторінку у першому уроці є пробіл. Сторінка автоматично не відкривається.
"с omment"

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Так люди провалили розділи коментарів

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Clever_Rat 16 14 6 5 210
Та нічого. Видалити його та все буде ОК.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Персонел Duolingo тільки робить це

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ZacharyMon7 9 7
YOUR GRAMMAR IS HORRENDOUS!

Ukrainian Grammar Portal [UNDER CONSTRUCTION] TseDanyloXD 11 11 10 10 9 9 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 2 34 Hi! This is a grammar reference for the people who are learning Ukrainian and want to find a quick and easy way to review grammar. I will try to post regularly and the links will be added onto the bullet points below. If there is anything you want to be added to the list, please comment below.

About Ukrainian

VIDEO: All About Ukrainian What is Ukrainian? Why bother learn Ukrainian? How similar ARE Ukrainian and Russian? How similar ARE Ukrainian and Polish? How similar is Ukrainian to other Slavic languages? Ukrainian Dialects Introduction

GET PRANKED Ukrainian Alphabet Overview of Ukrainian Grammar Glossary of Grammatical Terms Verbs

Personal Pronouns Present Tense Transitive Verbs Dative Verbs Reflexive Verbs Past Tense Future Tense Conditional Tense Verb Aspects Nouns

Gender [Advanced] Adjectives and Gender Agreement Comparatives Superlatives Forming the Plural Possessive Pronouns Hard, Soft and Mixed Masculine [Animate] Masculine [Inanimate] Feminine Neuter I'm GOING TO* leave the last few posts in this section until the Cases section is complete :)

Cases

Overview of cases Case Endings The Nominative Case Genitive Dative Accusative Instrumental Locative Vocative Resources

Below are some great resources for learning Ukrainian!

Media

Olga Reznikova - Ukrainian Youtuber Kids TV in Ukrainian Molode Radio TED Talks with Ukrainian subtitles Ukrainian Podcasts Online Courses

A small Ukrainian course by Wikibooks Free PDF File of "Teach Yourself Ukrainian" Read Ukrainian! In Depth Course Dealing With Stress and Inotation in Ukrainian Dictionaries

Ukrainian Dictionary with full conjugations of nouns and verbs FREE Online Games

Learn To Write Cursive Ukrainian All The Verbs of Motion Free Interactive Games Surface Languages Ukrainian Course Babadum - A fun game site Grammar

Grammar Reference Memrise

Memrise Ukrainian Page Ukrainian For Those Who Cannot - My beginners memrise course Once the portal is closer to completion these will be added.

Open Discussions [COMING SOON]

Kyiv VS. Kiev? Mixing Latin and Cyrillic Letters Russianisms Polishisms Comparing Ukrainian To Other Slavic Languages Bonus Skills Ukrainian Phrasebook [COMING SOON]

Greetings & Introductions Language Problems Conversation About You Getting Around At a Restaurant At The Doctors Numbers and Amounts Days, Months, Dates Basic Colloquial Russian Ukrainian Listening Comprehension [COMING SOON]

Beginners

Vlada shows us her city The animals in a Kyivan zoo!

-6ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

It would help if you had something useful to say instead of spamming up a community post for people who want to learn

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

LittleBallet 4

That's rude.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

tropicalnut 25 20 12 10 10 7 1093

Будь ласка, йди

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

494 About the Duolingo English Test Scores

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205301980-About-the-Duolingo-English-Test-Scores>

The Duolingo English Test is scientifically designed to provide an accurate assessment of real-world language ability. The test adapts to each person's ability so that no two tests are alike. This prevents inflated scores achieved through memorization of test questions, a well-known problem in language certification

There are six grade levels, from Beginner to Expert. You can check them all out here, and you'll also be able to see examples of each level's strengths.

495 What is the difference between a student and a teacher account?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000035143-What-is-the-difference-between-a-student-and-a-teacher-account->

They are practically the same. Once you create a classroom with your Duolingo account, you will be able to track other Duolingo accounts, following their language learning progress and assign tasks for groups of Duolingo users (classrooms). If you create a Duolingo account through Duolingo for Schools home page, you will also automatically have a "regular" Duolingo account.

In more detail, you can access Duolingo for Schools right now and sign in as a "teacher" with the login information of any Duolingo account—meaning, you can sign in with your Duolingo username or email address. From the Duolingo for Schools dashboard you'll be able to invite other Duolingo learners to join your classroom. The people you invite will be able to see your email address.

A "student" account is the default account type at Duolingo. You can quickly create your own for free on the main Duolingo website if you want to know what students see. Teachers, when using Duolingo for Schools, can invite Duolingo learners to join their classroom. Once a student joins and gives permission for the teacher to track them, the teacher will be able to see all students side by side. They can see activity details (when a student practiced, for how long, how many points they earned, how long their practice streak is), as well as the name and email address associated with the account. A teacher can also view curriculum content, hide "mature" words in the courses and restrict access to social features (such as forums) for all their students. Important to keep in mind: teachers can reset student passwords, so a student should only join classrooms of teachers they know and trust.

When a teacher has more than one student in their classroom learning the same language, they can also activate classroom-exclusive lessons specially tailored for them, based on the average student level of that class.

496 How is the Duolingo English Test different from Duolingo's other tests and quizzes?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204980800-How-is-the-Duolingo-English-Test-different-from-Duolingo-s-other-tests-and-quizzes->

Within Duolingo, learners can skip ahead by taking a placement test or unlock certain portions of their courses by clicking the padlock buttons. Timed practice, lessons and flashcards also help assess strengths and weaknesses. Progress quizzes (available to some learners through the Lingot store) offer estimated fluency scores.

The Duolingo English Test and its score are separate from the Duolingo learning website and app. The paid version of the Duolingo English Test is validated by a human proctor to ensure the highest level of accuracy and validity. Unlike the progress quiz for self assessment, the Duolingo English Test score is more than a proficiency estimate and can be used on resumes and applications.

You can take a free practice test on Duolingo English Test to get an idea of how well you would do on the official Duolingo English Test. When you're ready, you can take the paid version that is proctored and officially accepted by many institutions all over the world as an affordable and guaranteed evaluation of your language skills.

497 *Klingon for humans* is in the Incubator!*

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8012738>

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 478

The most popular way to learn languages in the world will soon become the most popular app in the... galaxy!

The Klingon course is now hatching in the Duolingo Incubator! If you are an expert in the language, you're also welcome to apply and help build the course.

Want to know more about Klingon, and be notified when the course is ready? Sign up here.

And as the Klingons themselves would say, "Qapla'!"

*from English

Give Lingot43

1771 year ago

Leave a new comment

425 Comments

Oloak 20 14 10 8 7 6 5 4 4 3 7

I find it nice, but I would have preferred if other natural languages in high demand, such as Arabic, Latin or Hindi, were given preference over it.

156ReplyGive Lingot62•1 year ago

Lavinae 25 25 20 13 12 12 11 8 7 7 7 3 3 2

I understand where you're coming from. :)

I don't think this course has taken the spot of another, though (rest assured!). This is because I've been hearing about the possible addition of a Klingon course (from inside the incubator) for over a year. It therefore has been planned for a while.

There have also been rumors that among those willing to contribute are great experts, which is so very important.

This is why I think we should rejoice about Klingon having been added to the incubator!

Welcome loghaD and thanks for contributing! :)

96ReplyGive Lingot13•1 year ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
It therefore has been planned for a while.

KNEW IT.

22ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SteveLando 22 18 17 16 14 12 11 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 6 6 6 5 5 3 6
Okay, with the information that there are very great experts on the language in question that has contacted Duolingo and are willing to put their time at it, then I forgive Duolingo for putting the amount of energy in this language, before more important once, like latin, hindi, bengali, navaho, japanese, catalan, occitan, chinese, swahili, frisian, et cetere et cetera et cetera. No experts on those or other languages?

I will not do a Klingoncourse, but many will who might otherwise not have done a language course, that is good, funny, and increasing peoples language abilities.

11ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

iron_bun 25 24 8 5 1100
I know Japanese and Chinese are in high demand and the world inside DuoLingo offices is something of a black box, but I could imagine that the staff are working on implementing the foundations that those courses will require before they can even start being built. Alphabets and suchlike, and that would apply to other high-demand courses too.

If Klingon uses plain-old-latin-chars then they might have considered it a freebie. Of course that argument suggests actual Latin would be in the same boat. Maybe they've been given a generous grant from the Klingon Language Institute.

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

loghaD 11 8 6 4 3 2 2
Well, while the KLI is stable enough, I really don't think it has the finances to bribe anybody ;)

Anyhow, the course will indeed be using the Latin alphabet. And using only keys found on an English keyboard, to boot, without any diacritics or anything. I also believe that may have been an important factor.

Anyhow, they currently have English for speakers of Arabic, Japanese and Mandarin in the Incubator. While I don't have any particular insight into what goes on, I kind of suspect they'll want to have those finished before they go the other way around. In part because they'll probably get some useful data and experience in the process, but also because I suspect there will be some overlap between the groups contributing to those programs.

30ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6
It's my understanding as well (regarding the reversed courses.)

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

wyqtor 16 16 13 13 13 13 12 12 11 11 11 11 10 9 9 9 8 7 7 4 4 2 2 809

Forget about Latin even, Indonesian/Malay is actually spoken today by some 300 million people, it is written in Latin script with absolutely no different letters or diacritics. Its grammar is notorious for its simplicity.

Why you would prioritize the invented language of fictional space brutes over Indonesian is beyond me.

11ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

jjd1123 16 15 13 8 8 7 6 6 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

English for Indonesian speakers is still in beta. If previous courses are any indication we can expect the reverse course to start incubating soon after this one graduates from beta.

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

This I would love to see!

Edit: I think maybe the sandhi (I don't know if that's the word used for Malay, but it seems appropriate) would present a problem though.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Allinuse 16 10 8 7 3 3 2

jjd1123 - why does it have to be "English for ___ speakers" first on all these new courses? Didn't Duolingo start out with courses for English speakers (which also includes all those who has English as an L2) first?

0Give Lingot•10 months ago

Solvind 18 18 13 10 7 288

I'm looking forward to the Japanese course which will likely exist in the future. And maybe I'll take a look into Chinese, too..

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EvelynOlson0 25 24 10 8 10

Yes! I'm in grade 5, and this is my last year learning Chinese. I would like to make my last semester more fun by using DuoLingo, but unfortunately I cannot, because DuoLingo has not released (or started ) a Chinese course.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

One way of writing in Klingon does use plain old Latin chars, but the fact that 'q' and 'Q' (:^ ) are separate letters could mean that the entire system would have to be redone as far as parsing input goes.

Edit: Good point. I wasn't thinking about that.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

iron_bun 25 24 8 5 1100

German manages to complain about non-capitalised nouns, so they seem to have that base covered already.

11Give Lingot•1 year ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 667

You're probably thinking of 'q' and 'Q', which are separate letters in Klingon.

Klingon has 'D' but no 'd'. (And 'S' but not 's', 't' but not 'T', 'p' but not 'P' and so on. Only q/Q exists in both case versions.)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Solvind 18 18 13 10 7 288

I would love a Latin course! Oh, and I can add something to your list. They could offer Sindarin/Quenya (the Elf languages from Lord of the Rings) plus the script Tengwar! A course in that languages were awesome, now they offer Klingon, which is an invented language, too.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Celeb-Lammen 12 8 3

I speak those languages, I could help arrange that if someone else handles the computer stuff

-1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Duck_ahmed 12 2

but, you have to understand that the new languages can only be released, even into beta, only with the support of native speakers or contributors, the duolingo team isn't a relatively large team so you cant expect them to know all of the languages themselves, but i do agree that we should have more emphasize to languages that can help your career

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Allinuse 16 10 8 7 3 3 2

Well said! Or as one could say in a useful language to learn; 说得好 !

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Duck_ahmed 12 2

谷歌翻译 XD

0Give Lingot•10 months ago

O-JO 16 10 9 2

In a way there is a "spot" that it takes up. Since the duo staff consist of a relatively small team, they can only handle a few courses at a time so they aren't flooded with notifications from course contributors. I do love that they are allowing artificial languages, but I personally believe this shouldn't be a focus yet.

11ReplyGive Lingot6•1 year ago

Ilmarien 25 25 25 15 14 13 2 2

Yeah. Nothing against Klingon itself, but as someone waiting for Spanish to Catalan (twice we've been told that it would be entering the incubator later that week, and twice we've watched something else be added instead), this is actually kind of depressing.

60ReplyGive Lingot7•1 year ago

Oloak 20 14 10 8 7 6 5 4 4 3 7
@Ilmarien

That's a good way to put it. People are saying that it doesn't affect natural languages since the course is voluntary; but in my opinion it does, because the other teams depend on Duolingo to officially launch the course before they can work with the incubator tools, and the fact that Duolingo does not do that for those languages, even when those languages do have seemingly capable volunteers, as the Latin teacher in this discussion seems to be. So, in a way, Klingon being released before natural languages IS bad news for those, as the longer they have to wait, the later will be the date when the team member's will formally begin work and subsequently release the beta course.

20ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

Samsta 17 16 12

I think this could be really good for Duolingo. The internet could go crazy over this, attracting a lot of attention to the site. The more people learning any language, the better. It's been over a year since the launch of the incubator, I don't think it's too early for a "fun" language.

14ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

O-JO 16 10 9 2

I kinda understand this logic, but I think focusing on languages that are higher in demand would attract even more users. I just don't think Klingon should be a priority (yet).

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Allinuse 16 10 8 7 3 3 2

It wouldn't be that bad if they hadn't ignored one of the most important languages around. I think it's insane that Esperanto got added before Chinese and now Klingon? WTF!?!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Prgmstr 15 10 9 8 7 5 4 3 2 2

The addition of Klingon won't interfere with other courses because it's totally volunteer made, so it doesn't expend much time from the Duolingo team

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Although, the course is volunteer made it still takes a fair amount of work and time from team Duolingo. This is why they are twenty three courses in the incubator, not a couple hundred.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

Give it time. In 5 years you may have to eat those words. One can hope. I will play with Klingon for fun. I have almost a full year before comicon returns :)

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

Good to hear that Klingon isn't interfering with real-language courses because we might get them in five years...

2Give Lingot3•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

They will eventually come. As always, patience is a virtue here.

24ReplyGive Lingot5•1 year ago

Dessamator 25 14 13 13

Well preference does mean much. Polish and Romanian were given preference over many other languages, and they still haven't even completed half the course after more than a year.

20ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

Those and Russian and Hungarian. It's almost as if they gave up. People who are upset about Klingon being added should remind themselves that the people building the courses ARE NOT PAID. So don't whine so much.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Snommelp 22 22 21 20 19 17 15 15 788

It all depends on who's willing to put in the time to create the course. Plus possibly limitations based on the alphabet itself, though we've got Hebrew and Russian coming, so it's obviously possible to do non-Latin alphabets.

16ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

...but Russian and Hebrew are far easier to implement than Chinese or Japanese. I guess that Latin will incubate before Chinese and Japanese.

19ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Snommelp 22 22 21 20 19 17 15 15 788

Oh definitely; I was thinking more about the Hindi and Arabic that Oloak brought up.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2
Fair enough =)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Allinuse 16 10 8 7 3 3 2

What's up with adding Hebrew though anyway, how many native speakers are there of that language anyway? And it's not like it is any easier to implement than for example Thai which is another phonetic script system. Chinese isn't that hard to implement either, there is something called pinyin input and it is already available on your computer if you add it through control panel settings.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Doesn't Klingon use its own alphabet. I would imagine that it would be easier to implement a natural language's alphabet than Klingon's. However that might be other things that make a Klingon course easier to make, like the limited vocabulary.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

It seems like they have three. Or four (kind of, read the first line.)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

loghaD 11 8 6 4 3 2 2

There are really only two writing systems currently in use by Klingon-speakers: Romanized tlhIngan Hol, and KLI plqaD.

Romanized tlhIngan Hol is the most common, however, and it will be the primary writing system for this course, both for technical reasons (extended unicode and custom keyboard layouts across multiple platforms ... potentially tricky) and to avoid making the learning curve too steep for beginners.

This makes it possible to write using just the 26 letters found on an English keyboards plus the apostrophe, without any diacritics or special characters.

20ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 2 2 3

Maybe the plqaD should be a bonus skill - even just reading it!

7Give Lingot2•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

Fair enough. It's too bad though, I really like KLI plqaD >> Though I can understand that the technical issues would be... significant.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Erikash 13 6

I believe it's likely that the Star Trek series is paying for this course, and likely contributing to it as well. The suddenness of the announcement, the immediate use of copyrighted material, and the statement of a 2-3 month timeline for its creation (which is absurdly optimistic for a volunteer made course, especially given that they'll have to manually record everything), all point to a high level of coordination between Star Trek and Duolingo.

It's great advertising for both Duolingo and Star Trek. One hand washing the other, as the Germans say.

11ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

lizsue 25 24 10 5 2 131

..and if Paramount Studios (which owns the Star Trek copyrights, including Klingon - see <http://boingboing.net/2004/03/08/klingon-is-copyright.html> and <http://languagehat.com/copyrighting-a-language/> ) is paying Duolingo, then Duolingo could broaden its bandwidth for endangered languages. :)

10ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

dlyongemallo 8 6 4 3

AFAIK, nobody is paying for this and it's the work of a volunteer, namely, loghaD.

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

Exactly. The people who create the Incubator courses are volunteers working for free.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Gold-Rush 10

Let's not miss the point of including Klingon as a Duo language. Duolingo is fairly well known, but it could always use more publicity, just as you could always use more money. Like it or not, the addition of this imaginary language will cause some buzz among the journalists, bloggers, and the social media world. Remember the old adage "There is no such thing as bad publicity." Attention attracted by this harmless stunt will result in more learners and more contributors. Viva Duo!

6ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

There is no 'preference'.

All languages in Duolingo are developed separately. It isn't like they can only work on one at a time.

5ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

harryclark17 24 14 10 9 7 6 48

I think they pick the languages that have the best chances of getting completed or have the most contributors.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gijira 4
>Latin

PLEASE

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bucketlister 23 6 3 2 2 2 2

I understand your pain. I really do. But this will help Duolingo gain popularity and therefore, money. I want them to have food on their tables so why not just deal with it? Keep in mind, they are doing this FOR FREE. This website is FREE. I know Lingots cost money, but who actually pays for them? So, imagine how much money someone who works at Duolingo gets. Not much, huh? Imagine how much more money they would get if they added a popular language like Klingon. So, think about it, Duolingo can't give us /everything/ we want, but they are giving us a lot. Let's just all be grateful that they have done this much for us, whether you want to learn Klingon or not.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Transitioning 23 10

I don't believe it's a matter of preference. If a certain person knows a certain language pair, they can begin developing. It's fair to assume that the ones developing the course don't know Arabic, Latin or Hindi, so it wouldn't make sense for them to develop those instead.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Michael22704 8 6 3 2

Yeah, I would have liked to see Latin or Chinese in the incubator.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Allinuse 16 10 8 7 3 3 2

Points for Chinese, though I agree that even Latin is way more useful than Klingon.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Sean486123 9 8 8 5

Adding Klingon will be nothing but good for DuoLingo and all of us to use it, simply because of the press coverage and attention that it will bring. There are so many Star Trek fans that it isn't even funny.

You complain that living languages like Arabic and Hindi (each with a billion+ speakers) haven't rounded up enough volunteers to build a course only underscores my point.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luke_5.1991 22 18 15 14 14 13 12 12 11 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 5 5 5 4 4 3

I for one welcome our new Klingon overlords.

73ReplyGive Lingot18•1 year ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 2 2 3
Diplomatically put ;D

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GrandApple 6 6 5 3 2
Is it coming on a floppy disk set?

60ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
Yes! The first 100 adopters will also get Star Trek: The Original Series on BluRay.

26ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9
such inconsistency, I'd rather have it on floppies too.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Fazac 24 22 18 13 11 89
No... VHS video!

14ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BryanAJParry 21 18 13 12 5 77
Betamax.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

A_Sydney 11 9
Morse code.

2Give Lingot1•1 year ago

Benimation 13 11 9 6 5 3 2
Oculus Rift (it feels old to me..)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

ThEAnOrAK 5 4 3 2
They should also give the first 100 adopters an authentic TriCorder, Beam me up Scotty.

14ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2
So I applied to start a Latin course and I received no reply, but this gets started?

Don't get me wrong, I am giddy with nerd glee for this, but I teach Latin in school and would love to help build this for another classroom resource. My Spanish teaching coworkers love it.

60ReplyGive Lingot17•1 year ago

Aero02 11 9 5 5 5 3

Can't wait for Latin ! It has a big influence in all Indo-European languages (445 in total) with almost 3 billion native speakers.. so teaching it seems to be a priority in my opinion.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

I have a memory of an article describing why learning Latin wouldn't be a huge benefit in learning even closely related derivative languages, such as Spanish, Italian etc. Can't remember of the top of my head where I saw it, but it's actually in agreement with my personal experience, in that the effort of learning a language before you see major benefits aren't worth it. You are probably better off learning a modern language with similar genetics, getting you most of the benefits in addition to giving you the ability to, depending on the language, communicate with millions of (some presumably interesting) people!

This is not to say that it wouldn't be cool to learn Latin though. I studied it ages ago, and I would love to get into it again ^^ It and Sanskrit XD

16ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2

Well, as an English speaker, 65% of our vocabulary comes from Latin learning it, at least when I teach it :P, you will also get a better hold of the grammar in your native language.

These are just the most practical uses of the language. Knowing it also opens up the ability to read some of the great ancient authors, use in church if you are Catholic, as well as the numerous phrases we have in English law and medicine.

10ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

True, but I'm doubtful that it would entail as many benefits as many people think. Except some basic Latin structure that I think most people are at least somewhat familiar with, you probably won't get enough to really help you that much. It's true that you'll get a better grasp of the grammar of your native language, but you get that benefit learning most languages, since it helps you mostly by forcing you to think about it at a more fundamental level (Latin doesn't really have that much in common with English, grammatically).

It's true that you'll be able to read some ancient authors, but, generally, in order to see great benefits from reading the works in their original language, you would need, for most works, more than a basic understanding. You can get the meaning, but rarely the nuances. And, in my opinion, if we are talking about ancient works of literature, Ancient Greek, Ancient Arabic and Sanskrit would be more interesting.

As I said though, I would love to learn it, it's just that I often see what I see as gross exaggerations of the benefits ^^'

19ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

aaditsingh8 14 10 9 7 6 6 5 2

I like your interest in Sanskrit! ^_^ There's the difference between Latin and English, and Sanskrit and numerous Indian languages. When you learn Latin, you might get some help in English, maybe more in Romance Languages; but when you learn Sanskrit, you learn almost 80% of Hindi from there. The grammar is something which we would say ctrl + c and ctrl + v. This is because the sentence structure is the same (s-o-v), the nouns are mostly the same, the adjectives are also very similar and so on. The difference which comes in Hindi is in verb endings and their conjugations. After that some other things are different. But Sanskrit is the mother language of almost all popular Indian languages (Hindi, Bengali, Marathi etc) and has influences on Indian languages from different language families all together (Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam, Kannada, Tulu etc). So Sanskrit helps you a lot. When I started learning Sanskrit, I was able to relate so many grammar rules of Hindi which I never understood! And here you go! ;) PS, ignore the message if you want to learn. It's in the website.

5Give Lingot1•1 year ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2

I do this for a living, so I admit bias, but if we are talking utility, the only language more "useful" than Latin for a US citizen is Spanish. There is a large population here which speaks Spanish and plenty of opportunity to make use of Spanish.

Otherwise, if you do not plan on leaving the US, the utility of other foreign languages is MUCH lower. Now I do love learning languages, and I would never dissuade someone from doing that, BUT the utility is rather low for an American who does not plan on leaving.

Re: "Latin doesn't really have that much in common with English, grammatically" Since Latin isn't primarily spoken, we approach it a bit differently than a spoken language. Immersion is not as much of an option (at least in my opinion) so an intense study of grammar is in order. When I teach German (I teach an intro level) we do not study the grammar in the same detail simply because of it being a spoken language. In my Latin classes, I study English grammar with them more rigorously than their English teachers, and I do not mean that as a slight against the English department.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Pratyush. 15 12 8 7 6

Adding to what @Aadit said, Similarity of Indian languages and Sanskrit is huge. But the amazing fact is that Latin is much more similar to Sanskrit than English. Words, cases, conjugations, genders, voices etc are very much same. Latin is so similar with Sanskrit that you can say Latin as similar as to Sanskrit as any other Indian languages.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

frankenstein724 17 12 9 8 6 5 4 2

Even if I were never leaving the US, I'd still put Latin pretty far down the list on "utility". Knowing the etymology of 65% of our vocab certainly doesn't help us learn much about our grammar, though it is neat. Grammatically, English is closer to German than to anything Latin based. Some of the main "grammar" rules (which should have never become rules in English and only did because of someone who thought that English should sound more like Latin) one can understand after learning Latin is why people think you shouldn't end a sentence with a preposition (because you can't in Latin, even though it's perfectly fine to do it in English), and that to boldly split infinitives is wrong (which, of course it is wrong in Latin, it is impossible to do so).

I agree with LegatonMik that most any benefits one can gain from studying Latin can be gained by studying most anything. Yes, one major approach to teaching languages these days is to focus on input and production of the language itself and not focusing on the grammar, but there's something to be said about understanding, say, what direct and indirect objects are so that in Spanish, for example, you know what pronouns you are going to replace with clitics and what order they go in, etc. I learned/relearned more about English grammar when I learned Spanish than I ever did in school, and then learned even more when I took German in my undergrad. It's because of Spanish that I understand the difference between when you can say "my friend and I" and "my friend and me", it's because of German that I know that it is perfectly natural to end sentences with prepositions, and so on. A study of Latin would probably also have provided some of the same, and some different, insights...

...but then, an English speaker who will never leave the US doesn't need to be burdened so much with the extensive case system of Latin either.

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2

You will noticed I said that I teach extensive English grammar in my class, rather than suggesting the Latin grammar itself was the main utility for English.

I could go on and on about the utility of my job, but this is not really the forum for that, so I shall just say I respectfully disagree with you.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

Fair enough.

I must admit that I have had different experiences regarding the intensity of study of grammar of living languages, but it may be because I have an interest in the subject. Although the same depth of study can, in my opinion, be achieved without necessarily learning another language, but it requires interest (which, frankly, I think is required anyway).

What I have found for myself is that if I study a language with grammar that is very different from the one I'm familiar with from other languages, I learn more about all their grammars, simply because I have to study it more.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

frankenstein724 17 12 9 8 6 5 4 2

I did notice. What I meant to imply/say, particularly with the Spanish example, was that sometimes teaching another language is facilitated by reinforcing grammar concepts from English that students have long since forgotten about from grade school, etc. As a Spanish professor, I teach English grammar as well.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Aero02 11 9 5 5 5 3

I am interested in Etymology & linguistics, so i found it fascinating to know the origin of each word and how it evolved into modern usage. As for learning in general i still believe it's very useful. [e.g.] just by knowing a few (Greek) words i am able to understand a consequent number of new words that i never heard before. So i think, learning the origins of words can also help in understanding derivative forms used in modern language!

I understand your concern though, but i never studied it before so i can tell for sure if it's going to be useful, nevertheless it's influence in all these languages is undeniable.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

I studied it long ago, and I do understand what you are saying. I'm not saying that there is no benefit, but I think it's a mistake to learn Latin in order to facilitate the learning modern languages. As I said, you get some benefits, but you get many of them by studying modern languages as well, especially descendants of Latin since, as you said, large parts of the vocabulary can be traced back to it, albeit often, and excuse my language, bastardized by having come through languages such as Old French, with the added benefit of, especially if you are a younger learner, having an easier time finding people with similar interests to practice with.

Wanting to study it with another goal, such as increasing ones understanding of etymology or reading ancient roman literature, is something quite different.

Don't get me wrong, I strongly encourage people to learn Latin, it's really very interesting, but learn it because you want to learn it, not because of some ethereal downstream benefit that, likely, won't materialize, at least not to the degree you want.

Now that my fifteen minutes on the soapbox are over, let me just add, maybe once again, that I would love to learn ancient languages, Latin (well, relearn, I guess is more apt) among them (but mostly Sanskrit at the moment, actually) ^^

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Aero02 11 9 5 5 5 3

Thanks for your comments :)

& Yes, I'm already in the process of learning modern languages. I only hope (in a near future) being able to learn Greek & Latin in the same way i am learning other languages, here on Duolingo!

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

KaiBark 18 16 12 9 7 6 6

The thing about Latin is that the grammar of that language encompasses many things that you will find in the Indo-European languages. Let's say you learn Dutch. That'll help with the Germanic languages, Spanish helps with Romance, etc. But Latin helps with most of the languages of Europe. I find it helping me in my own studies of Russian, not in vocabulary but in grammar, which takes more effort to internalize for most people.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

I agree, however, I think that this is (at least somewhat) true for most languages, even if they are not directly related to the language you intend to learn. I don't have a problem with learning Latin because it's interesting, but I question the utility to learn it mainly to get a grasp on grammatical structures, and, maybe more significantly, learning Latin tends to, in my experience, be promoted as something of a holy grail of language learning.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KaiBark 18 16 12 9 7 6 6

Some people are down for studying it, others are not. I hear some people learn Esperanto before anything actually. It all depends on your time and willingness to learn it. I had always been interested in learning Latin anyway. I'll probably do Ancient Greek, Sanskrit, Old English, and Old Norse for fun too. If I was told I had to learn Czech or something, then I would just go for that. I wouldn't do Latin first as a gateway

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

And I'm all for it. If I ever have time, I want to learn... well, all languages, really, but I would settle for 30 something, including Latin (and all others you mentioned, especially Sanskrit. I would love to read some texts of ancient Indian philosophers, especially Aryabhata's Āryabhaṭīya. Seems so cool XD). Anyway, my point is and has always been that learning Latin solely to facilitate the learning of other learning is, likely, a waste of time that you could have spent learning the language (e.g. Spanish, any Latin derived language really), gaining both the ability to communicate with a huge amount of people that were previously inaccessible to you and an understanding of the linguistic principles of many related languages, which may or may not share them with Latin anyway, with the added benefit of more opportunities to practice (although from personal experience, from both sides of the issue, if you are trying to practice a language, and you share a language with the person you are speaking to, it's really easy to fall back to it.)

Essentially, if you (general you) want to learn Latin, do! It's interesting, and I wish I had time to take up my studies of it again.

By the way, if I misrepresented (misunderstood), your opinion, I'm sorry. I'm slightly inebriated at the moment ^^'

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

I know that this is not a fantastic way to handle the situation, but I had to wait for more than 15 months until my application for the DE<->EN courses has been accepted. Before that, there were no noise at all.

Luis stated some weeks ago that Latin will definitely come eventually. If you applied properly and they consider you as a course moderator, you will get notified and they'll figure everything out with you. Since I both learned Latin in school and studied it at university a few years ago (but forgot almost everything since then), I'd love to see it here as soon as possible. Let's keep our fingers crossed that the wait will be over soon!

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2

Good to know that a response may indeed come. One of the things I didn't like about the application process was how vague it was.

Should I make sure and use as many grammatical constructions as possible so they can see I know the language? Should I do that with vocabulary too? Etc.

Glad to hear Latin will come eventually. I hope I can contribute, but even if not I welcome the addition.

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

alexinIreland wrote a great post concerning the application: click

I only disagree to his sentence "You could technically write 10 words but still really impress the team :P"

If you ask me, what really matters is this:

Knowing both languages fluently

Other languages you have been learning (especially on Duolingo)

Believing in Duolingo's mission (free education a.s.o.)

Knowing the community

being very helpful in the forum

Having the time to contribute

Willing to work in a team

Skills to teach a language (not mandatory, but of course very helpful) and, most importantly: Being honest.

You can find some more useful tips here in the forums if you search thoroughly. You can also write a second application that is more elaborate than the first one =) Good luck!

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2

Thanks for the post. I believe I will resubmit, since his outline is much more specific than the application itself.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Oh, and: There is a character limit. I don't know the exact limit, but keep that in mind in order to write your application accordingly =)

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Allinuse 16 10 8 7 3 3 2

Knowing both languages fluently? That seems to go only one way... A lot of the "English for X speakers" courses have only native X speakers as contributors and if you look at "X for English speakers" courses they also have mostly just native X speakers as contributors.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

OldSpiceGuy 25 25 13 5 4

At this point, Latin and Esperanto are probably the only other languages I'd think about adding. Just because I suck at languages, and they take a ton of effort.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sean486123 9 8 8 5

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

OldSpiceGuy 25 25 13 5 4

Yes, my post was from three months ago, when it wasn't. You're in an old thread.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SteveLando 22 18 17 16 14 12 11 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 6 6 6 5 5 3 6

Thank you, I hope You recieve an answer soon, because without Latin, Duolingo could diseppear out in the outer space:)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KaiBark 18 16 12 9 7 6 6

I've applied as well! I'm not perfect, but I did very well taking it in school (last year). I got to Latin 2, but my teacher wanted to put me onto the Latin 3 certamen team.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

xavi_fr 11 11 10 8 6 5 5

Some of us are waiting for Catalan :/ I can't stop refreshing the incubator, Luis please tell some news about Catalan-Spanish to make us happy :D

28ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Dessamator 25 14 13 13

This is interesting, I'm wondering where the heck will they get a TTS engine for this. More importantly, aren't there any licensing and copyright issues related to this language?

Oh, I think everybody should grip themselves for the incoming spam of "When will klingon graduate". Assuming this isn't a joke, I'm wondering how the heck will this course be moderated.

25ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

dlyongemallo 8 6 4 3

I don't know where they're getting a TTS engine from, but at least one TTS engine exists for Klingon. I know this because I wrote it:

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=org.tlhInganHol.android.klingonttsengine>

I don't think that's what they'll be using, though, as I would've expected them to contact me if they were.

25ReplyGive Lingot11•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

What's writing a TTS like? As in how does the API for creating sound (assuming it exists) work?

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dlyongemallo 8 6 4 3

Writing a TTS engine for Klingon actually turns out to be relatively easy since there is an (almost) 1:1 correspondence between the writing system and the spoken language, and the language is "choppy", meaning that there is a natural break between syllables. (The "almost" is for stress, which the TTS engine does not know about at all, so its output is a bit "flat".) All the code has to do is to map from the input to the correct sound files, and stitch them together. The bulk of the code is this mapping, which you can see here: <https://github.com/De7vID/klingon-assistant/blob/master/KlingonTtsEngine/src/org/tlhInganHol/android/klingonttsengine/KlingonSpeakTtsService.java>

By far the hardest part of the project was to actually record all the sounds.

6ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

Having done some research it seems that languages, including conlangs, are un-copyright-able, although dictionaries etc. are protected in the same way as a natural language. I've had trouble finding a primary source though. If I find one, I'll put it here. In the meantime, this [broken link] describes the situation as I understand it, although, as I said, I'm still looking for primary sources.

Edit: Oh, this only applies to the language itself. Using the name Klingon... I don't know? Some things I've read (now) would suggest it, but it's, honestly, really confusing reading all this as a non-expert...

Edit 2: According to this article, which is fairly well sourced, languages cannot be considered under copyright, at least in the U.S., since, to quote 17 U.S. Code § 102, [...] (b) In no case does copyright protection [...] extend to any idea, procedure, process, [...] regardless of the form in which it is described, explained, illustrated, or embodied in such work.

I cut out what I considered the unimportant parts for the issue at hand, but I recommend reading it in its entirety ^^

Edit 3: Apparently, the first link leads, well, nowhere, so I decided to remove it.

13ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

I can try find the link again if you like but I remember reading that in the US it's not a case that's come up in court yet so it currently exists in a sort of grey area.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

That would be cool (although I deleted it, so I don't know if that's enough to go on). I read the same thing, but it seems that it might fall outside current copyright (until someone with enough money for lawyers presses the case and sets precedent, of course. Then all bets are off). I think that it has been established in the EU though, but I'm unsure.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pabos95 12 12 11 10 5 4

Process or ideas can't be copyrighted but can be patented.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Konrad127123 23 22 20 17 13 13 11 3 2 794

... and names of things can't be copyrighted, but they can be trademarked.

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

some courses don't use TTSeS, but human voice recordings, like Irish and upcoming Ukrainian. I suppose that will be the case here too, though finding a speaker able to pronounce the sounds of Klingon may prove to be difficult.

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

chaered 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 8 7 5 5 59

Of course native voice recordings instead of human ones would be better in this case, but they may be harder to obtain.

16ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

oh, my bad, you're right. hard as it may be, I believe that Duo loves us and will get us the best voice, even if he would have to fly where no owl has flown before to find it.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BryanAJParry 21 18 13 12 5 77

Michael Dorn seriously needs to voice this course!

5ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Dessamator 25 14 13 13

Maybe they'll hire an actor such as Worf to do an exclusive voice over. I'm sure the publicity they may gain using an actor's voice may result in considerable monetary gains for Duolingo.

15ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

I quoted your question and loghaD answered that he knows that there actually is one TTS engine for Duolingo, but that he also didn't have the chance to test it.

Edit: I have no idea why I wrote for Duolingo, I didn't mean that. Freud, I'm looking at you ;-)

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

loghaD 11 8 6 4 3 2 2

Small correction: There is a Klingon TTS engine out there, but it's not developed by Duolingo. I actually have no idea what they'll be using; it's probably something we'll look into more as the project gets off the ground :)

14ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

ajcee7 25 25 25 24 21 21 18 16 15 15 14 12 1181

I think that person is dlyongemallo who has commented above on this post. Best of luck with your course!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

loghaD 11 8 6 4 3 2 2

That's the one :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

magyarmester 12 11 7 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

23ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Eey91 25 25 21 19 16 9 2 6

Hahaha amazing gif. You don't see Snape smiling very often!

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Azure_Waters 25 23 22 12 12 11 10 6 2

Haha! Made me smile! ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

floodzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 2 2 3

Best gif ever <3

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

I have no idea why I would ever want this, but now I do. I need this.

19ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

dlyongemallo 8 6 4 3

A couple of people have complained about the inclusion of Klingon while higher-demand natural languages haven't yet been accepted, and instead of replying to each comment, I'll just post a general response here. I don't work for Duolingo and have no special insight into their internal processes, but I have worked on multilingual software and can make an educated guess.

TL;DR summary: the benefits of supporting Klingon may justify the effort of doing so, in a way that may not be obvious to you.

The complaints appear to boil down to two questions.

Why would someone developing multilingual software prioritise Klingon over some natural languages?

Because Klingon occupies the gap between easy to implement (from the point of view of developing software that supports many languages) and difficult. It's trivial to support English, because technology is biased towards the Latin alphabet (think ASCII). It's easy to extend your software to support other Western European languages: you just need to support extended Latin and be able to handle some forms of conjugation and grammatical gender. Beyond that, there's a gap that needs to be crossed before supporting most natural languages: other writing systems, more complex grammar, etc. Klingon is a rare instance of a language that occupies that gap. It uses Latin, but with unusual capitalisation rules. Its grammar is OVS. It is agglutinative. It has grammatical gender (but the division it draws is between beings, body parts, and everything else). As a software developer, using Klingon is a great way to work out edge cases before tackling more difficult languages.

Because its speakers tend to be tech-savvy. The speakers of Klingons are disproportionately likely to have a technical background. This means that Klingon beta testers give much better bug reports than users of other languages.

Because there is little consequence to offending its speakers. If you do something embarrassingly wrong in, say, Russian, many people will get offended. You'll be mocked in the Russian media and Russian users will write angry rants about you. In contrast, Klingon speakers are very forgiving (contrary to the image of the Klingons on Star Trek). Microsoft launched Klingon support in Bing with a level of quality far below that of the supported natural languages (that's to put it mildly). If they had done that with any other language, they would have been pilloried in the press and that language's speakers would have been outraged. Instead, they received a great deal of positive press, and Klingon speakers, while mildly annoyed, have been working to help Microsoft improve their engine.

Why would anyone want to learn Klingon?

Different people want to learn different languages for different reasons, and that's also true for Klingon. However, there are some reasons which are specific to Klingon. Some people want to learn it to add authenticity to a character, for example as part of cosplay, in a video game, for fan fiction, etc. The fact that it uses the Latin alphabet, and has a speaker base consisting of only dozens at most who can speak it in real-time, but thousands who are familiar with stock phrases and can decipher simple sentences given a little time and a dictionary, makes it ideal for use as a code. (I originally learned Klingon as a secret language to use with a friend.) The fact that it is much simpler than a natural language, and has no connection to any real-life political entities, makes it an ideal instructional language for teaching linguistics and related subjects. And finally, Klingon speakers are interesting people, due to selection bias (only people who have time and energy to dedicate themselves to unusual hobbies become conversant in Klingon, and they tend to be involved in other interesting hobbies too).

19ReplyGive Lingot8•1 year ago

hpatyahoodotcom 25 25 23 19 18 13 7 970

I understand your point of view, but technical challenges should be hosted in another forum. What I don't understand is how do you prioritize the projects? How many will actually learn this fiction language? How many books are written with it? Would you spend your time to learn it? All I see is this fiction language is going to burn a lot of working hours. I am very appreciate what Duolingo team has done so far, but my time on Earth only limited to 100 years old - 'On ne vit qu'une fois', please spend your time wisely.

0ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

dlyongemallo 8 6 4 3

Were your questions directed at me? I don't work for Duolingo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lizsue 25 24 10 5 2 131

Paramount Studios can afford to pay someone to spend those working hours.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LeMaitre 21 15 13 12 11 9 8 8 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 2 2

Wow! And this seems to be the first course wherein the course page was added the same time as the course entered the Incubator.

18ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SOS_90 25 24 15 12 2 18

I wonder if this course will also teach insults because the description of the language says "There are also plenty of insults, as it is considered an art form."

I never watched Star Trek so I'm not interested in Klingon that much but if insults are such an important part of the language you should be able to learn them here on Duo. And if it's ok to learn Klingon insults it should also be ok to learn insults in other languages.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

amuzulo 15 13 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 2

We start with the insults already in the first lesson of the Esperanto course: Vi estas knabo, ne viro. (You are a boy, not a man.) :-D

13ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

DasEinhorn 25 25 25 18 17 14 12 12 10 8 7 4 3

Can you add an insults bonus skill? It'd be waaay better than flirting or idioms! :)

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

amuzulo 15 13 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 2

hahaha, we'll have to think about that one! ;)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

The insults are more about creative turns of phrase than swearing and blasphemy. Like in Skyrim how an insult thrown your way is milk drinker. I mean... yeah it's an insult, but it's not really offensive in and of itself.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

I think this is a good moment to link to the Kaltduscher list that wataya shared in a previous discussion.

Also this Warmduscher list shared by sakasiru, with less painful typography.

Includes "Heisse-Milch-mit-Honig-Trinker" amongst others :-).

dqxxmvvyoedn

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

I'm not familiar with the sort of thing I'm seeing here. :P

Sorry, what was the context for these lists again?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jjd1123 16 15 13 8 8 7 6 6 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

A "Warmduscher" (literally "warm-showerer") is a person who avoids danger and discomfort, a "wimpy" person. A "Kaltduscher" ("cold-showerer") is the opposite. So I think some of those "Warmduscher"-insults might actually fit your description of a Klingon insult quite well. Although I don't know anything about Klingon insults, so I cannot say how accurate the comparison really is.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Sorry, I should have provided a little more context. It was late on this side of the planet :-).

"Warmduscher" and its million synonyms are humorous ways to accuse someone of being a bit physically soft or pampered. "Schattenparker" (shade-parker) is another of the best-known. Much of the comedy (at least for me) comes from the fact that mostly they describe pretty normal, sane behaviours, so if you call someone a Warmduscher and Schattenparker you're also humorously implying that you yourself are so tough that you always park in the blazing sun and shower in icy cold water.

I guess that the "Kaltduscher" terms came along later, and they embody exactly the opposite: the kind of bold behaviour you'd expect from some imaginary person who seriously considers "Warmduscher" an insult. Hence: U-Bahn-Surfer, Elektrozaunpinkler, etc.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

This is breaking news! For the first time Duollingo offers such a language :O

17ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Snommelp 22 22 21 20 19 17 15 15 788

Depends on what you mean by "such a language," since Esperanto is also a constructed language, and is currently incubating. :-P

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

The language from Star Trek? = P

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luko. 16 14 13 3

But Esperanto is an IAL, not an ArtLang

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pabos95 12 12 11 10 5 4

Yes, the difference is that esperanto was intended for really life communication, while Klingon is for artistic porpouses. This is not the first artificial language on the incubator, but is the fistt ArtLang on it.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

cdub4language 22 14 14 14 14 10 3

Yes, and this is why I'm a bit unhappy about the timing of the Klingon course... I'm all for languages of all types, including fandom languages (and I would totally do a Quenya course), but I'm concerned that just as Esperanto was about to get released and earn a bit of credibility in the world since it's on duolingo alongside all these "real" (and by that I mean natural, not constructed - of course Klingon is real) languages, now that Klingon is also in the mix, that argument's not so strong, since the only other conlang here is Klingon and people might categorize the two together. I'm all for new languages of all types to be added to duolingo... but for Esperanto's sake, I'm not too pleased about the timing of Klingon's addition. I hope my fears are unfounded!! Beyond that, I shouldn't be so selfish in wanting only my favorite languages to have success - there's a bunch of people excited to learn Klingon, and to them and the course creators I say congrats on the incubator addition!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

xavi_fr 11 11 10 8 6 5 5

Don't you remember Lolcatz? or lolcats? or whatever...

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

but i alredek can haz speeek lolcatz

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2 ai.....alreddeh

lol (^.^)

ai'm fiksn yor mehssijiz

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922
u can haz thankz

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
o hai! ai giv yoo welkm.

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
ai seez yew awn yur compyootr, menshunin stuphs

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2
Learn to speak Lolcat.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
HappyEvilSlosh, since you're a mathematician, I hope you also comment on future Vulcan language threads -- it'd be purely logical.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2
I'm quite impressed/flattered that you are able to identify me by name as a mathematician. :P I don't know anything at all about the Vulcan language other than that it's fan created. I would like to know more but... I'm also worried that that I'll read it and be like blergh, this isn't logical! Society once again not meeting what I think of as not-particularly-high standards. :P

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
LOL you have a username that's hard to forget. Yeah idk anything about Vulcan either. Have a lingot for masterful use of "blergh" haha.

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

xavi_fr 11 11 10 8 6 5 5

Sorry I need first to learn English grammar at 100%, this may confuse me a lot :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

niamhwitch 16 11 3 786

As a pretty serious Trekkie... I about fell out of my chair in excitement over this. You better not be yanking my chain, Duo!

17ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

landsend 22 20 14 13 12 11 10 897

What's the Klingon for "I'm going to die a virgin"?

17ReplyGive Lingot6•1 year ago

tnel1 13 12 11 10 6

:D Well played sir!

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

They have no word for virgin

5ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

May the force be with loghaD.

16ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Pleurocystites 24 16 14 10 9 9 8 7 6 5 4 2 41

56ReplyGive Lingot9•1 year ago

vivisaurus 17 16 13 9 7 5 4 1351

I think this is my favorite. =]

16ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

anachron 22 9 2 2

I'm so confused right now.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2

I'm thoroughly disappointed that this mentions both Harry & Gandalf. facepalm Totally whiffs on the opportunity to have yet another component included.

rolls eyes #LifeN00b

~~~~~

massive sarcasm detector explosion

~~~~~

JK but, hey, why not Seven of Nine? #JeriRyanFTW #twoSaturnAwards #BornInMunichTho
#IntergalacticPlanetary #NoSuchThingAs2ManyHashTags #OKmaybeThereIs
#Should.b.WorkingOnMyDutchTho
#HardWorkPaysOff.In.The.End.BUT.Procrastination.Pays.Off.Right.Now

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Oh my Kahless, I can't believe this is real! I'm so excited!

Of course, now a lot of people will complain about it not being "a real language", when frankly it has the same amount of legitimacy as Esperanto.

14ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

"Klingon for English-speaking Earth inhabitants" :P

14ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lelouch 25

Today I learnt that Klingon exists.

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

Time to start growing some Klingon-style goatees. Mine's ready! :D

13ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

loghaD 11 8 6 4 3 2 2

toDuj 'oS rol! ("A beard is a symbol of courage!")

16ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Can't believe someone downvoted that beard.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

Actually at least three people did. :P

I don't usually mind having posts downvoted, but when it's something clearly meant not to be taken seriously... well I've said it before and I'll say it again: at times I find the Duolingo community to be weirdly humourless.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Aliciaftw 25

I've heard that men who can't grow beards get very jealous.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

tomi1999 12 11 9

i think making a Klingon course, as useless as it is, is contemptuous with all te users eager to help, and the ones expecting Catalan. There are lots of Catalans in duolingo, willing to help and make the course. I think Duolingo is getting away from its purpose, wich was to educate and give opportunities to people with low resources. How can knowing Klingon help a Centroamerican to get a job? Is there any country that offerseducation in Klingon?

13ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

crush 14 14 8 3

I also checked the Spanish incubator thinking that Catalan had been added, too. Though i don't think Klingon will take many resources from other courses, for example i doubt it'll have millions of learners like the Spanish/German/French courses and i don't think the course will be as large as other courses, but i'd still love to see the Catalan course get announced.

Personally, i think i'll at least check the course out.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

Congratulations to those with an interest in Klingon. Personally, whilst I've no interest in the language myself, I'm intensely amused at the petty whining that its addition has inspired, so well done to all responsible. :P

13ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Aliciaftw 25

That's how I'm feeling about now. I have no interest in Klingon but I'm pretty happy for those that do. I find it sad that it's so socially acceptable to disparage other's hobbies like this. If it's volunteers making a course then what is it to others?

I guess I'm less amused and more upset than I thought. =P

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

I think that the problem that at least some people have is that it seems that there are limited resources for developing the courses, and that having Klingon pushes back alternatives that are more requested, popular and potentially useful. I haven't seen any references to the statements by Duolingo that would confirm that this is the state, but I agree that it is an issue if that is the case.

Still, I'm for its (and other conlangs'/artlangs') inclusion, I'm just not sure that this is the time ^^'

5ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

That's exactly it. I have no problem with Klingon being added in theory, I have no issue with people wanting to learn conlangs, but if resources are as limited as people have been saying, I'm sure that there's better ways that they could be spent.

I'm sure that there's plenty of good justifications that would make the inclusion of Klingon appealing to me, even with limited resources, but so far, the only responses to people raising this concern (that I've seen) have been really condescending - "stop whinging", "once we've gotten in Klingon and Quenya they'll be able to support more languages, so I'm sure you'll see Catalan in 2020 or so, just be patient dearie :)" - which doesn't exactly help me appreciate their points of view.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

You could always ask for a refund.

Edit, I can't reply below so Lark I'm replying to YOU here.

I did read what you said. I just don't share your view. You and the others that are disappointed all seem to share the prerogative that you are entitled to or deserve something from a privately held company making their own decisions. I am just grateful it is here as is. I am humored by those that feel they should be making the decisions about someone else's "free website", thus the ask for a refund comment. Many people have posted about how people are waiting for languages that are "real", or that "they need" or that they can "actually use". They, like you, seem to miss the point that you could study most of those elsewhere. You just have to pay for it.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Every decision that is large enough will result in petty whining.

6ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

This is awesome! I hope one day High Valyrian and Dothraki will be on Duolingo, despite their lexicons not being fully fleshed out yet. That said, I am completely astonished at the amount of hate for conlangs other than Esperanto on this website. It is unreal. This community is for the most part toxic to any language that isn't deemed "useful", whatever that really means, because the usefulness of a language varies from person to person.

12ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Italian.Ice 14 14 10 8 6 5 4 4 3 3 2

While I'm not interested in learning Klingon, I do agree with your point. Duolingo is about learning languages, whether they are "real" or not. I understand the frustration of some people about "real" languages not being approved, while Klingon has been, but I feel that this community should support the addition of Klingon. I feel that if you are passionate about a language or its culture, even if it is a conlang, you should be able to learn it, and, especially in this community, you should feel supported by other learners, even if they aren't learning the same language as you! I realize this also justifies the frustration of those who want to learn languages that have not been "approved" yet. I mean, learning any language, regardless of how "useful" it is is a noble undertaking. And contributing to a course for a language, especially a language spoken by few is also something to be proud of. That said, sure, I would love for languages such as Hindi, Arabic, and Maltese to be approved, because that's where my interests lie. However, I don't think we should be "attacking" any language because it isn't "real" or "useful," rather, we should be supporting the contributor(s) of the course, and we should also be happy for those who want to learn it! Also, sorry for the long post, I hope my little speech makes sense :)

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Correct and it is indeed very sad to see. First world problems... :-(

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

P.Salamander 9

Seriously? :P

11ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

YES! Lol, so weird

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tnel1 13 12 11 10 6

This will come in very handy in 2260! Or be very cool (if you have a time machine) in 1966. ;) Well, "Qapla'", whatever that means. :)

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

remoonline 25 20 23

Success!

7ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

tnel1 13 12 11 10 6

Ohhhhhh! :D

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

olyglotED 15 13 13 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 4 2 2

Prefer Elvish. But good on you for starting the trend of nerdy all-inclusion!

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

olyglotED 15 13 13 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 4 2 2

after some thought, I'm not so sure... There are better choices, even in the artificial languages, in my humble opinion. Odd bonus--tons of virginal, '2 liter of cola in mom's basement' types will have an extra incentive to communicate, perhaps mate, and then proliferate their nerdy race.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 797

Why ? ..... There are so many requests for real languages which people may need to be able to get work and Klingon is in the incubator ..... I just don't understand the logic of this at all. .... BTW I know I am about to be downvoted into oblivion by Trekkies everywhere but I thought the point was worth making.

10ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

niamhwitch 16 11 3 786

Why? Because there were people willing and able to be contributors to the course. It's not replacing another course. This website is largely community-based and the courses are created based on demand and willingness of those able to contribute to the courses. The "logic" behind this is simply that it's a fun language to learn. I know I'll be adding it to my list once it's in Beta. Not to mention, that many people are interested in constructed languages. This does not hinder other languages being added to the incubator, nor does it detract people from using or creating more "useful" courses. If you're not interested in learning a constructed language (for fun or otherwise), then don't add it to your list. Simple as that.

16ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 797

I would agree with you except for the fact that we keep being told that languages have to wait their turn because there isn't space in the incubator, if that's true then it does hinder other languages being added. I am all in favour of fun for the sake of it but this just seems to be displacing languages that people are crying out for.

16ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

dsmndnmsb 25 24 18 11 9 7 5 4 3 2 2 1

Klingon shouldn't hurt the displacement of natural languages too much as it should be completed quicker since it is constructed and there are less typographic nuances to bother with. A few examples of languages with typographic nuances are chinese, arabic, russian, polish, amharic, hebrew, japanese, and inuit.

5ReplyGive Lingot7•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 797

Nonetheless, it is taking up some space and time, unless of course the Klingons have overcome those two factors by some as yet unknown (except to them) quantum type physics but after seeing this, I'm prepared to believe anything.

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dsmndnmsb 25 24 18 11 9 7 5 4 3 2 2 1

one could easily say that polish and romanian are guilty of the same sort of issue since progress has been incredibly slow.

8Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

I'm not sure about that. Have you seen Klingon grammar? Plus, there are few proficient speakers, so the pool of contributors is small...

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

[Klingon] has an extremely regular morphology.

In terms of creating a course I think this is probably one of the more important things that that page says. :P

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

@LegatonMik: I'm thinking in terms of tools that you can use to recognise and convert language strings. I haven't done much with natural languages but I do, every now and then, need to write a parser for files, and have written a compiler in the past, and the rule is: make it regular. If you had to recognise (not always consistent) changes in spelling of instructions based on the variables they declared or were used with (akin to what you might get in natural languages) ... well ... no thanks. :P

Edit: Although, I haven't contributed to a course. Can you have built in inflections?

Apparently in Duolingo's internals each inflection is its own word.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

True. I have never really done natural language processing, so I can't speak for it. And I have no idea of how Duolingo's algorithm handles input parsing either

@HappyEvilSlosh

I'm wondering how big an impact it has though, but, once again, it's because I have no idea of how the course creation works.

Edit: I've no idea of how this black box works XD

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

@HappyEvilSlosh

Maybe XD I've never considered irregularity that big a problem though, especially not in modern languages that have mostly "regularized" ^^

Edit: Although, I haven't contributed to a course. Can you have built in inflections?

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

may I ask, since when are there typographic nuances with Polish? you mean people with some kind of fear of digraphs and diacritics? just curious.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dsmndnmsb 25 24 18 11 9 7 5 4 3 2 2 1

not really fear, but digraphs and diacritics add complexity to rendering (which has been solved in Portuguese, French, and Turkish already). It was more of a comment on scripts that aren't latin-based.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

[2] I know, that's why I was so surprised to find Polish in such a company. ;)

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dsmndnmsb 25 24 18 11 9 7 5 4 3 2 2 1

I think I got carried away :P

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

vytah 13 13 12 12 12 11 10 10 9 3 584

Klingon in Latin script is case-sensitive, which is unique among all Latin-alphabet-based languages. So here you have another typographic nuance.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jjd1123 16 15 13 8 8 7 6 6 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

I'm not sure whether I understand you correctly, but in German capitalisation can certainly change the meaning of a word or sentence. And even in English, where capitalisation plays an arguably smaller role, there is a difference between e.g. a bill and a Bill (you'll probably be able to find similar examples for other languages using the Latin alphabet).

6Give Lingot•1 year ago

KansasBurri 11 3 11

There are also a lot of people willing to contribute to (just going off of people saying they've applied to the incubator in the forums) Japanese, Maltese, Korean, Finnish, Serbian, Armenian (theres a specific thread), Hindi, Arabic, Indonesian, Amharic, the list goes on. And couldn't it hinder other courses? You have to have DL staff (not contributors) manage them, so that'll take time away from managing real languages, and I remember a big problem they were having is not having enough bandwidth (in resources, not the technology) to support a lot more courses.

MOST IMPORTANT PART: DL is still losing money, how can adding Klingon help this?

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

I see you have mentioned DL losing money twice in this thread. I have not heard that from anyone else. Can you post a link to this?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KansasBurri 11 3 11

Its fairly common knowledge. There was an article a couple of months back saying DL was losing money.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

This does not hinder other languages

Except Duo repeatedly says that they can't support XYZ at the moment despite an overabundance of volunteers because of limited incubator space which reflects a real lack of bandwidth/server space.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

Because there are interested contributors willing to take it on? There are no major technical difficulties in implementing it? It could possibly increase awareness of this whole project? Just a few guesses.

For the record, I share your concern to some degree.

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 797

I can see your point about increasing awareness of the project but does it show Duo as being the serious language site it claims to be or, a gaming platform ? If Duo wants to be a gaming only site then it makes sense but if, in addition to my points above you (Duo) want to encourage schools to join and commercial translations to grow this doesn't seem like a good way to go.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

Indeed. It concerns me too. I never meant to endorse the points I mentioned, I just tried to think of conceivable reasons as to why it would be added ^^'

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 797

Yes, I realised that :-)) but I was just putting the counter arguments. I gained the impression from your other posts above that you were interested in languages which have a real life use as opposed to just fun and games. Not that there's anything wrong with fun and games but it seems as if Duo can't decide whether it's a serious language site or a game ...it leaves me bemused :-)

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 4 2 2 3

Why does it have to be either/or? After all, Duolingo is designed around the concept of gamifying language - it's supposed to be both a game and a serious language learning tool. That is a false dichotomy.

The fact Duolingo is fun is a good thing, but it doesn't stop it being a serious language teaching effort, and the addition of Klingon doesn't stop the site being good at giving us the basics in a whole bunch of "real" languages.

I really don't see where this "serious language site/game" dichotomy comes in. Those two things are not mutually exclusive.

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

LegatonMik 23 7 6

I wouldn't say that. I have an interest in languages of all stripes and colors, I was even kept awake for several hours thinking about a conlang I wanted to develop for a game concept XD Interestingly, it had some grammatical features in common with Klingon #^^#

I have the same feeling as you though. Duo at least seems to want to be a serious learning tool, and I don't know if this move will reflect that well... oh, well, only time can tell XD

2Give Lingot1•1 year ago

ThEAnOrAK 5 4 3 2

I am so excited!!! Hopefully it won't take that long for it to graduate into beta :)

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DavidStyles 20 20 20 18 16 16 15 14 13 13 13 13 11 10 10 7 8 1

Those criticising its addition and asking for natural languages to be given precedence... You realize this course has one contributor so far, and, I don't know his language set, but he probably wasn't going to be spending all his time contributing to Tagalog, Finnish, Icelandic, etc.

It may be irksome to notice a considerably "niche" language getting ahead of, say, Japanese, a major world language in hot demand, but courses require volunteers with language specific skills.

Don't blame the Klingons :p They didn't invade Barcelona and vaporize the Catalan course. Instead, start sending love to the Catalans and see if there's any amount of positive cheerleading that can get your preferred course rolling.

It's not a zero-sum game when there are so many potential contributors, all with different language skillsets.

(Someone mentioned there are limited spots in the incubator. This may be contingently true, I don't know, but it's surely not a necessary truth, as any such limit seems quite arbitrary).

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

any such limit seems quite arbitrary

Yes, I am sure that the Duo team - who don't actually have all that much money - have unlimited server space and bandwidth.

There are volunteers for courses like Indonesian and Latin, who have not received any response from Duo whatsoever (the Latin volunteer has also posted in this thread) - although Latin might be a bad example since it's dead outside of some Catholic churches and classical studies departments.

Courses also require management by the Duo team, not just contributors (I forget whether this applies once the course exits the incubator).

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

I cannot believe this day has finally come. Speechless right now to say the least....

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Speechless, good or bad?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

I mean, I don't care if it's there, I have no "preference" for natural languages. It's just funny to see it here after it being tossed around for so long, I thought it was a long way off yet. But then again, I figured Duolingo was going for another home run (last April it was Duels), so this might be it.

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M4rt4a 24 18 17 16 15 15 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 6 4 4 21

At first I thought it was a joke, but I'm actually quite happy for it being added :) It may open the way for more constructed languages, maybe even Tolkien's? But I'd love to see Toki Pona even more. That'd be a best thing ever! :D

I've just imagined writing a CV, with fluent Elvish and Toki Pona in it. That's a key to success in life :D

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2

Toki Pona :D

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

I feel silly including intermediate Welsh, I'm guessing that would probably be similar but even more embarrassing. :D although things like that can sometimes draw employer's attention and get you the job.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M4rt4a 24 18 17 16 15 15 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 6 4 4 21

you kidding me? When I'll speak Welsh (which I kind of treat as an obvious fact that I will :D) I'm going to write it in the first place, in capital letters, possibly highlighted :D

But honestly, I think it's a good thing. I mean, it kind of shows that you're interested in learning new things, not only the necessary ones. I would surely hire myself for speaking Elvish :P

Can you imagine how this job interview would look like? I once thought about one with Ainu. (Which is another language I'd love to speak, but unfortunately resources are really hard to find)

I see you speak Ainu? Can you communicate freely in it?

Sure thing, with all the other 10 speakers of this language!

:DD

11Give Lingot2•1 year ago

mwyaren 18 11 10 9

[2] no, for real, I actually started learning Danish to make my CV look more grown-up. I didn't feel too serious applying with skills such as mentioned Welsh, fencing or Irish dancing, apparently these are not enough to get invited to an interview. XD in case you wondered. perhaps Ainu might be better-off not mentioned too. they could think you've made it up. ;p

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M4rt4a 24 18 17 16 15 15 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 6 4 4 21

Good that I've already got English, German and Spanish. Now I can learn whatever I want :D You're right... Elvish sounds more credible :D

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Katalane90 17 10 10 8 3

We need Catalan !!! Luis please add it soon !!

8ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

crush 14 14 8 3

I'm also waiting for Catalan to get added!

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

The only reason I even know what Catalan is, is due to my GF planning a trip to Spain that fell through. How big of an area is Catalan spoken? We were looking at Barcelona, Madrid and San Sebastian. I know in at least one of those areas Catalan was mentioned.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Katalane90 17 10 10 8 3
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Catalan\_language

Google is our friend ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MaeSafae 25 25 23 22 21 11 10 7 7 6 6 3 3 782
And still no Farsi....!

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jsprwstr 25 24 20 19 17 16 11 9 6 6 4 4 3 104
I... honestly don't know how to feel about this.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

april_says_hello 6
I wish there was japanese for english speakers

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jackmchugh12 20 11 10 7
Klingon for Humans :D

"Users can expect to see Klingon for Dogs and Klingon for cats in the incubator after the course reaches phase three"

:D

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

WahahaDrills 22 18 18 12 9 6 5 4 4 3 2
Awesome. Then my cats and I could have a secret language around the house.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922
I can't wait for Klingon for Fish.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2
I have to be honest about this. I will accept that they have added Klingon to the Incubator when they add Maltese, Tagalog, Icelandic, Arabic, Japanese, Finnish, Serbian, Croatian, Amharic, Catalan, Cantonese, Farsi, Basque, Afrikaans, Latin, Welsh, Swahili, Luxembourgish, Hindustani, Quechua, Bulgarian and the mountain of other languages that the community really wants.

So far, I have seen a lot more people complaining about Klingon coming out than I have seen who are happy. I realise I'll probably get downvoted for all this because people don't want to hear it, but Duolingo should be for the community, and the community want all the languages I listed and more more than they want Klingon.

Please note, it's not that I have anything in particular against Klingon as such. I just feel that the languages of the world that the community wants should come out first. I am very disappointed indeed with this choice.

6ReplyGive Lingot5•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

To be fair, people who have something negative to say tend to more readily take the opportunity to say it than those who have something positive to say. Despite the negativity, the announcement has a sizable number of upvotes (especially taking into consideration the number of downvotes it's likely receiving based on the posts we've seen).

I think the community needs to rein in its sense of entitlement. Not everything is going to go the way parts of the community wish it would, and we shouldn't expect it to. None of us know the circumstances that coincide with this development taking place (nor is it our business), and even if we did and the result was that some people would have to wait a while longer for their preferred course... so what? So be it. We're not petulant little children; we should be able to stomach such things and move on maturely.

7ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

I understand your argument, but mine stands - Duolingo should be for the community, and when the community want a certain language, Duolingo should do everything they possibly can to get it added.

-5ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

I see no reason why Duolingo should bend over backwards to tend to the community's every whim. They've done a good job of generally addressing community desires, and the community certainly isn't owed overwhelming devotion and obedience on Duolingo's part. There's more to Duolingo than the forum community.

Should an opportunity present itself to the staff, there's no reason for them not to take it. They can't simply go out of their way to track down all of the relevant people based on what we scream loudest about next. As we've seen in the past, the relevant users come to them, and Duolingo enables them as best they can. Something akin to this has obviously taken place with Klingon. If an appealing opportunity did arise in some manner or another, it would be idiocy on Duolingo's part to dismiss it simply because parts of the community would not be best pleased.

7ReplyGive Lingot6•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

· It's not that this language release 'doesn't directly please' me - it's that it strongly displeases me. I think this a ridiculous choice.

· I'm not saying Klingon shouldn't be released 'for fear of some whining on the forums' - I'm saying it shouldn't be released because it isn't the slightest bit beneficial and because it takes the place of languages the community wants more. If Duolingo is going to do anything for the community, it should be to do their best to get the languages the community wants onto the website.

· Leaders aren't necessarily in the best position, that's why, as I said, 'businesses hand out surveys because they want to know what their community want'. The people on the receiving end of what the company produces is often in a much better position.

· It's not, as you said 'immature' for people to be angry about this - the anger is just, for the reasons I gave in the second point and more.

· It's not the slightest bit 'necessary for Duolingo to make actions of statement which allow for people to know that Duolingo doesn't live and die by the word of its forums'. Going out of their way to do something that displeases the community just to show they're not going to always listen to them is nothing short of rude and disrespectful.

· The fact that Duolingo is kostenlos doesn't really mean it's unlike any other business, because it certainly does make money, and that money is made through our hard work (learning languages), which comes from their hard work (developing the website). Our reward is language skills and satisfaction, their reward is money and satisfaction. We both live off each other, like any other business, so I disagree - Duo shouldn't be different to any other business.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

To your first point: so what? The point remains the same. Not everything need please everyone; whether our response is neutral or strongly against isn't particularly relevant. Additionally, it's clearly not a universal sentiment given the polarisation to be found in this thread.

I'm saying it shouldn't be released because it isn't the slightest bit beneficial

I don't know how you can possibly make that conclusion. We have no idea what took place to set this in motion for Duolingo, given that a deal which provides Duolingo with some sort of financial or resource-based support is certainly beneficial for the site and by extension the community.

because it takes the place of languages the community wants more.

So have other languages, and so shall they continue to do so.

it should be to do their best to get the languages the community wants onto the website.

There's no clear indication that they aren't doing so. They've been quite responsive regarding a number of requested languages so far. It's simply not the only thing they're doing.

Leaders aren't necessarily in the best position, that's why, as I said, 'businesses hand out surveys because they want to know what their community want'. The people on the receiving end of what the company produces is often in a much better position.

On this point I was referring particularly to the Duolingo staff who have the relevant information and circumstances to work with, as opposed to us who have no such information. They are in the best position to make such decisions for that reason. It's hardly fair to presume that our desires are the better course of action in the knowledge that we lack such information.

It's not, as you said 'immature' for people to be angry about this - the anger is just, for the reasons I gave in the second point and more.

It smacks of petulance to whine so readily that a thing we dislike should come before a thing we like, especially given the possibility that it might be of benefit to the site in some manner or another. It's a subjective point, but I've yet to see any reasonable justification for such responses.

Going out of their way to do something that displeases the community just to show they're not going to always listen to them is nothing short of rude and disrespectful.

Do remember that only part of the community is displeased. Let's not diminish the community to a hive-mind. Do note that the point of that sentence is to illustrate the extent of the entitlement issue, not a literal statement of what they must do (hence the use of almost necessary).

The fact that Duolingo is kostenlos doesn't really mean it's unlike any other business, because it certainly does make money, and that money is made through our hard work (learning languages), which comes from their hard work (developing the website). Our reward is language skills and satisfaction, their reward is money and satisfaction. We both live off each other, like any other business, so I disagree - Duo shouldn't be different to any other business.

Do note that I didn't say 'any other business'. That said, it strays a little from relevance to this topic. Regardless of all that, the market will decide for Duolingo. They have the motivation to do what will keep people coming back and keep the site functioning, and they'll continue to do so, because otherwise it would spell the end of the road. But they need hardly stick solely to appeasing sections of a userbase to the dismissal of all other factors. If the odd divisive move were to be enough to decide the fate of Duolingo, then they could never have had much going for them in the first place.

4Give Lingot6•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

You don't seem to understand at all the fact that the Duo staff doesn't make all the courses, the guys who sign up in the Incubator do.

Maybe nobody who knows the language has come forward yet.

You can't just say 'until this mountain of languages nobody has come forward to teach yet comes out you're not allowed to come forward to teach this one'.

Do you really want to learn Maltese, Tagalog, Icelandic, Arabic, Japanese, Finnish, Serbian, Croatian, Amharic, Catalan, Cantonese, Farsi, Basque, Afrikaans, Latin, Welsh, Swahili, Luxembourgish, Hindustani, Quechua, and Bulgarian?

Then Google a pdf of a textbook for the language you want and learn it, for Christ's sake, and quit whining about how a language that some people might want to learn that ISN'T thoroughly documented elsewhere is going to be taught.

When you were in High School and your school only taught German, Spanish, and French, did you petition your school board saying that the school had to hire on teachers for Maltese, Tagalog, Icelandic, Arabic, Japanese, Finnish, Serbian, Croatian, Amharic, Catalan, Cantonese, Farsi, Basque, Afrikaans, Latin, Welsh, Swahili, Luxembourgish, Hindustani, Quechua, and Bulgarian?

No, because that's ridiculous.

/thread

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2
@Rumoured:

I understand what you're saying, but your comment shows a lack of understanding of how things work on Duolingo.

First of all, I am not being ridiculous. It is ridiculous to compare Duolingo to a school in the way you did. A school could not possibly have the facilities to teach all of those languages. A website, however could. Furthermore, I never said I wanted all those languages. Out of them all, the ones I really want are Maltese and Tagalog, they sprung to mind first, so I mentioned them first. The other languages are some of the most popular ones on Duolingo currently. The reason they are wanted on Duolingo is because Duolingo is far more efficient than any textbook or website.

Finally, you can't possibly be saying that no-one has come forward to teach these languages? The most wanted language right now is Arabic (don't quote me on that, but the polls suggest so). Out of the 30 million accounts made on Duolingo, do you honestly think at least two or three users haven't written perfectly acceptable applications? The six users shown here would suggest otherwise. And the thread does not end while I still have a counter argument.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2
>a website obviously can

So if a website can hold all of these languages, why not one more?

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

As we've seen in the past, the relevant users come to them, and Duolingo enables them as best they can. Something akin to this has obviously taken place with Klingon.

Other posts in this thread have mentioned volunteers for requested languages who have gone to the Duo team, only to receive no response, not even a "great, thanks, but we're waiting for a larger team of contributors before we give the reverse course an incubator space."

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

Another great point, and one of which I was not aware. A team of one?

<http://dictionary.reference.com/browse/team>

I think not.

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

Sorry, I just totally disagree with that.

Duolingo is for the community. Duolingo should be devoting its actions to the what the community wants. I also don't think that Klingon should be added just because 'an opportunity presents itself'. As I said to DavidStyles, I can't remember what this situation was called, but only a short while ago, Duolingo couldn't release any more languages because it had too many. As far as I can see, they are now over that, but releasing Klingon is a bad move, because Duolingo will eventually get clogged up again, and releasing Klingon (over other languages people want more) is just going to add to the mess. Languages should not be released just because an opportunity presents itself.

Edit: I remember, it was called being 'out of bandwidth'.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

‘Duolingo is for the community’

Based on what? I'm sure it is considered as such in part by the staff, but on what basis do you know that it's entirely for the community? Duolingo is for what those in charge decide it's for. We have the luxury of forming a helpful and friendly community around a useful website, but we don't get any such luxury regarding dictating the direction of the site. On what basis are we entitled to that? I don't see why it's considered fine for the following that springs up around an entity to co-opt its direction.

Like I said in my initial reply, if people have to wait a while extra because of a language that better suits Duolingo's circumstances, so be it. Duolingo's staff are the people in the best position to decide what suits the continuation of this site, not us. I'd certainly prefer many other languages were announced in this thread rather than Klingon, but it's such a minor quibble given how little I know of the circumstances.

4Give Lingot3•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

You can't really be suggesting that Duolingo isn't for the community? If you think I meant that's all Duolingo is, then let me assure you, that's not what I am saying. But if you make a business like Duolingo, it should be run with the intention of pleasing your community, in this case us. Please remember we do Duolingo and the world a huge favour by dedicating ourselves to learning a language, and then translating the web with our skills. The community gives back its newfound knowledge to the world in doing this, so I think we're pretty incredible too. So to reiterate, Duolingo should be and usually is, among other things, very much for the community.

'Duolingo's staff are the people in the best position to decide what suits the continuation of this site, not us.'

Leaders are very often wrong, and I feel that this is certainly one of those cases. I am, as I said, infinitely grateful for what Duolingo has done for me and for the world, but here, I think Duolingo has made a very large error. And shops and businesses hand out surveys because they want to know what their community want. Companies rely on the community to determine their direction. Duolingo should not be any different.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

The idea that they are solely for the community is certainly implicit in the suggestion that they shouldn't do something if parts of the community wouldn't be pleased with it. Sure, leaders can be wrong, but that's not at all the point: it doesn't change the fact that they're in the best position. They have the information to work with to effectively manage Duolingo; we don't. We have no knowledge of the circumstances in which this came to arise.

As an aside, I think by this point, given the sense of entitlement that large elements of the community are displaying, it's almost necessary for Duolingo to make actions of statement which allow for people to know that Duolingo doesn't live and die by the word of its forums. Of course I agree that Duolingo should aim to please it's community - that's just common sense. But doing that to the detriment of other factors which benefit your company for fear of some whining on the forums would simply be absurd. People just need to show some maturity and accept that things which don't directly please them are okay, and that a little waiting inflicted upon them isn't the crime it was as a child in the run-up to Christmas. :P

Edit: Additionally, to address your final statement that Duolingo shouldn't be any different; why not? Our relationship with Duolingo isn't akin to that of consumer to retailer or other such similar setups in other businesses. The immersion section is a mutually beneficial setup between Duolingo and the users. We aren't paying to use it, and so Duolingo's relationship with us is quite notably distinct from a business' relationship with its consumers.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

Okay, that argument was massive , so I'm just going to try and answer it as a whole...

So what? I'll tell you what - because I am part of the community. Firstly, what sentiment is expressed in the most popular comment on the page? Secondly, there has been an outburst of people saying how silly this release is. The reason this post is so popular is because of who posted it. Have you ever seen a discussion posted by a mod or a member of staff that was in minus figures? No. Because, no matter how ridiculous what they have said or done is, people see the logo around their profile picture, and upvoted them.

Duolingo is not bureaucratic. It is for educational purposes. Since Klingon is a useless language, it is in no way beneficial to us, or to anyone. I don't want to be educated about something I will never use to my benefit, and clearly, other people don't either.

AureliaUK very truly commented above that "bandwidth clearly isn't as restricted as we're led to believe if there's enough to waste on this". And why is it a waste? Because it clogs the website up with nonsense. Nonsense that could very well be replaced with a real language that makes sense to learn. The problem isn't only that Klingon is coming out before other real-life natural languages - the biggest problem is that it clogs up the website with rubbish, and we'll soon run out of bandwidth again. I also (personally) think it cheapens the website, makes it tacky, and is effectively an endorsement of 'Star Trek'. I'm not applying this to all circumstances, but it doesn't really matter in this case what position the staff are in that we are not - they can't possibly justify wasting space on the website with this kind of nonsense.

Sorry if I missed any of your counter-arguments.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DavidStyles 20 20 20 18 16 16 15 14 13 13 13 13 11 10 10 781

I don't think you can really reasonably say "far more people complaining about Klingon coming out than who are happy", AND say "I realise I'll get downvoted for all this".

You can't have it both ways. Either the majority is in favour, or against. I see that in the OP, the upvotes outweigh the downvotes by 140. I'd say the people have spoken, there.

This isn't to say that Arabic wouldn't be more popular, but is there really a reason to hold up the Klingon course to wait for all those others to come out, when the volunteer workforce for Klingon is ready to roll and the volunteer workforce for those other languages isn't?

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

You're correct, the community certainly has spoken. What does the most popular comment on this page say?

The reason this post is so popular is because of the original poster. That's how things tend to work, if someone who is well-liked (especially a moderator or a staff member) posts a discussion, no matter how good it is, they get upvoted. Please note this is not an attack on staff members/mods, for the most part I am incredibly grateful towards them. I'm just saying that this is what happens.

There is a reason to hold up Klingon. I can't remember the term for this, but a short while ago Duolingo was unable to release any more languages. It was something to do with it being too full, or something like that, but if languages like Klingon come out before languages the more people really want, and that would be infinitely more beneficial, then Klingon is just going to be unnecessarily clogging up the website, and the same problem will occur again.

Totally off-topic, looking at your medals, I can't wait till you reach level 10 in Irish and Turkish.

Edit: I remember, it was called being 'out of bandwidth'.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DavidStyles 20 20 20 18 16 16 15 14 13 13 13 13 11 10 10 781

Yeah, I guess I'm just haven't seen yet what the finite resource is that's causing the conflict. Bandwidth has been suggested, but DL surely can't have high overheads, and it's always getting a steady stream of translations to sell. Of course, there is perhaps the argument that ConLangs are a bad business option if money is tight, since nobody will pay for ConLang translations as they will pay for the other languages.

/end on topic begin off topic/

Regards Irish and Turkish, thanks, working on it. Trying to get them all on the same level, so I can just do a hit of each of them daily, to gradually build and maintain them in an ever-upwards crunching grind. I'll take up Turkish when I've Irish at least near the level of the others, I think. Looking forward to some of the other near-completed courses, too :) Norwegian I'll surely be able to "test out" most of the lessons as I already speak that fluently and will just do it for completeness' sake, and Russian when it arrives at least the early lessons will be skipped, but the others that are out soon will be all learning from scratch or nearly from scratch (as Irish and Turkish are for me).

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2
That seems a neat and tidy way to end the debate! (:

It would be great to see so many 10s after your name. Are you going to try to keep them all at 11 (as in, when one gets to 11, you'll make sure the rest get to 11 soon afterwards?).

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DavidStyles 20 20 20 18 16 16 15 14 13 13 13 13 11 10 10 7 8 1
Yep. Right now, everything except Irish is at around 2570 XP, and when I study them, I just do the bottom language in the queue, then the language that becomes the bottom after that, and so on, so it pretty much maintains itself evenly.

Presently I just divide my DL study time between topping up those, and doing a few power-up sessions on Irish (and hopefully soon, Turkish).

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2
Haha! That's a very amusing (and possible quite effective) way to learn multiple languages simultaneously.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2
Klingon shouldn't be considered as a "language". It was never meant to have a sizeable speaking population. Why would one devote time to learn a language that has almost no speakers? Also, how will they make a Klingon course if there aren't many everyday words in Klingon?

5ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

cbatt 21 7 3 3 2

Awesome! Klingon from English, right?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

No, Duo has a rule against implementing "from English" first. We first need the English from Klingon course completed :P

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mintshine 13 5 2

sorry if this offends anyone, but what is Klingon? This is a really stupid question, please don't judge me

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EhsanKarimi 12 9 8 6 5 4

No it's not stupid at all :) read this article: http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Klingon\_language

3ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

mintshine 13 5 2

Ok thanks! I really understand it now! :) Here's three lingots!

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EhsanKarimi 12 9 8 6 5 4

Never mind :) thanks for the lingots!

1ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

mintshine 13 5 2

you are welcome :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nose_bleed 7 6 5

I really hope that in the future you guys will consider offering languages of the Star Wars universe, e.g. Galactic Basic (Aurebesh/Aurekbesh), Huttese, Mandalorian, etc.

Especially Mandalorian.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Galactic Basic is just English, or whatever language you watch Star Wars in, and Aurebesh is simply the written form of said language. There are no Star Wars conlangs that have been fully developed. Mando'a, the most complete one, was abandoned a long time ago. The creator of the language quit working on Star Wars material period actually.

http://www.karentraviss.com/page22/files/Why\_have\_you\_stopped\_writing\_St.html

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KansasBurri 11 3 11

This is terrible. Now before you all down vote me, which is probably going to happen anyway, hear me out. What are the practical uses for klingon? Name 3 in real life that exist NOW. Also, while I don't support latin being added if you're going to add a language that isn't spoken anywhere/more then Latin is the way to go with all of its benefits.. Especially if DL is still losing money why on Earth are they adding Klingon? I just lost a ton of respect for the people who made this decision. You could add another slavic language, icelandic, Finnish or whatever language is most requested here but you add a fake language restricted to several TV shows and movies. Unbelivable.

4ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

amuzulo 15 13 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 2

I once attended a Klingon opera in Berlin. Was sad I didn't know any of it... :( My review:
<http://blogs.transparent.com/esperanto/klingon-opera-in-berlin/>

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

a fake language restricted to several TV shows and movies.

Actually it isn't really used in the TV shows. Apparently the writers found it too hard/restrictive to use.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Wow, I knew that Klingon has a restricted vocabulary, but too restrictive for television writers? :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

Oh it wasn't vocabulary (AFAIK anyway). In fact I understand they often just took the vocab from Okrand's Klingon Dictionary and used it with English Grammar, it was the prescribed grammar I think that they couldn't be bothered dealing with. :P

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BryanAJParry 21 18 13 12 5 77

I think it's mostly to do with the pronunciation being a bit hard for actors. Easier to just have everyone speak in English via the magic of the "universal translator"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

It was a joke about the sometimes small vocabularies of TV shows.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

There are already 3 Nordic languages on here; Danish, Swedish and Norwegian. I would love to learn them all but they are too similar to study simultaneously for myself. Finnish and Icelandic would have to go to the back burner for me. I look at Klingon as a fun distraction from the rest. This will attract nerds and nerds are smart. So maybe more smart people will learn more languages while they are here? I mean look around this thread at how many posters are doing multiple languages. I see it as a win win for society.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

Finnish isn't like the other Nordic languages. It's not linguistically connected in the way that the others are. You will have no issues with it being too similar to any of your other languages. :)

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

Good to know, thanks. I am doing German and Danish currently. I added Swedish but I felt like I was going to get them confused being a novice to both so I put Swedish on hold. I am stroked to see Norwegian in the incubator but it too will have to wait. Finland has historical interest for me so I am interested. Though I did see a Polandball sketch that worried me a bit about the endless word endings.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KansasBurri 11 3 11

I was just using Finnish and Icelandic as an example of what people want. I do agree we should have more languages from other families before those are added.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SteveLando 22 18 17 16 14 12 11 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 6 6 6 5 5 3 6

I somewhat agree, but I am likewise okay with it, people find it funny which will help some new folks into studying languages, even if it is a totally useless schmucklanguage.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TakizawaHideaki 19 15 13 13 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 2 2 200

Would love to see a Sindarin and Quenya addition to Incubator :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

YES. THIS MUST HAPPEN

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

adamyoung97 15 15 14 14 13 11 10 9 8 7 7

The one language I cannot stand... If I even consider it a language...

3ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Twistnek 9 7 6

It's a language, it can be used for communication (even though it's not).

Trust me, I get your frustration.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

It's a language. People can learn it and convey ideas to one another with it. That's my criteria for language. And by your standards, is Esperanto a language? Because that was also created.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

How would this language be useful?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Endless fun for those who want to learn it.

28ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Twistnek 9 7 6

Even though I really don't like the extreme hype that's been going around lately about other conlangs (as far as I know, Klingon is the most widely used one, more than Sindarin or Quenya), this will certainly be interesting. Will it be in Latin or will it utilize one of the other two Klingon alphabets?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

I think Esperanto is the most widely used conlang, not Klingon.

16ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Delta1212 24 12 8 8 8 7 5 4

I think they meant "most widely used of the conlangs that get mentioned a lot as possibilities" which doesn't include Esperanto anymore since it's already in the Incubator.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Twistnek 9 7 6

Yeah, this. Also, Esperanto was made with the purpose of being used in real life communication. Quenya, Sindarin, Klingon, Na'vi? Not so much, I'd say.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

True, however I would wager that more people in the US have heard of Klingon than Esperanto.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Platypus01 18 16 238

Probably true. And I suspect there are more people who can say a couple of words or phrases in Klingon than Esperanto (ignoring the friendly words in Esperanto such as "Jes"). But when we come to how many people can have a conversation in these languages the ratio is probably 1:1000 in Esperanto's favour.

The interesting thing about this course will be, when it is released, how many will finish it. Klingon is hard. Really hard. Designed to be hard.

8Give Lingot•1 year ago

Platypus01 18 16 238

This is quite a fair treatment of both Esperanto and Klingon.

http://www.salon.com/2009/06/03/invented\_languages/

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Many conlangs are meant to be spoken in real life. Normally if you want to talk about a conlang that's just meant for a book, TV show or movie you can say artistic conlang.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

olyglotED 15 13 13 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 5 4 2 2

most widely used by lonely Trekkies at conventions. Quenya has a tie-in to some of the best literature of all time.

-11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Surely a Trekkie at a convention would not be lonely?

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

Maybe they are the only trekkie who can speak Klingon?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Twistnek 9 7 6

It's also completely and utterly boring and does not have anything original to it (except the dual and partitive number, and even the dual exists in at least three langs in Europe). Trust me, I had to analyze it for school, it's just so uninteresting. You might as well learn Finnish, Italian or Spanish, from which there are obvious influences, at least Klingon has interesting phonology (yes, it sounds disgusting at times, but it's awesome).

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

olyglotED 15 13 13 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 5 4 2 2

I'm already learning those three languages you mention (so the ties are fascinating). And Lord of the Rings was my dead brother's favorite book series. Perhaps that makes it interesting to me, ye of lofty opinion

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vedun 14 12 12 12 11 11 10 9 8 6 5 4 2

Now I'm just waiting for Lojban to be added as well.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 667

That would certainly be an interesting course!

Though actually, at the A1/A2 level of a beginning course, the grammar is probably not too weird.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

WTFEEEEEEEEEEEEEE This is insane!!!!!!!!!! OMG, please, there are only 12 speakers of this language in the world (according to the Wiki), this is truly insane, Luis xD

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

there are only 12 speakers of this language in the world

It's clearly a language in danger of extinction that needs help then. :P

29ReplyGive Lingot7•1 year ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 2 2 3

Bwahahahahahahahhahahahaha

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

crush 14 14 8 3

But does it mention how many speakers there are in other worlds?

15ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

niamhwitch 16 11 3 786

Silence, petaQ!

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

Lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

Maybe only 12 FLUENT speakers. I'm sure there are many more who speak Klingon at some lower level.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

For now. Next year there may be 120, or 1,200 or 12,000? Time will tell.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

xavi_fr 11 11 10 8 6 5 5

A small number of people are capable of conversing in Klingon. Arika Okrent guessed in her book In the Land of Invented Languages that there might be 20–30 fluent speakers.//////Around a dozen fluent speakers (1996) (wikipedia)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

But can you discuss almsot every topic in Klingon or just a few of them?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8

Yes, you can discuss almost all topics that are not super-technical or require special vocabulary. Chemistry and physics might be a bit hard, as the words for elements are missing. But there are words for pretty much everything you'll need for everyday conversation. And many missing words can be constructed of existing material.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

xavi_fr 11 11 10 8 6 5 5

I don't know :Dl just posted a wikipedia sentence

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

Oh, all right then ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pseudocreobotra 14 6 6 6 5

Klingon has a rather limited vocabulary (ca. 3000 words) which is mostly focused on life in outer space... There are many words that Klingon just doesn't have but some of them can be replaced when you are a little creative (and call the sun "day star" for example). There have been whole books (including a lot of Shakespeare) translated into Klingon while others are troubling because of the limited vocabulary.

I think you should be able to discuss a lot of topics in Klingon but also would encounter some trouble.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

loghaD 11 8 6 4 3 2 2

The space focus of Klingon is often exaggerated, though it is certainly true that there's a higher density of such terms in Klingon than in any modern-day natural language.

And you're quite right that we do sometimes run into trouble when discussing certain matters. "Recasting" - that is, finding new ways to describe things we don't have words for, or that don't mesh too well with Klingon sentence structure - is a highly esteemed art form among klingonists ;)

However, one should also note that Klingon has grown quite a lot in the 30 years since The Klingon Dictionary was published. For example, a few years back we finally got a word for sun: jul

Also, last year we got dozens of new terms to help with various projects that different klingonists were working on, such as the Klingon localization of Facebook, Kaspersky's password checker, the German translation of The Klingon Art of War, and others.

Oh, and we FINALLY know that the Klingon word for "knit" (or "weave") is nlq, and that knitting sticks are called Hut'Inmey tlq ;)

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

niamhwitch 16 11 3 786

You just made this Trekkie knitter very happy.

6Give Lingot•1 year ago

pseudocreobotra 14 6 6 6 5

Thanks for your explanations! I'm not really Klingon-savvy (yet) and only did a bit of online research (mostly a few years ago when I did a presentation about conlangs in class) but tried to answer a few questions =)

And knowing how to refer to knitting needles in Klingon is definitely useful! I'm a bit more into crocheting though. If nlq refers to "knit" and "weave", could it be used for "crochet" too?

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

VStarTraveler 25 10 9 1291

Thanks to those who are putting this course together. I'm not really planning to take it myself, but wish those well who do, and might even do the intro lesson. After all, I've heard that you have never really experienced Shakespeare until you have read it in the original Klingon.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8

«taH pagh taHbe'!...»

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

allandrats 8 5 3 2
Now 20-30

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Rozzie 16 11 10 8 7 8
No find a real language spoken by real people instead of a tv show!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3
Real people DO speak Klingon! It's the most popular fictional language on the planet. Sure, it's not widely spoken, but still, many are excited.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mintshine 13 5 2
I would think it would be from the Lord of the Rings?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EhsanKarimi 12 9 8 6 5 4
No it's used by Klingons in Star Trek http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Star\_Trek

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3
No, the languages from LotR are Quenya and Sindarin.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BryanAJParry 21 18 13 12 5 77
This news is fricking INSANE -- and I'm LOVING IT!

C'mon Quenya, anytime now...

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Platypus01 18 16 238
Not Quechua? I thought we were doing Quechua?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BryanAJParry 21 18 13 12 5 77
I'd love to see Quechua. That would be brilliant. But as for artlangs, I'd rather have Quenya; as for auxlangs, I'd rather have Lingua Franca Nova.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Trailzz 25 2

Cant wait! :D

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zixster 17 12 10 10 9 8 8 7 6 6 4 3

does this mean that people who don't speak english are not real humans?

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Kevinguy19 25 18 13 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 2 2 987

No, English is simply the first the link to the Klingon language. Eventually there will be courses for all human languages to Klingon.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Pratyush. 15 12 8 7 6

Here, For Humans means For Earth Inhabitants . As humans are said to be inhabiting this planet. Everyone knows Klingon is not spoken anywhere on earth and this language is from outer space.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 922

It's Klingon for humans, I guess that doesn't mean it's Klingon for all humans.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

In Star Trek the language of Earth is English, therefore the human language would be English.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

zixster 17 12 10 10 9 8 8 7 6 6 4 3

valid point.

u can haz ling0t (>'_')>O

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ameturelinguist 13 9 8 7 5 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2

No, English just seems to be the working language for the majority of the internet, as well as the 2nd most commonly known language (after mandarin). I think that is why English is the first human language chosen.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

caselthor 15 13 11 11 8 4 1

The emergence of the Klingon course is appropriately timed to honor the passing of Leonard Nimoy (original Spok). He would have been proud. I, for one, am definitely excited for the Klingon course and hope this ushers in other popular conlangs (Tolkien's languages, Dothraki, etc).

#LiveLongAndProsper

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

Just to make sure you're aware, Spock was Vulcan, not Klingon.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8

majQa'! vumwl' vlmojqang jIH. jIQaH vIneHqu'!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

danwizard2013 25 16 13 7 3 3 979

haha great!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

t0panka 21 12

I wont be learning this language (well i will definitely look inside tree) but this is SO AWESOME! All thumbs/lingots up @Luis

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamie08MD 15 12 4

Awesome! This will be the first and for a long time also the only course on Duolingo with breathtaking ZERO reports per user. :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

remoonline 25 20 23

Not sure about that. The normal way reports start is with the base language, the one a user is more comfortable with. It may not even be an awkward sentence, just a possible alternate missing from the list of possibles. At least, in my Spanish learning, most of the initial reports were for the English sentences. After I had some grasp of Spanish and could confidently stitch the words together that I started reporting any oddities in Spanish.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Jamie08MD 15 12 4

Of course. I was exaggerating. It would be kind of sad if there were no reports at all.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RafaelReges 25 15 14 13 10 6 577

Pretty awesome, dude!! Congratulations on your iniative.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EhsanKarimi 12 9 8 6 5 4

That would be great. Where can I subscribe for Greek and Hebrew?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dsmndnmsb 25 24 18 11 9 7 5 4 3 2 2 1

hebrew (no way to subscribe yet): <http://incubator.duolingo.com/courses/he/en/status> greek (no way to subscribe yet): <http://incubator.duolingo.com/courses/el/en/status>

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

I thought Duolingo was for people who want to learn actual useful languages... I feel like if you're going to be creating these pointless languages you should make a completely new website for that!

2ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

EhsanKarimi 12 9 8 6 5 4

Many people are learning languages here merely because they enjoy learning them. They may not even use them. So it can be about enjoying learning a new language.

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 2 2 3

YES!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

It's not pointless. If anything, this will bring Duo more users in the form of Trekkies excited to learn the language of their fandom AKA the most popular fictional language there is, as there's no other effective way to learn it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Theres no effective way to learn it.... how do you know Duolingo will be anymore effective than other sources??? As i say Duolingo is not a social media site it is a learning website. So it is not a website to attract "Trekkies", it is a website created to attract people who want to learn the worlds languages.

0ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

Literally the only other sources are a dictionary and a postal course from the Klingon Language Institute. I doubt the postal course is effective, and I don't really know anyone who learned a language from a dictionary. I never said Duo was social media, and while learning Klingon, the new users can learn other languages. Klingon can act as a hook to get more people in, and once in, they can also learn Portuguese or Swedish or whatever they want. Also, Esperanto is a constructed language, yet I don't see you complaining about that. You don't need to learn Klingon, and it being here doesn't effect the progress of other language courses, so stop complaining.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

scarcerer 22 20 17 10 202

Literally the only other sources are a dictionary and a postal course from the Klingon Language Institute.

I'm sure some people might disagree, including our own Klingon moderator.

<http://www.memrise.com/courses/english/klingon/>

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

I don't think Memrise would be as effective as Duo

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

Oh. I have never heard of this.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

If the only sources are the dictionary and the KLI course, and you're saying neither of them actually allow you to learn the language, how does anybody know the language?

And the dictionary isn't just a dictionary. It's a grammar guide too.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

I didn't mean they were ineffective. I meant they aren't AS effective as without Duo. Also, I know the dictionary has a grammar guide (I own a copy of it), but I don't think using that to learn would work well with me and many others.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

semuc 25 19 18

Hey Luis, para cuando Quiche, Kakchiquel o algo de lengua de Guatemala?

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Benimation 13 11 9 6 5 3 2

This might be a great way to test Duolingo. It's for the same reason that Bing Translate added Klingon.

Also, I don't think this will take any effort away from developing other courses, as those are being made by different people.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

Duo has said that they have limited bandwidth before, so it might take away resources from other languages. I believe that courses also have to be managed by a non-contributor.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Benimation 13 11 9 6 5 3 2

That's about the amount of people that can connect to duolingo at the same time, rather than how big its content can be.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32

Sorry for not knowing the correct technical term? This was given in response to people asking about the limit on the number of courses in the incubator. I'm just repeating what I've been told.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HebrewLearner 4 4 2

Why wasn't a post like this made about Yiddish or Hebrew? Why wasn't a post on Twitter made about those languages?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

Devokan 16 7 4

Ahaha! I was wondering when someone would use the flag and make a course! I have no need for it, but it certainly makes me smile. :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CallumRoy 22 10 6 6 2

I have to say to everyone who is complaining at Klingon being prioritised over anything for any reason: give it time. In the timescales course incubation operates, you cannot make a strong argument of urgency.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bucketlister 23 6 3 2 2 2 2

As much as I like Star Trek, I have to say that this is a little insulting. I know, learning a language is fun and Klingon is something that a lot of people do want to learn. But I feel like a lot of more languages are in higher demand (Latin, Arabic, Japanese). I do know that it's hard to continue to create new languages.

I have nothing against Klingon and I know that I can't stop it from being created. I really don't have a problem with the language itself.

All I'm really saying is that it would be nice if Duolingo would listen to the people. Because mostly everyone I've seen want a real language that is used and applicable (Even though I suppose Klingon might be used in some areas).

I just wish someone from the staff would listen to the people and make a language that we need, not one that is made up.

2ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

isaac.aldridge 10 5 4 3 3 2

I agree, but it's being made by users. If you want to help with Latin, Arabic, or Japanese, I would appreciate it! I would help too, if I were better at those languages.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HJP71 12 10 6 5

It seems like there are other languages which are a little more pressing coughLATINCough to put out first but kudos to you. :-D

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

juliocesar70000 10 9 6 2

Congratulations. I would include the Hebrew from Spanish and English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

Hebrew from English is in the works.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

alejandro7500 8

it is very nice

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheMadWriter 9 2 2

I would've preferred Sindarin, but oh well! :P

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2

At one point that was in the Incubator sign up drop-down list but nobody had volunteered. It might still be there. Dunno.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3

MY LIFE IS NOW COMPLETE.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

midoghranek 7 2

I think it's a good idea to bring more people to Duolingo no more. Good luck guys

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

crupprecht 11
WOW

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hpatyahoodotcom 25 25 23 19 18 13 7 970
Is this a joke of 1st April?

0ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3
NOPE! ITS A MIRACLE! (Especially since April 1st was more than a week ago)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Haagedoorn 21 20 18 12 11 6
And this is the day Duo went from respectable to laughable. Sad to see.

0ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2
Laughable? Never. Humorous? Definitely.

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3
Excuse me, but Klingon is a REAL language anyone can learn. Sure, it was made for a TV show, but so what? I'm excited, and if anything this will make more people join Duo.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
Okay so it is a real language. Why and where would you ever use this language at??? There is no country that speaks this language and you cant walk down the sidewalk and hear people speaking it. So i guess the only real reason for this language to be on DL is for the joy that "trekkies" get from learning it...

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TheEeveeLord 5 4 4 3
The first thing that comes to mind are conventions, like Comic-con. Many people cosplay as Klingons during these conventions, and the many would like to speak the language while cosplaying. Same applies for people cosplaying as Elves, Dothraki, or Na'vi. Also, liking a language and getting joy from learning it is a perfectly good reason to learn it.

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Postillion 11 9 8 7 7 6 5 3 3 3 2
There is no country that speaks Esperanto eeither, but you people aren't rioting about that.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

McCake 10 9 6 5 4

Esperanto was used to communicate between European countries, Klingon is used for geeky cosplay.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

McCake 10 9 6 5 4

Amen.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rahmaakhassiss 23 10 10 10 8

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

Well, Elven and Klingon are both actual languages, even dwarven is usable.

If you're referring to the Dwarvish that appears in Tolkien's works, Khuzdûl, it's really not. David Salo had to make significant extensions to Tolkien's work for what you see in the movies.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ameturelinguist 13 9 8 7 5 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2

This renews my hope that someday there will be an AI Bhed for English speakers course.

Ys e dra uhmo uha?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ameturelinguist 13 9 8 7 5 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2

What is with all the down votes? Why is the community so against this?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

greece666 25 20 17 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 13 12 11 11 10 8 8 7 3 2 2

It ain't the community. It is one very angry user lol and I am trying to balance him out with upvotes. I can see how some people do not consider Klingon as a proper language because it emerged out of a TV show... but there is nothing wrong with people learning a constructed language. Learning it contributes to the variety and diversity of the language spoken by humans as much as learning any other language, if not more, given that it quite unique and has few speakers... Some decades ago people found 'weird' native speakers of Esperanto but now it is anything but... What's more, Duolingo does not have full control over which languages go to the incubator, there are way too many variables involved. I can also see why adding say Chinese or Arab would be cool, but it is not like Klingon is standing on the way... if anything the more the better.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

greece666 25 20 17 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 13 12 11 11 10 8 8 7 3 2 2 and of course, I am getting downvoted too lol bring it on secret Klingon admirer.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pseudocreobotra 14 6 6 6 5
Wasn't Al Bhed just a code that switched letters?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ameturelinguist 13 9 8 7 5 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2
Yes, but leaning the language is a bit harder than that. For example when you hear the word "rammu" knowing only how the letters switch will not immediately tell you that the person is saying "hello".

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pseudocreobotra 14 6 6 6 5
It is no language if it's just English with switched letters. Given enough time, you can understand EVERY text once you've got the table with the switched letters. It would take quite some practice to become fast enough to give the impression of fluency... But actually, pig Latin or just speaking backwards are more complex than this.

Al Bhed is not a language, it's just a really simple monoalphabetic cipher.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ameturelinguist 13 9 8 7 5 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2
Ok, I see what you mean. I was meaning along the lines of spoken language mostly. I have noticed a small degree of what you are talking about when I was reading the in game text.

I probably will get to at least level 2 in Klingon once it comes out, but it is not something I am that excited for as I didn't grow up with Star Trek or Lord of the Rings as many people have. As for Game of Thrones, I find the series boring. I wanted to contribute to a course that would be interesting to me, thinking that it would be interesting to other people as well, but since no one else seems to be interested I won't make it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bucketlister 23 6 3 2 2 2 2
[deleted]

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Larkspire 25 17 32
Imagine how much more money they would get if they added a popular language like Klingon

How? Like you said, no-one's buying lingots, and there are no ads. I've heard they sell completed immersion translations... Which they can't do with Klingon, either.

Also, it's not like Duo doesn't have investors to help pay the staff (but contributors work for free, which Klingon wouldn't change).

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jjd1123 16 15 13 8 8 7 6 6 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2
I know Lingots cost money

And those people might buy Lingots.

You cannot buy Lingots, you can only earn them:

They can be earned through:

Leveling up - Earn 1 lingot (multiplied by level reached)

Finishing a skill - Earn 2 lingots for finishing a new skill

10 day streaks - Earn 1 lingot for every 10 days on a streak (1 for 10, 2 for 20, etc) Inviting friends -

Invite a friend to Duolingo and, if your friend accepts, you both will receive 1 lingot

Uploading documents - Upload a document to Immersion, and receive 1 lingot every time someone upvotes your document

Note: Lingots are not awarded when you use a tree shortcut to level up or finish a skill.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

legend-1 15 9 9 4
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8066401>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

McCake 10 9 6 5 4
This site's dignity just went down an entire level.

0ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8
How much did your own dignity go down with this comment of yours? Two or three levels?

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

McCake 10 9 6 5 4
I'm not ashamed to admit that this language is a waste of time.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8
P.S.: A friend recently wrote a nice article about "wasting time" on learning an obscure language.
Might be interesting for you (although it's about Esperanto, not about Klingon):
<http://blogs.transparent.com/esperanto/is-your-hobby-a-waste-of-time/>

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8

Stating one's personal opinion hardly is "admitting". But no one forces you to learn Klingon. If you see it as a waste of time, there's plenty of other languages to learn. I can recommend the Dutch course. But please leave it to others how they plan to "waste" their time. I won't judge your hobbies either.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

cdub4language 22 14 14 14 14 10 3

I was gonna say, there's tons of things I do in life that could be classified as a "waste of time..." except for the fact that the act of doing them brings me joy.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vortarulo 13 13 8 8 8

Right, like making music, learning an instrument, chess, cooking, stitching or painting, learning a minor programming language, solving Sudoku, watching soccer...

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

McCake 10 9 6 5 4

You could enjoy learning a language and gain a useful skill at the same time.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

cdub4language 22 14 14 14 14 10 3

This thread makes me crave having a philosophical discussion about utilitarianism.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

McCake 10 9 6 5 4

tu'HomI'raH Hol.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

r7apples 2 2

I would prefer Elvish. Don't know much about Star Trek.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

isaac.aldridge 10 5 4 3 3 2

It's worth learning about. Elvish would be awesome. You should watch Star Trek. I would recommend Star Trek Deep Space 9. The character development, cultural innovation, and political systems are fascinating!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

har.s.s.hal 11 6

I do not get all the hate for this. Right after I saw this, I quit learning German and watched all of the Star Trek stuff to learn about Star Trek, I spent countless hours on their wiki, and bought a book about Klingon. I am very excited to be able to learn this. And Duolingo isn't the one that is making this; 2 private contributors are. You can apply to start your own language if you want that more than this, but I don't. This is my highest priority right now.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SamanehSad 4
QAPLA'!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FaizalZahid 15 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 8 4 2

I know how it would feel if a native speaker of certain countries sees a fictional language instead of his/her language listed on Duolingo...but it's okay to introduce invented language such as Esperanto(check)...and Toki Pona...because these languages are made by experts to simplify the usage of grammar by comparing the grammatical rules of all languages...anyway...all the best to Klingons!

Qapla'!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Baconquistador 21

Wow. Just...wow. Kudos to you, you devoted trekkies!! The only problem I can really see in the future is that some people might have different, not necessarily wrong translations as this might not be a language spoken by a large enough people group to be called an "official" language. Still, can't wait to learn this for fun on the weekends when (not if, I have faith) it comes out. Thank you for making this language be available to the masses!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

You could have at least made a course for Sindarin, because it is actually soothing compared to Klingon.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

cdub4language 22 14 14 14 14 10 3

My initial reaction was "Klingon?? I want Quenya too!!" But then I did some research and it turns out Tolkien never developed any of his languages to a level where one could actually have conversations in them :-( Now I'm jealous that Klingon language was able to grow with its fan base's interests. That said, I love Elvish insults because they sound so beautiful: "Llie n'vanima ar' lle atara lanneina!!" (You're ugly and your mother dresses you funny!) <http://www.grey-company.org/Circle/language/phrase.htm#insults>

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Ni 'lassui an i link :)

But, amongst all of the fictional languages I am more interested in R'lyehian. The problem is that it is very hard to understand because first it lacks a lot of vocabulary to hold a conversation, and second the grammar is hard, very very hard.

'A Note about Grammar: Unlike Earthly languages, R'lyehian makes no distinction between nouns, verbs, adjectives, and other parts of speech. Pronouns may or may not appear. Verbs have only two tenses: present and not-present, since the Old Ones experience time in a non-linear fashion. Taken out of context, any fragment's translation is nothing more than guesswork.'

source: <http://www.yog-sothoth.com/wiki/index.php/R%27lyehian>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

498 I've conquered the Spanish tree!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3718722>

pandacustard 13 11 6 3

My Spanish tree is finally complete! I've studied Spanish for a long time and even minored in it in college, but when you live in a monolingual, homogenous area, it's hard to keep refreshed on languages.

Duolingo has done a great job of refreshing me on things I thought I've forgotten, and it's great that it keeps track of the things that I haven't studied for a while to keep it clear in my mind. It's also nice to be able to test out of things that I feel confident with. Thanks for making it easy to keep up on languages when you don't have many opportunities to speak it.

I still have a lot of work to continue with and a lot of mistakes to correct, but I'm back to a much better level than before. Si todavía estás aprendiendo, ¡buena suerte!

Give Lingot10

242 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

Wonderboy6 25 14 8

I've had a long break on Duolingo and more so on my spanish skill tree, but i believe 'estas aprendiendo' is as if your are currently doing it real time, unless i'm mistaken 'tu aprendes' would be more accurate usage here, right? Oh and big congrats on conquering your tree ;P

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fdp0122 11 2

Actually 'estas aprendiendo' mean you are learning 'tu aprendes' means you learn so the latter would be correct but that is a very good question =)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Evisceratorium 12 9

I swear I asked one of my native hispanohablante friends this exact question a couple weeks ago, regarding either "aprender" or a verb somewhat similar to it like "estudiar". They told me that Spanish has a present continuous aspect very similar to English, so "Estoy aprendiendo" would be a totally valid construction.

Wikipedia seems to say the same:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Continuous\_and\_progressive\_aspects#Spanish

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CliffJonesJr 13 9 9 8 7 7 7 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 73

It's true that Spanish has parallel verbal constructions, but they are not used in exactly the same way. The "simple present" of English is actually very unusual in that we use it mostly for repeated events. (Consider "I eat," vs. "I'm eating.") Most languages (Spanish included) are more likely to use the simple present tense where we would use the present continuous.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheisG 15 11 10 6 4 4

Big congrats. I had studied Spanish for a few years myself before starting the Spanish tree, but I still had some trouble finishing it. Now I take the other language courses for hispanohablantes to improve my skills even further.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pandacustard 13 11 6 3

Yeah, there are some rough parts. Past subjunctive? Ugh!! One of the great things about Spanish is that it's easy to learn yet difficult to master.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CliffJonesJr 13 9 9 8 7 7 7 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 73

Nice work! Which one's next, French or German? I'm trying to progress in mine somewhat evenly. My end goal is to max them all out, of course.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pandacustard 13 11 6 3

Thanks! I'm leaning a little more towards German right now... it's a very fun language to speak.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CliffJonesJr 13 9 9 8 7 7 7 5 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 73

But so is French, right? I guess it just depends which sort of face you want to make.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ALoUSyUseRnaME 25 25 16 9 5 5 4

Congrats! Here's 5 lingots for your hard work ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pandacustard 13 11 6 3

Thank you!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Congratulations! Well done!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pandacustard 13 11 6 3

Thanks! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gilberome 9

Felicidades, sigue practicando!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

deepen09

good job

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

girl.skater 10 3

great for you. how do you feel about finishing your spanish tree

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

softball.girl 9

that is awesome i can't wait to finish mine

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

499 How do I find an assignment?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/208191253-How-do-I-find-an-assignment->

If your teacher gave you an assignment, you should check your email. You can also see the status of your assignments on your Duolingo home page, as shown below. You cannot see assignments from the apps, but you can access the website from your mobile device.

If you are not receiving assignment emails, please check the following:

1. Make sure your email address is correct in your settings. If not, change it and remember to save the changes.

2. If you are using a school email, ask the teacher if the school is blocking external mail. If so, we recommend changing your email address to a different one that does not block Duolingo reminders. This is important for resetting passwords as well.

If you are still not seeing your assignments, please try the troubleshooting steps in this article.

500 Spanish Subjunctive of the Day - Summary

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10162114>

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

Here is a list of all Spanish Subjunctive of the Day classes I've created in the last couple of months for your enjoyment. In the future, if I make any further classes I will link to this summary post.

Salvo que, excepto que

Ni que

Structures of duplication

Courtesy, politeness

Dependency

No es que

Por más que, por mucho que

Como

Cuanto más, cuanto menos

Imperative Statements

Let's

De modo que, de manera que

Siempre que, cada vez que

A pesar de que

Mientras

Antes de que, después de que, luego que

Doubt, denial, negation

Una vez que

A condición de que, con la condición de que, bajo la condición de que

El hecho de que

Aunque, siquiera

En caso de que

Hace falta que, no hace falta que

Quizá, quizás, tal vez

Hasta que

Emotions, likes, dislikes and feelings

Es ... que

Con tal de que, siempre y cuando

Si, como si

A menos que, a no ser que

Cuando

Más vale que

Constructs of wish

Sin que

Request, obligation

Conviene que

Como si

Para que, a fin de que

Subordinated adjective clauses

Tan pronto como, en cuanto
Ojalá
Lo ... es que

Give Lingot35
281 year ago

Leave a new comment
7 Comments

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5
This is GREAT ! I have added a link to it from Learning Loom
Thank you for enriching the resources that are available to the community (this is what I am trying to do as well :D )

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mjaumjaupurr 25 25 25 24 23 20 19 17 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 10 8 7 6 926
Thank you for making this wonderful index. Your posts have been the best resource for me to improve my use of the subjunctive. :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
You are welcome. I still look at the project as work in progress but it was time for creation of the index.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MateoMcCartney
That's awesome!!! Thank you!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907
THANKS! Gracias! y Muchisimas Gracias! Voy a dedicar dos semanas para estudiar las lecciones subjuntivo!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
You are welcome. Intento repasar las lecciones y incorporar unos cuantos más ejemplos en algunas de ellas.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907
Will do! I think that this will greatly improve my Spanish.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

501 "The diet"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3450710>

Translation: Die Diät

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

8 Comments

mdb71169 25 1127

I just love it when DL gives one definition for a word repeatedly then waits until its on a multiple choice question to give it a second definition....

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dgutkowsky 20 17 9 6 4 79

I think its all right beacuse DL forces to choose proper answer by ruling out the others. It helps to remeber the synonymus.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Leya_1 13 2 2

That caught me out.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gorfre 14 10 10 5

What s the difference between die ernährung and die diät

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EeroK 12 5

Maybe this helps:

Seine Ernährung besteht aus Pflanzen (His diet consist of plants)

Ich halte eine ganz besondere Diät: Ich esse nur Kohlsuppe. (I'm on a very special diet: I only eat cabbage soup)

Ich bin Diabetiker, ich muss eine strenge Diät halten. (I'm diabetic, I have to stay on a strict diet)

So:

die Ernährung: diet (eating habits in general)

die Diät: diet (for medicinal or for weight loss reasons), nutritional regimen

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-Sapphira- 25 16 9 8 6 6 6 2 8

How would you say "I'm dieting", then?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

john.newbe 20 17 6 7

But Nahrung is wrong ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EeroK 12 5

That means just "nourishment" or "food", not diet.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

502 "We played basketball at the gym today."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/854183>

Translation: Nosotros jugamos baloncesto en el gimnasio hoy.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

sergioeu1 13

otra vez; hoy jugamos o jugamos hoy no hace ninguna diferencia en castellano

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MCRISTINAA1 18 10 1

No se corresponde el tiempo del verbo "played" con el adverbio "today". Mejor "We play basketball at the gym today". Entiendo la confusión puesto que en español el Presente y el Pasado (Pret. Indefinido) de este verbo , en 1ª pers. del pl. son iguales

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

oEaOxeLL 14

Esa oración admite diversas redacciones, no siempre debe ser en la forma en que ustedes lo plantean

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HectorMora12 14

no seria mejor decir JUGABAMOS porque esta en pasado PLAYED? lo correcto seria WE PLAY

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alekzhiz 24 194

esta bien escrita la oracion?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JosMiguelJ6 10 5 2

Cuando te equivocas por escribir "basquetball". Estoy de acuerdo que el sentido de la frase no me convence.

0ReplyGive Lingot•12 months ago

katherinbo12 12
es lo mismo no entiendo por que la marco mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

mcelia74 19 8
en mi país decimos habitualmente básquet

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

dbaezh 18 1
[deleted]

0Give Lingot•7 months ago

Nefertari305 19 9 9 8 6 272
Porque baloncesto va junto. Balón y cesto son dos palabras con significado propio.

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

dbaezh 18 1
ciertamente, gracias.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Eduar563939 10
it is a correct answer in Spanish

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 days ago

503 What are the Moderator Guidelines?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205079384-What-are-the-Moderator-Guidelines->

Below you'll find the guidelines for all moderators on Duolingo. Wonder who the moderators are or how to become one? Check out this article.

Duolingo Community Moderator Guidelines

As a community moderator you are volunteering to help grow Duolingo into one of the largest language learning communities in the world. We at Duolingo see you as a leader and a main contributor to the language discussions. The primary purpose is not to police others, and we encourage you to take an active role posting relevant content and contributing to discussions in order to set the tone for the types of conversations you yourself would like to see more of.

Things we encourage Duolingo moderators to:

Be reasonable

Help new learners feel welcome if you happen to see one

Help new and/or confused members in the discussion and community

Lead by example: show others how to contribute positively to the community

Add relevant and helpful commentary to the discussion threads

Encourage awesome posts by our members

Make sure the Duolingo community guidelines are upheld
Try your best to let members know why or when their comments or threads are getting removed Report abuse and emergency issues to Global Moderators and/or Staff
Support and communicate with other moderators, trying to reach a consensus before speaking “officially” to Duolingo members
Remove irrelevant or outdated content, as well as repeated comments on the same thread
Remove personal info such as telephone numbers and email addresses. Be reasonable, and help us protect some of our members who aren’t aware of the risks of sharing private information publicly. Before making a comment or taking harsh measures of any kind, please remember that this person could be your grandpa, or your nephew. We have learners from all backgrounds and ages and need to be sensitive and respectful when interacting with others.
Also, if you are a Global Moderator:

Be reasonable and use your abilities responsibly
Meet with Duolingo staff occasionally (virtually on G+ or Skype)
Report serious issues, even if they were dealt with, to the Duolingo Community Team Moderators (all), please do not:

Delete entire discussions before making sure they break the guidelines (this is hard to undo)
Delete threads or discussions based on your personal views and dislikes. If in doubt, consult your fellow moderators.
Delete threads just because they are critical of Duolingo
Ban or request bans without a member having broken any guidelines
Speak “for” Duolingo without double checking the information you are about to release
Go overboard with the number of sticky comments
Publish personal correspondence and images publicly before obtaining permission from all of those involved—community members and/or staff
General rule of thumb: Check with other moderators before taking an action you are unsure of.

*Moderation privileges can and will be revoked if necessary, but we hope we won’t have to. We’re happy to have your help. You can have them revoked if: you ask us to, we get a high number of complaints, you’ve been inactive for too long, or you simply aren’t following the guidelines.

Last updated: July 23, 2015

504 where's the gamification?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10527662/where-s-the-gamification>

ChristofHarper 10 4

I remember outfits for my owl, a more reliable lingot economy with gems for lessons.

I now have my children involved (the 8 and 12 year old. the 5 year old could do the mouse based lessons, if I could find a way to turn off the keyboard/typing based parts) and the lack of gamification is sort of hurting. My 8 year old was very excited by her first lingots and now thinks there's no point when all you can do is buy a couple lesson functions.

So, where's the gamification going? Is it something that is being eliminated in favor of a scholastic drill drill drill system?

Give Lingot1
61 year ago

Leave a new comment
12 Comments

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907

Managing an economy is hard. I guess they didn't figure out what to really do with the lingots.

Personally I think Timed Practice is the "gamification" part of Duolingo but I can definitely see your point. I imagine 8 and 12 year children won't necessarily see the fun in the game.

I still miss the hearts.

3ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

ChristofHarper 10 4

Oh, there are levels of fun in the game for the children. There's just not.... enough to maintain the fun, I guess.

I personally love timed practice. Definitely a great feature.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Since I've joined they've removed the three hearts and you fail system. That took away the bonus lingots for lessons in which you lost zero hearts. They added and then subtracted the Duels.

They've added two track suits (to the Android app, it's never been available on the website), added three bonus skills (Christmas only available in December). They've added the Coach, Words, and Schools features. The Streak Freeze, Double or Nothing, and Timed Practice already existed. There are lingots for 10 day streaks as well.

Is there something in particular that you didn't want them to remove? Being more specific is the most helpful feedback people can give to Duolingo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChristofHarper 10 4

The track suits aren't available for the kids, then. (using the web) Schools don't seem to work for homeschoolers anyway, and I'm not sure what coach and words features have to do with the gamification aspect. Can you explain?

streak freeze, double or nothing, time practice, and quizzes exist. (as I mentioned earlier, the lingot economy is mostly just extra lessons. I think I mentioned that. pretty sure. Yes, I left out the streak freeze)

I understand and respect that you find my questions to be about "progress on duolingo as a whole". It isn't that. I am not dismissing, nor denigrating the additions to the learning software itself as learning software. If I gave the impression that I felt that they were removing actual software, that was wrong.

When I first was introduced to duolingo, gamification was a large part of the "idea" of it. I now understand that there are tracksuits available for android versions, but there's not a lot of.... gamification beyond "XP exists, lingots exist" and a very few specific platform elements such as android tracksuits. Lingots basically reflect your XP (they pretty much track as there's nothing much to do with them)

Perhaps my concerns are completely isolated. I find that in the other gamified activities I encourage the kidlets to do, there are other ways to spend point tokens, and ways to demonstrate progress (collecting items for a display wall, for example).

5ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

JeffA2 25 17 13 11 8 1070

I guess I see the main "gamification" aspects as XP and levels. I don't have kids, so don't really know what kinds of things would grab their interest. Perhaps you should make some specific recommendations.

I agree with @Usagiboy7 that I don't see that the gamification aspects have really been reduced, unless maybe you count the elimination of duels. But I'm sure you are right that adding some (optional) features to grab the interest of children may be good.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChristofHarper 10 4

any small reduction, when the gamification is this limited, is pretty big :) - just removing the hearts system is a big impact. It makes the XP and lingots even more duplicative (meaning they track each other fairly well and there's really not a difference between them, except for a VERY few limited things to spend lingots on)

Specifically regarding the hearts, I don't miss that aspect from a beginner or child's point of view. Guinea pig A would do better with that, since he's 12. But Guinea pig B, my 8 year old has too many typos in the english typing portions, etc. the "go until you are done" thing works FAR better for her than a 3 strikes system would. She'd be in tears.

Guinea pig C, at 5, would do well with the software without typing (I've mentioned this before) and more granularity in choosing exercise types would be useful in general terms. (REALLY useful. I can give a set of examples on utility for adults, from driving to libraries, to tuning specific personal weaknesses)

XP is of limited use as a progress metric. It's good for maintaining a minimum daily exposure (like feeding your pet or avatar in other gamification systems), it tracks, obviously, with level. And the XP does NOT necessarily track with skill sections progress beyond a minimum, because you can keep getting XP on the same 5 completed skills forever. And that's not a bad thing!

This is fine, and a good thing. drilling basics 1 and 2 extensively is a great foundation for "kitchen immersion" in the home, for example. But in an open economy of gamification, you'd want to add a bigger bonus to completing skills and checkpoints.

You'd also want to add some more complicated lingot bonuses for speed drills, flashcards (I like the no drama flip and flip flashcards, but a self competitive version would be nice as well), and probably some form of community tutoring interaction. (I have thoughts about that, but it's a slightly more complicated area than my other thought about mechanical turk tutoring, which would be a good market for lingots)

The basic gamified economy factors would need to be included to go forward with that. A wall or house for your owl/avatar. The wall or house is where you generally display items you get through performance, seasonal specials, community support, etc. This type of thing isn't really a trade economy, but it's a pride and reputation economy. You can see this in most forums you visit.

specific avatars for different languages with a lingot cost. Level badges, checkpoint badges, "perfect skill" badges (quadruple length timed exercise that gets all elements of a skill involved.), furnishings. the basics stuff from any number of gamified systems.

There are potentially very special and useful gamification economy items for duolingo, as it's "community progress" competitive as well as "self" competitive. There is no need to PVP, and it is a general detractor from the community to go that route. but avenues for significant recognition of community support would add a lot, in addition to increasing the breadth of the basic "self progress" gamification economy.

I could go on forever and diagram things, and then show the options for initial control of the unintended consequences (no manufactured economy can escape them) but I'm probably getting deeper than anyone at duolingo wants to think about.

5ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

lizsue 25 24 10 5 2 131

Your 5 year old and maybe even your 8 year old are young enough to pick up a second language as a second native language of theirs! :D

Like I said in another thread, Duolingo is good for older kids and adults to learn another language, but is not good enough for a small child to become a native speaker.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10568531> includes a list of tips on how to raise a bilingual child, and some of these tips can be done in classrooms as well as at home. :) It also has a link to <http://www.lazymomsblog.com/2014/05/12/how-to-raise-a-bilingual-child/>

At <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9629453> another parent asked about using Duolingo to teach a 5-year-old Spanish, and some of the comments (especially from beadspitter!) are about other methods to help a 5-year-old become a native speakers of Spanish better than Duolingo can.

Note that the immersion mentioned in those comments isn't the same thing as the translating-articles section of this website that Duolingo misleadingly calls "immersion". Here's a better description of what immersion means in the context of language learning: <http://www.carla.umn.edu/immersion/faqs.html>

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChristofHarper 10 4

Thankyou for your feedback. I posted about this seperately. Since we have a native yiddish speaker in our household who is doing the german track to improve grammar, and since we homeschool, and since we have buy in from the whole family, we are using duolingo alongside a mixed "kitchen immersion" plan.

I understand how immersion works outside of translating documents, I had the good fortune to be stationed in Spain at one time. Works pretty well.

The 8 year old is mostly doing fine with Duolingo, it also helps her typing and English spelling skills. For her AND the 5 year old, though, it is primarily a matter of inclusion- of doing what the rest of the family is doing- and not a one and only method of learning German.

1 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

lizsue 25 24 10 5 2 131

Christof, that's great that your family is already using other methods too! :D

I agree, using Duolingo (and its gamification) as a substitute for other video games is also a good idea.

1 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

SofritoBandito 25 16 12 8 16

While this doesn't directly address your questions, I wonder if you'd have better luck starting them off with an online typing game.

0 Reply Give Lingot • 1 year ago

ChristofHarper 10 4

I posted in another thread about the homeschooling. The children have used various typing games, though all in English. They have some use, but really lack the context of real world typing.

0 Reply Give Lingot • 1 year ago

CatherinGregory 25 17 16 6 6 1157

I think XP levels ought to go beyond 25. And streaks ought to have some game challenge/reward.

0 Reply Give Lingot • 1 year ago

505 "He pays no attention to the teacher."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2321329>

Translation: Il ne fait pas attention au professeur.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

31 Comments

jccduheil 12

prêter attention me semble plus adapté, non ?

16 Reply Give Lingot • 2 years ago

SAMUD91 16

Entièrement d'accord avec vous

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jepht 10

oui, c'est ce que j'ai écrit également

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

manuelle35 15 10 9 8 7 4 4 2 3

On dit "prêter attention" si on veut bien parler, mais dire "faire attention" n'est pas mauvais, enfin, c'est ce que je pense. Pour ma part, et malheureusement pour la langue française, j'entends beaucoup plus souvent "faire attention" que "prêter attention".

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Revatorium 9

Je pense que "Il n'accorde pas d'attention au professeur." fonctionne aussi

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Aigverte 12 3

effectivement

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

manuelle35 15 10 9 8 7 4 4 2 3

Il y a beaucoup de possibilités ! Prêter, faire, accorder... Tout fonctionne !

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

haronnews 14

Il ne prête pas attention au professeur

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

manuelle35 15 10 9 8 7 4 4 2 3

Oui il est vilain

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Marie-Domi4 11 9 4

à la professeure..... depuis quand teacher est gendré?!

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MikeProjet 13

Oui, mais encore faudrait-il que Duolingo enrichisse son style, sa grammaire et son vocabulaire pour, justement, nous l'"accorder".

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NancyETIEN 13 2

"Pay" ne veut pas dire payer??

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jccdutheil 12

Je crois savoir que " Pay" peut se traduire également par : "Pay attention to" = prêter attention (à qq'un ou qq'chose). "Pay (somebody) a visit" = rendre visite à qq'un

11ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

NancyETIEN 13 2

Merci, car je ne le savais pas

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GerardGiba 16

Merci pour cette info.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SankaBoy 12

Merci l'ami

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JonathanPlante 10 3

hum. Duolingo accepte "il ne paye pas attention à l'enseignant", mais il n'accepte pas "il ne paie pas attention à l'enseignant".

Le verbe payer 3e personne du singulier au présent de l'indicatif: il paye/il paie.

Pour être cohérent, Duolingo devrait donc accepter "il ne paie pas attention...".

Toutefois, il me semble que cette formule est un anglicisme syntaxique. Ai-je raison?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Angelbounty 12 7 6

il n'accorde aucune attention au professeur est faux ???

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Duo1993 12 11 3 2 2

cinq fois pour faire la bon traduction !

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Arnaud740954 10 7

On dira surtout "il n'écoute pas son professeur" en français :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

manuelle35 15 10 9 8 7 4 4 2 3

Oui voilà. Hop ! Problème réglé. Et une heure de colle pour l'élève feignant.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Annick248294 10 1

traduction fausse

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 days ago

pamblard 25 11 2

reponse "il ne paie pas attention au professeur" : c'est quoi cette phrase ???

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zacmelo 16 3

Cela ne se dit pas en français. C'est une phrase incohérente.

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

plantem 14

pourquoi on n'écrit pas paies? est-ce une exception?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kowaz 13 12 6

Si j'ai bien compris, la finale "-y" des verbes devient "-ies" à la troisième personne du singulier du présent lorsque ce "y" est précédé d'une consonne, et "-ys" lorsqu'il est précédé d'une voyelle, try--> he tries accompany --> he accompanies say --> he says

buy --> he buys

3ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Sykas 14

Tout à fait après il ne faut pas confondre les verbes et les noms. Certains nom se terminent par ies aussi au pluriel. Ex story (singulier) => stories, family => families

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

plantem 14

merci c'est plein de sens votre explication!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

manuelle35 15 10 9 8 7 4 4 2 3

Oui

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

clarabellissima 17 14 11 3 2 8

To pay attention to = prêter attention à qqn / faire attention à ...

En anglais, cela donne : "He pays no attention to ...".

Mais en français, on dit : " Il/Elle paye-paie" un café.

Et : "Tu paies/payes" ... (Il y a toujours un "s" au présent quelque soit le groupe du verbe (au 1er, 2ème et aussi au 3ème groupe). Voilà.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

506 Bug: Using a streak freeze does not preserve your streak in the mobile app

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/973552>

Kortaggio 22 10 9 3 2 2 154

Give Lingot

113 years ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

sernstberger 25 7 1319

Also -- when sent a daily reminder e-mail, the streak is not preserved in that e-mail either.

:-(

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

fizzofdeath 22 7

I have this discrepancy, too. I have a streak going which I have saved a couple of times with a streak freeze. On the mobile app and in email reminders it resets when I use a streak freeze, while it preserves fine in the web app.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

KrzysztofS26 22 10 4

I just have noticed the same issue, which is annoying due to I use mostly android APP and I lost my 42 streak... Duo, you must repair it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kyozo 25 12 3 2

I also experience this bug. I use the android app. It seems that the lingots are not really implemented in the app, so my guess is, that it is a feature they are working on.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Kortaggio 22 10 9 3 2 2 154

The weird part is you still earn lingots for completing lessons with full hearts on the mobile app. I guess the mobile app just sends the raw data as a JSON to a central backend server, which processes all the calculations like lingots, points earned, etc., then sends instructions on what to display back to the mobile app. In that case it makes sense that the streak is still there, but just doesn't get displayed on mobile because they haven't yet fully implemented it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kyozo 25 12 3 2

yes, it seems pretty logical to reuse the actual business logic, and then just have different presentation layers.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CameronRoss 20

I've also noticed this bug when using the Android mobile app.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

obtschale 15 10 10

This bug is still happening for me. Any updates from DL Staff?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheNordicWolf 12 8 7 7 5 3 2 2 2 2

Bump... Any word on this? Just happened to me. Very annoying

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

507 How do you see my username in the forum tolunayo or tolunay.duo?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10612941>

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

I am trying to determine how others see my username in the forum. It has been like a month that I changed my username from tolunayo to tolunay.duo and even though the profile is updated properly, the forum posts still get the old username. I am trying to determine if everyone is seeing my posts as tolunayo or not.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10219741>

I already have this issue reported and waiting for a fix. I am still hoping this is going to be fixed one day. Unfortunately, those that click on my old username in forum posts get not found error.

Update (Oct 10, 2015): Due to lack of progress on this issue, I've reverted back to my older username tolunayo

Give Lingot

211 year ago

Leave a new comment

30 Comments

Hafu.glindia.59 7 6 6 3

Once I click on the post, I see your name as tolunayo, but if I click the up/downvote button, it changes to tolunay.duo, with all the languages you're learning, your levels, and your streak. That happens to me as well, it just shows my username and I have to click the up/downvote button to see my badges. On the outside of your post (in the general discussion area), I see that tolunay.duo posted X discussion.

But I don't know how to fix this error. At least I know it's not on my end, and it's one of Duo's bugs.

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

Right, you have an interesting problem as well. As soon as I up voted your post, all your badges appeared.

Update: Actually, I see my badges also don't show up either on this post. But it did on others.

Update2: Originally my badges did not show but now it does. Confusing.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hafu.glindia.59 7 6 6 3

Hmm, that's weird...

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Mathso2 25 23 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 8 7 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 79

I used to have that issue with my dutch flag - I was a level 7 but it always showed level 2. What I did was just reset the course (I know it's a pain to let go of your progress but (at least for me) it works) and started again. I trust you can see my Level 5 dutch - if not please let me know and then I don't know how to fix your problem :(

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hafu.glindia.59 7 6 6 3

Your level 5 is there. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Mathso2 25 23 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 8 7 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 79

That's good. Thank you/Dank u wel :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Highways 16 16 16 16 14 14 3 3

And have you lost the progress and have you had to go back to the beginning? I'm in level 14, in no way I'll reset it...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Mathso2 25 23 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 8 7 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 79

Unfortunately, yes. As I said, it was a pain, but it was the only way I could find...

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
Your Dutch flag is level 5 for me.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
I see tolunay.duo. I clicked on it and it took me to your profile. After I upvoted, it changed to tolunay. Very odd :(

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
Hi, Myra (Admin) posted in my other post saying that they would fix this but nothing has happened. Do you have access to someone capable of fixing this? Please!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

myra 20 12 10 7 5 5 3 2
still looking, sorry! This seems to be a tricky issue to find...keeping you posted as we investigate

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
Thank you so much. I am anxiously waiting.

There are a few people like me. For example: see jfgor (formerly jfgordy) below.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
I abandoned any hope for this issue to be resolved. I have reverted back to my older username. :( I am a software engineer and this should not be that profound problem to resolve. I am sorry Myra you might have reported the issue but the technical staff seems to be ignoring you and me.

In the past, I have made some suggestions for site functional improvements but if they cannot resolve actual problems, those have no chance to be resolved.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
I'll contact Myra and let them know it is still not working.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935
Thanks. She responded in this thread.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

Given up. See my message to Myra below.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jfGor 16 2 2

I gave up too. I am afraid to go back to old ID, in fear that I will just duplicate the bug.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

I went back and right now at least my profile and posts do match. People can locate me through my messages. The only problem for a small number of people might be that they started following me using new (now defunct) username and might not be able to access me from their following lists.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

jfGor 16 2 2

I don't know if I should make a separate report or not. Is Duo reading these troubleshooting reports? My problem is the same as yours and has been for a while. When I write a new post, it will momentarily use my new user name jfgor, but if I have ever made a post in that discussion, it will turn back to the old user name jfgordy. It just happened again today. When I changed my user name, I never expected this much trouble and it has gone on for a month or so. Help!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

jfGor: Please make a separate report and the more these problems are reported the more it is likely to be corrected.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Highways 16 16 16 16 14 14 3 3

As said by Hafu.glindia.59, when I come here, from the Activity menu (and there I see yor username as tolunay.duo) firstly I see the post published by toluyano. I up vote and suddenly it changes to tolunay.duo. If I refresh the page it changes newly to toluyano.

I have other issue with my badges. I'm in level 14 in Potugese, and when I post a comment I can see it, but it changes later to 8... :-(

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

I see your Portuguese at level 14.

My biggest issue is that when people try to reach my profile to leave a comment to my personal stream, with the old username showing in my posts they get 404 not found page. It is a more serious functional problem for me.

Update: After I posted your badges re-ordered and your level changed to 8. Did you by chance started doing Portuguese from two different languages (like Portuguese from Spanish and Portuguese from English) It is almost as if there are several web servers or backend databases involved and one or more of those are out of sync.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Highways 16 16 16 16 14 14 3 3

Sure. I started it from Spanish, and later when I began Dutch from English, I saw there were a flag with level 0 in the English Profile, and I deleted it. That's the origin of the problem, I think.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Klara-Ilona 18 15 13 13 12 10 10 6 3 3 2 569

Now everything is okay? I found you: All the best!

<https://www.duolingo.com/Tolunay>

<https://www.duolingo.com/tolunay.duo>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Highways 16 16 16 16 14 14 3 3

The first link is from other person, it is between

<https://www.duolingo.com/tolunayo> and

<https://www.duolingo.com/tolunay.duo>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5

Dear Klara-Ilona ,

I just want to point out that <http://www.duolingo.com/Tolunay> is a different user to this one.

As at this moment , since originally posting this , Tolunay of Austin, has resorted back to his older name of :

<http://www.duolingo.com/tolunayo>

note the o on the end of the name.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Klara-Ilona 18 15 13 13 12 10 10 6 3 3 2 569

Dear lindakanga, Thank you very much for the trouble to write to me. I know this by the user Highways. He had informed me.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 5 4 3 2 125

I see it as tolunayo

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tolunayo 25 25 6 935

Yes, I changed it back to tolunayo as Duolingo did not resolve the technical issue.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

508 "We walk along the water."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/601617>

Translation: Camminiamo lungo l'acqua.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

37 Comments

manliorock 17 3

Bella questa frase ma cosa significa? Forse sarebbe meglio dire camminiamo lungo il fiume...o la riva...

40ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ElGuancia 22 19 12 9 8

Esatto! In Italiano significa camminare lungo la riva e Duo dovrebbe accettarlo. La traduzione letterale da noi non ha senso.

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Pinko-Pallino 13

Chi non ha mai camminato lungo l'acqua in vita sua!!! :)

31ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Giovanni25197 13

Io ho camminato SULL'acqua una volta. Fa lo stesso? :P

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ilovelinux 13 7 6 5 2 17

Abbiamo il Cristo risorto! xD

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

RobertoRon14 11 4

Solo Gesù

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Angelo285421 10

Significa "camminare lungo un corso d'acqua", non lo trovo poi così strano:-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MaZee74 7

sono d'accordo con manliorock: le frasi che hanno poco senso in italiano sono fuorvianti

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LisbethGuter 9

Se camminano lungo l'acqua vuol dire che sono forse delle reincarnazioni di Gesù!))))

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

stefano696969 9

Non ha alcun significato in italiano

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

VittoriaVella. 9 2

infatti

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Soffy... 11 8

non ha senso

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

laura753874 12

Ma..tradotta,nn ha molto senso. C.que,è proprio un altro modo di pensare

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

giuseppina214717 14 3

Come tanti anch'io fatico a volte nelle traduzioni, ma il discorso è imparare l'inglese con i suoi modi di dire per entrare nel modo di utilizzo della lingua. Quello che a me interessa capire è se questa frase ha un uso comune in inglese o se è messa così per farci allenare e memorizzare delle parole.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

VittoriaVella. 9 2

secondo me è per farci memorizzare delle parole in inglese ma credo che non ha nessun senso neanche in inglese.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

VittoriaVella. 9 2

la frase da tradurre era "We walk along the water." Io l'ho tradotta "noi camminiamo attraverso l'acqua" e me lo ha sbagliato. Mah

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

LuisaLisat 8

Camminiamo lungo l'acqua...?????....

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MaZee74 7

sì, è una pratica poco diffusa.. al momento c'è riuscito uno solo... :D

10ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

clamo48 22 8 5

Ti meriti un lingotto!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

VittoriaVella. 9 2

è giusto così LuisaLisat

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

GennaroMa 7

Io avevo capito tipo come se si volesse guardare un fiume. Quindi camminare attraverso l'acqua.
Completamente fuorviante

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cinziamaria67 14 9 3 1

Forse dobbiamo tradurre solo in modo letterale...ci sono diverse frasi che in italiano hanno poco senso e se pensi a tradurre in base al contenuto il più delle volte di da errore

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

J.Medas 12

Si potrebbe tradurre con - Camminiamo "nei pressi" dell'acqua - ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

franco895398 7

La risposta è corretta

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TrovatoAle 11

Walk comunque è anche passeggiare....non può dire che c'è un piccolo "errore"

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Rachele821026 8 6

Commentando le frasi errate poi le cambiano oppure no?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Daniela949173 8

Anche secondo me, nella lingua italiana, camminare lungo l'acqua non ha senso, credo che mi dovrebbe accettare "camminare nell'acqua".

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MariaSimon996422 14 2

Scusa ma nn e' + logico dire: cammino sulla riva? Chi cavolo direbbe mai " cammino lungo l'acqua?" mah!!!!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GuglielmoB18 11

Ripeto se metto il pronome e'sbagliato se non lo metto e'sbagliato che devo fare?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CristinaSa63822 17

DL. Che schifezza di traduzione. Traducete dall'inglese all'italiano con un significato. I nostri commenti segnalano veri errori grammaticali o peggio frasi senza alcun senso in italiano , non sono spazzatura. E se non li accettate è perfettamente inutile che noi li segnaliamo. Correggete quando vi viene detto.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

A.Clau-dio34 9

Qualcuno potrebbe rispondere alla mia domanda?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ElGuancia 22 19 12 9 8

Tubo lungo si dice long tube, camminare lungo qualcosa si dice to walk along.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

A.Clau-dio34 9

Ok, grazie.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

A.Clau-dio34 9

La frase sarebbe stata più sensata scritta nel seguente modo: "Camminiamo lungo il ruscello" (ovviamente, in Lingua Inglese).

Qualcuno potrebbe dirmi se "along" si può (o si deve) utilizzare, anche, per indicare qualcosa di lungo (di lunghe dimensioni, intendo. Tipo: "un tubo lungo", o "una fune lunga" e cose simili)?

-3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MaZee74 7

"along" può essere usato come preposizione o come avverbio.. non ho mai sentito di un suo uso come aggettivo.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

A.Claudio34 9

Grazie dell'informazione.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Marcellone2149 14

we walk along the river.... this tube is really long.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

509 – 523 of 911

[accessed March 20, 2017]

509 "I have assumed control of the country."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/811111>

Translation: He asumido el control del país.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

52 Comments

ISABEL.MARTIN 10

Por favor, en español, he asumido el control del país puede sustituirse perfectamente por "he tomado el control del país"

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

guarazoca 25 3

Total acuerdo. Tomado en esta frase es sinónimo de asumido

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lainders 12 8 6 5 5 5 5

Totalmente de acuerdo

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PepiEspo0 25 22

pienso igual

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

joanalvarez0 18 3

i have ""TAKED"" control of the country

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

agiraldo68 14 11 11 8

También opino lo mismo

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

SonyIG 11 4

Si, yo puse "he tomado el control del país" y me la puso mal, de hecho yo creo que se usa mas "tomado" en este caso que "asumido".

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

espofleet 25 23 4 6

repórtalo . Yo ya lo hice. En el último espacio escribe los sinónimos para que ellos los lean. Marca Mi resp. debió ser aceptada , y luego también el ultimo espacio y así con el tiempo, si varios reportan, lo aceptan. Suerte

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

DIVAARES 15

Tomado indica de modo ilegal y de eso los sudamericanos sabemos bastante...asumir es mas apropiado porque indica legalidad o necesidad. de hacerlo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

DanielGamb 14 2

Concuerdo contigo

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

auroluna 24 5

Asi lo puse y me quito mi corazon -:-{

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RM-65 23

asumir es # a tener, primer paso en espanol, sucede igual en ingles. to have : es el verbo adecuado para tener un objeto material o fisico !

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ruben28 25 12 11 10 4 4 4 2 640

No se refiere a tener, se refiere a tomar, yo creo que es correcto tomar el control

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dvd_david 12

no debería de ser "I have assumed THE control of the country??"

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

espofleet 25 23 4 6

he tomado el control del país. Está mal?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

raulsanchezsaura 13 6 5

He tomado el control también es una traducción válida.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

carmina295 20

tengo asumido el control del país me parece que es correcto, pues haber es indistinto de tener, aparte de que la expresión tener asumido equivale ha haber asumido.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
Puros presidente, :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fego2111 25 139
country tambien es pueblo

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GabrielGRG1 10 8
he tomado el control del pais, tambien se usa de esa manera en español

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kemirapro 11
Muajajajajaja

Le falta eso al final :v

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Oscar_Sequeiros 16 9
Señor Obama, ¿es usted?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pgamez 13
traduje: he tomado el control del país y lo calificó incorrecto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CastroAguilar 12
He asumido el control de el pais, pienso que tambien se puede decir asi ya que de hecho (del) es la contraccion de (de el)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MiguelFefer 25 456
Yo por ser humilde puse del campo , pero hay que ser audaz la proxima pongo del mundo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DIVAARES 15
A MI ME PASÓ LO MISMO...Y SI QUIERO TENER UN CAMPO???

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

MiguelFefer 25 456

It would have to be: " I want to have a field " Greetings

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

18septiembre2015 21

es lo mismo decir de el que del .ESTO ES UNA forma abreviada.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

PepiEspo0 25 22

no , no es lo mismo. De él solamente cuando indica pertenencia. De otro modo, se escribe, del campo, del niño, del sol, del plato. etc.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

joanalvarez0 18 3

huy que malota :´v

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

pablito290681 20 3

porque en ingles no se escribe "assumed (the) control"

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

espofleet 25 23 4 6

asumir - tomar - adoptar- servirse de -etc.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

sebastian.664 10

Asumio el control del pais .. es mas.coherente que he asumio el control del pais no tiene sentido y la ponen mala

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

EsterRecin 16

Es el colmo que desapruében lo que esta correcto.I have assumed control of the country.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

lagartoviejo 12 62

He asumido el control de el país me da error, creo que mi oración es una alternativa .

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

EmmanuelG1983 12

se pasan "del y de el", se entiende igual de hecho del seria como una contracción de "de el".

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

matteo5 16

traduje country como pueblo y me la calificó mala

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Txanpi 12 2

Country significa país, o, en su defecto, región o zona.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

juanfperez 25 1053

¿"The" es "este" también, o es otro error en la traducción de Duolingo?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

hungover 15 14 10 6 5 4 4 3 2

este solo es this, the solo significa el (y la, los, etc.)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MedMart 10 2

the articulo indefinido el, la , los, las this articulo demostrativo este, esta, esto

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FranciaGue 11

De el es lo mismo que del

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

PepiEspo0 25 22

no

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

tteyco 15

Que diferencia hay de decir de el pais a del pais?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alfonso-g-c 15 11

Yo tambien el traducido country como pueblo y me la dá como incorrecta.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rosa.cazad 21

He asumido el control de el pais es correcto Y lo da por malo

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

avr0821 15
en español del o de el es correcto usarla

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Perquisitore 9 3 2
Es una contracción... de el ni siquiera es válido en castellano.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarmenHern377047 17
Mas y mas errores...pero alguna vez cambiais algo o para que sirve este foro d quejas???

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

510 What are the forum community guidelines?
<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204642254-What-are-the-forum-community-guidelines->

We have a set of community guidelines that we expect learners to follow. You can access the newest version here.

Please remind others of these guidelines if you see them being broken. In case of abuse, please read this.

511 Why doesn't the placement test work?
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/18838977>

Gay4Lingots 5
I have previous knowledge of the language I'm studying yet no matter how well I do on the test it sends me to the very beginning.

Give Lingot
34 months ago

Leave a new comment
8 Comments

RumiByNight 6 2
I don't think you get lingots when you use the Placement Test, so judging by your username, you might want to skip it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Gay4Lingots 5
I never thought of that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

hughcparker 21 19 14 434
How many of the questions did you get right before the first one you got wrong?

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

HackedAcct 4

If you make it to level 2 you can ask HelpfulDuo.

Your questions hasn't been asked yet in its thread.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Gay4Lingots 5

I didn't keep track of each answer but I was more than halfway though when I got one wrong.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

hughcparker 21 19 14 434

Did you finish the placement test?

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Gay4Lingots 5

Yes, I finished.

On an unrelated note I don't have a reply button for comments.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

hughcparker 21 19 14 434

I'd put that down to a one-off glitch, then. If you do the placement test and get some things right, it'll put you at least a few lessons through the course. Clear your progress (settings, learning language, reset or remove languages), and add the course again. Hopefully this time through you'll have better luck.

You won't be able to reply to comments yet, or post in any forum other than the troubleshooting one, until you get to level 2. You only have to do 6 lessons to get there, though.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

512 How can I navigate lessons with the keyboard?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204642284-How-can-I-navigate-lessons-with-the-keyboard->

On the web, you can use the following keys to advance through the lessons quicker:

enter Submit your answer, continue onto next screen

123 Select multiple choice answers with numbers

▼▲ Move through choices in dropdown list

ctrl+space Replay audio

ctrl+space+shift Replay audio slower

513 "The child"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/112303>

Translation: L'enfant

04 years ago

Leave a new comment

80 Comments

Wanabefrench 13

Typed Le enfant and got it wrong - so only L' is viable?

84ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

yes, in front of a word starting with a vowel, "le" and "la" change for "l'"

219ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Staci.Walklin 7

Is this a sort of a e i o u and sometimes h thing? How we say "an hour", they say "l'homme"?

52ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

thecatpetter 13

Yeah.

17ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

beno493 3

Yes, because in both of the instances you have provided, the h is silent.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RenataPatricio 3 3

Thanks

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AndreeaFeiran 2

so cool,thanks

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

jaucey 16 11 10

I was wondering! Thanks for the hint :-D

8ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

AndreeaFeiran 2

You know French?can you teach me?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mahivani 3
no. me too learning

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

loumexx12 5
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dongsheng 6
wow,how did u know that ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

topcen 6
That's super helpful! Thanks :-D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

madisonvd 10
I was so confused about that. Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nevil.ande 4 3
Ahh ha...thanks

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cdsl 4 2
How am I supposed to know that from my 30 minutes of french? Doesn't feel fair.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

abbyrose7718 4
It takes practice and memorization. You can't really memorize a language in 30 minutes

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

multispeak2015 2
Thanks for explanation.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alex.ax 2
Thanks!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

wanna-polyglot8 6

Also in words like "homme" when you pronounce it, it produces a vowel sound. You put an "l" because of that vowel sound right.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

inryoo 3
yes thats so mean

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NathanHC 7
I bet you already know about le and la. But l' is for words that start with a vowel it is l'.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gigglinggold49 14 10 1
i did the same thing!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

magko
Yes

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AuroraCeci 6 5
I am agree with you

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

poopheaderic 13 12
is enfant feminine? typed le enfant and it said "pay attention" to the gender. i guess it should say, pay attention to the ligature.

13ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7
"enfant" can be masculine or feminine, depending on who you are talking about, boy or girl. however, in both cases, the article will be elided and the vowels will be replaced by an apostrophe.

27ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

poopheaderic 13 12
merci

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

Nataliesteps 9 6
ok we can use it for a boy or a girl, but the word enfant is feminine or masculine? We should use un enfant or une enfant?Portuguese works in the same way....eg. alligator is masculine in portuguese, so even when you talk about a female alligator you'll always use the masculine article. What about enfant?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

"Enfant" can be masculine (most of the time, as a generic for "child") or in feminine if you specifically talk about a girl: une enfant.

In plural, you will assume that masculine will be used, for boys only or a mix of boys and girls.

Very exceptionally, in books for example, you will find "enfants" in feminine, like "quelles belles enfants !"

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Nataliesteps 9 6

very unusual in portuguese, thanks for clearing up for me =)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mary.ki 3

Thanks :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Duodjiengo 7 5

So I can't say "gosse"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

"un gosse" is familiar, comparable to "kid", while "un enfant" = "a child" is standard language.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mendez.Nicole 4 4

I Put "le enfant" instead of "L'enfant" whats the difference? please reply

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

le enfant is wrong because of the vowel sound conflict between le and enfant.

every time le or la are placed before a word starting with a vowel or a non aspirate H, the article is "elided" (drop the vowel and replace it by an apostrophe), to ease pronunciation:

l'enfant (masc), l'ami (masc), l'orange (fem), l'homme (masc), l'huile (fem)...

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Baby7Alison

French pronunciation is too difficult !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

M_brezzell01 6

confused about the L'enfant i keep typing enfant

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

PrincessN 6

In most romantic languages, the article (le, la, les, l' ) is built in. They think l'enfant instead of child. One french teacher would call it the 'naked noun syndrome' and would jokingly freak out when every we slipped up. Just try to remember when you have nouns and you'll do fine!

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

fezha 5 2

So "Un enfant" was wrong. Is that true?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

yes because "un enfant" is "a child" whereas "l'enfant" is "the child"

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

fezha 5 2

Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

almaciga 5

Does the form l' imply a neutral gender? When I typed "le enfant" I got it wrong but it said to pay attention to the gender.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

There is no neutral gender in French. For the l' reason for being, please read the whole thread.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NurindahNansi 6

L'enfant can be masculine and feminine. so how about l'homme? l'homme is masculine gender, isn't?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

As far as I know, yes "un homme" is still masculine.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gabby102
this is so fun

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

npanelli 7
Why does Le and La change to L' ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7
Conventionally, vowel sound conflicts have to be avoided, so that the language flows smoothly.

In English, you change "a apple" to "an apple" to make it flow better and in French, there are other tricks to help words sound better in a sentence.

"le-enfant" would create a sound conflict between sounds IEUH and ENfant.

That is why "le" is elided (drop the vowel and replace it by an apostrophe) so that the sound becomes LENfant . The same applies if the word starts with a non aspirate H: le-homme becomes l'homme [LOM].

The same happens in feminine: la-amie becomes l'amie and la-habitude becomes l'habitude.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

npanelli 7
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lolthislearner 6 4
Isn't "Le" the same as "L"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7
L' is the elided version of le or la.

it is used for phonetic reasons, to avoid a vowel sound conflict when le or la are placed in front of a word starting with a vowel or a non aspirate H.

l'enfant (masc or fem, since "enfant" can be a boy or a girl)

l'ami (masc)

l'amie (fem)

l'eau (fem)

l'hydrogène (mas)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Fidha 3 2

Why cant I say Les enfants?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

one child = un enfant

the child = l'enfant

children = des enfants

the children = les enfants

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sidd24

thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

qasim.araf 2

Wow im loving this

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Temiloluwa2 7

How do you know if something is masculine or feminine

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

You don't know, you learn genders with each noun.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wolfywolfy2 10

I wrote le enfant whats the diffrents?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

le enfant is not used because of the vowel sound conflict.

so, whenever le or la are followed by a noun starting with a vowel or a non aspirate H, the article is elided (drop the vowel and replace it by an apostrophe):

l'enfant (masc or fem) - l'homme (masc) - l'huile (fem) - l'ananas (masc) (pineapple) - l'envie (fem), etc.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sabrinagston 3 3

How do you know if its a boy or a girl

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SassyAri

Bounjour

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SassyAri

Hi

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BenRGriffi 4

A man is masculine. Le is masculine. The word child in french (enfant) is masculine. Means you have to blend the words like you would do with man (l'homme) l'enfant

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TabTabTab 5 5 4

Whats the difference between l' le and la

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

"le" and "la" are changed to "l' " (= elided = vowel replaced by an apostrophe) when followed by a noun starting with a vowel sound: vowel or mute H. This is required to avoid sound conflicts.

le chat, la femme

l'enfant (masc), l'orange (fem), l'hôtel (masc), l'huile (fem), l'eau (fem)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MiminFishe 3

This is soo easy I learnt it in junior

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Anneliese324 7 5 3

When is it the right way to use L' ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fardin1987 2

Plz help me! What's different between la and le and l' ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

If you use a PC, take a look at the Tips&Notes below the main page of each Unit.

In short: le, la, l' and les are definite article, all of them meaning "the".

la is feminine, le is masculine, l' is used in front of words starting with a vowel sound and les is the plural for all nouns.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Drasya_jain 3

I am not able to understand the use of la le & l' HELP ME

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AniyahProp 6 6

I put le enfant instead, what's the problem?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Yaya989601

I can speak french ... I'm born in france but speak American

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

espirdoso 3

my computer does not have the apostrophe so I can not type l' (apostrophe) enfant

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

514 3rd Dutch idioms of the week: Rome

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4914841>

davidvdb 14 12 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 3 3 11

So... Today we won't do one idiom... but learn 3 idioms!

The word of the week is... Rome!

I can hear you: "Why Rome? Why not Amsterdam?" Dutch, as well as the other Germanic languages as English and German, is influenced by Latin, and Flanders and a part of the Netherlands were part of the Roman Empire! Examples of cities founded in the Roman time are Nijmegen (Ulpia Noviomagus Batavorum) and Tongeren (Atuatua Tungrorum).

So, now some Dutch!

<h1>Rome is niet in/op één dag gebouwd.</h1>

Rome hasn't been built in one day. Use this idiom to say to someone that he/she has to be patient.

Example:

Tom has got a video game for his birthday, but his father has install it for him.

Tom: Papa, ben je bijna klaar?

Toms vader: Heb geduld, Tom, je hebt het nog maar een seconde geleden gevraagd. Rome is ook niet op één dag gebouwd.

Tom: Dad, are you almost ready?

Tom's father: Be patient, Tom, you have asked it only a second ago. Rome hasn't been built in one day too.

<h1>Zo oud als de weg naar Rome/Zo oud als de straat</h1>
As old as the road to Rome/As old as the street

You can guess... No idea? It means very, very old.

Example:

Geeks among each other...

Felix: Heb je het al gehoord? Ze zullen Windows 10 lanceren!

Arjen: Dat nieuws is zo oud als de straat! Ik weet dat al weken!

Felix: Have you heard it already? They will launch Windows 10!

Arjen: That news is so old! I know it for weeks!

<h1>Er zijn vele wegen die naar Rome leiden.</h1>
There many roads that lead to Rome.

By many options you will arrive at the same point/situation.

Example:

Eva: Zou ik deze jurk dragen of die daar? Ik zou Louis graag willen tonen dat ik op hem verliefd ben, en ik moet er dan toch perfect uitzien.

Sara: Ze zijn beide echt heel mooi, maar jouw kleren zullen niet uitmaken. Ik ben zeker dat hij ook op jou is. Alle wegen zullen naar Rome leiden.

Eva: Should I wear this dress or that one there? I would like to show him this evening that I love him, and I have to look perfect then, right?

Sara: They are both really beautiful, but your clothes won't change anything. I'm sure he loves you too. All roads will lead to Rome.

That was it for this week, I hope you liked it :) [1] [2]

Give Lingot5
202 years ago

Leave a new comment
9 Comments

GeniusJack 25 25 20 16 14 14 13 13 11 10 9 9 8 6 2

Thank you so much for posting! When people complained about the Dutch course taking a while to get to beta, the contributors should have said: Rome is niet op één dag gebouwd. :D

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

jcarlosmjr 25 19 12 12 12 3
Bedankt nog een keer!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Susande 17 13 12 11 251

The ones davidvdb mentioned clearly are the common idioms. But I found another one with Rome (Google is your best friend). It's not common at all, so I wouldn't recommend using this one, unless you think impressing people with your Dutch knowlege is more important than people understanding you. :) But I think it's worth mentioning it, especially since it contains voetje voor voetje, which you can use for all situations where people walk very slowly (think queues/busy bars/elderly people not able to go any faster than snail's pace)

Voetje voor voetje komt de man te Rome

Feet in front of feet the man comes to Rome/reaches Rome. (I'm not too sure how to translate Voetje voor voetje, maybe small step by small step is more natural in English)

The meaning of this is: if you keep on putting effort in something, at some point you will reach your goal.

As mentioned, this definitely not a common one, I have a vague recollection of having heard it once, but I'm not sure, it could be more imagination than memory. :) Googling for "voetje voor voetje" and "Rome" will make you dig through dozens upon dozens of trip stories about tourists shuffling in queues in Rome before you find some reference to the idiom...

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

davidvdb 14 12 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 3 3 11

Again, great! Thank you for reading my post every week and adding your comments/related idioms :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

laragemell 9 8 8 6 6 4 2 2

Two of your proverbs exist in latin and in italian too (Roma non uno die aedificata est - Omnes viae Romam ducunt). It is interesting how proverbs are similar in many countries!

Bedankt voor je post :) Je verdient een lingot :)

P.s.: very nice dialogues :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SkillsInPills 7 5 2

Thanks for the idioms David :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CJTWhite 10 4 2

Thanks a lot!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

paul.vandi 11 8 6 4

Idioms help to make your speech more local less touristy Bedankt

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

supernova155 15 7 5 4 2

Thanks, really appreciate your posts! :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

515 Improving the Pronunciation Component

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/462063>

JSolders 11 2

Hello Duolingo,

My name is Joshua Solders, and I am a linguistics professor at a Canadian University. I was introduced to your website by a friend and was immediately excited. I want to congratulate you on a revolutionary concept: the merging of social media with language learning and website translation in order to make language education free and accessible and to make the vast work of translation feasible while preserving its quality. It is an idea that I am sure will have great success. The interface of this website is very user-friendly, and the language learning experience is great. I am currently using the site to help with my French (as my profile suggests).

There is one aspect of your language learning model, however, that I believe should and could be easily improved: pronunciation and mastering the sound system. As I have been working through the French modules, I have found myself again and again unsure of which vowel or consonant was being pronounced and having to look it up in an online dictionary. While the computerized voice is fairly high quality, it alone cannot replace the training garnered by listening to and getting the feedback of a native speaker.

I believe the ambiguity in pronunciation of certain words and the absence of native-speaker training could be alleviated by adding two things to your current system: 1) an initial lesson on the sound system. 2) an option to view the pronunciation of any word or phrase (transcribed using the international phonetic alphabet).

Concerning the first, adding an additional lesson (or maybe a whole new tab/section of the learner's profile) on the sound system and intonation of the language would be very beneficial to your users. An example of this might include an interactive diagram showing correspondences between the sounds of user's mother tongue and the sounds of their target language. Using face diagrams, the site could show how one physically pronounces the vowels and consonants of their own language and then compare this to the target language, especially focusing on sounds that do not occur in the learner's own language. You could also have "hearing practice", where a vowel or consonant is given in a monosyllabic word and the user must identify the correct vowel phoneme. I believe such an addition would be of great benefit for improving the quality of spoken second language acquisition (as opposed to just written language acquisition) for your product.

Concerning the second, the website could also teach relevant symbols from the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA) for the target language's consonant and vowels, and then an option to "show pronunciation" could be added to the regular phrases. Not only would this be useful to the user for understanding the difference between written and spoken language, but it would also be doing a great service to the online world in terms of the standardization of pronunciation keys. Most online dictionaries and encyclopedic websites have already begun integrating IPA, and language learning websites and programs should consider following suit.

I hope you have found these ideas helpful. Thank you for considering them and I wish you the best of luck with your enterprise.

Sincerely,

Joshua Smolders

Give Lingot
553 years ago

Leave a new comment
36 Comments

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 478

Thank you for this thoughtful suggestions. We are working on improving the pronunciation and I'll bring back these suggestions to team.

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2
Awesome! Thanks so much.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

somelauw 12 12 10 10 10 6 5 5 5 3 43
So has anything changed regarding this in the last 2 years?

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

.Ryuzaki. 6 6

I definitely think that your first suggestion of a little help on pronunciation would be helpful. The way that Duolingo works certainly pushes towards the student learning the correct pronunciation instinctively however, I have no doubt that for example Spanish pronunciation would have been daunting for me without having fairly extensive experience with pronunciation prior to Duolingo.

Regarding the second point. Perhaps the IPA symbols could be included for those such as yourself who know them and are comfortable reading them though I think I probably speak for the masses when I say that I really wouldn't want them to be a prominent part of the main Duolingo learning experience. Why? Firstly, I'm no stranger to the IPA symbols having studied them for my English Language course a while back, but since then I've managed to completely forget them and the concept of having to learn them is a formidable one. Second, I think it goes against the philosophy of Duolingo to not over complicate things as they might be in a textbook and I think it goes against the simplicity of the lessons as they are now. In a nutshell, an understanding of the IPA symbols is a very big and complicated ask of the casual language user - perhaps more a power user tool.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2

You make a good point about the IPA being foreign to people, but that is part of why I think it should be integrated: part of the process of globalization and multilingual integration on the internet must include a standardized education on pronunciation. Making IPA accessible the world!

Having said that, I agree that it should be an optional component... maybe a "show pronunciation" button?

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 3

Please don't take me as ignorant, because I can and do actually use the IPA, but I have to say this:

The IPA is already open to the world. The world just isn't that impressed :) . I would have hated, HATED it if I was forced to learn IPA in my school French classes - and I didn't have it easy, I'm English, my first ever school year was conducted entirely in Arabic! The IPA just seems purposefully ugly, talks circles trying to explain itself on paper, and doesn't leave you any better enlightened on pronunciation than if you had simply asked someone. Because of it's obsession with corrupted latin letter forms it ignorantly fritters away what would have been a perfect opportunity to teach mainstream audiences confident familiarity with other alphabets [GREEK, CYRILLIC, I am sure the word INTERNATIONAL was in there!], an oversight that can only be considered a crime of neglect. Despite its short-sighted intentions of being as 'familiar looking' as possible, it is so obsessively precise to be unreadable to the eye without training, that new users invariably will have to wander off on a whole new tangent learn it confidently, and most will find it massively redundant for their purposes. Worse still, the readily available learning materials for it are rubbish, to be frank, which leaves one simply guessing at the sounds half of the time; and if you are just guessing the sound from the look of the letters, congrats, you have just broken the primary purpose of the IPA! So you might just as well have spent the time learning about the particular writing system you were going to learn anyway... and funnily enough, being able to write in Hindi, Arabic, Korean etc is actually a fun skill to learn, worth taking a couple of hours out of your whole life to adopt, rather than waste it on trying to make sense of a scientific alphabet that can't escape the confines of The Dictionary [which has itself become pretty much archaic], and if more people would just do that, it would go a long way to 'demystifying' foreign writing systems in the public consciousness....

Have your ears fallen off yet :) ?

I understand its scientific use, but I wouldn't personally torture mainstream users with it. Purely for reasons of principle really - the I.P.A. could have done better, shame on them. I much prefer the idea of making them completely redundant with a more modern solution. Like say... a method of converting written words on a computer into crisp, audible natural language?

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

oskalingo 24 14 10 6 3
@ chilvence

I wonder if you understand the difference between transcribing things phonetically and phonemically? Transcribing things phonemically is all that is required for learning pronunciation of a foreign language and it is much simpler than a full phonetic transcription using the IPA.

Reading French transcribed phonemically using the IPA is really not that hard to learn.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 3

Maybe I just can't see the point because I can't put myself in other peoples shoes. I was inducted into french and arabic at a very young age, so perhaps I just can't see why anyone would really need the IPA. I just think is far more rewarding to study the language raw and tune your ears in yourself. Yes, it's far harder to make sense of French spelling than the IPA, but that just sounds like a good reason to need to pay extra attention to it to me. I like duolingo specifically because it says the words and doesn't make any effort to explain the discrepancy in spelling, because we all know that spelling never has or will make sense anyway :)

It's just my philosophy. I would also ban bicycle training wheels, if I had my own island. They only give the little nippers a false sense of confidence.... I learned by falling off and I liked it!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2

Did you happen to grow up in Morocco? French + Arabic immersion sounds like a North African childhood to me :)

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 3

Tunisie :) good guess though. Sadly, it didn't stick much after I left, I used to read write and talk and do everything in arabic when I was 6, yet the language I most comfortable talking with now is German, which I learnt when I was 25. Odd eh?

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2

Well, to each his own I guess.

Just to put in a word for IPA: it was created for scientific description and linguistic analysis, not for aesthetics or orthography. It has the advantage of being universal (phonetic) and not language specific (phonemic)... learning it teaches exactly the same type of abstraction needed to learn another language, because you finally are given a tool to step outside your own native intuition/bias. And as for it never escaping "the confines of the dictionary", you should know that of the 6900+ living languages in the world, most of which are not written down/have no writing system, many are only recorded with audio and IPA transcriptions.

But anyways, Im not here to argue... I just love IPA and think it should be a universal skill.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 3

Sorry, I wasn't really trying to start an argument, I just don't know how to hold back the sarcasm sometimes...it's all tongue in cheek.

Your use case of preserving languages is exactly the sort of reason why I said I can see the need for the IPA. It's very accurate and logical, and uniquely so to my knowledge, so it will probably preserve those languages long after we are all dead and our descendants in the far future are excavating our bones and naively imagining what our ancient traditions must have been based on the mountains of plastic Chinese nik-naks we are found among. I also think it is very important that it exists for people who are interested in languages, so that they can learn the diversity of the sounds of human speech if they want to, it is very good as the 'final word' when trying to master an elusive consonant. And I do think that it is very useful in the dictionary, if only because the dictionary doesn't talk.

The key point that I differ on is that I don't think it should be a prerequisite for anything whatsoever, because that would immediately create a horrible choke point that would exclude vast amounts of people. If you think it should be a universal skill, you should figure out how to get it into kindergartens all over the world rather than try and get adult students to use it, because for most people it is too late to care. If that were to happen, I'd be all for it, yay IPA, down with traditional orthography, vive la revolution!

At this particular point at present though, the only people who understand the IPA are teachers, professors, experienced students and other extraordinarily interested parties. To the rest of the world, it just looks like mad squiggles, and forcing any material to be dependant on it would be like kicking those people in the teeth because they weren't smart enough. Some people like alien writing systems and wouldn't see what the fuss is about. Other people find it an impenetrable barrier, and damned if they should be excluded on the basis of intellectual snobbery. For most people, it is best to just look at the traditional page one that has the alphabet all over again and describes the sounds that the letters now mean. Then you can go straight to learning to read your new language, without any b- ...roundabout intermediary distraction, which is all one really cares about.

Ideally, language teaching would be done without any reading and writing at all, it's a mouth and ears skill, not a hands and eyes one. I blame the Romans for all this mess personally. What have they ever done for us?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2 3

@chilvence:

I bet 90 per cent of Duolingo's German learners are utterly unaware of the following phenomena.

the < r > in "Realpolitik" is the same as the French [ʁ] and using the English [r] would be completely wrong

the last sound in "hier" [hi:ɐ̯] is a vowel

"zu" is pronounced [tsu:], not [zu:]

The IPA is an excellent tool to point out these things. It's best to teach these details as early as possible. Otherwise fossilisation will kick in and you're forever stuck with a heavy foreign accent.

If you don't want to bother with the IPA, you shouldn't have to, but I'm pretty sure there are lots of learners out there that would appreciate having an accurate phonetic/phonemic transcription.

7Give Lingot • 3 years ago

jesslc 10 5

"The key point that I differ on is that I don't think it should be a prerequisite for anything whatsoever, because that would immediately create a horrible choke point that would exclude vast amounts of people."

This.

I used the IPA throughout a university degree in linguistics. The IPA definitely has its place. But Duolingo is not that place.

Even as someone who knows the IPA, I'd prefer to learn sounds in a new language by listening to them over and over again rather than looking at a description of how my mouth moves to form that sound. Some of the Australian Aboriginal languages we studied had 3 different coronal plosives. Did knowing the exact tongue position for each one help me distinguish them when I heard them...? Not at all. The only way your ear gets better at picking up sounds that aren't in your native language is by repeated practice.

Hearing practice to help you with sounds that aren't in your native language would be useful that's for sure... but the IPA isn't necessary for that. Pushing people through learning and getting their head around a complex system when all they want to do is start learning a bit of German/French/whatever is only going to put them off... (and if this chart doesn't look complex to most people, I will eat my hat -

http://upload.wikimedia.org/wikipedia/commons/thumb/1/15/IPA\_chart\_2005.png/791px-IPA\_chart\_2005.png)

In general (but particularly on the internet) you only get a very short window to capture someone's attention. If you can't hook them into your idea/product in that time chances are you've lost them forever. Duolingo is clearly doing a good job of hooking people in already - by January of this year (roughly 7 months after launch) Duolingo had over 1 million active users and 100,000 daily users. Clearly they're doing something right...

(I don't know what the current stats are - all the stats I could find in my >2 min attempt at searching are for Jan or earlier)

3Give Lingot•3 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2 3

There's no need to know the full set of IPA symbols or even the names of the symbols. I really don't think this looks too difficult. http://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/Appendix:German\_pronunciation

Also, they could make each symbol clickable and play the sound.

3Give Lingot•3 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 3

@Christian, it's ironic that you pick German, because that is a prime example of a language that really doesn't need spelling reform. It is French and English that are the real troublemakers, because they both cling very strongly to archaic spelling. Without them, even just the concept of needing an auxiliary alphabet would seem a bit daft. Who would need a whole separate writing system just to unambiguously spell the pronunciation of words? Isn't that what your primary writing system is supposed to be for :o)?

My point still stands, you can devote the time learning the IPA symbols for the words, symbols that are useless in the 'wild' for actually reading German text, or you can just look at exactly the same table you have linked to but with the German latin alphabet variant instead of the IPA, and have something that is actually immediately useful. If you can't spare an hour to learn the basic orthography of a language, then why even study it?

What is the practical benefit that the IPA has to offer casual learners? How can you accurately convey the sounds of IPA to people with massively ranging dialects and accents? How can you be so convinced that the average person doesn't just find it maddeningly confusing, because they did not spend their life studying languages? Why be attached to the IPA, when the real prize to fight for would be an international spelling/alphabet reform [I vote hangul :p] ?

2Give Lingot•3 years ago

oskalingo 24 14 10 6 3

christian's point:

> Otherwise fossilisation will kick in and you're forever stuck with a heavy foreign accent.

is a very important one. Pronunciation mistakes made early on get locked in and become very hard to change later on. Particularly when you yourself remain oblivious to your pronunciation quirks but every native speaker can hear them.

Professor Smolders elsewhere on this page makes mention of the different 'u' sounds in French eg. between 'tu' and 'tout'. I myself never realised, or heard, this difference while doing high school French. It was only years later, while reading the wikipedia page on French phonology, that I learnt of the difference.

Finally, all this discussion of the merits of the IPA is becoming a bit of a derail. Using the IPA was only raised in Professor Smolders second suggestion. His first suggestion can be implemented along the lines he suggests without introducing or teaching IPA transcription for that particular language.

2Give Lingot•3 years ago

wataya 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 10 9 9 5 1168

@chilvence: the IPA is unambiguous. None of the spelling conventions currently in use is. True, the problem is a lot worse with English than with German, but it still remains an issue. We duolingo users probably won't bring about an international spelling reform, will we? So, why not stick to the IPA and use it? It's there, works fine and – I agree with christian – isn't as hard to handle as it may seem on a beginner's first glance.

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2

Well, this is a real debate now!

What I mean by IPA being a universal skill is that IPA should be used as a "central station" to which all orthographies are related, an "unambiguous standard" as others mentioned.

Also, like others have said, you don't have to memorize names and face diagrams, you just need to know the basics to get by. If you're only learning European languages, no need to get into ingressive, clicks, and lateral ejective affricates... just front rounded vowels and the occasional palatal fricative :)

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2

@chilvence... I totally agree with your last point about "picking it up by ear" if you never knew how it was spelled. That is a clearly superior way to learn language. However, it requires an immersive context, which not everyone has access to and which Duolingo can't provide. I would WAY rather learn languages that way and learn the orthography afterwards, so as not to construe the two.

However, the Duolingo model is based on a learn-through-orthography model (with interactive spoken language features as a supplement)... and while we're working with orthography we can use IPA... IMHO :)

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 3

This really must be where I am simply different to everyone else then. I never consciously studied German orthography, and I never trust spelling in general, I just picked it up by ear. To me, the 'french' R, the tsu vs zu, and the sound of final r's all stick out like they have bright orange flashing lights all over them. To my mind the only thing that could possibly cause any confusion is trying to learn from a book on your own, guessing the pronunciation from the spelling, which really does seem to me a completely daft thing to do in this day and age, when even youtube is inundated with learning language stuff. If you didn't know it was spelled 'zu', how would you miss the sound? It doesn't sound anything like 'zoo'

The french R is a case all on it's own, its one of a few consonants that need special explanation, but that's far more effectively done at the beginning. Pragmatically, even if you get it wrong, its not going to stop anyone understanding you. Maybe if you have ever mocked peoples English accents, you might have a different point of view...

I still don't see why the IPA is needed to point any of this out. It's still a niche tool, if you know it great, if you don't know it, it sends a big flashing warning of 'Abandon hope, all ye who enter here'. No one is paying attention to my only solid objection, the fact that if it isn't already universally known, it's not Duolingo's responsibility to promote it. They may or may not choose to use it, that doesn't really bother me either way, I just want to make my point :)

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2 3
I don't think IPA is complicated at all.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jesslc 10 5
I agree with .Ryuzaki.

An early lesson on pronunciation is definitely a great idea. Explaining the difference between this language's sounds and the sounds in your native language, audio so that you can hear what they mean, etc...

Adding in IPA symbols is in my opinion, unnecessary and overly complicating things. One of the great benefits of Duolingo is its simplicity. There's no need to learn anything to get you started - you can just jump in and get going. If you don't understand something, you can always ask the discussion forums - for example one question I answered recently was "what does Duolingo mean when it says you used the direct 'il' instead of the indirect 'un'?" I think the simplicity of Duolingo is a great part of its appeal.

I can't speak for the French audio, but having a decent background in Italian (3 years of fairly intense Italian study, about 8 years ago) - I can say I haven't found many pronunciation errors in the Italian audio in the lessons I've done so far. Many people have complained about the Italian audio - and while I've noticed that the audio isn't the best - I'd say 90% of the time the audio pronounces the sentence the way I'd expect it to be pronounced (based on my previous study). I've been telling people to just accept that training your ear is an important part of learning a new language - and trust that Duolingo is probably right. Particularly at the lower levels, which have been checked much more often than the higher levels. (And if it's wrong, I report it) ps. I have a degree in linguistics by the way - and I still think that the IPA would only be of benefit to a very small minority of learners. But a lesson of pronunciation, near the start and easy to refer back to - definitely a great idea.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mtc6474 25 20 11 4 1349

I love both of these suggestions. The benefits of the first are obvious. The second, about learning the IPA is just brilliant. Knowing the IPA would make it easier for us to learn new words outside of Duolingo. In addition, if we try to learn other languages it will make the pronunciation a little easier. I recognize that some may not want these components so make them voluntary. A website from University of Iowa gives some very useful information about how some sounds are made.
<http://www.uiowa.edu/~acadtech/phonetics/#>

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Salxandra 23 10 2

I'm going to attempt to wade into this discussion. As an individual who has poor auditory discrimination skills, I was thrilled when my college linguistics class introduced IPA. Suddenly, all of the English pronunciation complexity could be detailed into tongue position, voicing, etc. So, IPA has a value, and it's not just esoteric.

There are at least two populations that would want additional content on pronunciation in Duolingo: non-auditory learners and those who don't want to have a heavy foreign accent.

Most Duolingo users, I expect, don't care about phonics.

So, of course, phonics shouldn't be a mandatory portion of Duolingo, but I will be thrilled when its added.

PS Adding native speakers to the auditory portion of Duolingo will be great, but please always keep the computer synthesized voice. Its lack of variability is great for me and I'm sure for others, too.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

acspecht 21 11 5 60
[deleted]

2Give Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2

Its not so much about learning a "correct" set of pronunciations... as a linguist I would be the first to shoot down the idea that such a thing even exists... rather it should serve as a guideline to hearing and producing contrasts in language where you might not hear one before. For example, in learning French many English speakers simply ignore the distinction between the "u" sounds in "tu" and "tout" or "vous" and "vu".

IPA is pretty fluid anyways, it can be specific enough to make dialectic distinctions and general enough to cover most standard varieties. I would, naturally, advocate for the simpler version... K.I.S.S., am I right?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mcgurker 10 7
You rock, this idea rocks, go linguistics!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JSmolders 11 2
Im flattered.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JoeOcher 25 9 3 34

dictionary.com has come up with a phonetic non-IPA way of showing pronunciation, it's easy to read and almost flawless http://dictionary.reference.com/help/luna/Spell\_pron\_key.html (I've seen other phonetic spellings but they're often not that good)

If duolingo altered this system to work with foreign languages it could work really well, a button could be offered to switch to IPA spelling if needed

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Lenguastica 12 7 7

I don't think this system can work, even altered. Non-English speakers don't pronounce those letters/sounds like native English speakers, it would not work for anyone that does not speak English at an advanced level. And even if you speak it, how do you implement the sounds of the foreign languages? The ones given there are obviously for speakers of English/for the English language (no one that speaks French would say [bawn] for 'bon'). Since the goal of a large amount of people is to learn a language that is not English, this system is pretty useless for the purposes of duolingo in my opinion.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JoeOcher 25 9 3 34

okay bad example of what I was trying to say here's a better one that shows english pronunciation for german words: http://german.about.com/library/anfang/blanfang\_abc2.htm

I know it has flaws, for sounds that aren't present in the learners native language it's an approximation at best, but I found this sort of thing quite useful as a beginner, and it is the only way I can think of showing pronunciation without IPA (which I wouldn't want to learn)

e.g. the German word 'Auge' sounds just like 'ow-guh' in English so the system works fine, for 'ich' the closest English spelling is 'ik' but it's not quite right the 'ch' sound is more like that in 'loch'. If duolingo wrote the words that work fine in black, and the words that are approximations in grey (perhaps with a link to explanations like the loch one I gave) this would help

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

elucify 7 5 2

Why not allow native speakers to offer pronunciations? Forvo already does it.
<http://www.forvo.com/word/ma%C3%A7%C3%A3/#pt>

Maybe even partner with them.

Or maybe a Chrome plugin to do it on the client side, hmm... The Duolingo markup isn't that messy (though it has "spanitis".)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

toledojohn 8

I agree that pronunciation on this site is a problem. I am a broken-German speaker and learner with a native-born wife and mother-in-law living in my house. The lady in the exercises speaks a dialect that is sometimes confusing. When I hear her say "er" (which I am used to hearing as in English "air"), it sounds like "ihr" to me. As a matter of fact, when she says "er" or "ihr", they are almost indistinguishable to me. Germany has a lot of dialects and students need to be exposed to them, for sure. But some guidance on a particular speakers pronunciation and dialect would help a lot. Thank you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

poppysmom 7

I'm not worried about having phonetic spelling but I would like a clearer speaker and speaker system. There are some words I get wrong simply because I cannot understand what she is saying. I had trouble this morning with j'aime. Sounds simple no? But it sounded as though she was saying jeune. Because that didn't make sense in the context I eventually gave up and passed. Other than that I am loving the whole concept. Thanks, much appreciated.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

somelauw 12 12 10 10 10 6 5 5 5 3 43

If improving pronunciation is the goal, I think it would be best to only use human voices and drop the computer voices. Ideally both a male and a female human voice.

I would welcome any IPA transcription, though, but you'll have to deal with different pronunciations in different accents.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

516 How can I use the Cyrillic alphabet while following the Russian Duolingo course?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12279690>

gmaf12 14 7 7 5 2

Give Lingot

31 year ago

Leave a new comment

3 Comments

A_User 23 11 9 7 7 7 6 4 3 3 2 2 2 2

There's a switch in the upper left corner of the lesson, next to the Tips & Notes button. It says Aa on English and Яя on Cyrillic. If you click that, it will change. :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gmaf12 14 7 7 5 2

Thank you A_User, I will try it

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

A_User 23 11 9 7 7 7 6 4 3 3 2 2 2 2

You're welcome!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

517 The Duolingo English Test

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/sections/200897180-The-Duolingo-English-Test>

What is the Duolingo English Test?

Duolingo English Test FAQ

How is the Duolingo English Test different from Duolingo's other tests and quizzes?

About the Duolingo English Test Scores

518 Lingots for reports

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3368473>

revdolphin 25 17 10 6 18

My new favorite game: trying to come up with accurate translations that the Vietnamese team hasn't thought of yet. So far they've accepted 39 [now 89] of my reports. To help improve this beta course, I'd like to offer lingots to anybody who gets reports accepted.

Until the end of June (or until the Vietnamese team tells me they're overwhelmed with too many reports), I will give one lingot to every accepted report shared on this thread. Just copy and paste the sentence from the e-mail notification of your acceptance like this (special formatting not required):

Bạn đã đề nghị "He talks." là phần dịch cho "Anh ấy nói." Chúng tôi chấp nhận phần dịch này. :)

It's okay to get creative, but don't change the meaning of the sentence. Have fun!

Give Lingot2

52 years ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

39? Wow that's impressive. My email is now flooded with duolingo feedback emails

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Huysan 13 11

I must have got more than 50 already. Embarrassingly some are my own translations .

0ReplyGive Lingot50•2 years ago

pmyt 25 25 22 9 6 5 269

Well up until now they've accepted 12 [now 18] of my suggestions :)

1ReplyGive Lingot18•2 years ago

watashiwa1293 11 9 8 8 5

I go back and forth between the English for Chinese speakers and the English for Vietnamese speakers. So I get these types of e-mails:

您建议了“Một em trai và một em gái”作为“A boy and a girl”的翻译已被接受。：)

Or....

Bạn đã đề nghị "Cô ấy là một phụ nữ" là phần dịch cho "She is a woman." Chúng tôi chấp nhận phần dịch này. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

arvin.k 19 12 12 10 9 7 5 2

well I felt good enough when some of my reports were accepted; this was better than any lingot potion. The team did a good job!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

Thanks for ur kind words, we are still trying the best to get the course out of beta :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Bi1G 24

Wow! That is so impressive. I never do that! German course maybe has no mistake[Vietnamese are in trouble.]

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

Câu của bạn là ngộ nhận rồi nhé, khóa học nào ở đây cũng có lỗi cả, khóa German cũng đang có cả ngàn report chờ duyệt kìa. Tiếng Việt là một ngôn ngữ khá linh hoạt nên gây khó khăn khi áp dụng mô hình dạy đó cho tiếng của nước mình

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vietan123 5

I must have got more than 50 already. Embarrassingly some are my own translations .

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

519 Announcing the release of Duolingo Dark Theme version 2

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1853274>

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Turn off the lights and install a dark theme for Duolingo. This is a complete rewrite of Duolingo Dark to match Duolingo's new look and feel.

If you have been using the old version of Duolingo Dark with Stylish for Firefox or Stylish for Chrome then you can simply update to get the new style.

Download link: Duolingo Dark 2 and Duolingo Dark 2 (customizable). Complete installation instruction below.

You can follow this discussion page for update notification.

Currently there is no support for the Incubator.

Feedbacks are welcome!

May be useful for:

Reducing eye strain when studying in a dark room
Lovers of the dark color schemes
Certain display technology uses less power with dark screen
Installation instruction:

Install Stylish for Firefox or Stylish for Chrome. Stylish is a Firefox/Chrome addon that lets you customize the look and feel of any websites by writing or installing a user style
Go to Duolingo Dark 2 and Duolingo Dark 2 (customizable) and click "Install with Stylish"
To temporarily disable the user style:

In Firefox, if you want to switch styles frequently, make sure the "Addon bar" is enabled (View > Toolbars > Addon Bar), now the Stylish button should be displayed in the Addon bar (usually bottom left, but like everything else in Firefox this can be customized). Alternatively, you can go to Tools > Addons > User Styles. You can enable, disable, edit, update, set automatic update, or delete individual user styles here.

In Chrome, the Stylish button is to the right of the address bar. Alternatively, you can manage your user styles by going to Menu (the three horizontal lines) > Tools > Extensions > Options under the Stylish entry. You can enable, disable, edit, update, or delete individual user styles in here.

Hacking and customization:

Get the source code from Github. Suggestions, bug fixes, and forks are welcome!

A small teaser:

Duolingo Dark

Give Lingot165
1543 years ago

Leave a new comment
103 Comments

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Thanks! I just installed it, and it looks great. I find dark themes easier on the eyes so I'm grateful for this.

Another advantage for those of us who study late in the evening: using a bright computer screen shortly before going to bed can cause insomnia, and reducing the brightness can help to avoid this. See <http://www.webmd.com/sleep-disorders/news/20030620/nighttime-computer-users-may-lose-sleep>

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SyxHyTex 19

Here's a software solution for your bedtime computer screen problem: <http://justgetflux.com/>

30ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

raans 25 20 19 16 14 13 12 8 1252

I can really recommend this. I'm using it for several months now.

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Samsta 17 16 12

Just downloaded it. Seems interesting.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FrenchAddict7 22

Sadly, I can't download it because I have a chromebook. But for those with chromebooks and other devices that can't run f.lux there is an app on the chromestore called g.lux

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Kalquimarke 12 8 8

Cool! Thank's for helping night readers!

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NicolletAve 16 11 9 7 6

I just installed it and I really like it. Thanks!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FrenchAddict7 22

It is beautiful and great! Last night, I was up until about 11:30 p.m. practicing on Duolingo, and I couldn't go to sleep afterwards. This theme is easier on the eyes, and, like pont said, it will not lead to sleep disorders like bright screens. Thanks so much!!!

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Andrealphus 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 4 4 4 4 4 3 3 3

Duo just got a lot sexier!

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Secret_Dartmoore 9

OKAY... Tone it down.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Woo O.O Very handsome. Once I try it out though, how do I get back to DL's official version?

11ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Seth_H 12 8 8 2

Are you on Chrome? If so, on the top-left corner of your browser window, click on the stylish extension icon, and then under the heading Duolingo Dark 2 click right under it where it says "disable". Alternatively you click the little button next to your web address bar that says when you mouse over it "Customize and control Google Chrome", hover over tools, and then click on extensions. From there you can click in the little check box next to stylish that says Enabled, and that will disable stylish and the Duolingo Dark Skin 2 (along with in other skins you have installed under stylish).

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
[deleted]

Give Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Thanks Seth_H!

Wow, this add-on is kinda tripping out my eyes. The white text on black is actually a little painful for me. The look is handsome. I'll keep it for a while to see if I can adjust to it.

Btw lieryan, have you considered applying to work with Duolingo? There is a jobs link at the bottom of this page. They are currently hiring for several different positions and they also have one internship. You should check those out. ^_^

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Update: I'm starting to adjust and I like it! :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3
Good question, I've added the answer to your question to the original post.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 13
I actually love this screen. I normally do Duolingo late at night so watching a bunch of bright screens at that time isn't the best. This is a very sleek version of the site. I think I'm gonna use this from now on.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

endios 21 15 14 6
Really cool. Shame we don't have one for Incubator, or - for that matter - course editors. Some contributors spend hours there.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

I would have made it work in the Incubator if I were a course editor, unfortunately I am not a course contributor at the moment.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

matson 16 12 9 9 4 2 2 2 2 120

obviously, there is a need for a different Duo theme. Can the Duo developers just provide a link to "click here for our dark CSS"? Seems easy, since you can look at the CSS code.

5ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

Andro0 21 11 8 7

wow.. i am now a proud user of this. thanks!!

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SuperSwipe 22 21 16 13 11 10 9 5 5 4 2

I was just thinking that the new duolingo deseign was waay to white and bright for me. Thanks!

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Godoflais 16 3

I was practicing German on my iPhone last night, and when i got to the 3rd lesson my eyes began to burn, I had to rest for like two minutes with eyes closed. I consider this type of efforts are important to keep learning no matter the place or time. Thx so much for your contribution and let's hope this is considered for implementation on all the versions.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Hi all, Duolingo Dark 2 (Customizable) has been released and Duolingo Dark 2 has been updated with various fixes. If you use Stylish for Firefox or Chrome, you can go to the style settings page to Check for update; if you want to switch to the customizable version, you should disable the regular version.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Hi all, there is a new major release of Duolingo Dark 2 just released to userstyles.org. This update comes with style for words list page, front login page, and many other minor fixes on other pages.

If you are updating, just use the usual stylish's check update instruction for each browser.

3ReplyGive Lingot5•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hi lieryan, thanks for the update! The DuoDark scripts are very appreciated by those of us with sensitive eyes! (I can't wait to have my own compy back so I can use it again. right now I am staring at a wall of blinding white with squiggly black font peeking out of it xP)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Hi all! Duolingo Dark 2 is now on Github. Suggestions, bug fixes, and forks are welcome!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rocko2012 25 7 3 1461

I like it. The only thing I can see I would like to customize and I'm not sure if it would even be possible in the customizable version is the progress bar during practice. It starts out as a big white block. I think it could just be blacked out and then just go green as you progress.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

The customizable version will be coming in probably next week. However I've now turned the progress bar to dark. If you check for update now you will get the dark progress bar (as well as various other tweaks I've made in the last hour).

5ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

rocko2012 25 7 3 1461

Sweet thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Jsprwstr 25 24 20 19 17 16 11 9 6 6 4 4 3 104

Wow, this is gorgeous.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

DutchDuoL 23 11 10 10 2

Thanks a lot for this! It looks relatively ok still but mostly it's awesome for nighttime learning. Keep up the good work! You just solved a problem I didn't know there was a solution for :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lamyrtilleverte 10 7 6 5 4 3

This looks great! Danke schön!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Heather_Watkins 16 13 13 9 9 9 1

Thank you so, so much. All that bright white and pale grey was really hurting my eyes. I tried to use Windows XP's high contrast settings, but that made all the icons invisible. This is a huge relief.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Noe010101 25 16 12 12 10

I have been waiting for this since the site update :) Now I will return to my daily routine;)

The style is excellent (though I will customize it when possible later on, maybe) , I'm very grateful, I appreciate this very much:) Have some lingots from me:)

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Harley.J.Quin 23 11 2 1108

Love this, and love that I am in the example screenshot.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

buunny 13 10 9 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 4 3 3

Thanks. I don't usually go on the computer in the dark, but I have very sensitive eyes and am prone to migraines and bright backgrounds don't always help those things.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Topolski 19 8

I love it, it makes Duolingo much easier, especially along with Flux. However, I have one complaint, and that's it: the amount of upvotes you have in Immersion is completely invisible (it's black text against a black background, so you have to highlight it with your cursor). See:

<http://posting.org/image/6ek29srsr/b586d7de/> and

<http://posting.org/image/x7yyyp26b/f237b80c/>

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Khaur 15 13 11 9 4 3

Still in Immersion, the translation level of the last editor is black on black as well.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

@Topolski, @Khaur: Thanks for the reports; these have now been fixed, you can check for update to obtain the fix. Please do report any issues you notice.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Khaur 15 13 11 9 4 3

The advice that pops-up when you make a mistake that is recognized by the system is sometimes over what you've written. With the default theme it's possible to see through it, but not with the dark theme.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

@Khaur: can you post a screenshot of which part you're referring to?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Khaur 15 13 11 9 4 3

This got broken again by an update it would seem: Imgur

Also the mouseovers in the Words tab are hard to read.

Lastly code formatting is giving me trouble here — light grey on yellow background, but not everywhere.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Thanks for the feedback! These issues is now fixed in today's update.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jurekcy1 25 13

This is great. A lot easier to read

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ZeTook 15 15 15 14 14 10 2

Oh I love it! Thank you!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Eriklover555 18

There is now a white band surrounding the bonus skill level of the tree ^^ May need to update the CSS to account for it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

The white band is now fixed. The plus icon has gone obscured by the dark background though, will fix that tomorrow (it's 3am here now).

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Eriklover555 18

Thank you very much!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

4of92000 22 4 3

I know it's old, but..

Could you do a 2.1 to fix the new front page?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Today's update now has a black front page.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jalnt 13 8 5 3 2

Das ist genial. Danke!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sssheridan 10 9
When installing:

Add "Stylish"? It can: Access your data on all websites Access your tabs and browsing activity

Nooo thanks. I understand that it's probably safe, but I'm just not going to risk it. There's no way to just have an option on the website? Seems simple enough.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

If you're not comfortable with installing the Stylish addon, you can do this entirely with standard browser feature by modifying userContent.css in Firefox.

Stylish only makes creating, installing, and updating user stylesheet much easier and provides integration with userstyles.org website.

3ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

I'd like to suggest that you add the class ".bg-white" to the list that gets "background-color: #000000;". It feels incomplete otherwise.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Zyberg 17

I love this! However, it's not quite working for me and I can't find where the problem lies... I am using firefox and the box with the couch isn't becoming black! It stays white. Surely, it's not a huge problem, but doesn't make me want to use black theme all that much... Will try to inspect this error myself, however, a help from you would be great! (Here's what I see:
<http://i65.tinypic.com/ao6fcx.png>)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

On line 37 you will see ".lingot-bill {}". Change this to ".lingot-bill, .bg-white {}".

The box should now be black.

I assume that you have figured out how to edit the code. If not I can type up some instructions for that. I am also assuming that you have not altered any of the code. If you have, then the line number may be different to 37.

2ReplyGive Lingot5•1 year ago

Zyberg 17

Thank you very much! It worked out!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JosephineDaniels 18 17 89
This is rather excellent, thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SongbirdSandra 18
This is awesome ! Merci mon ami. Lingots pour toi ! :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Eriklover555 18
¡Muchas gracias, mi amigo! I really like the change, it fits the rest of my laptop's aesthetics, now.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Arya.Stark 16
Does it work at all for phones?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3
As long as the browser supports Stylish, then it should work. There is Stylish for Firefox Mobile for Android and for the Dolphin browser.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

EugeniaAT 14 11 11 5 3
I love it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jkazor 16
Before the recent "upgrade" made Duolingo so difficult to read, I used to use it on my iPad. Is, or will this new color scheme work with the iPad/iPhone apps?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3
The theme would not work on the mobile app. The stylesheet itself would have worked for the website when opened in a mobile browser, but doing applying a user style in Mobile Safari is a bit tricky.

The Stylish addon is fully supported in Firefox Mobile for Android, and Duolingo Dark 2 works very well there. It does not work on the native app.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Tenou_Haruka 13
[deleted]

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

Tenou_Haruka 13

Please disregard my last post. I do not need troubleshooting assistance. I uninstalled and reinstalled everything a second time. That was the fix!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Hvalfisk 10 9 6 4 3 3 3 2

Could you make a darkgrey version too?

Like this <https://i.imgur.com/BPIICKG.png>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

The customizable version on userstyles.org allows you to easily change the colors of the backgrounds. In particular, these two settings will be of interest to you:

Page Background Color

Content Background Color

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hi Lieryan, I hope you don't mind, but I added a link to this discussion to the Duolingo wiki (unofficial) http://duolingo.wikia.com/wiki/Accessibility\_Options#Alternative\_color\_scheme

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

That's awesome, thank you for including it in the Wikia. Would you mind if I update the gallery screenshot, specifically the immersion page screenshot? I have released an update just now that would fix the styling of the immersion header that looks to be incorrectly styled in the screenshot (as well as a few other fixes).

EDIT: ok, that didn't go very well; I tried changing the screenshot but that causes the gallery slider to go missing. I had reverted the edit to the good revision for now.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@lieryan, I could give it a shot if you'd like to link me to the image.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Thanks, can you try with this one <http://i.imgur.com/DGNWjIH.png>?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@lieryan, I updated the pic yesterday. Can you see if the one I put in there will work? It has the most updated look and a picture of the "Immersion" tab selected.

http://duolingo.wikia.com/wiki/Accessibility\_Options

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

Hmm, that's odd, that isn't the latest version. The latest version that is in userstyles.org should have a black header in immersion. Did you update the style yesterday? If not, don't worry about it then, it's not really a big issue. Thanks for working on the Wikia.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@lieryan, I had just updated the pic.

However, I just went back to double check today. Here is inside of a specific article:

<http://i.imgur.com/L1ikeSX.png>

Here is inside of Immersion main menus: <http://i.imgur.com/fP62otQ.png>

Looks like my script was lagging for some reason. I'll go make a new update to the wiki. It's no problem at all. ^_^

UPDATE: Image replaced with latest update. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SoroushInChina 17 15 9 5 34

Hello, is there a way to change the top banner colour from blue to black as well? You know, where it says Duolingo, home , activity, discussion... username .. etc.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

4of92000 22 4 3

Could you remove the redundant review button after the end of practice? Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kebabkerry 10 6 6 5 2 2

This is brilliant. Thank you :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JacobVA 13

That app is awesome thanks

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

angel.lorenzo 25 25 25 756

Excuse me. Why is necessary to download both things: Duolingo Dark 2 and Duolingo Dark 2 (customizable)? What's the purpose?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

It is not necessary to install both. In fact you probably wouldn't want to. The "customizable" one is just more easily customizable than the one without "customizable".

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

angel.lorenzo 25 25 25 756

Ok. Thanks a lot for your response.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Knoxienne 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 18 17 17 17 16 15 15 13 12 10 1280

Wow, this looks neat... I may just do it. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aryabferduzi 21 21 20 18 17 17 16 16 15 14 13 455

I think we should be able to buy fancy themes (like floral theme, or rainy, park, forest etc.; or maybe an endorsed one like Disney theme, Spongebob, Marvel) with lingots. Who's with me? :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tweetypie67 19 106

One question, this won't mess with other websites right? And it doesn't cause viruses or cookies right?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lieryan 25 8 4 3

No, it would not mess with other websites. A Stylish user style is applied only on the domain name specified in the user style. In the case of Duolingo Dark 2 the domain name must match www.duolingo.com.

A Stylish userstyle is a CSS file. A CSS file is not an executable file. A CSS file can load external images from another domain and that domain may set cookies; currently Duolingo Dark 2 does not use any images, however this might change in the future as some of Duolingo's icons does not look best with a dark color scheme. You can check out the source code of a user style before installing by clicking on the "Show CSS" link on userstyles.org.

Stylish for Firefox and Stylish for Chrome are popular open source browser addons written by Jason Barnabe; userstyles.org is the accompaniment website for the addon and is the primary distribution channel for Stylish user styles. Their source code can be found on Github. A browser addon contains executable script and may create security holes. I do not write Stylish, so I would not comment on the security aspect of installing the addon. You will have to evaluate the security impact of installing Stylish by yourself.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Levi 25 1165

@tweety67 : This is specifically for DL. No viruses or other interference, of course - don't worry.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Repelsteeltje 25 25 25 25 23 22 22 21 20 20 13 10 10 7 7 7 5 5 5 2 131

You get the same affect with the twilight app.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CalebHu 15 3 2 1

PS it doesnt work on the progress bar anymore. Fix?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

Can you take a screenshot of the problem?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dilaraa41 3

neden İngilizce acaba?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gesteur 10 9 8 8 7 6 5 2 2

Can it be use with the "tampermonkey" addon that add the language's flag?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

Yes.

If you encounter any issues then post a screenshot here and we shall fix it for you.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gesteur 10 9 8 8 7 6 5 2 2

Thanks, but what I have to do to it works?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

1) Go here and "Add to Chrome".

2) Go here and "Install with Stylish".

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gesteur 10 9 8 8 7 6 5 2 2

I know this, I want to make it work in the same time that Tampermonkey, to have dark theme and the land flag behind

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

EDIT: For anyone else wanting to do this, see the other comment for a better solution.

I'm not super familiar with that extension but try deleting

```
/* disable background image / body { background: #161616 / GRP: grpb1 REP: #161616 */
!important; /* #e9e9e9 */ }
```

from lines 2 to 5.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Jamthom8 17 10 9 8 8 7 2 2

So I have just installed the userscript you are talking about to check it out and I think I have a better solution. Replace body { background: #161616 /* GRP: grpb1 REP: #161616 / !important; / #e9e9e9 */ }

```
```

with

```
`body { background: #161616; }
```

```
.nav-footer li a { color: white !important; }`
```

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

gesteur 10 9 8 8 7 6 5 2 2

Just P.E.R.F.E.C.T Thanks a lot !

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

King-Sun 16 7 2 2 2 2 2

wow

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

WretchedMind 19 10 10 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 108

After couple of minutes, my eyes were hurting a lot. I am looking forward to see an eye friendly theme

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

520 "The call is local."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2175698>

Translation: A chamada é local.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

18 Comments

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1098

Acho que 'chamada' = 'call' e 'chamado' = 'called'. Mas sou inglês e não falo sua língua bem. I am sure an expert will give us the correct answer here. Bons estudos!

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2

Hello Lahure, it is a bit complicate. "the call" can be "o(a) chamado(a)", called, I assume, working as adjective is "chamado(a)".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1098

Com certeza! Chamar - to call. Obrigadinho pelo seu ajuda aqui!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cezarcanario 25 25 25 11 8 356

A palavra "chamada", na tradução, é sinônima de "ligação" (feminino, portanto "a ligação", a chamada")

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1098

Sim - eu concordo. Fazer uma ligação para alguém - To call someone (no telefone).

Não consigo completar a ligação - I cannot (can't) complete the call, ou, cannot (can't) get through (para eles no telefone).

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rjdagner 10 8

Lahure, he/she called = ele/ela chamou ou chamava. This is the Simple Past in English and is used for two forms of Past in Portuguese: Pretérito Perfeito and Pretérito Imperfeito. However, we have another form of Past: the Particípio Passado. It is used within another verb, an auxiliary one. So "he was called by the principal" turns into "ele foi CHAMADO pelo diretor".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rjdagner 10 8

With another verb... I see - eu vejo I saw - eu vi/via I have been seen - eu fui visto

I call - eu chamo I called - eu chamei/chamava I have been called - eu fui chamado

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1098

Obrigado pelo comentário! Eu concordo aqui, sem dúvida. Minha primeira resposta foi apresentado há quase um ano - acho que meu nível era 7.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

rjdagner 10 8

But call can be used as a substantive

The call - ligação/chamado/chamada (all synonyms)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Siro.rreis1994 9

Você de novo! Estou admirado com a sua cordialidade!

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

rafael.tristao 11

o chamado é local ??

não tem contexto explícito na frase e deveria ser aceito.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ferrobattuto 25 22 17 6 5 3

Olá Rafael, Acho que o contexto está na palavra 'local'. 'Local' disse-nos que é chamada telefônica, outro exemplo seria, 'the call is long distance'. Espero ter ajudado.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Siro.rreis1994 9

Jornada do Herói.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Pilvas 24 12 11 27

The call PODE ser traduzido como "a chamada" ou "o chamado"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Leopoldo.fc 12 2

Rafael.tristao, nesse contexto: "chamada local = ligação local"

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lourilucio 17 11

O áudio está péssimo...

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

kkitty 16

Que audio ruim

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

521 The Duolingo Android app is here!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/442441>

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 478

The wait was long, but the Duolingo Android app is now available on Google Play:

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.duolingo>

As is the Duolingo way, the app is completely free, with no ads, hidden fees, or paid "premium" content.

Instead of simply porting our iPhone app, we worked hard to make a truly native Android experience -- it's fast, smooth and feels like Android.

Over the next few weeks, we'll be adding many new exciting features such as an offline mode, speaking exercises, and availability on tablets, so stay tuned!

Give Lingot

1813 years ago

Leave a new comment

100 Comments

Alexemlia

I APOLOGIZE FOR THE LENGTH OF THIS POST IN ADVANCE, ORIGINALLY I WROTE HERE THAT I'D TRY AND KEEP THIS AS CONCISE AS POSSIBLE, BUT I FAILED MISERABLY, SO.. I'LL JUST SAY I'M SORRY AND I REALLY HOPE YOU'LL BE ABLE TO TAKE SOMETHING OUT OF THIS.

I'm learning German, so I'll make reference to German throughout this post, but I think the ideas should translate to the other languages as well. I'd also like to add that I love the app and love Duolingo, and hope that my opinions will serve as a contribution and sign of my gratitude for all the work you've put into the platform.

MY THOUGHTS AT FIRST GLANCE:

The app feels "easier" than the website. I'm still sure if I mean that in a good way or a bad way, but I'm completing lessons in ~5 minutes on the app, compared to ~10 minutes on the website, provided I'm focusing on duolingo. I plan on using the android app exclusively for 2-3 more days, then going back to the website and seeing if I'm learning faster, or if the app is too easy. I'll post my results when I've done this.

THOUGHTS ON THE TILE SYSTEM:

I believe these are the culprit for the app feeling easier than the website. I feel like they COULD be invaluable for learning proper grammar, but inefficient for learning new words. I think having to type the definition/word out helps it "stick".

SUGGESTED CHANGES TO TILE SYSTEM:

First, for short sentences 3 word sentences, several times I've gotten 4 tiles to choose from. Those problems are nearly impossible to get wrong.

Here is a crude breakdown of a tile set I received and tiles that I feel like I should have received.

```
<pre>Translate to German - "The animal is tall." </pre>
```

Of the tiles presented to me, "Das" and "Tier" are the only capitalized options, which makes it an obvious giveaway. The rest of the tiles were mostly just random other words (many of them from previous lessons that I haven't seen since). I think a better way to handle the tiles, would be instead of focusing the exercise on picking the right words, the focus should be on picking the right form of the word for grammar practice. I think it would be much more challenging (and educational) if I had been presented tiles with the words below.

```
<pre>"Das", "Die", "Der", "Sie", "Es", "Ein", "Eine", "Hoch", "Haus", "ist", "isst", "bist", "Tier", "Tiere" </pre>
```

BUGS IN THE APP ITSELF:

```
<pre>My device : Nexus 4 </pre>
```

Battery Drain - The app seems to drain battery quickly, much quicker than when doing something like reading email/RSS feeds (a little less than what I'd expect), probably comparable drain to playing some physics based 2D games (much more than what I'd expect). I'll try and get some more detailed information later.

Connection issues - This might be related to the battery drain. I'd say 20-30% of the submits fail due to "connection issues". This occurs on both WiFi (even when right next to router), and mobile data (even with strong 4G signal), so I'm inclined to believe it's an issue with the app itself.

IDEAS FOR APP:

Custom Keyboard - While it may be inconvenient when starting and closing the app, I feel like many people would benefit from a keyboard being bundled with the app (see the app "Terminal IDE" for an example of this being done). I use Swiftkeys and it's extremely easy to use, and works quite well with the app. The only downside is that it shows me the correct spelling, and sometimes predicts what the next word will be. I could easily turn it off and it would be perfect, but unless there is a decent free multilingual keyboard available, bundling a keyboard would make things simple and fair for everyone (those who haven't/won't buy SwiftKeys).

Voice Recognition - I see it's on your to-do list, I just wanted to express desire for this feature. Since I don't have a microphone for my desktop, this feature is what I was looking forward to most in the android app.

Tap word and listen - I think it'd be nice to be able to tap a specific word you'd like to hear, in addition to playing the entire sentence.

IDEA FOR LEARNING STYLE:

In a classroom, the biggest benefit is the ability to engage in conversation with your classmates. I think I've thought of a way to emulate this. It'd be challenging to implement, but I think it'd be an amazing learning tool. I'm using German as an example. For the end user it'd work like this, the app says a sentence in German, the user must speak the translation in English. If correct, the user is shown the correct reply written in English (could be spoken though), and must speak the translation in German. I think this could be implemented by scraping books in public domain with translations in both languages for dialog, omitting sentences with names (for simplicity). Or if you're feeling up to real challenge, doing something similar to cleverbot might prove to be beneficial.

<pre>I edited this numerous times to add in markdown for formatting to *try* and make this easier to read, It's better than it was, but it's still pretty bad. So I apologize again. </pre>

24ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

oskalingo 24 14 10 6 3

So I apologize again.

You don't need to apologise for anything. It's great to see someone put so much time and thought into a discussion thread comment.

On your point about connection issues I was also experiencing some non-syncs. But I put that down to it being release day and the servers being overloaded with the excitement around the android release and everyone wanting to try it out.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Alexemlia

Thanks, it's just my intention was to try and keep it brief, but I ended up writing a book.

Regarding connection issues, I came to the same conclusion. It still happens to me, but nowhere near as much as it did on day one.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Lolologist 20 4

Thanks for all the hard work! I've been wanting an Android app for Duolingo since the day I joined. A shame it doesn't work on tablets, but at least you're working on it and I can use my Nexus 4 in the meantime. Offline mode sounds like it'll be great for commutes, too!

EDIT: My thoughts on the app are so far very positive. I like that you can click the English words to fill in blanks for translations, yet you still have to type in the language you're learning. Spelling is important! However, and I realize this might be a bit "power user" and less suited to a mobile app, you can't mark hover hints as wrong or if something ought be marked correct. You, if you get something wrong, just see what the correct answer is but not what it translates to. It's a fantastic start to the app and I look forward to where it goes from here.

EDIT2: Someone said that it'd be good if you could optionally not have the word bubbles but rather just have to type everything in. I like that. Bubbles are faster and easier but feel like cheating.

22ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pedroarthurgeo 14 11 6 12

I'm as excited as a child with a new toy

22ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ClayJar 7

I've been waiting for the app for ages, and I've had today highlighted prominently on my calendar since the release date was announced. It's like Christmas came at last!

You know, it would've been nice to have been told that it wasn't going to be available on tablets. As all I have is a Nexus 7, this turned out to be that Christmas where you unwrap the present to find an empty box with a printout saying that your present was back-ordered but will be coming as soon as it's back in stock.

Well, I'll shift back into "won't it be nice when..." mode now (well, after I read a few more reviews of what sounds like a wonderful app, hehe). If I could ask a very trivial favor for the temporarily disappointed tablet-only Duolingo fans, I'd ask you to please prominently note on <http://duolingo.com/#/mobile> once it's allowed on tablets. I'd hate to miss it once unexpectedly delayed Christmas does come at last.

"Are we there yet? Are we there yet? Now are we there yet?" :D

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 478

We're working on tablet support and should be available in the next few weeks.

12ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Oblu 8 8

Perfect, because i have only tablet. Thank you a lot.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

coffeemomcrafts 25 5

THANK YOU . Can't wait to use duolingo on my Kindle Fire.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

longoster 7

Sehr gut, danke. Tschüss aus Italien

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ivana_ 6 5

Yes!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

thinkDAKI 6

Great! It works great on my phone now but I would prefer working on my tablet. Thank you for all the hard work!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BerndKling 2

Great! Tablet app is very much needed. Do you have a release date?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Brasilikum 13 10 10 9 2

It is not official, but you can already use it. Works great on my Note 10.1. If you don't want to wait, check out my tutorial: <http://duolingo.com/#/comment/451715>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ClayJar 7

And we're here! :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Nabucco 22 10 9 7

Please add a landscape mode! Looking at the screen cockeyedly when using my QWERTY keyboard is really a major pain in the neck.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

andy.breitbach 11

I need that as well!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

TopTenTiger 16

Luis: Please add the possibility to override the Android's language setting as the base language in the Duolingo app. I like to use French language on my phone (in menus etc), but when learning French I would really appreciate English as the base language :-Q

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GreaTeacheRopke 22 15

i forget the official name of the feature but on my galaxy s3 i just swipe the spacebar and it switches between english, german, and arabic keyboards for me. depending on your phone you ought to be able to switch that up pretty quickly yourself.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mattstaff 6

I like it and i have used it a little bit, but I definitely feel as if this app is very closed off compared to the site. It doesn't appear that there is any way to get to the discussion, vocabulary, or immersion parts. Also, I can't look at any of my friend's profiles, my friends list, quick practice, or a lot of other parts that I can access on the site. I'm going to hope that these are things you'll bring on later, i understand this is just an initial offering on android.

TL;DR Love it and I hope you bring more features to it in the upcoming months!

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

javax 20 12 9 5 3

Well, yeah, that's true, but there is the quick practice.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Leukothea 15 4

I just wanted to ask if there's a way to download the app without accessing the google play store?
My kindle fire unfortunately can't access the google play store so I can't download it :(

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

This might be useful for you: <http://www.ubergizmo.com/2011/11/kindle-fire-sideload/>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

vivisaurus 17 16 13 9 7 5 4 1351

Thanks, pont. Unfortunately, Google Play does not recognize the Kindle Fire as an android device, so it doesn't allow you to download the app (not even to your computer). The only way that the sideload would work is if you have an additional Android device to download the app to. The best solution for Kindle users would be if Duolingo releases the app on Amazon, or made the .apk file available for download on their website. I hope that happens. Unless anyone knows a better way. =)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

I'm not a Kindle owner myself, but as far as I know the alternatives to downloading via a "proper" Android device are (1) using google to find a copy of the Duolingo apk (not great, since an apk from a random website might be tampered with and virus-laden) and (2) root the device (temporarily or permanently) which lets you install the Google Play store, as described at <http://reviews.cnet.co.uk/ipad-and-tablets/how-to-get-the-google-play-store-on-the-kindle-fire-hd-50010454/>. Option (2) is what I'd do if I had a Kindle, but it's a bit complicated and apparently voids the warranty.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

vivisaurus 17 16 13 9 7 5 4 1351

Thank you for going through that trouble to post some super tips! My device already accepts apps that are not amazon thanks to some modifications I have made (everything but rooting), and the risky links are a little scary to me. I'd rather see duolingo making it available somewhere else (in addition to the google play store)... that way I would totally get it. I don't know if it is complicated for them to make it available on amazon as well (there are many kindle users out there, and the screen is nice and big), or directly on the duolingo website. For now, I'll just keep using the computer for it... which is fine because keyboards are awesome in their own special way. =)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NobleJohn 21 20 14 8 8 6 6 3 2

My wishlist for the app:

1) Offline mode (before I go on a 2 week holiday in a month)

2) Really need the option to move the app, or at least parts of the app to SD card. My phone has so much factory installed bloat that every KB of space is important. However I do have a 32GB SD card which has GBs of space.

3) Make the word tile mode harder, I'm seeing questions requiring two word answers e.g. 'The manager' and just three tiles to choose from, two of which are both 'the', one capitalised, the other not. That's not teaching anything.

4) I've no idea if the Android APIs make this possible, but it would be fantastic if the keyboard (swype etc) automatically switched between English and Portuguese/Spanish/German etc modes automatically. If there's any way to declare what language is expected in a textarea, then please make use of it.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

georgefromba 6 6 4

Thank you so much, no more excuses not to learn languages on the go!

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

peterliakatos 10 10

The wait is finally over!!! Thanks Duolingo team. Muchas Gracias!

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mmx11 24 10 10 8 5

The app works fine so far, it runs indeed very smoothly even on my low-end-smartphone (a big plus!) and looks very nice and tidy.

But I have some issues with it:

1) The word-scramble-questions are a great approach to mobile usability, but there are still the standard typing questions (or listen-and-type) which are quite annoying. I have either to turn off autocomplete (don't want to) or constantly switch between English and Spanish. It's very inconvenient; why not just stick with the word-scramble layout? And use a letter-scrambling approach if you test for single words (see the Memrise app).

2) Lessons are too long. While I have no problem with spending half an hour or more with Duolingo on my desktop, the app shouldn't require that much time. I clocked myself at ten minutes per lesson, which is - for a mobile app - too long. And extremely frustrating in case you fail at the last question, because of the "10 minutes wasted"-feeling (I know, learning IS failing and repeating, but it feels like one achieved nothing). At least for the practice mode I would like a "learn as long as you got time"-mode, where there wouldn't be a certain amount of questions to answer. Instead you would get question after question until you quit. This way, you were able to use the app and strengthen a few words even if you do not have 10+ minutes of spare time.

I like the concept of an app for Duolingo, but to me it seems that the differences of a mobile platform and its usage (keyword: time-filler) vs a desktop pc should be considered more.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

javax 20 12 9 5 3

I disagree with your point 2. It has to be equal, otherwise, It would not be the same. I have no problem that the lessons are long. As I said, it has to be just as long as it is in the web.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mauricioc 17 12

I want an option opposite to what you mention in 1, in fact. I just did two lessons with the mobile app, but it felt to me like cheating, and the only way I got rid of that feeling was by redoing the lessons in the website and typing out all phrases. Duolingo staff: Can you add an option to allow for "normal" ("type it all out" instead of "pick words from a list") input on the mobile app? Thanks!

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

_felipe 12 6 2

I think the biggest problem is that the first word is always capitalized.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mothramber 10 7 2 2

And it's always the only capitalized word too.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kp.thot 5

For having to swap between English and Spanish when typing, maybe check out Swiftkey. They have a combined en/es keyboard that is really convenient and will let you simultaneously use English and Spanish dictionaries. The keyboard itself is a slightly, slightly tweaked QWERTY layout but includes Spanish characters.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Jaegermeiste 7 6 2

I'm using Swiftkey with both English (US) and French (FR) language packs installed and it works very well. The language switching is transparent to the user and the word suggestion popups help significantly preventing hunting for special characters (which are easily accessible in Swiftkey anyway). Also, Swiftkey Flow mode (read Swype) is available if you want to use it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mmx11 24 10 10 8 5

After some weeks of thorough testing I have to readjust my assessment a little:

1) Switching between keyboards is still annoying, but I don't see a way for the app to circumvent that easily and I also found it is an annoyance I can live with.

2) The app isn't the 2-minute-time-filler I expected it to be, but that only means that I use it only when I have the time for it. And, as many people have pointed out already, the app makes completing a lesson easier (some even called it "cheating"). Well, I like that, as it reduces the frustration that comes with failing too often. :)

The app isn't perfect (but then again: what is?) and I still would appreciate a "learn as long as you got time"-mode (think timed practice without a timer); but it is definitely usable and a practical addition to the site as it is right now. Who knows what the next updates might bring?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Thomas_ 20 8 8 1

And it shows! The app makes gorgeous use of android design guidelines. I love how the notification bar fades out to let you concentrate on the content. It's really well tailored.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago wiktor 16 6 5 4 4

Thanks for the app - Duolingo just got awesomer :) 2 quick questions, I might be missing this functionality somewhere: 1) Any chance for lessons / episodes to be made available offline in the future? 2) Any support for special characters (umlauts in German)?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JacobJJ 12

In practice mode I am getting the same lesson over and over. Apart from that it's awesome

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lupetti 24 12 10 7 2 1408

I have also the same problem. The 'coins' count, but not the words I practiced.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

loran 14 12 12

Hi!

Thanks for this... Is there any way for somebody in France not to download the French version of the app but the English version instead? (I am learning Italian and German and find the random bit of French confusing)

Thanks!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

TopTenTiger 16

It seems that the Duolingo App is using the language setting of your phone. This makes things a bit awkward in some cases. Hopefully this will be fixed..

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AFLearner 11 3

I have a screen frozen for about 30 sec after each session completed. Desire HD (2.3)

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Youngseok 13

Wow... Thanks a lot. I really habe been waiting this application for my Android. Thanks again. Danke schön. Ich warte viele.. Ich lerne Deutsch mit diese Wunderbar Duolingo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

andrewduo 24 24 24 24 17 8

I like it but... (there's always a but) are there any plans to allow move to SD for the app. I'm desperately short of system memory on my phone and the more I can shunt to card the better.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

unkiepaul 24 14 14 11 2 124

I'm having a problem with the App on my phone(Galaxy S3 Mini) every time i go to log in it just crashes.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AFLearner 11 3

Had same problem while trying to login through Facebook

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Rissta 13

I just installed the app. It crashes every time when I enter my answer and press "Check" button, and once my phone rebooted itself. I'm upset :(

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

vicki 14

Can you tell us what phone and what version of android you're using so we can look into this problem? Thank you!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Rissta 13

HTC Explorer A310e

version - 2.3.5

16 MB free phone space. Thanks for your attention!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Quazar 18 5 4

I noticed that when I signed into the app it let me sign in with my FB account, does that mean it will automatically share my achievements on FB like the site does?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bchan 17 9 8 6 5 4 4 2

It will not automatically share your achievements on Facebook at the moment.

Possibly an option in the future =D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

violynnie 11

It is AWESOME!!! Thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Dataslayer 17 10 5

Oh wow I can't wait to try it out! I can't wait for that tablet capability since I don't have a smart phone. ^^

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kibernick 8 7 1

The app is amazing and addictive! Thank you!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

javax 20 12 9 5 3

So far, I love the app so much. But, there's a little problem when I want to start a new lesson. This is the little problem: Sometimes, when I put my finger over the word that I don't know (new word in the lesson), appears a gray large arrow, but empty. That's the only think I want to report, 'cause apart from that, I LOVE the app so much and I'm having so much fun with it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

javax 20 12 9 5 3

I don't know why I don't have that problem anymore, but I'm happy. Thank you so much for the app!! I really love it!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pohnnyjham 16 14 6

Works great so far for me. Can't wait for the offline mode

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BerndKling 2

Agreed! Offline mode would help a lot. Especially if you live in Africa!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

qu4rtz 10 9 8

Brilliant stuff... +1 for Offline Mode as I cant use on my commute on the tube which could be prime learning time.

I'd be happy to download a module the night before to practice offline until I complete and replace it with the next.

Good stuff tho!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pjgatt 10

I love the android app! It runs incredibly well and I love the portability of it. I think it's already starting to replace Reddit as the first thing I launch when I'm bored and pull out my phone for no reason.

That being said, of course there's always room for improvement! My biggest suggestion is including access to the Tips and Discussion for each lesson and the Discussion for each question. That way I can read the grammar rules when I'm bouncing to new lessons and check the discussions when I'm confused about something in a question.

Otherwise it's amazing! As a brand new German learner I'm loving this app and your website!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

j1geymer 9 3

I love the mobile app! Great job! However, the ones with the word banks are too easy. For example, the first word is always given because it is the only one capitalized. Then, the correct verb conjugation is the only one available. As far as the first word, maybe have them all lower case and the first selected word becomes capitalized. For the conjugation, maybe provide 2-3 different options. I would like the mobile app to be comparably challenging and right now it is not.

Keep up the good work! Thank You!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GreaTeacheRopke 22 15

On the web app I can turn off sounds. So far in the mobile app I have only found how to turn off effects, but I would also like to turn off the voice that's speaking to me and work only with text. Otherwise I need headphones to finish lessons.

This seems like something that should be an obvious feature and I almost feel like I'm stupid for not seeing where it is.

I will also echo that the word bank questions are pretty easy, same capitalization issues as has been mentioned above numerous times.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Dovmiester 11 6 5

Thank you so much for creating this amazing program, and all for free! I can't thank you enough for all the help so far and was wondering if I could donate to your cause? Thanks again!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

spetka 17 2 2 1

Great, downloading and installing now. Thanks for the hard work to get this going!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Anonyduck 18 7

Nice! Thanks for the support.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Quazar 18 5 4

I was part of the beta test should I delete it and download the new app or can I just keep using the beta?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bchan 17 9 8 6 5 4 4 2

You don't have to uninstall - if you go to the store you can just update your current installation.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

javax 20 12 9 5 3

Thank you SO much!!! I just opened it!! It's great :) I was waiting for this a long time already, and it totally worth it! Thank you again. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ShiraNegbi 12 2

Great! I love it! Will there be speaking exercises in Italian?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Quazar 18 5 4

One of the Italian experts told me that they will be coming eventually but not yet.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

drchuck 3

Thank you! Added!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Miinmini 13 3

Great Job! Now I have no excuse not to practice/learn Spanish!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sunx 6 6 2

Is there anybody do me a favor?

I've been long waiting for the release of the app. Unfortunately I find finally that I cannot download the app at google play. So is there anybody do me a favor to deliver me an .apk copy by email if it isn't against any law or rule? You can send the copy to sun.xiang.19@gmail.com. Many thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

TROYJOSE 16

Thanks Luis! I've been waiting for this coming out so badly! I will study more from now on! :p

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

StormWolf19 9

Cool now you just need the iPad

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FlutterDerp9000 12 6 5 3

thank you so much for the app :D .the Duolingo app is so epic! Thanks to you guys I can learn german on the go. I love you Duolingo :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Trivalent.22 6

I have to admit I started using Duolingo a long time ago and I left it dormant for a few months. When I saw there was an app, I really wanted to give it another try. Now, my problem is that I can't access the google play store because I am in China. Since your app is free, I think it would be useful to have a link directly connected to the .pkg file (for android) on your website.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bicycleboy 3

I can't wait for the tablet version! (It's not very easy to use the website version on the tablet right now and a dedicated app would be a vast improvement!)

Thanks for the hard work guys...keep it up!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Deutsch 8

Thank you! The app looks so beautiful and professionally designed. Now I'll have much more time to put into learning. Well done!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ninjosh97

I am a Home-school High school sophomore, and I am using Rosetta Stone to "learn" Spanish. It is SO STINKING CONFUSING. I discovered the Duolingo app in the trending section of google play on my Nexus 4 the other day. I have to say its fantastic. I am still using Rosetta stone for my highschool records (And yes, that means still doing the lessons. :-[ ), But I am learning everything that I miss in Rosetta stone with Duolingo. This is the best thing that has happened to be in a long time. :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Aoibhe 18 8 2 57

I can't log in to Duolingo on the new Android app. It keeps telling me that my username or password looks wrong, even though I've successfully changed my password and have tried using my email address and my user name:-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pada.online 23 20 10 9 4 2 1249

Awesome! Finally I'm able to improve my language skills on the way to my workplace. Works very smooth with "swype" keyboard.

Can you please add a "feedback" button if some answer looks unusual or incorrect?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Aoibhe 18 8 2 57

Just got into the app now! It seems really good, I just did one lesson but I'm looking forward to being able to keep up the study away from home over the long weekend!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

tabib2m 8

Thank you very very much...

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Brasilikum 13 10 10 9 2

It is not official, but if you want to use Duolingo on a tablet today, check out my tutorial:
<http://duolingo.com/#/comment/451715>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CranKNeT 6

I'm very very very Happy , The app is amazing, I started learning with that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cathygao 11 7 5 4 3 3 3 3

Thanks for your hard work! I was really looking forward to use Duolingo on my phone and here it is! I love it! Please keep up the good work!! :)))

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cdlans 9 8 5

Loving the app, good job Duolingo! What I would like to see in a future version is to also get the tips on grammar one sees in the lesson overview on the website version of Duolingo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

crazyray86 6

Hurray!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

erfahr 9 4 3

Great app! As a matter of fact, that's how I came to find out about Duolingo. My family is Hispanic and I've never actually spoken Spanish so this will help me out a lot!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sfdoc 13

Can I access my current Duolingo progress, which I do on my I pad from my Android phone or does it have to be a new start...they are two different e mails.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Suricate01 12 9 8 2

This app is awesome! Three little remarks yet: 1. We can only listen once to a dictated sentence, and sometimes the dictation of sentences simply doesn't work (the slow dictation always works, either). It would be fine if we could listen over and over, as it is also better for our listening skills. 2. Please include some speaking exercises in the mobile app, I am really missing them! 3. There should be a way of choosing whether we'd like to use the app in silent mode (no speaking exercises, no dictation, for example if we use the app on the underground) or not.

Thanks a lot for still expanding Duolingo!!! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GreaTeacheRopke 22 15

I got mine to repeat sentences, no problem. There is a speaker symbol to repeat, and a turtle symbol to have it repeat it slowly.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rayna35

can i get the app for kindle

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

endlessdreamer09

Any news on the tablet app yet? When will it be released?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bchan 17 9 8 6 5 4 4 2

<http://i.imgur.com/d1B0J1q.png>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sweetpea1283 5 2

I would like if at the end of the lesson when the list of words strengthened appears, if you could tap on the word and see the translation (like you can with certain highlighted words during the session) - just as a review in case you forgot any of them before you move on. Otherwise greatly enjoying the app, thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BenJohn1 8

I never heard of duolingo before I stumbled upon it in the app store and I gotta say it is absolutely amazing! Great work guys!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

522 I can't hear any of the tones!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/15286223>

Vedun 14 12 12 12 11 11 10 9 8 6 5 4 2

A ạ á à ả sound all the same to me. Only in a select few sentences do I hear some distinctive intonation in à and á, but e.g. between i and ì and í there's no audible difference I can detect. It's only the length that I can differentiate. How can I improve my feel of the tones?

And then u ô iê sound like long u i to me. I feel like I need to spend many weeks on my listening alone.

Give Lingot

710 months ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

DragonPolyglot 21 15 12 10 7 6 6 5 5 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 9

On the bottom of this post, before the comments, this person tells you how to position your arms and change positions to match each tone. And it's also a long explanation of vowels. Helps a lot, though, if you read it word for word. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/15102767>

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Vedun 14 12 12 12 11 11 10 9 8 6 5 4 2

I already read it and had known beforehand how they are supposed to be pronounced, but that doesn't help me. The tonal differences seem to miniscule.

2ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

DragonPolyglot 21 15 12 10 7 6 6 5 5 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 9

Did you try the exercise that is at the bottom of the post?

"To help with learning the tones, it might help to pair each tone with an action, to further burn it into your memory. Here are ones I have use for association:

Ngang (a) – hands moving forward, just below eye level

Huyền (à) – hands pushing down, starting from chest level

Hỏi (ả) – dipping motion with either hand

Ngã (ã) – forearms at shoulder level and rising, with a deliberate stop midway

Sắc (á) – hands lifting up, starting from just below chest level

Nặng (ạ) – dropping an (imaginary) stone from stomach level"

~ kuah

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

kuah 14 7 5

If you are ok with doing brute force drills, you could try the DLI course here at LiveLingua - scroll to the bottom for the section on phonology.

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Golden_Owl 13 11 10 8 4 2

Just forget about improving your listening on duolingo...I use other resources with better audio to improve my listening and pronunciation.

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

kcf412 8

What other audio resources do you suggest?

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Golden_Owl 13 11 10 8 4 2

Pimsleur and rosetta stone

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

polkadotmouse 12 6 6

Believe me, they're quite hard. It's a lot of training and sometimes I don't pick them up either (and I hear Vietnamese at home!)

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Soullos 10

I learned a lot about tones and other pronunciations from these videos. Tones is the 4th video. :)

<https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PLnVIHsBDuIRN3E80QO4stFUWIBON1i4DQ>

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

avrichard 14 13 12 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 4

I actually find Vietnamese tones pretty easy to tell apart on the Duolingo audio, but I could already speak Mandarin, so I'm used to hearing tones (even though Mandarin tones are a bit easier, as stated in another comment). If you don't have that background, it's probably a bit harder.

Personally - I think the easiest Viet tone to recognise is the low-short (glottalised) one, the one with the underdot (ạ). It's short, sharp and forceful.

The tilde tone (ã) is also pretty distinctive, as it has a croak in the middle.

The hardest for me to tell apart are the low tone (à) and the hook tone (ả).

Duolingo has its limitations - as great as it is, it can only really be part of your language learning routine. I strongly recommend getting the Pimsleur course as an adjunct, even if just to get the sound system solid in your head.

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

523 DuoCheck: See how many XP until the next level

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6428964>

Posted 2 years ago by [deactivated user]

Note: This handy little trick comes from Dmitriy_K in the Russian forums. He posted this a few weeks ago and I thought it was so helpful, I just had to share it. All credit goes to Dmitriy_K or whoever originally made this

Hello!

Ever since Duolingo removed the XP bar, many users have tried to come up with an easy and effective way to display how many XP are left until the next level, and I believe this is by far the easiest and most effective method to date.

It's called DuoCheck. All you have to do is click the link and it will display what level you are on in each language and how many XP remain until you reach the next level. Simple as that!

Of course you could use a user script or try to figure it out by viewing your total XP on the app, but I think this is so much easier.

Hopefully this little tip helps you out until the XP bar returns in its new form. And again, all credit goes to Dmitriy_K...I am merely the messenger!

Happy Learning!

Slán :D

Give Lingot131

2992 years ago

Leave a new comment

142 Comments

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

That is a very handy link, but I do want to copy a post I made in a related thread a while back: A little security warning: the method that link uses takes advantage of a security vulnerability called Cross-site scripting (more commonly called XSS). That particular link is innocent, but please take some care to avoid clicking on links if you don't know what they're going to do, especially links like this one that contain embedded javascript code.

78ReplyGive Lingot16•2 years ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2

A little security warning: the method that link uses takes advantage of a security vulnerability called Cross-site scripting

For this reason, I proposed in my original post to audit my little script for everyone. I know how to do bad, but a good reputation is more important to me. (Sorry for my bad english)

62ReplyGive Lingot27•2 years ago

AnIsAPandah 2

Your English is perfect :)

28ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

yeah!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

LeapYear123 12 5

I don't see how people who say 'Your English is perfect :)' or 'yeah!!!' can get you lingots...

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

LeapYear123 12 5

I also don't see why my previous post would get me that either....

1ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

kcheng0222 9 2

For some reason, the link doesn't work for me. It doesn't let me click it.

What is the URL?

12Give Lingot•1 year ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

I see the line in your original post (Google Translate actually works surprisingly well for Russian, who knew?), but I wanted to post it here too in case anybody doesn't take the time to translate. Thanks for including that part. Those types of links can be quite dangerous coming from a source that doesn't care so much about their reputation.

With respect to your English, I would say "I proposed in my original post that everyone examine my little script" or "...in my original post for everyone to examine my...." instead.

5ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2

Thank you for your comment. So really looks elegant. I still enjoy using Google Translet for large complex sentences with a little my corrections - that's why my style is some unsightly.

2ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Lingolizard 20 15 15 14 14 12 8

The link is excellent :-) thanks! But a bit concerning that the only reason you don't do bad is because of your reputation ... haha, just kiddin' ;)

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Radhalessi 17 13 621
you did a great job!!!!

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Good heads up for the future :) Thanks!

8ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

M4ttth3b3st 10 5
nice avatar

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

trai_ngoan 2
khiếp sao mà học lâu năm à

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

GC1998 17 15 14 13 13 12 11 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

I don't know if i'm in a certain A/B testing group, but i've still got my levels and xp on my profile.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2

This is very interesting. Can you show a screenshot of your profile? Please :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GC1998 17 15 14 13 13 12 11 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

Imgur
Imgur

26ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

dewluca 25 7 278

I want this!!! I have NO indications of points anywhere. And today I hit my 364 day streak and wanted to share with my friends about points and levels, but I find NO indication of my progress anywhere. Kind of makes me wonder why I'm bothering to keep this up at all.

18ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18

I have this too. My profile shows this without any userscript. Does this mean I'm in a test group? I assumed everyone was seeing number of xp to next level. It's great to have -- I love it -- and I see why everyone wants it. Can't imagine why it isn't universal for everyone.

11ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

FrancaEllerman 11 8

I have it and can see everyone else's level and how much XP till their next level on their Profile/Activity page.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Jayway223 23 16 15 10 9 9 1

I envy you!

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

oldschool.flora 24 24 2

I can see this when I am on the English>Spanish, but I cannot in my Hungarian>English profil. I thought it is a feature of the hungarian page, because it has just left beta. (Sorry for my poor English)

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Ivanka_ps 24 12 12 11 11 6 4 4 3

That looks nice! I used to have something similar before (like in the time where the coach was being tested) but it didn't show up the XP needed for the next level.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Bruno_de_Brito 18 14 11 9 8 7 6 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

Where is your personal trainer ???

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

GC1998 17 15 14 13 13 12 11 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

(I will presume you mean coach.) It's still on the home page.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Bruno_de_Brito 18 14 11 9 8 7 6 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

Haha, I'm sorry, [The coach], (The personal trainer is for portuguese speakers) hehehe :D ... I love the XP's bar ...Well it could be back here: \

2Give Lingot1•2 years ago

theawesomenerd02 25 8 7 6 5 4 4 2

i have it. why don't other people have it?

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Hieronymus2 24 23 21 18 13 13 13 11 8 7 6 5 3 2 1046
Me, too!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

SarahBecraft 15 13 12 5 2
That's way more informative!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

JohnReid8 10 8 7 6 5 4 4 4 3 3 3 2 2
I'd just love to have this.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AdiMarie 15 9
That is what I want!!!!!! But Duocheck is great too :) Thanks!!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

kcheng0222 9 2
Who's the one giving everyone a lingot?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18
Actually, you don't need a screenshot in order to see the xp on his profile. If you click the link of his username, it takes you to his profile page and you can see his xp there. At least I can see them. But maybe that's another a-b testing thing.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
I can't. Dmitry asked for the screenshot because, for those of us who can't see it on our own profiles, it's not there on anyone else's either. Wish it were! ^_^

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18
OK. Just wondering, what's taking so long for them to add it for everybody? It only took a week to change the XP for reviewing lessons ;-)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

SiblingCreature 22 12 11 528
@writchie4

I have to say I find both the metrics and their conclusions highly questionable.

In this particular case I would think that the existence of such tools as DuoCheck would invalidate the results of any A-B testing for this type of thing anyway. I regularly use a script to check my progress to the next level. Giving me a way to do this within the context of Duolingo itself can surely only increase my engagement with the site...

Edit to reply:

I myself have only been using Duolingo for 2 months, but from what I read on the forums, this isn't the first time they have made a change which hasn't necessarily been received as a positive one... I get the impression that many are engaging and staying engaged despite these changes rather than because of them, and that sooner or later if they keep basing decisions on what may well be faulty premises then they are going to end up with something unworkable and the whole thing will collapse....

Edit 2

Well I wouldn't expect such a thing to be telegraphed, sudden or even initially noticeable.. I expect (if it happened) it would be a long slow decline as people lost motivation and dropped out, or moved on to other tools. over time the percentage of people finishing trees would fall.. the turnover rate would increase... eventually the popularity would wane and though there might be a few hangers on for a long time to come, eventually it would become too unprofitable to continue being viable. I've seen communities slowly fall apart in the past, once the thing that holds them together is gone. Duolingo has a good thing going for the moment, but if they keep making changes which result in decreased motivation on the part of the users (and I'm not just talking about the XP bars here) they may find themselves scrambling to get people interested again, and there probably wouldn't even be a clear indication of what changes were the critical ones that caused it all to go wrong.

5Give Lingot2•2 years ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18
(we're at post limit)

writchie4,

you said the metrics show that "including the XP information on the profile was actually detrimental." How can this be? I do not see how knowing that information would slow a person's progress. It's like going on a road trip and not knowing how many miles you've driven or how many miles until the destination. For me, I find it enjoyable to monitor my progress by xp and level. It's fun to watch the numbers progress. It's an added feature of the gamification experience. Otherwise, why even have Levels at all?

3Give Lingot1•2 years ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

The amount of time it takes for a test to run depends on the number of people participating and the strength of the results. In the case of the reduced XP test, the sample size was huge, and according to Luis, the results were clear quickly. Most tests last at least a month though.

For this test with the XP information on profile pages, the sample size should be similar, but according to a post by one of the staff (kristine maybe, I can't locate it anymore), the initial findings were indicated that including the XP information on the profile was actually detrimental to whatever metrics they were considering. At that time, she said that they'd continue the test to get a larger sample before making a final decision. Based on the lack of movement on that front, I think it's safe to assume that the results held negative. It'll be interesting to see what new idea the team comes up with for showing that info.

Edit to reply (we're at the post limit):

I wasn't making a statement about the validity of the team's conclusions, just relaying what they've told us about the testing in the past.

Generally, I agree with you that some features seem obvious enough to implement even with contradictory test results (especially this one with respect to the progress information). It's important to remember though, that we're not privy to the whole picture. Specifically, we don't know what metrics Duolingo is looking at when they talk about "user engagement", nor what their business goals are (maybe new users are more important than existing ones?). Even worse, the users on the forums are only a small subset of Duolingo's user base (something like 70% of all users are app-only, and only a fraction of the remaining 30% visit the forums). Though the positive feedback for DuoCheck in the forums seems like a tidal wave of support, the hundreds of users that have found it useful pale in comparison to millions of data pieces from the users in the related A/B test. Duolingo historically has put their faith in the numbers over opinions from the forum users, and taking a step back to look at the big picture, I don't necessarily fault them for it. After all, the system has clearly worked well to get them this far :)

Edit 2:

That's a fair perspective from someone that hasn't been around long. A couple of the recent changes (Coach, XP progress) have generated a bunch of negative feedback. As with any changes you make to software, the well-received ones here rarely generate much discussion outside of "well it's about time" comments. Recently, the team has been running almost 100 concurrent A/B tests. If you've only heard complaints about a handful in 2+ months, that's a pretty good result, and definitely not a sign of some sort of slip into a site-wide collapse :)

Edit 3 (to DeanG6):

It's a funny result, isn't it? I've got a rather analytical/engineering mind, and it's always difficult for me to see how "more features" could possibly be a bad thing. After all, the people that don't want to use the feature can always just ignore it, right? A/B tests have a way of challenging our preconceived notions, specifically the one that shouts "yes, information! gimme gimme gimme", haha.

I don't do marketing/advertising by trade, but I have done some minimal A/B testing myself in the past for my company. I'll give you an example from there, since I don't know the specifics about Duolingo's results. -- I noticed that one of our competitors was not displaying the price of their product on their landing pages (in fact, they weren't displaying it anywhere, you had to request a quote). In my mind, this was ridiculous. If somebody's interested in purchasing, they're obviously going to ask about the price, so why not just save everybody the trouble and provide it "up front". So, I did a test on our site that hid the pricing information and the results were rather inescapable. We had a 10% increase in one of our main indicators for sales when we hid the price and made no other change. The result really surprised me, but hey, the numbers don't lie (even when the change seems to make things more difficult for the user).

With respect to Duolingo's test, I suspect that something similar is going on. Perhaps when they show the progress indicator in plain sight users that are far from leveling up actually get demotivated? Perhaps the "ends" of getting more activity from most users justify the "means" of taking some enjoyment from users that like tracking their progress in a detailed way? Maybe the "power users" that like to track their own activity are on the whole sufficiently self-motivated enough to keep up their activity in spite of any changes to the UI they dislike? There's several possible reasons for the test to have turned out that way. We just have to trust that the team is doing what's best for the company, even when the results seem unintuitive.

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 56

I've got it too; but I have never activated the coach - he is still there waiting on my screen, but I am ignoring him!

3ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18

Why not? He won't bite.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 56

but he will take away the ability to see my XP!

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18

He didn't for me. My coach is active, AND I see current XP with number needed to next level. This is referring to Spanish, Italian, Portuguese courses (from English). My English course (from Spanish) does not show XP.

EDIT (reply to BaconChomper) -- my xp and xp to next level are visible only on my profile, not my homepage. And apparently if you can see it on your own profile then you can see it on other people's profiles too.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 56

Interesting! I didn't realise that, I'm happy without the coach, but thanks for the info.

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

Can you see that on your home page? Or only on your profile? I can't see it on my homepage. I wish it never changed.

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

AnIsAPandah 2

You are in a test group :)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

_ckb 19 18 10 8 4 2 16

Wow I didn't realize this was still in testing.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

rutecunha 11 10 3
what does that mean?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AnIsAPandah 2
When Duolingo releases something, it usually only allows a part of the community to see it. Hence why it's called a test group.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

danielsa22 20 11 10 6 6 4
Yep, I've still got this too! 97XP until Level 13 French

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Skapata 13 13 12 8 6 4 4 2 68
It works only if someone is doing a course in English, and only for the courses someone is doing in English. When someone changes to a course in another language, it doesn't work anymore.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2
...And I also recommend to pull the link into your bookmarks bar that would see the level of XP of any page, without going into our posts in the forum.

10ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

AnIsAPandah 2
...And I also recommend to save the link into your bookmarks (no need for bar). That will be easier to access, without having to go search for posts.

1ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
Actually, Dmitriy meant your bookmarks (tool)bar. A lot of people just call it the "bookmarks bar" instead of saying "bookmarks toolbar". It's the area that shows up right under the address bar (by default in most browsers, anyway).

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2
Your version I like more than my :)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
...more than mine*.

& SPOSIBO BOLSHOI, DMITRIY!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2
And thank you very much :)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
Ne za chto. :D

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
He also meant "pull", not "save" because you can click & drag it to the bookmarks toolbar. Just FYI.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Oh hey! An English version! Thanks Alex! :D

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

rumnraisin 21 20 18 16 14 14 14 13 13 12 11 9 9 8 8 6 5 5 850
=/ Someone should point out to Duolingo that the A/B testing for this feature is broken as various methods are being used to gather the information when it isn't presented to users. Or maybe they already realise.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Rewjeo 14 4 2 689
Although if the results of an A/B test are invalid because one group is trying to replicate the other's resource, you may find yourself with a result anyway...

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Bruno_de_Brito 18 14 11 9 8 7 6 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2
<h1>Perfect!!!! Awesome !!!!!</h1>

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Do you know if DuoCheck is calibrated to allow for levels beyond 25? I received this in my inbox, which makes me think that someday people will have the option to get to level 26. But, the DuoCheck just tells me that I need to get - such and such number to get to the next level (aka back to level 25, which is my current level.)

Progress towards Level 26

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Not currently, but if higher levels become available, I think it would be possible to edit the script to allow for these levels

0ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
Thanks for the reply, Alex :)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

That email has been a bug forever. DuoCheck simply prints the information in the `duo.user.attributes.languages` object. You can take a look at the object yourself with your browser's javascript console (Ctrl+Shift+J in Chrome) by typing "`duo.user.attributes.languages`" and hitting enter.

The DuoCheck link doesn't have any special insight into the staff's potential addition of more levels, although the way it is written, it would work perfectly if more levels were ever added in the future.

0ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
ty for the info!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

knittinggirl 25 25 21 19 14 12 11 10 7 6 4 2 1238
Thank you so much Alex!

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Matheus_H 9 5 2
Thank you.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Nico5454 15

Thanks. That was what I wanted to know. I was hoping there was some way of moving faster without doing more practices. I still make mistakes on the easiest of sentences, but I lived in Argentina for a while, and while I never had to speak much Spanish there I did get a lot of the vocabulary down. So the slow introduction of new nouns is a little boring.

-1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Matheus_H 9 5 2
O que isso tem haver ?

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2
THIS IS THE BEST THING SINCE "DUOLINGO DARK"

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Soedori 21 10 8 6 4
[deleted]

1Give Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

This is a direct quote from the post above:

Of course you could use a userscript

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

The wiki shows a userscript for checking XP. You can find it on This Page.

I prefer the DuoCheck because it takes one click and I'm not all that fluent in using userscripts.

I appreciated mr.popcorn's heads up about those XSS though. :)

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Hohenems 25 25 18 14 13 12 11 11 8 7

For those that do install scripts, wataya's edit to pinkodoug's userscript allows you to check your xp with the "O" key.

Essentially, just one "click".

https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5303747?comment\_id=5312533

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

DeanG6 20 12 9 2 18

Thank you. I came here specifically to find out how to install userscripts, because I want to install this one.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Rozzie 16 11 10 8 7 8
Gracias

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

connorhay12 7 6 6 5 5 3 2 2 2
Thank you so much!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Awesome! Thanks! :D

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Luscinda 25 25 25 14 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 2 2 15

I am 73,700 points away from the next level in French, apparently. But only 17,000 or so in Italian. :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

BaconChomper 21 19 13 9 8 8 6

Notice the negative symbol. That is how far you are beyond level 25.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Nico5454 15

I don't know much about this site. Is there anyway to speed this up? I feel like the vocabulary is increasing too slowly and I would like to get beyond the present tense. I'm at level 9 and need 590 more xp before I level up.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

SiblingCreature 22 12 11 528

Learning on duolingo is self-paced. If you want to speed up, just increase the number of lessons you take each day. I'd recommend against rushing it though. If you don't build a solid foundation with the earlier lessons then the later ones will be harder to complete.

Incidentally XP and levels aren't directly linked to progress through the tree. I've been practicing a lot recently to improve my understanding of already "completed" skills before moving on. This is giving me a lot of XP, even though my progress through the tree has slowed down somewhat.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

endios 21 15 14 6

This is great. I'm not sure, how can I copy the script to another post?

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

You should be able to just copy the link like any other and then put it between the usual brackets: []
( )

2ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

Regney 19 16 16 13 5 4 3 1116

Like so many other people, I can't see my stats from my own page, but one of my friends has been providing me updates. At first I was excited, but the number of XP that's displayed beside "Next Level" continues to INCREASE, so I assumed it was the number of XP that I'd earned TOWARD my next level. From what's been written here, that doesn't seem to be correct. As of this moment, that number is 10157. Yesterday, it was less than that. Thoughts?

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Regney 19 16 16 13 5 4 3 1116

As part of my little experiment, I just earned 10 XP and ran the script again. it now reads:

--> Next Level: 10167.

So the number is going up.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

SiblingCreature 22 12 11 528

I would guess that's because you are looking at the "Next Level" figure for German, and you are already at the maximum level of 25, so there is in fact no next level to reach.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Regney 19 16 16 13 5 4 3 1116

Ahhh... I didn't know there was a maximum level. I just earned 7 XP in Swedish and the number went down by 7. So that must be it. Thanks. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

bibiadams 15

I was using Duocheck but then i realized that when you go to your profile it says the name of the language and how many to the next level also how many you have in all.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

heatherlp4 14 8 8

Hallo! Duocheck worked twice on my Android tablet but now it doesn't and hasn't for two weeks. The link doesn't link. It works on my laptop. Is there anything I can do?

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2

On android's browser running special mobile version of Duolingo's site. Maybe, developers added some improving two weeks ago...

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

jocelyn928743 17 14 2 2 2 2

Thank you so much for this! Is it just my computer or is this link no longer working? Thanks!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

The link no longer works due to new restrictions on embedding code within links in the forum. The information that it showed is now available on your profile page though.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

SiblingCreature 22 12 11 528

The userscript referenced here still works though. (so does the original Duocheck incidentally, as long as you already bookmarked the link)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jocelyn928743 17 14 2 2 2 2

Oh okay thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AnIsAPandah 2

Oh my gosh >.< Thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

ProfesorAxel 11 11 3 2

Thanks a lot!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Essie_B 7

that is very helpful

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Ivanka_ps 24 12 12 11 11 6 4 4 3

Wow!! That's awesome! Thank you so much! :D

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Awesome. Both of my languages need less than 40 points.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Athletesrun 18 5

This looks like a great tool! How do you execute javascript from a link like that?

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2

It's magic :)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

-anonyme- 2

Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

BonaparteXIV 11 9 2

How we install this bar please?

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2

Click & drag it to your bookmarks toolbar. If you can't do it, just reply & I can explain further -- but that would simply mean that your browser isn't showing the bookmarks toolbar readily, which can be remedied in short order.

Good luck!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

efisgpr 20 17 15 14 14 14 13 11 10 10 10 9 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 5 3 2 2

Btw, when you click the bookmark every time, no extra window or tab opens in your browser, only the pop-up message that shows your points status -- just like it did when you clicked it here in the forum.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
thanks!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

FernanG1106 11 10 5 3 2
Wow! It's very interesting.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

JC_Sanches 22 21 18 10 5 1168
Muito obrigado pela dica. "Thanks for the tips"!!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Spanishmakeup 18 11 9 6 2 6
I thought I was a hundred away, but apparently i'm only 33 away :D thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

roxannagiovanna 24 20 128
Grazie Slan: D, anche Dimitry_K,!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2
Prego :))

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

dnicolae 25 25 25 11
Thanks Dimitriy!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Docteur-Veggie 12 3
Super :) Thank you.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

roxannagiovanna 24 20 128
Thank you Alexinirland! Happy learning. I see you have your hands full. Congrats!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

WillGoodloe 10 4 2 2
Thanks. have a lingot!

0ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

insert-name 2
You give a lingot you get 2!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

SarahBecraft 15 13 12 5 2
Thank you!!! I feel so much more motivated now knowing how much XP I need to get to the next level. I was just thinking I'd never see the next level of Spanish, but I'm only 300 away.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

fede1234567890 11 6
thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

LongHenry 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 13 10 8 8 8 8 3 3 3 3 395 thanks for this.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

JoeHeffern 22
Works great, thanks for the tip

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

enlitrán 13
Thank you for your comment. So really looks elegant. I still enjoy using Google Translet for large complex sentences with a little my corrections - that's why my style is some unsightly.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

infiniteStarset 3
Danke

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

CloudsTheKitten 11

But I still get the level and how much xp is needed on my profile... :/

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Gamerbot74 10 2 2

hi johannes

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Shreeruparel 9 2

And thank you very much :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LoveThePianoGuys 15 3

thank you this has helped alot

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Shreeruparel 9 2

That is a very handy link. Helped a lot.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Tdotmike83 15 12

THat's awesome! How do I add it on my duolingo phone app.?

Thanks

Mike

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

awesome-dud 12

thanks! THIS IS SO

[illegible]

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Shreeruparel 9 2

This was very useful. Thank you for this website.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Anderooo1 6

the link doesn't work

0ReplyGive Lingot•12 months ago

SiblingCreature 22 12 11 528

The link doesn't work but the script itself still does. If you copy the following text and set it as the address of a new bookmark you can use the bookmark to activate the script. (Note: This isn't actually the DuoCheck script originally posted in this thread, but a similar script originally posted here.

```
javascript:var%20expAlert="Site%20Streak:%20"+duo.user.attributes.site_streak+"\n";for(var%20i%20in%20duo.user.attributes.languages)%20{%20if%20(duo.user.attributes.languages[i].learning)%20{expAlert=expAlert+duo.user.attributes.languages[i].language_string+"%20Streak:%20"+duo.user.attributes.languages[i].streak+"%20Lvl:%20"+duo.user.attributes.languages[i].level+"%20Exp:"+duo.user.attributes.languages[i].points+"%20Next%20lvl@:%20"+duo.user.attributes.languages[i].to_next_level+"\n";}};alert(expAlert);
```

1ReplyGive Lingot6•12 months ago

Dmitriy_K 15 14 5 3 3 2

Since the beginning of the year JavaScript been disabled on Duolingo. But all information is available in your personal profile (French - Level 5, Next level: 80 XP, Total XP: 370 XP). Good study!

0ReplyGive Lingot•12 months ago

ViperDawn 11

For some reason, this link does not work for me.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

[deactivated user]

Yes, I just checked this link again myself, and you're right, it doesn't seem to work anymore. I'm not the original creator of this, so I can't say for sure why that is, but at any rate, it isn't really necessary anymore since Duolingo added the XP needed to reach the next level to the users' profiles (as in this image) a while after I posted this.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Hadia4Satti 9

thank you so much you and Dmitriy_K

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

DakikaSani 7

resserved

-1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

524 – 543 of 911

[accessed March 20, 2017]

524 Submit a Bug Report

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/requests/new>

Describe your issue in detail (fields marked with * are required). Include screenshots, steps to reproduce the bug, and browser or device information. Unfortunately, we cannot address every inquiry, but we do monitor your reports to improve the experience for all Duolingo learners. If you have ideas and unanswered questions, please visit our forums.

If you can't access your account or reset your password, please read this before submitting a bug report.

525 How do I allow Duolingo to use my microphone on Chrome?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/207568713-How-do-I-allow-Duolingo-to-use-my-microphone-on-Chrome->

In order to practice your speaking skills, please give Duolingo permission to access your microphone on Google Chrome. If your issue is not with your Google Chrome browser, you may want to check the article My microphone is not working. How can I fix it?

Fixing the issue on Google Chrome

The first time you use Duolingo in Google Chrome, you will be asked to allow Duolingo to use your mic. You should see the following prompt from the top left, and you should select "allow":

allow chrome to use duolingo

If you accidentally "Block" Duolingo from accessing your microphone, your speech challenges that involve microphones will not work from now on. There are two methods you can use to edit your microphone permission to re-allow Duolingo to access your microphone.

1) When you are in a speech challenge that requires a microphone, you should be able to find a video camera icon at the end of your browser's address bar.

video camera icon

a) Click the video camera icon on your address bar, choose "Always allow https://www.duolingo.com to access your microphone," then click "Done".

b) That's it, you should be ready to go!

2) Another way to fix this is to edit your microphone permissions on Chrome, by removing Duolingo from the blocked lists. You can do this by:

a) On the top right of your browser window, click the Chrome menu Chrome settings menu icon, then click Settings.

b) Click Show advanced settings....

c) In the "Privacy" section, click Content settings.

d) In the "Microphone" section, click Manage exceptions.

e) Find www.duolingo.com on the list under "Hostname pattern". If the "Behavior" is "Block" (or anything but "Allow"). Click the X to remove it.

f) Click "Done".

g) Next time you see a speech challenge, click the microphone button. A prompt will be shown and ask your permission to let Duolingo access your computer's microphone.

h) Remember to click "Allow" and you should be all set!

526 Swedish for English Speakers is now in the Incubator!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3192773>

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 478

Many of you have been asking for Scandinavian languages on Duolingo. Today, we're excited to share that Swedish for English speakers is being added to the Incubator. You'll see more Scandinavian languages for English Speakers soon.

Skål/Cheers :)

Give Lingot51

3992 years ago

Leave a new comment

198 Comments

[deactivated user]

I'm excited about this, not because I have any plans to learn Swedish but because this will reduce the number of new discussion topics by at least 30%.

103ReplyGive Lingot8•2 years ago

Frazer93 7

Nope we're actually moving onto Croatian next. Expect a new discussion thread on the matter soon.

I'm kidding! :P

24ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

herekittykitty99 23 11 10 9 6 61

I would actually like to see that. That, and Romani.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Chris.koch 20

just wait until they bring back the vocabulary section and English -> Japanese 90% less comments :P

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Oh, come on, don't be grumpy, give Swedish a try! :-)

Also, I guess you mean "reduce the number of old, rehashed discussion topics"...?

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

I'm not grumpy, I meant it as a lighthearted comment :)

20ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

@Darren_Mart, I know. It was getting a LOT of requests lol

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

I guess you mean "reduce the number of old, rehashed discussion topics"...?

Yes -- time for some fresh new discussion topics like "Finnish? When's Finnish coming? Duolingo this is absolutely unacceptable, I demand Finnish! Graaarh!" etc.

(I have to admit I was a little sad that Luis said "more Scandinavian languages soon", not "more Nordic languages"...)

18ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mlstaley 6 2

It would be nice if soon they can add Czech, Norwegian, and some of the Asian languages

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

Don't worry, I doubt his pedantry is as prominent as ours. ;) We have hope yet! :P

Oh the joy I'd get from Finnish though!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Moomingirl 25 20 17 17 12

I'm hanging out for Finnish. I'm learning it at home on my own, but I know it would be much faster with Duolingo to help me.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

Becoming comfortably fluent in Finnish is one of my life goals! As much as I love the other languages on my list, I can't say that they are life goals - I just absolutely adore the sound of Finnish; no idea what it is about the language that does it. I loved Finnish even years before I realised I had any love for learning languages. :P

Good luck with it! :) I'll definitely see you on the Finnish Duolingo forums when it finally does come!

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

I had dabbled a tiny bit a while back, but I stopped myself from getting too into it because I have too many languages to worry about first (one's that I need for more practical reasons - although I love them too, just not as much :P). I'm constantly tempted to go back to it.

My current plan involves improving my German slowly, catching my Spanish up to my German by October (I'm studying these two), and starting Swedish in October, so that Swedish is ready for studying in Sweden the following year. Not much room for Finnish just yet :'(

What are you using to study Finnish? I might have a sneaky look... >_> I don't remember much, just a greeting (I think it is for multiple people though): Moi Kaikki!

Sometimes I watch Finnish vloggers on youtube just to hear the sound of the language :P

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Moomingirl 25 20 17 17 12

Have you started Finnish? I am on chapter 3, and haven't got any further recently because I'm currently trying to finish my Italian tree. I should be back to it within the month though. You certainly will see me in the Finnish forum :)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Moomingirl 25 20 17 17 12

Moi Iain!

You are right, 'moi kaikki' is like 'hello everyone'. I am using 'Beginners Finnish by Agi Risko'. It is a book with two CD's. I really like it, although obviously I would love for Finnish to come to Duolingo, the interactiveness seems to work well for me. I also use the Finnish Pod 101 to listen occasionally.

Studying in Sweden sounds like an awesome opportunity, I am very jealous.

I downloaded a free audiobook in Finnish, and sometimes I listen to it just to hear the language. At the moment I can only pick about one word every minute or so that I understand, but as you say, it just sounds so nice. :)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

saschambaer 12 6 5 5 4

Now it depends... how does he interpret Scandinavia? In the strict meaning of Denmark-Norway-Sweden, or also including Iceland and Finland? I know some Danes, and they all say that Finland is part of Scandinavia too. Some also say Iceland is, others not.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

turidbrox 24 21 13 13 10 4 3 3 3 2 1129

This can still mean about five Sami languages, as well as Finnish and Meänkieli, which are recognised minority languages in Sweden ;)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CecilieO. 14 10 4

or Kvensk if you want to be obscure (the norwegian variant of finnish).

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

+1

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lenkvist 23 22 17 14 13 12 12 11 10 7 7

Tack så mycket Luis! I didn't see it coming which makes the surprise all the sweeter. Thank you for all the hard work behind the scenes!

30ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Now I'll have to decide between Swedish and Dutch....

19ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kai_E. 25 23 20 12 4 3

We've got a stack of stroopwafels waiting for you.... :)

26ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Maybe Alex is more into surströmming?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Those stroopwafels look really good :) Do you...eh...want some Irish Stew?....Who am I kidding? That's not a convincing case....

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Is it within the Duolingo guidelines to offer some of that black liquid gold you have?

As for fish, I'd actually recommend sticking to gravad lax and the regular, unfermented kind of herring. Hmmm ... delicious.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Too late to offer him herring -- the Dutch have annexed it!

haring

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

You all make some compelling arguments...who knew the the route from language learning to someone's stomach was so direct?

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

@3IRIK: I was writing to a collaborator on the Irish team, so I was referring to the kind of black gold that comes bottled and on tap and which has a light foam on top...

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Well, but the sauce the herring is cured in here in the north is what makes all the difference! Although there are always a couple of choices, mustard sauce seems to be the general favorite

The Dutch don't have that -- they'll just put pindakaas on pretty much anything.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

3IRIK 18 14 6 3

Sweden doesn't have oil (I assume black liquid gold refers to oil). I think you're thinking of Norway.

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

... with some delicious lutfisk to follow! Who would pass that up for some boring old stroopwafels?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Susande 17 13 12 11 251

We can always trump that with the ideal Dutch snack to go with your beer, bitterballen!

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kai_E. 25 23 20 12 4 3

Heck yes, now we're talking! Can't get enough of these here in the U.S.

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Susande 17 13 12 11 251

@annika_a: well, I have a lot of foreign colleagues, and literally all of them love bitterballen. It's easy to criticise Dutch cuisine and often people are right in doing so, but bitterballen are clearly above that.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

@Susande: As a pescatarian who used to live in Belgium, I remain unconvinced. You know the joke about religion not being the reason they drew a border between the Netherlands and Belgium...? ;-)

You've got some lovely cheeses, though, I'll give you that. And pancakes. This is turning into a foodie thread. Although I am extremely enthusiastic about Swedish being added to the Incubator, I still have kalakukko to look forward to.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Maybe there's a reason they're not widely available...? ;-)

As opposed to, say, meatballs combined with lingonberry jam (and flat packed furniture).

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Kai_E. 25 23 20 12 4 3

@annika_a hmm maybe if the Dutch had made IKEA.... also, frozen bitterballen would not be good D:

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2 3

What about knoeperds? ;)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

lewiscranston 25 25 17 11

I prefer Norwegian Brunost....

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lewiscranston 25 25 17 11

I used to live in Norway, I can't remember these dishes will try them.. ;) takk

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

CecilieO. 14 10 4

brunost is good, if you like it you should try prim and gomme as well :)

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

CecilieO. 14 10 4

jellied fish, you actually want that? I have been served that every year around christmas since I was born, it's supposed to be an acquired taste, but I'm still not a fan ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

I've never had it, but I'm willing to try (almost) anything once. It can't be worse than surströmming, surely.

I think there's a universal rule that every country has to have a "special" national dish for scaring visitors. Except for Nordic countries, which have several :-).

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

kingthatcher 11 11 10 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 2

I live in Minnesota, and lut(e)fisk, as well as many other scandinavian dishes, are traditional here. That stuff is only eaten by the old swedes and norwegians, I can't believe they have the stomach to eat it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PopTartTastic 9 9 7 7 6 6 5 4

You just won me over. I love stroopwafels with a passion.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrederickEason 25 23 19 17 13 11 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 3 2 1217

Why not both? ;)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mangos7844 4

Sweedish

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Elen-ka 17 14 12 8 6 6 3

I have the same dilemma... plus Greek :D I guess the first reverse course for English speakers of these tree languages that appears in the incubator will be my priority...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 13

Graawr. I was so hoping for Esperanto. Congrats to the people who wanted Swedish.

17ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

I feel ya! But Swedish is also awesome. Hoping for Esperanto for the next time... =)

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Frazer93 7

While as a voter for Swedish in that poll I am a little happy we seem to have jumped the queue ahead of you (although Scandinavia combined would easily win) I respect as winners Esperanto should be on here too.

Good luck on your journey!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 13

I wasn't even expecting it because of the poll. When Irish for English speakers was posted, Luis finished the comment saying that we might get Esperanto soon. And when they first announced the very concept of the incubator, the image had Esperanto's flag at the front. So they keep hinting at it, but it hasn't happened yet.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

I think it is obvious why though - they said Swedish would be this month (and clearly they've cut it quite close as the month had just over 24 hours left, depending on your time zone), where-as they never specified a date with Esperanto (that I know of - correct me if I'm wrong). I suspect they probably would have waited longer still to add Swedish if not for having already tied themselves in to a date. And while they could've went beyond the month, as many were expecting it by this point, I think they probably feel it's in their best interests to bring some credibility to their estimates.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

saschambaer 12 6 5 5 4

Please make Icelandic the next (Germanic) language! It's quite hard to find good resources for it, and it's both a really pretty and prettily complex (might be offputting for some, not for me) and as a bonus it's quite close to the ancient Germanic languages (Old Norse, English and German). Not as close as many people claim, but still quite.

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2 3

Det är jättebra! :) Great news!

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

swtoby 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 7

Oh, my goodness! Finally, the glory of Swedish has dawned upon us! I'm so excited!

My thanks in advance to the awesome collaborators for their time and effort. Happy incubating, guys!

Edit: I didn't even realize the course will be for English speakers. Although I had my suspicions this would happen, I didn't really have my hopes up. That makes it so much more exciting and amazing! I can't wait!

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mjodr 7

Thank you for leading into Scandinavian languages! When can we expect Norwegian?

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aceridgey 4 2

I think if you spoke Swedish you would understand Norwegian 99%

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

duelingace 12 10 8

Very glad to hear about this. I have a friend who has always wanted to learn Swedish, so this is perfect. I don't want to distract from this great news, but I'm still holding out hope that Esperanto will be added to the incubator as well. Both Swedish and Esperanto dominated the latest poll, and I'm sure the Esperanto community would develop the incubator at record speed. That said, I may have to take a crack at Swedish once it's ready ;)

10ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

trackgirl07 24 16 6 5 4 3

Yes! I tried learning Swedish on Babbel 2 years ago. It didn't work out too well. Duolingo will be able to teach me the language I've always wanted to learn!

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Robert_Haug 15 11 9 3 2 2

So, does this Norwegian dude get to contribute to a course soon? I'm ready for the challenge! :)

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

CecilieO. 14 10 4

Du må søke om å bidra på incubator.duolingo.com/ eller bare vente til de tilslutt kommer med norsk kurset og hjelpe til med betatestinga...

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

I'm glad you decided to do Swedish for English speakers without doing English for Swedish speakers first. Excellent choice.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Severinbt 11 5

Being from San Francisco, I've met a lot of Swedes from tourism and so I am fully aware that most Swedes speak English at an excellent level. However, wouldn't an English for Swedish speakers benefit young Swedes learning English?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

I hope they'll build that one afterwards, but I think it was a good choice to start with the Swedish for English. What I'd really like to see for Swedes though would be courses in other languages. Especially more difficult languages like French or Russian. It would make it a bit easier to learn those languages if more people could do it from their own languages. Also it would be great to get the opportunity to translate into one's own language in Immersion. I know this probably won't happen very soon, but I'd love for Duolingo to become even more lateral than it already is, offering courses between more and more languages.

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hdcanis 22 17 3

I guess Duolingo is targeted more to a bit older audience than ten-year-olds (I started learning English in school when I was 9 years old, which is a common age in Finland to start on a second language, and I guess it is about the same in Scandinavian countries).

Having an English for Swedish course (and English for Finnish etc) is a good idea but it would probably make more sense to stack the tree a bit differently, skip the basics or run through them very quickly and concentrate on more advanced issues.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SongbirdSandra 18

Hei hdcanis!

Since Finnish is your native tongue, do you understand Swedish?

I know your profile states that you know some Swedish, but do you understand what you haven't learned yet?

Do you also understand Norwegian, Danish and Icelandic?

I've read that if you speak one nordic language, you have the ability to understand them all, somewhat. Is this true?

EDIT: Of course! I momentarily forgot that Finnish is an unrelated language and not part of that so-called 'mutual intelligibility' group.

Thank you both for your responses.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

Be aware that Finnish is a completely unrelated language to Swedish/Norwegian/Danish/Icelandic. Finnish isn't even Indo-European, nevermind North-Germanic! Beautiful language though. :)

It's Swedish, Norwegian, and Danish which are said to be mutually comprehensible to varying degrees depending on particular dialects. Icelandic is much more conservative and wouldn't share the same intelligibility. I'd be interested to hear what a native of Danish/Swedish/Norwegian has to say about it.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

Quite right. I'm a native Swedish speaker (and have never studied Icelandic), if I look at an Icelandic text I might be able to guess what it's about, but not much more. Icelandic also has a history of strong linguistic purism which makes it harder to learn.

People from the parts of Sweden that are closest to Denmark/Norway understand those languages better, but we can all communicate if we try. There are some very difficult dialects though. Norway has lots of them because of both geography (think fjords) and history, some of them are very hard for Swedes, some are easier. Danish has a pronunciation that is pretty far from how the language is written, so it's hard generally because of that until you get the hang of it, and some dialects may be hard to understand even for other Danes, from what I've heard. – Sweden also used to have much dialectal variation, but we're moving more towards regional standard spoken languages so it's getting less difficult. Since Swedish is the biggest language, Danes and Norwegians used to be better at Swedish than the other way around. But nowadays, a lot of young Swedes go to work in Oslo or Copenhagen, and then there's the bridge...

Finnish is, as you say, not even Indoeuropean, so Swedish isn't much help there, although there are similarities (they have lots of compound words just like we do, for instance). Finnish also has a very special phonology that has made it very difficult for them to create loan words – the phonology is so strict that few foreign words fit in the Finnish patterns. (bank -> pankki is one they did squeeze in). Good thing about Finnish phonology: spelling is really easy. I'd love to learn a little Finnish, I think it is a beautiful language.

8Give Lingot1•2 years ago

AabLundin 14

To read Norwegian (I think both versions, but at least one of them but I do not remember which one is which one) and Danish is not difficult for a Swedish speaking person, and Swedish is not difficult to read for Norwegian or Danish speakers (that is to read it silent and understand the text - to pronounce it correct is another issue).

The spoken languages are different. It is like Danish and Swedish are at the end points of a continuum with Norwegian in between (my personal opinion).

And as Arnauti says, you can understand if you put your mind to it, and Danish and Norwegian speakers tend to understand Swedish better than vice versa. Abroad we often have the same guides/translators/interpreters speaking "Scandinavian", that is choosing the easiest words understandable by all and giving several words when the languages differ a lot.

Icelandic is much more difficult to understand, both written and orally. Some words would be decipherable though.

I once (not too long ago) saw in a Swedish magazine on language a comparison of a text in ancient Swedish, contemporary Swedish and contemporary Norwegian (don't remember which Norwegian - perhaps both). The two contemporary texts were very similar and easy to understand, while the old Swedish were like a totally different language. Still the old and contemporary Swedish are considered versions of the same language - Swedish - while Swedish and Norwegian are considered different languages. There is much truth in the saying that a language is a dialect with an army ...

(My native language is Swedish)

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

CecilieO. 14 10 4

I'm norwegian (with a northern dialect), I have few problems with understanding swedish (but I had to get a dictionary when reading academic text's in swedish). Danish is easy to read, as written norwegian in large parts are derived from danish. But I have problems understanding spoken danish sometimes, and they have problems with understanding me. But it's all a matter of practice and exposure.

Icelandic and faroese are too far removed to be fully understood without actual study. I can read a short text and puzzle it out, but I would not be able to rely on it for academic reading...

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hdcanis 22 17 3

I speak some Swedish, everyone gets taught it at school...I'll probably give the Duo course a go once it gets out of the incubator though I'll probably ace through the basic lessons (but I'm definitely not fluent in Swedish).

Finnish doesn't help at all, it is completely unrelated to the Scandinavian languages. But with my Swedish I can often get at least a gist of Norwegian and something of Danish, but Icelandic is too far off. I don't know if native speakers of Swedish understand it better...

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KansasBurri 11 3 11

I WON ANNKA's "Guess the next incubator language challenge." WOO HOO. In all seriousness, though, its good to see even more languages in the incubator. But have they made English for Swedish speakers yet? Because Luis says Swedish for English speakers is being made and I don't remember there being one in the incubator.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jack.Elliot 25 25 25 25 21 13 10 10 9 9 8 5 3 2 2 1279
Wonderful

something for the English speakers to get the language first instead of having to do it in reverse

Great news

Congratulation to Luis and his team of Staff and the countless volunteers that make it all happen lovely

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Duogreenowl1 6

I thought I saw a Facebook post on Duolingo (October 15, 2013) that there was an English for Swedish speakers course! But when I look at the courses in the Incubator now, it seems to have been scrapped (I think it's because Swedish speakers are very fluent in English)... (And sorry, I don't know how to make links)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

This is great news! Thank you Luis, I can't wait to see even more languages added. Thank you for all your amazing work on this site :)

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AernJardos 14 9 9 8 4 3 7

Fantastic news! Glad to see Scandinavian languages on board!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

As a child I loved the Swedish Chef. I can't believe I am the only Muppets fan among Duolinguists. How many wonderful moments trying to fathom what he was saying while making all those meatballs.

Urdu-speakers and Bosnians both make great meatballs, too. In case menus help steer the next language releases. :)

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AabLundin 14

Actually, so are all Swedish speakers! Because to us, the "Swedish" chef do not sound at all like speaking Swedish!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

le-lapin-noir 18 16 16 11 7 6

<http://warmfuzzyglow.com/elasuomi/page/8-swedish-finland/>

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

I had no idea about the Swedish-Finnish connection. I laughed and learned -- just like watching the Muppets. Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SongbirdSandra 18

I am a fan, also. (As a matter of fact, it has not been that long since my last impersonation of the Swedish Chef). ;-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tbarasmussen 11 7 7 6

Skål (cheers) is not used figurative on Danish - use tak (thanks) instead. I'm 99% sure this applies to Swedish as well.

I would have hoped for Danish to come first, but Swedish is good too as I think I can complete it within a week when it comes in beta.

This is a technical question: the Scandinavian languages sometimes use suffixes instead of prefixes (a car = EN bil, the car = bilEN). This means that the questions asking you to enter the word for XXX would have to be fixed to allow you to select a suffix instead of a prefix - has this been fixed?

And by the way when will the best Scandinavian language (Danish) come into the incubator?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

You're right about how "Skål" is used in Swedish. I hope we'll get Danish soon too. I'm Swedish and love Denmark, but I'm not very good at Danish, a Duolingo course would be very helpful. My dream for the future of Duolingo would be to have stuff like Danish for Swedish speakers and vice versa too. Just imagine how much we could put in a tree if we didn't have to go via English!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tbarasmussen 11 7 7 6

The I am one fourth Norwegian and courses directly between Danish, Swedish and Norwegian would be great! The problem is that we from Scandinavia speak each other's languages good, but we aren't good at spelling... I imagine a Danish/Swedish team with one Danish contributor taking care of translations to Danish and a Swedish contributor taking care of translations to Swedish.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

I hope people will volunteer to make such courses, then it might happen. I don't speak either Danish or Norwegian well enough to help out, but I'd love to learn them on Duolingo. But the people who have actually studied another Nordic language should be very good at it, I hope some of them apply to make such courses. I'm sure that the number and "quality" of applicants to build a course is a factor when they decide what courses to build next.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adamyoung97 15 15 14 14 13 11 10 9 8 7 7

I think for the questions asking you to enter a suffixed word they will just ask you to write that word (Like if you've ever tried an X to English course).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

3IRIK 18 14 6 3

Excuse me. I'm pretty sure the best Scandinavian language is Norsk. Duh.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carlozzo 20 10 9
Grymt!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Frazer93 7

Yes, YES YES!!!!

Thank you Luis, thank you Duolingo! Thank you for listening to our campaign and to the voters (in the poll scandinavian combined would be landslide)

I will continue to work through french and really can't wait until I can start Swedish! Thank you so much!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-HKBK- 25 17 7

YES! This is great news, I'm so excited for the scandinavian languages to be introduced :D

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Rubenveres 25 21 8

Such a great news! have been looking for Norwegian... Hopefully it will be added soon as well!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Välkommen! And so is Swahili, I see! Dunno how to say welcome in Swahili, though (yet)...

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

... and an extra "duktigt!" to Luis for the correct spelling of Skål :-D

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Yeah, you wouldn't want to toast a new language course with this stuff, it's not very nice. Perhaps this is my excuse to crack open the akvavit I got for Christmas...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

No stinkin' way! I'm learning Swahili! Jambo!

Edit: Dang. It was pulled...now my Friday has been ruined. ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

araparseghian 21 21 21 18 17 15 13 12 12 12 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 3 3 2

Hujambo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Actually, Swahili was quickly pulled :/

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

A little sw/sv-confusion, probably... I was already thinking that it was strange that English-->Swahili would be taught before Swahili-->English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

araparseghian 21 21 21 18 17 15 13 12 12 12 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 3 3 2

I see Swahili for English speakers is also in the Incubator.....but for some reason its icon is the French flag?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Duogreenowl1 6

The French flag is the default flag for languages on Duolingo :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

How quick is that! Bravo DL. I only saw my first disgruntled posts about the lack of Scandanavian languages, less than a couple of weeks ago. But It seems the incubator is on full-Throttle :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Luis had already mentioned Swedish coming soon in his AMA on Reddit a few weeks ago, way before the campaigning started.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Oh I must have missed it. I usually see them. I'm looking forward to seeing Finnish and Norwegian, both of which I'd like to try.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

javiersfz 15 14 119

YEEEESSSSSSSSSSSS

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

idshanks 14 11 5 4 2

Excellent! I was so hoping this would be the case! My timeline involves getting my Spanish to where my German is over the next few months (until October) and then taking up Swedish in preparation of going to Sweden to study. This just about works out perfectly :D

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FearTheBlackout 10 2 2

Awesome! I'm waiting on Icelandic, though.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mitchell_MT 22 14 13 13 13 8 8 7 6 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 96

I just had a little dance party of celebration. I cannot wait until it will be released! Plus, I'm part Swedish. It's my goal to learn all languages from my heritage. I have German (Germany and Switzerland), Irish, Czech, Swedish, Danish, and Polish decent.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

magiaaron 23 8 6 6

This and Japanese are the two languages I've most been wanting. I'm so excited to read this!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tonywangtj 25 23 23 15 13 12 12 11 8 6 2 2 2 1319

Surprise me with Norwegian! ;)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

svedeju 10 9 7 4

Vad bra! Tack tack!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Is this the first time that a course has been added without the "reverse" [new language] -> [already-on-DL language] course being completed first?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Pleurocystites 24 16 14 10 9 9 8 7 6 5 4 2 41

No, Irish did it as well.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 110

Ah, that makes sense -- the market for an Irish-to-English course is presumably not very large :-).

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

Or it could have started at an extremely high level :-)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tariqnisarahmed 19 11 8 7 5

Level one: B2 English....

....Level 25: You're still here?!?!?!?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adamyoun97 15 15 14 14 13 11 10 9 8 7 7
Awesome!!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lewiscranston 25 25 17 11
BRA

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rambo.e 25 25 17 17 16 9 8 7 5 5 5 4 3 2 371
Will my understanding of German help me with Swedish?? Anyway, great news every time languages are added to the incubator

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hdcanis 22 17 3
It will help a bit, at least in vocabulary: a number of words are somewhat similar once you get a hang on the spelling and understanding Swedish becomes easier if you have background in German.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Saidaspen 18 3
I believe german will help quite a bit. English will help even more and maybe a bit french.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Buruboro 20 11 10 70
Excited to learn Swedish, and to finally see a Scandinavian language on Duolingo! Thank you and keep up the excellent work :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LICA98 25 25 20 18 12 11 11 11 11 8 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 11
Thank you for not making it English for Swedish speakers

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Knoxienne 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 18 17 17 17 16 15 15 13 12 10 1280
Just noticed this morning! Excited! <3 <3 <3

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

3wereld 19 19 16 16 12 10 9 8 7 5 5 5 4
Omg Yes ive been waiting for this since the very beginning of the incubator! Im very excited for this!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Birdinator 25 9 3
Kul med svenska på Duolingo!

Nice to see Duolingo adding more languages :) Especially my native language.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Weepy99 11 3

Das sind gute Nachrichten! This is very good news, it's exciting seeing all the new languages that are to come.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 15

Will this help me get a discount at IKEA? True story: My wife has night frights and also talks in her sleep on occasion (Her native language is Spanish and her second language is English). The other night she sat up and yelled "Haj Do." Normally that would mean nothing to me, but we shop at IKEA and when you leave it is painted on the wall next to the exit in letters about four feet high along with a translation (Good Bye).

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lingolangs 22 15 14

This is fantastic! Thank you all at Duolingo! :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Severinbt 11 5

Yes! This is wonderful news. :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheBryce 11 7 6 16

OH MAH GAWSH! I'm soooooo excited! I can't wait to learn my ancestors language!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Alternia 15 10 6 6 5 3 3 3 2 2 827

Well, this will stop all of those we want Swedish discussions.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kingthatcher 11 11 10 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 2

Og hva med norsk? Jeg også vil lære norsk, enda mer enn svensk D:

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Luke_5.1991 22 18 15 14 14 13 12 12 11 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 5 5 5 4 4 3 en dag...

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lewiscranston 25 25 17 11

Ja, en dag...

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

turidbrox 24 21 13 13 10 4 3 3 3 2 1129
Almost perfect: "Jeg VIL også lære norsk."

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kingthatcher 11 11 10 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 2
Takk! I have trouble with adverb placement in my languages, since it varies tons from language to language.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lewiscranston 25 25 17 11
Ja, jeg snakker norsk.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Diggabyte 22 12 8 6 6 5 2
Tack :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mirifis 19 13 2
AaaaaAAaaah ! Soooo great news :) I had voted for Danish, maybe it will come later :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheReichtangle 21 7 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 2 2 1
How do you vote?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mirifis 19 13 2
Well, it was an unofficial poll posted by a fan in the discussion thread. Look for it in the main discussion forum, I cannot find it quickly

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Elen-ka 17 14 12 8 6 6 3
Woohoooo!!!! I was waiting for this day for so long! Now just a little more patience till the course is complete plus reverse courses for Dutch and Greek appear on Duolingo and I will be done with my wish list and have thins to learn for at least 5 years :D. You totally made my day today with these news!!!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

VanillaRixCam15 14 5
I am excited about this

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

breravin 11

Made an account as soon as I saw this! Very excited! Can't wait to start :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

4of92000 22 4 3

Next up: Icelandic! :P

Would be nice, though.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mangos7844 4

Yay

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

possumgirl13 6 5

That's so cool!

1ReplyGive Lingot10•2 years ago

JesperSW 20 5

Det är jättebra med svenska! But i'm still hoping danish get's added at some point also :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RJMCE1 18 14 7 376

Bokmål?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adamyoung97 15 15 14 14 13 11 10 9 8 7 7

That's Norwegian which is split into Bokmål and Nynorsk, Swedish only has one variant as far as I know.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Rubenveres 25 21 8

I would like to study Bokmal, which was what I learned when I was a child... that's also the dialect that my dad speaks, although he is completely able to understand Nynorsk

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

underwood.jones 15 15 15 15 12 12 11 10 10 10 5 4

How exciting! I can't wait to take this course :) I am on tenterhooks waiting for the first crowd sourced course for English speakers to come into Beta. I wonder which will be the first? :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lynlyn091988 2
Woohoo!!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Big.Si 9 8 5 3 3 2
Great news!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ohheyitslilly 18 15 11 10 5 2
That's amazing! I applied in the Incubator once for Danish for English speakers, maybe i'll actually get in :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BlackNGreen 11 9 6 4 2
Great! I'd need some Swedish studying! I haven't really needed my Swedish anywhere so I've forgotten a lot!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

slarck 9 9
According to the Incubator, Swedish,Dutch and Irish will be completed in a few months. It's going to be really hard to choose!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LovelyLad 11 8 2
Great news, thanks :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

azureskye 14 10 9 5 4 3 3 2 2 Awesome! :) I'd love to learn Swedish!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108
But what building are they going to choose to symbolize it? Or have they already chosen one, I can't see it on the course page yet. <https://www.duolingo.com/courses>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pouvraire 11 6 5 3
i just had a look at the incubator and there was a recent update on the course by contributor arnauti! it says that the beta will probably be out by middle of august. im really excited!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

linkinparkSWE 14 11 10 9 6 6 5 3 3 2

Everyone that's want to learn Swedish in advance: talk to me on email or kik. I am a native speaker that obviously speaks fluent Swedish so if you have any questions or want to learn/have Swedish conversations, leave an email to: jonas.swedish@outlook.com or kik me at: tennisandpiano I would be grateful if you knew American/Japanese or French so I could practice more on those in return :) thanks //Lukas

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SirBis86 17 8 6 6

Sounds great!!!! This is the news which I have been waiting for months....

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

clayKaboom 20 15 11 11 11 9 7

Hopefully it's no later than October 8th! I'm so excited!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aceridgey 4 2

I wouldn't hold your breath, this course has been constantly delayed every week (original was early August I think).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

clayKaboom 20 15 11 11 11 9 7

Yeah, I know, I've been following it for a long time, and mainly since I've been in Sweden. I miss a feature in the Incubator to say "I'm interested in learning it", not only contributing to the course. In my point of view it would motivate contributors more as well as give them a better view to how many people they are delivering the course.

I just saw today that it is now expected to Oct,10th .. :(

Hej da!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MechiGaia 16 6 3 3 2

vi behöver svenska kurs! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jorovico 4

When is this available

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AmineK 15 10 8 7 5 3

Duolingo = So Soon !

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ChukyBlairBass 22 7 7 6 4 2
Yeah!!!!!! Per fi!!!! :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

katbeam 14 8 6
SWÄRJE FÖR ALLTID

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rickvanuden 16 13 12 9 8 4 2 Yessss, finally! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aceridgey 4 2
Thank you so so much. I initially started the old Swedish thread on the forums :-) so I am very happy to see this becoming implemented. How long does it take to get a language through the Incubator? Is it around a year?

Cheers

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sean.Phillip 15 9 5
Hurrah! When does this mean it will be available?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Samaracs 8 5
Yaaaaaaaaaay!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lingopoppy 7 7 6 6 2
This is great! Always wanted to learn a bit of some sort of Scandinavian language.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ilisama 8 3
SO EXCITING!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JasonTEPOORTEN 3 2
I'm looking forward to seeing the Swedish course :).

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ReedCalhoun 2

Cant freaking wait

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MechiGaia 16 6 3 3 2

Yeees, swedish! when will it be on?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ullek 25 23 22 10 10 3 2 8

When is it possible to see the result? I know a lot of refugees in Sweden looking for possibilities to learn Swedish before the official courses can be started.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rem-bert 16 11 7

Ow great! Last year I was in Denmark and discovered I could read Danish not too badly - I do speak the germanic languages Dutch, English, German and Frysian already. But I was completely at loss when Danish was spoken: is the written and spoken language one and the same? I had trouble to believe this and decided to take a course before my next holiday to Denmark, next year. Just got back to DuoLingo and was happy to see this course. So, I'm diving head-first into it, and at the same time I just keep trying to improve my French as well.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gadr90 4

Hej, alla! I just started a twitter for people interested in learning Swedish. You can follow it at <https://twitter.com/DailySvenska> I don't know exactly what it will become, but right now I'm tweeting one common phrase everyday. I hope you enjoy it - and it helps getting a little swedish into your daily lifes! Thanks for the attention. Skål!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

pewdiegirl 6 2

yessssssssss

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Pulikoden 18 4

add me ! i am learning swedish .. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

chloefb 4 2

I love learning new languages and I am learning swedish in school and I want to get ahead and practise!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HRNu2 3 2

Bra program

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hulkcrixus7 7
wow that is very good

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

527 "The water turned into wine."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1740371>
Translation: Das Wasser wurde zu Wein.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
21 Comments

LuGaGoo 12
Amen!

22ReplyGive Lingot3•3 years ago

VaderGareth 19 13 10
Kann man auch sagen: "Das Wasser verwandelte sich in Wein"?

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

hans-hh 25 1
Ja.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BernhardKr2 14
Ja. Ging bei mir. Hab es so übersetzt.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_____ 17 8 6
Jesus bibel nr.215,35

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

JuergenPf 15
Lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JuergenPf 15
Das sollte eigentlich unter anakins skeptischen Beitrag stehen ... Das Weinwunder kenne ich, auch wenn ich es selbst noch nicht erlebt habe ;-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hans-hh 25 1

Eigentlich ging es wohl um künstliche Bewässerung von Weinstöcken.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Peter645004 11 8

Ich habe "wandelte" verwendet anstelle von "verwandelte". Ist das nicht korrekt?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

hans-hh 25 1

Menschen, Sitten oder Zeiten wandeln sich. Aber in Wein wird Wasser (mit dem der Weinberg bewässert wurde) verwandelt.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Peter645004 11 8

Hmmm...also wenn ich mir <https://de.wiktionary.org/wiki/wandeln> anschau: Warum sollte sich Wein nicht wandeln, im Sinne von "verändern" oder "umwandeln". Aber zu Menschen, Sitten oder Zeiten passt es natürlich besser. Würde ich auch so sehen. Also ich sag mal, ganz falsch wärs jetzt auch nicht.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

TobiasBaue4 12 7 3

geht nicht auch : " das wasser verwandelt sich ZU wein" anstatt "in"

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

JessicaDaniela81 13 2

What? Der Sinn dieses Satzes erschließt sich mir nicht!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Lies mal die Bibel!

11ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

DorotheaBrey 12

Eine Geschichte aus der Bibel. Das erste Wunder, das Jesus vollbraucht hat, Wasser in Wein zu verwandeln.

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

LukasSp 9 8

Na das ist ja praktisch

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DonMartin1 25 15 12 71

Eine Geschichte in Johannes Kapitel 2.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

anakin2015 13

Ich hatte es so verstanden,aber es erschien mir unrealistisch

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

528 The False Hope of Fluency

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8981125>

Itjourn 20 12 10 5

Let's be honest here - this new measure of "fluency" is something of a farce. I can proudly say that I've completed my Spanish tree with all skills golden, which supposedly gives me a fluency level of 53%.

I can barely understand a word of spoken Spanish when spoken by a native. It's simply too fast for me, and although I'd feel comfortable having a conversation in slow-mo with a friend, to claim that I am half-fluent in Spanish would be the overstatement of the year.

I do hope people take the number with a degree of cynicism, because seeing a number such as that really does breed distrust in the Duolingo system.

I'd personally like to be able to switch it off, regardless of the fact that I know it's a sham. If not, perhaps a renaming to something along the lines of "reading ability level", which would reflect the true nature of Duo's system - excelling in teaching written text and ground-level vocabulary, but not fully developing the spoken side of its languages.

Apologies for my cynical views, but it truly is ridiculous.

Give Lingot61

1591 year ago

Leave a new comment

69 Comments

Dcarl1 25 22 5

It's quite silly. I just ignore it.

39ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PatrickRansom 16 11 10 5 3 2

Fluency is a very ambiguous term - there are topics in English about which I couldn't hold a 'fluent' conversation and I'm supposedly a native speaker...

15ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Ilmarien 25 25 25 15 14 13 2 2

I don't understand why they rolled it out either. It was a terrible idea in the first place, and I've seen enough people post topics asking about it to believe that all it causes is confusion and unrealistic expectations. It really just feels like a waste to me.

35ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2
Duo official statement about it

This has had a huge impact on how much people are learning with Duolingo as well as how many people are learning and how often they come back.

EDIT: But if you don't like it, you can just ignore it or use the userscript hiding it (see my answer to the OP).

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Ilmarien 25 25 25 15 14 13 2 2

Fair enough. I suppose manipulation and false advertising is a time honored cornerstone of marketing strategy, after all!

22ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Or the statistic on all users really gave that.

I imagine it can have a huge impact on all those in the beginning of any tree seeing their "fluency" advancing every time they take a lesson.

But for sure, it has to be improved once the tree is completed (or nearly completed). However, the stat will never reach 100% (it makes sense) as stated by Duo.

2ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Ilmarien 25 25 25 15 14 13 2 2

Oh, I'm not saying that I don't believe the stats. I can imagine that this keeps people around just like I can imagine that lowering the difficulty level helped retention rates. That doesn't necessarily make either a good decision. So yes - I really wish they would focus on things that would actively improve the experience instead of tagging on more bells and whistles and throwing statistics around to say that they're helpful.

Here I really don't like it at all, because there are already enough people who join the site and immediately ask the community whether they can become fluent with Duolingo alone. Now there's going to be that much more confusion involved, since Duolingo itself is telling them that yes, they can!

For people who are experienced with language learning, then yeah, it's obvious that you can't get fluent just sticking to Duolingo and need to speak with people, etc. But it seems like that's something that a lot of new students don't quite understand, and now that they're being actively misled, it's going to be even worse.

Anyway, I don't really want to argue about it, but I really would have rather seen more expanded trees than additional unnecessary window dressing.

26ReplyGive Lingot24•1 year ago

ltjourn 20 12 10 5

Wonderful statement, thanks for posting! Have some lingots.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Oh, I'm not saying that I don't believe the stats. I can imagine that this keeps people around just like I can imagine that lowering the difficulty level helped retention rates.

[...]

So yes - I really wish they would focus on things that would actively improve the experience instead of tagging on more bells and whistles and throwing statistics around to say that they're helpful.

I totally agree, I think there are things more urgent to fix/do.

But developing that doesn't mean they're not working on other things.

That doesn't necessarily make either a good decision.

[...]

Here I really don't like it at all, because there are already enough people who join the site and immediately ask the community whether they can become fluent with Duolingo alone. Now there's going to be that much more confusion involved, since Duolingo itself is telling them that yes, they can!

For people who are experienced with language learning, then yeah, it's obvious that you can't get fluent just sticking to Duolingo and need to speak with people, etc. But it seems like that's something that a lot of new students don't quite understand, and now that they're being actively misled, it's going to be even worse.

That doesn't necessarily make either a bad decision neither. ;)

I think users can get by themselves, once they finish their tree, that the course didn't bring them to fluency. And in fact that they can guess before taking it, and not only the once that experienced with languages, it's like any course: you never master (= being fluent for language) a domain (maths, history, philosophy, foreign language, music, ... anything) with just on class, one session/semester/year.

However, even for those confused about it, this badge will exactly show them that: they will (fortunately) never reach 100% (and not even sure 80% is reachable). So, in this sense, this feature exactly address this concern of a lot of users by showing them (an evaluation by Duo of) their progress towards fluency.

But a general message, when entering a course, could be: "Be patient, follow the course and see where you arrive." ;)

Anyway, I don't really want to argue about it, but I really would have rather seen more expanded trees than additional unnecessary window dressing.

I really think the development of this feature is nothing compared (in term of manpower investment) to what is needed to make evolve the incubator, in a scalable way (for all languages existing and to-be), in order to make possible extension of trees and creation of new trees. There is a lot of things that are needed in the incubator to do so, so developing one quite probably didn't consume so much time that could have been used for other things for the incubator. Especially since incub. developers and website developers are two distinct teams inside Duo (among various of them).

And know that all contribs push for having the needed tools to extend trees. But we all have to be patient. ;)

So, yes this "fluency" feature seems to need improvement but I personally don't "spit" on it (sorry didn't find the good way to say it, so I translated literally from FR ;) and just ignore it (for the moment).

2Give Lingot4•1 year ago

cambrightlamb 13 10

"Oh, I'm not saying that I don't believe the stats."

You don't have to say it, but I will.

0Give Lingot1•1 year ago

Dan.Cline 25 23 18 15 11 901

I'm progressing through Italian and so far it hasn't changed from 2%. I can't believe that it is a motivator.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Azure_Waters 25 23 22 12 12 11 10 6 2

I agree! :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Augris42 17 10 6 4

It is very silly. Also silly is the title for the "immersion" section: that is not at all what the term immersion (in reference to language studies) means!

25ReplyGive Lingot11•1 year ago

Bvogel1 25 24 11 8 1

I've often wondered why they don't simply call it "translation". You're 100 percent right; "immersion" means something completely different to language study.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 5 2 2 108

It is also totally inconsistent. It tells me I'm 59% fluent in French, where I'm level 19 and have a very colorful tree, but only 51% fluent in German, where I'm level 23 with an all golden tree.

23ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

cambrightlamb 13 10

Obviously French is an easier language. Duolingo hath spoken!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

savourtardis 20 18 12 9 7 7 6 5 4 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 835

Similarly bad regarding Spanish and German for me (I haven't checked French yet, where my Duo level itself is misleading to begin with): I am beyond the last checkpoint in German and only just have fewer units left in it than I've done in Spanish, yet it was actually a couple percentage points higher for Spanish.

I think it's going to bug me that it's there all the time but inherently incompletable; I didn't mind the old read X% of text, because it wasn't there all the time, and there is sort of a basis for that metric in that most common words make up a certain percentage of text in general.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 885

Nicely put. You are right the fluency level is meaningless

20ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KyledelPue 10 10 6 5 5 4 3 3 2 2

I take it as literacy, not fluency in speech.

14ReplyGive Lingot6•1 year ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2

Yeah, it does make sense when you see it as that.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bvogel1 25 24 11 8 1

That's a good way to look at it; I agree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mrisse 17 11

I'd just like to say, thanks Duo for making a GREAT, FREE, product. I understand you guys are innovating and testing things and it may not always be perfect. BUT, I appreciate that you are putting yourselves out there innovating for our benefit.

14ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

klgregonis 24 23 23 22 20 17 17 17 14 11 10 4 4 4 2 459

I'm a native English speaker, learning Spanish (and Portuguese through Spanish.) It tells me I am 50% fluent in Portuguese, only 53% fluent in English through Spanish, and 56% fluent in Spanish through English. My Portuguese fluency is nowhere near as close to my Spanish fluency, either direction. I just ignore it.

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

I'd personally like to be able to switch it off

See here or just ignore it. ;)

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

m.tastic 25 13 11 11 8 6 5 5 2

I have a 52%, and for me it seems like a lie. Fluency is so much more than a number.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Perchta.p 14 12 12 10 9 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 3

Well, I ignore it too - I have only 25% fluency in German even though I speak much more fluently German (learning for several years) than Spanish where I have 37%.

But what I really do not understand - what these numbers really mean? I mean, I really can't imagine how exactly speaks someone with x% fluency.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 7 9 7

I agree with you wholeheartedly, it tells you nothing about your fluency and could well demotivate, rather than motivate as it fluctuates for no apparent reason (such as falling immediately after completing an exercise with 100% accuracy) .... I try to ignore it but it's very prominent and irritating.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Orsowski 20 14

Why not transform that "percentage of fluency" into a "percentage of tree completion"? It would be fair, useful and motivating.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Itjourn 20 12 10 5

Something like that would be such a simple, more honest unit of measure.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

They probably try/hope to give an additional information (related to fluency) which is not the "percentage of tree completion", which one can already be evaluated by yourselves counting the number of skills completed or using an existing userscript that gives the number of skills completed

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Elizabeth261736 16 15 14 7 2

Fluency is not a false hope, but it does take a great deal of time and effort. Consider how long it took you to become fluent in English. Duolingo might make a conversational Spanish class (or a conversational exchange) easier should you choose to do so. When talking to a native Spanish-speaker, you can ask them to slow down or let them know if you do not understand. I do it all the time. I also jump around, point at a thing, ask, "what's this in Spanish," and so on.

The fluency rating is based clearly based on some metric. My guess is that they divide some minimum number of words that you need to know well to become fluent by the strength rating of your Duo words. Is it a useful number? Hard to tell. Maybe for some people? I don't take it all that seriously, and don't find it especially discouraging or encouraging. I do have my own concerns about Duo, but think that my own sense of whether or not I am learning is more important than the fluency rating.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Macjory 25 25 25 25 8 7

But I don't think it measures "reading ability level," either. I can read all three of my languages with relative ease, as long as I can look up words I don't know. It's not clear to me that 'fluency' includes Immersion, for example. See also

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

It's not clear to me that 'fluency' includes Immersion, for example.

I don't think so since Immersion is not developed anymore. So I imagine Duo don't rely on it for new features.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

toomath 18 11 9 5 3 2

Heh. I can actually understand clearly spoken spanish pretty well (I can really get middle class Columbians for some reason), and can have long conversations, albeit with some significant patience from the spanish speaker. It says I'm 31%.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jonathangrant00 25 10 10 7 7 5 5 3 2

No matter what I do it doesn't move from 53%.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RebeccaR10 12

Mine's been broken since it appeared as well, it jumped once and never moved again. I also have a hard time believing my 48% fluency rating. I'm not keen on it overall, I think they have better motivators and stats in place all ready.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Could be that Duo consider it to be the best "% of fluency" (whatever a %age of fluency means) it can (currently) bring you to with the current tree for the given course.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

srand23 16

53%, huh? I'm at 51% and only halfway through my Spanish tree. I guess I can look forward to laboriously gaining that extra 2% over the next 7 or so levels! Won't that be motivational. :)

(Sorry for the snark. I'm frustrated by this matter.)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Naylor1993 23 17 17 15 13 12 11 11 11 10 8 7 6 4 4 4 3 2 2 2 2

I wish I could up-vote this discussion more than once!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

jackmchugh12 20 11 10 7

I think this 'fluency' may have really be reading fluency to be honest. I completely agree, i definitely cannot understand 45% of what is said by the french native.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PublishingKit 3 2

There's a difference, for me, between being able to speak a language fluently and being able to read and write in it. I have the hardest time speaking foreign languages, but I have no problems reading or writing in them once I learn the grammar structure and the vocabulary.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Sally410 22 58

There are two things to remember, the first is that this is a free course and so one must be realistic. Paid or free, a lot of work is going to be needed. After all, we continue to learn our own language throughout our lives. The second factor is a tricky one, basically it is about the plasticity of your brain, especially the areas involved in language. Some people will re-train in differing ways and to varying degrees. Schoolchildren do not have anything like this degree of difficulty because Mother Nature goes all out to encourage language in the young. Even still, at sixteen I knew that a lot of my school-taught French was quite different from speaking fluent French. And my exam had been paused whilst they asked me if I was part French.

In the end it is all about what you want and how you see it. If someone comes here and manages a few sentences of English, we help them. We do not (usually) meet their efforts with stinging criticism. This phenomenon can be found all over the world. Learning to say 'please would you speak more slowly' is an essential for any learner. However, if you really expected to be fully fluent in a short time, you would need to either run other learning systems at the same time, or have someone speaking with you every day in Spanish, in your case, along side Duo. And there is always going to be a need for a next stage of learning.

Personally, I think you underestimate how well you have done and you just need to keep trucking. The Spanish could not be nicer to learners. The days when you find yourself accidentally answering in fluent Spanish (perhaps when you have been thinking about phrases), will take any doubts away. Lingots and medals and percentage awards, are just Duo's way of helping to keep you motivated and to learn. What really matters is that you relax and enjoy the sometimes challenging learning of language. If you hardly knew any Spanish- look back and you will see that you have made real progress. Enjoy it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Playability 20 9 9

I've been learning Spanish for over 15 years and have been working through the course over the last few months but I have been quite deflated to see a score of 53%. That in no way reflects that I've worked in an all Spanish office for over three years or done dozens of legal translations at a notary!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Itjourn 20 12 10 5

I wouldn't give any value to the fluency rating personally. It's basically an arbitrary number in your situation.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Jessica118867 12 12 11 7 4

I'm a native Spanish speaker. It gave me 54% on Spanish. I allegedly know more French and Italian! Lol!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Patrick39168 19 13 10 167

DuoLingo alone is not sufficient to reach fluency in any language. If you want to understand more Spanish you will have to use more resources and listen to Spanish more often.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

CARicePuff 10 7 2

This is why I never take it seriously and never link my Duo stats to my LinkedIn

Not saying Duo is bad, the program (Duo) is not a gauge of fluency but works more of reinforcing grammatical rules and vocabulary.

Duo says I am 31% fluent in Spanish at level 8 but I could hardly write a decent sentence without the aid of Google Translate

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Jessica118867 12 12 11 7 4

I'm a native Spanish speaker. I tested at 54% due to a typo in translating to English in one of the questions. The fluency thing makes no sense. Don't worry yourself about it, just keep learning. According to Duolingo I know more French and Italian (the last after a single semester of study)... YEAH right! LMAO!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Lisa1240 20

I agree it's misleading, but if you can't understand the spoken language then you can hardly blame Duolingo.

Duolingo is a free - let me emphasise that - a FREE tool to get you to a certain level of understanding in the language. And it does a damned good job at it. But it has never claimed to make you fluent.

There is a limit as to what can be done on a website without the users being proactive and seeking out additional resources for themselves. Do you watch movies, listen to radio, and actually talk to people in your target language? If not, then how can you ever hope to understand anything at the speed of normal speech?

For heavens sake, stop whinging and be glad that you've had the opportunity to get this far in the language - free, gratis, and for nothing. Then take some personal responsibility and take your learning to the next level.

0ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

Itjourn 20 12 10 5

Making valid criticisms isn't whinging and, to address something you've said in another comment, we aren't attacking Duo's overall product, which is outstanding.

As for my own learning, I listen to news in slow Spanish, use Memrise, talk on Facebook with two of my close friends entirely in Spanish and I also attend a weekly language-based bar night, and I am and will always be thankful for the wonderful base of knowledge I have developed on Duo. I'm now using it for my German, too.

I think you're badly misunderstanding where I am coming from here. I'm not worried about how I perceive it myself - I know not to throw around the word 'fluency' at whim - I am more concerned about how other beginners perceive it, as the false high has the potential to really shatter some early confidence.

12ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Hey, user feedback helps sites like Duolingo improve. Some websites pay test groups to get this kind of feedback. If people don't like a feature they ought to say so, because that's how improvements are made.

9ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Lisa1240 20

User feedback is good. Expecting the site to make you fluent and then moaning because you're not, isn't.

-15ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

I agree; and I have no such expectation. I don't think the OP thinks that'll happen either.

I still think the fluency badge is unattractive and takes up a lot of screen space for something that serves no real function.

8ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

[+] 1 hidden comment

TawynaB 17 14 4

Not to jump on the bandwagon, but I can only go by where I am in my Spanish learning. I completed the tree after a year and although 54% fluency is showing I think that THAT number is pretty close. I think the percentage includes my knowledge of the words I learned along with reading and speaking some simple (and some that make no sense or would ever use) sentences. To get the other half, I have to add more words to my vocabulary and be able to have a conversation, the latter of which is the hardest part. Also, I would LOVE to see an extensive chapter on the use of the personal "a," but I have come to the realization I cannot get everything I need here on this site. I still use Duolingo to refresh my vocabulary but at this point in my learning it cannot help me any further. True immersion (not the translating of written/typed words on this site) is probably the way to go. I found an online college with one-on-one training and workshops a few times a week given completely in Spanish and what I have learned in the last two months is awesome. You participate in the workshop and nothing is better than being forced to speak it all the time and it is not as expensive as you may think. True immersion is definitely the best way. JMHO!

OReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Itjourn 20 12 10 5

Amazing! What's the website?

OReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aleksescomu 13 11 10 10 9 8 4 2 12

You are right, I don't know how Duolingo figures that percentage. Maybe they used a kind of word frequency corpus. I know if you want to understand 95% of current English you need up to 2300 roots (liber would be one... For liberate, liberation, liberty, liberal, etc)

I think you would be happy if you try the Esperanto tree. It's the foreign language i'm most fluent with and you'll reach fluency 6 times faster than in national languages, and literature level 4 times faster. According to corpora, you need less than 500 roots (regularly derived) to understand 95% of everyday's Esperanto. <https://www.duolingo.com/course/eo/en/Learn-Esperanto-Online>

OReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Zero0013 8 6 6

I think a series of timed tests should be developed to assess comprehension, that for example would be a really good start.

OReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M.Middleton 25 23 20 16 8 4 3 206

It's inconsistent, too. You can build up to a high degree of "fluency" with Spanish simply by working through the tree, whereas you can't crack 50% with German no matter how high your experience.

OReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

rgonnering 16 1

I like the concept of having a metric showing progress. You can argue about terms ('fluency') and what you know ('understanding speech'). My problem with Fluency is that it has been stuck at 53% for months. My wife's fluency has been stuck at 38% for even longer, even though we are roughly equivalent in lessons, and long past when it was last updated.

It has now become demotivating. Either it should be updated as some sort of metric of progress, or deleted from the page.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

jjvanz 13 3

I think the fluency percentage keeps you striving for improvement even after you've completed the tree. I don't think 50% is anything to be too proud of really. You probably only understand about half of everything being said.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

rgonnering 16 1

I am not sure what your point is. My point is that the metric is broken. What is yours?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

jjvanz 13 3

I didn't read your comment and mine wasn't addressed to yours. I was saying that I think the fluency percentage should be kept for additional goals for users to complete but mine also seems to be stuck at 53% for the last few days.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

rgonnering 16 1

Thanks for the clarification. Good Luck.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

sagetong 7 5 2 15
agreed

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 days ago

sigmacharding 18 17 15 15 14 12 11 11 10 10 10 8 4 4 2

To become fluent you've got to 'feel the flow' - not advertising here- I have not even tried it yet- but the concept is interesting

<http://www.mimicmethod.com/the-flow-of-spanish.html>

<http://www.fluentin3months.com/audacity-rap/>

<https://www.kickstarter.com/projects/mimicmethod/mimic-method-pronunciation-and-flow-trainer-for-sq/description>

Have a look at the video in the 'campaign' section.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

529 What dialect is most common or official to represent Italy?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3046214>

Ash.Blue 10

I'm from England, and if I were not I would learn the language through a central London accent, rather than say Liverpool or Yorkshire.

So which dialect(s) of Italy should someone try to replicate while learning? I heard that some parts of Italy have dialects unrecognizable to others parts.

Also, what dialect is the Italian voice in Duolingo?

Give Lingot

12 years ago

Leave a new comment

39 Comments

[deactivated user]

I believe Duolingo's Italian is of the "very irritated android" variety. :/

As for real human Italian, this is what Wikipedia has to say: "Standard Italian is based on Tuscan, specifically on its Florentine variety."

12ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Spot on :) regardless of Wikipedia, Italian is broadly Tuscan, based on the historical fact that Firenze (Florence) was a major European centre of trade. It helped of course that Dante was from there, and whilst archaic now, Dante's 'Italian' was recognised everywhere.

But it was the second World War that 'made' Italian. all the regions had difficulty in understanding each other, which is a bit of a disadvantage if you're fighting in 'one army' and no-one can understand each other.

Then came TV. If you couldn't speak fluent TV....well. So everyone learnt. It's a little sad to say, but if you now speak in 'dialect' you are looked down on as a country bumpkin.

On the positive side, Tuscan of all dialects, was the most worthy to have a national place. To anyone still struggling to get to grips with the language in 'Il Commissario Montalbano' don't worry. It was written in the Sicilian Dialect and many Italians don't find it that easy :)

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LiamRowe 25 25 10 10 10 8 5

I love Commissario Montalbano, and despite being level 25, I haven't a clue what is said without subtitles. I think the Sicilian dialect is spoken so fast as well as strongly. Even the cast had to adapt to it, there's a funny interview with them somewhere :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

I actually saw 'Il giovane Montalbano' before I saw the 'real thing' and Having seen 'the real thing' I can understand peoples fears of a prequel. But the prequel, in its own way, to me, seemed to be just as good. The simple fact is I love them both. Quite unique. For the BBC to have them on, In Sicilian!!! to me speaks for itself :)

It's great to know you're on level 25. I'm on 15 on the mobile, and 12 here. and I can just get the odd word or short phrase, here or there on Montalbano, so I just eat up the beauty of the countryside of Sicilia and let the subtitles do the rest :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LiamRowe 25 25 10 10 10 8 5

Absolutely, the show really sells Sicily as a great country. Can you really be two different levels across platforms? I thought they would sync with each other

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

I'm computer thick! I started DL on my cheap little smart-phone. I don't even know what my login name is. I just got the app and started. God bless DL.

Then I came to the PC, with a proper login name. And,so, no. I seem to have 2 distinct accounts and no synching. My fault, not DL's

I want to see Sicilia!

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

paulrausch 6 6 2

Sicilian is actually a different language. In the shows they speak Sicilian Dialect of Italian. But this is what Sicilians speak when they speak Italian. In my village Sicilian language is still the primary language. Sicilian itself has many dialects though, ranging as far as Salento.
https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Sicilian\_language

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

lubowsky 25 17 1053

I find myself laughing about "very irritated android" when I do my lessons now. Thanks!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

itastudent 15 14 10 9

Italian is mostly based on Tuscan dialect. By the way, that doesn't mean that Tuscan dialect is the official Italian. It's anyway a dialect and, as a result, it's different from the language known as Italian official language. You can find many differences in the phonetics, in the way of express the sentences, in the terms used, etc.

For more details about the differences with standard Italian:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Tuscan\_language

http://it.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dialetto\_toscano

In conclusion, if you want to learn Italian, you should not replicate a dialect. You just need to learn official Italian.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

A worthy post AND true. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

finnismundi 16 13 12 7 2 15

Spot on.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicoladc89 8

A Brief History of Italian Languages

All began when the barbarians defeat the Roman Empire, then the official language was Latin. In the next centuries, Latin remained the official language, but had begun to develop a lot of "vernacular languages". In the 9th century someone wrote the first documents written in Vernacular Language: The Veronese Riddle that is written in a half-Latin, half Venetian language. Only in the 13rd, 14th centuries, with Dante, Petrarca and Boccaccio, the Vernacular Language (in this case Florentine Language - Not Tuscan, Florentine) become important language. In the 19th century, when starts the Italian unification, Manzoni wrote the first book written in Italian (I Promessi Sposi). He chose the language of Dante, Boccaccio and Petrarca (the three greatest Italian writers), the same language used by Leopardi etc... Probably, if they were Venetian, now Italian would be different.

Italian derivate from the Florentine language. Florentine Language is the only language that resembles Italian. All others Italics languages are completely different from Italian. In Italy there are almost 20 different languages, not dialects, but real languages with their own word, grammar etc... All of these languages have some dialects (totally almost 100), but Italian has not dialects, because Italian came after the dialects :D.

Florentine Language is not a dialect of Italian, but Italian is an evolution of Florentine Language and others Vernacular Languages.

An Example I'm from Verona, in Verona is spoken a dialect of the Venetian Language. But the real Veronese Dialect is spoken only in the Town of Verona. To the north of Verona is spoken a different dialect, a mix of Veronese and Trentino, Cimbrian and German. To the east of Verona is spoken a mix of Veronese and Venetian. To the west a mix of Veronese and Brescia or Mantuan dialects. Etc... (In Verona there are almost 10 different dialects) If I spoke in my dialect, a Venetian understand almost everything but not everything, a Sicilian understand nothing.

If you learn Italian Language, you can understand (almost everything) Florentine Dialect or Tuscan Dialect, only them.

For example: Chair in Italian is sedia, in Venetian is Carega.

Artichoke, in Italian is carciofo, in Veronese is Ciocolo, in piedmontese is Articioc.

Child, in Italian is Bambino, in Veronese is Braco, Boccia, Buteleto, in Neapolitan is o'picciriell.

The Veronese "sgriso" has not an Italian translation.

In Florence is not pronounced the "hard C" (Casa) and all S is "soft S" (Sofa) and the language keeps clitic pronoun as in Latin and other Italian Languages (In Tuscan: Te tu dici. In Venetian: Ti te disi. In Italian: Tu dici.... You say.)

So Italian don't have dialects, people from Venezia don't speak an Italian dialect, but the Venetian Language. People from Napoli don't speak an Italian dialect, but Neapolitan Language. People from Sicily don't speak an Italian dialect, but Sicilian Language. And people from Tuscany speak a language very similar to Italian, but is not Italian and is not an Italian dialect.

Regarding the accents. Italian has its own accents. A Sicilian who spoke only Italian and a Venetian who spoke only Italian, has the same accent. In Italy very few people "has not" accents, because very few people don't speak dialect. Some people has a different accent if speak in Italian or speak in their dialect. All Italian accents is wrong if you want speak the "perfect" Italian.

I hope I made myself clear.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Excellent post. I should never have used the term 'dialect' in my ignorance, for I am aware that they are languages in their own right! :) I posted on here about, somewhere else about the language Mawayana (Which is from Guyana) Someone called it a dialect!! No it's a bloody language, which, alas there are now about only 50 native speakers

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

giovaug 25 16 6

Hey guys! I'm Sicilian and I'm a high school teacher of Italian Language and Literature in my country. You're right when you say Italian official language comes from Tuscan: that's true in terms of structure of the language. However, even if you go to Florence, and speak with no educated people, it's almost impossible to understand what they say, because of their hard intonation (e.g.: they don't pronounce the letter "C" at the beginning of the words, if the word is followed by a vowel: so, instead to say "CASA", they say "HASA"). SO, in order to understand people, generally the real problem is not where they come from, but what's the level of education and the rate of language they have. For me, it's the same in the UK: sometimes I perfectly understand the person I'm speaking to and sometimes not: and it happens as in London city centre as in Edinburgh or wherever I go. It depends the type of person I meet. Apart from that, I agree with all of you about the beautiful countryside of Sicily we can enjoy in the Inspector Montalbano: Sicily is a gem, not only because of historical and natural beauties but also because of our culture, that is the result of a mix of different cultures and people who lived peacefully here in the past (Greek, Romans, Arabs, Normans, Germans, French, Spanish...). Probably, because of that, generally we are particularly friendly and sociable towards foreigners, we are tolerant and accept any kind of cultural difference: in the diversity there is beauty and opportunities to get better! Bye and good luck in your study of Italian (by the way, do you know how we say, in Italy, "Good Luck"? It's funny, I don't know why, but we use a very odd sentence "IN BOCCA AL LUPO!": literally, it means "In the mouth of the wolf"...it does not make sense...but that's what we say :)

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Amico. Firstly, thanks for your interesting post. Secondly. DL teaches the phrase 'In bocca al lupo' in a bonus unit called Idioms, so many of us are aware of it. :) In Britain we say 'Break a leg' Both phrases are nonsense. but we all know that they mean 'good luck' Ooooh, but your writing makes me want to visit Sicilia, even more than I did.

P.S. Teacher 'Hystorical' isn't a word. You mean 'Historical' for things of the past. 'Hyst' in English appears in only a few forms, one of which is 'Hysteria' - a kind of dementia. So the spellings sono molto importante!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SaxyLady 25 10 9 1404

We say "break a leg" in the US as well but seeing as I almost broke an arm when I fell off a stage during a dress rehearsal years ago I generally avoid that expression. ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Saxy Lady. Please don't avoid the expression. Because it came from 'the stage' in the first place! It was first used by actors, to wish each other good luck, before they 'walked on' [that's 'break a leg']

I have spent most of my life on stage, (Terrified in the wings) If someone had simply said to me 'In bocca al Lupo' I would have melted into a calm! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SaxyLady 25 10 9 1404

I use the Italian one instead. ;) In a way it seems like telling someone to be brave while not joking about breaking bones. LOL

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Understood! You stick with 'In bocca al Lupo' it actually makes a lot more sense, when you walk before a crowd!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

meowool 7 5

I normally say Break a Leg as I started doing dance shows from when I was around 7, so it's like how Éire is more or less a synonym for me, even though it's from a different language, but I've also learnt 'bueno fortuna' from an Italian friend and also 'merde' can mean good luck in french too! XD

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

giovaug 25 16 6

Ciao Maddys6. Ti ringrazio per la precisazione relativa alla parola "Hyst". Hai proprio ragione: lo "spelling è davvero molto importante e, talvolta, a causa di ciò, si può andare incontro ad equivoci linguistici. Relativamente all'espressione "In bocca al lupo", probabilmente Duolingo non indica la risposta che bisogna dare quando qualcuno ci dice "in bocca al lupo": in questi casi, la risposta da dare prontamente è: "CREPA!". (significa "muori"): Ancora una volta, ignoro la ragione di tale risposta, ma, talvolta, la lingua parlata è un pò strana...:)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

I am ashamed to say, that whilst I could read some of your post, most was beyond my limited Italian. :( I'm trying hard to learn. your beautiful language, But it does not come easy to a simple boy, like me.)

EDIT : Actually I just read it again, and most of the words (parole) just came to me, without thinking. It was a powerful piece of writing :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

giovaug 25 16 6
[deleted]

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

nicoladc89 8

What are you saying? If someone say to you "In bocca al lupo" u have to reply "Crepì" (il lupo), not "crepa". In English there is a similar expression: "Break a Leg!". Break a leg and "In bocca al lupo" is idioms used to wish good luck in an ironic way. In bocca al lupo, is an expression used to say "put your self in danger", literally "be eaten by a wolf". So people reply "Crepì!" (Il lupo) - "deads the wolf!".

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

finnismundi 16 13 12 7 2 15

Good points. As a foreigner living in Italy, I often found Tuscans to be some of the hardest people to understand.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AFlecker 18 18 18 9 9 8 7 7 7 6 3 2 1182

It is not a dialect but rather a language in itself. Many people use the term dialect to help unify the country and give it one political identity, but there are many languages in Italy, with many more variations, which are more prominent in the south, with each little town even speaking differently. Many confuse Sicilian to be an Italian dialect but if you look, it is almost unintelligible if you learn Italian. It is a beautiful language as well, and I hope someone who is fluent in it will put it on here someday, but just remember that a dialect is very common nowadays to clump many groups into just one for sake of generalization.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

It is difficult to understand, where a 'dialect' ends and a 'language' begins. I would cherish being able to learn Sicilian :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicoladc89 8

Language is language when it's used in official documents or in literature. The "Serenissima Repubblica di Venezia" wrote its official documents in Venetian Language. Dante Alighieri wrote his "Divina Commedia" in Florentine Vernacular Language. The movie "Baaria" is in a dialect of Sicilian Language (the movie has 2 versions: the first in Sicilian language and the second dubbed in Italian, because the Sicilian version is completely incomprehensible outside of Bagheria and outside of Sicily). Neapolitan, Venetian and many others languages that's spoke in Italy (Cimbrian, Ladin, Sicilian, Sardinian, Sassari Language, Piedmontese, Friulian, Gallurese etc...) are protected by regional laws and some of them are protected by UNESCO.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Wow. This is a little off-putting to us, who are trying to learn Italian. It's a gorgeous Language, and I am aware it has been standardised for schools

But we are 4 countries, more or less in Britain, and we all speak English, but we all recognise most others dialects or accents. I'm both Scottish and English, but have no trouble in recognising either....because they are basically English! I understand in some parts of Northern Italy German is spoken and a bit of French too. But I could be wrong?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicoladc89 8

In Valle D'Aosta people spoke French (and French is official language in Valle D'Aosta), in Sudtirolo (Bolzano) spoke Deutsch (and German is one of the official language in Alto Adige, there's newspaper and official documents written in German). French and German is the only two official languages - in addition to Italian - in Italy. (A few years ago, in Sardegna, a man claims that all the documents were translated into Sardinian Language, the man says that he could not understand Italian, and so, all documents were translated into Sardinian)

In Alghero (Sardegna) is spoken Catalan Language, and in Puglia is spoken a Greek dialect. In Friuli is spoken Slovenian language (and in Slovenia and Croatia is spoken Venetian Language) ecc... Others foreign languages spoken by Italians are: Croatian, Jews' Language, Occitan, Franco-Provençal, Cimbrian (Germanic Language), Ladin etc... (all of these is recognized language minorities).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

This seems so strange. When I as a Brit, can understand Canadians (The English speaking ones), Americans, Australians, Kiwis, Irish, Welsh, English, Scottish, Guyanese, people from Tristan da Cunha, a multitude of African countries and many more!

What an odd world ')

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

nicoladc89 8

Britain is a millenarian nation and British Empire was the biggest empire ever (The empire on which the sun never sets) and English is a millenarian Language. English is nearly the modern Latin (nearly because all languages are influenced by Latin... Oscar Wilde written De Profundis and Isaac Newton written the famous Philosophiae Naturalis Principia Mathematica). So I as Latin... :D

Italy is only 153 years old nation (and its unique colonies was Libia and Eritrea, for few years). And Italian Language is a little more older. The first book written officially in Italian is "I Promessi Sposi" written by Manzoni in 1827- This is the first appearance of Italian, before 1827 Italian Language doesn't exist and people didn't speak Italian; they speak their own language. In 1861, 70-90% of population didn't know Italian Language. From 476 to 1861, Italy was fragmented into a lot of small nations, sometimes dominated by foreign nations.

Verona, for example, was Roman (one of the biggest city of the Roman Empire), then became Ostrogoth, Lombard, French (Carolingian Empire), then passed under the domination of Holy Roman Empire, and then became Signoria governed by Scaligeri. After of that, Verona was occupied by Visconti and then by Venetian Republic. Returned French (Empire of Napoleon) in 1796 and became Austrian in 1797. Only in 1866 Verona became, finally, Italian. In all of these year the official language was Latin, but people have long since stopped talking Latin. This historical situation created all Italics Languages and Dialects. And for this reason, Italians use a lot of hand gestures when they speak: for centuries people have to talk with other people that speaking a different language, so they started using gestures.

Maybe, in 300 years, all of Italics language disappear and will remain only Italian.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

fascinating :) Thanks for sharing. The more I get to learn about Italy, just makes me realise how little I know.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

paulrausch 6 6 2

There are minority languages in the UK too. They've mostly been eradicated by linguistic policy though. This may be what happens to the Italic languages without intervention and preservation.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

paulrausch 6 6 2

Hey Maddyis7, we have a number of communities, and resources. We're very active towards helping new language learners. The "Speak Sicilian!" group on FB is a good start, as well as nzignamunni u sicilianu. We face a lot of problem with stigma in language promotion and preservation and it's very nice to hear people wanting to learn.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

I've only just seen your reply.. Thanks for the Info. My original post was many months ago, but came about because of a little frustration not being able to understand much in the TV programme 'Il giovane Montalbano' .... I love that program...and the original, of course, too. So happy that we get it here in the UK. Bella Sicilia ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

SteveLando 22 18 17 16 14 12 11 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 6 6 6 5 5 3 6

Italy is the most linguistically diverse country of Europe (excluding Russia), but when you are studying 'italian' that is often meant to be 'standard italian' which is tuscan language of the florentine tongue, and nowadays primary the roman dialect of the tuscan language (not the roman language, thou).

(standard) Italian is very easy to pronounce, just read what the words say, it works almost every time.

However, Italy is composed of many different languages, all of whom are not even part of the same subgroup of the romance languages (for example piemontese which is galloromanic), you might have a look at this page for further clarification:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Languages\_of\_Italy

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maddyis7 18 8 5 5 1

Yes. I love how when you read standard italian, the pronunciation is so easy, compared to say English, with all our odd spellings. The only bit that is difficult, is sometimes the 'stress' is not always on the same syllable; it's usually on the second to last, but not always ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

patriceiowa 7 3

"sicilian ' is considered a 'minority language' because it is too far separated from 'italian ' to be called a dialect.

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

530 Why did I lose my streak?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204762234-Why-did-I-lose-my-streak->

Oh no! In the future, please check what time zone your account is set to and make sure you reach your goal before the clock changes to another day. The "Daily Goal" graph on the right sidebar of your home page should show you how much time you have left for the day.

If you know you were in the correct time zone, had a streak freeze and lost your streak anyway, here is what probably happened:

We have looked in to many lost streak claims of people who said they know they missed a day, but who thought the streak freeze should have kept the streak going. Looking into this is not an easy task, and we quickly noticed that 99% of the time, people lost their streak freeze on another, earlier date, and then did not have a streak freeze protecting them. We cannot give the streak back, so to prevent this from happening, please check the lingot store occasionally to make sure your streak freeze is still equipped. You can quickly check by clicking on your lingot icon on the blue top bar of the Duolingo main page.

531 The importance of gestures in Italy

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2361450>

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

This is an eye opening article that talks about the importance of knowing gestures if you visit Italy as well as the current politics of sign language there.

<http://www.bbc.com/news/blogs-ouch-26737781>

Give Lingot6

502 years ago

Leave a new comment

21 Comments

kristinemc 16 9 7 4 2

:) There's also a great New York Times video about Italian gestures. Check it out:

<http://www.nytimes.com/video/world/europe/100000002309793/the-italian-gesture-.html>

and an article that goes with it:

http://www.nytimes.com/2013/07/01/world/europe/when-italians-chat-hands-and-fingers-do-the-talking.html?\_r=0

17ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Thanks kristinemc! :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kristinemc 16 9 7 4 2

Recently, I was at a bookstore and snapped this photo (caught my attention- wanted to remember to read and buy it later). This thread reminded me of it (thanks, Usagiboy7!)

Here's a review of 'Speak Italian' by Maria Popova:

<http://www.brainpickings.org/index.php/2012/12/13/bruno-munari-speak-italian-gestures/>

And a pic from the actual book :)

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2 3

Here's the full programme on iPlayer. If you're not in the UK, you can use Media Hint to circumvent the geo-blocking.

http://www.bbc.co.uk/iplayer/episode/b03zmjk0/See\_Hear\_Series\_33\_Episode\_32/

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mmseiple 23 13 12 12 3

I ran across this video on youtube a while back which explains a bunch of Italian gestures:
<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aHZwYObN264> Just in case you're looking for some more!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dewluca 25 7 278

This one made the rounds a while back . . . hilarious!
<http://www.swide.com/art-culture/learn-italian-hand-gestures-with-dolce-and-gabbana-male-models-video/2014/01/22>

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

This is brilliant!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Beppe 25 22 5 3 1237

maybe duo should plan a course on Italian gestures .... ;- ) In the meanwhile:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=zVwGkSZE-CU>

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Trang. 25 24 20 13 11 10 8 8 2 1232

I have seen some gestures of Italians on the link below but when I asked my Italian friends they said not everything was true, so you better check with it before using <http://uni-italia.vn/van-hoa-italia/cu-chi-nguoi-y/>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

methyIsalicylate 10 3

I saw the See Hear feature last night and it was fascinating. They discussed how hand gestures are entirely independent of Italian Sign Language used by deaf people, but the English signing deaf presenter was able to shop and communicated perfectly well with sellers in the markets using gesture, in spite of not speaking or signing Italian.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicoladc89 8

In Italy there are about twenty language and more than one hundred dialects (In AltoAdige people speak Deutsch, in Valle D'Aosta people speak French, in Alghero Catalan, in Trentino-AltoAdige and Veneto Ladin and Cimbrian... And there are also many other languages: venetian, neapolitan, sicilian etc...). Before the union, Italy was fragmented into a lot of small nations, dominated Spain, France, Austria etc... One of the firsts work written in a language similar to Italian is La Divina Commedia by Dante Alighieri (XIV century), wich is written in Florentine vulgar. Only in nineteenth century we can see the first example of Italian Language, with "I Promessi Sposi" by Alessandro Manzoni. Before union of Italy, only a few people was able to speak Italian. An italian from Veneto didn't understand the language of an italian from Lombardia and Italian from Sicilia didn't understand the language of an Italian from Campania, so gesture became needful to understand people from others regions of Italy and it became associated with language.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sergeikov 14
Funny but useful

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Andrealphus 5 5 5 5 5 5 5 4 4 4 4 3 3 3
I wouldn't link if I knew where the book with the online version was, but in "Hide This Italian Book" it tells us that even insults and racial slurs have nearly mandatory hand gestures.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

araparseghian 21 21 21 18 17 15 13 12 12 12 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 3 3 2
Italian: it's like being Jewish, but with more hand-waving.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Limitd 23 17 2
Bahahah great posts, will be looking through all these links/books in due time!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jack.Elliot 25 25 25 25 21 13 10 10 9 9 8 5 3 2 2 1279
Cheers thanks. I speak with my hands and love the link .. I normally find interesting things for you , but this one is a gem... thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

oheliza 7
Thanks :3 That's really great.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

flareon52 6 5
It is very important to know the right gestures, because there are words with several meanings, and you may get the person you are speaking to confused, or offended

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SongbirdSandra 18
I never commented on this thread, even though I have been enjoying it very much since you posted it. :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
I'm really glad that so many people have enjoyed it and added to it :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

minchu19 19 155

Thank you for this great information! It is very important to learn Italian gestures! Mi piaciono molto!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

532 My account is in a language I do not understand! How do I change it back?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204644534-My-account-is-in-a-language-I-do-not-understand-How-do-I-change-it-back->

If your Duolingo account is displayed in a foreign language and you need to switch it back to English (or another language), don't panic! The UI language can be changed in your settings.

1. Go to your settings page.
2. From the menu in the middle, click the arrow to show all available courses.
3. Select your preferred language.
4. Remember to save in order to make the change. Click on the green button on the top (the blue one will take you to the courses page).

There you go! That should switch your language back to English (or other preferred interface language).

533 What does my Fluency Score mean?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205933480-What-does-my-Fluency-Score-mean->

Fluency measures your mastery of the vocabulary and grammar of a language and your ability to understand and produce the language.

Duolingo estimates your fluency based on your progress through the skill tree and the accuracy of your answers. Because learning a language requires repetition, we also take into account how regularly you practice. Without continued practice, your fluency score will decline, based on our model of how the human brain forgets over time.

With Duolingo, you can achieve a fluency as high as 50-60%. Keep in mind that the Duolingo fluency score is solely based on your Duolingo activity, and does not take into account any external activities you may engage in to improve your foreign language skills.

Fluency score on the website:

534 The Duolingo Community :)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1567953>

sokovia 10 6 3

I just wanted to say how much I love the Duolingo staff and community, it's always so fun going on Duolingo and learning new languages, as well as reading funny comments and gathering helpful tips. Very rarely do I see spammers/trolls, and I think the staff are doing a great job fixing bugs and glitches, as well as improving the website and dynamics. Keep it up!

Give Lingot6
563 years ago

Leave a new comment
7 Comments

Ezattack123 10 10
Thanks Duolingo!!!

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2
One of my favorite sayings is "sharing is caring" and that is why I love this community and the Duolingo staff so much =)

4ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

queenofsheaba
Merci beaucoup , Duolingo! C'est tre amusant et il me aide beaucoup aussi

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dafoxe 11 3
When I'm practicing, I always check out the discussion to see if anyone needs help. Teaching others is a great way to make something stick in your mind, and helping others is always nice :)

2ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

lilianachernov yo hablo espaniol y quiero estudiar frances , como lo hago

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MeepDude 9
All true but I wish Duolingo made it easier to find friends who speak the language you want to learn. Such as in my case Russian,Ukrainian, Czech, Slovack, Chinese, Japanese, Dutch. Among others.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pazzi 16 8 6 4 3 2
d'accord ^_^

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

535 "La température du soleil est de plusieurs milliers de degrés."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3913694>

Translation: The temperature of the sun is thousands of degrees.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

8 Comments

robertcolin 20 18

Le of devant degrees est-il obligatoire ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SussexSoleil 25 10

Oui ... et non.

"The temperature of the sun is thousands of degrees."

"The temperature of the sun is many thousands of degrees".

"The temperature of the sun is several thousand degrees." <== meilleur traduction.

"The temperature of the sun is a few thousand degrees."

"The temperature of the sun is six thousand degrees."

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Wostet 11 10 9 6 6 5 7

J'ai mis "The temperature of the sun is several thousand degrees." mais duolingo" me l'a compté faux, j'ai signalé comme problème puisque tu mets que c'est censé être la meilleure traduction :P

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

robertcolin 20 18

Thanks very much

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Pourquoi" The temperature of the sun is several thousands degrees" a été refusé?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SussexSoleil 25 10

"The temperature of the sun is several thousand[s] degrees"

Sans "s" si "thousand" est employé comme déterminant cardinal, qui renseigne sur le nombre. C'est à dire, en réponse à la question: "How many degrees? Several thousand."

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Merci SussexSoleil :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SussexSoleil 25 10

C'est moi qui vous remercie. (J'ai remarqué une erreur de français dans ma réponse.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

536 "What else is in the food?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1045194>

Translation: O que mais tem na comida?

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

64 Comments

J.Ricardo 14

A palavra ELSE, muito comum no inglês coloquial, ela vem sempre acompanhada de outra, com o significado de: mais e, às vezes, de outro ou outra.

What else do you want to know? Que mais você quer saber?

Henry didn't say anything else. O henry não disse mais nada.

I don't like this restaurant; let's go somewhere else! Não gosto deste restaurante; vamos para outro lugar.

She went with someone else. Ela foi com outra pessoa.

Who else was at the reception? Quem mais estava na recepção?

35ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NathanMrtns 10

O que tem mais na comida? também é certo!

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Acho que é diferente. A frase que o Duolingo botou em Português é ambígua.

Você pode pensar de dois jeitos:

(O que mais) (tem na comida) = que outras coisas tem na comida? = what else is in the food

(o que)(mais tem)(na comida). = o que tem mais na comida = what does the food have more = o que a comida tem em maior quantidade

36ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

alleksandro 11 6 5 3

Realmente, eu inseri "O que mais está na comida?" e o Duolingo aceitou.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2

Normalmente coloco aquilo que especifica o que quero saber após o verbo, por exemplo, "quem é que chamou?" Quem é o que quero saber, mas quero saber quem é que fez determinada coisa. Mas aí só deixo como comentário, pois não sou estudado em letras nem nada.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Sim, tem várias maneiras de se evitar a ambiguidade trocando a ordem das palavras. Você coloca elas de um jeito que não deixa dúvida. Infelizmente essa aí ficou ambígua.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

J.Ricardo 14

That's right!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

Por favor, alguém sabe o que significa "else"???

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

anomalocaris 20 15

"Outro" ou "mais". <http://dictionary.reverso.net/english-portuguese/else> (Também pode usar este site: <http://michaelis.uol.com.br/> Ligações direitas para suas definições não funcionam, mais é um bom dicionário.)

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

"Else" são pra opções adicionais além da primeira.

Você pode usar em "o que mais (além do que já tem)?" = what else.

Ou também nos casos "or else" (ou então).

11ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

EliederSousa 17 12 8 5 3 3 38

Em linguagem de programação, else significa "senão" do tipo "if else " (se eu for velho trabalho, senão eu brinco). Isso se aplica na língua falada também?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Muito comum na expressão "or else".

Pode ser usado como o "else" do "if": "senão".

Ou de vez em quando com um tom ameaçador: "ou então".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EliederSousa 17 12 8 5 3 3 38

Acho que entendi, pelo exemplo que deu do tom ameaçador kkk obrigado!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Tecelamo

Else= mais

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TormannEster 14 6 5 4 3

Nesta frase significa "mais"

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2

Na oração is é traduzido em "ter" por aproximação semântica ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

izaiaz10 12 7 3 2

Check it out

<http://www.duolingo.com/comment/879250>

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2

Exatamente o que disse.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AlexandreL129 10

Why not: "what else has in the food?" ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Inglês não aceita isso...

Esse "tem" não é uma posse, é um "existe", então você usa "there is": what else is there in the food?

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

annaalves 7

Eu coloquei " O QUE MAIS TEM NA REFEIÇÃO?" e deu errado.Estou errada?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2
Food - comida/Meal - refeição.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

annaalves 7
desculpe, continuo sem entender???

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2
Comida é um pouco diferente de refeição. Claro que a refeição é comida, mas refeição é aquela alimentação principal, enquanto comida é qualquer coisa de comer.

Muitas vezes dá pra trocar um pelo outro sem problemas, mas se for levar ao pé da letra, comida = food, e refeição = meal.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

annaalves 7
Obrigada!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2
As melhores traduções que existem não seguem a raiz da palavra, pois o povo muda o significado. As melhores seguem a frequência de uso. Por exemplo se pergunta a um falante o que é comida, e janta, e refeição em português diz-se janta é a hora de uma refeição a qual é tem comida, em inglês dinner is a meal time that is compose by food.

Espero ter ajudado. Study hard.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

annaalves 7
Ajudou!!!ufa..Obrigada..rsss

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

priechuza 17
o que tem mais na comida deveria estar certo. Já reporte como um problema.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GianaGiost 13
O que tem mais na comida também está certo

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Elizeu_Santos 14 3

Como programador eu digo que else é SENÃO. não entendi nada!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2

Dependendo da posição else pode ser senão. Mas neste caso é mais/a mais.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Elizeu_Santos 14 3

ta ficando mais difícil que portugues

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luiz.calheiros 18 8 8 2

Falar em inglês não é difícil. Mas traduzir em si é. Na hora de falar você erra e ao longo do tempo absorve a maneira de seus amigos falarem, porém pensar em duas línguas é complicado, quiça fazê-las se imitarem.

E todos estamos aprendendo, todos temos algo por difícil.

Bons estudos ;D

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AnaMariaMarmo 15 3

nao pode usar have ,como tem?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

labali 22 6

Por favor, qual a diferença entre "O que mais tem na comida?" e "O que tem mais na comida?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Helio_Ramos 11 10

Deve ser aceita a resposta

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

baltazar.silva 14 4 3 1

Qual a diferença em dizer: o que esta na comida ou o que esta presente na comida.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

labali 22 6

Pode se usar também: "Que outra coisa tem na comida?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MagalStone 16

Coloquei " o que mais esta na comida" e aceitou.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

labali 22 6

O que tem mais na comida para mim é o mesmo que o que mais tem na comida, por que errado?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

edupajeu 14 8 8

Por que não utilizar o termo "has" por si tratar de "ter"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

carlosmentor 15 8

Poderia ser "What else in the food?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BrunaBan 10

Qual a diferença de "more" e "else"???

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

---Sambaroli--- 18 6

Please, o que o "IS" está fazendo na frase??????

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dionnathan 13 10 3

Poderia ser "What more is in the food?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Pablokumura 9

quando devo usar "else" ou "more"? não sei em quais situações...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Pablokumura 9

para ser "TEM na comida" não teria q ser.. "what else have in the food"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JoselitoSa4 24 6 34

Escrevi: O que mais tem na comida? E o Duolingo considerou errado

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

FlorindoSi 13 12 8 73

TO BE = SER = ESTAR e não TER (To have). Para vc ter razão a frase deveria ter HAS e não IS

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

gargalhadasmil 12 1

Alguém sabe me dizer porque "o que mais tem A comida?" é considerado errado?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FlorindoDuarte 20 7

A pergunta em Inglês p/ a tradução apresentada deve ser : What else HAS in the food?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DiegoCapixaba 9 6 3 1

pq o THE, se não é traduzido?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fercho759205 21 13 8

Nossa que legal. usei essa frase hoje quando falei com minha irmã.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Maycon649932 14

Nespresso

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Eliel.Sousa 17 20

Onde está o verbo ter nessa frase?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MarianaCor364441 8

Eu coloquei "O que mais tem na comida?" e não aceitei.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FlorindoDuarte 20 7

To be significa SER ou ESTAR, não TER, portanto está chumbada, sem direito a recurso. Se a pergunta fosse "What else HAS..." aí vc acertaria.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

elzahilrio 11

O som me confunde as vezes!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

elzahilrio 11

Isso e bom!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

elzahirio 11
Okay !

-1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

ClodomiroC2 15 2
Ok

-1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ClodomiroC2 15 2
Anythig else na frase a torna confusa

-1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

537 "We have the salt."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/253364>
Translation: Tenemos la sal.

04 years ago

Leave a new comment
129 Comments

mary2002 5
y yo tengo azucar jdenme un premio!

21ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

FjesusBassoon 10
en realidad si. Por lo menos en Venezuela, es un condimento

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

isalous 3
¡Te lo voy a dar mañana!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Candra4 9
And me have sugar.....Jajajajaja

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Andresspaniish 10
Pues el sonido se me parecio a soup , no entendi salt

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Consolacio11 6

Pues si

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

americasosa 5

el problema es que no se escucha bien

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jcabalrein 4 3

Tienes q escuchar varias veces Asi m pasa

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FjesusBassoon 10

se escucha soap

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NecPock 4

soap se pronuncia sup

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariadelPilarc 6

me sucedio lo mismo

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Andresspaniish 10

igual

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

123456789202911 5

Frank, yo tambien lo escuche igual y me queme en esa resp.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

johannfjs 8

Es verdad, se escucha soup no salt

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jose_fleitas 7 7

Es que se pronuncia asi

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 4 hidden comments

salvicator 7
no entiendo por que las

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Yainna 15
La oración dice la sal no (las)

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cucurucha123456 3
Por q habla solo de uno

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

valentinar890597 5
A mi el microfo no me sirve lo digo tres veces y dice que segun no me escuha bien y eso que estoy pegada al microfono :(

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

123456789202911 5
Intenta decirlo lo mas claro posible y de forma pausada. Bay.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Moises_Ortega 6
Este es un curso excelente muy interesante practico y creativo.solo es poner, mucha atencion,interes y enpeño

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

caballo17 7
son feos los de aqui

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

marjorie205 3
Si y todo el tiempo no se escucha bien

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Moises_Ortega 6
Empeño al escuchar

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

IrvingLinBau 14

se q no soy experto pero últimamente veo que en estos ejercicios salgo mal por eso me puse a practicar junto con el traductor de Google y en el traductor me agarra exactamente el dictado y el traductor de Google es mucho más complicado a la hora del dictado

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mirsa772 8

En su respuesta al español dice las

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

connyplaza 2

pero se dice nose como pero algo asi

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Emaradiaga 10

no entiendo have cuando cambia a has

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Lucy21-1991 8

cuando se usa she, it, he, se usa has... Cuando usas they, you, we, usas have

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sarita2510 6

Has se utiliza en She, He, It y Have en we, they, i, you

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

amyleebeen

El have se usa en singular y has en plural :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

piedrasderio 3

jeje

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

crc69 6

Chiaaaaaaaaa, en verdad se entendió el "salt" ????? :S

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

simedi 8

Caspososssssssssssssssssss

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

elvis_teck97 8 4

Entendi I have the salt -.-

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Lllybrollo

i have the swit

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chabela1925 6

aqui la otacion

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

andres1001 5

soup y salt suenan igual me equivoque por eso :s

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

papagallo13 6

es nosotros tenemos sal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

freliaannys 3

sal (salt en ingles

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gabriela_sofia 11

a nosostros no nos dice la parte the )=

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

QuinteroDavid 6

no le entendi ni un carajo a esa tipa

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bunyol 9

No se oye nada!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BenaventeClaudia 11

Yo puse We've the salt y me la puso MALA

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FrankitoArce 3

el comentario de mary2002 esta genial y gracioso

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

fernandezB1 5
We have the salt

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JhonnyEdgar 7 6 2
jajajaj no entendia nada

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gabybernal11 3
nosotros tenemos la sal eso no tiene ningun sentido es mejor nosotros tenemos sal

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

uppetus 12 5
No tenemos porqué traducir "la sal". En este caso podemos decir directamente sal o la sal. Para mí los dos terminos son correctos

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

amigasrosaliniza 6
Hols

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rachelalex1 7
Hay no lo escribi bien salio mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AlejandroQ774591 2
Yo escuche sopa grrr

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cristianagudelo 9 2
la maquina no pronuncio bien have

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Isi_jexu 4
No se escucha como have se escucha como hause

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Moises_Ortega 6

Si pronuncia exsacto las palabras (si pones mucha pero mucha atencion al escuchar y al escribir

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

zulmayulyo 8 7

Este curso me da la sensacion de siempre exige los sujetosb en la oraciones

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

liamaryr1 5

Esta muy facil

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

comradezack 23 14 6

jaja "sowt" y aquí pensé que la voz en los lecciones de español fue mala.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

liamaryr1 5

Que cool yo puse en vez de salt puse sart y me la pasaron

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sebahparra 6 3

se escucha mal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

freddymp24 11

Se entiende es sopa -_- "We have the soup"no se entiende el Salt

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

midtoto 4

Es un curso a se aprende mucho y a mi m ayuda mucho el lisen

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kmilagomezz 8

has y have es lo mismo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CamilaCervera 3

yo no escuche

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NelsonRobl1 4

Aaa jaja yo puse south y a sido salt

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NicoleA20
No se escucha bien

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CECILAYUKIEL 5
eso es mentira es we have they salt

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ober2014 6
dificultosa pronunciacion.... "the salt"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

elihoyos0221 8
Salt with lemon

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MelissaCer6 4
Que loco

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maguirwin_ 7
lo escribi bien y lo tomo como q esta mal u_u

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Susseth-Gamboa. 4
El problema es que no se entiende muy bien

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Drcd 6
Tsyuffjfityryrh4yytuufuthdhfdhyrwsfdhrudhcnfjrhxbxhdhrydhv

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vi_DBest 3 2
You can do this!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnaMaryDur 5
Tenemos sal, o tenemos "la" sal, es lo mismo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

eliudnoriega 13 2

SOPA SOPA SOPA SOPA SOPA SOPA SOPA SOPA

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brandon.romero 3

Tenemos la sal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EsquivelCr 7

Salt - soup.... como es que lo dicen tan similar en el audio... porfavor arreglen el sonido oh la voz de la aplicacion

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

benjareyes93 4

Wtf, it is salt not soup, are you kidding

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SergioGonz928192 11

NO ES JUSTO! puse tenemos sal y es lo mismo !!!! No es justo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

karenlastre_6 4

Ay no suena lo mismo que sopa soup

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jesusrey.p 7

Es algo como solt

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

matoliva 11

no se traduce " nosotros tenemos la sal" seria "nosotros tenemos sal"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wmtablet 6

Anda yaaa con los articulos... Tenemos sal dicen los chef de la tele.... no tenemos la sal

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mariapalenzuela2 9 9

Aún no ha aparecido esa palabra: have

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SALOMONSAL3 4

No se entiende muy bien.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Candra4 9

yo estaba distraída y sin querer puse boy!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CHOCOLATE1360 8

Se oia sauce

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KimiNami1 5

No puse " la " sal y me la pusieron mal :'(

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ferchomc3685 6

Yo tampoco escuche nunca sal!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

galdino.och 4

No se oia bien

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

manuviolino 7

En español seria mas correcto obviar el articulo "la".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ragde74 16

En español es correcto decir : "tenemos sal"; tenemos azúcar. No necesariamente se utiliza el artículo (el, la, los, las). Tenemos casa= tenemos la casa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GrisMi_25 7

Umm me parece o dice soup!?? O.o

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dizzag 7

Tenemos sal esta perfectamente dicho da como correcta tenemos LA sal

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

keylita003 5
me encanta

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fernandomelian 10 5
^_^

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

suavibaby633 6
Yo hablo en el icono de microfono y me aparace que no escuchan lo que digo :/

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ccisnerosh 8
Nosotros tenemos el salero

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gvillacort 4
Cuamdo dices la sal no Es cuando dices el sal por el barça

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AlexNavarr928809 6 4
Se nota como si dijiera soup

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

giiru
tenemos la sal ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

marcos-arturo 5
se escucha soc,soff

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

omarfabian178075 5
es que no entiendo

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 days ago

Simon_R 8
Tenemos la sal

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

quieroypuedo 11
¿las sal? en español esto no existe

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Yainna 15
Duolingo esta traduciendo bien we have the salt = tenemos la sal y no como tu dices (LAS SAL).

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

eguzmanc 23
Lo que pasa es que yo escuche sopa y era sal a veces yo no le entiendo bien ala traductora

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

desrtan.lo 5
Te vas acostumbrando tu oido yo ya casi distingo ala perfeccion todo lo que dice

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Juanlpuc 3
esto es injusto, porque la palabra, nosotros o nosotras, se escribe lo mismo, We.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

simedi 8
Tienes toda la razón, pero ante quién nos podemos quejar. Yo siempre reporto que no tengo audio y sin embargo me quedo sin corazones (pierdo) y???????? Así es Duolingo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sarita2510 6
JAJAJA :$

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

123456789202911 5
Si no tienes audio es tu celular o tu computadora; te recomiendo que intente en otro equipo o en un movil.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vi_DBest 3 2
Si es regla del ingles We es igual para los dos tanto como "They" es "ellos y ellas" y muchas otras palabras...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

darwinlegu 6
lo correcto sería, tenemos sal y no tenemos la sal

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

odeup 7

Opino igual que tu. Para mi no tiene sentido anadir LA

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vi_DBest 3 2

Es parte de practicar cuando aprendas mas ,diras las oraciones mas sencillas sin necesitar especificar... Ahora hay un vocabulario muy corto,y a eso es donde formas las oraciones;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maralucia2000 6

si uno no se lo sabe y pasa al otro ejercicio no deberian quitar corazon que injusticia

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Gabrielucho 12

Estoy de acuerdo , o por lo menos que le quiten un cuarto del corazón.Si es que lo quieren castigar a uno.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SchenierLo 7

:/ vaya lío! Parecía como si dijiera "soup"

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

karenlastre_6 4

Si

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brunoriol 9

Gabrielucho eres un FRICKI FRICKON E HIJO DE SUPER PUTA UN MAL FOLLADO Y UN CAPULLO Y TIENES UNA PUTA MADRE HIJO DE PUTA Y TU TE CALLAS FRICKI SCHENIERLO QUE ERES UN HIJO DE PUTIIIIIIISIMA

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

538 What are the minor languages you would you like to learn?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19907607>

Inexpert 10 9 6

There are very old threads asking this questions, let's go for an updated "2016's Season Finale" one.

The question is quite simple -- What are the minor languages you would like to learn?

I would love to learn Icelandic, realistically, and Greenlandic, in a utopian point of view. Greenlandic is not only hard but it's pretty much impossible to find someone online to practice with or even a good online course. I'm considering doing a school exchange in the University of Greenland since they teach my degree there, but I know people will most likely switch to Danish or English when trying to talk to me.

I'm very interested in the minority language group of languages and I hope there are more tools to learn these languages online in the future, preferably on Duolingo!

Give Lingot2
292 months ago

Leave a new comment
77 Comments

grey236 14 11 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 2

I really like Native American languages, so I'd want to learn Salish, Cherokee/Choctaw, Inuktitut, Hawaiian, and Greenlandic. It'd be cool to learn Frisian, Basque, and Icelandic as well. There's probably more but I can't think of any right now :P

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MissThorson 22 3 3

I agree, I think it would be cool to learn Frisian also. I mean, it IS the closest language to English. At least from what I've heard.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

grey236 14 11 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 2

I've heard Scots is pretty close to English, but it's kinda disputed on whether it's more or less a dialect of English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

daughterofAlbion 14 13 11 9 8 6 6 3

I know of a case where a group of Danish businessmen visited their colleagues in England. One member of the group did not say much, until he was introduced to an old Yorkshire farmer. He and the farmer then began chatting animatedly. The other businessmen explained that their colleague was Frisian, and that they did not talk to him much, because they "could barely understand him". So I would not assume that Scots (as opposed to Scottish English) is closer than Frisian :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Theron126 25 21 16 15 4 2

I personally find this: https://sco.wikipedia.org/wiki/Scots\_leid

far more readable than this: <https://fy.wikipedia.org/wiki/Frysk>

That may just be because I've had a lot more exposure to Scots but the one does look closer to English than the other. It would be interesting to get some perspectives from people who have less familiarity with Scots.

I think all your example really shows is that Frisian is closer to Yorkshire dialect than it is to standard English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Osnakezz 15 11 11 299

It might have to do with spelling, though.

If we were to spell Scots the way Frisian is spelt, or vice versa, it might be less or actually more understandable, depending on which way and for whom it is.

2Give Lingot•2 months ago

piguy3 25 25 20 17 15 14 13 12 11 10 10 10 1

@Theron Well, sorry for the implicit spoiler, but here's one: https://youtu.be/RSR9eO\_ilfl?t=195

I concur in finding the Scots example much more readable than the Frisian. I don't have familiarity with Scots to speak of (beyond having tried to track down some recordings to hear what it sounds like). I never found an example of which I couldn't understand quite a bit, even the majority (an important source was here: http://www.ayecan.com/listen\_to\_scots.html but many of them seemed too easy to understand for me to really believe they were Scots in a meaningful way). I can understand nothing of the Spoken Frisian and only a thin smattering of words of the written form.

This probably isn't so surprising: it's the same Anglo-Saxon migrants that gave birth to both Scots and English, meaning that split came centuries later.

But I should add Scots to the already lengthy list of "minor" languages I'd like to study :)

2Give Lingot•2 months ago

daughterofAlbion 14 13 11 9 8 6 6 3

I am not a good test subject. I have known German for a very long time, and also some very "broad" English dialects. For me, those two examples are equally readable (although the Frisian needs to be read aloud).

I think that Scots will be closer to northern English dialects, and Frisian to Midlands.

My example simply shows that Frisian is closer to Yorkshire dialect than it is to Danish - pretty obvious really given the Anglo-Frisian language group.

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

Theron126 25 21 16 15 4 2

@daughterofAlbion - it probably shows both, actually.

@Osnakezz - that's quite possible, and would fit with daughterofAlbion saying Frisian has to be read aloud. Anyone know where I can find recordings of spoken Frisian?

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

MissThorson 22 3 3

I might've heard that, not sure. Personally, I wouldn't mind trying either Frisian or Scots, but preferably Frisian.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Greenlandic! How do you plan on learning it?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

grey236 14 11 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 2

I've always wanted to go to Greenland (I'm only 14 though :P) even if there isn't much there, so maybe I might learn there? I'll probably get a book and teach myself, but I know of a decent Memrise course: <http://www.memrise.com/course/761171/greenlandic-for-beginners-kalaallisut/> I never really started it, but after a look through it seems as if the publisher kinda copied a book; still a good resource though.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Thank you for sharing that course. I have one on my list as well even though I haven't started it yet. It has sound which is great and you don't have to type:

<http://www.memrise.com/course/461292/basic-greenlandic-sound-no-typing/> (it's to practice your listening skills basically).

I also want to go to Greenland and I'm considering doing a full semester there next year in their university.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

grey236 14 11 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 2

Thanks for the link! I hope that you'll be able to go to Greenland and learn the language! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

jgibson62ma 23 23 23 20 20 17 12 11 7 8 7 2

Futurelearn has a Frisian MOOC you could try, just to dip your toe in:

<https://www.futurelearn.com/courses/frisian/1>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

piguy3 25 25 20 17 15 14 13 12 11 10 10 10 1

Georgian first and foremost. I even have textbooks for it. Unfortunately, they're not great (probably a difficulty faced for many an entry in this thread).

Occitan. Maltese, for its own sake and as a bridge to Arabic. Belarusian. Minority languages of Russia: Meadow Mari, Udmurt, Erzya, Komi, Chuvash, Bashkir (Tatar seems a bit too "big" ;) i.e. I'd plan to do any Duo tree in any of these that ever had the good fortune to come into existence, and one day having an easier go with the Uralic ones is a good part of the reason I decided to keep pushing through with Hungarian (and the Turkic ones why I think I'll have a go at Turkish).

Old English and Old Church Slavonic if we're counting the native speakers left = 0 category of minor.

And Guarani and Catalan are a little bit cool, too ;)

10ReplyGive Lingot2•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

That's so cool! Of all the languages you mentioned, I would love to learn Maltese, Catalan and Belarusian. As of now I'm currently deciding if I want to continue learning Norwegian or switch to Danish since culturally it is far more connected to Greenland and Iceland than Norsk is.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

sarefo 25 25 25 22 18 17 16 14 14 12 12 11 5 4 4 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 170

You can learn Catalan from Spanish on Duolingo.

Yeah, Maltese would be awesome. Such a cool language.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

brittalexism 14 12 12 11 8 5 4 3 3 2 2 4

And the Faroe Islands ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

pinemartens 14

I like Russian languages too! Out of your list I'd only be interested in Chuvash and maybe Mari (idk which dialect, though), but it's cool to see someone else interested in that area. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Deodwyn 25 25 25 25 25 14 13 13 12 12 10 8 7 6 946

Welsh, Lithuanian, Maltese, Mirandese

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Mirandese?! As Portuguese and actually born in the region where Mirandese is spoken -- I'm from Mirandela, a few minutes away from Miranda do Douro, where most of Mirandese speakers are -- I'm very impressed this language is known to a foreigner. I've never heard a single word in Mirandese and live in the region, the Portuguese people have no interest in it whatsoever and that makes me really sad.

Mirandese will never die because the government is making a huge effort to keep it alive but I think it should be a mandatory/optional course in Portuguese schools -- yeah, they don't offer it here, as shocking as it might seem!

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Irusejka 15 10 10 9 8 6 6 4 4 2

I will start learning Karaim soon. And I'm planning to try Crimean Tatar again.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

pinemartens 14

Definitely: Tuvan.

Maybe: Altai, Sakha/Yakut, Greenlandic, (Northern?) Sami.

In a perfect world: Xibe, Dzongkha, maybe Dungan, (every language spoken in Siberia or the Russian Far East)

And although they're not exactly minority languages, they're not that commonly learned either and there aren't too many resources available for them - I'm just starting Azeri and Kazakh, and plan to start Kyrgyz, Uyghur, and Mongolian at some point.

FWIW the only ones I actually plan on getting good at are Tuvan and Mongolian, and maybe Kazakh and/or Kyrgyz - with all the others, I'm perfectly happy to just study them for 3 months and then forget about forever, lol.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

piguy3 25 25 20 17 15 14 13 12 11 10 10 10 1

If I can ask, what is so motivating about Tuvan? I know little about Tuvans, apart from this, admittedly extraordinarily impressive, production:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qx8hrhBZJ98>

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

IvritMiron12 11 10 8 7 7 6 5 5 5 5 3 3 2 38

Yiddish, Aramaic, Ladino and Jewish languages!!!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

horayth 19 10

Aramaic for me as well!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Kuketo 5 4

Maori :)

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Ecclemain 25 16

Yiddish, without thinking two times.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

LeviPolasak 15 9 7

Haha, good thing I already speak it. LOL

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Ecclemain 25 16

I know only one person who speaks Yiddish in my city and he's 80 + aged. And if i learn Yiddish, i'll probably stick to YIVO and sound like a robot to native yiddish speakers hehe.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

LeviPolasak 15 9 7

If you really want to learn it, my Facebook is connected to my Duolingo, you can always feel free to message me there, and I can give you my skype or just talk on Facebook in Yiddish. I can go over the basics, kind of like the Duolingo tree. The only downside is, I can't teach you the genders of each word, but it seems like you'll know them, since you're far in German (it's the same genders), because in YIVO Yiddish there are genders, while in Chassidish Yiddish, there aren't any.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Ecclemain 25 16

I need to master the aleph-beys first.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Liebert_ 25 25 25 16 11 8 203

I'd like to learn Romansh and Swiss German because my grandfather was born in Swisterland and it would be a pleasure to learn one of the minor language spoken in Switzerland. :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Very interesting! Hope you're successful! I have family in Switzerland as well but they're not originally from there. I would love to visit Switzerland one day!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Arcaeca 17 13 6 5 5 3 3

Depending on which of the following you count as minority languages, Georgian, Armenian, Albanian, Basque, Coptic, Maltese and Abkhaz top my list. Plus I'll add in Eteocretan, Sumerian and Urartian should we ever decide to revive them.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

P.Andreas 5 2

One of the dialects of Nahuatl.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

daughterofAlbion 14 13 11 9 8 6 6 3

National languages: Icelandic, Latvian

Minority languages: Occitan, Scots Gaelic, Scots, Frisian, Cornish, Buriat

Ancient languages: Old Slavonic, Old English

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

SanctMinimalicen 25 20 20 17 12 9 8 2

Coptic, Cornish, Swiss German, Estonian, Scots, Icelandic and Algonquin. I don't expect to get to all of these but they're of great interest to me.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

LeviPolasak 15 9 7

I know it's not really considered minority, but Afrikaans.

YIVO dialect of Yiddish (I already speak the Chassidish dialect)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

DragonPolyglot 21 15 12 10 7 6 6 5 5 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 9

I have been picking up a bit of Mohawk from the few resources I can find. I would also like to learn Cherokee. I'm also interested in Basque, Georgian, Piedmontese, Maltese, the Celtic languages (we don't have Scots Gaelic, Manx, Cornish or Breton), a few other Native American languages (mostly Greenlandic and Cree, I've picked up some Guarani from the GN-ES course if that counts) and some smaller Asian languages (Bhutanese and a rarer language in China known as Yi). Icelandic, Faroese and Yiddish all seem really interesting too. There are probably a few more I can't think of right now but I really do find minority languages interesting too. I'd like to strengthen my knowledge in the languages I am trying to focus on first, though, before I start actively pursuing many of these languages, but if they do come to Duolingo I wouldn't hesitate to start the first several lessons.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

swingbeatnik7 14 14 9 8 7 6 6 6 2 2 2

Basque, Hawaiian, Native American languages, various Indian languages, conlangs (Quenya/Sindarin+), Ladino, Kurdish and more

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Basque/Euskara is a very interesting language. Whenever I'm driving in the Basque Country I love reading the road signs and it's just amazing how unrelated Euskara is to Spanish! Hopefully they'll add it to Duolingo soon, I'll be learning it!

3ReplyGive Lingot2•2 months ago

neio75 14 10 7 5 4 3

I applied for that course but never got an answer :(

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

swingbeatnik7 14 14 9 8 7 6 6 6 2 2 2

I'll check it out while I'm in Spain very soon ;) I've been told to go to Bilbao and San Sebastian

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

LICA98 25 25 20 18 12 11 11 11 11 8 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 11

Lithuanian and Estonian (if you can call those minor languages)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

WHeary 8 2

I would love to learn either Tatar (I am quarter tatar), or catalan, since I visit Mallorca every summer.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Petja. 25 25 25 25 25 25 936

Icelandic and Faroese. :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Nice taste! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MarkV01 16 10 94

I would love to learn Latin, i've always been intrigued by that language :)

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Teen_Polyglot 12 10 9

I've started learning Nahuatl and Guarani for right now, and I'd love to learn Hawaiian and Inuktitut someday.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

StrapsOption 23 17 14 14 11 11 8 8 8 6 5 5 3 3 2 2 2

Delighted to see so many people saying Maltese!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

crush 14 14 8 3

Basque/Euskara

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Same!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

81cheney 14 13 2 246

Extremaduran, it's spoken by about 200,000 people in Spain. It's mutually intelligible with Spanish for the most part.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

It's a very interesting language. I can understand it fairly well since I speak Spanish, I love how it incorporates some French vocabulary!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Fjord- 4

I'd like to have an 'Ido' course. It's similar to Esperanto, with a few differences that may (or may not) make the language easier for someone

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

brittalexiswm 14 12 12 11 8 5 4 3 3 2 2 4

Welsh, West Frisian, and Faroese ♡

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

brittalexiswm 14 12 12 11 8 5 4 3 3 2 2 4

Oh, and Swahili, though idk if it's considered minor.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Ghostsweeper 12 9 7 7 6 4 4 3 3 3 2 2 1

Definitely not ^^ . Swahili is one of the world's biggest languages, and a lingua franca in most of Africa. But it is a wonderful language!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

FrankelPopankel 12 5

Not a lot compared to some people on this thread :P

Several Native American languages, probably starting with Seminole since I have family connections, plautdietsch/Low German, Swiss German or "Amish", Yiddish (if that's considered minor).

I'm more interested in languages more widely used because it tends to be those which I hear and it's much more fun for me to use a language than to just know it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Theron126 25 21 16 15 4 2

I'm not sure if Norwegian counts, but I dream of actually learning that someday. Also Tatar.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Inexpert 10 9 6

Definitely not a minor language but I love Norwegian!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

WHeary 8 2

Same here :))

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

remnantshadows 13 13 6

Swedish, Irish, Hebrew, Yiddish, or Ladino, Swahili, maybe Frisian.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Dont-Panic..... 14 219

I would like to learn silbo, a whistling language. it is the only non-vocal language i know and I would really love to learn it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

SurrealSoul 13 12 11 10 10 9 8

I'd like to learn Belarusian, but it's practically impossible unless you live in Belarus. Resources are far and few, there are some good video courses like "мовананова" and a good deal of music to listen to, but actually speaking? It's bloody impossible to find a Belarusian to speak with! And those that are willing only speak Russian and are shy to attempt speaking Belarusian. And so my passive knowledge of Belarusian continues to rot and gather dust... Шкада!

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

JesseKuipe1 15 14 13 11 11 15

I would like to be able to speak Gronings (a Low Saxon dialect - there's no standard Low Saxon/Low German language), as some people in my family do.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Pruechelan 15 12 4 4 86

I want to learn Mi'kmaq, Cree, Cornish and Métis for like heritage purposes, and I'd love to learn Haida, Salish and Inuktitut for better understanding of my countries culture. Greenlandic would be cool but from my understanding it's similar to Inuit, and I'd prefer to learn Inuit. I'd like to learn Sami also. Oh goodness there are just so many, I'd like to learn Kurdish and Kalasha (Kalash-mun), and Maori, Miyaku, and basically any languages I can find resources for.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

PinkPanthress 10 6 6 6 2 2 2

I would love to learn Plains Cree & Maltese...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MartinKutz1 14 7 2

I would like an Esperanto course for German speakers.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

fractal_shadow 11 11 5 10

In an ideal world where I had the time and money to devote to learning literally anything that interested me, I would want to learn:

Chickasaw the most, but others include Mvskoke [Creek], Icelandic, and N/u.

Do extinct languages count? If they do, I'd also add Ancient Egyptian and Gothic.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

Ghostsweeper 12 9 7 7 6 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 1

A literal ton, most of the languages I want to learn would be considered "minor" languages, but the one that I want to learn the most is certainly Cebuano/Visayan. Which I am also planning on starting to learn this coming year, as I got a LOT of good resources for Christmas, and Glossika is about to release a course in it too :)

So... Yay! ^^

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

Corey2901 14 7 6 6 3 2 2

I personally want to learn Armenian, Welsh, Scots, Cornish, Swedish, Basque, Esperanto, and Frisian

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ninja3743 11 4 4 2 2 2

Greenlandic and Mongolian :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

alifay_ 14 8

Definitely Aramaic, preferably a Western dialect even though it's harder to find resources to learn it. Also Albanian, Croatian, and Greek. We're good with Greek since it's already available, but fingers crossed Duolingo adds the others even though they are minority languages.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

539 "Men and women "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3406913>

Translation: Những người đàn ông và những người phụ nữ

02 years ago

70 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

hatrang2003 6 3

Woman = số ít ; Women = số nhiều ; Man = số ít ; Men = số nhiều.

187Give Lingot10•2 years ago

[+] 13 hidden comments

thunga2081958 5

Tôi thấy cách dịch của duolingo chưa chuẩn về ngôn ngữ tiếng Việt. Ví dụ: đi đôi với đàn ông là đàn bà, còn đi đôi với phụ nữ là nam giới; hay đi đôi với cô bé phải là cậu bé. Ở đây, các bạn lại chọn cách dịch: đàn ông - phụ nữ (khi tôi trả lời "nam giới" thì bị cho là đáp án chưa chính xác). Cô gái thì phải đi đôi với cậu con trai, tức là danh từ chỉ người vị thành niên, còn cô bé - cậu bé là chỉ các em thiếu nhi. Tương tự, người Việt mình không nói "anh ấy là một cậu bé". Đã là "anh ấy" thì không còn là "cậu bé" nữa nên không thể dịch "anh ấy là một cậu bé". Về ngôn ngữ, nếu dịch không chuẩn sẽ khiến người học (nhất là với người ngoại quốc mới học tiếng Việt) sử dụng không chính xác.

33Give Lingot•2 years ago

SuperHotbo1 4

Học tiếng Anh khác do bạn . Dù bạn bình luận như vậy nhưng đó là chỉ ở Việt Nam mình thôi . Còn ở Châu Mỹ khác Châu Á nhiều điểm

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 5 hidden comments

BimBim94 7

làm sao để phân biệt đặc là "men and women" hay "man and woman" ?

16Give Lingot•2 years ago

RiHunter 4

. Cách đọc khác nhau đó bạn ♥

9Give Lingot•1 year ago

thunga2081958 5

Người Việt mình không dùng "đàn ông" đi đôi với "phụ nữ". Phải là đàn ông - đàn bà; nam giới - phụ nữ. Tức là hoặc cùng dùng từ thuần Việt hoặc cùng Hán - Việt , không lẫn lộn như đáp án các bạn đang dùng

9Give Lingot•2 years ago

Thuyan99370 7

bạn nói rất có lý

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

JackNguyen312 5

rõ ràng đọc là "men and the women"

7Give Lingot•2 years ago

ChnNgn 7

Right :((

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

minhduc195 5

"những đàn ông và những đàn bà"

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

hoangmd 8

sao lại là những ?

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

SkySonTungMtp123 7

Vì womem và men là số nhiều có nghĩa là nhiều người nên gọi là những

2Give Lingot•10 months ago

ngoklan 7

Tại sao ko được nói là nhưng đàn ông và lại nói được là nhưng phụ nữ.

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

danhchi 5

Chào các bạn. Có cách nào nghe rõ được câu "man" và "men" không các bạn ơi. Xin hãy giúp mình với:))

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

CngChaTomo2 4

Um... À , bấm vào con rùa .

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

Thuyan99370 7

bấm vào con rùa là loa nhỏ

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

Zorothuan 6

mình không thể nhận biết được từ "man" và "men" nó phát âm giống nhau quá

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

doanhop1 23

Tôi cũng vậy, không thể phân biệt được

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

Thuyan99370 7

tôi thì có đấy

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

TruongDoan1 5

"Những người đàn ông và những người đàn bà" báo sai là sao ad?

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

trung152000

sai vì viết những người đàn bà phải viết những người phụ nữ

5Give Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 2 hidden comments

Yuri.Lee 8
Tại sao phải có chữ người

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

SkySonTungMtp123 7
Nếu nói những đàn ông và những đàn bà nghe nó cụt lỏm

-1Give Lingot•10 months ago

nivarna 10
nhiều đàn ông và nhiều phụ nữ sao lại ko đúng

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

vitconxauxi3110 6
Nếu nhiều thì họ sẽ dùng là "many man and many woman" còn ở đây là những người đàn ông "men" và những người phụ nữ "women"

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

thienkiemx2000
đọc là men and the women mà

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

ngoklan 7
Sai

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

lengoc1992 6
Bạn nghĩ có nên báo lỗi ko

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

Thuyan99370 7
nên hay không nên thì tự bạn quyết định , nhưng theo ý mình thì bạn nên không có người ta không biết thì người ta lại cho bạn sai nữa đó.

0Give Lingot•9 months ago

DaringNguyenNhuY 2
chữ thì hiện lên là "women" mà đọc lại là "woman" vì Woman = số ít ; Women = số nhiều ; Man = số ít ; Men = số nhiều. nên họ phải phân biệt chứ ta?

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

tien_nhi95 6

sao nói qua micro mà cứ bảo là làm ơn đọc chậm roi đọc chậm lại ma vẫn không được chấp nhận z

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

ThangVo3 5

Nó đáng ra là the men and the women chứ

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

herotran78 10 2

dịch các ông và các bà cho gọn ,cũng đúng

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

lulumiamatsi 7

gọn quá sợ duolingo không hiểu

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

-PRISM-via

Mình trộm nghĩ Phụ-Nữ là LADY chứ nhỉ?!

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

luckybui1

Lady là quý bà ag

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

phuclct 11

tại sao phải " những " mà không được "nhiều" ?

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

mamut102hp 2

Nam và nữ mà báo sai chứ

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

MinhMai2 3

Những quý ông và quý bà hoặc những quý ông và những quý bà, sao ko dc nhỉ?

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

luncute 8

Trong đáp án có " những người đàn ông và những phụ nữ", mình ghi " những đàn ông và những phụ nữ" ==> sai. Tại sao "những phụ nữ" thì được mà "những đàn ông" thì không được chấp nhận, phải là "những người đàn ông"?

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

cng67656 7

Sao lại các đàn ông khi chỉ có "man;'

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

m.linh 6

Phụ nữ khác gì nữ

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

UtMai2 3

hjx. man and woman đáng lẽ ra chj là số ít sao lại dịch thành số nhiều nhĩ mà những.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

TrnDng3 3

Học tiếng anh khó ghê...

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

E-IsMyPassion 25 804

Men need women.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Bao_Duong 4

Tôi dịch "Các ông và các bà", chương trình báo sai! (?) Các bạn cho ý kiến...

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Tu2k5_Moon 12 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2

đâu có s đâu ta

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

hongphuc2007 6

đáng lẽ là đàn ông phải đi đôi với đàn bà chứ!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

lingling159 5

mình đã gào cả cổ mà k được đi tiếp dù mình đã mở mic

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

RubbyChau

hay thật, thiếu có 1 từ mà cũng cho là sai

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

phuonganna2006

sao mình đọc rất rõ rồi mà máy cứ bắt mình đọc lại rồi nói thử lại là nữa .Tại sao vậy ?!!!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

thanhlong1995 11

sao mình đọc mãi mà máy kêu là cứ tiếp tục vậy đi vậy mọi người?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

linhne123

làm sao khi nghe phân biệt được "men" hay "man"

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ThanhHuyen01 8

không đọc được micro

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

HueTran8 12

Ghi những người đàn ông và những người phụ nữ cũng sai nữa hả

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tieuthuhonguyen 13

Sao bài này ko có từ" những"

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

huongtra.tng 6

Sao không sử dụng được micro nhỉ. Có cần phải có micro riêng với máy tính không vậy.

0Give Lingot•12 months ago

huyluong89

mọi người nên chú ý số ít hay số nhiều,vì dễ bị nhầm lẫn,nhưng phân biệt khi nghe thì khó thật.. people try..

0Give Lingot•11 months ago

khanhchuondhvn 14

Sao lại các người đàn ông và các người phụ nữ ?

0Give Lingot•8 months ago

NgaNguyenT15 2

huhu...máy laptop của e k biết micro ở đâu luôn..đọc mỗi mồm mà duolingo không nhận

0Give Lingot•5 months ago

cuongnguyen1610

tưởng đọc số nhiều của woman là "Wi-mìn" ????

0Give Lingot•4 months ago

anhbemchet 7

mình ko thể phân biệt men,women với man,woman qua nghe dc:(

0Give Lingot•3 months ago

vuducvinh 4

nhung nguoi dan ong va nhung nguoi dan ba cung sai bo tay dan ba ma cung sai bo tay

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

540 What's the main difference among 'Der','Die','Das','Den'?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4434884>

ravi191991 5 3 3

I loose points while using these words. Whenever I try to translate 'THE' from English to German, I get mostly incorrect answer message. Please tell me their correct usage. Thanks

Give Lingot

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

panagiotists13 25 19 17 17 12 12 10 670

In German there are three genders. In the nominative case we use der for masculine, die for feminine and das for neuter. The plural of all three is die. In the accusative case, we use den for masculine, die for feminine, das for neuter and die for plural. So the only change in accusative is der which becomes den. For example, der Apfel means the apple. To say I see the apple (sehen=see) we have to say ich sehe den Apfel, because after the verb sehen we have to use accusative. I hope I've helped you enough!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sweilan1 13 5

Remember to memorize the gender of the word with the word itself. So the word newspaper is "die Zeitung" and not just "Zeitung".

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarlosJFort 16 7 5

Maybe the problem is that you are not used to the fact that in German there are three genders, that objects can be masculine, feminine or neutral (in Spanish we have only two genders, and all objects fall into one of them), and that the article agrees with the gender and case of the noun. You have to learn each noun with its definite article, and be aware that "der" changes into "den" when the noun is a direct object, something that suffers the action of the verb. Later you will find that the articles change also when the noun is an indirect object or a genitive. Read the notes that you find in the units, they might help you.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MusingThoughts 11 4 2
Die is feminine

Der is masculine

Das is neuter

These are for the nominative case. The plural 'the' is always die

In the accusative case der becomes den

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

541 "Kvinden har spurgt efter vin. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10613924>

Translation: The woman has asked for wine.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment
7 Comments

fbb.d 17

what is the difference between "at spørge om" and "at spørge efter"?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M.Ugatu 20 17 16 10 106

It is the difference between asking about something (how was your day, what's the weather like) or asking for something (can i have some milk, do you have any sugar).

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

duKaren 17

Is there a difference in usage between at spørge efter and at bede om? Is one more formal than the other?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M.Ugatu 20 17 16 10 106

Both can be used in formal- and informal situations. But whereas you can "spørge efter" a person or a thing, it sounds wrong to me "at bede om" a person. You can "bede om" something, but not someone IMO.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

duKaren 17

Many thanks for this clarification. The expression I learned was 'Må jeg bede om saltet' - a formal way of asking someone to pass you the salt!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago andystentiford 14 5

Is "the woman has asked after wine" also correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

RyagonIV 20 15 13

A short googling has revealed that "to ask after [someone]" carries the meaning of "to ask for news about [someone]", or like "How is [someone] doing?" That doesn't apply here.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

542 "He reads the newspaper."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1761854>

Translation: O gazeteyi okur.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

20 Comments

ela3nur 2

O gazete okur dedim cevap " o gazeteyi okur" cikti cok sacma yaa

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sadk165082 11

The gelince belli bir sey oldugu icin gazeteyi oluyo

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sekerkan 7

Gazete gazeteyi nasıl oldu

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

suveybemerve 8 5 5

The kalıbı tek başına bir anlama gelmez fakat belirli bir şeyi veya tek olan bir şeyi anlatır mesela Türkiye bir tanedir veya ortada belirli bir elma vardır İngilizcede bu ikisinin başına the kalıbı konulmalıdır yanlış anlaşılmasın " a " " the " anlamına gelmez

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AslanGalatasaray 3

Ok :d

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Evreno1 7
the olduđu için

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Keremter 5
Saol gardaş :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

yusufalpsl 2
o gezete okur

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AslanGalatasaray 3
Yahu aynı cevap ben yazdımki o gazete okur sadece yi hecesini koymadım diye yanlış diyoo

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Aleyna334639 3
Bu kelimeyi söyleyene kadar canım çıktı

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

preasonbreak 3
The yi şimdi anladım.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

suoeffaisa 4
Seni seviyorum

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arifeztrk 3
He gazete hegazeteyi

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Yasemin_Nisa 2
çok yanlış kelime var yha dedim ki o GAZETE okur dedim yok GAZETEYİ okur dedi saçmalıkkkkk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

diemosk
Gazete ve gazete'yi arasındaki ince çizgi biraz fazla ince olmamış mı

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LelouchViB9 5

O gazete okur yadım verilen cevap O gazeteyi okur hmm

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Sumeyye882651

O gazeteyi okutrr

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

zehrayalcı 6

Sesli sorulara hep doğru cevap veriyorum ama yanlış kabul ediyor ne kadar saçma

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

tulay48 3

Duolingo!!!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

NurselSeil 5

Amina koduğum

-1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

543 The Georgian Language (the country, not the state)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/21232773>

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

Here is this week's video:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6JfKnGuyGTs>

Thank you to BlinkTutorials for suggesting this video!

Here are the sources I used:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Georgian\_language https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Georgian\_scripts

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Kartvelian\_languages

Music I used:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sgNVwQFCPvs>

If there is a video that you would like to see, feel free to tell me :D

Give Lingot2

192 weeks ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

piguy3 25 25 20 17 15 14 13 12 11 10 10 10 1

If anybody wants a sort of trippy introduction to the Georgian alphabet:
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=x3vILjL-QO4>

There's even a tower in honor of it:

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
That looks amazing!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

joaoo. 14 10 76

That's interesting, because Georgia is not always on the news, as far as I know. And the only thing I know from there is STALIN and a band called Psychonaut 4 from Tbilisi, besides that, nothing. Thanks for sharing. And I gave you a lingot as well.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

vytah 13 13 12 12 12 11 10 10 9 3 584
Georgia was all over the news 9 years ago.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Awww thanks :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

knudvaneeden 16 12 9 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 2 2 2
Impressive good. I give 1 Lingot for that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Muchas gracias, que tengas un buen día (I'm implying the "usted" form here, I don't know the usted form :) )

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

544 – 583 of 911

[accessed March 20, 2017]

544     The Bulgarian Course On Memrise!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19447003>

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

My updates for the upcoming Duolingo Bulgarian course on Memrise are a bit all over the place. So I'm going to make this the one post with all the links and everything relating to the course. So in a way, this is the fanmade Bulgarian course page.

ALEKSANDER NEVSKY CATHEDRAL

HUGE thanks to Sebastian for making this!

Bulgarian is the national language of Bulgaria spoken by 9 million people primarily in Bulgaria, but also in expat communities all over Eastern Europe. Learn this ancient language and visit the home of the Cyrillic alphabet, rose festivals and the origins of Slavic Christendom.

Bonus! Bulgarian is arguably the easiest (and most unique) Slavic language of all! This is because it uses articles and has gotten rid of all cases!

POSTS

Preview of the course

Duo Goes To Bulgaria

Please upvote this post to increase the chance of a course

Updates

Most recent update

Other Updates:

Announcement

Release Date & Alpha Testers

Progress Speeding Up!

Monument, Release Date and More!

50%, Native Audio & EN/BG Course!

Getting Back on Track

The Course is not gone.

We have sent our applications

The Final Stretch

A huge thanks to BelarusianBulgar for helping me with this course and Sebastian Molin for being the Alpha Tester!

Be sure to join our Bulgarian community on Memrise here

Give Lingot34

703 months ago

Leave a new comment

23 Comments

BelarusianBulgar 10 5
Супер!

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

loechpatli 13 11 11 8 41
Чудесно!

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

w1ndh0ek 12 11 11 11 9 6 6 54
Браво!

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Lora034 16 14 5 5 2 643
Ако за нещо се колебае, е тоя речник според мен е най-хубав. Аз почти изцяло само него си го ползвам. <https://rechnik.chitanka.info/>

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Благодаря, rechnik е много добър ;)

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

swingbeatnik7 14 14 9 8 7 6 6 6 2 2 2
Да!

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Lora034 16 14 5 5 2 643
Чудесно! Благодаря. Между другото, гледам, че махнаха форумите към Memrise курсовете. Не е лошо да се направи една тема към основния форум, не знам защо я махнаха тая опция.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Unusual2be 22 19 14 6 5 3 2 2 2 164
Lora034, явно, за да избегнат рекламата на други сайтове, или пренасочването на трафик...

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Lora034 16 14 5 5 2 643
Може. То не че бяха много активни, но все пак имаше полза, особено ако трябва да се изчистват някакви малки грешки.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

Извинете. Аз не съм добър с форуми XD

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

SilverCharacter 14 13 9 8 6 5 3 3 3 176

Благодаря! Не мога да чакам да видя какво е следващата. :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8

Благодаря ви за вашият коментар :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Unusual2be 22 19 14 6 5 3 2 2 2 164

Уау, добри новини!! От почти година една приятелка ми говори за Мемриз, но сега вече няма как да не го разгледам, за да видя какво представлява. Хайде, успехи на всички с ученето! Wow, what a great news! Since almost one year a friend of mine is telling me about Memrise, but now, there is no way I am not checking it out to see what it is like! So, good luck with learning, everyone! =)

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Lora034 16 14 5 5 2 643

Много е готин сайтът, особено в комбинация с Дуолингото. Само заучаването на думи не винаги е полезно, но има и такива, които са с думи в контекст. Разгледай курсовете, които са си от екипа на сайта (излизат най-отгоре). В испанския курс има и често срещани думи и изрази, и клипчета с хора от улицата как говорят (това, особено, си е доста полезно).

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

george_kuman 4

Great!!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

RaliPali 10 2

Strahotno!!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Qwazicolt 14 9 7 6 5 3 4

I am super super super excited for this course !!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

CloeCraci 10 6 5

Супер! Узбуђен сам!!

0ReplyGive Lingot8•3 weeks ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Благодаря! Това е сръбски?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

CloeCraciu 10 6 5
Да

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

TseDanylo 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 8
Е чудесно че ние можем да разбираме взаимно!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

CloeCraciu 10 6 5
:)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Iliani.n 7 6 6
Чакам с нетърпение! <3

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

545 I want the answer
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19789245>
sunshineey1 3
What's the difference between here and there?
Give Lingot
53 months ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

r7eq.com 12 3 29
Here = هنا

There = هناك

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

IKMK6 9
thank you

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

sunshineey1 3
well done

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MohebHassan 14 5
here is like the same place we in but there is the place we do not exist

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

sunshineey1 3
its puzzle

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

546 I finished the English course
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9315750>

Runab4 15 13 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 10 10 10 9 8

From among courses in Duolingo, I finished first - English course in Polish language. Now I know better English, tomorrow I will start to read English novels. Now I learn German and Swedish - I have many time to use, so I can learn many languages (not only in Duolingo - I have also books and movies in different languages).

Give Lingot2
31 year ago

Leave a new comment
22 Comments

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1411
That's great, congratulations!

What kind of books are you going to read?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Runab4 15 13 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 10 10 10 9 8
I will read crime story and science-fiction. I will start "The Man in the High Castle" Dick

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Piotr008 16 19
Congratulations! Keep up the good work! Do you use the Emil Krebs method to learn?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Runab4 15 13 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 10 10 10 9 8
I didn't use this metod. The Emil Krebs method is a cheap marketing trick - many courses offer to know a language in ten days. A good knowledge english on level A2 appers to twenty days (the Emil Krebs method offers 10 days on B1...). Otherwise, this method didn't elaborate Krebs - Krebs learned any language by three months, learning a few hours daily. Krebs swoted many words and phrases - without none a good method (otherwise, this method was perfected from forty years, and Krebs died in 1930). During the learning, I have read many english news, I have translated in my mind polish sings to english, I have read articles in Wikipedia.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zim_ek 21 13 11 11 8 5 5 1224
Congratulations! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Runab4 15 13 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 10 10 10 9 8
Thanks :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lidianaitor 8 7 3
Congrats fantastic I recommend the Harry Potter sires or the books of beginning they will really challenge you

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

adrian955 11 10 7 4 3 3 3
Well Done! Congratulations!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
po jakiemu ty gadasz? Po polsku?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

adrian955 11 10 7 4 3 3 3
Po co się odzywasz? Towarzystwa Ci brak?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JakubSch 11 3
Oczywiście gratuluję ci, że ukończyłeś kurs angielskiego, tylko po co zakładać z tego powodu dyskusję? Żeby się pochwalić?

Of course, I congratulate you, that you finished the English course, but why you have started the new discussion?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
koleś ty sie lecz!!! za dużo obcych słów!

-4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Runab4 15 13 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 10 10 10 9 8

Nie masz nic mądrzejszego do powiedzenia oprócz spamowania?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lidianaitor 8 7 3

Naprawde try weś się ucz a nice spamuj ja ice napisałam pro Polska I po angielsku a mam tylko 12 lat I co? Powinieneś wiedzieć ze dieci wchłaniaia śibciej niż dorośli. Take tylko mówię

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lidianaitor 8 7 3

Oh I bo mam angielski I pad to me zmienia co drugie słowo na angielski

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

adrian955 11 10 7 4 3 3 3

Po prostu ZAMKNIJ SIE! do [deactivated user]

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

adrian955 11 10 7 4 3 3 3

Po prostu sie zamknij. Sam masz za dużo obcych słów idioto! do [deactivated user]

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

547 "Help, the horse is eating the holy potato!"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11109039>

Translation: Hilfe, das Pferd frisst die heilige Kartoffel!

391 year ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

dunk999 21 19 15 14 5 2 2 2 2

This sentence makes me happy.

75ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

SimMoor 24 15 6 50

Another exceedingly useful sentence from Duo. Danke, Duo.

22ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Dr-Pen 25 25 5 2

At least it's not the Holy Hand Grenade!

21ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

BenYoung84 25 25 25 13 48

5 is way out.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

gennuisance 23 22 3 194

As a side note, in Spanish 'il papa' is the pope, while 'la papa' is the potato.

18ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

lynettemcw 22 13 9 6 6 5 4 6

El papa is the pope; il is Italian.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

smokey2022 15 10 7 7 5 4 2 2

Ah Duo! More useful sentences I see!

10ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TopsecretName 12 9 9 7 4 3

I gave up questioning Duo's sentences..

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Laura.USA 18 2 132

This is better than the bear jumping around the pig!

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

548 "There was an orange in the kitchen. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1038412>

Translation: Había una naranja en la cocina.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

Angela.Esther 8

En español se puede usar Hubo o Había es un problema de la página

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

irasema0402 10 2

yo puse there was a orange in the kitchen y me lo pusieron mal ¿ no es correcto?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ceaer 25 25 23 16 932

Es casi correcto. El problema es que "a" tiene que cambiar a "an" antes de palabras que empiezan con un sonido vocal.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

StoutSv 11 4

No necesariamente palabras que empiecen con vocal, no es de acuerdo a la escritura sino a la pronunciación de la palabra(en inglés, claro). Ejemplo: I study in a university , university empieza con un /yu/ por lo que no se utiliza el determinante indefinido a, sino el an.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariaFerna648845 12 5 3

Es an en esta oracion no se usa a

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kikeAsekas 9 6 3

yo puse hubo y me lo conto como error, creo que esta mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Erick-lingo 20 16 11 7 5

Coloqué "Hubo una naranja en la cocina" y me la contaron como error: No me parece, error de la página.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13

Ahora lo acepta. (It's accepted now.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

CristinaRuiz6 25 75

deberian colocar en CONJUGAR .... los verbos en pasado NO EN PRESENTE, para aprender correctamente

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

549 The "Lazy man's guide to Clitics" !!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4472318>

MABBY 25 22 1441

So, at the very least, you're going to have to remember Direct and Indirect pronouns, and know what a preposition is. Yes, you will have to memorize things. I could not find a single useful chart anywhere on the Internet. Spanish? Loads of them. Italian? Nope. So I made one:

You'll immediately notice that some words are on both parts of the table for the same object/ subject for both direct and indirect; specifically "mi", "ti", "ci" and "vi".

That's good news, isn't it? You only really have to worry about "him", "her", "it", and "them", now.

The only difference between direct and indirect, in an Italian sentence, is a preposition. The two most common prepositions in Italian are "a" and "di". (EDIT:) But there are others, such as "su", "per", "con", "da", ...etc. A preposition is a "linking" word that "shows the relationship between a noun or pronoun and other words in a sentence." In English, "to", "of", "on", "by", "with", "from", ...and so on. (end EDIT)

So the lazy man memorizes that the presence of the English words to OR for are a giveaway for "indirect", keeping in mind that it doesn't work for verb infinitives— mangiare is the verb "to eat", but there are no pronouns involved there, so there's never any "direct" or "indirect" verbs. Only with objects and people. (We're not even going to start discussing "Piacere" here, so forget that!)

So looking at a few lines of the table, you'll see that:

mi means me (direct), but both mi and a me mean either to me , or for me (indirect).

lo means him (direct), but gli means either to him , or for him (indirect) , or even to/ for them (indirect).

and so on.

Thus; if you give something to someone, or make something for someone, then you need to look on that table for the indirect object pronoun. Again, the presence of "to" or "for" is your quick magic reminder for indirect objects but, indeed, any preposition should raise the same flag.

You probably already know this, now, but the "clitic" pronoun form is placed in front of the verb form. The verb form tells you who the person performing the action (a verb) is.

It is easy to practice in English. You would never say "To him I see", so in Italian you would never say "Gli vedo", because "Gli" is "To him". Not just plain "him"; "To him". Meanwhile, you'd never say "I give a book her". You'd say "I give a book to her", so "to her" is le , not la and you'd obviously use "Le dò un libro". Where it sometimes gets tricky is when the preposition is only implied in English. "I read him a book" or "I ask her a question" needs to be considered in Italian as "I read (to) him a book" and "I ask (of her) a question".

Here are some basic examples to help (and hopefully not confuse) you:

ama He loves or She loves (or even It loves ); Ci ama he/ she/ it loves us.

scrivo I write ; Lo scrivo I write it. Note that it wouldn't be, "I write him" or "her". Meanwhile...

gli scrivo; gli is "to him", so then I write to him.

Le is "to her", so then le scrivo I write to her. Unfortunately, le is also feminine "them" on the direct pronoun side, so if the subjects being written are all of feminine gender, Le scrivo could also mean "I write them".

What about a double pronoun sentence? "I read it to him"? That's easy: Lo leggo a lui

I see you Ti vedo (there is no "to" or "for", so use the table for direct object pronoun).

I play for him Gli suono (it can't be direct, Lo suono, because of the word "for"). You can say the very same thing by using the "stressed form", but after the verb: Suono a lui.

Lo suono is "I play it" (it being a direct object, masculine, such as "un flauto". Use La suono for "I play it", it being a direct feminine object, such as "una chitarra").

The Stressed pronouns do not get placed before the verb; they come after it.

Many of them can also be placed into the verb.

Posso farlo (I can do it), comes by dropping the "e" from Fare (to do) and adding the pronoun "lo". Do that with most any verb infinitive.

Finally, when used in a negative sentence, the pronoun always goes between non and the verb: Non lo vedo = "I don't see him", or "I don't see it".

That should get you well on the way, and at least 3/4 the way through the Clitics lessons. I'll leave it to others to explain "Ce" and "Ne".

By the way, you can quickly spot a Reflexive Sentence if the subject and the pronoun being used are on the same line of the table above, or if the word "si" is present before a verb. (And not sì, meaning "yes"...).

Mi lavo; I wash myself (same line for io (lavo) and Mi makes this sentence reflexive).

Ti vedi; You see yourself (Tu vedi and Ti on the same line).

Ci chiediamo; We ask ourselves (Noi chiediamo/ Ci on the same line).

The word "si" goes in place of him/ her/ it and also them, so there is no Gli/ Lo/ La/ Le/ Li to worry about in reflexive:

Si lava; He washes himself, or She washes herself, (or even) It washes itself.

Si lavano; They wash themselves. It is obviously not "They wash himself". "They wash him", on the other hand, is not reflexive, does not use "si", and is simply "Lo lavano -- as per the rules on direct pronouns, in the initial section of this essay.

Give Lingot38
542 years ago

Leave a new comment
17 Comments

sandrbruck 20 19 6
Mabby, I have some grammatical problems with your chart!

1) English to and for are both a possible translation of the Italian preposition a.

As you yourself have mentioned:

parlare a qualcuno = to speak to someone = gli parlo = I speak to him.

riservare qualcosa a qualcuno = to reserve something for someone = gli riservo un posto = I reserve a place for him

The Italian di creates only problems in your chart.

parlare a qualcuno = gli parlo parlare di qualcuno = parlo di lui BUT NEVER: gli parlo parlare di politica = Ne parlo.

Your chart is very helpful and well done BUT only if you cancel the "DI". The verbs that are followed by di (and also by other prepositions as su, per, da, con etc.) have obligatory to use the stressed form of the indirect object pronoun together with the preposition (di lui, di lei, su lei, con lui, da lui).

2) Another annotation: In Italian the pronoun "gli" is nowadays used for the 3. person plural (female and male) of the indirect object. "gli" is by now much more used than "loro".

Have a look here: <http://italingua.ning.com/profiles/blogs/gli-scrivole-scrivo>

3) you have to write also about the stressed direct object pronoun. Maybe it's not really often used, but it is used.

Chi vedi? Lui! (Whom do you see? HIM (but it's not LO, it's the stressed direct object pronoun HIM)

devi amare te stesso (te and not ti )

Ama lui e non me! "lui and me" not "ti and mi..." She loves HIM not me.

As I said before your chart is very useful and I like that we look at a topic from different angles and points of view. So every learner can find the best method for himself.

9ReplyGive Lingot7•2 years ago

MABBY 25 22 1441

Thank-you Sandra. I have made the changes that you suggested, and replaced the chart with an updated one. I hope that it "reads better" for you, now!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sandrabruck 20 19 6

GREAT job. If I could write in really, really small letters I would do it now....

you only have to reinsert "loro" (indirect object).. although "gli" is more often used than "loro", the latter is still used....

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MABBY 25 22 1441

This short video on "Indirect Object Pronouns" does have quite a few good points, and it should help you understand the terminology better: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iLhkAF3k4RM>

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alciebell 16

Thank you! I've saved this in my Italian file.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EdwardCard1 14

Excellent. Thank you for this.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gaz0501 15

Thanks for this explanation, it's really helpful in summarising clitics. However, I have a query that is probably due to a combination of my grammatical ignorance, and overthinking on my part!

Take the sentence "she is waiting for him [right now]", which I have previously known (admittedly with a very basic grasp of clitics) as "lo sta aspettando". Can someone confirm whether this is correct? And if so, why is it correct?

I ask because after reading this I would say the "for him" bit makes this indirect, and should it not therefore be "gli sta aspettando"? Which my gut reaction tells me this doesn't seem right - but I can't explain why...

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MABBY 25 22 1441

Aspettare is an odd verb, in that it doesn't always mean just "wait"-- it more often means "wait for".

So, while gli is used for "to him" or "for him", the incorrect choice of gli aspetta would work out to "she (or he) waits for for him.

That's why you'd choose lo instead of gli ; it avoids the double "for".

I think that the same thing happens with other verbs, like cercare ("search for", or "look for"), for instance.

So then, lo sta aspettando = he/ she is waiting for him.

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

thenoblesunfish 25 21 12 11 11 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

Great chart! If you're still editing, 1) maybe mention that there are changes when you use an indirect and a direct pronoun together (even just a note that this happens and a link) 2) You still mention di, which is problematic as @sandrabrick mentions in another comment 3) The post is long and is presented as a single block, so it might seem friendlier if you add section headers.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gioiallo 19 16

Reading the main post (which was supremely helpful!) I have to wonder if "lavorano" in the last paragraph is indeed "they wash" or if it's "they work" as nature intended and no one noticed it in the 7 months it's been posted. Isn't "they wash" LAVANO? Lavarano, the second option in the same paragraph (In bold) is "wash" but in some past tense, no?

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

MABBY 25 22 1441

Absolutely correct. I've made the edit.

Grazie!

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Gioiallo 19 16

Thank you! I know this wasn't the point of the post, but it made me doubt the little knowledge of Italian that I have - like conjugating "lavare" - so I'm glad that at least this bit I can be sure about. And, well, that others in my position won't have to doubt themselves. And thank you again for the table, it's really helpful!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sputni 14 5

Worth a lingot. Thanks

3ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Poonasj 18 11 10 3

Great resource, thank you!

"Le is "to her", so then Le scrivo I write to her. Unfortunately, le is also feminine "them", so if the subjects being written are all of feminine gender, Le scrivo could also mean "I write them". Le is the direct form, so I write them would be scrivo loro?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MABBY 25 22 1441

I think that "scrivo loro" is still "I write to them", not "I write them".

English syntax makes this so difficult to get the point across. This is also where Duolingo has some failings--context of the sentence when you don't know the situation or what has been said beforehand.

When I said "I write them", in my essay, it would have been part of a broader conversation. "Magazine articles? Yes, I write them." Not, "I write them a letter to thank them." Because in that second sentence, the word "to" is implied in English, but not written: "I write to them a letter..."

Now I'd have to think of an all feminine group as a subject to be written about to make my sentence example work as I wrote it originally. Not easy. Articoli?" Nope, masculine. "Libri, giornali..." same thing.

Aha! I write poems! "Scrivo una poesia", so then, for more than one poem, "Scrivo poesie."

Now: Do you write poems? Yes, I write them. "Sì, le scrivo."

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Poonasj 18 11 10 3

Wonderful, that makes sense. Thanks again!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ronan_sleep 15 13 5 2 30

Thanks so much for this, I have been struggling with clitics for a while now but your table and explanations show a way ahead. There is hope!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

550 ICELANDIC WORD OF THE WEEK: WEEK #1

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19936066>

AustinTheroux 15 12 12 12 11 11 10 7 7 7 7 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 294

Góðan daginn, ég heiti Austin. Good day everyone, I am Austin. Each week, I see Super-Svensk's Swedish Word of the Week and now amyharryhollie's Spanish Word of the Week. I felt that the idea was a great way to introduce new vocabulary to learners and spread awareness about a certain language. Therefore, each Wednesday, I will post an 'Icelandic Word of the Week'.

Also, check out Super-Svensk every Monday for a new Swedish word and amyharryhollie every Tuesday for a new Spanish word!

Njótið! (Enjoy!)

WEEK #1:

BYRJUN (feminine)

Beginning, start

IPA: /'pir.jʏn/

Takk! (Thanks!)

Give Lingot79

372 months ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

MarcinM85 20 19 16 15 15 14 5 150

Great! Especially since there's no Icelandic course yet. I hope it will be in the future though. By the way, the word byrjun is quite similar to the Swedish word början, which also means beginning.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

AustinTheroux 15 12 12 12 11 11 10 7 7 7 7 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 294

Thanks! Byrjun comes from the verb byrja (to begin, start) + -un. Byrja is very similar to the Swedish börja (to begin)!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

HelenCarlsson 22 18 18 18 15 15 12 867

Oh, this is a great idea! Icelandic is such a cool language and I am looking forward to learning one new word each week. Are you a native speaker?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

AustinTheroux 15 12 12 12 11 11 10 7 7 7 7 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 294

Thank you! And yes, I am a native speaker.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

551 Whats the difference

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20255333>

CheetahMltkn 11 8 7 2 2 2

Whats the difference between š'il te plait and s'il vous plaît.

Give Lingot

42 months ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

JBESip 18 6

"S'il te plait" is used in the same situation as you use the pronoun "Tu". (Like the "thou" in Old English), you use it with your friends and the people you know enough.

"S'il vous plait" is used in the same situation as you use the pronoun "Vous". (Formal "you" or plural "you"), you use it with your boss, your teacher, unknown... or when you talk to several people.

To go further : <https://frenchtogether.com/you-in-french/>

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CheetahMltkn 11 8 7 2 2 2

Merci beaucoup!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

RMahome 14 14 13 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 10 4 4 3

Te is used with people that you know, this is informal, vous is the polite form of addressing strangers, teachers, parents etc.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

IndigoIX 19 9 8 6 3 2 2 2

te - you [singular] / vous - you [plural and/or formal]

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

552 Why can't my students skip skills for assignments?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000410226-Why-can-t-my-students-skip-skills-for-assignments->

This is a common question, and the quick answer is that it is currently not that easy for us to do that. It could happen in the future but it is not currently in development.

The long answer: Duolingo's courses are science-based, personalized, and thoroughly tested. There is an order to the progression of each student, and we base each skill on the words the student was exposed to in the previous lessons. We assume you are familiar with all the previous vocabulary, and that you should have been previously exposed to each word used in a challenge. We highlight new words and introduce them carefully, which makes Duolingo effective and work at just the right level for every student (not too difficult and not too easy).

There is currently no way for us to allow a teacher to unlock a tree for all their students, unfortunately. There is no switch we can flip to smoothly allow all teachers to assign everything out of order. This is not to say we will never offer something like that, but there are significant challenges to consider and resources that need to be invested (as is the case for any new feature). We do take all the feedback we get from teachers into consideration, and want to do our best to continue to do wonders and delight educators from all countries and contexts. We understand that this is important to teachers because most follow either an external or their own curriculum and that Duolingo does not necessarily align with that. But right now a custom tree is not available.

With that in mind, here are four ways people have found to get around that:

If you believe your students have all the necessary skills and vocabulary to work on the skill you want to assign, have them each test out of the previous skills and unlock everything up to that point. This should be much faster than actually doing the lessons one by one. Here is a handy article on how to skip the basics.

Slowly work towards the skills together and have students catch up and do each skill before the assigned skill. In other words, allow appropriate time for each student to catch up to that skill, or reward them for doing so.

Do the desired skill together using the curriculum mode on a projector or shared screen. The teacher has access to sample skills that can be used in a classroom. The teacher can also use their own tree on the projector (assuming they have already reached it themselves) and do full-on lessons together on the screen. The images below show you how to get to the sample lessons on schools.duolingo.com after clicking on your classroom:

Zoomed out version:
sample lesson

Zoomed in version:
Spanish Curriculum Zoomed In

Duolingo for Schools Sample Lesson Zoomed In

Allow students to use Duolingo "on the side" as a way to improve their skills no matter where they are in the tree, and independent of the curriculum. This approach to differentiated learning is a great way of encouraging each student to learn to love the new language they are studying!

Of course, none of these substitute assigning Duolingo trees out of order, we understand that. But we hope the ideas will give you some inspiration for what you can do right now to continue enjoying Duolingo with your students while we wait for the shiny new features we want to see!

553 "È appena venuto a tavola."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/759926>

Translation: He has just come to the table.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
25 Comments

ciaocarina 11 7 3

Why not 'IT just came to the table'? Referring to the food rather than a person.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

maynard42 11

It has just come to the table is accepted.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ispirac 13 10 8 5

I agree, it also must be correct.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

moreno174 20 16 10 5 5 30

In italian language 'the food / il cibo' non può "venire" a tavola / cannot come to the table.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

italiaoo 11 8 5

Is "She has just come to the table." wrong? why?

Will "venuto" change to "venuta" if we talk about a woman?

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BartoszGromko 15 11 7 7 6 2

"She has just come to the table." - would translate as "E' appena venut[a] a tavola"

9ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

MelissaM1212 13 8 3

I wish Duolingo had told us this. sad owl face

But thank you.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

italiaoo 11 8 5

Thank you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

chatee 25 14

With "essere" the past participle agrees with subject in number and gender. With "avere" no past participle agreement is needed.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jpjandrade 19 13 13 4 1085

Except if you use I', lo, li, la, le first! Then you have to agree as well. Italian is complicated =(

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

mstone01501 15 13 2

It seems to me that it is accepting the simple past tense as correct. Is this right? It accepted "He just came to the table."

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jpjandrade 19 13 13 4 1085

Present perfect is simple past tense. I got confused with that as well, but I'm quite sure you use those constructions for simple past. For ex., "I ate = lo ho mangiato = I have eaten". Someone please correct me if I'm wrong.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jaye16 25 25 25 13 6 3 2 174

Sorry, simple present and present perfect are not the same in English. Check this out:<http://www.ego4u.com/en/cram-up/grammar/simpas-preper>

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JennaHO 21 2

Why not "Lui ha appena venuto a tavola?" I just do not get this section! I put "He is just coming to the table, but it was wrong. Last heart on my fifth question. GAH!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

elizabethlb 14 76

With verbs in the past tense, the participle will either be preceded by a conjugation of essere or avere. A simple rule is that essere is used for verbs of motion (andare, venire, etc), which is why è is necessary instead of ha here. There are a lot of other rules for when to use essere and when to use avere, but verbs of motion is the one relevant to this sentence.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JennaHO 21 2

Thank you for the explanation!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Bunny2013 17

I agree, but it was considered wrong.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ERMcampbell 19 3

Why in "Abbiamo troppi posti a tavola" the translation was "We have too many places at the table". The owl used "at the table" instead of "to the table"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LatecomerLaurie 25 20 9 2

(American English speaker) a. "places to the table" would not make sense in English. b. I think "a tavola" is an expression. Sometimes table is "il tavolo."

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jaye16 25 25 25 13 6 3 2 174

"At" means they are already there. "To" means someone "goes to" it shows movement.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lebo_bebo 10 7 4

Should it not also use the third person conjugate of either essere or avere? Or is past tense simply implied by the word appena?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LatecomerLaurie 25 20 9 2

(American English speaker) Yes, "e" is third person singular of essere, right?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lebo_bebo 10 7 4

Oops! Should have spotted that. Thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vphilipsberg 20 16 15 12 155

If "It has barely come to the table" is not a valid translation for this Italian sentence, then how would one properly say "It has barely come to the table" in Italian?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jms344 22 17 489

This is a really bad sentence to use for oral comprehension, as there's no pronoun to use as a gender marker, and the speaker's voice is so slurred that you can't tell if she's saying "venuta a" or "venuto a". I put the first one, and was marked incorrect (I filed a bug for it).

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

554 duoligo the best

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6999336>

Lobolliane 22 20 17 13 2

É viciante

Give Lingot

62 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

NettoToooh 5

Sim ^^ Além de aprender bastante

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fpradox 17 7

Very nice!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

555 What's the difference between "me neither" and "me either"?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6814821>

brunolencin 9

I have that doubt, if you can help me, i'll be thankful :)

Give Lingot

452 years ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

There's no difference, you can say "me neither" or "me either" in everyday language. Keep in mind that for formal usage you need to say "Neither do I".

I don't think Obama is going to win

(Informal) Me neither/either or (Formal) I don't either or Neither do I

Bear in mind that you are not disagreeing here, on the contrary, you're agreeing with a negative statement...if you do want to disagree, you say the opposite "I think he's going to win" or "I think Vermin Supreme will win!"

Just for the record, the other way around would be:

I think Obama is going to win the election

If you think the same, if you think Obama is going to win, you can say "I think so too" 'so' here means Obama winning. You can also say, "So do I" or "me too" or "I do too" or "I agree". Any of these would be fine. Remember, you can't say "I too". To disagree you say, "I don't", "I don't think so", or, very simple, "I disagree"

PS: you do not have a doubt, you have a question. To know why....<http://goo.gl/nUcpfv>

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sir-Bender 10

Vermin Supreme kkkkkkk "When I'm President Everyone Gets A Free Pony!"

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1098

Hi Tom - could I possibly suggest that the colloquial use of 'dúvida' in Portuguese might imply 'question' in that language? It seems to me that most of the queries which I reply to here refer to 'dúvida' and not 'questão' or 'pergunta' or question. Most likely my response here will be corrected by native Portuguese speakers though.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

Yes. In English, the word doubt has to do with uncertainty, indecision, or disbelief. In Portuguese the word dúvida has to do with uncertainty, indecision, disbelief AND with not understanding something, which is usually the reason why Portuguese speakers tend to say "I have a doubt" instead of "I have a question"!

Eu tenho uma dúvida or Eu tenho uma pergunta = I have a question

Eu duvido = I doubt

Se você estiver com dúvidas, sinta-se a vontade para perguntar = If you have any questions, feel free to ask

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brunolencin 9

thanks guy! for the another tip too, it will be useful

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Em geral, pode-se dizer que:

Me either = eu também

Me neither = nem eu (no sentido de "eu também não").

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1098

Eu concordo com Danmoller aqui, sem dúvida! A forma 'either' implica a positiva, e 'neither' implica a negativa no meu idioma. Alguns exemplos para ilustrar as diferenças entre as duas palavras.

Nem eu nem a minha esposa nem meus filhos gostamos de peixe - Neither I nor my wife nor my children like fish

Either of them - Qualquer dos dois

I have not seen either one or the other - Eu não vi nem um nem o outro.

He neither studies nor works - Ele nem estuda nem trabalha.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RalfGuth 11

I am impressed. You talk portuguese very well. Good job!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brunolencin 9

thanks! it's a very simple explanation but very useful too

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

littlecass 11

Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Manu-moura 12

Thank you ,Tom. Your explanation it was excellent.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

556 Streaks Disappear After Only Strengthening with the Android App

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19988048>

14PraveenK 15 3 2 69

I have been experiencing this annoying bug on my Google Nexus 4 since the recent update.

After strengthening skills for the first time, I often find what I supposedly strengthened "unstrengthened". This forces me to retry the previous task. The app understands that I have completed two separate tasks and counts them to my total xp for the day but as I log in the next day on a different machine (desktop), I find only 10xp and not the full 20xp. As I always have streak freeze activated, this does not really bother me often however it has occurred twice in a row now (29/12/16 and 30/12/16) without me noticing (because I have used my mobile device on both occasions).

My long (90 day) streak has now disappeared. Please can you get my streak back and fix this annoying bug as not only is it a waste of logins but also streaks.

I also use Duo for school and it was my teacher who introduced our class to the platform.

This has also been posted as a bug report. Thank you!

Give Lingot
92 months ago

Leave a new comment
4 Comments

hughcparker 21 19 14 434
Good work reporting the bug.

Since you're asking for help using the site, could you move this post to the Troubleshooting forum? Your post is likely to get a lot more attention there, because that's where the people who are willing to help with this sort of problem hang out. It will also help keep this forum easy to navigate for those who aren't part of the troubleshooting group.

Don't delete it and create a new one, just click edit, and change the topic from Duolingo to Troubleshooting. Here's a guide on how to move a post:
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16609773>.

Thanks :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

14PraveenK 15 3 2 69
Thanks for the reply. I've just gone and done that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

DomDale 10
Also happened to me on the android app, it needs to check with the server before notifying you that your streak is done.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

v-leand 11 8 7 6 6 6 6 5 4 4 3 2
The same happened to me with a streak of 181 days : 'c

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

557 "The letter had an interesting effect on my marriage."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/491539>

Translation: La carta tuvo un efecto interesante en mi matrimonio.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

31 Comments

asunsi 25 16

En español también se puede poner a veces el adjetivo delante del nombre aunque no sea lo habitual

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CaribbeanX 20 933

Es cierto: En ESPAÑOL el adjetivo, en ocasiones, puede ir delante del sustantivo. No obstante, esto sería la excepción de la regla gramatical común en castellano. a nivel de Literatura se le llama EPÍTETO: Ejemplo normalmente uno dice Casa inmensa, pero si queremos resaltar la cualidad decimos: Inmensa casa. Un epíteto famoso en Español: Blanca nieve ( debería ser nieve blanca, pues NIEVE es sustantivo y BLANCA es adjetivo, pero es más común en forma de epíteto ). Greetings for all of you, classmates!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rafael02 23 19 32

que diferencia hay entre "un intesante efecto " y " un efecto interesante" para ponerlo como una mala traducción ????

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

wocara 23

this is a big hat... checa esta oracion, que pasaria si lo hacemos al contrario? this is a hat big .... caeriamos en un error muy marcado, o no ?, en ingles el adjetivo debe calificar al sustantivo y va primero por regla, en español lo hacemos al reves, el sustantivo primero y despues el adjetivo que lo califica, no hay por que complicarse, en ingles adjetivo primero y despues sustantivo, en español sustantivo primero y despues adjetivo. por eso la oracion "the letter had an interesting effect on my marriage" se traduce por regla "la carta tuvo un efecto interesante en mi matrimonio"..... :D

10ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

altius53 16 3

Cuál es la diferencia en "la carta tuvo un interesante efecto en mi matrimonio" con la carta tuvo un efecto interesante en mi matrimonio" En español el orden del sustantivo y el adjetivo, no cambia el significado de la oración. por lo tanto creo que las dos respuestas son válidas.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kassandra8286 25 11 9 8 6 5 3

Las dos se aceptan ahora.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sasistica 12 10 5
casamiento tambien esta dada como opcion! no la toma ...

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

manthecao 18
y que me decis entre "boda" y "matrimonio" ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

wocara 23
marriage es matrimonio, boda es wedding :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

manthecao 18
en castellano no son sinónimos ?

-3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

manthecao 18
no, perdona. llevas razón: matrimonio es la institución jurídica por la que dos personas se unen jurídicamente y publicamente en una vida en común. La boda es la ceremonia en la que se plasma el consentimiento mutuo ante un oficial jurídico o religioso y el público.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

TheCARGOSO 11 10 3 2
Google turn on jja

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Inathansr 9 8
conuerdo con los comentarios anteriores

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

reycoquito 20 15 10 8
De acuerdo con todos (as)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mariyadi 25 23 7 730
interesante efecto y efecto interesante.no es lo mismo?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

arrodeviaje 24
en español también es correcto poner a veces el adjetivo delante del nombre , en este caso, significa lo mismo y estan ambas bien escritas..

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

junalex 18 6 4

que diferencia hay entre "un interesante efecto " y " un efecto interesante"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jose_Jota 11

Esta frase me inquieta, ¿Que sentido puede tener?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LUZ-DUARTE 11

did have quiere decir tuvo entonces de donde salio ese HAD no entiendo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lauranthalasa 22 11 6 4 184

El auxiliar se usa en oraciones interrogativas y negativas. En las afirmativas como ésta no es necesario usarlo salvo que se quiera dar énfasis.

Un saludo

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LUZ-DUARTE 11

no utilizan el did para pasado

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HimitsuCC 25

El pasado de "has/have" es "had". Se utiliza en oraciones afirmativas en pasado simple. Estructura: "sujeto/pronombre + verbo conjugado en pasado"

He had three children = Él tuvo tres hijos

Sólo utilizas "did" cuando la oración es negativa "sujeto/pronombre + did + not + verbo" o interrogativa "did + sujeto/pronombre + verbo", en pasado simple. Cuando utilizas "did" el verbo no debe conjugarse tal como te muestro en los siguientes ejemplos:

He did not have an answer = Él no tuvo una respuesta

What did I have? = Qué tuve?

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

lauranthalasa 22 11 6 4 184

Acabo de responderte sin darme cuenta que HimitsuCC ya te había dado una magnífica explicación ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

themindeye1 16 7

Porque "ON my marriage"? - porque diablos va el ON?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

henrytuerk 11

la pronunciación es pesima, marriege lo pronuncia mirroge y es : mar-ij

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

xSegus 12 3

por que casamiento esta mal?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

selma0505bm 9 6 3

casamiento tambien esta bien

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

telma.carrera 24 10 1

yo puse casamiento y me la pusieron mala, por que.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Nefertari305 19 9 9 8 6 272

Boda o casamiento es la ceremonia. Matrimonio es el vínculo conyugal.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

selma0505bm 9 6 3

okey gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

558 The five stages of learning French

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19691524>

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

I've been studying French for a while (once upon a time in school, et then starting again around two years ago), and I've noticed several stages in my French learning which I'm curious if anyone can relate to.

Stage 1: Using French words with English grammar

"'These are her red dogs' = 'Ce sont sa rouge chiens'" - The first stage results in translations like this. French words, English grammar. If you know English and all the words in that sentence, it makes perfect sense to you. But it's not French, it's just French words. In French that sentence should read "Ce sont ses chiens rouges", with proper agreement and adjective placement.

Later on in this stage you use less English grammar but you still have those English reflexes and you still have a tendency to do a few things the English way, eg. placing regular adjectives before the noun. When you reach the point where you only anglicize one or two basics, you're well on your way to Stage 2.

Stage 2: Speaking English with French grammar

In Stage 1 you spoke French with English grammar. Now you've reached Stage 2 and as you've learned French grammar you've begun to incorporate it into your English. You start saying "It is a professor" or "He is professor", you say "It is a large apple red", you ask "Is it that the fruit green is an apple?" You are forever using the wrong possessive because you match it to the gender of the word in French, not to the owner. And all your friends think you've gone mad (and might be right!). Then at last the languages begin to sort themselves out in your mind and you start using the right grammar with the right language. At this point you progress to Stage 3.

Stage 3: Franglais

After all that mixing your French and English grammar, you've finally learned to keep them straight. Now you begin to speak a new language: Franglais. You speak chaque langue avec its own grammaire, mais vos sentences are a mélange of les deux, et only those qui speak both English and French can comprendre ce que you say. Vous pouvez understand this perfectly, et votre écriture et speech are very much comme ça. Et quand vous essayez to speak to quelqu'un qui doesn't understand French, you generally devez traduire. Your friends really pense que vous are insane. Lentement, vous mix the two less and less, and you reach the next phase: Stage 4.

Stage 4: English English and French French in their proper places

You've mixed English grammar and French words, French grammar and English words, and spoken a mix of perfect French and perfect English. Now you have finally reached the point where not only do your French and English each use their own grammar, but you use only one at a time and you always use the one you want. You probably still make mistakes in your French, but at least it doesn't have all that English mixed in. You study and practise your French more and more, and eventually you reach the long-awaited goal of Stage 5.

Stage 5: Fluency

After all that study and practise at the end of Stage 4, you have gained a good deal of French knowledge. You know your grammar and have a large vocabulary. You can speak to and understand natives without making an inordinate number of mistakes. You've reached the goal you've striven for for so long: fluency.

I'm currently in Stage 3. I speak a lot of Franglais, and there are probably a few French words scattered around in this post that weren't intended to be. I'm aiming to reach Stage 4 in the next couple of months.

But what I really wanted to ask was, is it just me? Am I the only one going through these stages? Or can you relate? If you can, which stage are you in?

Give Lingot6

213 months ago

Leave a new comment

21 Comments

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907

Just a note when it comes to stage one and learning a foreign language as a native English speaker. Once you stop asking why and allow Spanish, French, Japanese, Korean, Hungarian, German and any other language to be their unique selves, you will easily skip Stage 1.

I have noticed that many language learners often question the grammar of foreign languages because there's an odd level of expectation or entitlement . . . in my opinion. For example: Many learners either ask why are there so many gendered words in French (or other Romance languages) or they're complaining about it. I have many examples that I can highlight or one can simply check out the discussion forum here and other online sites.

The one solution I would suggest to avoid Stage 1 is to simply accept French (or any other language) as it is. During the initial stages, don't worry about grammar. Yes, grammar is important but learn the language while you're having fun. Mimic some one properly making a speech, a sentence and declaration, or singing. Introduce some grammatical concepts slowly as you continue to get a lot of input. The language will surely make sense on its own merit.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

Very good points. I've found that I haven't really had Stage 1 in my Polish, possibly because I have experience with how to NOT use English grammar from my French and the grammar is so different that it's a lot easier to not mix in English grammar and some of the differences are similar to French grammar. For instance, the agreement of adjectives. It's just a small step from agreeing in gender and number to agreeing in gender, number, and case. And cases are so completely different from English or French grammar that I have no idea how I would go about writing Polish with English grammar.

Still, we keep our English reflexes for a long time and stupid mistakes happen (far too often with me). I still find myself reverting to English grammar once in a while when I'm trying to write French while very tired. That's what moving from Stage 1 to Stage 2 is really about; letting go of your English reflexes and replacing them with French ones. Certainly it will be much easier and faster if you follow your advice (which I highly recommend), but you still need to train your brain to not automatically say "le rouge chien" or whatever when you're not really thinking about what you're saying.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

This process looks and feels very familiar to me, even though mine has been working in reverse.

I still use a lot of Franglais for various reasons, one being that some words or phrases come faster to my mind in one or the other language. Sometimes, I just can't find the proper French word and some English terms seem impossible to recall.

In my never-ending Phase 5, I have also made embarrassing silly mistakes still popping up from Phase 1 (prepositions!), and learned to forgive myself for such.

In my past 4 years of Duolingo, I have had to review my own French grammar, and realized that a whole life is not enough to entirely master any language, including our mother tongues, if we don't work and practice enough and regularly.

I have a theory about those who constantly question foreign grammar : in a number of countries, the education system has favored the discovery approach to learning, and praised the question "why?" which may not be relevant to all learning subjects.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

CommeuneTexane 25 15 8 2

I believe that learning to forgive oneself and continuing to try is a difficult, but absolutely necessary, thing to do. I still blush just a bit when reading passages I've written even as recently as...yesterday. I have also said some very embarrassing things, and will likely continue stumbling upon novel ways of making mistakes in French, as well as repeating old ones, for a very long time.

However, when encountering mistakes made by others learning English, it does not bother me in the slightest. In fact, I think the natural impulse is one of respect for making the effort, compassion, and a desire to help. It is challenging! English is messy. The spelling is outrageous, there are nearly as many exceptions to the rules as there are rules, the grammar tricky even for native speakers at times, and there are hundreds of irregular verbs to memorize.

This respect and compassion ought to be internalized. It is something I am trying to do, but meanwhile the desire to learn is stronger than momentary embarrassment.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

CommeuneTexane 25 15 8 2

Je crois que I tend to write et penser en français. It's une catastrophe complète. J'espère qu'un jour I will be able de placer les mots dans their propres langues. At least, avec le temps.... ;)

Très amusant Emilie, merci !

1ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

You're definitely Stage 3 comme moi. I wonder which of us will arriver à Stage 4 first? :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

WraythRose 11 11 10 7 3 2 2

I've never gotten stage 3 in any of the languages I tried learning O_o My german is at stage 4 I'd say and french almost there....but skipping stage 3 XD closest would be purposefully speaking like that in the ghaeltacht (an irish immersion 2 week summer boarding school...) where you could be kicked out for speaking a full sentence of english... but I can't remember ever doing it by accident... :D

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

Well, admittedly that paragraph is somewhat exaggerated (and was quite a lot of fun to write!). :D Apparently I'm not the only one who reads it as if it were perfectly normal, though. :D I don't normally speak in such a complete mix as I wrote that paragraph, but it's quite common for me to switch language mid-paragraph, or even mid-sentence, and sometimes switch back again, usually all without noticing. And I regularly use the wrong language, so I have to repeat myself in the other.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

WraythRose 11 11 10 7 3 2 2

I have stuck english into my french when speaking to my mother....(she is french, my french sucks) and I've noticed it in my indian friend speaking to her mother XD The english sneaks in, but to me it's noticeable, and I internally cringe for not remembering the other language word!

It was a very funny paragraph!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

FredMefford 22 14 195

Interesting thoughts! I grew up in Miami with a lot of Cubans there, but I had a hard time with Spanish grammar. I've noticed that, after studying French for a little while, that Spanish is much easier now. For something totally different give Irish a try.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

I noticed the same thing with French and Polish. I started studying Polish, and all of a sudden French was much easier. Probably because Polish is so difficult for me by comparison!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

AussieCraig 25 15 9 465

I started studying French and realised how little English I actually knew. Considering English was always my best subject in school, that's an unsettling thing for me to learn about myself. :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

I already had a fair amount of knowledge about English (studying the history of grammar and etymologies have been hobbies ever since I stopped being forced to learn grammar and therefore disliking it), but I've learned more rules than I knew before I started studying French. A lot of things I just did the right way naturally without having a clue that there was a rule to it. Then I read explanations of the French rules and mentions of English rules made their way in, and I started trying to explain English to non-natives. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

AussieCraig 25 15 9 465

Exactly, we learned how to use the rules without realising they were even rules. I too love etymology and love the podcast "A Way With Words". I love hearing people asking why about words phrases and expressions that we take for granted.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Trofaste 25 17 11 3 2

Precisely. And explaining them is so much fun, especially since it's a chance to show off. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

CommeuneTexane 25 15 8 2

^ Yes, this! I did very well in English grammar in school, but it wasn't until I started learning French that I realized how much I relied on sentences "sounding" correct in English without necessarily knowing why. Why does it have to be that way? What is the rule? It's been eye-opening for both languages. I will have to check out "A Way With Words," it sounds interesting. Thanks!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

AussieCraig 25 15 9 465

Here you go: <https://itunes.apple.com/us/podcast/a-way-with-words/id121493640?mt=2>

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

CommeuneTexane 25 15 8 2

Thanks! I'll listen during my break. :)

0Give Lingot1•3 months ago

kat848678 22 12 8 431

LOL i love this and may relate a bit? i just started french recently so don't feel qualified to answer but think your on to something :0) born into english language but not well schooled so speak it but not always grammar correct. about a year ago discovered duolingo and after decades of being a wantabe spanish speaker i am learning it and doing pretty good (reading and writing)- (finished tree but going back to really "get it") so if you really want to laugh and have people think your crazy just add another language. (im also learning sign language with my grandchildren and the other day it was the first response that popped in my head but usually i get what ever language im suppose to and amazed that yes people can learn and speak more then 2 languages at a time)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

Colin222062 14

I'm a couple of weeks into attempting to learn french (took it at school, but never gave it any real effort).

Thanks you for this.

Seeing these stages written down will be very helpful in recognising and avoiding these pitfalls, of which I think, knowing my mind, I may well fall victim to.

I'm at Stage 1 at the moment, but I've noticed that recently, on occasion when speaking English, my speech pattern alters ever so slightly. That;s Stage 2 creeping up on me, while I'm still in Stage 1! Which is incredible since I've only been studying for a few weeks now.

Regardless, I'm thoroughly enjoying the experience.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

EthanYang0 10 3 2

I think I might be in the middle of franglais et Anglais et french in their proper places thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

559 Swahili for English speakers is in the Incubator!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11388278>

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1165

<https://incubator.duolingo.com/courses/sw/en/status>

(And this time around, I guess it's not Swedish (sv) that they accidentally published as Swahili (sw) :-p ).

Give Lingot

201 year ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

Moomingirl 25 20 17 17 12

Ooooh.....

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bookrabbit 22 22 20 20 19 17 16 16 16 16 15 14 14 13 13 13 12 8 5 26

Oh wow! Fantastic! That will be so interesting.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Moomingirl 25 20 17 17 12

Are there any languages that you don't intend to learn, bookrabbit? :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bookrabbit 22 22 20 20 19 17 16 16 16 16 15 14 14 13 13 13 12 8 5 26

Not per se. I intend to carry on doing every course released for as long as the interest lasts. How long that will be I have no way of knowing. It has lasted longer than some already, but as there is no end to the new material potentially available it could possibly last a lifetime.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Moomingirl 25 20 17 17 12

You continue to amaze me. Do you have any favourite languages, from those you have learned so far? Have you dropped any once you completed the tree, or do you still practice them all?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bookrabbit 22 22 20 20 19 17 16 16 16 16 15 14 14 13 13 13 12 8 5 26

German is my favourite. I also practice French, Turkish and Esperanto every day at the moment. I want to get back to Irish, Spanish, Italian and Swedish soon. The others I probably won't have time for for a while. Four at a time seems to be about right. The long wait for Russian has allowed me to get back to quite a few that I had ignored for a while.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SoyHenry 25 25 1179
Do you want to be a moderator?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2
Awesome news!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mjaumjaupurr 25 25 25 24 23 20 19 17 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 10 8 7 6 926
Wonderful news! Thank you, Duo!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreaCisne04 16 14 7 7 5 3 2 2
Hi, I am Spanish speaker, but I know very good English, I will to learn languages for English speakers in a few days or in a month, I am happy for this language that will be for English speakers because is a opportunity for me, sorry if the comment is misspelled, ¡Goodbye!.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gaby2004torres 6
hello how are you?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

560 Picture of the day: healthy food
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16622019>
ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2
food

Look at the picture and write some sentences according to your Spanish level.

Please correct the sentences written by English learners:
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16621936>

Vocabulary: el pepino/cucumber, las papas, patatas/potatos, las fresas/strawberries, las zanahorias/carrots, duraznos/peaches, la leche/milk, el brócoli/broccoli, la soya, soja/soybeans, el apio/celery, las cerezas/cherries, el yogur/yogurt, yoghurt, la mazorca, el elote/corncob, los elotes - las judías verdes/greenbeans

Give Lingot
148 months ago

Leave a new comment
19 Comments

SpyDuck420 13

¡Hola!

La foto tiene muchas frutas. La tiene muchas fresas uvas verdes y rojas, tomates (sí, son frutas), y tres bananos. No recuerdo los nombres de las otras frutas.

La además tiene vegetales. Tiene papas, maíz, y zanahorias. No recuerdo los nombres de las otras vegetales también. Para beber, la foto tiene leche.

That's all I remember off of the top of my head!

4ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

No recuerdo los nombres de las otras vegetales también --> Tampoco recuerdo los nombres de los demás/otros vegetales. =)

5ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

SrSchuster 18 14 4 2

Let me correct you :)

La foto tiene muchas frutas. También tiene muchas fresas, uvas verdes y rojas, tomates (sí, son frutas), y tres bananos. No recuerdo los nombres de las otras frutas. Además tiene vegetales. Tiene papas, maíz y zanahorias. No recuerdo los nombres de los otros vegetales también. Para beber, la foto tiene leche.

Very good! Tu español es bueno. Sólo tienes que pulir un par de cosas. Igual tranquilo, eso se mejora con la práctica. Sigue así. Abrazo!

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

"No recuerdo... también" debe ser "No recuerdo... tampoco" :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

SpyDuck420 13

Thanks- My Spanish is pretty rough at this point. I have been learning it in school for 2 years, and have started learning it on Duolingo about last September (yep, a lot of lost streaks). The only people that I really practice speaking to are 1) my spanish teacher, 2) my friends (though that doesn't really help) and 3) one of the waitresses at a Mexican Restaurant. So I don't really get a lot of practice, and for written stuff like this, I try not to use Google Translate ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

DragonPolyglot 21 15 12 10 7 6 6 5 5 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 9

Para mantener una dieta sludable, es importante comamos fruta, verduras, grano y lecharía. En la foto, las frutas son fresas, uvas, bananas, zanahorias, y papas. Tomates y pepinos son verduras. Yogur de fresas y una tasa de leche pueden dar una dosis saludable de leche. Maíz y frijoles son los granos en la foto.

No recuerdo los nombres de las otras comidas. ¿Ayúdame, por favor?

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

:) Correcciones:

lecharía --- lácteos

los tomates y los pepinos...

El yogur de fresa y una taza....

El maíz y los frijoles...

¿Me ayudas/ayudan...?

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

duolineitor 25 12 750

Me parece estupendo esto que estás haciendo.Y por cierto a tus correcciones a DragonPolyglot le agrego que en la oración "y una taza de leche puede dar una dosis saludable de leche" cometió redundancia.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

...saludable de calcio.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

remoonline 25 20 23

Esta imagen muestra un vaso de leche, un tazón de yogur y muchas frutas y verduras. Hay numerosas fresas, cerezas y uvas, algunos duraznos y bananos, unas papas, tomates, zanahorias, apios, brócoli y un maíz.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

...brócoli y una mazorca. ;-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMTI3 18 8 81

Yo veo fresas rojo,y zanahorias naranja. Yo gusto las uvas verdes, y también las duraznos.para no gusto el broccoli. El foto hacia mi hambre. Es todo es mucho bueno por tu.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Aysitepeu 25 147

Yo veo fresas rojas y zanahorias naranjas. Me gustan las uvas verdes, y también los duraznos (en España se les conoce más por "melocotones"), pero no me gusta el brócoli. La foto me hizo sentir hambre. Todo está muy bueno.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMTI3 18 8 81
Gracias!

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Franckosta 25 22

Of vegetables I enjoy the carrots, cucumbers, broccoli, soybeans, corn cob, the celery in cake with egg and the yogurt pure. In season of fruit, I abuse of mangos and peaches; for the banana always there are harvest. With the arandanos I have obtained the biggest award.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

PepiEspo0 25 22

broccoli, banana, uvas, choclo, tomates, pepino, leche , yogur, zanahoria, fresas , duraznos, apio, papa , cereal, chauchas. Todas estas verduras y frutas son saludables. Me gustan las frutas. El yogur parece de fresas. La leche es blanca. Las verduras tienen buen color.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

NaomiZN16 3
Hola. la fruta!!!!!!!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

NaomiZN16 3
delicioso!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

NaomiZN16 3
sorry about my spanish!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

561 Describe the picture: there is, there are...

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16537123>

ProfesorAntonnio 21 16 16 14 11 10 8 3 2

Objetivo: describir qué objetos hay en la habitación.

Herramientas:

There is (hay singular), there are (hay plural)

Preposiciones de lugar: under-debajo de, on-en, sobre, next to - junto a, etc.

Vocabulario de objetos, bed-cama, pillow-almohada, toys- juguetes.

Ejemplo:

There is a newspaper on the floor ---> Hay un periódico en el piso.

There are some toys ---> Hay algunos juguetes.

The table is next to the bed ---> La mesa está junto a la cama.

bedroom

¡Tus oraciones serán corregidas por angloparlantes nativos!

Aquí puedes corregir las oraciones de los estudiantes de español:

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16537278>

Recurso de gramática : <http://www.ejerciciodeingles.com/cuando-usar-there-is-there-are/>

Give Lingot5

198 months ago

Leave a new comment

64 Comments

LuzBet2 9

There is a room and there are some objects. The bed is next to the dressing table. There are some toys on the floor. There is a table. There are some clothing. There are a disk, a newspaper, a computer, a teddy bear and some much.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There is a room and there are some [objects]. The bed is next to the dressing table.

Un "dressing table" también se llama un "vanity".

There are some toys on the floor. There is a table. There [is] some clothing.

"Clothing" es una cosa incontable, y por eso, usamos "is". También es posible decir "There are some clothes".

There are a disk, a newspaper, a computer, a teddy bear and some much.

Esta parte no tiene sentido. Sería algo como "...y unos mucho" en español. Creo que quisiste decir "and much more".

4ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

FairlandHippie 25 6 6

Tambien se querria decir

... and many more things.

... and a lot of other stuff.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

LuzBet2 9

Thank you.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

OscarIgles7 15

There is a computer on the desk

1ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

FairlandHippie 25 6 6

Su frase es perfecta, excepto que necesita un punto al final.

3ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Taty063 25 22 321

There is a table, there is a computer on the desk, there is a bed, there are green pillow and blanket on the bed

1ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There is a table[.] [T]here is a computer on the desk[.] [T]here is a bed[.] [T]here are [a] green pillow and [a] blanket on the bed[.]

Esta se llama un "run-on sentence" en inglés. Hay que separar la oración con puntos, o usar la conjunción "and" para juntar las frases independientes. ("There is a table. There is a computer" o "There is a table and there is a computer", por ejem).

Las cosas singulares en inglés siempre requieren un determinante. No es gramatical decir simplemente "there is green pillow" sin incluir el artículo "a".

Otra nota: Cuando tienes dos o mas cosas singulares en una lista, los expertos no están de acuerdo en si es correcto usar "there is" o "there are". En una situación informal, "there is" está bien, pero algunos expertos dicen que "there are" siempre se usa cuando hay una lista en contextos formales. Para mí, "there is" suena mejor cuando la primera cosa en la lista es singular.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Taty063 25 22 321

Muchas gracias Writchie4 por la corrección, tomaré en cuenta tus consejos.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

AlejandroT779593 21 10 6

There is coffee watered on the table. There is a fan under the table. The bed is between to the table and the cabinet with mirror.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There is coffee [spilled] on the table. There is a fan under the table. The bed is between [ ] the table and the cabinet with [a] mirror.

"Cabinet with a mirror" sería correcto gramaticalmente, pero normalmente llamamos ese mueble un "vanity", o un "dressing table".

Y "between" no lleva el "to". Como en español, no decimos "entre a esto y eso".

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

MDMuller1973 13

Where is the fan. I don't see it. Or what is the fan. I understand that a fan is a object to remove the heat

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

MDMuller1973 13

What? What is that?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

chicco258 24

There are toys and garbage on the floor. There is a table disorganaized there are hanged clothes. There is a desorganaized bed. There is a tv: There are two mirrors, one on the floor and one on the wardrobe. There is a trash can. There is a cup and there is a newspaper. There are sheets on the table. There are two lipsticks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

rrkeagle 25 24 19 6 365

Una buena descripción. Unas pocas sugerencias. <<There is a disorganized table, and there are hanging clothes. There is a disorganized bed. There is a TV. >>

A veces en inglés, decimos "messy" en lugar de "disorganized". Buena suerte con tus estudios en inglés.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

chicco258 24

thank you

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mari9305 9

In the room there are some toys as a bear or a football ball. There is a book on the table and there are some papers, too. there is a computer next to the football ball.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMTI3 18 8 81

In the room there are some toys, like a bear and a football. There is a book and some papers on the table. There is a computer next to the football. Great job! :) If you have any questions let me know.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

irmalamarquesa 25 15 3

There is a cute bear on the floor , there is a computer on a beautiful green desk, There is a red car and it has a remote control . There are a lot of things on the floor and some clothes hung up. That is a terrible room.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMT13 18 8 81

Only a few mistakes! Very good! and some clothes hung up. That is a terrible room.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

irmalamarquesa 25 15 3

Gracias por tu observacion EstudianteMT13

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mariaisabe359169 18 8

There are many objects in the room, one bed, two tables, children's toys: a small car, a bear, a ball. On the table where is the pc there is one drawer open. The mirror is on the floor. On the other table there are one book, papers, a glass.... The room is untidy because the newspaper, the computer, the racket and others objects are on the floor.

The clothes is hung out. There is an object under the table, what is it ? i not know it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There are many objects in the room[:] one bed, two tables, [and] children[']s toys [including] a small car, a bear, [and] a ball. On the table where the PC [is] there is one drawer open. The mirror is on the floor. On the other table there are one book, papers, [and] a glass.... The room is untidy because the newspaper, the computer, the racket and [other] objects are on the floor.

The clothes [are] hung out. There is an object under the table[.] [W]hat is it? [I do not know.]

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mariaisabe359169 18 8

Gracias por la corrección, tendré en cuenta las indicaciones.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Maggy paz5 11

it is a messy bedroom, there are some toys on the floor also some garbage. I can see a Green pillow next to the blanket on de bed. i do not like to live here. poor litter bear.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

[I]t is a messy bedroom[.] [T]here are some toys on the floor [and] also some garbage. I can see a [g]reen pillow next to the blanket on [the] bed. [I] do not like to live here.

Solo diríamos "I do not like to live here" si actualmente estás viviendo aquí. El condicional sería mejor: "I would not like to live here."
[P]oor [little] bear.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

Maggypaz5 11
Gracias , tomaré en cuenta las correcciones.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

irmalamarquesa 25 15 3
I would not like to live here es decir A mi no me gustaría vivir ahí.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

AgusBar3 12 6
That's crap!. I have to clean that room. There is too much garbage on the floor. There is coffee on top of the Lucy's homework. and There are dirty blankets next to the bed

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

FairlandHippie 25 6 6
There is a ridiculous amount of stuff scattered on the floor. There is a messy bed, and a drawer that someone forgot to close. Additionally there is a mess on the desk, and, most notably, spilt coffee.

There ought to be someone getting in trouble for leaving such a mess.

In terms of household maintenance, there is what appears to be a hole in the wall, which probably ought to be repaired.

(No lingots for me; I am merely doing this for entertainment.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

monterosmoneros 10
i see .there is a bear, and there un car ,a computer,

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMTI3 18 8 81
I see a bear, a car, and a computer. If you have any questions let me know. : )

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

boclodoa 10
"Very fine. Didn't I tell you to clear up this mess Mike?" I said rudely, but after a second I wish I haven't.

"Well, there is a reason. I'm sorry. It was the end of the season."

"Ok," lets do it together, "was it good? Were there dragons this time?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMTI3 18 8 81

but after a second I wished I hadn't. And you could write. . . "I'm sorry but I have a good reason." I'm not sure what your last sentence means. Maybe you will have to explain it to me. If you have any questions let me know.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

boclodoa 10

Thank you so much for your comments. In the last sentence I was thinking about the end of the season of a TV series, where you can see dragons sometimes. I changed the text several times, in the last version there were no mention about the TV series, sorry :S

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

estudianteMTI3 18 8 81

That's ok ; ) You are pretty good with your English. Good luck with your learning! If you have any more questions let me know.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

16943828juan 12

there's a big mess in that room

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

rrkeagle 25 24 19 6 365

Sólo falta la puntuación: There's a big mess in that room! Buena suerte con tus estudios en inglés.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

gabrielato445457 20

This is not my room!

In this room I don't see the door or windows , but I see one bed, it has a pillow and a two clean greens beedshets. there are all: a table, a desck, a clothes, a mirror, a mouse, ja, ja .....everithings In the floor there is the newspaper from today, and the personal computer "macintosh", many toys like a little bear, a balonball, and a tennis racket. I also see all messed up, it seems that happened a wind for there.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

CristoLira 12

there is a bear next to the table there are puddles there is a monitor on top the desktop there is my heart under the bed where she left it

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

[T]here is a bear next to the table[.] [T]here are puddles[.] [T]here is a monitor on top [of] the [desk.]
[T]here is my heart under the bed where she left it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

1084179721 12

There is a laptop on the floor. There is a mirror in the room

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There is a laptop on the floor. There is a mirror in the room[.]
Two mirrors :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Olga_Patricia 25 6

I see a room pretty messy.

There is a desk that contains some articles, such as ; a notebook, papers and a cup of coffee spilled.

Next to the desk there is a bed covered with a green bedspread and pillow.

Under the desk there is a fan.

On the floor are several things: a soccer ball, a teddy bear, a trash basket, a toy car, a tennis racket, a personal mirror, a newspaper and a lot of stuffs.

Near the bed there is a vanity with a mirror, a makeup set: two lipsticks and a little box of face powder.

On the wall near the bed is hanging clothes.

At the end of the room is a TV, whose furniture has an open drawer.

I wonder who can live like this, with so much clutter.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

I see a [pretty messy] room.

Los adjetivos van antes del sustantivo en inglés.

There is a desk that contains some [things] such [as]: a notebook, papers and a [spilled] cup of coffee.

"Articles" funciona en esta frase, pero me suena un poco formal. "Things/items" sería mejor.

También, el uso de "contains" es gramatical, pero es un poco raro con un desk sin cajones/gavetas.

Sería más natural decir algo como "...that has some items on it such as:"

On the floor are several things: a soccer ball, a teddy bear, a trash basket, a toy car, a tennis racket, a personal [mirror], a newspaper and a lot of [other] [stuff].

"Stuff" es una palabra incontable.

Near the bed there is a vanity with a [mirror] [and] a makeup set [with] two lipsticks and a little [container] of face powder.

[There are clothes hanging] on the wall near the bed.

At the end of the room is a TV, whose [desk/stand] has an open drawer.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

marthaisab498098 9

There is a computer in the table. There are two tables in the room There is bed in the room The newspaper is next to table

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There is a computer [on] the table. There are two tables in the room[.] There is [a] bed in the room[.] The [newspaper] is next to [a] table.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

JenMateus 7

There is a mac with a mouse on the floor.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

Muy bien. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

garciacanza 14 7

It is a image of a traditional room in the world. There is a towel on the bed and it is green with yellow line. There are a book and papers on the table. There are a laptop, newspaper, cellphone,ball(orange), toy of car, mirrow and chair(red with yellow) on the floor. There is a black TV on the green desktop. The are a antenna and ball under the table. It need order and cleaning in this room .

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

It is [an] image of a traditional room in the world. There is a towel on the bed and it is green with [a] yellow line. There are a book and papers on the table. There are a laptop, [a] [newspaper], [a] cellphone, [a] ball(orange), [a] toy [] car, [a] [mirror] and [a] chair(red with yellow) on the floor. There is a black TV on the green [desk].

"An" se usa en vez de "a" antes de palabras que empiezan con un sonido vocálico (ej. "an apple", "an idea", "an otter", "an hour"...) [There] are [an] antenna and [a] ball under the table.

Creo que el "antenna" es un "fan" :)

[This room needs] order and cleaning.

También se puede decir "This room needs to be cleaned."

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

garciaconza 14 7

Thanks you very much!

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

Sure thing :)

(Es "thanks" o "thank you", pero nunca "thanks you".)

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

garciaconza 14 7

:)

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Efraxxx 14 2

In my home, there is a microwave oven, and there are four bedrooms, the living room is next to the kitchen,

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Duart3Rock 12 7 4

Well, there is a computer on the floor also There are some toys over there. There is a desk next to the bed. There is a small hole behind the desk, Are there a rat's nest in there?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

Well, there is a computer on the floor also[.] There are some toys over there. There is a desk next to the bed. There is a small hole behind the desk[.] [Is] there a rat's nest in there?

"A rat's nest" es singular. Por eso, usamos "is" en vez de "are".

0ReplyGive Lingot1•8 months ago

MDMuller1973 13

This picture is about a disorganized room. There is a bed with clothes. This one is between the table and dressing table. there are book, paper , cup and more things on the table. there is a small ball under the table. the dressing table have a mirror. there is a desk next to vanity. the television is on the desk. On the floor there are a lot things. there is on the floor a personal computer next to a ball and by teddy bear. Among other things.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ElenaTapia0 15 1

There is a table, over the table there is a book, Coffee and other things. on the floor is a newspaper, a toy car, CDs, ball, cellphone and water. there is a computer that is over the a green table.
Goodbye.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

There is a table[.] [On] the table there is a book, [c]offee and other things. [O]n the floor is a newspaper, a toy car, CDs, [a] ball, [a] cellphone and water. [T]here is a computer [on] the a green table.

"Over the table" significaría flotando en el aire, o en un estante encima de la mesa. Una imagen que hice en otra discusión:

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ElenaTapia0 15 1

Thanks You! I didn't Know

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

Thank[] you! I didn't know

Decimos "thanks" o "thank you", nunca "thanks you". You're welcome :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

arnulo 24 22 943

There's an untidy bedroom in the picture. There's a furniture set in the bedroom. There's an individual bed between the table and the vanity. Over the bed covered for a green blanket there's a green pillow and a blue towel. The vanity with an open door is between the bed and the wall. There's a makeup set on the vanity. There are two mirrors in the bedroom: The small one is on the floor near the table and the big one is on the top of the vanity. The green desk is next to the pink vanity and it has an open drawer. There's a black TV screen on it. On the top of the table there are: A notebook, some papers and a turned cup with some spilt coffee. There are clothes hanging on the clothesline. There's a hole at the wall. On the floor there are several things: A laptop computer, a car toy with control, a trash can, a disk, a newspaper and many more things.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

562 I finished the Spanish tree, and it's all golden.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16588992>

y.ademas 25 25 295

Day 42, 12,209 xp total, Level 18, 47% Spanish fluency (so it says...lol)

I've been studying a couple of hours a day--usually an hour or 90 minutes in the morning, and and hour at night--shooting for 300 xp's per day.

This is not to brag in any way, but I know that some people like to know how long it takes other people, and this is how long it took me.

I'm going to keep plugging away on the "strengthen skills" for now, and I guess I should start looking into this immersion thing (even though I don't feel ready...).

Anyway...I'm really enjoying it. Thanks to all the great contributors who take the time to answer questions in the discussion section. Y'all help me immensely, every single lesson.

Give Lingot21
168 months ago

Leave a new comment
13 Comments

estudianteMT13 18 8 81

Congratulations! And with a little more practice you will feel more sure of yourself. And while I've never had emersion exactly, from what I've heard and experienced, emersion isn't that great on Duolingo. I think readlang, (which I just discovered) is more what emersion should be like. Buena suerte!

3ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

samjola 9 6 6 5 2
esta bien.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

onthehype25 20 18 6 5 326

Congratulations! Immersion would definitely help you because in Spanish news articles you can see how Spanish is written or spoken and can get a better idea of how they speak better than Duolingo's wacky sentences.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mattoleriver 20 15 740

"I finished the Spanish tree, and it's all golden." Congratulations! It seems that most people race through the tree without bothering to keep it golden, good job.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Cumber-ground 8 7

That is marvelous! As long as you do anything concerning learning Spanish, it all will contribute to your understanding more and more. I say, not as fast as I would like, but I can see how it has helped me slowly but surely. E-books, movies, TV shows with or without close captioning on that is in Spanish with Spanish captioning. I have been for a long time doing Italian at least a few years or more on and off with lots of off but more consistent now with it. And I am just able to not feel so lost using some grammar books to help with the Italian verbs, etc. It gave me the confidence to try out Spanish here. Level 19 Italian with another account. I wasn't confident enough to tie my Spanish to that account, but I started this one to start fresh with Italian and still work on my first account.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ooreilly 15
I'm still trying to get everything golden.

insert crying face emoji here

Well done!

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

rspreng 24

It won't stay gold for long. ;) Just saying. Options in addition to immersion are doing English from Spanish or venturing forth into reading and conversing in the non-Duo world -- which I recommend.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mynameis_ivonne 15 3 2

¡Felicidades! Puedes practicar conmigo yo soy mexicana, ¡saludos!

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

mynameis_ivonne 15 3 2

¡ felicitaciones ! puedes practicar conmigo, soy mexicana.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Tilden20008 22 21 83

Congratulations on finishing, on your dedication and ability to spend so much time, and on keeping the tree golden. Getting to level 25 while practicing skills with some immersion makes sense. If you are not doing so already you might want to add listening to Spanish radio or watching videos, maybe starting with Easy Spanish videos with Spanish captioning.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

anyita26 10 6

felicidades alguna duda, puedo ayudarte soy Colombiana .

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

UnGatit0 20 14 11 8 6 496

If someone want to practice spanish with me, please let me know I can help you! I am from Mexican, And I need practice my English. Can you send me a message to my e mail coco803@hotmail.com

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

563 what is the difference between (job) and(profession)?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12971162>

radwatawfik 10

what is the difference between (job) and (profession)?

Give Lingot3

51 year ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

mnalooh 10

Jobs are activities that are performed in exchange of a monetary value. A profession, on the other hand, is a vocation that is based on specialized educational training.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

radwatawfik 10

thank you very much

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FaroukZeino 21 14 952

Job: The regular work that you do in order to earn money.

Profession: A type of work that needs special training or education.

1ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

ghaidaaob 14 8

now i know =)) thanks a lot

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

564 Arrival (comments may contain spoilers for the movie)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19074602>

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

This discussion is for the movie Arrival.

I saw this movie last night with a friend of mine. He speaks around 6 computer languages and 3 human languages. We were both in awe of this movie.

Movie Summary:

Linguistics professor Louise Banks (Amy Adams) leads an elite team of investigators when gigantic spaceships touch down in 12 locations around the world. As nations teeter on the verge of global war, Banks and her crew must race against time to find a way to communicate with the extraterrestrial visitors. Hoping to unravel the mystery, she takes a chance that could threaten her life and quite possibly all of mankind.

Some suggested topics: the language nerdy goodness of the movie, Sapir Whorf hypothesis (pros and cons), languages without reference to time, challenges and methods for teaching a language from scratch (cross-culturally), the overlap of language, science, and math (in natural and constructed languages), major mis-translations throughout history.

I'm sure this movie presented plenty of language topics I haven't considered in these suggestions. Have at it!

Arrival image

Give Lingot

294 months ago

Leave a new comment
15 Comments

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

(Light spoiler) This was one of my favorite scenes in the movie: When Louise Banks (Amy Adams) is justifying to Colonel Weber (Forest Whitaker) why it will take several sessions of basic vocabulary and the introduction of seemingly unrelated concepts to support the aliens' understanding of humanity's underlying question "What is your purpose here."

arrival parcing a sentence

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Darth_Rey 6 4

Oh I saw the trailer for that! Haven't seen it though...

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I didn't watch the trailer before hand. I only knew that aliens arrive and that a woman linguist is brought on board to help facilitate communication. I'm really glad I didn't watch the trailer before hand. The movie isn't fast paced and the trailer (I just went and watched it) gives away so much of the action that does take place.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

GermanOfficial 13 12 11 10 1

Duolingo should change their owl for one of those aliens dudes.

I havent seen the movie yet, i found some reviews a couple of days ago and shared it here
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19018074>

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

SilverCharacter 14 13 9 8 6 5 3 3 3 176

I really want to watch it, it seems like such a great movie! I wish now I had kept my discussion with this alive, but I'm glad the word about such a different sci-fi movie is spreading. One of my favorite things about what I have heard about it is that the movie is not about fighting "horrible monsters", but about getting the world to work together and communicate. Who knows, maybe that alien language will be available on Duolingo soon? :D

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I think the dimensions would be very difficult to teach. And, might end up as more of a code than a language, with how little the movie offered.

Btw This just reminded me of the existence of Gallifreyan. I tried to learn it once but picked up a computer virus from the website I was trying to learn it from :P)

Gallifreyan

2ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

Landwave 2

Just a rhetorical question, how does one speak a "computer language"? Does he verbally communicate with computers in that sense?

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

feanarosurion 14 14 11 9 3 2

I'm guessing he means a programming language. As a fellow "computer language speaker", 6 doesn't count for a whole lot. I've used at least 6 in the last year, probably more. Actually if you don't "know" 6 and you're some kind of programmer that's probably not a good sign. But, when I say "know", it's really like being fluent in 1 or 2 but you have to use your dictionary for the others. So if Usagiboy's friend "speaks" 6 "fluently" (no looking up with a reference) then I'd be impressed.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I think he's fluent in the programming languages. (Thanks for correcting my terminology!)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I meant "speak" in a non-vocal sense.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Sjodni 19 18 16 7 3

How much does it have to do with actual languages?

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

The theme of the entire movie is communication and it's potential to change, unite, and divide us.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Sjodni 19 18 16 7 3

That's very cool, I wasn't planning on going to see it, but now maybe I should!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

mkarabiy 24 7 7 42

Communicating with aliens reminds me Richard Feynman's presentation about how one could communicate one's notions of left and right to faraway aliens.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=8K09ylkIVNQ#t=2398>

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Deyan161 17 13 11 8 2 320

The most amazing thing about this is that they were taping lectures back then!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

565 "Auch ein blindes Huhn findet mal ein Korn."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1296831>

Translation: Every dog has its day.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

70 Comments

Erikman 22 9 5 5 3 2 2

I think a closer equivalent would be, 'Even a stopped clock is right twice a day,' because in each one the thing (chicken or clock) is representing a person who is considered incompetent in some way but still gets it right (either by finding the corn or telling the right time) once in a while. Or maybe the way it is used in real life is actually closer to Duo's translation.

59ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

rmatz 16 4 2

I agree, partly, though I think it can also mean that even the unlucky sometimes get a chance. Hence, the every dog getting its day. I think both explanations are very likely possible. I asked my husband and he said both are possible, but your version that even an inept person sometimes gets it right is more widely used. So, you (or someone) could report it as another option :)

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

OnkelD 25 23 12 12 10 8 8 8 5 3 3 2 621

Down in the Southern US, we use the expression "Even a blind squirrel finds a nut now and then." with some slight variation. I find the notion of a blind chicken/hen, finding a kernel or grain very similar to that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

kharriford 12 7 4

I think the whole point of this entire skill area is that these are idioms, many of which are local/regional sayings that don't directly translate. I imagine as people mark things as false, or add their own idiom equivalents, the translations will get better.

13ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

LeoRogers 13 10

but they do translate, and the translations are quite perfectly understandable.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Maestro2603 25 8 1376

Even a blind dog finds a bone every now and then.

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

That's what I tried first. My father says that all the time.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Erikman 22 9 5 5 3 2 2

I never heard this one before, but it means the same thing.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dfblaze 17

Wow, what is this supposed to mean?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sakasiru 22 11 9

That even the most inept person sometimes makes something right.

26ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dfblaze 17

I see now, thank you sakasiru :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

annierose5000 24 12 7 5 3 2 1001

I don;t understand the dog's day -- does it mean dogs are inept but are celebrated? I have heard the expression but never understand it.I thought people love dogs so every day is the dog's day.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

draconus0311 7 2

In older cultures the dog was a dirty and unclean animal. In fact, being called a dog was a grave insult most times. So saying, "Every dog has his day" would mean even a dirty beast has his own good day sometimes.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

annierose5000 24 12 7 5 3 2 1001

thanks. I had to give a lingot for explaining this mystery to me.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DorotaJarosz 11 11 11 10 2

In Polish we have almost the same expression, but we use it with a different connotation: Wow! Aren't you lucky! A blind hen happened to find a grain. It is meant not as a compliment of accomplishment, but as a surprise with an undeserved random luck.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kilioopu 12 9

The same idea but with a positive spin?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RedFoxLauren 11 10 3 3 2

Last heart... last question... What's this? hovers over words A blind person chicken? Nope, not heard this one before.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

andreim1828 16 14 9

even a blind chicken sometimes finds its corn. Blindes means either blind OR blind person so it's not blind person chicken

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

rainbowpuke 13 1

what is "mal" doing in this sentence? is it implying the hen can sometimes find it or something? ...i would think it would say "manchmal" then.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bush6984 20 13 12 11 10 8 7 5 3 3 118

"Mal" means "time" as in "occurrence" or "instance." So it's saying every so often a blind chicken finds grain. The "mal" refers to that instance where it succeeds.

Noch einmal (or "ein Mal") means "another time" or "again," if that helps you put "Mal" into contextual usage regarding the above

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luakszkrodos 10 8

lol im Polish, translated directly; dont know English sayings;]

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mkaldy 8

I really wish duolingo would create a polish course - i would LOVE to learn polish!!

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bush6984 20 13 12 11 10 8 7 5 3 3 118

As of yesterday, it's in Phase 1 in the incubator! Woohoo!

<http://incubator.duolingo.com/courses/pl/en/status>

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Erikman 22 9 5 5 3 2 2

Great news! Thanks for the update!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mkaldy 8

So exciting!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Erikman 22 9 5 5 3 2 2

I agree. Polish and/or Czech. I would love to try either one.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luakzkrodos 10 8

mam nadzieję że coś wymyślą;]

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dfblaze 17

Guatemalan! Even though I speak English more than I do Spanish everyday, I don't know all the idioms so :) I know how you feel.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lgarratt2 15 6

Love this one!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

icybreeze9 16 16 2

I'm just wondering. What does the sentence "literally" mean? Also, how did it become what it means?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Erikman 22 9 5 5 3 2 2

'Even a blind chicken finds a grain.' I'm guessing that it implies that if a blind chicken pecks around a lot, it will occasionally hit the right spot and find something to eat. I could be wrong, but it seems at least to me to be the equivalent of 'even a stopped clock is right twice a day,' implying that even a stupid person gets things right (or just guesses the right answer) once in a while. As to why it came to mean whatever it really means, your guess is as good as mine. Maybe from a farmer who had a blind chicken, or it may have just been some guy who thought of it as a good analogy.

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

icybreeze9 16 16 2

Thanks for that :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

larochejaquelein 11 9 5

Was happy to find that "even a blind squirrel sometimes finds a nut" is also accepted. It's closer to the meaning of the German idiom.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

progambler 24 5 4 4 2 2 2

People who play poker have a similar idiom that is a close translation. We say "Even a blind squirrel finds an acorn now and then." A guy will say it when he has just won his first hand in a long time.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RedFoxLauren 11 10 3 3 2

Last heart... last question... What's this? hovers over words A blind person chicken? Nope, not heard this one before.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Athena49 21 14 8 5 3

I translated the idiom as "The sun shines on a dog's backside once in a while," and while that may not be the prettiest translation, I think it's legitimate. I've also heard the same expression with a monkey instead of a dog.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

biolinguo 18 13 9 9

I wonder if "Die duemmsten Bauern haben die dicksten Kartoffeln" means the same as "Auch ein blindes Huhn findet mal ein Korn".

I guess in spanish would be "Todos los tontos tienen suerte" (All fools have luck).

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RonSercely 12 12 2

so - idioms are clearly problematic. and many of the comments already could be her, like the DL "every dog finds its day"

But I strongly believe that the American English idiom closest to this is: What does this mean Even a blind pig finds an acorn once and a while.

In that - it is a blind animal finding something that it can eat.

BTW - I did not someone commenting on "squirrel" instead of "pig", and I would agree that is an excellent translation

MUCH closer, IMHO

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

zengator 25 58

Southern American English: "Even a blind hog finds an acorn now and again." Often used in a self-deprecating fashion, to disavow any particular skill. Also used to denigrate someone else, by basically saying they were just lucky and didn't earn their success.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Blinkage 13

This entire lesson plan has some really obscure translations. This particular one is a HUUUUUUUUUUUUUGE stretch to get the correct answer.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Barancourt 13 10

There is a mistake : it is " even a blind squirrel finds a nut once in a while" - finds with a d...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Shrimply 12

I have no idea what this means, either in German or this English translation.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DenDag 19 16 9 6 6

Can we say, "Çıkmadık candan ümit kesilmez." for the Turkish translation of this word? Literal translation "Let only death fade the hopes. (In all other options, one would definitely thrive.)"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

plm_cr 14 2

I wrote "even a blind chicken finds sometimes a grain" and it was marked incorrect. Doesn't mal means sometimes in this context?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ScottInBrooklyn 20 4

This one definitely works in English. I'd use it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fiddlerbird555 22 19 18 5 44

I had a co-worker long ago that would always say "even a blind hog finds an ear of corn now and then"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Susanna35 25 20 17

My first thought was "Even a blind squirrel finds an occasional acorn" - or something like that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ricardopasa 25 14 26

I believe that "Even a blind pig can find an acorn" is an equivalent and therefore correct translation.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

M3RKMUS1C3 12

means: even a blind hen finds a grain

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

AdamMaas 15 12 8 8 7 7 6 5 2

"Even a blind squirrel sometimes finds a nut" is an English expression that is pretty much identical to this.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

andreim1828 16 14 9

even a blind chicken sometimes finds its corn

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

ellenrxford 14

Bah! let us really translate what the German says....we will learn better that way than some English phrase that doesn't resemble the German in any way.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

PapaSmurf88 16 14 12 7 7 6 5 5 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 2 2 2 2 2 2 15

Also a blind chicken sometimes finds a grain. (Google Translate)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

mkaldy 8

Come on, aren't we supposed to be translating! I get that it's to show us the English equivalent, but that is not the translation for this sentence!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dfblaze 17

not really! You never want to translate stuff literally :) If that were the case, gtranslate would be really trustworthy :P

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

n1m 16 6 6 2

True. My first language is Urdu and whenever I think of saying an Urdu idiom to my friends who speak English, the translation is just awkward and doesn't make much sense. It's not all black and white like people think!

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bush6984 20 13 12 11 10 8 7 5 3 3 118

Perhaps you could contribute to "incubating" an Urdu course on here? That would be awesome! Just yesterday I was looking at some "language trees" to see where all the different possible languages fell in relation to each other (since obviously toggling between e.g. Romance/Latin-based languages or between Germanic languages is relatively "easy" once you know one).

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

n1m 16 6 6 2

Yeahhhh, that's what I thought and I'm actually going to send a request soon enough! :D What is your native language? I also wish someone could create an Arabic course for English speakers, I really want to learn it and I love Duolingo's format.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bush6984 20 13 12 11 10 8 7 5 3 3 118

Yes!!! That's awesome! My native language is just English (Standard American/"SAE"). I wish I could contribute to building a language program, but I'm not proficient enough. That's why I'm on here learning!

I'm certain that in the next couple months they'll probably have Arabic in the incubator, since it's such a popular language. As someone else pointed out in another forum, it's probably a big hurdle to get over to figure out how to teach/learn languages that are written in different alphabets, since then we not only have to learn the language but how to read and type the alphabet too. I'm sure they'll figure out a way soon enough though.

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

Pogosticksteve 19 16 14 12 9

On the contrary, I think translating literally is the best way to start, as long as you get the idiomatic meaning in the end. There is always a story connecting the direct translation to the idiomatic translation, which is an important part of the culture the idiom comes from.

Of course, when it comes to losing hearts, I understand the frustration...

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Cubbance 14 3

Translation always involves a bit of rendering to make sense in another language. Things will rarely align 100%.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

scatophage 15 9 5 4 3

"Finds 'a' corn"? Get rid of the 'a' in the acceptable answer.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rmatz 16 4 2

ein Korn is not a corn, even if you weren't translating idioms. ein Kern is a kernel

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

skyemiao 7

智者千慮 · 终有一失

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

m25lewis 7 5

do you guys see any german words for "every dog has its day" in "Auch ein blinded huhn findet mal ein korn?" I don't!!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lgarratt2 15 6

No because it is an idiom, not a literal translation!

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Bush6984 20 13 12 11 10 8 7 5 3 3 118

I didn't see any help. Kind of a failure at trying to teach when they just throw you to the wolves (sorry for the idiom) and expect that your stab in the dark (another idiom) at a guess might be right. I wish there were more guidance in what the idioms mean before it just tests you and makes you guess.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rmatz 16 4 2

You learn from repeating the lessons. I don't think you are expected to get them all right the first time round. If you do, it only means you are a bit ahead on that particular area. Idioms usually can't be reasoned out. You just have to memorize them, like the genders. Do the lesson one time to be introduced and then see how many your remember each time. That's how you will be able to learn them. Hints won't really help.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

m25lewis 7 5

thank you Bush6984!!! that's exactly what I mean

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

m25lewis 7 5

I mean "Auch ein blindes huhn mal ein korn." typo

0ReplyGive Lingot

566 Does souvenir de/se rappeler take the subjunctive in a negative phrase?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19816132>

richiespice 21 1

Does the french reflexive verbs se souvenir de/se rappeler take the subjunctive in a negative phrase?

For example, if I say I do not think that she remembers it would that translate as:

Je ne pense qu'elle s'en souviennne pas

Does it take the subjunctive since I am using penser in a negative construction?

Thank you for responses in advance

Give Lingot
62 months ago

Leave a new comment
3 Comments

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

To answer the main question, yes, "ne pas se souvenir que" and "ne pas se rappeler que" use a subjunctive, just like "ne pas penser que" and "ne pas croire que", whenever the subject of the subordinate clause is different from that of the main clause:

je ne pense pas qu'elle s'en souviennne je ne crois pas qu'elle s'en souviennne je ne me rappelle pas qu'elle ait vu je ne me souviens pas qu'elle ait vu
4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

richiespice 21 1

Thank you. This has answered my question very well.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

JBESip 18 6

You made mistake in your sentence; "Je ne pense pas qu'elle s'en souviennne." is correct.

"Se souvenir de" will take an infinitive. For instance : Je ne me souviens pas de l'avoir vu rôder dans les parages.

Same with "se rappeler" : Je ne me rappelle pas avoir laisser mes clefs sur le contact de la voiture.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

567 "Hope for the best and prepare for the worst. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1624640>

Translation: Sperare per il meglio e prepararsi al peggio.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
6 Comments

pappatacio 19 17 12 12 11 2

Mi risulta che il verbo sperare regga "in" (forma intransitiva) e non il complemento diretto. Da cui :
"sperare NEL meglio" e non "sperare IL meglio". Mi sto sbagliando? Grazie.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vastasio 17 13 12 12 8 5

Giusto, "spera nel meglio" dovrebbe essere accettato

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jeanor72 17 13 12 6 413

Concordo

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Jameswalkering 14

perchè non speriamo noi ... e prepariamoci noi ... ????!?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aliaskirara 13 13 6

perché non c'è "we" prima del verbo; senza il pronome, traducendo, si deve utilizzare l'imperativo (traduzione letterale) o all'infinito (traduzione un po' più flessibile)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

laurapet 11 2

Bah, infatti...

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

568 "Děkuji ti za ty informace."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8240591>

Translation: Thank you for the information.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

MichalLohr1 13 9 37

Ty informace nejsou the informations? Proč? The information je přece jen ta informace a tudíž by tam mělo být za tu informaci.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

xmonika 15 11 10 6 4

Thank you for the news by taky šlo. Out of hearts

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jgstcd 12 11 11 9 6 6 6 6 5 4 3

U "news" by musely byt ty informace cerstve, zato u "informace" ne. Ja vim ze jsme nekaj hodne vybiravi, ale tady bych to spis neuznal.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

xmonika 15 11 10 6 4

OK, ale tim ze studuji i jine jazyky na DL mi to prijde hodne striktni vyhodnoceni v porovnani s ostatnimi, nevim jestli je to tak dobre. Kazdopadne díky za práci se spustením cesty na DL.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

569 How to change the interface language?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/15412421>

Azzouu 13 10 9 3

Hello , I'm learning Turkish and I'm fine with it but when I set the interface language I set it to English and I'm not really good at it so can anyone say how can I change it?

Thank you !

Give Lingot

310 months ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

DuncanChauffe 25 22 11 10 9 13

If I understood your question correctly, anytime you change the language for the option "I speak ____" and "I want to learn ____". The interface will change to the language that you set as the "I speak" so if you put "I speak Portuguese" the interface will appear in Portuguese.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•10 months ago

Azzouu 13 10 9 3

Thanks for your answer but actually for exemple I speak french very well and arabic but when I scroll down to I speak french and I want to learn ____ There is no turkish option in there! So does it mean that I can't? I have another question for you because you seem to learn and know a lot :) : Can I learn two languages in the same time? Thank you very much

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

DuncanChauffe 25 22 11 10 9 13

Oh ok, I understand now. If it's not in the language selection area, it means that the language has not been made to learn for that given language. There is a chance that you can find it by searching for the reverse (instead of "I speak French" you put "I speak Turkish"), but it seems that the French for Turkish Speakers is only at about 41% complete.

Learning 2 languages at the same time. You can learn as many languages as you want to be honest. But keep in mind that the more you split your time to focusing on other languages, it may take longer to learn each. Finding a method that works best for you is very handy when it comes to these kinds of questions. I really like doing the "Laddering method" on here and i it's like a "kill 2 birds with one stone" solution. I'm learning Portuguese as my second language, and with Portuguese i'm learning French, now i feel somewhat comfortable with reading and writing in french, so now I'm attempting to learn German with French.

So find something that works best for you and you can even search language learning methods and see which one you like the most. Hope this helps!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•10 months ago

Azzouu 13 10 9 3

I see ! It's okay, I will improve my english while learning turkish, it's not that different from your method, which I find really practical by the way though it's hard! Anyway thanks for answering me :) et bonne chance pour apprendre ce qui vous reste du portugais :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

DuncanChauffe 25 22 11 10 9 13

De rien, et merci! bonne chance pour apprendre aussi.

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

etiennejean 3

tu est belle azzouu

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

najmisaraya12 14

salut

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

570 How do I take a screenshot?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204856044-How-do-I-take-a-screenshot->

When submitting a Bug Report, it is very helpful if you attach images that show us the issue.

Similarly, when submitting an Abuse report, it is required that you include evidence of spam/offensive behavior in the report in the form of a screenshot.

If you are taking a picture of the website, try to include the URL (web address) in the image if possible.

Windows:

The snipping tool is the simplest solution; read about it by clicking here.

Alternatively, you can use the print screen tool:

Click the window you want to capture. Press Alt+Print Screen by holding down the Alt key and then pressing the Print Screen key. The Print Screen key is near the upper-right corner of your keyboard. (Depending on the type of keyboard you have, the exact key names on your keyboard may vary slightly.) It will save the image to your clipboard, and you can then paste it on any image viewing application (like the ones you use to open photos on your computer) and save it.

Mac:

Press Command (⌘)+Shift+3. Image is automatically saved to desktop.

Updated information and further instructions:

<https://support.apple.com/en-us/HT201361>

Android Device:

If you're Running Ice Cream Sandwich (4.0) and above, press the Volume Down and Power buttons at the same time, hold them for a second, and your phone will take a screenshot. It should be automatically saved in your Gallery.

Updated information and further instructions:

<https://support.google.com/android/?hl=en> (search for your device)

iOS device (iPhone/iPad etc):

Press the Power button on the top right corner of your device and at the same time, press the Home button. The screen flashes, and if you have sound enabled you will hear a camera shutter sound. The picture is saved with the rest of your images in the Photos App on your device.

Updated information and further instructions:

<https://support.apple.com/en-us/HT200289>

Windows phone:

On Windows Phone 8.1, just press the Power and Volume Up buttons at the same time to take a picture of your screen. These are automatically saved in the Screenshots album in the Photos Hub.

Updated information and further instructions:

<https://www.windowsphone.com/en-us/how-to/wp8/photos/take-a-screenshot>

571 "Where is my position on the map?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3881911>

Translation: Где моя позиция на этой карте?

42 years ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

Yury20 22 869

По-русски это будет не позиция, а положение/местоположение/место.

16ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HartzHandia 24 20 10 8 6 18

Согласен. "Позиция" звучит как калька. В применении к картам, позиции бывают у войск, но это несколько другое.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rugareev 22 1

На русском никогда не говорят "Где моя позиция на этой карте". Говорят "Какова моя позиция по карте", "Где я на карте".

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

rugareev 22 1

"Где я на этой карте" говорят только в случае когда нужно уточнить на какой именно карте - "На карте ты находишься здесь", вы достаете другую карту и спрашиваете "Где я нахожусь на этой карте" потому что вам нужна другая информация.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

572 The 3000 most frequent words in both spoken and written English

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7145270>

iscsargt 14 11 5

Hello everybody!

This time I want to share with the Duolingo community a file with a list of the 3000 most frequent words in both spoken and written English from Longman.

The link is this: [http://www.lex tutor.ca/freq/lists\_download/longman\_3000\_list.pdf](http://www.lex tutor.ca/freq/lists_download/longman_3000_list.pdf)

When I finished my English tree, I studied 1400 words. In my opinion, it was a big advance. I think that it is very important that Duolingo add more words. I hope that this file can help you.

Enjoy your learning!

Ps. Let me know my mistakes, please.

¡Hola a todos!

Esta vez quiero compartir con la comunidad Duolingo un archivo con una lista de las 3000 palabras más frecuentes, tanto en Inglés hablado y escrito de Longman.

El enlace es este: [http://www.lex tutor.ca/freq/lists\_download/longman\_3000\_list.pdf](http://www.lex tutor.ca/freq/lists_download/longman_3000_list.pdf)

Cuando terminé mi árbol de Inglés, estudié 1.400 palabras. En mi opinión, fue un gran avance. Creo que es muy importante que Duolingo agregue más palabras. Espero que este archivo pueda ayudarles.

¡Disfruten de su aprendizaje!

Posdata. Avisadme mis errores, por favor.

Give Lingot
102 years ago

Leave a new comment
11 Comments

Jose_davidfd 14 11 6

Well it is a good page.. But really, nobody is going to learn three hundred words just reading xd you have right when you say Duolingo need add more words but passing that link neither .. I started to reading but I got bored xd

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iscesargt 14 11 5

I agree with you, it's boring if you try to learn the words like a list. I start to do this: I write a word of the file, after I write the phonetic pronunciation, later I write the translation to Spanish, finally, I write two or three sentences with the word that I am learning. My idea is to find some images or sounds with every word of the file.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tudares 25 10 792

hola! me parece interesante tu comentario, yo propuse que se aumentara el numero de palabras que aprendemos en duolingo, aqui te dejo mi propuesta y el apoyo de otros estudiantes.

https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7025194?comment\_id=7092087

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iscesargt 14 11 5

Que tal Manuel. Me encanta Duolingo, y pienso que su metodología para enseñar idiomas es muy buena. Solo que considero fundamental que enseñen más palabras, pues para dominar un idioma, supongo que se requieren 5 mil o más, la verdad no sé. Una idea, podría ser crear un segundo árbol para nivel intermedio y un tercero para nivel avanzado. Y que los estudiantes que quieran alcanzar un mejor nivel en su nuevo idioma, tengan la oportunidad de estudiar un segundo o tercer árbol si lo desean.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tomi08 16 2

Hola, aunque aún no terminé mi árbol, es muy buena propuesta para seguir aprendiendo. Saludos

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

katiuska.pino 18
thanks!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iscesargt 14 11 5
You're welcome! Write me if you have doubts or, simply, you want practicing. Regards!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TatianaBoshenka 25 12 8 2 133
"opinion" only has one n in the middle. Otherwise your English was perfect!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iscesargt 14 11 5
Gracias Tatiana, ya hice la corrección. Aprovecho para preguntar dos cosas. 1. En tu opinión, como un hablante nativo en USA ¿cuántas palabras conoces y usas en Inglés?. 2. Me imagino que has hecho muchas traducciones porque vas en nivel 19 en español, ¿las traducciones te han ayudado a memorizar más vocabulario? Bendiciones para ti y tu familia.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

johper79 13
thank you the help is always welcome

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iscesargt 14 11 5
It was a pleasure. I like to share interesting resources of the Web. Write me whenever you want. Best wishes!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

573     How do I change my profile picture?
<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205080860-How-do-I-change-my-profile-picture->
If you are ready to change your avatar image, follow the instructions below:

1. Go to your settings page;

settings

2. Next to "Profile Picture," select "Choose File" to browse your computer and find the picture you like.

change picture

3. Remember to save by clicking on the green "Save Changes" button on the top right corner.

savechanges

574 The spanish is the more important language :), and you what think ?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8256351>

andresfelipeciot 11 6 4 4

Give Lingot

51 year ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

tomi1999 12 11 9

That sentence is awful. The correct version would be: "The Spanish is the MOST important language. WHAT DO YOU THINK? I think all languages are beautiful in its own way. Italian because of its musicality. French because of its romanticism. Chinese, because of its history and beautiful characters. And so on.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CranberrySally 9 8 3

But they ain't important as Spanish. Andresfelipicot was just sayin' that.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ilmarien 25 25 25 15 14 13 2 2

"Spanish is the most important language," without the article at the beginning. ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HenryMille4 22 520

Either that, or use more, but state what. Do you think Spanish is more important than English.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Leocons 14

in my opinion Spanish is one of the most important language, but, I think the most important is English, does not matter where you live or what language you speak, technology, sciences, entertainment and many more important things come in English

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vcel10 25 22 11 6 907

¿Por qué?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

andresfelipeciot 11 6 4 4

mmm noo, i change, the chinese see yeahhh , is the chinese .

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

575 What is a streak?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204980880-What-is-a-streak->

A streak is the number of days in a row you have reached your XP (point) goal on Duolingo. Your goal is set when you set up your coach, and can be changed by accessing:
<https://www.duolingo.com/settings/coach>

It is represented by a little fire or flame icon next to someone's avatar.

If you are logged in, you can see yours on the blue top bar of the website. You can check if you have reached your daily goal by looking for a little green check mark on the streak icon.

Keep your streak going and see how high you can go! Visit the lingot store and buy a streak freeze with your lingots to make sure you don't lose your streak when you forget to practice for a day. Check back often to make sure it is equipped, as the streak freeze only works once.

streak freeze

576 How do I report a problem with a sentence or translation?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204752124-How-do-I-report-a-problem-with-a-sentence-or-translation->

When you have feedback about errors in sentences or translations, please report the incorrect sentence directly to the course contributors.

1. After submitting your answer, select "Report a Problem."
2. Select an option depending on the issue you want to report. For example, you can pick "my answer should be accepted." This will highlight the possible mistake for the course contributors.
3. Select The (Language) sentence is unnatural or has an error if you think the sentence is grammatically awkward in the language you are learning from.
4. Select The "Correct Solution" is unnatural or has an error if the sentence written in the language you are learning is grammatically incorrect.
5. Click on The dictionary hints on hover are wrong or missing if the definitions that show up when you hover on the words are incorrect or missing.
6. If you found a different issue with the translation, write a feedback report directly to the course contributors using the last option.

All of this feedback goes directly to the course contributors, and they collect these reports to fix mistakes and add possible translations to the phrase.

577 "The strength"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/359481>

Translation:

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

3 Comments

Esthertxo 15

fuerza y fortaleza es lo mismo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ninivavi 12

por qué si strength es fuerza, fortaleza la ponen mala si uno escribe fortaleza?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mileyme 25

También se puede interpretar como la solidez.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

578 "He leaves the coat. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/894276>

Translation: Ele deixa o casaco.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

...Gandalf... 18 7

"pega casaco,tira casaco"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mcpiske 12

Não poderia ser: "Ele tira o casaco"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

MrSnitram 10

Can this sentence be interpreted by "he forget" the coat? Please help me

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rodrigo.sd 18 2 34

Não porque ele pode ter deixado o casaco propositalmente,não está claro que ele tenha esquecido-o

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PASCOETO 10

O DICCIONARIO ON LINE TEM LEAVES SINONIMO FOLHAS O VERBO TO LEAVE COMO DEIXAR PARTIR SAIR PERMITIR ESQUECER RESTAR LARGAR LEGAR ETC MAS COM USO DO TO LEAVES PORQUE NESSA FRASE NÃO USA TO LEAVES. ESSA EU NÃO ENTENDI

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vinidcali 13 11

Um verbo pode mesmo ter vários significados, mas em geral o contexto e as regras de regência (se está com objeto direto, indireto ou sem objeto) ajudam a escolher o certo.

No caso, leaves = folhas é quando a palavra é usada como um substantivo, que é o plural de leaf (folha).

Nesta frase, a palavra está sendo usada como verbo, então não cabe a outra tradução - não faria sentido dizer Ele folhas o casaco xD

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jaderson259980 18 7 62

não seria He Let the casaco?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

SCSilvia 14 8

mais uma frase teorica sem qualquer uso real ..... apenas para usar o verbo «To Leave» !

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

579 The Apprentice com Donald Trump

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9859873>

Samuel-xp 25 25

Olá Amigos, estou assistindo o Reality Show "The Apprentice" Americano e estou gostando bastante. Ainda não consigo entender tudo, mas aí que a vontade de ficar fluente logo aumenta. Recomendo o programa.

Give Lingot

31 year ago

Leave a new comment

1 Comment

Samuel-xp 25 25

O Donald Trump é um multi-bilionario americano e autor de ótimos livros sobre educação financeira. Atualmente é candidato a presidente dos EUA, e eu vou torcer pela sua vitória.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

580 "It took eight hours to do the operation"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/471698>

Translation: Levou oito horas para fazer a operação.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

andre.franciosi 25 20 18 6

'Demorou oito horas para fazer a operação.' deveria ser aceito também.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lermanies 10

Seria errado caso eu usasse "levaram" no lugar de "levou"? Eu pensei ser mais correto já que são oito horas e isso levaria ao plural, mas...

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

emidiopriscila 16 11

não pq estamos falando da operação, a operação levou.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

andre.franciosi 25 20 18 6

'Demorou oito horas para fazer a operação.' deveria ser aceito também.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

FernandoSc936528 10

"A operação durou oito horas". Right?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

antlane 24 22 18 92

O português prefere a terceira pessoa do plural quando o sujeito não aparece. O inglês põe o it. - Levaram oito horas para fazer a operação.(outra opção seria Levou oito horas a operação) . Levou, na opção do Duo, supõe um sujeito - ele, o médico, mas aí não seria o it na oração em inglês.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ecwb 13

"Levou" has the same meaning of "durou" in this case, but a gave up to comment. This is the last one. :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Loi39 24 3 2

Take it easy, the life is good!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ReginaBrito 10

"levou" has the same meaning of "durou"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

maikotrindade 13 8 4

Escrevi " Demorou", deveriam aceitar essa resposta

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

581 What was the official language of Prussia?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20092908>

Liebert_ 25 25 25 16 11 8 203

Give Lingot

72 months ago

Leave a new comment

19 Comments

fr224 20 16 10 6 5 4

Prussia as part of the German Empire had German as its official language. Further back, Old Prussian (sort of similar to Lithuanian and Latvian) was the majority language of the area but it was extinct by the early 1700s.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

igelchen 20 18 14 14 3 595

It was the majority language of a part of what would later become Eastern Prussia, not even Prussia as a whole. Here's a map showing the rough location of where Old Prussian was spoken:

<http://www.danshort.com/ie/langmaps/oldprussian.jpg>

And here's what Prussia looked like in the 19th century:

<http://www.zum.de/whkmla/histatlas/germany/pr1815.gif>

It changed its form a little over the years, but I guess the difference is still obvious.

Having said that, Prussia was never a homogenous country, and while Old Prussian was mostly or completely dead by the time the country came into existence, others (like Polish) obviously survived and were spoken in their respective parts of the country, even if just at home or as minority languages while German was the official language.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

mephili 21 20 18 18 16 16 14 14 6 1039

The original Prussian people were conquered by the Knights Teutonic, who spoke German:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Prussian\_Crusade

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

mephili 21 20 18 18 16 16 14 14 6 1039

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/File:Teutonic\_Order\_1260.png

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Hurricane-G-E-L 10 10 5 3

Which Prussia are we talking about? German Prussia's official language was German. Old Prussia's (Baltic Prussia's) native language was Old Prussian, a Baltic language. There were also the Prussian Lithuanians. Now after WWII, the historical region of Prussia was divided and given to Poland (recovered territories), Russia (Königsburg/Kaliningrad), and Lithuania (Klaipėda Region). The German Kingdom of Prussia included the territories that were given to Russia, Poland, and Lithuania, as well as Northern Schleswig (Denmark), Czech Silesia (Czech Republic), and the German Speaking Community of Belgium (Belgium). But most of the Kingdom of Prussia remained under German control.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

mephili 21 20 18 18 16 16 14 14 6 1039

Prussia was abolished in 1947: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Abolition\_of\_Prussia

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

DanielleDuchine 14 11 10 9 8 8 8 8 6 6 6

Old Prussian, it is an extinct Baltic language.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Leader-Desslok 11 8 3

No, the official language of Prussia was not old Prussian, if you're talking about the main state of the German Empire. Its language was German. Old Prussian was spoken near there, but much earlier.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Liebert_ 25 25 25 16 11 8 203

Is there anyone who speak this language, by the way? :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Martin992084 24 12 10 7 438

Yes, I speak Old Prussian and Ancient Egyptian ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

DanielleDuchine 14 11 10 9 8 8 8 8 6 6 6

There are probably only a few people in the world that can speak this.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

fr224 20 16 10 6 5 4

It went extinct in the 1700s but there is a modern revival movement. According to Wikipedia, there are about 50 modern speakers of the language.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

RobertoAlerto 6 29

Was it Young Prussian at the time it was widely used ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Leader-Desslok 11 8 3

I don't think it has any other names than Old Prussian.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

JanNguy 12 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 3 3 3

Old Prussian was the official tongue( language) spoken in Prussia; in fact, it was not a Germanic language, but rather a Baltic language. Unfortunately, the region of Prussia died out as the language did too.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Liebert_ 25 25 25 16 11 8 203

Old Prussian sounds like which modern language, could you tell me that information, please? :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

fr224 20 16 10 6 5 4

It was a Baltic language. But while Lithuanian Latvian are part of the West Baltic subfamily, Old Prussian was East Baltic.

See https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Old\_Prussian\_language for more details.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Hurricane-G-E-L 10 10 5 3

Perhaps it would sound like very archaic Lithuanian. But while Latvian and Lithuanian are the modern languages that Old Prussian is most related to, the closest living relative to English (excluding Scots) is Frisian, which sounds more like Dutch than English. So a language might not necessarily sound like its closest living relative.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

JanNguy 12 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 3 3 3

It was neither German nor Polish, but probably had few or little connections with the modern Baltic languages( Lithuanian & Latvian). So I am not sure, sorry.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

582 How do I sign up and login?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204829870-How-do-I-sign-up-and-login->

You can sign up by creating a new Duolingo account using your email address or by using your existing Google or Facebook account.

To create a new account, click on the green "Get Started" button on www.duolingo.com and follow the instructions to create your Duolingo profile and start learning.

If you already have a Duolingo account, you can click the "Login" button on www.duolingo.com to enter your email and password. In case you don't remember your password, simply click on "Forgot password" and provide your email address.

583 "Someone had opened the window."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12599185>

Translation: Jemand hatte das Fenster geöffnet.

11 year ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

rudi466 12

unterschied zwischen irgendeiner und jemand?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

"Jemand" ist allgemeiner, aber beide Worte werden hier mit "someone" übersetzt.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

584 – 622 of 911

[accessed March 21, 2017]

584 Dịch Anh -VIỆT: Dịch bài thơ sang tiếng việt: The OAK ~Robert Clancy

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9615446>

TrangVenus 12 7 4

Mình đọc được bài thơ này trên mạng, rất thích và hiểu nó nhưng khả năng cảm thụ để dịch nó sang tiếng việt thật hay thì mình chưa làm được. Các bạn giúp mình nhé. Cảm ơn mọi người

THE OAK

Become the oak among all the trees;

Stand tall in the storms, sway in the breezes.

.....

Forever growing, forever flowing;

Let the light caress your leaves.

.....

Draw your strength from your roots;

Know grace when you grieve.

.....

Feel the heavens above you;

Know they're always there;

Just believe.

~Robert Clancy

Cơ cấu giải thưởng: (vừa chơi vừa học tăng khả năng là chính, linglot là phụ các bạn nhe. Thông cảm cho mình vì mình không có thật nhiều linglot tặng các bạn)

01 giải Nhất: 5 lingots

01 giải Nhì: 4 lingots

02 giải Ba: 2 lingots

03 giải Khuyến Khích : 1 lingot

Hạn cuối nộp bài: 23/7/2015

Các bạn cố gắng sử dụng cách diễn đạt khác so với các bạn trước đã làm nhé. Bài nào up sau có cách biểu đạt giống hoặc có dấu hiệu copy- paste thì mình sẽ xóa bài luôn nhé.

Nếu các bạn thích bài thơ này thì cho mình 1 lingot nha. Thanks các bạn – chúc các bạn học tốt

Give Lingot
31 year ago

Leave a new comment
15 Comments

NhiTruc 20 10 6
CÂY SỒI

Được làm cây sồi giữa muôn cây

Sừng sững trong cơn bão, lắc lư trong gió.

Vươn cao mãi, dòng nhựa căng tràn

Để ánh sáng vượt ve những chiếc lá

Tô nên sức mạnh từ cội rễ

Vẫn biết ơn khi bạn đau buồn.

Cảm nhận thiên đường bên trên

Biết rằng họ luôn ở đó

Chỉ cần bạn tin tưởng.

3ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

NhiTruc 20 10 6
mình đã cố diễn đạt sao cho hay nhất rồi đó, có gì sai sót không các bạn?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

_alien_03 25 11 1

2 câu thơ nhá: Trở thành cây sồi ở giữa muôn cây / Đứng cao trong những cơn bão, rung rinh trong những cơn gió nhẹ...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

_alien_03 25 11 1

Mãi mãi sinh trưởng, mãi mãi căng tràn / Để ánh sáng ve vượt những chiếc lá của mình / Tô nên sức mạnh từ những cội rễ / Biết....

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

___Shironeko___ 21 11 9 7
Cây sồi

Trở thành cây sồi giữa muôn cây

Vươn cao trong cơn bão, đu đưa theo gió

Lớn lên mãi, sức sống tràn trề

Để ánh sáng mặt trời âu yếm những chiếc lá

Thêm sức mạnh từ cội rễ

Biết ơn khi bạn buồn đau

Cảm giác thiên đường trên đầu bạn

Hãy biết rằng họ luôn ở nơi đó

Chỉ cần bạn tin tưởng.

0ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

___Shironeko___ 21 11 9 7
nếu có sai sót gì mong các bạn thông cảm!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NhiTruc 20 10 6

hay quá, có từ nào bạn không biết, phải đi dịch không, mình thì cũng có nhưng bài dịch trên là tự mình diễn đạt đó, hi hi, bạn thấy sao?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

___Shironeko___ 21 11 9 7
oh, bạn viết rất hay mà!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

___Shironeko___ 21 11 9 7
bật mí nhé mình cũng phải tìm dịch một số từ!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TrangVenus 12 7 4

cam on 2 ban. Minh tang moi ban 4linglot nhe

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

___Shironeko___ 21 11 9 7
oh, mình phải cảm ơn bạn mới đúng! Nhờ bạn mình mới biết dc bài thơ hay như vậy! ^_^Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TrangVenus 12 7 4

day la link facebook cua minh. Rat vui duoc ket ban voi cac ban de chia se nhieu hon ve Tieng anh
<https://www.facebook.com/an.nhien.52>

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

NhiTruc 20 10 6

cảm ơn bạn nhiều, bài thơ này rất hay, mình sẽ lưu lại^_^

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TrangVenus 12 7 4

day la link facebook cua minh. Rat vui duoc ket ban voi cac ban de chia se nhieu hon ve Tieng anh
<https://www.facebook.com/an.nhien.52>

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

585 Site The Mixxer: a free educational website for language exchanges via Skype
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7321764>

Alexsander_ 11 6 6

Hello everyone! Quero deixar uma dica para quem deseja ou está afim de começar a conversar com o pessoal da "gringa" pra por em prática o conhecimento que tem em outro idioma. A minha dica é o site "The Mixxer" <http://www.language-exchanges.org/pt/node/111523> Nele, é possível se conectar com pessoas que desejam aprender a tua língua nativa, é como uma troca: Tu ensinas Português pra um Norte Americano e ele te ensina Inglês, no meu caso. Começamos pelo Skype e já estamos usando WhatsApp - devido ao fuso horário - o que me deixa bem próximo de um Inglês do cotidiano e vice-versa. No "The Mixxer" tu podes aprender vários idiomas, por exemplo Árabe, Chines ou Hebraico, além dos tradicionais, mas isso depende do idioma que tu gosta. Foi ter começado a conversar com alguém de fora que decidi voltar pro Duolingo, enfim, até agora tem funcionado pra mim, o site tem um layout bem simples mesmo, mas vale a pena.

Give Lingot1

172 years ago

Leave a new comment

8 Comments

matheuscordeiroc 11 8

Eu já tinha visto esse site e, pensei: por ter uma interface simples, quase ninguém usa. Mas agora vou utilizar-lo. Muito obrigado pela dica!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ronyerison11 7

show

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jessicagomessss 8 8 2

Show!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fpradox 17 7

Hummm, bem interessante, faz tempo que vc ja pratica?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Alexsander_ 11 6 6

Faz alguns meses fpradox. O que me ajudou a melhorar e muito minha escrita.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

valeu achei bem legal

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LaraRibeiro0 3

Muito bom! Obrigada! Vai me ajudar bastante.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Alexsander_ 11 6 6

Não tem por onde! (:

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

586 How do I report abuse?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205101500-How-do-I-report-abuse->

Duolingo takes abuse very seriously. We will ban someone or remove their account if they refuse to follow the rules and are harming the community. The following can be considered very serious violations:

Spamming

Hate speech

Using offensive language

Stalking and bullying

Posting inappropriate materials

Not following our guidelines

Please do not report a person if all they are doing is expressing an opinion that you don't like. We do not remove accounts because of points of view we disagree with, as long as they are expressed in a respectful manner without attacking individuals or a group of people.

1. If someone is bothering you personally, you can block them.

2. If you would like to report someone who should have their account removed for breaking the rules, please contact a forum moderator. This is the quickest way to try to make sure the person stops that behavior. Please keep in mind that this is a last resort and for serious violations only.

3. If you can't find a moderator in our forums, fill out the Submit a Bug Report form and select [Report Abuse] from the "Type of issue" drop-down menu. Include a screenshot and the usernames of those involved so that we can investigate.

587 "I am ready for the consequences."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1981712>

Translation: Eu estou pronto para as consequências.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

23 Comments

Phelippe06 12

"Preparado" está correto, pq deram minha resposta como errada??? Duolingo ta de sacanagem

33ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

O sistema não é perfeito (e nunca será... se houvesse fórmula matemática para comunicação/tradução, não seria necessário curso algum). Tenhamos paciência!

18ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ggwingert 12

"Estou preparado para as consequências."

WRONG! TRY AGAIN

GRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRRR! I HATE WHEN THAT SH@#% HAPPENS!

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

luizvitorio 21 17 16 15 13 13 840

Foi aceito aqui.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sergiocafruni 25 17 11

Preparado, pronto, apto, capaz, desimpedido. Muitas possibilidades...

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Marcia21ba 9

De acordo com o macmillan dictionary READY is: "prepared for what is going to happen"

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SCSilvia 14 8

??? consequências ???

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Cristinaci478333 18 14

Pois é, não entenderam que não há mais tremas no português. Já reportei diversas vezes.

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

[deactivated user]

Ready pode ser preparado ou pronto.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AndrePrado12 14 6 3 2

Preparado é perfeitamente correcto! Abranjam mais o vosso vocabulário para o Português de Portugal, porque também somos gente e merecemos.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kafuViniplas 24 7 4

Coloquei a resposta no feminino e deu resposta como errado. "Eu estou pronta para as consequências"

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

vitorandrey79 11 2

preparado está correto viu Duolingo!!! READY,AIM,FIRE=Preparar,apontar , fogo! Peço que isso seja supervisionado!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

MuminiManuel 11

Afinal em que ficamos? Qual seria a palavra adequada "ready" pra esta frase? Preparado ou não?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adcarv 10

Acho que eles aceitariam preparado se fosse "prepared", não que eu concorde. Mudei para " Estou pronto" na última hora e foi considerado certo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarioHenriq 19 19 10 49

Está correto sim, reporte o problema que eles irão concertar

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KarenBarbosa5 13 7

Concertar? Isso eu duvido muito

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Mateus_Bert 17 13 9 9 7 7

ready não pode ser preparado?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

raulbrr 11 6

Preparado também está correto e deram minha resposta como errada?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alessandro416972 11

"Preparado" também está certo. É preciso que revisem isso.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

marcosschlogl 10 3

por que nao preparado

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Marquinos_Brazil 11 4

Porque "preparado" não é uma boa tradução para "ready" nessa sentença?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

PauloRober128603 13

Eu estou preparado para as consequência é o mesmo que pronto. Creio mesmo que é em português a expressão escoreita!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

daniel.sil28 15 8

I am ready for the consequences Eu estou PREPARADO para as consequências.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

588 What is a Lingot?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204980630-What-is-a-Lingot->

Lingots are Duolingo's virtual currency. You can earn them by, for example, making exceptional comments and give them to others when they do the same. They do not cost real money. To give someone a lingot, select "Give Lingot" under a deserving comment or post that they created.

You can also use them to buy cool stuff in the store :)

Scroll down to the bottom of the store page to see other ways you can get more lingots.

589 "We looked down at the beautiful sea. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/428039>

Translation: Nós desmerecemos o lindo mar.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
33 Comments

ErikCarretoni 14

<http://www.inglesnapontadalingua.com.br/2008/06/phrasal-verbs-look-up-to-e-look-down-on.html>

Conforme visto no link acima, trata-se mesmo de um phrasal verb:

Look down: Menosprezar, fazer pouco caso de;

Look up: É o contrário, o antônimo de look down - Admirar, respeitar.

Seguem os exemplos utilizados pela fonte citada:

Don't look down on me. You're not better than me:

Não faça pouco caso de mim. Você não é melhor que eu.

She looks down on people just because she lived abroad:

Ela menospreza as pessoas só porque morou no exterior.

42ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Bela resposta ErikCarretoni, dirimiui todas as dúvidas! Thank you, guy!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicogil 20 16 13 12 12 12 243

Your explanation about this phrase was the best. thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

123magal 25 13

Ótima explicação. Obrigada

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adrianojp2000 25 16

Eu acho que essa sentença não soa legal em Português (Nós olhamos para baixo para o lindo mar.) o que vocês acham?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sergiocafruni 25 17 11

Seguramente "nós olhamos para baixo ao mar" é no mínimo uma construção deselegante, se não for incorreta. Melhor seria, acho: Nós olhamos (ou observamos, ou vimos) abaixo o lindo mar. Abçs

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[+] 2 hidden comments

BrunoMRP 9 3

look down é um phrasal verb e não deve ser traduzido literalmente como existem também expressões em portugues que se interpretadas literalmente dão um sentido errado ao intencionado

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vinicius.albuq 23 13 3
Concordo. Não soa legal mesmo.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mdsolera 19 17 12 7 6 63
Realmente não soa legal, o melhor que consegui pensar foi "nós olhamos para o belo mar abaixo".

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jpaulinhop 15 6 5
Look Down é desprezar... eu pensei que essa sentença era assim.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AlexandreManfron 17 15 13 11 11
É uma expressão de reverência... Não deve ser interpretado pelo sentido literal. Nós olhamos para baixo no sentido de se encurvar para o mar...reverenciando-o. Nós desmerecemos o lindo mar!

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

magasa9 11
Sua interpretação, de reverência, é a que parece fazer mais sentido. Valeu.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gilbertooo 22 4 3 1
Aceitou: Nós olhamos para o bonito mar.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Maxtavares 14
Achei até que fosse uma expressão idiomática, mas é uma frase absurda mesmo.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mauricionline 19
Deviam excluir

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

manoelacracel 17 14
nós desmerecemos o lindo mar????? Gente, que tradução é esta? Help me!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ProfEliasMed 14 9 8 4 4 2 1
o phrasal verb to look down tem esse sentido mesmo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sergiocafruni 25 17 11

And ocean (Don't accepted) is not the sea?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cesarius26 25 21

Por que aceitou então... Nós olhamos para o lindo mar ? sendo que Looked down como explicado significa desprezo... rs...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marialuisa1947 18 2

você NUNCA olha AO belo mar e sim O BELO MAR.Porfessor de Português,por favor

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariaWanda 18

NÓS OLHAMOS AO LINDO MAR

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jorgedevargas 25 24 20 4

esta tradução não tem sentido

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Trata-se (look down) de uma "expressão idiomática" portanto a tradução literal ficaria mesmo sem sentido. Veja acima a ótima explicação do ErickCarretoni e bons estudos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

carlostantomar 14 12 8

Aceitou "nós olhamos para o lindo mar"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

YuriXavier1 10 8

Ta errado gente

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

MARCIABUREMA 10 6

Esta resposta não soa bem em português! "Nós olhamos para baixo para o lindo mar". mais poético seria "Nós olhamos o lindo mar abaixo."

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Immpaixao 22 11 6 76

E a tradução do Duolingo que nem menciona bonito ou lindo (beautiful). Francamente... é muito estranho mesmo. Ninguém merece...

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

reneusa 15

que frase é essa????????????????????

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

590 "Do you need the keys? "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6002560>

Translation: Sizin anahtarlara ihtiyacınız var mı?

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

soner67 12

sizin anahtarlara mı ihtiyacınız var

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cagdasingo 17

Anahtarlara ihtiyacin mi var

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TurgutGkso 12

Ayni oldugu halde yanlis deniyor

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gokhan60 10

"anahtarlara ihtiyacin mı var" dedim kabul etmedi, "var" ile "mı" yer değişse de kabul etmesi lazım bence.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FbSamed 10

Anahtarlara ihtiyacin mi var dedim kabul etmedi

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Grkem170 10

anahtarlar lazım mı ?

Ne fark var ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

archdaisy 13 5
Sana anahtarlar mı lazım

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

evdilbaki 9
Anahtarlar ihtiyacınız olacak mı?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BurakBayrak 13 9 8 2
"sana anahtarlar lazım mı" yazdım kabul etmedi :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SaidYorulm 15
"Sizin anahtarlar mı ihtiyacınız var " cümlesi bir karşılaştırma anlamı taşıdığından kabul edilmemiştir. Şöyle ki: Sizin anahtarlar mı ihtiyacınız var yoksa pencereden mi girmek istersiniz? gibi bi anlam taşır.. Oysa "Sizin anahtarlar ihtiyacınız var mı" cümlesinde anahtarlar ihtiyacınız olmayabilir çünkü yedek anahtar vardır cebinizde.. (:

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

elnasaraas 12 2
Bir ara kafam karıştı geçmiş konularda am is are kullanıyorduk şimdi hep do does?? Hangi tip cümlede hangisi kullanılıyor

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

AytacGurleroglu 12
"Senin bu anahtarlar ihtiyacın var mı " kabul olmadı.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

CanYula 11
Sizin anahtarlar ihtiyacınız mı var? Nasıl yazılır?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

591 "Nosotros bajamos la vista hacia el hermoso mar."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/860131>

Translation: We looked down at the beautiful sea.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
12 Comments

The.BigBang.Mary 14
we go down the view toward the beautiful sea. Esto está muy mal ? Por que looked ? si la frase a traducir es: Nosotros bajamos la vista hacia el hermoso mar.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Babella 17 14

La cuestión es que es una traducción literal y esas no siempre funcionan. "Bajar la vista" = "look down", es una construcción que se traduce así, sin más :]

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

RobbinsUs 14 9 8 3

look down? no, eso significa que tu estado de animos esta mal.. eso no refiere a la vista baja... asi que para mi es esto. We got off the view of the beautiful sea.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

leidimargaret 14

asi conteste yo y me la dieron mala..... me parece demasiado rebuscada la oracion en español para despues darle ese "corte" en ingles!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

patoger44 14

en ingles está en pasado looked y en castellano lo tradujeron en presente ¿?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Babella 17 14

"Bajamos" es pasado también (pretérito perfecto simple) ;]

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

metacaro90 14

we look down at the beautiful sea en presente también se puede decir así, el at en este caso actua como phrasal verb haciendo referencia al objeto que se esta mirando

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

QuinoTerra 10 7 7

¿Por qué no se puede poner "Lower" en vez de "Looked down"? Es lo mismo en esta situación.,,

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

maribelula01 12

yo puse "we lower our sight towards the beautiful sea"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

maribelula01 12

yo puse "we lower our sight towards the beautiful sea"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

reston 14

We down the view to the beautiful sea. ¿Por qué está mala?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RobbinsUs 14 9 8 3

We got off the view of the beautiful sea.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

592 Has anyone learned all the languages available on Duolingo?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9438077>

Maze-Ila 9 8 4

Hey I'm new to this discussion concept so I thought this would be an interesting one. To my fellow linguistics nerds, has anyone done this? If so, It would be cool and quite an achievement to learn all those languages.

Comment away!

Give Lingot10

101 year ago

Leave a new comment

29 Comments

lewshan 16 11 9

I haven't learned all of the languages available on Duolingo. The only tree I've ever actually finished was the Spanish one, and I don't even know if that accomplishment counts considering I was raised with the language and tested out of the tree in 15 minutes :p. I'm verrrrrry close to finishing the Norwegian tree, which will be my first official complete tree from start to end! However, I have given every single language a try as a test run. Some I didn't last very long in, a few others I got decently far in before quitting. I'm not really interested in learning all of them, but I am interested in seeing how each one works. I see many people on here who seem to be doing a bit of each, though I'm not aware of anyone who has actually finished every single tree all the way through. Would be quite a feat, for sure! I'm sure there are people out there who are trying/planning to do this.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Maze-Ila 9 8 4

Cool I've started Spanish, too bad Duolingo doesn't offer more languages. I especially want to learn mandarin and Japanese :) I'll definitely be trying out more of the languages available on Duolingo though.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

lewshan 16 11 9

The good thing about Duo is that they're constantly adding new languages all the time (there's quite a few courses cooking in the incubator). The hardest part is waiting for the courses to hatch. :)

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

IceAly 25 13 4 1

There are other options available for those languages, too. I love Duo, but there is no harm in branching out!

I'm not very familiar with Japanese, but Ninchanese (online) or Chineseskill (mobile app) are both good places to start for Chinese. Ninchanese is still in beta, but you can sign up at the website to get a beta invitation.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Come_unToomey 11 10 9 2 2 2

longhenry has done 11 languages to level 25 and 2 to level 11...

<https://www.duolingo.com/LongHenry>

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1067

truly amazing... how anyone can reach such a level so fast, specially on some languages without immersion, borders on a miracle!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 126

He told me once that he learns things better by repeating them over and over many times [it's true for me as well]

So he repeats lessons and gets to the level 25 in very few time.

He also told me and some other persons that being level 25 in almost everything doesn't mean that he is fluent in all those 11 languages.

...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

yodydee 14 6

I think it would be like learning a simple tune on an instrument, stopping there, and switching to a new instrument. Never striving to play Bach on the cello, just learning some simplistic melody, and that's it, time to learn the tuba now. Definitely not cool... I have an aversion to most polyglots I think. Do they ever read classics in the language they "conquered"? Do they read Zola, Balzac, Flaubert; do they watch great French movies? I don't think they have the time, they reach some so-so competency, and they are off to Icelandic or Aramaic or whatever.

3ReplyGive Lingot15•1 year ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

There are plenty of multi-instrumentalists who are more than happy about jamming along, together with others in a band or just one their own, using any instrument available...

Enjoyment, culture, and skill is not all about Bach and Balzac. Even if you don't think that's cool.

14ReplyGive Lingot15•1 year ago

Come_unToomey 11 10 9 2 2 2

My second language I went all the way and I read books and movies. Any other language I would be happy to be able to converse with someone easily

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Monsieur_Bovary 17 16 15 12 12 11 9 168

I got your point, but I think it's pretty up to the learner: some of us prefer to learn just one language in depth, others prefer to learn a bit of five, seven or ten languages... I don't think one can definitely tell which way is better.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AdamVill 17 15 11 27

I can't speak for others, but that is precisely why I am trying to learn so many: Latin to read Virgil, Greek for Aristotle, Hebrew/Aramaic for the Old Testament, Spanish for Cervantes, French for Dumas, Italian for Dante, German for Goethe, etc., etc.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Atanalo 9 7 5 3

Wow. That's one very ambitious list.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ycleptKyara 20 10 10 8 5 3 2

The user bookrabbit has completed a record number of trees.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aanaaaa 25 23 22 21 20 20 15 15 14 14 12 12 673

I already saw some crazy people like that hahahah But I am not so crazy... I admire them , I think I couldn't learn so many languages .... Well , I can read and see movies in Italian, Spanish and English... I see movies in French too, they are the best ones , but read is a little harder ,I don't think someday I will do the same with German , Esperanto is easy , I promised myself I am not going to start another one before learning all I've already started hahahhaah , I would like to know how they do that of learning 10 , 12 languages ....

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

I would like to know how they do that of learning 10 , 12 languages ....

I know there are some ambitious (read: crazy) people who start a new language all the time, but many people here have also done many of the languages for years or decades already. 10 languages is not that crazy if you've spent, say, 30 years learning and using them.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1067
Or maybe just bored waiting for Finnish ;-p

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166
Are you done with Ukranian yet? :-) It looks like you'll have the opportunity to learn many, many languages before getting a chance to sink your teeth into Finnish... :-S

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1067
Not yet (-10 :-)). I really hope I'm not forced to do the klingon tree before Finnish. But then again I thought the same about Esperanto and went on to thoroughly enjoy it! :-p

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aanaaaa 25 23 22 21 20 20 15 15 14 14 12 12 673
Well, I've been learning all these languages for 2 years and half , less English ( I learned it before) , If I don't stop, I will get there someday hahahahaha , no! I am not so crazy ( I hope, I am not sure :/ )

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

otsogutxi 25 25 25 22 17 16 16 13 9 4 9
This guy has learned most of them and is very close to finishing the ones he has not completed yet.
<https://www.duolingo.com/LongHenry>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

M4rt4a 24 18 17 16 15 15 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 6 4 4 22
I've finished five trees so far, and now beside starting new ones I'm also spending a lot of time on expanding my knowledge with sources outside of Duolingo. The important thing is to remember, that finishing a tree is not equal with learning a language. You get some solid basis but there's still a long way to fluency. It's a fun activity, though. And I plan on doing all those trees at some point and then continue with the languages I find the most interesting.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dragonzy 18 11 10 10 8 7 6 6 4 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2 990
I've tired most of them. Including some English courses. Liked 9 out of 13. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Don_Cristian 25 25 22 22 15 14 11 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 7 5 5 4 3 3 2
In the hall of fame of owls, there are a handful of people who are reaching that point of completing all the duolingo trees here

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1067

All the current* ones from English plus their reverses and ladder combinations, yes... all the ones in duo not quite, but that is my plan! :-D

*they keep adding new ones! :-p

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Don_Cristian 25 25 22 22 15 14 11 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 7 5 5 4 3 3 2
damn duonks, how much do you spend on duolingo per day or week :D do you have Hermione's clock from Harry Potter with which you stop time passing ?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

duonks 20 19 18 17 15 15 15 14 14 13 12 12 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 1067
I really don't know... time flies when I'm having fun! :-D

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

compicej 25 19 17
Wow! Amazing! :O

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

truelefty 25 24 24 18 14 13 12 11 11 10 7 6 6 6 5 4 3 2 126
By the way, how many language courses are there here?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

593 Some insight into the differences between native and fluent speakers of a language.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/21250353>

Dutchesse722 13 12 12 11 6 47

<https://www.quora.com/What-is-the-difference-between-fluent-and-native-language-speakers>

Also, how is bilingualism defined: <http://thebilingualadvantage.com/what-is-bilingualism-2/>

Give Lingot1
92 weeks ago

Leave a new comment
2 Comments

Benezia 10 35
Very interesting, thanks for sharing!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

Dutchesse722 13 12 12 11 6 47
You're welcome!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

594 Bug report: German section

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8309799>

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

I'm on my ipad, I might have translated DER ORT wrong (I said "the area") but the answer came up THE LIEU which makes no sense to me whatsoever as a native English speaker.

Please fix. TY.

Give Lingot

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

22 Comments

jgstcd 12 11 11 9 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3

This isn't really the section where the German course developers are most likely to see your post.

This section is mostly for problems which affect multiple trees. So you're more likely to get a response if you move it to the German from English forum.

I had a look at the de/en tree. "Lieu" is listed, but not as a main translation. What Duo does when it sees something which it doesn't recognise as a translation is to show the nearest translation it does accept, or, if it's totally unlike any of those, the main translation, which in this case is "the place". It's something of a mystery to me why it thought that "the lieu" was close to "the area".

"The lieu" is indeed a very strange translation, as Google ngrams shows:

EDIT: fixed link, I hope.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Hi, another moderator deleted the wrong translation some hours ago. These are all translations for "der Ort" that we accept:

place

city locality position

scene

site

spot

town village

venue

location

Furthermore, while "in lieu of" (anstelle von... anstatt...) is still in use, "the lieu" is strange and I have never heard its usage in English before.

If you want to report such mistakes in the futur again, I kindly ask everyone to use the relevant "Report a Problem" button. While we read these discussions here from time to time, posting every possible error or mistake here would lead to a mere clutter and that wouldn't benefit anyone.

Thanks for your understanding :-)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jgstcd 12 11 11 9 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3

No problem, but just to clarify: I wasn't reporting at all, Ruthlilycat was. I just suggested moving it out of "Troubleshooting". In a later post she says she can't report sentences from the ipad. Never having used one, I can't really comment on that.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

"I wasn't reporting at all, Ruthlilycat was." I know, I just meant it as a general hint for everyone =) Sorry that it seemed to appear differently. I changed the word "you" to "everyone" to make it more obvious.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

TY!! if you know anyone that can move it there I'd appreciate it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jgstcd 12 11 11 9 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3

I think you can do it yourself. Click edit, then scroll up until you see "Pick a discussion topic". The one you want is labeled "German". But I'm not sure if this works in all user interfaces.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

Danke! Hopefully this works! Just did it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14

"Der Ort" translates to "the place" which is "le lieu" in French. Of course English does borrow a lot of words and "lieu" is another word for "place" although it is archaic now and yet still shows up in the expression "in lieu of" which would literally mean "in place of". <http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/lieu>

Not completely an error, but I do get your point "The lieu" as a whole is not something we would really encounter in modern day parlance, however in old literature....

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

I understand "in lieu of" in English as a native speaker. However "THE LIEU" does not make sense. It's not used in English unless one was talking about the bathroom. People use the slang term in English "the lieu" as in "I need to go to THE LIEU" for the bathroom.

In German, the bathroom is usually TOILETTE or BAD, but not THE LIEU. Which as I said, it was the English translation of Der Ort - which means PLACE. It is definitely a mistake.

BTW & o/t I read your stream & am impressed even though your answer is not correct. I'm hoping the German bug catchers will see this :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HappyEvilSlosh 25 23 21 20 13 11 10 9 8 7 4 2 2

People use the slang term in English "the lieu" as in "I need to go to THE LIEU" for the bathroom.

I think you mean loo.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14

In order for someone to make a change, you might want to specify where you encountered this, I am guessing - was it in the Words section?

Beautiful, of course nowadays when talking about the bathroom, it is now spelled "the loo", but I really believe that is where it could have originated from. It is hard to know, because this slang is not in the Merriam Webster dictionary. In the Cambridge dictionary it exists with no indication of where it came from. <http://dictionary.cambridge.org/dictionary/british/loo>

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jgstcd 12 11 11 9 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3

"Loo" and "lieu" are pronounced differently. "Loo" is relatively recent and has never, as far as I know, been written "lieu".

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 798

No, it was never written "lieu" it comes from "l'eau" as in the shout ("gardez l'eau" ... "Watch out for the water") which people gave from their windows before emptying last night's "waste water" into the streets below in mediaeval times.

I can't reply to you below as the stream has been cut, all I can tell you is that this was what I was taught both in school and later at college. I've also read quite a few articles which say the same thing ....BUT .... as with a lot of these things it may well be apocryphal, just because we're taught something doesn't guarantee it's validity, so we'll probably never know for sure but it has always made me smile. :-))

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

jgstcd 12 11 11 9 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3

I have my doubts about that explanation. The first written occurrence of the word, at least with this meaning, is from 1940 according to Webster. It doesn't seem likely that the word could survive from the middle ages until 1940 without ever being written down.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14

Oh, I did find something in the Oxford dictionary:

<http://www.oxforddictionaries.com/definition/english/loo> It is inconclusive, but one theory stems from the name Waterloo which was a trade name for iron cisterns.

Answering below: All the explanations are rather interesting, a little mystery just makes it all the more fun to use.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ifphigenia 25 25 22 17 11 9 5 4 2 2 2 2 798

That sounds plausible but again, , I don't suppose we'll ever know for sure. Do you? :-)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

No in the lessons, actually. But I forget which one. I believe they'll know, it's the lesson with PLATZ, ORT, etc. Really appreciate your help.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14

The next time you encounter it, please use the "Report a Problem" feature on the bottom left of the specific lesson page which is directly to the left of the "Discuss sentence". Not at all? That is a shame. I have access on my android, but they use picture symbols and the top one is for "Discuss sentence" and the bottom one is for "Report a Problem."

Keep in mind that an obsolete word that was correct is not necessarily incorrect just because it is obsolete. As long as they also accept "the place" as correct, I see no reason why they can't accept an old word for this as correct as well since it may be encountered in old literature, but as it is archaic - Who knows? - they may agree with you and remove it. <http://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/lieu> <http://www.thefreedictionary.com/lieu> <http://dictionary.cambridge.org/dictionary/british/lieu> I did notice that British dictionaries no longer support the definition "place" for the word "lieu", but the American dictionaries do list it as an archaic term for "place". This is actually quite common to find an American usage of a term continuing beyond its use in the UK, but even here it is considered archaic.

<http://dictionary.reverso.net/allemand-anglais/Ort> <http://dictionary.reverso.net/anglais-allemand/lieu> For the fun of it, I looked up "in lieu of..." and it is "an Stelle von..."

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

Completely disagree with you about using an old term "THE LIEU" as something for people who speak English to learn. I did not even encounter it in Shakespeare, TBH. You're using a French dictionary so it's not relevant.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

You can't report from the ipad app.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

Also I looked at your link. Here's the way that your last link used it, NONE of which said PLACE.

" an Zahlungs statt

exp.

in lieu of payment

[Bus.]

etw eidesstattlich erklären

exp.

to declare sth in lieu of an oath

eine Erklärung an Eides statt abgeben

exp.

to make a declaration in lieu of oath

[Leg.]

eine eidesstattliche Erklärung {oder} Versicherung abgeben

exp.

to make a declaration in lieu of an oath ; to declare in lie...

statt Urlaub

exp.

in lieu of {or} instead of holiday ; instead of vacation

statt Urlaubs

sein Urlaub wurde durch Bezahlung abgegolten

exp.

he was given payment in lieu of holiday {or} instead of v...

Überstunden abfeiern

exp.

to take time off in lieu (of overtime) ; to use up overti..."

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ruthlilycat 25 9 7 6

THE PLACE is not THE LIEU, period. They need to fix it. I think the convo is closed. This needs to be fixed.

Hence it says BUG REPORT for the German translators to fix.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

595 "Tôi ăn bữa trưa."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3444037>

Translation: I eat lunch.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

22 Comments

pakoza1204 7 2

I have lunch cũng đúng mà?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LanAnh0123 8

sao cũng được hết bạn àk

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PhanThanhNha 8

yes mình cũng vậy

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nguyenvanthi 4

yes

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

duythai1302 8 1

have là có bạn ơi!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

LcphaN1 8

Yes

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

nhatpmn 25 2 4
i eat lunch

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

huycp23 6
I eat lunch là đúng

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]
ghi "lunchy]" mà cũng đúng !!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fairy.micars 6
Tui cũng nghĩ I have lunch nữa. Nhưng ứng dụng này là trên nên Google Translate nên ghi eat cho chắc :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TrangNguye984637 6
thì có sao?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TrangNguye984637 6
vì sao?muoivuvan 133

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hampjxjta 6
I eat have lunch s hoc dc z

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vnt86 9
Tu lunch doc nhu the nao vay moi nguoi

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Quan_Bui 7
Còn cách khác nữa là "I am going to have lunch" nữa mà

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

_Tadashi_Hamada_ 24 10 3 2 2 2 30
sao đọc đúng rồi mà ko cho vậy

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

LCngDuyM 6

I have the lunch cung dc phai ko mn

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

LeandroRai9

Oi

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TrnHPhng12 4

Tùy, đấy là do cái máy

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

vuquangtru 5

Lần đầu tiên dùng i eat lunch

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

muoivuvan113 13

i eat the lunch cũng dc phải ko

-1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

596 How do I add students to my Duolingo classroom?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000036806-How-do-I-add-students-to-my-Duolingo-classroom->

After creating your classroom, follow the instructions:

Give your classroom a name and select a language. If your students are learning different language, you can still create a classroom, but it might not give you course-specific features that a specific language classroom would have access to. It will, however, allow you to track your students' progress.

From there, you can add students in two ways.

Option #1: Classroom link or Code. This will only work if your students have an email address or facebook account in order to create their own accounts once they see the link. This is ideal for when you can email your students or post the link on a shared document your students can access. This option will also provide you with a classroom code. Your students will click on the link and be taken to Duolingo, where they will be prompted to either log in or create a free Duolingo account. They will also need to allow you to track their progress in order to appear as one of your students.

You can copy the link and share it with your students, or you can ask them to access the website join.duolingo.com and enter the access code (the classroom code is easier to write on the board, for example).

After that, you will be prompted to download instructions for your records explaining to students how they can join the classroom. If you like, you can print this and give it out to your students. The sheet includes instructions and the classroom code. After you download, click "Continue" and you're done!

Option #2: Create accounts for your students ahead of time. This is ideal if you are trying to leave everything set up before class and you already know all your students' email addresses—or if your students don't have Duolingo accounts or email addresses and you want to make it easier for them to join without having to create their own accounts. Select "Create accounts for my students" and click "Continue."

Start adding your student's names and press return or click on "add." When you are done adding names, press "Continue."

Now it's time to add their email addresses! If your students do not have email addresses, leave it blank and select "Create accounts."

Print the sheet and with the information and you're all set! Once your students log in, they will be able to change their usernames, emails and passwords at any time in their settings. Let's start learning!

597    How do I invite and add friends?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205126060-How-do-I-invite-and-add-friends>

You can follow anyone you like on Duolingo. You can also invite friends to join. When you follow someone, they will show up on your leaderboard, and you can compete against them. On the web, you can view your leaderboard by finding your left sidebar on your home page. You may need to scroll down to see it.

There, you can sort your friends by selecting the leaderboard of the week, month or all time. The highest scoring friends will be on top. This list is scrollable, so if you don't see the person you are looking for, try scrolling down while your mouse is on the leaderboard.

At the bottom of the leaderboard, there are a few buttons. You can find your Facebook friends by clicking on "Find more friends on Facebook."

You can also send someone an invite via email by clicking on "Send invite."

If your friend already uses Duolingo and you know their username or account email address, you can search for them within Duolingo.

You can also follow people you like on Duolingo. Simply click on their name in the forums or search for them. When you land on their profile page, click the "Follow" button to add them to your friend list. The person will automatically be added to your leaderboard and you will see updates of their activity on your activity stream. They do not have to accept your request, you can compete with anybody you like. They can also follow you back if they want to. If they block you, you can no longer add follow or contact them.

598    "We do not eat candies."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/732284>

Translation: Noi non mangiamo caramelle.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

18 Comments

omigo 25 24 24 10 3

LOL - read this as "We do not eat candles" - which does have a certain logic to it! "Candies" is rare in British English.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

positano 23 10 8 6 2 2

make perfect sense to me, but I have to learn both English and Italian at the same time. Be open minded!!

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bubbachump 10 7 5

In the US, I don't hear candies much either....usually people just say candy for plural.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AJHB 7

I did the same thing!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SarahBecraft 15 13 12 5 2

I saw the same thing and until I saw the discussion I was SURE that's what it said.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JerikaRose 8 6

Well if you won't eat the candies I will! :D

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MetzgermeisterA 21 16 13 6 4 3 3

If you are negating a verb, "non" always comes before the verb. "Io non mangio, noi non parliamo, voi non siete."

Also, if you are saying "No, we do not eat candies," you would say "No, noi non mangiamo caramelle."

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

ARAMM07 6

Why do I have to use "non" before a "no" ? Noi non mangiamo caramelle.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

thethinman13 11 2

if I'm not mistaken, non is the plural for "we" we do not eat as opposed to I do not eat

-11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

omigo 25 24 24 10 3

"non" means "do not", in other words it reverses the meaning of the sentence. Without "non" the meaning would be "We eat candies".

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_sher-_ 9 2

What's with "delle" ? Never seen the word till now

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MariangelaCC 9 7

Delle is an indefinite article, feminine and plural that expresses a part of a whole that is imprecise or unspecified. Caramella is feminine, caramelle is the plural. "we have the candies" would be "noi abbiamo le caramelle". "We have some candies" (several but we do not know how many) would be "noi abbiamo delle caramelle", you could also say "noi abbiamo alcune caramelle", it is the same but in the first you use the article :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

moxiemeg23 6

"Delle" is the contraction of "de" and "le". It means "of the" in feminine.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carina_Italia 4

Another option was, We dont eat forks!! LOL!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

danimeireles507 10 8

The expected answer to 'le caramelle sono nell piatto' is 'the candy is on the plate' but then Duolingo writes 'we don't eat candies'. Why shouldn't 'the candies are on the plate' be accepted? This is so inconsistent.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariangelaCC 9 7

I do not know which answer did you get from duolingo, but I can tell yo this: caramelle is plural so the right answer to "le caramelle sono nell piatto" would be the candies are on the plate

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sallymay1999 6 5 2 2

It says I got it wrong when I got it right

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GlendonStreetman 10

LOL I thought it said candles hahahaha. Oh, someone already said that :( slowly walks away

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

599 Other Languages

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3565176>

wr0 15

Is there any thought by the Duolingo staff to add smaller, non Indo-European languages? I'd love to be able to learn Navajo or Hawaiian.

Give Lingot

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

Lenkvist 23 22 17 14 13 12 12 11 10 7 7

New courses are no longer added by just staff members. Users can sign up for the Incubator to help build a course if they are fluent in two languages (<http://incubator.duolingo.com/>). It therefore depends on whether there actually are people who are able to work on a new course.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stecchetto 25 19 16 16 14 12 9 9 6 6 6 6 5 5 5 4 2 2 70

The staff have expressed interest in courses for smaller languages (particularly endangered ones) in the past, but they've got a lot on their plate at the moment so I don't know when they'll get around to it. It partly depends on the availability of volunteers like Lenkvist says, but it also depends on the Incubator being made technically capable of handling certain linguistic features such as Navajo's polysynthesis.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

600 "Je l'avais proposé, il l'avait accepté."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/234881>

Translation: I had proposed it, he had accepted it.

04 years ago

Leave a new comment

24 Comments

evatenn 23 14 7

Does anyone else think that DL should accept "I had suggested it, AND he had accepted it"? Correct English does need a conjunction (or other punctuation--colon, semi-colon, but not just a comma) between complete sentences.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lfkramer 15

It should have been a semi-colon at least. But really it is two sentences!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ivanbimbam 16 9 9 4

Does it really though? It reads better with a conjunction but if someone said this to me, in the right context, it wouldn't sound weird

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Bronshtein 25

Written English, perhaps, but in spoken English this could be pulled off.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Konrad-Michal 15 14 13 11 9 4 3 1

Would it be not more natural both in English and in French to use Past Simple here instead Past Perfect: Je l'ai proposé, il l'a accepté - I proposed it, he accepted it?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

michaelvl 13 4

"I proposed it, he accepted it." Why is this incorrect? The words "proposed" and "accepted" are already in the past tense, is the word "had" then not superfluous in both parts of the sentence?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Nahmannoway 22 10

I agree. Honestly, as a writer I feel a little remiss only just learning the differences between types of sentences--although, before duolingo, identifying the form of a sentence was irrelevant as long as I knew how to use it properly. To the point, "had" is generally an unnecessary word, and often simply excluded. I find it is a preference issue. But then, it may be the difference between one past tense and another, since I'm rather new to caring about those.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Libertydoc 21 17 11 500

Not sure but it looks like we are practicing the past pluperfect which calls for the possibly superfluous 'had.' I got it wrong also.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

nathanbash 11 11 9 6

Is that suggested correct answer correct? "I'd proposed him, he had accepted it."

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

David_Bundy 16 16 12 12 6 1

This sounds grammatically incorrect to me. It should be "I'd proposed to him, he had accepted it." Reported.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DamienMcGr 11

Nothing wrong with the initial DL premise here. I proposed it (the condition), he accepted it (the condition).

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

David_Bundy 16 16 12 12 6 1

Looking back at this, although my previous suggestion is grammatically ok in English, it is probably not the correct translation of the French sentence because it has an indirect object rather than a direct object. I now agree with DamienMcGr.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sarah-Cheung 25 23 18 15 14 12 11 10 10 8 4 852

I wrote "I had proposed to him, he had accepted it." and it was still marked wrong. 2014-12-17

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrkChievous 11 10 10 9 8 6

Doesn't "propose to" (without object) mean to ask for marriage? That's not the case in French.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sarah-Cheung 25 23 18 15 14 12 11 10 10 8 4 852

Yeah, I was wrong. I learned that later. And, if it was "to him", "lui" would have been used. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mskrch 21 8

Why am I getting this incorrect when I'm actually translating it exactly as it's being shown to me? The correction says 'il here means "it", not "he"' but the translation duolingo is showing as the correct version translates it as HE....

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dain 15 10 5

How do I say: "He had it accepted."

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Il avait fait accepter cela/ça.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lkt005 15 8 5 5

il avait l'accepte??

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

No, can't be.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

flw980 16 6

My answer is "I had suggested him, he had accepted it". This answer is accepted. I didn't try "I had suggested it, he had accepted it". Is it also right ? And why ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Pigslew 24 24

It's DL's correct answer. Why do you doubt it?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BenPickeri 25 23 2

Anybody else get this like 5 times in the same lesson?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sally410 22 59

I have suddenly got the male speaker, Monsieur "j apostrophe". I am wondering about elision, now. Mademoiselle Duo seems more relaxed or a program being corrected .....

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

601 "I like that view. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2911751>

Translation: Eu gosto daquela vista.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

16 Comments

HalissonPa 8

If the use of "dessa/desta" depends on how near is the object, when the sentence doesn't indicate the distance, both answers must be correct.

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ceaer 25 25 23 16 1

The distance is indicated in English by the word "that".

this = something near to the speaker (este) that = something near to the listener or something far from both parties (esse/aquele)

-

A distância ésta indicada em inglês pela palavra "that".

this = algo perto ao falante (este) that = algo perto ao ouvinte ou algo longe das duas pessoas (esse/aquele)

22ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

edisar7 23 9 7 9

Colegas de DUO, eu não entendo a facilidade com que algumas pessoas dão "pontos negativos" para os colegas. Só porque alguns tem opinião diferente ou fazem colocações contrárias a opinião dessas pessoas ela "tasca " um negativo. Não tenho procuração do colega americano "ceaer " para defendê-lo mas esse rapaz nos ajuda tanto, está sempre disposto a explicar as nuances da língua inglesa e fica levando negativos. Vamos ter tolerância com os demais. Ninguém é perfeito, nem você que adora dar negativo para os colegas. A única coisa que me leva a dar negativos são grosserias com colegas. Acho grosseria e intolerância inadmissíveis em qualquer situação.

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Claudio_Resende 25 16 14 108

Tbm nao entendo estes revoltados, vc levou meu lingot por sua justa indignação. O ceaer é nosso "banco de dados" e sempre pronto a esclarecer. Penso que nao leva a serio estas maldades dos idiotas que o negativam, afinal ele consegue ser superior a estes insignificantes seres. Thank you ceaer.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

LeonardoMatos85 15 7 5

Pq não Desta?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ceaer 25 25 23 16 1

Eu gosto desta vista = I like this view

Eu gosto dessa/aquela vista = I like that view

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Andercius23 21 9 5 4

A new fantastic point of view, no one to tell us no or where to go, or say you're only dreaming :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

isah_mingo1 12

Porque o DUO diz que pode colocar "eu gosto assim"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

alexfbcunha 10

Por que o uso de “Eu curto aquela vista” não pode ser aceito? =(

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ceaer 25 25 23 16 1

"curto" = "short", não? é um adjetivo e precisa de um verbo aqui.

"to like" = "gostar de"

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alexfbcunha 10

O que eu quis dizer é que, assim como o Facebook no Brasil traduz o "like" como "curtir", o uso de "Eu curto aquela vista" também poderia ser aceito...

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ceaer 25 25 23 16 1

Ah, ok. Não sabia isso.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

josefernan108 17 2

eu gosto daquela vista = eu gosto daquele panorama

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ildebrando_Neto 19 8 2

Seria possível traduzir o VIEW como VISÃO, ao invés de VISTA?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carla-Simoes 15 9 8

Eu traduzi assim em 06/10/15

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

602 "Eu corro para a rua."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/268895>

Translation: I run toward the street.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

alexsilvajr.23 20 11 158

"Alessandro370859", você apenas está traduzindo a frase. Tente observar o contexto que vem junto dela. As traduções muitas vezes nos deixam limitados enquanto o aprendizado de uma língua. Enfim, nesse caso, a frase remete-se a direção em que a pessoa vai: "I run TOWARD the street" - "Eu corro em direção a rua". Espero ter ajudado!

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Towards = em direção a... Não é verbo, como eat>eats, go>goes...

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Flavia.favero 7

sim Moacir, mas se vc colocar no google ou qualquer outro tradutor os dois tem o mesmo significado tanto o toward quanto o towards, contudo o Duolingo não aceitou as duas respostas, aceitou somente com "s".

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Flavia.favero 7

Qual a diferença na utilização do toward ou towards?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JoedsonBomfim 17

"towards" é muito usado na Inglaterra, já o "toward" é mais usado nos EUA.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alessandro370859 13

Pq nao pode ser "I run for the street" aqui diz que o correto seria "I run to the street"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JoedsonBomfim 17

Porque o "to" (para) geralmente é usado para destinos (lugares). ex:

-I go to the house. -He goes to the restaurante.

Já o "for" geralmente é usado para benefícios. ex:

-This gift is for me. -The apple is for the dessert.

Eu coloquei o geralmente porque não é regra absoluta, o "for" pode ser usado de outras maneiras.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

vieirawaldo 11 7 6 5

i run toward the road

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

guaraciaba3 14 9

Obrigada Duo!!!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

603 What is my username?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000621923-What-is-my-username->

If you like, you can use your username to log in, instead of your whole email. Your username is unique and cannot have special characters or spaces. Sometimes it is automatically generated when you create your account. But how can you find out what your Duolingo username is?

On Web:

When logged in to your account, simply take a look at the name next to your picture. That is your username.

On Android:

1. Select the three dots on the top-right of the screen.

2. Tap on "Settings"

3. Your username is right under your name, as shown below.

On iOS devices:

If you have Avatars

1. Select the Avatars icon on the top right

2. Select the gear icon on the top right of the screen

3. Your username is between your name and your password. It should be unique and contain no spaces or special characters.

If you do not have the Avatars icon

1. Open Clubs, by selecting the Clubs icon

2. Select "Profile"

3. Select "Settings"

4. And your username should be right there, under your name.

If you need to change your username, please follow these instructions.

604 I need to practise English with someone

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2585057>

TontonJeff 14

Hello, I'm French and a dunce in English ! I need to practise because I have to meet researchers soon for my work, and to understand them. If you are English or if you have a good practise, I'm agree to have a conversation about what you want. If you are English and want to learn French, I can help you too and correct your mistakes. See you soon !

Give Lingot2

12 years ago

Leave a new comment

32 Comments

MaelFr 21 2

Va poser ta question dans la section des anglais qui apprennent le français:

<https://www.duolingo.com/topic/147>

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

TontonJeff 14

Thank you man !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Farfa1 7 5

hi i'm french too, and i have discovered Duolingo yesterday. I have to learn english to pass the toeic (it is an english test)and also for my work . I 'm working my english every day,, but i need to practise too. i'm not an expert but it's understandable, and funny, apparently, when I travel in an english country.if you agree, I would be happy to talk with you

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MaelFr 21 2

Même conseil, TontonJeff a créé son post: <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2586137>

Il a eu pas mal de réponses de gens intéressés.

Tu peux aller créer le tien au lien que j'ai donné plus haut.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Farfa1 7 5

ok merci beaucoup

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TontonJeff 14

Great ! I agree with you, and of we do not understand each other, we can use French ! So, we can talk by Duo or email as you want. Si long Farfa

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Farfa1 7 5

Let start !Then you are in the research, it should be exciting. In what domain, if it is not indiscreet?
Personally I have to learn English for my work, I'm in IT, and pratically all of the courses and certifications are in English,

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TontonJeff 14

Hello, un fact I am actor and we prepare with a deutch actor friend of mine a performance about global warning. So, on the first time, we have to meet researchers as glaciologists, climatologists... to go with them when they work - How do you say it " sur le terrain" ? - so when they are studing in Greenland, Spitzberg... We'll go with them, tale some videos and photos... and those documents will be insered (?) - added perhaps it is better ? - in the show. We are waiting for an ànswer of European Fond ( Erasmus program) to help us on July. if it is good, we will begin to talk with the researchers on September, and the travels will be on spring 2015 to observe (?) the Ice break (débâcle in French !). My friend Heiko is a perfect trilingual ( French, deutch and English), but me I am à dunce, so I need to practise. And you, what do you do ? I did not understand "TT" : what does it mean ? Tennis de Table ? Trinité et Tobago ?... We have many things in French with this abreviations... And are you english ? Where do you live ? If you agree you can answer me on my "wall" and after exchange (?) our email, it is more practical. Thank you, have a good day ! Jeff

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rajuncajun09 17 10 8 7 6 6 5 2

Bonjour TontonJeff. Je suis un Anglophone et j'apprends francais. Je peux t'aider avec anglais. Tu peux m'aider avec francais? "sur le terrain" en anglais est "In the field". Un peu corrections:

Hello, in fact I am an actor and we are preparing with a Dutch actor friend of mine a performance about global warning. So, first, we have to meet researchers such as glaciologists, climatologists... to go with them when they work in the field. When they are studying in Greenland, Spitzberg... we'll go with them, take some videos and photos... and those documents will be inserted - added perhaps it is better ? - in the show. We are waiting for an answer from European Fond ( Erasmus program) to help us on July. if it is good, we will begin to talk with the researchers in September, and the trip will be in spring 2015 to observe (?) the Ice break (débâcle in French !). My friend Heiko is a perfect trilingual ( French, Dutch and English), but me I am à dunce, so I need to practise. And you, what do you do ? I did not understand "TT" : what does it mean ? Tennis de Table ? Trinité et Tobago ?... We have many things in French with this abbreviation... And are you English ? Where do you live ? If you agree you can answer me on my "wall" and after exchange (?) our email, it is more practical. Thank you, have a good day ! Jeff

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TontonJeff 14

sorry I understand when I read your previous message that you are French ! I made some mistakes on my message because I write it with my iPhone so it correct automaticly.... in French ! grrrr ! I have to unactivate this function. So "TT" is it Trinité et Tobago ? So long Farfa !

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Farfa1 7 5

not as I've told you on your wall, i meant IT not TT;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carlozzo 20 10 9

You're really not from an English talking country? Your English is perfect.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hajamoktar 6

hello everyone I would be grateful if I can join you to practice my english as well. See you soon!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Justine-2001 8 6

Hi, I'm french and i'm just in college but i love english and serch someone to speak with. So if you want we can chatt for keep our english. Telle me.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

hajamoktar 6

ok and you will help me in french deal?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Justine-2001 8 6

Ok, no problem. Where can we speak ? You prefer speak on Duolingo or you want a private place ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DXLi 25 5 1265

I'll help you practice if you'd like. Go ahead and post on my stream and we'll have a chat!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Justine-2001 8 6

Ok, thanks but can you really "chatt" on Duolingo ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DXLi 25 5 1265

We can carry a conversation, though it'll only be over text.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Justine-2001 8 6

but where ? here ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DXLi 25 5 1265

Here, or you can post on my wall. <https://www.duolingo.com/DXLi>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Aladin_Sassi 3

Hi, I can help you brother

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

antonin83 7

me too i want chatt in english and i can learn you french. Someone is interesting?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cristale0 22 2 2

i am french, i begin in english, y aurait il des débutants comme moi ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

antonin83 7

oui ya moi

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

antonin83 7

why?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cristale0 22 2 2

hello Antonin, i am Cristale, i am french but i live on Canada, here many people speak english, i am shy, i can not speak whig them, my english is to bad, i would like progresser.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DanielOCaI 20 11 9 6 4 2 2 441

Hello, I can help you with your English. I am currently learning French with Duolingo. Maybe later, when I have time and more skill, you can help me with French. I am from Australia. Australians speak English more like British English than like American English, but I can tell you about the differences if you wish. Do you want to practise British English or American English more?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TontonJeff 14

Hello Daniel, nice tio meet you and thank you for your message and your comments about my mistakes. In fact, I want to practise English, but which one I don't know, because I can't make diffrence currently between British English and American English... I want just to understand, bacause I travel a lot and I need to speak with people for my job ; I am actor and I prepare with a dutch actor friend of mine a performance about global warning. So, on the first time, we have to meet some researchers as glaciologists, climatologists... to go with them when they work on the spot. So when they are studing in Greenland, Spitzberg... We'll go with them, tale some videos and photos... You see, I need to practise English with people who are not everytime English... If you want, I'm agree to help you ; we can skype if you want, and if it's possible with the time difference. I suppose I have a good diction in French because I'm actor. So, tell me. Have a good night in Australia !

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CLeVasseur24 7

You can reach out to me anytime! I am learning French so we could help each other out. Your English seems like it is pretty good so far ( a lot better than my French).

I am from Minnesota!

Also- quick fix for you. I seen a few French people blow spell this wrong as well. "practise" is spelled practice :).

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DanielOCal 20 11 9 6 4 2 2 441

I'm not sure about US spelling of practice/practise, but correct UK, AU, NZ, IE English spelling is "practise" is a verb and "practice" is a noun. Same applies to "advise" & "license" (verb) and "advice" & "licence" (noun). In USA "advise" & "license" are used for both noun and verb. See <http://www.future-perfect.co.uk/grammar-tip/is-it-practise-or-practice/>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CLeVasseur24 7

Here in the US you will never see practise. That is good advice and great points thought! I guess it depends on what version of English that you want to learn.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

605 Was ist der Unterschied zwischen "der Experte" und "der Fachmann?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4044694>

Arktischer 13 10 10 815

Hallo Leute,

Ich bin ein Englischsprecher und ich studiere Deutsch. Ich verstehe den Unterschied zwischen dem Worte "der Experte" und "der Fachmann" nicht. Bitte, sage mir dem Unterschied!

Danke, entschuldige meinem schlecht Deutsch!

Give Lingot

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

8 Comments

Frederik81 13 11 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 4 4 2 2 10

Hallo, es gibt keinen Unterschied im Gebrauch beider Wörter. Sie haben die gleiche Bedeutung. Aber es gibt einen Unterschied zwischen 'studieren' und 'lernen'. 'Studieren' ist ein Verb, daß man benutzt, wenn man etwas an einer Hochschule studiert. 'Lernen' ist allgemein verwendbar. In Deinem Falle heißt es eher 'ich lerne Deutsch' - es sei denn, Du studierst die Sprache tatsächlich auf einer Hochschule.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arktischer 13 10 10 815

Danke. Sprechen Sie Englisch? Ich übersetze deine Textnachricht. Dies ist meine Textnachricht:

Hello

There is no difference in the use of both words. They have the same meaning. But there is a difference between "studieren" and "lernen." "Studieren" is a verb, (daß) one uses, if one studies (something?) at a university. "Lernen" is universally used. In your case, it is called rather "Ich lerne Deutsch."- it (sei) because, you study the language daily at a university.

Please explain the answers in English.

1) Why do you say "es gibt keinen Unterschied?" That translates to "It gives no difference," but I can deduce that it means "There is no difference." Will you please explain the use of this phrase?

2) What does "daß" mean? Is it the same as "dass?"

3) What does "sei" mean?

Danke.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Frederik81 13 11 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 4 4 2 2 10

Hi,

1) "Es gibt keinen Unterschied" is the translation of "There is no difference". Of course you could also say "da ist kein Unterschied" or "da gibt es keinen Unterschied" or "Iss wurscht". On duolingo you would say these are alternative translations...

2) "Daß" is the same like "dass"... Well, you just opened the box of Pandora here. Read for yourself:

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/German\_orthography\_reform\_of\_1996

3) "Es sei denn" in this case means "unless".

"Sei" by itself is the verb "sein" in 3rd person singular, present tense, active form, conjunctive mood, feel free to read here:

http://de.wiktionary.org/wiki/sein\_%28Konjugation%29

Just use "Es sei denn" as you would use "unless" in English.

For your text translation, which is already quite good, let me recommend you the following corrections:

"Studieren" is a verb, (daß) one uses, if one studies (something?) at a university.

-- "Studieren" is a verb that you use if you study something at a university.

it (sei) because, you study the language daily at a university.

-- unless you actually study the language at a university.

Two further hints from my side:

You may translate the German word "man" with "you" in spoken language. I'm not sure whether a professional translator would agree with me, but for me it sounds right and the right meaning is conveyed.

"tatsächlich" means actually, not daily, maybe you misread tatsächlich for täglich.

May I suggest this website as a good online dictionary for ENG-DEU

<http://www.dict.cc>

Last but not least: You used the word "Textnachricht" as a translation for my reply. No German native speaker uses this word - never ever! In this case, the translation for the word "reply" is "Antwort".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arktischer 13 10 10 815

I actually learn "Antwort" as answer, did something go wrong, or is "Antwort" used more widely?

Thanks for all your help; now I have to translate Barak2014's answer.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Frederik81 13 11 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 4 4 4 2 2 10

Both are correct

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Barak2014 12

The summary of my answer is that both words mean the same. :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Barak2014 12

Hallo! Wie Frederik schon gesagt hat, sind die beiden Wörter Synonyme. ("Fachmann" klingt für mich nur etwas bodenständiger als "Experte".) Das deutsche Wort "Experte" stammt vom lateinischen Adjektiv "expertus", das "erfahren, bewährt, erprobt" heißt.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Fjola8 2

tut mir leid ich weis es nicht

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

606 How do I switch my Duolingo course language?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/217005666-How-do-I-switch-my-Duolingo-course-language->

You can learn multiple languages at the same time and save your progress. If you accidentally changed your interface language to something you cannot understand, please check out the article My account is in a language I do not understand! How do I change it back?

If you are simply looking to add or switch to a different Duolingo course, here's how to do it:

On the web

Click the flag next to your avatar to switch between courses. Under Settings, you can also explore other courses or change the active course in your settings.

On iOS

Tap the arrow next to your current learning language to change it.

On Android

Tap the menu in the top left corner of your screen to change your language course settings.

Simply select the course or language you would like to switch to.

Note: You will never lose progress by switching around to another language. You can go back and forth as you please, as long as you are in the same Duolingo account. If you appear to have lost progress, please make sure that your duolingo is signed in to the same email address/account you had before.

607 How can I suggest a new language course?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204979660-How-can-I-suggest-a-new-language-course->

The Duolingo team tries to focus its efforts on building free language courses to help as many learners as possible around the world. Courses are constructed with help from the community of volunteers who contribute to the Incubator. You can cheer for your favorite teams and follow their progress as they get closer to finishing. You can also sign up to be notified when your desired course is available by selecting it from the course page.

If you are bilingual and want to help teach others, you may also apply to contribute to a new course. Proposed language courses are considered when there are enough great candidates to build them and learners and testers to help improve them.

We have a long list of courses we intend to release, and we also monitor the forums and applications for new potential language directions. If you want to suggest a language, we encourage you to visit the forums, search for suggestions that have been made in the past, and add your vote or comment to existing posts. That will make the request more popular and make it stand out more, encouraging more people to add their votes.

608 What can I do with Duolingo for Schools?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/218171283-What-can-I-do-with-Duolingo-for-Schools->

There are many ways in which Duolingo for Schools can enhance your students' learning experience.

Track student progress

Duolingo for Schools is built in a way that allows you to track several Duolingo learners at the same time. You can see their XP (points), streak days and timestamps of recent activity. You can also see how far into the course they are by clicking on “Course progress” on the sidebar.

Explore course

Enter your classroom and select “Curriculum” on the sidebar on the left. You will be able to explore lists of words and try a sample lesson to see what your students will see (although theirs will be adapted to their unique word strength).

Classroom activities

Check out the classroom activities we have created especially for you. To access them, select “Class activities” from the sidebar on the left. There you’ll be able to access games such as “Flashcards” and “Power practice.” These are tailored to your students’ average level and are fun for everyone! Let us know how you use them, share your activity plan with teachers@duolingo.com

Share ideas with fellow educators

If you have a great idea of how to use Duolingo within a specific context, created a beautiful wall system, or came up with a game that is a hit with children or adults, please share with your fellow teachers. You can post all about it in the forums, or share with us via email. If you share with us, please let us know if you are OK with us sharing the idea and/or pictures you sent.

Reset student passwords

Help students reset their passwords so they can regain access to their accounts.

Assign points and skills

Set assignments and track student completion for easy grading and assessment.

Do you have more ideas? Share in our Educator Forum!

609 "Mijn vader sport elke dag voor zijn gezondheid. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8263772>

Translation: My father exercises every day for his health.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

ijz3r 16 8 4 3 2 2

Plays sport? Shouldn't it be "plays a sport?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Susande 17 13 12 11 252

No, playing a sport means a game is played (e.g. football, korfbal). Sporten in Dutch does include that meaning, but it can also include e.g. jogging, walking on a treadmill, any kind of exercise really (that's why exercises is the preferred translation). :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Olga451165 17 14 11

Why not hij sportS? If it's a verb in this case..

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Susande 17 13 12 11 252

It's a verb indeed. Adding -s to the end of the verb is common in English, not in Dutch. Weak verbs (regular verbs) get a -t for 2nd and 3rd person singular and -en for the plural forms. But in this case the stem sport already ends on a t so it doesn't get an additional one.

ik sport

jij/je/u sport

zij/ze/hij/het sport

wij/we sporten

jullie sporten

zij/ze sporten

Also see this post on the present simple: <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3762671>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Olga451165 17 14 11

Yes I had a major language-salad moment.. that's what happens when I duolingo after long day at work :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

futilemoons 19 7 5 2

Is there a good reason for 'daily' not to be accepted here? I've reported it, anyway.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

610 I forgot my password, how do I reset it?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204829910-I-forgot-my-password-how-do-I-reset-it->

If you forgot your password and need a new one, visit http://duolingo.com/forgot\_password and enter your email address (associated with your Duolingo account). We will send you a link to that email address, which will enable you to create a new password for your account. If you are using the Duolingo mobile app and are having trouble resetting your password, try to reset your password via the Duolingo website and then using your new one on the app after it has been successfully reset.

In case you did not receive the email we sent you, check your spam folder since the message could have been filtered there. If that is happening, try adding Duolingo as a trusted contact, and mark the message as "this is not spam" if your email provider offers that option.

If you originally signed up with Google or Facebook, you will need to supply the email associated with your Facebook or Google account instead. If you signed up with an incorrect or fake email address, you will not be able to change your password.

If you are not receiving email from Duolingo, please follow these steps.

611 "Esa palabra no aparece en la lista."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1214661>

Translation: That word does not appear on the list.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

Ignacio84233 25 22

"turn up" tiene el mismo significado que "appear" luego las dos definiciones deberían ser dadas por válidas.

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

WalterSinho 14 5 3 2

Por qué DOES y no DO ??

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Yerrick 25 23 22 9 7 104

Porque "does" se utiliza en la tercera persona del singular, y "do" se utiliza en todos los demás. Es como todos los verbos que terminan con o sin una "s", en ese sentido.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ivandmp 16 3

Por que va "ON" y no "IN", podría ser:

That word does not appear in the list ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

BarbaraMorris 25 25 25

Sí, podría ser "in the list". Para mí, "on the list" suena extraño.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

YouOnlySmi 10

No puede ser there is not that word in the list ????

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

catalina548873 4

No me parece

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

omarzgh 11 9

"Esa palabra no aparece en la lista" y "Esa palabra no está en la lista" son dos oraciones que tienen el mismo significado. Ya que si no aparece es porque no está.

-10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ulisesakab 25 110

Pero pone aparecer. Estar y aparecer no son sinónimos.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

612 coucou

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6625434>

coucou, je suis nouvelle ici.

Give Lingot12

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

IEnjoyEnglish 12

cc moi nn mais sur l'ordi oui :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IEnjoyEnglish 12

Bonjour à tous !!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Hello! me too. I love this site. It's great! I hope that my english is going to improve quickly.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sangoten112233 5 5 2

moi aussi

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sterenn79 7

je vous adores tous

1ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

IEnjoyEnglish 12

nous aussi nous t'apprécions !!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Xavyerlapointe0

[illegible]

0000000000000000000000000000000000000000000000000000000M!!!

[illegible][illegible]

UCOU

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

613 "It is possibly an elephant."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6510645>

Translation: Es ist möglicherweise ein Elefant.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

16 Comments

martinhoehener 8

warum kann es nicht auch es ist wahrscheinlich ein elefant heissen?

13ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Abendbrot 13 12 12 8 4

Das Wort für "wahrscheinlich" heißt "probably", nicht "possibly".

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Claudia FL 11

Bin auch für wahrscheinlich :- ) möglicherweise sagt kaum einer in good old Germany :- ) jedenfalls nicht im Rheinland.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dimitris949260 22

Warum überhaupt das Leben so komplizieren wenn du schonmal vorher "possibly" alls möglich gelernt hast, dann jetzt wäre doch einfacher " möglicherweise" zu merken als " wahrscheinlich"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

grixi774 8 7

es kann sein das es ein elefant ist?

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

JohnnyCorn99 17 13 7

"Es ist ein Elefant vielleicht" - Kann das ein korrekt Antwort sein?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Abendbrot 13 12 12 8 4

Das Wort "vielleicht" passt wesentlich besser an eine andere Stelle: "Es kann vielleicht ein Elefant sein."; "vielleicht" wird zu "perhaps" übersetzt. Darum kann dies keine korrekte Antwort sein.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bs-Tio27 16

warum kann man nicht den Konjunktiv verwenden? Es könnte ein Elephant sein?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Abendbrot 13 12 12 8 4

Duolingo bevorzugt Übersetzungen, die möglichst nah am Originalsatz sind. "könnte" kommt von "können" und es ist keine Verbform von "können"(=can, could) im englischen Satz vorhanden. Aus diesem Grund wird der Konjunktiv mit "können" ausgeschlossen.

It could be an elephant.=Es könnte ein Elefant sein.

Anmerkung: Elefanten sind seit 1996 ausgestorben und leben seitdem als Elefanten weiter. :-)

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

andi465096 9

es ist eventuell ein Elefant?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Druckles 25 25 22 18 1349

Ich habe die gleiche Frage. Kann man dieses Wort hier nutzen?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FHirtzel 14 3

Mir geht es wie andy465096. ich habe den gleichen Satz aufgeschrieben wie er. hm...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Inderbitzlin 20 19 13 131
Weshalb ist "vermutlich" falsch?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

cdoubleplusgood 11
Bei mir wird "vielleicht" als "vielleicht" korrigiert.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jb1273 10
Das Wort Womöglich kenne ich nicht. Wahrscheinlich wird mit falsch bewertet. Also lernt man nicht nur neue Englische Wörter, sondern auch gleich Deutsche.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

PeterStockwell 23 22 15 11 4 694
Possible = Möglich Probable = Wahrscheinlich vielleicht = perhaps
It is perhaps an elephant, it is possible but not probable.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

614 "La carne es excelente."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/811183>
Translation: The meat is excellent.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
39 Comments

Sabuzito 10
En algunos ejemplos mencionan carne como BEEF y ahora que puse beef me la dan por mala respuesta.... Por que?

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

esiquioescalante 16 4
Es que "meat" en general es carne( de todos los tipos) , y "Beef" es específicamente carne de res.

16ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

isaurachb 11 3
Beef es carne de res, pork es carne de puerco... si no se especifica el tipo de carne entonces es meat

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

manipaquia- 7 3

A mi tambien me paso eso

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

VanessaU. 14 6 3

no se! yo tambien puse eso, y me la pone mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

valeria.mildreD1 12 4

Porque beef es carne de puerco y aqui solo es carne suerte

-4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

berenice.e2 10

Beef se refiere a carne de res pork se refiere a carne de puer o

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

roldanalfonso 2

Cuando la palabra totaliza un genero(en este caso,toda la carne es buena),se suprime el articulo definido "the";si decimos que:la verdad es buena, se escribirá:TRUE IS GOOD y no THE TRUE IS GOOD.

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

writchie4 25 20 16 11 1269

Tienes razón, pero ese no es un buen ejemplo. "True" no es un sustantivo, sino un adjetivo y por eso, las frases no tienen sentido. Las frases correctas serían "Truth is good." y "The truth is good.".

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DaniGt2 16 9 1

Go vegan

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DaniGt2 16 9 1

Go vegan!!!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kevincorona22 11 6 4 3

Por que no es correcta la frase en ingles "The meat it is excellent" cuando usar el "it is" y solamente el "is". De ante mano les agradezco su apoyo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lufloidio 19 18 17 16 15 6 4 681

El it se usa cuando no hay sujeto, en este frase ya existe un sujeto «meat», si se usa el «it» serian dos sujetos, eso es erroneo.

6ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

JosueSerra8 12

excelente respuesta me aclaro muy bien mi duda ,gracias

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ManuelTole5 12 9

Como dice "la carne es excelente" se traduce 'meat is excellent' para mi. Si dijera la carne esta excelente, se traduciria "the meat is excellent" porque nos referimos a un tipo de carne en especial, no hablamos en general

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

kevincorona22 11 6 4 3

Gracias

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GeybyTatia 10

Puse great :/ en vez de excellent

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anemix9 10 5

When we are refering to a noun in a general sense, is innecessary the definite article.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

carlos200772 20

Por qué no es correcta la frase en inglés "The meat it is excellent" cuando usar el "it is" "is it" y solamente el "is" no he comprendido bien o que pasa alguien me puede ayudar

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cardonapepe 12 9 8 2

O escribes the meat o escribes it. En una oración el pronombre remplaza al sujeto.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Brenda229256 9

por que no puede ser beef?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dulce-Guzman 13

I have shirts

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lidiamg_ 8 2

Porque hay que poner 'Is' (the meat is excellent ) y no 'it',Que hay de diferencia?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Leydafig 7

Tenia la misma duda cuando se usa "beef" me quedó claro todo

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MelinaCurr1 16 14 5

Hola yo voy por el 41 por ciento de fluidez en este momento,Me encanta Duolingo

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

crodriguezcr 12

Puse "The meat is perfect" y no me lo aceptó. Que opinan, excellent puede ser sustituido por perfect? Definitivamente no significan lo mismo, pero podría entenderse lo mismo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Iliana692357 10

No es lo mismo perfect por que significa perfecto y estarias diciendo que la carne es perfecta y no excelente definitivamente no es lo mismo tienen diferentes significados

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreaVive5 9

Hola, en esa pregunta coloque BEEF y me la pone como mal la respuesta. Alguien me puede explicar? Gracias.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

ammer_ester 13 5 3

beef significa carne de res y meat significa de todas las clases de carne

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Edgart90 13

Steak no es carne tambien?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

DanielMart156408 11

Not

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Danery20 13 2

cuando es que se utiliza it is y cuando solo is

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

hanspolner 11 37

Y cuando se usa food? Gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

Santiago334546 10 3 1

ok, me pasó lo mismo. Digamos que tienen razón

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Jhonsoqui 11 5

puse steak y me da mala respuesta

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

jhondead18 17

puse meet >.< y perdí un corazón

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ateskatl 16 2 2 2

Es que debe ser MEAT, no meet. Suerte.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

615 "El texto es largo."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/857356>

Translation: The text is long.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

Miguel.Pineda 18 11 3

Que tal... the text is large

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Luis-PR 23 19 14 11

"Large", a pesar de su parecido a la palabra española "largo", significa "grande". "Largo/a" es "long".

19ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KenyaGomez5 11

No, large significa grande

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

andres12k 18

cual es la diferencia entre long, large, big?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luis-PR 23 19 14 11

"Long" es largo/a. Tanto "large" como "big" significan "grande".

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

JOSEPHISAA3 12

puse: the text is big, y me puso mal, me pueeen aclarar eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

psaylock 16 141

It is a long text!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

jivf_20 13 3 2 2

Pregunta: ¿"Long" podría traducirse como extenso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

JuanPablo16316 12

Longer?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

gutivalca 13

[deleted]

Give Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

SusanaGarc2 15 6 5 42

Y large? Por qué no vale?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KenyaGomez5 11

Significa grande

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

SusanaGarc2 15 6 5 42

Gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

chatee 25 14

It is a long text. Que hay de malo en esta respuesta?

-3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Babella 17 14

It is a long text = Es un texto largo.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

616 "Ambas hojas de papel tienen la misma forma."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/695435>

Translation: Both sheets of paper are the same shape.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment

75 Comments

garagonp 21 16 7

No estoy seguro si esto es incorrecto: both paper sheets have the same shape

72ReplyGive Lingot4•3 years ago

jmullen 24 20 16 11 10 10 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 2

Ambos "have" y "are" son correctos en este contexto, pero la frase "...is/are the same shape" es más común.

23ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

victorcasanovas 14

admirable cantidad de idiomas

4ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Talca 25 13

You and me, Victor. We are just trying to learn Spanish and English!!

3ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

GerardoSan520280 12 2

Hey my friend What are you studying? and where are you From?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

LoreKaz1 16

de donde aprendes tantos idiomas si en duolingo solo hay como seis disponibles?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

MigueTapia 18 2

tengo la misma duda, yo pienso que esos seis idiomas son para aprenderse desde el español pero a lo mejor desde el ingles o otros hay mas idiomas

3ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

afrodita_2013 14 5

Pienso que es correcto

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Talca 25 13

@garagonp: I am not sure if this is wrong: Both paper sheets are the same shape. Soy anglohablante. To be honest, "paper sheets" is a little strange. More common to say: "Sheets of paper."

5ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

jonathan529778 18

Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

CieloCielo2 14

Supongo que si, pero seria has

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

cebexe28 23 49

CieloCielo2...No puede ser HAS porque es plural

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

diegoamora 9 3

Yo escribí lo mismo. Pienso que también es correcto

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JuanRodri-123 8

Esta es la correcta pq primero va el tipo de hoja!!!! Jumm

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GamalielPQ 15 7 3 2

Thats what i thought :/

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jargtuscani 10

Es correcto

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Johan.420 17 10 2

Me aceptó 'have'

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LizbethAdiana 11

Creo que esta es la oracion correcta: Both paper sheet have the same shape. La respuesta "correcta" se me hace engañosa.

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Zaragozano_2014 19 18 8 808

Has puesto "sheet" en lugar de "sheets", se refiere a hojas en plural, pero si, tanto "sheets of paper" como "paper sheets" son correctas. La traducción del programa tiene que mejorar, pero no veo que se haga en muchos casos.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lindohyper 16

Estoy de acuerdo contigo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

luis-Alberto48 12

Tengo la misma duda sobre el uso de ARE en sustitución de HAVE. Quien podría explicarmelo?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

camailon 12 11 9 3 3

Succede que el verbo "to be" remplaza en ocasiones al verbo "to have" que signica tener, pero en un sentido más parecido al de poseer (cosas materiales). Mientras que "tener" años o sentimientos, se interpretan como "estados" de animo, físicos o de tiempo (edad - estoy o soy joven) y por eso se usa am, is o are respectivamente.

Por ejemplo NO se dice " i have 10 years" (tengo 10 años) SINO "I am 10 years old" ( "years old" es opcional).

I am fear NO I have fear

I am cold NO I am cold

I am hungry NO I have hungry

33ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AlciraClavijo 23 9 9 3 235

Muy buena tu aclaración, muchas gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuzDora5 13 2

el significado de ARE es: SON; el significado de HAVE, es: TIENEN.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Miguel.Pineda 18 11 3

pero no puedes traducir todo literalmente... tienes que entender el concepto en inglés...lastimosamente no hay fórmula matemática sino practica y adaptación...."practice makes perfection"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EmilioHarr 14

En inglés no se escribe sheet of paper sino paper sheets

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

yve0408 24 2 48

Ambas hojas de papel son de la misma forma

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

chumer 24 10

Creo que la traduccion mas exacta seria: Ambas hojas de papel SON de la misma forma.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hindra27 25 3

A mí me da como fallo lo msmo: paper sheets.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

vivi2802 12

es lo mismo poner paper sheets

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ceci. 19

Creo que ambas formas se pueden utilizar: PAPER SHEETS or SHEETS OF PAPER. Si alguien por favor, me pudiera explicar? Gracias.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

c.mkultra 11

considero que al hacer comparativos se señala las características del objeto "sheets of paper" y lo segundo es que aveces el ingles si se apegas mucho a la traduccion, por lo cual utilizar "paper sheet" no le da mucho sentido a la oracion. =3

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lapoetapr 21 18

Creo que PAPER SHEETS es la forma correcta.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13

No, we say sheets of paper in English.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•9 months ago

lapoetapr 21 18

Gracias.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

daviddmonsolve 9

no jodas que hay que poner of paper?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PradoFabian 11

"Paper sheets" no es correcto?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

valeestevez 13

tienen es have... son es are...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tavored81 13

No estoy de acuerdo pienso que diría "son la misma forma"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ivanfmartinez 20

(Sheet) y (Blat) significan hojas de papel si escribes PIECES OF PAPER ( Piezas de papel) es otra cosa

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuzDora5 13 2

"leaves" también significa "hojas", igual que Sheets o "pieces", o no?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ociteb 20 17

Cuando un sustantivo hace las veces de adjetivo con respecto a otro nombre ¿no se puede también omitir of y el sustantivo que califica anteponerse al calificado?: sheets of paper = paper sheets.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Geniuss65 18

puse paper sheets y me lo puso incorrecto, ya verifique y deberían marcarlo como correcto

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Panxhk 15

Salio en ingles y no la traduccion?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JulioCesar31418 19 5

Por que "has" me sale mal si se esta hablando de hojas. "Both paper sheets has the same shape"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ManetRiver 25 7

Porque has? No entiendo eso, Gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Oscar_Zelada 13 4

Por qué razón es "Are" en vez de "Have"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GeorginaFallas 25 25 10 16

si esa es la correcta

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hennys1 11 11

Yo lo coloqué correcto e igual me lo tacharon como equivocado

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PedroA.Cab1 15

Y por qué no "Both sheets off paper are the same form." ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Nefertari305 19 9 9 8 6 273

No sé si el ejercicio acepte "form", pero tienes un error en "off" (apagado). "De" lleva sólo una f, "of"

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Puzzycat55 15

No me equivoque nada....yo aprendi que form en ingles es forma en espanol.....

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

EduardoCodas 12

The same form? Podría ser?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

patylingue 18 17 16 11 1
Porqué se usa are y no have?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

dbaezh 18 1
yo lo veo como si el ingles fuera más una razón que una literatura, es como decir.

both sheets of paper are the same shape ... ambas hojas de papel son la misma forma ... pero literalmente sería a mi entender

both sheets of paper are of the same shape

pero no me pongan mucho caso, jajaja 😊, yo también estoy aquí aprendiendo...😊😊😊

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

DaniRamirez4 17
no lo se pero creo que deberia ser both sheets of paper have the same shape, de todas formas pues no se si me equivoco o no

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ana894770 10
No estoy de acuerdo. Are es de son

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Felipot 10
a mi me dio como correcto lo siguiente: "Both pieces of paper have the same shape." que dice ambos trozos/piezas de papel tienen la misma forma... en que parte de esa oración aparece la palabra hojas?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

carmela51 20
pieza: piece hoja: sheet

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

acosta16 9
Rrsondi igual a lizbethadiana no estoy de acuerdo con la respuesta del programa

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

juancarlos1711 15
Paper's sheet is wrong why?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

c.mkultra 11

poner (paper's) le das valor a la palabra como posesivo de algo

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

josep0 15 7

en este caso creo que usar " leaves of paper" es más adecuado

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ecomar1 18 15 15 12 7 7 216

Leaves son hojas de árbol

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Talca 25 13

You're right. Occasionally, you may hear, "May I have a leaf of paper from your notebook?" Sheet is much more common. (Soy anglohablante.)

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

arjos5546 25 25 3

Both leaves of paper..... que tiene de malo... alguien sabe??

-3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Johan.420 17 10 2

Leaf es hoja de árbol

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ramon.sanc5 9

Mu mal esta respuesta xk era l última para pasar de nivel yo escribí "both leaves of paper are the same shape" y me dio error ¡ no puede serrr.....!!!!

-6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ecomar1 18 15 15 12 7 7 216

Leaf: hoja de árbol. Sheet: hoja de papel

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

617 "My mother is my doctor. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8224081>

Translation: Mi madre es mi doctora.

21 year ago

Leave a new comment

20 Comments

palomabf 16
es correcto mi madre es mi medico

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

paco0069 19 16 15 14 13
Lamento discrepar pero "doctor" es válido para hombre y mujer. Otra cosa es lo que esta pasando en España, que para ser políticamente correctos hay que emplear el termino femenino y masculino. Y se han pasado.. miembros y miembras, ciudadanos y ciudadanas...ect.. Pero esto es un curso de idiomas, no de ser políticamente correcto y cuando dices un masculino, en castellano se entiende femenino y masculino. Me recuerda la Vida de Brian.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Merimariela 6
My mother is my doctor, es la correcta

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

frangel98 6 4 2
mi madre es mi doctor

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ThaiberZon 6
Mi madre es mi doctora

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dianamisan 25 8 7
Podría considerarse como otra opción correcta, pero no coincide el género... Madre: femenino
Doctor: masculino

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

isaak83 17 1
Mi madre es mi médico, y me la dan por mala cuando médico engloba tanto masculino como femenino, en alusión a lo de miembros y miembras es anecdótico, porque aunque algún flipad@ feminista quiera separar los géneros de las palabras de toda la vida, siempre a ciertas palabras se dice de una forma que sirve para ambos géneros, y si no, que le pregunten a cualquier persona mayor verás como te responde diciendo que es una chalaura, saludos

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MUNIRssJ 6
oops

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

BlancaDiaz973516 5

Mi madre es doctora tambien esvalido

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JavierMont355592 7

Podian quitar el my

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

elitavivi 7

no entiendo porque dice que la traduccion esta mal mi madre es mi doctora es la repuesta correcta lo toma como error y solo por esto no puedo continuar

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Aurelio1941 10 1

Mi respuesta coincide con la traducción de la pregunta. Por lo tanto existe un error en la lección.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Aurelio1941 10 1

¡La lección adolece de un error!

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Aurelio1941 10 1

¡No puedo seguir la lección porque adolece de un error!

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

carolinasmmi 8

yo hize eso de saltar lecciones y ahi logre avanzar sino es imposible esta erredo en muchas partes

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

rubberorla 6

Me notifica que "mother" no puede ser "mamá", que lo correcto es "madre". Por lo tanto no me valió mi respuesta. ¡Aclaración por favor!

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Mengqi_Z 11 9 5 3

Mi madre es mi médica.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

manuel843 12 1

Que mal pronuncia la grabacion

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

maelo53827 10 1
mama y madre es lo mismo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

618 French tenses

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6133485>

craigory8 8 5 4

How many are there in French? and could somebody explain when you do use them?

Give Lingot
02 years ago

Leave a new comment
4 Comments

-TashaJ- 25 11 6

The tenses used in French to place a verb in time:

Présent : The present.

Passé simple : The simple past.

Passé compose : The past tense.

Passé antérieur : The past perfect.

Imparfait : The present subjunctive.

Futur simple : The future tense.

Plus que parfait : The past subjunctive.

I think this will help:

http://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/standard/french/grammar/past\_tenses/revision/1/ and this:

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/bitesize/standard/french/grammar/> You may also find this useful:

<http://www.gcse.com/french/tenses.htm>

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

driusan 17 10 10 3 3 2

You seem to be confused about the subjunctive. "Imparfait" isn't subjunctive, it's the "imperfect tense" (something that was happening continuously in the past) and the plus que parfait isn't past subjunctive, it's the "pluperfect tense" (something that happened before something that happened in the past tense.)

The subjunctive (present or past) are distinct moods from those (as is the conditional, past or present..)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

centime 25 10 1490

Verb2 Verbe is my favorite French verb reference tool.

<http://www.verb2verbe.com/FrenchConj.aspx?verb=%C3%AAtre&tail=&ref=0&type=query>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Resonance2001 15 11 10 5

There are quite a lot but four are literary only so you could omit them. A great book is something like The Big Blue Book of French Verbs. Some versions have 555 on the front. I started a video series but it wasn't popular so I worked on others <http://youtu.be/aGy0mbCJ0ug>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

619 "Nous avons trouvé la voiture. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7460141>

Translation: We found the car.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

jyngo 21 10 7 492

"Dude, where's my car?"

17ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MKeli 17

Why not trouvée?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NogoBogo 16 16 13 12 7 1

The past participle doesn't agree with the object in number and gender, unless the object comes before the verb (either as a pronoun such as le, la or using "que", as in "la voiture que j'ai achetée"). Anyone please correct me if I'm wrong.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MatthewPenner0 11

The past participle only agrees with the subject if the verb takes ÊTRE, e.g. Elles sont restées. If the verb takes avoir, like j'ai bu, the participle does NOT agree with the subject.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

NogoBogo 16 16 13 12 7 1

Right, I forgot about ÊTRE verbs. Those always agree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

n6zs 25 871

To clarify just a bit, the rule that NogoBogo explains about agreement is in regard to a direct object that appears before the verb (avoir). For example: nous avons trouvé la voiture (no agreement because the direct object is after the verb). Nous l'avons trouvée ("we found it", where "it" refers to the feminine gender "voiture" in which the « l' » is the direct object pronoun (la) representing "voiture").

<http://french.about.com/od/grammar/a/directobjects.htm>

<http://french.about.com/od/grammar/fl/How-French-Agreement-with-Compound-Verbs-Works.htm>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

thelarrypoo 9 9 8 5 5 2 2

[deleted]

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

620 "Há um mapa na parede."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/509645>

Translation: There is a map on the wall.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

25 Comments

hualysson 11

On, in ou at? Qual usar?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MatheusTej 11

IN é em, no, na. (dentro) ON é no, na. (sobre) AT é em, na, no. (lugar)

9ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

luizvitorio 21 17 16 15 13 13 840

<http://meuartigo.brasilecola.com/ingles/in-on-ou-at.htm>

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Wellington620 15

Preposição está pegando!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Tiago_Bastos 18 6

Aqui coloquei in the

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

joshua_tryon 13 7

Boiei.... Por que não aceitou "in the wall"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

capacra 13

Olá joshua_tryon, na frase "in the wall" significa que algo está na parede mas no caso dentro dela, o que não é muito adequado para esta frase, mas caso eu quisesse dizer: "Tem uma passagem secreta na parede", aí sim seria correto utilizar o in, porque é dentro da parede, ou então: tem um rato na parede (tipo o do jerry de tom & jerry), porque o rato estaria dentro da parede. Uma dica pra lembrar de quando usar "in" é pensar na palavra "inside", já a palavra "on" pode lembrada pela palavra "over". Espero ter ajudado, bons estudos !!!

65ReplyGive Lingot5•3 years ago

joshua_tryon 13 7

Obrigado aos dois! Acho que muita gente igual a mim querem aprender bem rápido que não veem o óbvio. rs!

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JSOMOURA 12

O importante é que estamos aprendendo.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jessyka_k 17 5

Porque o mapa está NA parede, SOBRE a parede, em contato com isso. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

avigp 11 3

Porque não Has a map?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

capacra 13

Olá avigp,

Quando o verbo ter tem significado de haver/existir usa-se there is/there are.

Espero ter ajudado, bons estudos !!!

8ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

Andercius23 21 9 5 4

Has é o verbo "ter" e é o mesmo que have, só que é usado somente na terceira pessoa: he, she, it. E acho que o verbo ter have/has é usado somente para criaturas vivas. Por exemplo: "He has a big map of the city": "Ele tem um grande mapa da cidade". Em casos em que ocorre: he, she e it se usa o verbo to has. Espero ter ajudado.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

FernandoZanutto 15 7 3

A pronúncia do duolingo é britânica?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

capacra 13

Não, a pronuncia do duolingo é americana. A pronuncia britânica é um pouco diferente, se quiser ouvir ela, dê uma olhada no youtube, existem alguns seriados, como este:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=6hLTX9HmWRY>

Bons estudos !!!

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

blaprefe39 8

usei there is a map on wall, mas está errado pois não usei the, tenho dificuldade pois nunca sei quando tenho que usar ou não. Alguém pode me ajudar.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mememath 23 14

Nesta frase, o on significa em (sobre), então, se você não pôr o artigo the estará dizendo algo como "Tem um mapa em parede". O on the é o mesmo que em+o/a/os/as, isto é, no/na/nos/nas. Espero ter ajudado.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jeffpinh87 10

On é correto porque é sobre a parede e não dentro dela.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

NilsonBras 14

Uma dica do ON é pensar que o objeto está fixado em algo, podendo ser cola, prego ou gravidade: on the table, on the road, on the wall. Tome cuidado que ON não é somente "em, na", depende muito da situação. http://dictionary.cambridge.org/dictionary/english-portuguese/on\_1?q=on

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

daniele.ca766273 11 6 4

Pessoal mt obrigada pelas explicações! Me ajudou mt!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Monize.duarte 15 2

Eu coloquei a resposta correta e voces colocaram que estava errada. E não é a primeira vez que isso acontece.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

francis.rod01 16 11 9 31

Yeah tô ficando bom! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

fdrtec 18

there is a mapa at wall... deu errado? porque? tem muitas questão em que o "in" dentro... "sobre"... não combinam... e mostra "at"...

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Coimbraa 17 8 1

Por que não "at the wall"?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

paulairiane 11

At the wall, significa posição próxima a parede, on the wall é certo por que esta pendurado na parede, sobre a parede.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

621 Colaboração é tudo. Vamos nos ajudar, uns aos outros?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9521938>

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Pessoal, esta foi uma sugestão da Professora Poliana Bellini. É o seguinte:

O estudante elabora uma frase em Inglês e a publica como comentário (qualquer frase não muito longa, sobre qualquer assunto). Os outros estudantes que se acharem em condições, fazem as correções para que a frase fique correta.

Assim todos nós vamos aprendendo um pouquinho mais sobre a formação de frases e podemos aprimorar nossos conhecimentos. E aí, vamos aprender juntos?

Give Lingot8

371 year ago

Leave a new comment

200 Comments

..BATMAN.. 16 12 2

É uma boa ideia. O problema é que os comentários saem um pouco da ordem conforme as pessoas vão curtindo...rs Vamos lá.. irei marcar o meu como segundo.

2#

O texto não é meu, é uma adaptação do que vi na net, mas escrevi alguns trechos:

One day I was standing at a corner and I saw a pretty woman... walkin' down the street, a woman so beautiful... the kind I'd like to meet... I was thinking "I don't believe you, you're not the truth", she walked past me and I started shouting: "Won't you pardon me? I couldn't help but see you look lovely as can be. Are you lonely just like me?" I was thinking if she wouldn't stop awhile, talk awhile or give me her smile... maybe she come with me and be mine... tonight?!

The unexpected happened: Is she walkin' back to me? I thought. Yeah, she's walkin' back to me. I started a cold sweat, my mouth became dry and my legs were shaking... Suddenly she was standing in front of me and saying: "Desculpe-me, mas eu não falo inglês". Oh pretty woman! I can't believe you don't know duolingo.com!

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

3# Hi Batman how is it going in Gotham city? lol . This text sounds like a song lyrics than a piece of an essay or poem with lots of abreviations in it. Abbreviation in lyrics is pretty common by the way .Other than that, you should be away from it as far as writing goes.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

..BATMAN.. 16 12 2

Oh, Gotham needs me all the time. You're right, it's a joke with the pretty woman song and that has a lot of abbreviations indeed. Thank you for the comment. =)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

I knew it! While I was reading it through I was like " it sounds like pretty woman song' But the lyrics were quite different. Making fun like this you are like the Joker lol

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

..BATMAN.. 16 12 2

"I started a joke
Which started the whole world crying
But I didn't see
That the joke was on me"

:'(

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Lol ..BATMAN..... your text is fun. Sorry, I'm not still able to correct the mistakes of others. Thanks a lot.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CarlaLouback 25 22 12 12 888

Oh Pretty Woman, Roy Orbison. I love this song. It's perfect ! Hahahaha

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luiza.pere2 13

I am so tired but, I gonna carry on!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeonOne 12 5

Good luck Luiza.pere2

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luiza.pere2 13
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AuridanNas 15 11 11
I need learn english, but it's not easy.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
it's very hard, sometimes i feel like giving up.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AuridanNas 15 11 11
Brazilian never gives up

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25
Há duas formas para a sua frase: BrazilianS never give up. ou A Brazilian never giveS up.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AuridanNas 15 11 11
Thank you

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]
Thank you Emeyr !!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391
AuridanNas pelo que vejo sua frase não contém erros. Learn English is very hard... but, let's go... Aos poucos vamos assimilando tudo, sem pressa e sem ansiedade chegaremos lá.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1099
Querer é poder. É possível fazê-lo! Bons estudos e boa sorte no futuro.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391
Eu vou começar:

1#

My friends, today I would like to say that I feel very happy. The sky is blue, the sun is specially hot and the life is beautiful. Do you agree?

Corrijam por favor o que houver pra ser corrigido.

1.Por enquanto devo trocar hot por warm. Especially seria mais adequado, no entanto, specially pode permanecer embora seja uma maneira mais informal de se expressar.

2.Também é melhor suprimir o artigo the antes de life já que "life" é um substantivo abstrato e antes destes pode-se omitir o artigo definido, além disso omitindo-o a frase soa melhor.

3.Eu deveria mudar "hot" para "warm".

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

Hello Carlos , it is really nice to see that you have taken my suggestion and got this chat started so that everybody can interact and learn with one another. I feel a bit flattered even. Regarding to your phrase it is fine as it is. I would like to point out though that when you talk about weather in English hot means muito quente, as vezes ate demais dependendo da conotacao, while WARM means um quente agradável ok. Good effort.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Legal PolianaBellini, sua boa vontade em ajudar comove a gente. É incrível como o Duolingo tem tanta gente com este espirito de compartilhar conhecimento. Obrigado. Não consegui ler todo o seu texto, sinceramente, tive de recorrer ao tradutor, rsrs.

(I must change "hot" per "warm", "must" to "change" and "per" > "to", correct?) > CORRIGINDO =

I should change "hot" to "warm".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

O prazer e'meu Carlos. Nao esta errado, apenas ha uma diferenca entre estar muito quente, as vezes ate demais e estar um calor gostoso e agradável entende? Como Ingles e'uma lingua mais especifica e minuciosa estas diferencas podem mudar o sentido da frase ao ouvido de um nativo. Uma vez estava na praia na Australia ,quando estava estudando Ingles ,e disse q estava hot para um local, entao este australiano questionou "hot or warm"? Por que estava agradável e nao quente tipo Rio de Janeiro no verao rs, e dai ele me deu a explicacao. Quanto ao especially e specially, tem uma explicacao mais aprofundada site da Oxford <http://www.oxforddictionaries.com/words/especially-or-specially> caso queira dar uma olhada..Ah vc escreveu agora I must change "hot" per "warm" correct? , o verbo change vai com a preposicao to ã nao per: change to warm.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Compreendi muito bem, obrigado. Vou ver sim, estou armazenando todos os links aqui para estudar com calma. I can't thank you enough.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Não usaria o "must". O "must" está associado com uma autoridade exigindo algo: You must take your shoes off at airport security. // Americans must get a visa to visit Brazil.

Melhor escrever: should ou ought to. Pode-se usar have to // have got to também, mas essas duas expressões têm mais a ver com uma necessidade mais importante.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Fiquei mesmo com essa dúvida ao escrever, obrigado emeyr!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Poliana and Carlos. Nice explanation from Poliana. But I have a question. Is it used to use "the sun is hot" (or either "warm")? I always use to say the "weather" is warm.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

Luciano there are a few ways to talk about the weather as well as most of subject matters in any language. As you put above, you can also say that the weather is warm, or the weather feels warm. Playing with words is an excellent way to achieve a wide vocabulary and expand your knowledge in English. Thanks for the compliment.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

I've spotted a few mistakes in your message. Looks like you meant 'I 'm used to saying the weather is hot' , - eu costumo dizer que o tempo e' ou esta quente .With the last sentence: I always use to say the "weather" is warm you have to say : 'I'm always used to saying the weather is warm' - eu costumo sempre dizer que o tempo e'quente. But talking about the past the sentence would be 'I always used to say the weather....' eu sempre dizia que o tempo era quente". Present Tense: Pronoun+ verb to be + used+ to +add ing at the end of verb which is gerund. Past Tense: pronoun + used +to + verb. Just stick to the rules and you will be on the right track ok?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Ok! Thanks for the explanation, Poliana!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

No worries.Cheers!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

ferrobattuto 25 22 17 6 5 3

Hello Carl_os, thank you for the invitation. I see that others have given you excellent feedback, so I will not try to duplicate efforts on what has already been said about hot vs. warm or especially and specially. However, I would add that the definite article the is not needed before life. I would say, "...and life is beautiful." Thank you again. This is a great idea, and I agree with you 100% about sharing and learning from one another. Duolingo is a great community for this.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Thanks a million ferrobattuto. Your help was important.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Ta bom! Vejo um erro pequeno, mas vale a pena notar pois há uma diferença entre especially (o que você devia ter escrito) e specially. É isso: Both can be used to mean "particularly." Especially tends to be more formal, while specially is usually more informal:

"Specially can refer to something designed with a distinct/special purpose.

Ex: Specially-trained dogs help blind people walk in the streets. // That room was specially designed for celebrating the Christmas holiday. (There is room for a very tall Christmas tree.)

Especially describes something that can be singled out as better or more than average.

Ex: An especially tall building is extremely tall.// An especially beautiful and sunny day with blue sky makes everybody happy.

A sua frase é muito bonita e descreve o meu dia aqui...o sol, o céu azul...a vida é boa!

edit: Vi o comentario sobre "hot". Aqui em New England, após um inverno longo e muito difícil, o sol quente está muito bem vindo, mesmo!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Oi, Emeyr. Como vai?

Vou te dar um feedback sobre o seu "edit". Haha (Usamos "feedback" em português sem traduzir. A tradução seria "retroalimentação" ou "retorno", mas feedback é mais usado. ^^). Aah, e pronunciamos /fidjibequi/. Hahahaha):

"Vi o comentário sobre "hot". Aqui em New England, após um inverno longo e muito duro [1], o sol quente é [2] muito bem-vindo [3], mesmo!"

[1] - "Difícil" não estava errado, mas acho que "duro" é mais adequado ao sentido que você quis transmitir.

[2] - Neste caso, o correto é o verbo "é". Sei que falantes nativos de línguas não-ibéricas têm dificuldade na diferenciação dos verbos "ser" e "estar". ^^

[3] - O correto é "bem-vindo", mas não se preocupe, tive que olhar no google para confirmar. Ninguém sabe de cór as regras sem sentido para o uso do hífen. Lol

Parabéns pelo seu português. :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Bacana RilkerBH. Sobre o hífen, sobretudo agora com o acordo ortográfico... me embanano todo, rsrs.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Exatamente. Haha

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Rilker:

Dei um lingot para /fidjibequi/. Aquele sotaque brasileiro com palavras inglesas!

Muito obrigada pelas correções. Errando e sendo corrigida...é assim que a gente aprenda (subjuntivo?). O problema de "estar/ser".... acho que sempre vou errar com isso. Eu só acerto os usos mais óbvios: "Eu sou Americana, etc...."

Mas, por favor, me explique por que não posso usar o "ser" aqui. Pois em New England, o sol quente É (realmente) sempre bem-vindo após um inverno longo, duro, e horrível!! A gente fica esperando o "global warming" com muito entusiasmo. ....brincando....mais ou menos. ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Haha

Sim. Gostamos de sílabas (editado).

De nada. É errando que a gente aprende. Não é subjuntivo.

Creio que o subjuntivo no presente é sempre precedido por um "que". Alguém pode confirmar?

Mas vc usou o "ser", "é" é uma conjugação de "ser".

É porque se uma coisa é bem-vinda, espera-se que ela seja bem-vinda para sempre. Haha

Se não é mais falamos " vc/isso/ele(a) não é mais bem-vindo (aqui)". ^^

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Hum. Eu usei o argumento errado. Haha

O argumento correto é que o subjuntivo é o modo verbal que não expressa certeza, e sim uma dúvida ou desejo.

Ex.:

É possível que eu queira. (Presente - Verbo querer)

Se ela tentasse, ela conseguiria. (Pretérito imperfeito - Verbo tentar)

Quando vocês puderem, passem no supermercado. (Futuro - Verbo poder)

No seu caso, você afirmou com certeza. :)

3Give Lingot2•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Outro problema...um monte de subjuntivos em português...para que tanta dúvida!!

Você disse que o subjuntivo no presente é sempre precedido por um "que". Eu vejo um "que" na minha frase é assim que a gente aprenda.

As suas correções são sempre bem-vindas.

edit: Claro, a gente fica presa à ideia que cada vez aparecer um "que", temos que empregar o subjuntivo!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Obrigado emeyr. A particularidade no uso das palavras é importante sim. Meu dia aqui esta também assim como descrito e a vida é boa mesmo. Grato por participar! Espero que outros usuários escrevam suas frases para que aprendamos uns com os erros dos outros e nós com as correções de vocês. Não me canso então de agradecer. Thank you very much.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Uma outra maneira de dizer you're welcome é isso: Thank YOU com ênfase em YOU.

So... thank YOU, Carl!

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Outro dia lí sobre isso, é só enfatizar o YOU. Simples assim.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

Tem mais algumas alternativas de dizer obrigado , so para vc ter uma variacao maior: thanks a lot, thanks heaps, many thanks, thanks a million,'cheers entre outros. Estes sao muito usados . No seu caso com o que quis dizer acima Não me canso então de agradecer. poderia ser : I can't thank you enough. Outro jeito comum e' Thanks, I really appreciate that or it.Tem este video da professora Carina Fragoso no Youtube bem interessante sobre este tema. Eu so diria que o numero 4 : Thanks a bunch eu nunca ouvi nem na tv, midia ou ao vivo..entao seria pouco usado.https://youtu.be/NKZ\_Jay9ALI E falando em thank you tem um outro video sobre variacoes do you are welcome: https://youtu.be/ZI2i\_wDdrYo que vale a pena conferir .

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Wonderful tips. Many thanks!! I know Carina Fragoso, she is great!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

albericopena 25 2 509

I am very satisfied with duolingo. I am leaning english playing it. I stay until late increasing points. I have six thousands now. I am in fourteen degree.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

In your phrase I can only correct the mistakes: - learning - thousands - fourteen - English - Espero ter ajudado. Eu também estou muito satisfeito com o Duolingo. Depois que comecei aqui aprendi muito, antes não sabia praticamente nada. Obrigado por participar albericopena!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

Well, we're here exactly to evaluate each other, so don't get me wrong because I'm doing that! XD First off, it is necessary R to write Learning correctly, specifically, after A.

In English, it's mandatory write E in uppercase in this word.

I think you meant: "Eu fico até mais tarde aumentando pontos.", if so, you should use Later, because Late comes Estar atrasado (Being late), Later is a more appropriate word than late to it contains this expression in this regard.

You could also replace Until for Up.

It is necessary H to write Thousands correctly, specifically, after T.

Might you meant to say: "Eu estou no décimo quarto degrau", if so, Fourteenth results in Décimo quarto in Portuguese, and replacing In for On the can be correct.

If you meant to say: "Eu estou no quarto degrau", you should use Fourth that expresses "Quarto" in Portuguese.

The last possibility that I think the least likely is Fourteen, which turns weird: "Eu estou no degrau catorze".. o.O

Be totally free to correct me now in this comment. Thanks. :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Hi Games: Alberico poderia ter dito : "I stay up until late." ou "I stay up late." (Não usaria later nesta frase.) Acho que a frase completa é I stay (up) until late (at night.) O "at night" é subentendido.

Também: I am on the fourteenth level ou I am on Level Fourteen. Eu prefiro a segunda frase com "L" em maiúscula (importante).

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago gabzerbinatoEng 11 9 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

"degrau" would be "step", and I think he meant "I am on the fourteenth level", instead of "degree" ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

To emeyr and gabzerbinatoEng, how about my English grammar? Did I use some wrong words (including in this comment)? :P

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AdsonM 14 3

If you will have knowledge enough about this language , you might speak with others people or you may read magazines, newspapers abroad.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Uma boa correção foi feita pela emeyr, então AdsonM eu pediria que corrigisse a palavra enough onde você acrescentou um t indevidamente. Obrigado por participar.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

AdsonM 14 3

Thanks for helping me.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

If you have enough knowledge about the language, you might/could speak with other people or you might/could read foreign-language magazines and newspapers. (Normalmente não se usa "will" após "if" - exceto com as exceções de polidez - bastante formal.)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AdsonM 14 3

I'm very grateful

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Je.Suis.Napoleon 25 23 20 15 5 2 719

Sugiro que façam isso com textos pequenos, e não apenas uma frase. O esforço deve ser um pouquinho maior, mas compensa.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Sim a ideia é ótima, como fez o nosso super herói ..BATMAN.. não é JunioCoelho?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Je.Suis.Napoleon 25 23 20 15 5 2 719

ehhe, oi Carlos. Desculpe minha ignorância, mas não entendi o lance do Batman, hahah.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

JunioCoelho eu quis dizer que a sugestão é boa e expliquei que foi o que fez o nosso amigo ..BATMAN.. lá em cima, um texto ao invés de apenas uma frase. Abçs.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1099

Eu prefiro 'and life is beautiful' aqui. Soa mais correta no meu idioma. Acho que 'a vida é bela' é 'life is beautiful'. Mas eu sou apenas um estudante.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

WerlleyMei 23 11 5 4 3

Lahure, você está certo! Antes de substantivos abstratos em sentido genérico, pode-se omitir o artigo definido (regra básica do genérico-específico). No português, ao contrário, normalmente emprega-se o artigo definido nesses casos. Um abraço e parabéns pelo seu português!

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1099

Uma grande explicação Werlley! Obrigadinho e bons estudos no futuro! Tchauzinho.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Valeu pela explicação WerlleyMei. Obrigado. Vou anotar isso pra não esquecer.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Valeu pela contribuição. Já assinaliei isso lá no comentário que contém a frase. Muito obrigado Lahure e seu Português é muito bom, parabéns.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Thanks a bunch. Usar quando quiser agradecer a alguém (fica meio caipira) ou tem este sentido do urban dictionary:

thanks a bunch = sarcastic retort (resposta sarcástica) meaning the opposite of "thank you."

Ex:

Dave spills water (derrama água) on Joe's desk, and Joe says: Thanks a bunch, Dave, that really helped!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

Thanks a bunch foi mencionado no video que sugeri, mas realmente nao conhecia ate entao. Na minha pesquisa diz que e'em tom ironico. Enfim, nem tudo q esta no dicionario e'usado na linguagem do dia a dia . No caso da ironia, o thank you very much tambem pode ser usado neste sentido mudando o tom da voz em um jeito ironico brincando..Americanos usam mais este. Carlos este Forum esta rendendo rs..Proxima frase?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Que bom não é PolianaBellini a intenção é esta. Vamos ver como fica quem sabe prosseguimos... Eita pessoal bacana esse do Duo não é? Muita gente com o espírito de compartilhamento de conhecimento. Bacana demais.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Muito boa a sua dica a respeito do agradecimento emeyr.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

carloshrp 17 6 5

Bom, estou no início do curso mas acho uma ótima ideia. Creio que podemos fazer isso sempre e com o intuito de nos melhorar sempre.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Olá xará, formule uma pequena sentença, não se acanhe. Estamos aprendendo e este é o local correto. Obrigado pelo comentário. Abçs

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

The people really liked her idea! it's amazing! All the people are participating, making this topic a huge source of knowledge! I wish that never ends! ;)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Everyone/Everybody really likeS her idea! It's amazing! Everyone/Everyone is participating, making this topic a huge source of knowledge! I HOPE that IT never ends! (Se usar wish, indica que você duvida ou não acha que vá dar certo.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Neste caso emeyr o S junto ao verbo (like) é porque devemos considerar Everyone/Everybody como um conjunto e assim seria a 3ª pessoa? Não sei se deu pra entender minha dúvida.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Sim. O everybody/everyone é singular. Everyone is participating. Everybody is trying to learn another language.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

Eu poderia utilizar All the people ao invés de Everybody ou Everyone? constatando que todas obtêm o mesmo sentido, apesar de que eu realmente queria expressar na minha frase era especificamente Todas as pessoas e não Todo mundo ou Todos(as)?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Olá games:

Você já pesquisou no "ngrams" para descobrir os usos mais comuns do vocabulário em inglês?

Aqui é o resultado dos usos de all the people, everybody e everyone.

Confere!

https://books.google.com/ngrams/graph?content=all+the+people%2C+everyone%2C+everybody&year\_start=1800&year\_end=2000&corpus=15&smoothing=3&share=&direct\_url=t1%3B%2Call%20the%20people%3B%2Cc0%3B.t1%3B%2Ceveryone%3B%2Cc0%3B.t1%3B%2Ceverybody%3B%2Cc0

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

emeyr, com isso, você quer dizer que é incomum o uso de All the people? Então de acordo com o gráfico, o meu vocabulário americano está parcialmente baseado em meados dos séculos 18 e 19! XD

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Replying to your recent post...The most famous quotation of President Abraham Lincoln comes to mind: You can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time.

Some put an "of" in the quotation: "all of the people". Anyway, if you google "all the people," you won't find many common uses. I can think of the famous song Tell all the people by The Doors, and perhaps a politician might use this term in a speech.

It looks like an easy translation from Portuguese which makes it sound natural for you to use.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Je.Suis.Napoleon 25 23 20 15 5 2 719

Muito boa idéia. Nada melhor q a criação de textos para ajudar na construção de palavras. Vejo como o primeiro passo para treinar a fala.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CephasSB 4

ótima ideia ... The music is a form big and a big help to learn speak english

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Music (sem o artigo) is AN IMPORTANT RESOURCE (recurso) and a big help FOR learning TO speak English. :)

Muitas vezes quando se usa o infinitivo em português, se usa o gerúndio em inglês.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Essa é para gravar então vou repetir:

Muitas das vezes em que se usa o infinitivo em português se usa o gerúndio em inglês.

Já havia reparado mas agora ficou mais fácil entender. Thanks emeyr!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4

I am a bit nervous to write here, but I will try. The fear makes us impotent and It can be harmful to our development.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

I am a bit nervous ABOUT writING here, but I will try. Fear (sem o artigo) makes us impotent, and it can be harmful FOR our development.

You wrote a very nice sentence with very few mistakes. Congrats!!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4
Thanks a lot :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391
Tá vendo não doeu nada AndreMilke e tenho certeza aprendeu mais um pouquinho. Este é o propósito. Obrigado por participar e super obrigado a emeyr por tanta boa vontade em nos ajudar... We are very grateful.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25
É um prazer. Ensino ESL e sempre considero que dou um presente valioso para os meus alunos...."the gift of communication".

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4
Obrigado mais uma vez, cada correção, é um passo dado em direção a fluência.

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4
Sim, mas é difícil sair da inércia e quebrar esta barreira.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luishenriquehso 12 10
Yesterday was holiday and I also don't had what to do. There was a loud sound below my apartment, so I could not sleep. I don't have neighbor above, because I live in the roof. As I didn't want to be lazy, first I shaved my beard, but let my moustache to look like the Einstein. After that, I did a research to find out why don't I eat cucumber, but pickles. So, I found out that I like pickles because the taste of salt. But at the time I went to eat, I let the salt water fall down in my trousers, and as was very cold, I froze like the Subzero.

Obs: Meu inglês é bem básico, mas como eu estou aprendendo 10 novas palavras por dia, tentei fazer uma história com essas 10 palavras.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1099
Para luishenriquehso. Seu progresso no meu idioma parece excelente! Parabéns - não é fácil, eu sei.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luishenriquehso 12 10
Thank you!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Boa ideia. Dez palavras por dia!

Yesterday was a holiday, and I didn't have anything to do. There was a loud sound below/under my apartment, so I could not sleep. I don't have neighborS above me because I live on the top floor. As I didn't want to be lazy, first I shaved my beard, but I let my moustache look like Einstein'S. After that, I did some research to find out why I don't eat cucumberS, but I do eat/like pickles. So, I found out that I like pickles because of the taste of salt. But when I went to eat one/some, I let the salty water fall on my trousers and, as it was very cold, I froze like the Subzero (refrigerator?)

Eu adorei a sua história. Foi muito bem feita. Se você morar no "top floor," talvez seu apartamento seja uma cobertura. (?) Se for, em inglês, se chama "penthouse apartment" ou "penthouse."

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luishenriquehso 12 10

Eu queria dizer que morava numa cobertura mesmo.

Essa ideia de aprender dez palavras todos os dias eu comecei hoje e copieei de duas pessoas. Achei muito interessante. Quem quiser dar uma olhada:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=0xT\_va-8\_h8

<http://formulafluyente.com/>

Muito obrigado mesmo, Emeyer, pela correção. São pessoas como você que nos estimulam a aprender e querer ajudar.

Abraços!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MARNAP1 3

Boa tarde acabei de me inscrever no duolingo

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Laris21 13

OK

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

IamBrazilian 14 10 9 3 43

Ok guys, here we go:

"What do you need that for?"

Is it right? Should I start the sentence with "for what"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

Yes, it is correct: What do you need that for? Para que voce precisa disto? .But in English you would never put 'for what' at the front of a question or sentence ok? Besides, placing prepositions at the end of phrases is very common ,for instance : Who do you work with? Who is this dress by? Who are you waiting for? What are you working on? What is it made of? What do you believe in? What are you keen on? and so on. At times you can leave the preposition out like in the exemple: What do you believe (in)?. In this case the prep in is there to emphasize the question. Whereas in the question " Where are you from" the preposition from must be placed in. Apart from that using preposition at the end of lots of questions and phrases is compulsory.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

IamBrazilian 14 10 9 3 43

Thank you so much! I had a lot of questions about that :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Don't start the sentence with "for what? Ninguém fala assim. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ecuriao

Eu comecei a uns dias a aprender ingles e é muito cool

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

correiapiscila 4

Hi , guys

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DimitriMarinho1 18 9 9

Hi, Priscila. How are you ? =)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Hello. Anyone here likes or swatch family guy, american dad or one other Seth Mcfarlane animacion. They are very funny...

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Sua frase deverá ser corrigida em breve. Eu colocaria of no lugar de "or", another ao invés de "other" e animation ao invés de "animacion".

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

vou levar em conta o que foi dito brigado... pela ajuda

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

É assim que se fala M.D.Olim, muito obrigado por participar. Bons estudos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Does anyone here like or watch Family Guy, American Dad, or one of the other Seth McFarlane animations? ou "Does anyone here like or watch Family Guy, American Dad, or another one of Seth McFarlane's animations?"

NB: se usa o possessivo 's na segunda frase...diferente da primeira onde McFarlane está tratado como "um adjetivo."

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

ok brigado pela correção

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

marcel_carvalho 15 14 14 8 5 4 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 6

M.D.Olim, se você quis dizer Alguém aqui gosta de assistir Family Guy, American Dad ou alguma outra animação de Seth McFarlane, sugiro que retire o of (caso tenha desejado escrever isso) e passe o watch ao gerúndio. Por quê? Porque verbos após to like devem estar nessa forma, e não no infinitivo (não se fala, por exemplo, I like to swim ou I like of swim ou I like of to swim, mas sim, I like swimming). Caso esteja se perguntando onde o of foi parar: a preposição de/of é usada como ligação no português, após o verbo gostar/to like, mas não no inglês.

Agora, caso você tenha desejado escrever Alguém aqui gosta ou de assistir Family Guy, American Dad ou alguma outra animação de Seth McFarlane, sugiro que passe o watch ao gerúndio, tornando-se watching. Por quê? Há duas razões que posso usar como explicação. A primeira é a já dita acima, de verbos após to like passarem ao gerúndio. A segunda é a de que verbos atuando como substantivo (verbos substantivados) no inglês também ficam na forma gerúndica.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Olá Marcel:

Escreveu: "Porque verbos após to like devem estar nessa forma [gerúndio], e não no infinitivo (não se fala, por exemplo, I like to swim..."

That is not quite right. Of course, the -ing (gerund) form can be used after like, but there is a preference in American English for the use of the infinitive. I will quote from the highly-regarded "Practical English Usage" by Michael Swan - Oxford U Press:

"After like, love, hate and prefer both infinitives and the -ing form (gerund) can be used without a great difference of meaning. In Br-Eng, like + -ing is used mostly to talk about enjoyment, and like + infinitive mostly to talk about choices and habits.

In American English, "like + infinitive" is commonly used in both senses."

Ex: I like climbing mountains. (British-Eng) /// I like to climb mountains. (American-Eng)

Google... "What do you like to do?", and you will find many links including a children's song with that title.

"Like + infinitive?" Yeah! We use it a lot!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

marcel_carvalho 15 14 14 8 5 4 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 6

Sorry. I didn't know that. Thanks a lot for the explanation. And I'll read the book you've cited.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DimitriMarinho1 18 9 9

I want to know people who speaks english from differents countries. I wish that for talk about some cultural questions and know a bit more about other reality. I know that Conversation is "English from Portuguese", but who knows anyone from other country add me and we would can talk and change Whatsapp or Facebook. Good Day for all ! Have a nice week.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

DimitriM:

I want to meet people from different countries who speak English. I would like to talk about some cultural questions and know a bit more about their reality. I know that the conversation is English from Portuguese but whoever knows anyone from another country can add me, and we can talk and exchange (information) on Whatsapp or Facebook.

Just a few little mistakes. (Primeiro, a gente "meet" uma pessoa - depois podemos dizer que nós "know" aquela pessoa.)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DimitriMarinho1 18 9 9

Thanks for your helping, Carl_os and emeyr !

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Acho que estamos aprendendo muito por aqui.... Bom demais! Obrigado a todos que estão corrigindo as frases e nos passando dicas valiosíssimas.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

... I wish that to talk about... I think this word is wrong (for). /// ...can talk and exchange Whatsapp or... (change to exchange)

Thanks for contribution yours DimitriMarinho1. For me your sentence seem correct, except two words above. We go wait somebody to correct.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

hello ladies and gentleman. i feel very good. I am studyng english and gonna make one year in august. I see a progress excellent and extraordinary. The duolingo is very good and have give me a up grade on my objective. Thanks so much the everybody.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4

Hello ladies and gentleman. I feel very good. I am studying English and I am going to make one year in August. I see a progress excellent and extraordinary. The duolingo is very good and have given me an upgrade on my objective. Thanks so much everybody.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4

I think is it. I do not use informal language in writing, so I changed the gonna in your quote. I did some other corrections too. I hope that will help you. Someone can help us too and correct more. You did an excellent job, congrats!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

You are right in changing "gonna" to "going to". "Gonna" is just for speaking and quick emails written by teenagers. Some people mistakenly think that "gonna" is "gíria", but it isn't. It is a visual representation of the way we pronounce "going to".

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Correct Emeyr. Good afternoon

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Thanks for contributing a sentence, Felipe. Bons estudos!

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

"I am studying English and I will have studied (terei estudado) on DL for a/one year in August. I see /have seen excellent and extraordinary progress (sem o artigo "o"). Duolingo (sem artigo) is very good and HAS given me help in achieving my objective. ....

(terei estudado = will have studied = future perfect) see = se quiser focalizar no presente /// have seen = se quiser expressar a passagem de tempo do passado até agora)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeonOne 12 5

Hello AndreMilke how are you ?

But the When say "I am studyng english and gonna make" here is already self at the beginning of the sentence because I repeat again with the do? Thanks

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4

Hello Felipe, thank you for ask. I am fine and you? I think that do not exist quotes without subject. So, we need put the subject in your quote. Was this the question?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeonOne 12 5

I am just fine. do not. I wanted to ask was this. Which need to repeat the I AM on the previous initial sentence had been said and was already understood sub for the rest of it?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreMilke 25 25 4

The second I AM is about future. So when I say: "I am going to" is like to say in portuguese: "Eu vou"

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

EdsonCanut1 14 9 23

How can I speak English well? I use to watch tv series, movies and others things also in its original language (English, of course). Is there something more that you have to show me?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-WLHr1\_EVtQ

Brasileiro "Sid" fala em inglês (legendado em português) a respeito das cinco dicas para aprender idiomas estrangeiros. Muito boa...

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

How can I learn to speak English well? I usually watch tv series, movies, and other media in their original language (English, of course) Is there something more that you can show me?/point out to me? (point out to = phrasal verb = mostrar)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

WermesonPe 14 7 2
Vamos lá!

I wanted to buy a english's pendrive and install in me. In a minute to be a english speaker!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5
Hello WermesonPe. Good idea, but (smile) it is impossible. Only studying is the only way out. Good lucky my brother and you will go get.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25
Felipe:

Good idea, but it is impossible. Studying is the only way. Good luck (sem "y" - esta palavra só tem uma sílaba!), my brother, and you will succeed. (Não entendi o "go get".) ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5
Eu queria ter dito a ele Emeyer é que ele iria conseguir chegar no objetivo dele estudando. Dei um erro de acréscimo na palavra Luck rsrs. I'm sorry.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25
A sua frase deu para entender. No problem! Entendo o porquê de você ter acrescentado o y no luck...é uma questão do sotaque brasileiro em que vocês têm uma "mania" de finalizar muitas palavras com uma sílaba extra: i. Acho até meio bonitinho...especialmente quando se pronuncia Hong Kong = Hongi-Kongi!!

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5
A pronuncia é algo muito importante para nós. Claro que o sotaque de berço dificilmente conseguiríamos granjear.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38
FelipeLeon0ne, sotaque é o que nos difere de todos, não devíamos tentar nos livrar dele!

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Mas isso é relativo, games543. Vai da vontade de cada um.

Por exemplo, você pode querer ser diferente de não-nativo adquirindo um sotaque nativo, e assim, impressionar as pessoas. :)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

I wanted to buy an English pendrive and install it in myself. In a minute I would be an English speaker!

(Se for: "want to buy", então o outro verbo será "will be" ....")

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CarlaLouback 25 22 12 12 888

Pelo que sei, não se fala PEN DRIVE e sim "Usb flash drive ou flash drive". Se vc pedir um pen drive nos Estados Unidos não vão te entender. Certo?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

<http://www.snapdeal.com/products/computers-pen-drives>

É só procurar na internet!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CarlaLouback 25 22 12 12 888

Bom, existem muitos links com a explicação do Pendrive, como este por ex .

<http://www.teclasap.com.br/como-se-diz-pen-drive-em-ingles/>. Mas se o Pen drive não funcionar podemos tentar o Flash drive ou o memory stick, esses funcionaram comigo. rsrsr valeu!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Or we can just take the stick on the shelf of any marketplace. Lol We find it everywhere there! ;)

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Flashdrive is much more common than Pendrive. :)

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

I have a doubt about "in myself". Could we use "into myself"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

From ngrams: comparing "in myself" and "into myself"

https://books.google.com/ngrams/graph?content=in+myself%2C+into+myself&year\_start=1800&year\_end=2000&corpus=15&smoothing=3&share=&direct\_url=t1%3B%2Cin%20myself%3B%2Cc0%3B.t1%3B%2Cinto%20myself%3B%2Cc0

Outra maneira de expressar esta ideia (mais coloquial) poderia ser : inside of me. I want to put a penstick inside of me.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Cool! I didn't know that comparing tool! Thinking about flash driver, "in" has more sense than "inside of me". If the usb connection was in the telencephalons, for example, we could say "inside me". But once the usb connection would be something more like an ear (lol), "in me" seems more adequate. Am I right about that? Thanks a lot, Emeyr!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

I agree. Saying inside of me sounds pretty horrible! I don't even want to think about it.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Lol, WemersonPe, if that were possible, would be very good!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Eduardo.moura1973 9

Hi there! This is so nice, enjoy a place that you live. But, The life is too short to be quiet at only one place, i Suggest you lets move, lets discovery the World and his beautiful places and people, let your light shine during the your trip around this awesome planet called EARTH. my txt, - Eduardo Fernandes.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Caro Eduardo.moura1973, vou fazer diferente contigo, vou traduzir e você me dirá se foi isto que você teria escrito:

Olá! Isto é tão bom, desfrutar do lugar que você vive. Mas, a vida é muito curta para ficar quieto em um só lugar, eu sugiro que você se movimente, vamos descobrir o mundo e seus belos lugares e pessoas, deixe sua luz brilhar durante a sua viagem em volta deste incrível planeta chamado TERRA.

Como fui?

1ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Eduardo.moura1973 9

Muito bom!!!! Será que eu passei a ideia errada em alguma palavra?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

It's incorrect to write The before a possessive pronoun (My, Your, Our, Their, His, Her, Its), we can see it in a part of this sentence: let your light shine during the your trip around this awesome planet called EARTH." and also before a abstract noun (there is this: life, in your text): "The life is too short to be quiet at only one place,.."

Talking just about this sentence: "i Suggest you lets move, lets discovery the World and his beautiful places and people,"

"I" always needs to be in uppercase ;).

"i suggest you lets move,..", the correct form of this sentence is: "I suggest that you move," IF you meant to say "eu sugiro que você se movimente," because To suggest, To want, To wish, To need etc, are usually applied IN CASES LIKE YOUR SENTENCE so:

Subject/Individual who is claimed in the sentence + Verb (those I've mentioned) + Individual who suffers the action.

To is applied after as second one when the verb expresses "wish" or "desire" that is not the case of To suggest.

See some examples with literal translations in Portuguese: I want you to buy milk: Eu quero você para comprar (o) leite. He needs her to tell the teacher: Ele precisa dela para contar para a/o proffessor(a). I suggest that you do something else: Eu sugiro que você faça alguma coisa mais.

See that Que is absent in some literal translations, and it's in this way you need to follow when writing in English. :)))

Let's needs the apostrophe, otherwise it would mean: (Ele/Ela) deixa/permite. instead of "Vamos".

Talking just about this sentence: "lets discovery the World and his beautiful places and people"

Nouns don't have genres in English, so you must use Its for World because it does not have any real genre, Its is specific for this.

By the way, your phrase is really inspiring! ^^ I hope that it helps you! :)))

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Eduardo:

It is so nice to be able to enjoy the place where you live. But life (sem o artigo) is too short to stay quietly in just one place. I suggest that you travel (1) and discover the world and its beautiful places and people. Let your light shine during your travels around this awesome planet called Earth.

(1) subjuntivo em inglês: Para todas as pessoas menos a terceira pessoa singular, a forma do subjuntivo é exatamente como o indicativo.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aprendizdez 7

Hi, how do i coming at the community? I want to speak english with anybody here, How do i do?
Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Hello aprendizdez. You already be in the community! Make your phrase or text, to participate.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

"You are already in the community! Write your phrase or text to participate.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

A gente acaba aportuguesando as frases, ou seja, acabamos utilizando palavras em inglês mas as escrevemos numa estrutura semelhante a do português. Sinto que esta é minha maior dificuldade no momento. Precisamos nos livrar disso... mas, embora seja difícil, não desistamos. Obrigado emeyr mais uma vez.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Todos nós temos esse problema...se chama "language interference" e é normal que a gente seja influenciada pelo idioma nativo. Quando ensino brasileiros a falar inglês, sempre sei quais (?) são os erros que eles vão fazer. Como o Rilker notou, os falantes nativos de inglês sempre têm problemas com estar/ser. Para mim, isso representa um quebra-cabeça!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Ok, compreendo. Mas saberia, ou poderia me dizer o que ou como podemos nos livrar ou ao menos minimizar esta influência minha prezada emeyr? Só com o tempo mesmo?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Hi everyone! To follow Carl_os suggestion, I will talk about my first travel to foreign lands. I was a little hobbit at the Shire. One day, a man knocked my door and offered me a job. He wanted I were a thief. So, I thought: "Wow! That' not a good job for a honesty hobbit! No, no, no!" So he said... - My dear hobbit, I know what you bring at your heart! You're noble, you're good. But, sometimes, we have to improve and break some old conceptions. What you have to steal we'll bring back to the real owner. You're a small guy, soft at your steps. So you could take the gem without be seem. - Perhaps, but I have water and bread. My place and my head. Why shall I need to risk myself hard in a so strange quest with a wizard? - Because - he said - you say you are satisfied, but by your eyes you're betrayed. You seek adventures far from the Shire, where lives your desire. So I accept the job. Of course, I'm not so easy to convince. But sometimes, you have to follow your heart. And my heart wants to go beyond the mountains, beyond the horizon.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

....I am going to talk about my first trip to foreign lands, I was a little hobbit in the Shire. One day a man knocked on my door and offered me a job. He wanted me to be a thief. So, I thought: "Wow! That is not a good job for an honest hobbit! No, no, no! So then he said: "My dear hobbit, I know what you have in your heart! You're noble, you're good. But, sometimes, we have to improve and discard some old conceptions. What you steal, we'll bring back to the real owner. You're a small guy who walks softly. So, you could take the gem without being seen.

Perhaps, but I have water and bread. My place and my head. Why should I risk myself in such a strange quest with a wizard? Because, he said, you say you are satisfied, but your eyes betray you. You seek adventures far from the Shire (where lives your desire??) So, I accepted the job. Of course, I wasn't so easy to convince. But sometimes, you have to follow your heart, and my heart wants to go beyond the mountains, beyond the horizon.

Not many mistakes!!! And your last sentence was very poetic, Luciano.RJ. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Thanks, Emeyr!!! To complement, I have two questions about my mistakes: 1. When do I have to use "in" or "from"? For example, "I was a kid ___ Brazil (eu era um menino lá no Brasil). 2. Why don't we use to say "I am not so easy..." instead "I wasn't so easy..."? 3. Here is just an appointment: I tried to use passive voice, just to show the wizard as a old man: "by your eyes you're betrayed"... Ops! I think the correct would be "by your eyes you were betrayed"...

Thanks again, Emeyr! :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

(1). "in and from" You are in Brazil right now, and you are also from Brazil. (A native of Brazil.) Based on your "name" you are probably in Rio de Janeiro right now.

(2) You can say "I am not so easy to convince." I could/should have left it that way, especially since much of the dialogue is in present tense.

(3) "by your eyes you're betrayed." I wrote "your eyes betray you" (active voice- present ) but you can also say: "Your eyes have betrayed you." (active voice -present perfect tense) ...or "You were betrayed by your eyes" (passive voice - simple past) ....or "You have been betrayed by your eyes" (passive voice - present perfect tense)!

I guess it would be very poetic to turn that sentence around: "By your eyes, you have been/were betrayed. (A hobbit wouldn't speak like a normal human being) :)

Anyway... a really good job and the very best way to make progress is to write and learn from your mistakes - of which there were not many!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luciano.RJ 11

Thank you again, Emeyr! Very clean explanation!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dribeir2 22 22 1

A phrase and not a text. Why the persons do not read it?

It is a good idea.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dribeir2 22 22 1

AdsonM, I agree with you. We could record and listen to us voice.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MARNAP1 3

gostaria de ajuda estou voando ainda.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

I have seen who more on duolingo that when you have to write something in Portuguese. Automatically I write in English. That would be a sign that I'm already familiar with the language anymore?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Primeira frase: Não entendi muito bem o que vc queria dizer.

Segunda frase: perfeito

Terceira: That would be a sign that I'm already MORE familiar with the language. (Escrito assim..não é uma pergunta)

"Would that be a sign that I'm already more familiar with the language?? That's a question, and your sentence was really good.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

rsrs Nos exercícios do duolingo quando pede para traduzir do inglês para o português. Eu ao invés de escrever em português, escrevo logo em inglês. Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Emeyr I MISS YOU HERE. For where you walks ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Querido Felipe! Obrigada pelo sentimento! Na verdade, mudei de casa. Isso significa que eu tinha muito a organizar, arranjar.. que me deixou pouco tempo para o DL...mas estou de volta!

A sua frase : "For where you walks...significa Para onde você anda?

In English I would say: Where are you? What are you doing? What's up? What's going on?

Agora você sabe...

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

rsrs Que bom que está tudo bem. Sucesso no seu novo lar.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Obrigada!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Nobody answer more here ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Qual é a dúvida, fera?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Hello RilkerBH eu até coloquei abaixo, mas vou informa-la novamente aqui.

Teve essa questão "They consider me a friend". O duolingo não aceitou Eles e colocou como resposta certa ELA me considera um amigo. Creio que tenha algo errado, pois They= Eles. O que você acha ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Sim, está errado.

They = eles/elas

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Eu acertei e eles colocaram como errado.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PolianaBellini 9

Eles fazem isso frequentemente. Já enviei algumas mensagens notificando e não acertaram isso. O corretor deste site é bem fraco e frustrante. Muitas pessoas vão desistir de fazer os exercícios. Eu fazia com meu sobrinho para auxiliá-lo e acabamos desistindo devido a este problema.

Eu REPORTEI o problema mais de 15 vezes sem nenhuma resposta!! Acho que o Duolingo não faz nada para mudar isso pois ou as pessoas não percebem o ERRO do site, ou percebem mas decidem não reportar. Duolingo vamos melhorar isso!

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24

Mas vcs têm que reportar o erro é no próprio exercício. Logo após terem errado uma resposta que vcs acham que está certa, reporte o erro.

Assim é muito mais fácil de os colaboradores do site corrigirem o erro.

:)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeonOne 12 5

Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AdsonM 14 3

I've only just had an idea. Duolingo should have a bit users sounds here. Is there that anyone agree?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeonOne 12 5

Today i have a proof the course. I desire and i hope who will go well. Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Today I have a test in my/the course. I want and hope (that) it will go well.

Felipe: "desire" é menos usado / mais formal. Eu sempre penso que a rainha Elizabeth fala assim: "I desire to see..." ou quando - formalmente - vai fazer uma queixa numa loja dizendo "I desire to see the manager." (gerente). Soa meio antigo.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeonOne 12 5

You believe who i would using the word (want), at the time i switched rrsrrs My addiction is an automatic to be too formal. Thanks Emeyer I passed and i'm happy.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

You are addicted to being automatically too formal? (Não é uma pergunta verdadeira. Estou repetindo o que você escreveu para confirmar que eu entendi bem.)

That's okay. Precise and grammatically-correct language is never a bad thing. (Less chances for being misunderstood (malcompreendido).Congratulations on passing your test. Keep up the good work! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Hi Emeyr thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Nessa questão They consider me a friend. O duolingo não aceitou Eles e colocou como resposta certa ELA me considera um amigo. Creio que tenha algo errado, pois They= Eles.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emeyr 25 25

Olá Felipe. You are correct. They consider me a friend. Pode ser Eles (ou Elas).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Thanks Emeyer

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Candy= doce

Por quê o Duolingo não aceitou ?

Pergunta foi. ESTA MAÇA É DOCE

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38

Você deveria ter utilizado "sweet", pois refere-se ao sabor doce, tanto de sentido figurativo ou literal, usa-se este. Enquanto "Candy" refere-se à doces ou melhor, doce de açúcar!

Candy: Doce de açúcar/Doce. - Candies: Doces de açúcar/Doces

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5

Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

games543 24 15 10 8 4 2 38
No problem.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RilkerBH 17 16 15 10 24
Candy nunca vai ser adjetivo, só substantivo ou verbo

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FelipeLeon0ne 12 5
Thanks

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

622 How do I make a video attachment for a bug report?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204814174-How-do-I-make-a-video-attachment-for-a-bug-report->

On the web, you can use an application to record a video of the bug. This is especially useful if you are running into problems that cannot be captured in an image, such as an audio problem.

To capture video of your steps, you can download a screen recording extension for your browser. Please read the descriptions and reviews carefully.

Chrome Addons

Firefox Addons

There are also downloadable applications for your Windows or Mac computer that can record video:

Jing — free (limited storage).

CloudApp — free (limited storage).

Record a clip and attach it to your Bug Report by clicking on "Add File" or dragging the file from your computer to the rectangle that looks like this (it's at the bottom of the Bug Report page).

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

623 – 659 of 911

[accessed March 21, 2017]

623 Poesia e Idioma

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7546946>

neilhanscj 11 7 2

La poesia es el rocío que nutre el alma y los sentimientos.. pero el idioma, el idioma nos da la libertad de nutrir a cada ser vivo de este planeta que esta en espera de escuchar aquello que lo alentará a convertirse en mejor persona.. mejor ser humano!!

Traduce esto a tu idioma nativo!!

Neil HaNs

Idioma nativo: Español

Give Lingot
22 years ago

Leave a new comment
4 Comments

no.name.42 25 25 25 14 13 10 10 8 7 7 5 4 3 3 924

Poetry is dew that nurtures our souls and emotions... but language, language is freedom to nurture each living being on this planet that is waiting to hear, which will encourage you to transform into a better person... a better human being!

English.

No estoy seguro de que entendí todo del español correctamente.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

neilhanscj 11 7 2

observa lo que mi traductor dice (see what my translator says):

"La poesia es el rocío que nutre el alma y los sentimientos" (Poetry is the dew that nourishes the soul and feelings)

"pero el idioma" (but the language),

"el idioma nos da la libertad de nutrir a cada ser vivo de este planeta que esta en espera de escuchar aquello que lo alentará a convertirse en mejor persona.. mejor ser humano!!" (the language gives us the freedom to nurture every living being on this planet who is waiting to hear what will encourage him to become a better person .. better human being)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

neilhanscj 11 7 2

Pues esta bastante bien.. si has entendido bastante el español.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

elisabvalero1234 13 10 5

La poesía alimenta el alma y nos acerca a Dios . Los idiomas son como ángeles que cada vez mas nos acercan a Él... Felicitaciones hermoso escrito amigo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

624 "Elle joue de la flûte depuis qu'elle est petite."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/758671>

Translation: She has played the flute since she was young.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

22 Comments

feelycya 12

Selon moi, la phrase : " She was playing flute since she was young". Devrait être accepté, car à cause du mot "since" il est possible d'utilisée le past progressive.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

crapaud_rouge 22

since she was a child : est correct aussi !

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

houde3 25 25 6 440

Oui. L'important est d'utiliser le 'preterit' à la suite de SINCE.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

magnolita0 20 19 16

oui

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mamchouillou 12

pourquoi est ce qu'on traduit cette phrase au passé?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Parce que l'action a commencé dans le passé (et continue aujourd'hui). Le français voit comme fait principal que ça continue donc met le présent quand l'anglais trouve important que ça a commencé dans le passé -- mais continue actuellement -- et met donc une forme passé.

Voir, par exemple : http://persocite.francite.com/jennai\_fr/present\_perfect.htm

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Batomouch 25 25 25 25 25 11 10 8 3 2 3

J'ai fait l'erreur aussi, en fait il s'agit du present perfect, qui se traduit en français par le présent simple de l'indicatif.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

houde3 25 25 6 440

Le 'perfect aspect', en anglais, consiste à évaluer où on en est dans telle ou telle expérience. Au présent, comme ici, il s'agit de savoir où en est la personne dans son expérience de 'jouer de la flute'. Elle A (has: présent) toutes ces années de 'être petite' à maintenant, d'expérience. On n'est pas au passé. Le concept différent du français, de ce fait difficile à cerner.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

koutchy 18 8

L'on me dit que play devient plays uniquement quand on emploie. He. She. Ou it et j'ai employé she et ma réponse fut refusée

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Voir ma réponse d'il y a déjà quelques temps à Mamchouillou

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mach2.08 24 18 11

Zut et flute ! (c'est le cas de le dire) DL propose en français la phrase "Elle joue de la flûte depuis qu'elle est petite." Au vu des exercices que je me tape régulièrement depuis quelques temps, c'est un classique du present perfect et DL nous offre une deuxième possibilité : She has been playing the flute since she was young. Alors ? Réelle variante (qui s'expliquerait comment, au passage ?) ou nouvelle ... boule dans le potage de DL ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aaayuget 16 7

Merci pour les explications

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sebastienp223412 13 7 2

Et mettre une erreur parce qu'on ne met pas le the: en anglais on coupe tres souvent l'article, surtout ici the flute ca fait tres bizarre

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Xale1 10 2

"since she was a kid" n'est pas correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

625 "The watch on the desk is mine. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2090506>

Translation: L'orologio sulla scrivania è mio.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

16 Comments

VittoColombino 11

l'orologio è sul tavolo può passare?

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sirioog 25 7 2

desk si riferisce a banco di lavoro, per tavolo usi sempre table

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Elenanocif 10

Tavolo é table. Desk é specifico di scrivania o cattedra

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Watch si porta al polso, clock al collo o sul muro

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Erikaciak 8

Quand'è che si utilizza watch e quando si utilizza clock? qual è la differenza tra i due visto che entrambi significano orologio? grazie

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

federico.m27 13

Watch e da polso mentre clock e da muro

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

andreakova3 15

Scusate ma qui c'è scritto scrivania nella traduzione non banco, quindi non capisco perché tavolo sia sbagliato

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

federico.m27 13

Tavolo e sbagliato altrimenti avrebbe detto table

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

88Macchia88 8

Io ho tradotto desk come cattedra, attingendo ai ricordi di scuola. Non può essere corretto?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annamaria.746099 9

Io ho scritto tavolino...puo' andare? Naturalm me l'ha dato errore...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

onitaga88 14

L'orologio da polso è sulla mia scrivania. perché è sbagliato???

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

giuseppe.v619749 8

Ho scritto nella scrivania e .....mi ha dato errato!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SilvanaBer11 12 8

La risposta e' esatta perche' mi da errore?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LidiaFacch 11

Scrittoio o scrivania non è la stessa cosa

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DomenicaMa180541 15

L:orologio sulla scrivania e mio

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

MrCorwin 10 9 6 3

Quando parlo in inglese mi prende sempre le risposte, in italiano mai. Come è possibile?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

626 Missing words in lessons

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19215919>

housestark25 9

I had posted this in the Turkish forum and I was suggested to move it here. Following is what I had posted:

I don't know if this has been asked before, but as of late I've noticed that one or two words usually don't appear when learning a specific lesson in a skill. However, if you go back and strengthen that skill, those words appear and I have no idea what those words mean (since I didn't come across them in the first place).

For example, I'm currently learning the Numbers skill and there are words like "yarısı" and "çoğunluk" that I can clearly see in the lesson preview but they do not appear when learning those respective lessons.

I don't know if this a common theme in duolingo, but if there is a fix to this, please let me know!
Teşekkür ederim! :)

Give Lingot
43 months ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

Cam_and_Alex 20 16 10 10 9 7 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 135

This is indeed a problem that plagues Duolingo from time to time. The best way I can think to still learn the words is to make sure all of the words the lesson says it will teach are covered (as you clearly have), make a notebook of the words and fill them in as the lesson covers them. If the lesson neglects to address a word, look up the meaning and write the word in a few different sentences to help it cement inside your head. Hope this helps, as there isn't much more that can be done for it. =)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

housestark25 9

And that is exactly what I do haha! I thought it was only happening with me. Let's just hope Duolingo notices it and fixes it asap. Nonetheless, thanks much for the advice! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Cam_and_Alex 20 16 10 10 9 7 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 135
No problem. =D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

b05aplmun.ca 25 19 810

I actually don't see that this is much of a problem for anyone who reviews the lessons regularly. Does it really matter if the word comes up on the third time through, rather than the first?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

housestark25 9

Frankly, to not come across those words in the first place feels a bit disoriented to the flow of language learning, especially to one who maintains a notebook for the vocabulary learnt in each lesson. And so, those words are easily forgotten; aren't as strong as the other words. So yeah, it does matter :)

And just because it's a minor glitch doesn't mean it shouldn't be fixed :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

627 Progress increasing but fluency decreasing?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10988788>

Fhaded 19 11 6 3

As you can see, I am quite new to duolingo. I started my Spanish tree on the 4th of this month. So far, I am really enjoying the program and have learned a great deal. HOWEVER: when I took the placement test to get in, I started with 11% fluency. As I have progressed through the lessons over the past week, I have gotten from level 1-7 and, yet, my fluency measure keeps decreasing. It went from 10, to 8, to 6, and now is at a dismal 5%. I'm not sure why this is since I've been progressing in every other measurable way.....Any thoughts?

Give Lingot
01 year ago

Leave a new comment
3 Comments

LeCalvo 25 15 11 4

In my opinion is weird but, maybe you are not practicing again the units that you already know. According of what I know the fluency is calculated according to the words that you practice and if you don't practice the words that you have learned the fluency starts decreasing.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

matfran2001 22 21 21 20 18 16 16 15 15 12 7 6 6 2 543

Another user said the fluency score depends on total XPs accumulated, the amount of errors you make when doing the lessons, the speed, the practice (keeping your tree golden helps)...

Anyway, don't even look at the fluency score. It does not represent your "real" level in any way. For example, I started German from scratch five weeks ago and now it says I am at level 12 and fluency score 35% (though it varies slightly from day to day).

I also started both Italian and French from scratch two weeks ago, and it says I am at level 10 (with fluency 30%) and level 8 (with fluency 27%) respectively.

But even though after these few weeks I now can understand (with quite an effort) some written German, Italian and French, I still have huge difficulties when trying to speak those languages with native speakers, it does not flow effortless yet (like Spanish or English do).

So what does it mean to have 27% or 30% or 35% fluency anyway?

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

b05aplmun.ca 25 19 810

Most people don't take the fluency score terribly seriously. That said, my guess as to why it's dropping is that Duolingo thinks it's been too long since you practiced some of your vocabulary. If you knew enough Spanish to begin with to test out of part of the course on the placement test, you may know some of that vocabulary well enough already that you don't need to practice it as often as Duo thinks you should.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

628 "Vilken stor korv du har!"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5547630>

Translation: What a big sausage you have!

42 years ago

Leave a new comment

18 Comments

jfwelias 13 13 12 10

Looking forward to use this one in real life! There's no way it can possibly go wrong.

200ReplyGive Lingot23•2 years ago

FLchick 25 19 13 9 5 3 2 445

Say this at work and get sent immediately to Human Resources!!!

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

CrazyChao 15 11 10 9 2

And here I was, thinking this would be a Little Red Riding Hood reference. I mouse over the unknown word, and am greeted with sausage. Well played, Duolingo.

93ReplyGive Lingot12•2 years ago

Alkrem 17 11 11 11 8 6 4 3

Is this phrase common in Sweden? )

64ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

gregbyron 15 15 15 15 14 12 11

Settle down, Duo.

37ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

VioletNaelia 21 9 5

This sentence made me laugh out loud. :D

25ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gunya_ru 18

Speaking about the words order, why is it 'du har' instead of 'har du'?

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 6 2 2 110

It's an exclamation – read more about the word order in those here:

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8970470> (at the bottom, under 5).

15ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

airelibre 24 21 21 19 13 13 11

I have found that often (but not always!) the word order in other Germanic languages like Swedish is the word order you find in old-fashioned fairy tales. So in Red Riding Hood, she says to the wolf "What big teeth you have, grandma", the order you find here.

Other times you get orders like "Never have I heard anyone talk so energetically in my entire life" - "Aldrig har jag hört någon tala så hurtigt i hela mitt liv".

So try to imagine how they might say it in a fairytale!

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Aimtofflan 9 6

Not many people ever use the word "hurtigt" which sort of means "quickly" but rather the word "energiskt" in this case.

2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

MauriceReeves 25 20 16 14 14 14 14 13 13 12 10 9 9 7 7 6 3 3 2 2 2 2 969

Just like in English, if you put the verb in front it sounds like a question.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RumenM 25 16

Rereading these sentences makes my day :)

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RJDaae 25 6 663

Does 'korv' not require an article? I noticed that it didn't have one on another phrase, as well.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Zmrzlina 14 13 12 10 4

It doesn't in an exclamation like this, where it goes with "vilken".

10ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Weebusaurus 15 5 4

Wait what

3ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Diebbro 12 10 6 4

Hehe, I know right? :^)

2ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Adi.little.poet 14

Can't wait to use it on my crush lol

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

MarkBorkBorkBork 15 10 2

Holding a falukorv today reminded me of this!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

629 "¿De qué color es la falda?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/273412>

Translation: What color is the skirt?

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

83 Comments

sebgaga 17 9 7 7 35

pensé que se agregaba "of" al final ,que estupidez en ingles si se complican la vidas.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Morelos 10

No te sientas mal, vamos aprendiendo. Además esta bien equivocarse, si estuviera todo perfecto... no necesitaríamos más cursos!!! Suerte.

46ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Genesis_Joanne 14

cierto. :)

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Leonardo_Noguera 7

Tengo la misma duda. Estaba totalmente seguro de que llevaba el OF al final de la pregunta. Alguien te explico porque no se le coloca?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Isantoli2013 14 10

Si te refieres a agregar "of" para significar "de", no hace falta porque "what" traduce -qué, de qué y cuál- todo depende de la oración y del contexto.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

xSabakux 8 5 3

porque "What is the Skirt's color?" es incorrecto ?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Por el segundo is que usaste se traduce "what is the color of the skirt

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

franktaycker 7

Tu pregunta alli seria cual es el color de la falda.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SalsaIncreible 14
skirt es falda, skirts es faldas, Skirt's seria DE LA FALDA

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jorgebh97 7
traducido al español tu pregunta seria ¿que es el color de la falda? de ahí el error

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarcoAnton315503 7
Yo puse: What color the skirt is?..... ¿Por que estoy mal?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

HeySocialGeek 8
En las preguntas primero va el verbo be y luego el sustantivo "Is she a doctor?". "Is it clean? "

20ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

marr4631 11
Correcto pero está no es una yes/no question

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

Audrey5775 14 6 2
"What color the skirt is"... no es muy bien.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ChuloMande 7 2
Te apoyo pero nos la puso mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pablo.jose1409 6 4 3 2
Porque en vez de decir de qué color es la falda dice de qué color la falda es

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LuisGerard579534 7
Porque es What color it is the skirt xD

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 2 hidden comments

AlejandroG243 11 5
Which color is the skirt también es válida

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dogui9001 14

los britanicos dirian: What colour is the skirt?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Lester.Mor4 9

Lástima...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SPAndres0 5

el of va al final varios profesores me lo an dicho

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JesusBenit12 6

whose color is the skirt porque en esta frase no puedo usar whose?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SuzhiMora 7

Porque 'whose' es para preguntar sobre la pertenencia de algo. Whose is it? ¿De quién es esto?

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Leonardo_Noguera 7

Pensé que llevaba OF al final de la pregunta? Necesito investigar eso. Si alguien me explica porque no lo lleva porque estoy casi seguro de que lleva el OF... Agradecido de antemano

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

enriquemattzasu 7

yo tambien estoy fallando

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Geraldinetora 9 3

What?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Erickleonh 10 2

Yo puse, What color it is the skirt, me la dio mal por el it, por que?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

itwing 13 9 8

No puedes tener dos sujetos en una misma frase. It y skirt.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

keizylover 9

Porque en wh question primero va what /why/ who/where y despues va el verbo be is /are o otros verbos

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexAlrcon 7 5 4

Habria redundancia entre it y skirt

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Adrian88UK 10

Me ha puesto mal colour y me dice que la correcta es color

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

isaura.cri1 18

Yes!! Se escribe color!!!es la forma correcta (como colorido es colorful)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

itwing 13 9 8

colour: inglés británico.

color: inglés americano, es el que enseñan en este curso.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LisandroAr1 6

Yo puse "What color the skirt is?" porque esta mal?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

isaura.cri1 18

Is va delante de el articulo the

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Maximilian73913 8

Cual es la diferencia entre "color" y "colour" ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MeliPame 7

El primero es en el inglés americano; el segundo, británico

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

miikaregalo 7 4

Puse wich colour is the skirt y me corrigio a what colour is the skirt xq??

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anis07 9 2

Porque es valido: whose tea is it? Y no es valido: what color skirt is?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KarlaFuent9 6

What color is skirt debi poner me equivoque

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarlosM.So1 9

Y "that" por que no es valida?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

itwing 13 9 8

the skirt, la falda. That skirt, esa falda

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

isaura.cri1 18

Amigo that significa ese, ( es algo que está lejos y es singular y this significa este , es singular y esta cerca) espero haberte ayudado

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

keizylover 9

Yo puse what is the color of the skirt y ne la considero :-D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IvanVazque17 6

Of al final no es valido ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jovioz 8

What color the skirt is ?..... Why could not be like this way ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

itwing 13 9 8

Porque en las preguntas siempre va el verbo primero y luego el sujeto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sammir2 6

what color is the skirt of?
creo que esta puede ser otra forma de plantear esta pregunta

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gracimau 7
Creo que no lo aprendere nunca waaaaa

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chini_ezequiel 8
Hola

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chiquita1978 5
Seria mejor que ubierana puesto what color ia the dress.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MolinaLilia 8 7
si sson exactamente iguales por que est mal?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Espe3103 8
Cuando se hace un a pregunta acerca de una descripción, el verbo va al final. Creo que tu traducción de demasiado literal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jazminysamuel 11 6
2 cosas... Primero el verbo en pregunta debe ir antes del sustantivo... Y what también se usa como de qué o cuál... Es como el to: a-para

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

delgadillojuanm 17
What colour is the skirt no esta malo, colour es britanico y tiene el mismo significado.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JaneGnzlz 8
Nada q ver con esto pero porque fine es bueno y good también?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lucioavilla 18
what is the color of the skirt? tb me la tomo como correcta. pero la que ofrece como what color is the skirt? me parece mas usada por los ingleses.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Axelarc 21 7 4 3

Which color is the skirt? Which es cual según yo sabía jeje pero bueno, peace and love brothers

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

yoedu 6

Which is the skirt's color? No es valida? Por que?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ClauL.Arri 7

Mmm yo puse what is the skirt's color , No crei q estubieta mal

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

moignacio 10

What color the skirt is? por que esta mal?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Cedenomd 9 6

Yo puse "What is the skirt color" me parece que esta bien :/

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Parafas89 10

Esa respuesta no aparecía

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

enriquemattzasu 7

ahorita pe piden no publicar nada ni una falla

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

orgis80 9

me equivoco en es por is. No debían calificar como "casi correcta"?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

estelamendez 10

Hihi

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SaraCarras4 8 6 6 2

What is the color of skirt? Porque esta mal pongo que cual es el color de la falda

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bloodyPainter 6
esta mal la pregunta

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

geencaro 7
de puede usar whose! de que color es la falda

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Lester.Mor4 9
"Whose" no es "de quién"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HELENARD 10
tengo la misma duda porque para mi no va what = que y whose= de quien... asi estoy confundida

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

araceli.ka 13 4
Which color is the skirt? Es correcta.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

havier77 7
No se, no se, me equivoqué en falda.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

DouglasDavila 20 10 9 9 8 11
No recuerdo la formulaci{on de una pregunta

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

amamoc57 8 6 4
¿ por qué no se puede decir ? What colour the skirt is ?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

andres.nom 6
yo puse: what color skirt it is? No entiendo qué tiene de malo, si en otro ejercicio parec. fue bueno

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

630 Dutch - er, hier, daar
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3931100>
biauwaz 15 14 13 13 12 9 9 7 3 2 2 53

Could someone actually explain me the difference between these pronouns? Because on tips there's explanation for the usage of "er" but not for the other ones. The thing is, i don't really see the difference between for example

De hond slaapt ertussen and De hond slaapt hiertussen and not to mention about De hond slaapt daartussen

I mean - i see the difference between the pronouns alone, just per analogiam to english and german, but when they are merged with the prepositions i'm getting confused. Halp, plox :

Give Lingot
42 years ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

Susande 17 13 12 11 252

De hond slaapt ertussen = The dog sleeps in between those (unstressed form of those, it's not really important between what the dog is sleeping, but it is sleeping between some things)

De hond slaapt hiertussen = The dog sleeps in between these

De hond slaapt daartussen = The dog sleeps in between those

De hond slaapt tussen 2 katten = The dog sleeps in between 2 cats

One tip ondertussen has nothing to do with this, it means meanwhile. :)

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

biauwaz 15 14 13 13 12 9 9 7 3 2 2 53

So they are just demonstrative pronouns, like italian questo/quello? The "hier-something" indicates that the location is closer to the speaker, "daar-sth" - further from him whereas "er-sth" shows that the location isn't really important in the sentence? :P

Thank you very much ;)

Oh, and one more thing, the two sentences:

"Ik fiets niets daarin" and "Ik fiets niet daarnaartoe" - the former means i don't bike "in there", like I'm not allowed to bike inside house, and the latter - like I'm not in the house and I'm not biking there, right?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DutchDuol 23 11 10 10 2

I sincerely hope the first one isn't a sentence you've come across here on Duolingo, because it sounds like gibberish to me :) (native speaker)

I could change 'fiets' for 'stop' (coming from the verb 'stoppen', meaning to put), so the sentence would become "ik stop niets daarin" (I don't put anything in there). Your sentence "ik fiets niet daarnaartoe" (or alternatively: "ik fiets daar niet naartoe"), means "I'm not biking there" (in the sense of going there, not in the sense of biking around that place).

As for your intended sentence "I don't bike in there", that would be translated as "ik fiets daar niet in" or "ik fiets niet daarin" (thus, without the extra 's'). Remember that 'niets' means 'nothing' and 'niet' means 'not'.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

biauwaz 15 14 13 13 12 9 9 7 3 2 2 53

Thanks a lot, that's what I wanted to know. And the "niets" was unintentional typo/brainfart, I meant "niet" ofc, . :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Susande 17 13 12 11 252

I don't know any Italian so I can't comment on questo/quello. But you're right regarding the hier-something, there-sth and er-sth hierin = in here

daarin = in there

erin = in it/there (unstressed, the main thing is that it goes/fits in it, it's not that important what the it is, or the er can refer to a previous sentence, e.g. Dit is een grote doos. Ik pas erin. = This is a big box. I fit in it.)

hierop = on top of this daarop = on top of that erop = on top of it/that (unstressed, similar to other er explanation)

hierna = after this daarna = after that erna = after it/that (unstressed, similar to other er explanation)

Etc. Enz.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

631 She Travels Through Time (Help Needed)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19102963>

ReyJaySoundsOkay 25 18 17 15 13 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 3 3 282

She travels through time...

Translated in Spanish "ella viaja a traves del tiempo".

I'm not understanding the meaning of the word 'a' and 'del' in this sentence?

I presumed 'a' in Spanish meant 'to' in English and 'del' meant 'to the'?

This would mean the Spanish translation in English would read...

"She travels to through to the time"?

Please can someone guide me through this?

Buenas Tardes.

Jay.

Give Lingot
64 months ago

Leave a new comment
6 Comments

paulabrixton 16 9 7 20

Yes, 'a' means 'to' and 'del' is de + el, therefore 'to the'. Bare in mind that 'a través' is a single word, meaning 'through' so the extra 'to' at the beginning is wrong. I do not know how to explain the second part, but in Spanish you have to add the contraction 'del' or it doesn't make sense. It'd be like "She travels through the time"

3ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ReyJaySoundsOkay 25 18 17 15 13 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 3 3 282

I see thanks for the explanation Paula! I will keep practicing it. I find it frustrating how every sentence I seem to learn in Spanish something seems to change in the next one. Practice makes perfect I guess!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

paulabrixton 16 9 7 20

Keep practicing and you will get it! :D good luck!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ReyJaySoundsOkay 25 18 17 15 13 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 3 3 282

Gracias mi amigo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

alezzix 18 16 15 14 14 12 9 8 6 5 2 1092

When you learn Spanish you have to be aware of locutions, we use a lot of them, a locution is a combination of words that creates a different meaning, in this case you are asking about the prepositional locution "a través de", which you have to learn as a set phrase because it doesn't make sense separately. It literally says something like to the inclination towards the side of. See? It doesn't make sense. The 'l' at the end of del is the product of the "de + el" contraction.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ReyJaySoundsOkay 25 18 17 15 13 13 12 12 10 9 9 9 7 7 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 3 3 282

I see that makes more sense now, cheers for that! It's going to take some getting use to, specifically towards recognising these locutions. I appreciate your response.

Jay.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

632 For Mobile Users: Duolingo app sucks? Here is my recommendation

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19571179>

rafibaru 11 2

I have learned Duolingo on PC a lot, because i have encountered a simple problem yet very critical to my learning method on Mobile App.

So, i am an Android user here. Have been learning on Duolingo since 2013 (with my old account, before i have founded best method to learn from App) but never quite succeeded as a learner, until i use Duolingo web version a lot.

The question is, why do i use Web version a lot?

The answer is, because there are the TIPS and NOTES under the lessons with Web version, and it helped a lot (especially before learning a completely new language)

I was 15 when i found Duolingo on Play Store, and practiced a lot on Mobile App, it was Spanish lesson, and i have no idea why is the verb "to drink" in Spanish "beber" always changes like "bebo, bebes, bebe, beben" and i don't even know it was Conjugation ffs :D because there was no such an explanation. i quit Duolingo and had no interests anymore to learn Spanish because i was confused myself.

At 17 I'm back on Duolingo, started a new account and learned it on PC. I started German lesson, and all of sudden, I saw that Tips and Notes under the lessons!!!! So after 2 Years knowing Duolingo, i have just realised they put the Tips and Notes. I wrote it immediately, started to learn German conjugations, pronouns, cases, i enjoyed learning it from PC and the Tips and Notes were instrumental for me to be Intermediate in German and here i am completed the German tree.

But still i did not enjoy the Mobile app and it did not help me much. I travel a lot and i don't have Notebook to bring. I am often encountered problem when learning on App, when i completed a skill, moving to a new skill, i am constantly confused with the grammatical from the new skill, and sometimes i have to go to Internet Cafe in order to just writing the Tips and Notes from the new skill.

But it was over since the day i found Web app! :D

My suggestion to you guys who encountered same problem as mine (especiallly for Android user), try to activate the Duolingo Web App from Chrome rather than using the App version from the Play Store.

The steps are:

Open Duolingo.com at Google Chrome

Login to your account until you can see your Tree

Explore the "Three dots" button on the right top of the Page

Simply tap "Add to Homescreen

Voila! Miles better than Duolingo App!

Web App features that you won't find on Duolingo App

Tips and Notes are there!

You can open Discussion page

You can also start a Discussion directly on your Device

No Ads

Your streaks are save

Bugs are very rare because Web App is basically same as Web version, it is just like Duolingo extension on Android

After i found this, i am very satisfied with my progress, because i believe "Grammar makes easy"

I hope this may help you guys! Cheers!

Give Lingot7

113 months ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

Pentaan 22 18 17 7 268

I agree with rafibaru. Thanks for the excellent explanation.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

psionpete 25 21 16 15 14 6 5 4 3 1159

Everyone has different ways of learning and what suits one person may not suit another person.

Mobile devices can still see the tips and notes, you just have to use the browser and the web intergace. I usually use the browser and copy the tips and notes into an electronic notepad where I can refer to them offline. But I use the app for lessons and practice as there are less typing requirements.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Pentaan 22 18 17 7 268

The app is really awful. Many problems have been reported in other discussions. That is why I only use Duolingo in the browser Firefox for tablet (7 inch screen, android) and smartphone (5 inch screen, android). And this is rather doing fine. The didactic method of Duolingo is dubious. But for me it is the only language program I like to do every day. And you get it for free! (Please feel free to correct my English, because it is not my native language)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

rafibaru 11 2

Yes it is. Duolingo is good and free, but i use 2 platforms for my learning as i think Duolingo is not enough, especially memorising words, so i use both Duolingo and Memrise. It has been crazy, what a duo it has been! you got to try

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

633 Numbers / Sayılar

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11025502>

PoyrazCa 15

Numbers 1.One 2.Two 3.Three 4.Four 5.Five 6.Six 7.Seven 8.Eight 9.Nine 10.Ten 11.Eleven

12.Twelve

13.Thirteen 30_thirty

14.Fourteen 40_forty 15.Fifteen 50_fifty 16.Sixteen 60_sixty 17.Seventeen 70_seventy 18.Eighteen 80_eighty 19.Nineteen 90_ninety 20.Twenty 100_a hundred 21.Twenty-one 1000_a thousand 22.Twenty-two a million A billion A milliar

HOME EXERCISES:

65 sixty-five 66 sixty-six 67 sixty-seven 68 sixty-eight 89 eighty-nine 47 forty-seven 59 fifty-nine 34 thirty-four 75 seventy-five 87 eighty-seven 55 fifty-five 90 ninety 17 seventeen 83 eighty-three

Give Lingot1
51 year ago

Leave a new comment
10 Comments

mizinao 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 668
47 = forty-seven ("u" yok)

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PoyrazCa 15
Düzelttim

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

hey1231 4
one two three four ... ten eleven twelve... forty fifty sixty... ..

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mizinao 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 668
"fourty" yanlış, "forty" doğru. Buraya bak: <http://tureng.com/search/k%C4%B1rk> ("kırk" çevirisi)
("twoty, threety, fivety" de demeyiz, değil mi.)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hey1231 4
pardon :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mizinao 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 668
"Forty" biraz mantıksız olduğunu biliyorum. İngilizce oluşturucuları adına özür dilerim :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hey1231 4
:)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jzlcdh 13 12

Yes you are right that the usual difficulty for Turks is pronouncing ....teen differently from .....ty

But we do not say "A milliar". Perhaps you mean a trillion.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Serkan67622 3

AHAHAHAH YOU ARE SO COMIC

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BurakBoz0 8

a billion- bir milyar

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

634 Unable to see translations in sentence discussions.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5400787>

chibi_usa 23 6

I use Safari version 6.1.6

I cannot see the translations when in the sentence discussions, it is only blank in that area creating it problematic when attempting to help others who do not understand the translation or for myself.

Give Lingot3

52 years ago

Leave a new comment

5 Comments

CattleRustler 19 12 1061

I like answering questions and trying to help people in both the english and spanish forums, but with these missing translations (more times than not) it is difficult. As said in this thread, it is not always clear where the questioner is having a problem in the sentence. They really need to fix this.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

superdaisy 23 15

Can you post a screenshot?

This image is too big to post inline. Can you see the original sentence and the forum posts, just not the part after "translation"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chibi_usa 23 6

Yes, exactly, just the part after the "translation".

I completely forgot to post a screenshot, oops. Here you go:

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

superdaisy 23 15

How bizarre! I've never seen that. I doubt it was an intentional choice as someone above implies; it looks like a straight up error to me. What does refreshing the page do? Have you tried other browsers?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Thakelo 16 16 7 2 17

This needs to get upvoted. This has been happening for months and not enough people seem to notice! Please, someone fix this :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

635 "¿Los vegetarianos beben cerveza?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12580290>

Translation: Do vegetarians drink beer?

11 year ago

11 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

DorothyU. 12 12

To answer some of your questions to the best of my knowledge:

Vegetarians do drink beer (if they choose so; there is no animal derivative in beer).

The pronunciation does sound different here on Duo when "vegetarianos" is in a sentence and when it is alone, but not in real life. There are regional differences in the pronunciation of the word: the "g" sounds like a softer 'h' in Central America and the Caribbean (as in 'hand'); and it sounds like a stronger, "Deutsch-like", very much aspirated 'h' in other, South American countries (not sure about Spain?). Also, native speakers of the language (of any language, really) tend to be mushy about the pronunciation in everyday-speech; they don't articulate every syllable clearly so the syllables can get blurred into each other, resulting in all "kinds" of pronunciation. The same thing towards the end of the word, near the "i". In most of Central and South America it sounds like a 'y' as in 'yellow' (ve-he-tar-yanos), but in Argentina it's more like 'j' in 'joker', and in Chile it's similar to the sound you get when s+y melt together in "aS You know" (esp. as in the New York accent!)

As for the "los" issue. In many languages, but not in English, definite articles proceed words even when you don't necessarily mean to be specific about them. In those cases they are there so that the language makes sense (a lack of it would sound weird), but it's in the tone that you indicate the general nature of the sentence (conveying that the definite article doesn't indicate a specific group of people, e.g. friends of yours, but vegetarians in general). This is just something you learn and "pick up" as you progress with a language.

Hope that helped(?)

94Give Lingot15•1 year ago

Penbryn 17 16 7 5 653

Some vegetarians and vegans do not consume products containing yeast, which is in beer. So the answer would be some do, some don't.

22Give Lingot1•1 year ago

n2vz 6

When they have used the word Los, then how can "Do vegetarians drink beer?" be even considered valid. Isn't "The" needed?

35Give Lingot10•1 year ago

DANIELGIBS 8

The Vegetarians drink beer is meant as a question. As with most of the Spanish to English you have to understand the meaning not the word for word translation. So the meaning is do vegetarians drink beer. And thats a valid question and depends on how much meat is in the beer i guess.

25Give Lingot2•1 year ago

kiwi84 12 11 2 2

Based on this example, I am assuming that word order does not change in the interrogative form or is a question only based on inflection. I would not have translated this into a question format....just wondering

13Give Lingot1•1 year ago

rywood 7 7

Is there suppose to be a stark difference between the pronunciation of vegetarianos when it stands alone and when it's in a sentence? When I scroll over vegetarianos to get the pronunciation I get a strange, almost g sound near the end, but when I play the whole sentence duolingo pronounces it how it's spelled. Could be a problem on my side.

11Give Lingot4•1 year ago

ootfifa 5 3 3

i kinda got confused for a moment hah

8Give Lingot1•1 year ago

Mikiboy51 4

Since when is "Los" "Do, and not "The"?

-9Give Lingot1•1 year ago

EdwardDov 11 2

this translation is idiomatic. It literally just means "The vegetarians drink beer?"

12Give Lingot1•1 year ago

Madalennfee 6

what if a kid is doing this not for school

-20Give Lingot4•1 year ago

Ellyse202904 4

Im not im doing it so I can comunicate with my family

19Give Lingot3•1 year ago

636 "Hamburg ist am Wasser. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/514272>

Translation: Hamburg is at the water.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

Raucous_Nipples 15 8 8 7 4

Should Hamburg is on the water not also be accepted? I don't think I've ever referred to a seaside or riverside location as "at the water"

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Hohenems 25 25 18 14 13 12 11 11 8 7

FYI - "Hamburg is on the water" is accepted now.

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

elizabethnorris 5

I believe this is a US versus UK difference. I would definitely say ON the water.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

V2Blast 23 663

"At the water" doesn't make sense in US English - and based on your comment I'm guessing it doesn't make sense in UK English either? If so, it should be reported.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hu_qvarna 11

Being a non-native speaker ... I actually do not get the phrase "at the water" ... Clarification plz !!!!1

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Supling 14 10

What does this mean?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bobknox 25 183

Like Bridge On the River Kwai (US movie) based on the English novel Bridge Over the River Kwai.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

637 Fluency Score

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19032758>

HelpfulDuo 6 4

We received a bunch of questions about Fluency Score, so we figured it was worth another post! Thanks to GermanSoy, hughcparker, daughterofAlbion, WildSage, Sammoreland, and many others who asked questions and provided follow ups about Fluency Scores in our Ask Duolingo series.

Read about Fluency Score in our help section HERE.

Read our previous Forum post about Fluency Score HERE.

Here are some fast facts:

Fluency Score is our estimate of your fluency in the language you're learning. Our goal is to provide as close to an accurate assessment of real-world language ability as possible, so finishing your tree won't get you to 100%.

With Duolingo alone, you can achieve a fluency as high as 50-60%.

Your Fluency Score will increase over time as you learn more words and strengthen your skills, but it will decrease if you don't keep up your strength.

Fluency Scores are currently only available for those of you learning Spanish, German, French, Portuguese, Italian, and English.

We are currently working on new systems that will let us more closely monitor the alignment of our courses with CEFR levels.

What does my Fluency Score mean?

Fluency measures your mastery of the vocabulary and grammar of a language and your ability to understand and produce the language.

What is it based on?

Duolingo estimates your fluency based on your progress through the skill tree and the accuracy of your answers. Because learning a language requires repetition, we also take into account how regularly you practice. Without continued practice, your fluency score will decline, based on our model of how the human brain forgets over time.

I finished the tree! Why is my score so low?

With Duolingo, you can achieve a fluency as high as 50-60%, which is equivalent to Advanced proficiency. Our goal is for this estimate to be as accurate as possible, so finishing your tree won't get you to 100%. We're constantly working to improve how much Duolingo can teach you, and we hope that providing this insight into your progress will be both informative and encouraging. Seeking out native speakers to supplement your Duolingo learning is a great way to up your fluency, too!

Wait, what Fluency Score? I see nothing.

Ah, you must be learning a language outside of Spanish, German, French, Portuguese, Italian, and English. Unfortunately Fluency Scores are not yet available outside of the languages listed above. But we are working on it, along with a new system that will let us more closely monitor the alignment of our courses with CEFR levels.

Will you share the exact algorithm?

The boss says no. But we can tell you that it is calculated based on:

- what words you know
- how important those words are
- how well you know them
- how likely you are to forget them

Your Fluency Score will increase over time as you learn more words and strengthen your skills, but it will decrease if you don't keep up your strength.

Give Lingot2
744 months ago

Leave a new comment
61 Comments

jimnicholson 23 22 14 14 2 720
Very happy to hear this:

We are currently working on new systems that will let us more closely monitor the alignment of our courses with CEFR levels.

What would be great, is if instead of a % against some nebulous concept of fluency, you showed an estimated % against A1, A2, B1 etc.

Then I have a target I can actually achieve! Estimated 100% against A1 and 15% against A2, would be a smaller and more motivating goal.

Also personal diagnostics of my score would be useful - so it tells you to do more web and less app, use hints less, improve spelling, or work on your past tense, etc... What is it specifically I should concentrate on to raise my score? What action should I take?

64ReplyGive Lingot5•4 months ago

spicybadger 17 6

This is a good point - there are many free online tests that can give a rough rating compared to CEFR. This might be one way to do it. Otherwise, you can simply go away and do one of these tests online for free to double check. For example, I am currently at 61% fluent on Duolingo in French, but in reality that doesn't mean very much, and this vastly overrates my real situation. I am from England, live in Paris, have passed the A2 level via DELF, and am currently studying for the B1 level. I would say that A1 is very simple, A2 much harder, and so on - IMO there is exponential improvement from A1-A2-B1-B2-C1-C2 and for that reason I would not put myself as "fluent" anywhere above 30% at the very most. For example, I know that you can post your Duolingo fluency scores to LinkedIn, but I am adverse to doing this as this would overpromise what I can deliver. Interesting conversation - would be intrigued to hear more of Duolingo's vision of this.

19ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

Luscinda 25 25 25 14 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 2 2 16

And under-promise. Once you have a good functioning knowledge of the language you are not going to be practising it on here every day. Do you want a 3% score displayed?

11ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

Melarish 16 15 14 12 12 11 9 8 4 3 2

Not 100% sure but I think it doesn't change once you've added it to LinkedIn. Also it doesn't show the %, just says "intermediate" etc. You can always remove it from LI as well. And it doesn't go down that fast anyway. My French is down to 11% but that's after ~2 years of not touching it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Luscinda 25 25 25 14 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 2 2 16

Can you, though? People have struggled to unlink Duo from Facebook.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Melarish 16 15 14 12 12 11 9 8 4 3 2

Yes, you can remove any qualifications from LinkedIn. I accidentally added mine twice and removed one. If you want to be sure, you can make a fake test account and try it first :)

You can unlink stuff from Facebook by going to settings > apps and find the app you want to revoke permissions from.

2Give Lingot•3 months ago

SarahGrabke 14 6 3 3

That's a great idea! Those A, B, C levels are more international and give a better idea of how fluent someone is, rather than this "nebulous concept of fluency" as you called it. Or maybe it should show both? I think it's also good to know in percentage roughly how far one has come. How about this: percentage about how far one is with the lessons, but A, B, C levels for fluency?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

wombatua 25 25 14 13 13 13 12 11 8 5 3 1393

Still, it's only within the Duolingo environment - not the real world, where lots of words not used by Duolingo exist. Fine if you want to call it fluency within Duolingo, but it has nothing to do with real-life fluency. Coming from a university environment, you should know that you need to provide footnotes to prove your case.

26ReplyGive Lingot21•4 months ago

Elizabeth261736 16 15 14 7 2

No. It should not be called fluency. It's misleading and it upsets people. Word strength would be a more appropriate name.

26ReplyGive Lingot5•4 months ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 886

They are claiming that is real fluency, not only Duolingo. We know that is wrong.

14ReplyGive Lingot2•4 months ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 14

If they were claiming it was only mastery of what's within Duolingo, then 100% would be achievable. It caps at 50-60% because they are claiming it's real life fluency.

8ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

The problem is that they have no way of measuring one's real fluency.

11ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 14

I'm just saying it's what they're claiming, that's all.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

(Re your post below/above, wherever this ends up.)

Well, it is the topic of this particular thread, that's why people are going on about it here.

For a company that teaches languages and prides itself on some kind of scientific backing, the "fluency" score felt like an April Fools' joke back when it came out... They could so easily have called it something sensible and made it measure something useful, but they chose not to.

Some of the other things that could be fixed or edited on the site aren't as simple to fix or as obvious faux pas as this one. That's another reason this one grates so many users, I think.

4ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

Yes, the point being they shouldn't claim that because it's a misuse of the word fluency (and frankly makes them look silly). Regardless of whatever the number shown is.

3ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 14

Legitimate, but of all the things that should be fixed or edited on this site, this is such a low priority for me, I'm surprised everyone gets so up in arms about it.

2Give Lingot•4 months ago

[deactivated user]

Yes, that's what they are claiming but they offer nothing to back that up.

4ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Ontalor 22 22 16 14 12 6 2 14

I'm just saying it's what they're claiming, that's all.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 886

Correct.

4ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

SarahGrabke 14 6 3 3

Well, no test of any kind is really real world, is it? A test is always an estimation and test taken at that particular time. Never real world. Only the real world is the real world. That's true for the tests on duolingo as well as those international ones that give you your A, B, C level. Actually I prefer duolingo to those international tests, if it comes to that. Because you generally only take the international tests once and be done. But duolingo, if you keep using it, is a continued learning and testing. Just some thoughts...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

matfran2001 22 21 21 20 18 16 16 15 15 12 7 6 6 6 2 543

"With Duolingo, you can achieve a fluency as high as 50-60%, which is equivalent to Advanced proficiency."

Sorry mate, but that's hilarious!

I have finished several trees here and just when I finished them the fluency score showed 60-65% in most of them (and 74% in one of them).

It is clear that my "real" level at that time, was NOT higher than A2 in any of those languages. So "Advanced Proficiency" (when you reach 60-65%) is just a dream, not reality.

An A2 level would be closer to the truth in my opinion.

By the way, those online CEFR tests don't work either, because I usually get C1 in Italian and French (for example) and I hardly can converse in those languages just yet.

19ReplyGive Lingot2•4 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

Sorry mate, but that's hilarious!

Agree, agree, agree.

A2 is pretty accurate, and the spoken score might be even lower, since (real) speaking isn't really taught or tested on Duolingo.

Greetings from someone who is actually C1 and C2 proficient in a couple of L2 languages, and has finished seven trees here.

13ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

matfran2001 22 21 21 20 18 16 16 15 15 12 7 6 6 6 2 543

Yeah, speaking is the real problem here. I can read (adult) books comfortably in French, Italian, Catalan, Portuguese, Spanish, English....and with quite an effort in German and Esperanto.

Duolingo is a great method to start a new language from scratch and after few months you (or at least some people) are able to start reading books and that's great of course (it is a great pleasure for me to be able to read all these books in these languages, taking into account that 13 months ago I couldn't even read one sentence in most of these languages).

But speaking is a different animal. Unless you actually start trying to talk to people, on a daily basis, you'll never be able to speak fluently.

12ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

Yes to all of this as well!

There's nothing like Duolingo to get you kickstarted in a language. And for someone like me, who doesn't care much about speaking, it's freaking brilliant.

But saying it gives anyone any kind of fluency is just wrong.

9ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

Zzzzz... 25 25 25 24 23 19 16 15 12 2 913

This purely speculation so feel free to down-vote this if you want to. I think the problem with the fluency score is that it only measures words and not sentences. Duolingo's sentences continue to be very short even in the lower parts of the tree. I am talking about trees like German or Spanish here, not about Norwegian, which of course does not even have a fluency score. If Norwegian or Swedish had a fluency score, it should be higher than that of German for instance. But since only the competence of remembering words is measured, you would reach just as high a fluency score in German and in Norwegian, even though the Norwegian tree teaches more complex sentence structures. It is possible I have misunderstood something here and I am willing to admit that I am wrong should someone provide the necessary evidence. :)

16ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

jimnicholson 23 22 14 14 2 720

Yeah, if it is just based on words then a count (of words in long term memory) would be more useful. It's how many people think about language learning. 'Oh yeah, I know 2000 Russian words' etc. I am not saying it is the best way to think about language learning, but it gives a rough idea of where you are on your language learning journey, it's transparent, and it's easy to understand what you have to do to improve it.

5ReplyGive Lingot2•4 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

...and it's something Duolingo can actually measure based on your activity here. As opposed to, you know, your fluency.

8ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

kubelnaby 24 12 12 8 69

Quite frankly, you should just scrap this fluency meter. It's useless at best and misleading for some people and you know it.

13ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

spicybadger 17 6

I agree with you that the name should be scrapped, but think that a scoring system is very useful when the goal is to Gamify language learning. So - come on everyone - what would everyone on here recommend for a replacement term?

9ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Luscinda 25 25 25 14 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 2 2 16

This will never align in any way with CEFR as long as you produce decontextualised sentences and fail to explain the normal way of expressing something in the context of everyday social interaction rather than word by word 'translation'. Nor will it represent any kind of fluency - certainly not whilst the program's command of both languages is so poor. For example, if you happen to be Dutch looking at the English course, you will be told that 'Please stop' is a legitimate translation of 'Hou alsjeblieft op!' but not 'Stop, please'.

12ReplyGive Lingot2•4 months ago

burner0 11 10 8 7 3 2

With Duolingo, you can achieve a fluency as high as 50-60%, which is equivalent to Advanced proficiency.

On the Truth-meter, this rates a "Liar, Liar, Pants on Fire!!"

It is a claim so outrageous--so clearly having no connection whatsoever to any empirical evidence--that I'm truly embarrassed for whichever DL flack was tasked with recycling this garbage yet again.

The linked page describes "Advanced" fluency as "Can fulfill most communication goals, even on unfamiliar topics. Can understand the main ideas of both concrete and abstract writing, and interact with native speakers fairly painlessly."

What a crock. Duolingo doesn't genuinely teach listening, speaking or writing at all, and only teaches reading through random decontextualized sentences. Duolingo is a useful tool for drilling vocabulary and elementary grammar, but that's it. On my other account, I've had the coveted 60% in French and my ability to interact with native speakers is anything but "painless." Indeed, it remains rudimentary, at best.

The so-called "fluency" meter is a blurry snapshot of a user's familiarity with the words in the Duolingo course at a given moment and absolutely nothing else. To pretend otherwise is to peddle snake oil.

10ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

[deactivated user]

I don't understand why you mentioned me then ignored my question entirely.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

bookrabbit 22 22 20 20 19 17 16 16 16 16 15 14 14 13 13 13 12 8 5 27

I think a useful and simple measure would be percentage gilded/ percentage complete. A simple fraction would be easy to display and easy to understand. The top would go down but the bottom would only go up. It could be plotted over time if they wanted to show learning stats. They could call it Course Mastery or something similar and it would be much less ridiculous than a measure that goes down as your fluency goes up. which it often does as you complete the tree and use other resources.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

spicybadger 17 6

Like it. Good recommendations. I did hear a podcast with the founder maybe a year ago, who said that the business model moving forward would be related to enable cheaper than market cost price of English language certification. I wonder if that is the reason they are sticking with the term "fluency".

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 4 2 2 3

Still haven't tackled how it's possible to finish and gild a tree and have a fluency score of 13%...

Also, I'm afraid I have to agree with others that suggesting one can be 50-60% towards fluency from the tree alone is laughable.

4ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

wstockall 25 20 16 14 3 3 1088

Another site had a feature that I think would be useful to add to the fluency estimate Duolingo has. It recognized that I was doing new material without having to "learn" it from that site and prompted me to "test" my existing knowledge. I think the fluency estimates would be much more accurate if Duolingo periodically tested to see what practice the users are getting outside Duolingo.

3ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Emily_Is 17 72

It does not seem that fluency scores are limited to Spanish, German, French, Portuguese, Italian, and English, as I have one for Danish.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

daughterofAlbion 14 13 11 9 8 6 6 3
And I have one for Polish.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

RhiannSteenstrup 5
uh, Danish is not listed above, but I still get a fluency score on that, in fact, I'm in the early twenties.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

zekecoma 17 14 13 58
We should just remove it completely. It's a fake sense of gratification.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

ekleo 11 64
Someone told me that they got 72%. Is that possible? Thank you!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

aliweb4 20 13 13 8 2
Oh thank you. All is explained now. Appreciated!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Nathan708191 10
I am doing Spanish but have no fluency score show up. Why is this and how can I see it?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

KathyWoods2 7 28
I am new to duoLingo and to the Italian language. Since beginning my linguistic journey 18 days ago, I have not missed a day and often exceed the recommended number of activities. My fluency quickly went up to 5% but has since dropped to 4% despite my diligence. I cannot seem to get it back up again. What else do I need to do?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

flootzavut 18 17 17 16 13 12 12 12 11 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 4 2 2 3
Word to the wise - the fluency percentage is decidedly buggy and often doesn't really seem to relate to how much you've done and how well you know what you've studied. My best advice is not to worry about it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

Nicolsia 8
Thank you for answering that. I was wondering why it didn't increase with each skill!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

iToochPlayer 12 6 6

Finally this question was answered.

-8ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Elizabeth261736 16 15 14 7 2

It's been answered many times before. This is nothing new.

8ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

iToochPlayer 12 6 6

I mean in depth more and being more descriptive.

-3ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

wombatua 25 25 14 13 13 13 12 11 8 5 3 1393

Sorry, I don't see anything new. What "HelpfulDuo" wrote is the same corporate claptrap they've been spouting all along. I've decided, for instance, that I no longer need to strengthen the basic exercises in German because I know those words backwards and forwards. I'm not going to forget them just because I haven't practiced them in Duolingo's environment. I'm not going to lose fluency - certainly not by some percentage that's based - maybe- on "research" that Duolingo isn't brave enough to defend by citing sources and using footnotes, like any good scholar. Frankly, "fluency" on Duolingo is equivalent to the refuse of male cattle. Did I know half of German when I finished the tree? Hardly.

25ReplyGive Lingot2•4 months ago

Luscinda 25 25 25 14 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 2 2 16

And surprise, surprise, there are never any replies to the replies.

10ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

iToochPlayer 12 6 6

[deleted]

-10Give Lingot•4 months ago

wombatua 25 25 14 13 13 13 12 11 8 5 3 1393

Um, I did. Very pointedly. That's not what I felt like writing.

3Give Lingot1•4 months ago

iToochPlayer 12 6 6

Somebody should fix/monitor the fluency score so it works accurately and runs smoothly.

2ReplyGive Lingot5•4 months ago

638 Vague language

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12352345>

zp_47 25 8 6 6 5

In spoken language we do not construct sentences in the same way as we do in written language. We deliberately use a less precise form of the language often called "vague language".

1) - Vague marker: kind of / sort of / a bit / a little.

Possible meaning: the speaker wants to lessen the impact / doesn't want to appear rude.

Vague example / non-vague example: I feel kind of sick. / I feel sick.

2) - Vague marker: or something (like that).

Possible meaning: the speaker can't be / doesn't want to be precise.

Vague example / non-vague example: Let's go and get a drink or something. / Let's go and get a drink.

3) - Vague marker: a couple of.

Possible meaning: the speaker doesn't have the exact information.

Vague example / non-vague example: she has a couple of things she wants to do. / she has two things she wants to do.

4) - Vague marker: and stuff (like that).

Possible meaning: the speaker doesn't think details are important.

Vague example / non-vague example: We lay around on the beach and stuff. / We leay around on the beach.

5) - Vague marker: think + might

Possible meaning: the speaker doesn't want to sound seem aggressive / make a social error.

Vague example / non-vague example: I think you might be making a mistake. / I think you are making a mistake.

6) - Vague marker: watchmacallit ("Doohickey" and "thingamajig" are equivalents) / thingy.

Possible meaning: the speaker can't remember the exact word.

Vague example / non-vague example: he's got one of those watchmacallits.

(I recommend you to watch this video about the word "wathcmacallit":
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=VDHfcO\_vbQE).

7) - Vague marker: about / around.

Possible meaning: the speaker doesn't have the exact information.

Vague example / non-vague example: There were about 25.000 fans at the game / There were about 25.221 fans at the game.

8) - Vague marker: and all that.

Possible meaning: the speaker doesn't want to go into details.

Vague example / non-vague example: She shouted at me and all that. / She shouted at me and told me not be so stupid.

Please let me know if you have more vague markers, I'll appreciate it.

Thank you!

Give Lingot
51 year ago

Start the discussion
No one has commented yet.

639 Omission of S in esta, estaba, gusta etc...

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/17714502>

Lechuzha 16 8 3 199

Quick query: I'm listening to some music and I'm hearing 'esta, estaba, gusta' said in the way I would expect them to be from learning (ie: they have an s sound, soft but there) and yet sometimes they seem to be being said as 'eta, etaba, guta', with what sounds like complete omission of the s. Is this a regional difference?

Give Lingot
46 months ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

Ginkkou 17 16 15 11 11 6 2

Indeed. It seems to be that way in the dialect from El Río de la Plata. (~Uruguay, central and southern Argentina)

"In popular speech, the fricative /s/ has a tendency to become 'aspirated' before another consonant." https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rioplatense\_Spanish#Phonology

9ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

LeviPolasak 15 9 7

Yes, like my teacher from Panama says "No vamo" for "Nos vamos". She also says like "Tu tiene que hacer...". One of the difficult parts of this is understanding what word she's saying? Like "Busco ...">"Buco.."

3ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Rinaro 12 9 9 7 6 5 4 4 4 3

I agree with Ginkkou, also can be a poetic license to adapt the lyrics to the melody, do you know where the singers are from?

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Peter.Moss 25 25 362

I also see that in some Dominican singers I like.

'No me gusta' becomes 'nomeghuta' very slight s sound before the last t.

Listen to Enrique Iglesias and Nicky Jam singing 'El Perdón' together. Night and day between the two. Iglesias is easy to understand, NJ, well, not so much.

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Lechuzha 16 8 3 199

Hehe, you got it ;) That's the song I was listening to. One of the reasons I like it is hearing the difference in accents and pronunciations.

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

640 German Test

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6084000>

Cait48 20 14 7 3

I've been trying to take the quiz to test out of a German skill (passive verbs), but each time I press "Continue" to bring up the last question, I find myself back on my "Home" page with all of my answered questions lost! I still have enough hearts left to finish, and I don't get the "Oops--you have no more hearts" screen; I just find myself back on the "Home" page.

This has happened to me three times now. It's good practice, but I can't move on!

I can't move on to any new skills until I can get the last question! (Okay, I know I could actually do the lessons, but that was another annoying thing--I took the placement test, and I think I got all the questions correct, but I was placed on Level 10 or something, so I'm trying to test out of the remaining skills. I don't want to do two or five or nine lessons to show that I have a skill!)

Is this a known bug or does Duo just hate me?

Give Lingot

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

remoonline 25 20 24

Try testing out on the web version. Hearts systems has been replaced with a strength bar here. This may just help clear the obstacle.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Cait48 20 14 7 3

That's a good idea. I prefer the PC version, but I could just do that one test on my phone. Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14

You should report this to the support button at left and the category for this post should be troubleshooting for German from English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Cait48 20 14 7 3

Yes, thank you--I've done that. I just wanted to know if anyone else had experienced the same.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

6741 "She is a normal woman. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5618605>

Translation: Она - нормальная женщина.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

kosmonavt_ka 9

Как мужчина, так идеальный, а женщина-обычная)))

16ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sadroff 7

Почему то не принял ответ Она нормальная баба

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HartzHandia 24 20 10 8 6 19

Действительно странно. Сами-то как думаете?

17ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Amanda_boy 7

Программа,видимо,рассчитана на литературный и разговорный стили языка,а "баба" это стиль просторечия. Для этого в англ.используются другие слова,соответствующие их стилю просторечия- peasant woman (крестьянка,деревенщина),broad(приниженное наименование женщины),Judy(грубое),piece(грубое). Соответствуют нашим типа "тетка,телка,девка,баба",но конкретно,что они значат,надо смотреть в словарях синонимов.Хотя бывает и woman "баба",но это значение уже в лексике просторечия.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Metrep 11

Зачем а перед normal?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vitduo 10 9 6 4

Потому, что а перед woman

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kyrlyk 7

А что, здесь разве речь не идет о конкретной женщине? почему артикль the как и в предыдущем тесте нельзя поставить - he is the perfect man??????

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

olimo 22 22 20 19 10 9 8 7

Потому что "идеальный" может быть только один, а просто "нормальные" - много. И эта женщина - одна из многих нормальных женщин. А тот идеальный мужчина - именно единственный идеальный (для кого-то) мужчина.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

APolikanin 10

Ответил woman, не засчитали: "Вы использовали мн. ч. wOman вместо ед.ч. wOman"
Поправьте работу интерпретатора.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

642 Ich möchte bitte ein Glas Wein.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7857180>

4Chan123 11 2

Hi, everyone I actually was thinking what I would write for my first discussion board. xD Anyways, I found this sentence here in Memrise and I was thinking... Can't I say: "Ich möchte ein Glas Wein, bitte.", instead of that? Please explain so that I can understand and thank you. :’3

P.S: If anyone needs a buddy, add me, I only have like three people. x'D

Give Lingot1

81 year ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

sakasiru 22 11 9

To me, the bitte at the end often sounds as if you forgot it earlier and you hastily add it ;) That said, both are completely correct.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

thomasmerrow 14 11 3

The "bitte" can go at the end of the sentence as well. Ex. Ich möchte ein Glas Wein bitte. To me, putting "bitte" at the end of the sentence sounds more correct but both placements are totally acceptable.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OlivierAS 14 10 7 2

Well, I think it is only a matter of usage, and I guess that a native speaker would understand you anyway. However, it still seems to me to be more polite and considerate to put it right after the verb!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sabbelsnuut 11 11 5 3

Just a Lingot for you, because wine is always great, no matter where the "bitte" stands.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lancehewison 25 11 4 2

Heute habe ich neun stunden Deutsch gelernt...

deshalb...

Ich möchte bitte eine Flasche Wein!

:-D

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bricejohnson2003 23 21 18 10 3 2 2 2 685

It is very similar to English. Can I please have a glass of wine, and Can I have a glass of wine, please. Both are right and it varies from person to person. Just say any with confidence and Germans speakers will not notice.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ale260984 9 6

Hi, I am German and I think you can also say: Ich möchte ein Glas Wein, bitte. I hope I could help you. : )

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pseudocreobotra 14 6 6 6 5

Both one are completely correct - it's pretty much personal preference wheather you use it after the verb or in the middle. German word order is quite flexible. For most sentences, there are several possibilities how to arrange the words. This can be used to stress certain aspects of the sentence... and sometimes it just allows some more flexibility.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

4Chan123 11 2

Thank you all for the explanation, I definitely love Duolingo and it's people, you are all very nice... C´:

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

643 What is Duolingo for Schools?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/218111443-What-is-Duolingo-for-Schools->

Duolingo is a great tool for students and educators to get the most out of their time together in the classroom. It is Duolingo adapted for groups of students and their educators. Whether as an extra credit homework assignment, an in-class exercise, or as a way for students to stay language fit over the summer, instructors are finding many uses for the exciting new (and free!) Duolingo for Schools. You can access or create your Duolingo for Schools account at schools.duolingo.com. If you already have a Duolingo account, you do not need to create a new account—just use the same login information.

Thousands of teachers and even governments around the world are already using Duolingo as the blended learning companion for their classrooms. If you or someone you know would like more information before signing up, take a look at our printable Guide for Leaders in Education.

Please only join a classroom if a teacher or parent you know is inviting you. Teachers can modify your account and you risk losing access to it if you join an untrustworthy classroom by unknown users or malicious accounts.

644 "De quelle couleur tes draps sont-ils ?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1067920>

Translation: What color are your bedsheets?

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

emiludomado 25

Peut-on dire : what is the color of your sheets?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jrikhal 22 18 18 7 6 5 5 5 3 3 3 2 2 2 2

Ceci est la traduction de Quelle est la couleur de tes draps.. Même idée mais grammaticalement différent.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

645 "A cat is black."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/291775>

Translation: Un chat est noir.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

33 Comments

FLara 11 6 5 3

In english (and in portuguese), the phrase "A cat is black" is too vague, has no information, as it is telling something about some cat in the world (wich?), not about a specific cat. ("The cat is black" is better). Is "Un chat est noir" natural in french? Does it have the same problem?

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

akvashi 9 8 3

maybe its trying to say all cats are black?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

tjleeau 9 9 2
why not "noire"?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ferynn 14 13 12
The adjective accords in gender and number. Here, cat is masculine (un chat) so it's "noir".

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Goldentwig 5
I get confused of when to use "est"

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ferynn 14 13 12
"est" in this case is the translation of the verb "to be" accorded with "he" He is = Il est

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

once.marigold 2
Same w/ me

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

soyawe 12 10 6
I got problem with gender of the nouns

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kylebacon 18 13 8 2 2
i think we all do buddy

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pkuwalker 2
Are you an Asian?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

soyawe 12 10 6
yes, and you?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pkuwalker 2
I'm from China. Most Europeans get along with gender of nouns. Maybe it is common in their languages

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

soyawe 12 10 6

I'm from China either, LOL

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ellamac8 4

i agree "the cat is black" is much better then "a cat is black"

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Babyanimals 4 2

I think so too.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

parikshit.ag 4

un chat noir? what's wrong

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9

Needs an "est" before noir.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

wongni 10 8

un chat noir = a black cat. un chat est noir = a cat is black.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

bday1990

I'm sorry I still understand why it's "est" and not "es," or rather what the difference in the usage is?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

wongni 10 8

I am = Je suis, He/She is = Il/Elle est, You are = Tu es

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

quack17 3

I don't get this!!! How do you know if the cat is masculine???

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9

You can hear it. une vs un and chat vs chatte. Go to Google Translate and listen to those words there, you will hear the difference.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Babyanimals 4 2
I don't earthier!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ShadeWolf 2
Why are cats masculine, but apples and such are feminine?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9
Cats are not masculine. Chat is a male cat, chatte is a female cat. Apples do not have an inherent gender and so they are assigned one in French just like all nouns, apple just happens to be feminine.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Madystar4 6
How do I tell, when its like a cat or animal, what to use; une, or un?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9
I believe when it is an animal you can tell by what gender you are given for the animal. If it says chatte then use une, if it's chat then use un. The same principle applies to all animals, if you have the female animal use une and use un for the male animal.

If you are unsure then stick with the masculine.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

frenchlearner54 2
why is chat masculine

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9
Because it is the male cat, chatte is the female cat and is feminine.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

frenchlearner54 2
THANK YOU I LOVE YOU SO MUCH THANK YOU THANK YOU THANK YOU

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9
...You're welcome.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SpragueC 12 3 2

what is the difference of un and une they are both one

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Wunel 9

Un is for a masculine noun, une for a feminine. Un chat, a male cat, and une chatte, a female cat.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

646 Learn Arabic from English

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16901358>

MariaGhar 15 11 6 5 1

Hi! I have used Duolingo for a long time and while I see there is the possibility to learn English from Arabic, I would very much like to study Arabic from English. I do not see this option in the incubator but have wanted this for years! Is this idea in the works?

Give Lingot1

37 months ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

JUMAN_ABDELAZIZ 11

hi, you can go to vote from here <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1339925>

2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

JUMAN_ABDELAZIZ 11

and I am an Arabian girl , if you want Arabic word i can help you :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Amgad 21 12 1

Hello Maria,

As of the moment, there're no actual plans for the Arabic course. The Duo staff showed some interest in the language but they haven't allocated any resources thus far to start working on the tech related stuff for supporting Arabic. The good news is that there's a huge demand for that course and we've contributors willing to start working on it the moment it lands in the incubator.

Cheers,

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

MariaGhar 15 11 6 5 1

Alright that is great to hear :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Iftakharshuvo 10 9 8

As they already have a course from Arabic to English , so there shouldnt be any problem to make reverse of it fast . لجعله ممشكل عندهم لا ان عليهم فيجب ، ةالانجليزي الى ةالعربي من مساقا عندهم حين . يسريع

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

MariaGhar 15 11 6 5 1

Thank you, yes I attempted the reverse tree but found it frustrating

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

647 how do you change your profile picture?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20134951>

Halema2006 6

Give Lingot

22 months ago

Leave a new comment

3 Comments

hughcparker 21 19 14 434

Have a look at this article from the help section of the site: <https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/205080860-How-do-I-change-my-profile-picture->

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

SH1ELDs 19 11 10 9 8 6

If you use the web version:

Hover over your username

Click "Settings"

Scroll down until you see the section "Profile Picture" with a button saying "Choose file" or "Browse" depending on your browser and computer.

Click "Choose File"

Upload your new profile picture

Scroll up and click the green button saying "Save changes"

Ta-Da Rocket Telescope combo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Halema2006 6

thank you very much

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

648 Lingvist now offers Russian & Spanish

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/17943085>

CarlosQuin342077 21 234

I'm a big fan of using both Duolingo & Lingvist to learn French. They complement each other nicely. Now they are offering Spanish and Russian in case anybody wants to give them a try.

<https://lingvist.io/>

They are both available in beta.

Give Lingot2
355 months ago

Leave a new comment
7 Comments

louis.vang 25 21 19 17 15 13 11 10 7 7 7 5 5 5 4 4 3 3 2 2

I have a subscription for the French course. I have asked for a notification for the Spanish course. How can i start the beta course for Spanish?

I have asked for inviting me for the beta course spanish.

5ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

CarlosQuin342077 21 234

Logout and go back to their webpage. You'll see the new courses available at the bottom of the page. Click on one of them, give them your email and they will send you an invitation soon. I haven't tried them because I'm not interested in any so I don't know what "soon" means.

3ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

kriskross4 22 16 15 12 11 8 8 7 6

True dat. Duolingo + Lingvist makes a mean learning machine. I also used to use Lingvist for French and it is really really good. Has some extra vocabulary that doesn't appear here on Duolingo. Really excited for the upcoming Spanish course.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Karl.F 14 7

I am really interested, I sent them a request for trying beta a week ago, and never got it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Aystia 19 16 13 8 7 6 4 3 2 2

I sent them an email expressing interest on September 2nd. Beta started, I believe, on the 11th, and I received an invite on the 23rd. Not sure how much that info will help, but it might give some idea of a wait time.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

olyglotED 15 13 13 12 11 11 9 9 8 8 8 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 2 3
same

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

janey89 25 22 7 7 5 4 11
Thanks for letting us know!

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

649 Suggestion: Notify us (Incubator)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1956913>

Erven.R 20 15 14 11 10 2

I have an idea! Notify us:

When a Moderator/Contributor of your subscribed course gives an update | When your subscribed course has reached 25%, 50% or any percent that you will enter | About how many percent did the course had made everyday |

Simplified Version (by ElOtroMiqui):

A moderator of the course we are subscribed posts and updates That course has reached a specific percent. The percent of the course that has been made everyday.

Give Lingot1

243 years ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

Morgengrauen 10 8 6 5 2

I like that idea! I would like to receive notifications when moderators of any incubator course post an update. Also when new languages courses start in the incubator or reach phase 2 or 3.

On the language course pages, where there is already a button to get notified, they could provide more options so everybody can individually adjust what they want notifications for. A percentage update every day would be too much for me, I guess, but others might enjoy it. Other people might not be interested in knowing that a new language has entered the incubator, but I am. :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GC1998 17 15 14 13 13 12 11 7 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 2

You can get notifications if you go to <http://www.duolingo.com/courses>. Search for the course (via your native language) and you can click 'notify me when in beta'.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

biancawulfsen

What?

-6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ElOtroMiqui 14 13 11 8 7 3 2 2 2

Let me organize his ideas (or at least that's what I understood):

He says that we should get notifications when:

A moderator of the course we are subscribed posts and updates
That course has reached a specific percent.
The percent of the course that has been made everyday.

So, after explaining that, I'll take the chance to say my opinion:

I think that the only one that I would like to be impleted is the first one, the other two wouldn't be necessary, or at least for me.

8ReplyGive Lingot5•3 years ago

Erven.R 20 15 14 11 10 2
Thanks! Here have some lingots!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CHAMPION.DUO 19 10 8 8 7 6 2
Not fair..... Nobody gives me lingots!

-6ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

revdolphin 25 17 10 6 18
Here. Have a lingot.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CHAMPION.DUO 19 10 8 8 7 6 2
Thanks

-2Give Lingot•3 years ago

Erven.R 20 15 14 11 10 2
This is about the Incubator.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

650 Italian listening practice
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6023006>

tommg 25 15 14 12 8 7 5 4 2

Some of might know my site (<http://www.listeningpractice.org>) where until now you could practice your listening skills in 12 languages, but not in Italian. Now I added a new section called 'Practice with Texts' including 3 Italian texts - for now.

As these texts (and their audio recordings) are in the Public Domain, most of them are from the 19th century. Unfortunately there are languages where the orthography has changed so much since the 19th century that there's little use for these old texts. So it would be nice to get some feedback regarding the quality of the texts.

If you want to see more texts in Italian on the site, you can leave your email address at the bottom of this page - the more people are waiting for texts in a given language, the more likely that I'm prioritizing it over other languages.

Enjoy!

Give Lingot
42 years ago

Leave a new comment

1 Comment

Lisiamc 25

Thank you for the link.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

651 Not able to log out or log in on iPhone

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19113218>

7string 2

I have had DuoLingo for a couple years. I can log in on the Mac, but on the iOS app there is no option to log in - it only gives me the option to create a profile, but then tells me the profile is already taken. There is also no option to log out, so that I could log back in. The social icon tells me I need to create a Duolingo profile to save my progress, but it won't let me log in with my existing ID/password, and it won't let me log out of the current session. I have tried deleting the app from the iPhone and reinstalling it, but it did not resolve the problem. Not a very intuitive interface if there is another way to resolve it.

Give Lingot

34 months ago

Leave a new comment

3 Comments

psionpete 25 21 16 15 14 6 5 4 3 1159

Look for the link "I already have an account" on the first page. That should take you to the log on page.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

7string 2

Thanks - I was not seeing that at all on the first page. I had tried Settings several times, but it was not helpful. But I just tried Settings again, and this time it gave me the option to log out. After logging out, I then got the "I already have an account" option you are talking about, and that allowed me to log back in....everything seems OK now. Not sure what the issue was...maybe because I had not used it in a while...

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

psionpete 25 21 16 15 14 6 5 4 3 1159

You are not alone. Depending on the app version, the "I already have an account" is not necessarily in a prominent position on the page and is easily missed.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

652 how to be sarcastic in german?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19804843>

Elliot-M 17 1

silly post but if i wanted to be sarcastic in English I could say "I like this car...not!". but in German this seems to be the proper way of saying it "Ich mag dieses auto nicht"

Give Lingot
103 months ago

Leave a new comment
9 Comments

Mr_Eyl 13 12 11 7

Sarcasm is a little more subtle than simply placing 'not' at the end of a sentence. It's meant to be indirect and cutting. What you have there is rather obvious. I think it's the complex American equivalent of the proud European tradition of sarcasm. :)

I'll let Oscar Wilde do the talking, as he was the master:

"Some cause happiness wherever they go- others, whenever they go."

"Sarcasm is the lowest form of wit, but the highest form of intelligence."

Speaking to a woman who he disliked immensely:

Woman: "Oh, Mr Wilde! I passed by your house this morning!"

Wilde: "Thank you so much."

Sarcasm is all about tone and intent, so follow those guidelines and you should be fine. High-quality sarcasm leaves the listener wondering if you were actually trying to be offensive or not. :)

25ReplyGive Lingot3•3 months ago

[deactivated user]

I think the not is either a middle America or West Coast America thing. I assure you that NYers generally value high-quality sarcasm. I consider it our first language.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

AbunPang 19 17 13 210

Sarcasm is something highly cultural, meaning different cultures have different ways of being sarcastic as well as different markers for it. This is the main reason for the myth that "people from (insert random country) don't get sarcasm". In fact they do, just not the foreign kind of it.

"Ich mag dieses Auto nicht" would be understood literally (i.e. as a non-sarcastic "I don't like this car") unless there is a long pause before the nicht, and even then it sounds like a teenager desperately trying to be cool by imitating an English speech pattern. We don't mark sarcasm that obviously by putting a marker at the end of the sentence. Instead, sarcasm has to be discerned from context and sentence intonation. Which is why it's dangerous to use it in writing since the intonation cues are lost there.

In your particular case I would say something like "Wow, das ist aber ein schönes Auto..." (Why, what a beautiful car...) in a sarcastic tone.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Hohenems 25 25 18 14 13 12 11 11 8 7

No idea, but point 11 here has suggestions: <https://goo.gl/67eSa3>

Surprisingly disappointing.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

MelleCatherine 11 93

My advise: don't try to be sarcastic in a language that you don't master. If you want to make humour, stick to silly jokes. Any attempt of subtle humour will usually end up sounding arrogant and rude (or downright stupid) rather than funny, and you don't want to sound arrogant, do you?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Elliot-M 17 1

As mentioned in my first post, it wasn't serious. I was just intrigued that is all

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

fugshdrkh 12 11 10 144

Isn't the not at the end how children try to be sarcastic?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

calabrinijessica 6

[deleted]

1Give Lingot•2 months ago

Mr_Eyl 13 12 11 7

I explained exactly how to be sarcastic in his target language, which is what he wanted. Read my response carefully. His example wasn't sarcasm, so it needed some explanation before I could do that.

In order to use any feature of a language, you first need to understand what it is and how it works. As you said, this is a language learning forum- if someone's using a term incorrectly, it needs to be corrected before it can be explained.

You seem to have misunderstood the term 'salty'- it means upset or annoyed, and nobody here is either of those things (apart from you, perhaps). ;)

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

653 [Grammar] Is it possible to learn it with Duolingo?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19143884>

bry888 14 11

Of course it is impossible to really learn a language through duolingo, to speak fluently, write and read without any problems even after completing the 20th duo-level. But this is also hard after years of learning in schools, from books, internet and so on. The problem is that Duo doesn't give the learner all grammar principles and doesn't train them like some good grammar books does. For example - I've completed German course and understood the Duo examples of passive, etc in laconic grammar Duo-units only after reading the basic principles from a really good grammar book. What do you think about changing a little the style of Duo grammar units? I think it would be perfect if the grammar lesson looked like this:

In the main view lets put all rules, verbs-, adjectives-, etc endings in nice tables and with sentence examples (like in grammar books). In course-badges lets train these rules separately and then all together (like grammar books does).

While Duolingo is a great place to learn the language basis, to create bonds in brain to certain words if the time will come to use them, there is still a mere grammar part from which it is hard to learn anything. So Dear Duolingo Creators - if you want to make this a professional language platform, please consider developing the grammar sector of the course. What do you think Duo-users? Any additional ideas will be great, so feel free to comment.

Give Lingot
74 months ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

While I do think grammar is important and have learned some languages they way you describe, I think you are looking for something else than what Duolingo is looking to offer. This company is all about gamification of learning, for better or for worse, and I think it does a good job at it.

There are plenty of other platforms and sites out there that teach either through the grammar-table-practice-sweat-a-lot route, or just show a lot of words and make you learn them. Each has its own place, I think.

Compared to the other free online resources I use (and I use a lot of them), Duolingo is best at giving me a bit of both: both vocabulary drills and enough sentences of a particular grammatical nature to give me an idea of how that structure works. Add a strange addictiveness to the mix, and I'm hooked on learning here. No textbook, grammar site, real life course, other app or service does the same for me. Grammar tables and explanations, on the other hands, are easily googlable.

8ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

cdub4language 22 14 14 14 14 10 3

This varies very highly depending on the course and the course team. The Esperanto course put lots of effort into writing clear tips and notes, and I'd say you can learn most all Esperanto grammar from them. In other courses grammar notes were nonexistent or very limited. I supplemented my Duo learning with favorite grammar websites for each language (yourdailygerman, french.about.com, spanishdict) and it worked well. Duolingo's strengths are in gamification and sentence structure (for me at least); I prefer to supplement with a high-quality grammar-specific resource rather than to have it all in Duo.

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Thomas.Heiss 11 10 10 143

Sometimes it helps to add some newlines or paragraphs.

You can add newlines with " " (two spaces) at the end of the line and you can add an empty line by hitting enter twice.

Try it with Edit.

It helps to make a longer text easier readable and more enjoyable.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

klgregonis 24 23 23 22 20 17 17 17 14 11 10 4 4 4 2 459

Depends on what you mean by learning grammar. Reciting the rules for a given part of language, ( and all the exceptions ) not so much. Practice in making that grammar automatic, absolutely. After all, kids speak pretty grammatically by the time they enter 1st grade, for the most part, and they've never had anyone sit down and teach them rules. Teachers do spend a lot of time "correcting" their grammar and trying to apply logic to grammar rules. (Can I sharpen my pencil? Yes you can, but you may not. Of course, if they may not, they can't, because they're not allowed to. No, it's it is I, not it's me. etc. )

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

garpet 12 9 6 3

It actually does teach you the grammar of the target language. Obviously, not as deeply as a language course at the university or at a language school would, but you'll be able to use and see the grammatical structure of the language.

I think what Duo gives you is good enough. However, some grammar oriented exercises would be cool. But until then if I really want to go deeper into some grammatical problems I use the forum, facebook group, wikipedia or the first language teaching book that I could find in PDF on the web.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

654 "Interessieren Sie sich für Blumen?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2830056>

Translation: Are you interested in flowers?

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

TheOnlyPtolemy 22 8 4 2

I'm assuming that: für is the preposition that goes with the verb interessieren . Am I right?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

binweg 14

Yes, it is. With the person as the subject you need a reflexive pronoun, für and the object takes accusative case.

„Ich interessiere mich für Blumen.“ – “I'm interested in flowers.”

But just like in English, one can attribute the interest-action to the flower and the person becomes the direct object with no preposition in front.

„Blumen interessieren mich.“ – “Flowers interest me.”

EDIT: In a comment, EeroK brought up with the phrase interessiert sein an... which I totally forgot. And it's grammatically a lot closer to the English to be interested in – with the interest-word as a adjective instead of a verb. Sorry about that. However, it seems to me that the German versions of these constructions are used differently than the English ones:

sich für etwas interessieren / „Ich interessiere mich für Blumen.“ would (IMO) only be used for hobbies, topics and such.

an etwas interessiert sein / „Ich bin an Blumen interessiert.“ would (IMO, again) only be used if you want to “acquire” something, in the literal or metaphorical sense.

The “physical object = grammatical subject” construction could generally work for both, but I have the feeling that some sentences work better than others, and I can't provide a reason:

„Blumen interessieren mich.“ (as topic, works fine)

„Diese Blume interessiert mich.“ (IMHO a rather awkward construction)

„Diese Wohnung interessiert mich.“ (=wish to acquire, works fine, but I agree with 12345ann that „bin an dieser Wohnung interessiert“ would sound better)

16ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EeroK 12 5

A question: "Ich bin an dieser Wohnung interessiert" is something that you don't hear that often, but AFAIK is still correct German. I was just wondering is this a bit "Denglisch" or just something people don't tend to use?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

12345ann 15 10 7

no, it is perfectly correct German. I would say it is more usual than "Diese Wohnung interessiert mich".

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheOnlyPtolemy 22 8 4 2

Can you please tell me when to use the "sich für etwas interessieren" form or the "sein an etwas interessieren" form. ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

12345ann 15 10 7

i don't think there is a difference. (I am German native and try to find a case where you can use one but not the other but I can't think of anything.)

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

EeroK 12 5

Thanks!

I was just wondering because all my German text books mention "sich interessieren für", but never the other variants.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheOnlyPtolemy 22 8 4 2
Thank you!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alaladinjersey 24 22 13 840
Ok why is it interested in flowers when Interessieren is the present tense? I thought that Interessierten would indicate past.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

binweg 14
In English the phrase is formed with the predicative adjective interested instead of the word being used as a verb. This isn't the past tense but rather present tense as indicated by the verb inflection are.

In the German phrase however, interessieren is used as verb. It's possible to rephrase the German sentence to also use the predicative construction, but IMHO this wording would only be used to inquire about a buy interest, not a interest in the topic in general:
„Sind sie an Blumen interessiert?“ – “Are you interested (in buying some) flowers?”

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

alaladinjersey 24 22 13 840
Thank you. It seems that you only learn grammar when you study a foreign language!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

655 "Elle voit à travers les rideaux."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7401836>
Translation: She sees through the curtains.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment
9 Comments

Odin74031 12
how is «She looks through the curtains» wrong?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

oskalingo 24 14 10 6 3
I gave the same answer.

However, English "look" translates better as "regarder", which has a more active meaning than "voir". Similar, perhaps, to the distinction between "écouter" (listen) and "entendre" (hear).

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SunilNatraj 22 13 11 1

I must agree. I am not sure sees through sounds right

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

n6zs 25 871

The French "regarder" is "to look (at)"; "voir" is "to see". One can "see" through a curtain that is sheer rather than opaque. The operative word here though is "à travers" to give us "voir à travers" = to see through (something). Note that a different sentence could be "elle regarde à travers la fenêtre" = she is looking through the window. Elle regarde par la fenêtre = she is looking out the window.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

yQ3q 20 258

"She can see through the curtains" is also accepted, and feels a little more natural to me.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Planeodharma 17 16 9 6 4 2 106

You shall deceive us no longer, curtains.

3ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

AndrewSend 22 2 554

... And maintains the peep!

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

bonbayel 20 17 14 13 13 13 9 8 6 46

Seems to me that look can also mean just glance, which would come close to voir, even though there's probably a word 'glancer'. I agree that is is a special meaning here, like 'sees into the future.'

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Glaug-Eldare 18 263

And what does she see..?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

656 "Definitely!"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1373847>

Translation: Определённо!

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

35 Comments

xrPd6 9

Ларисе и всей команде огромный респект и низкий поклон за их труд, терпение и выдержку!

43ReplyGive Lingot4•10 months ago

irinamayorova 14
[deleted]

Give Lingot•1 year ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4
пользуйтесь словарями с озвучкой и форво:

<http://ru.forvo.com/word/definitely/#en>

Можете послушать в фильмах: <http://playphrase.me/#/en/definitely>

37ReplyGive Lingot13•1 year ago

theheycher 7
Thank you so much for the second link!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Tasha_Sun 15 10 7
A! Какая классная штука эта playphrase! Thank you very much!

1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Alexander_2983 24 15 14 12 10 219
Кроме того, можете воспользоваться: <https://www.ivona.com/> и http://www.oddcast.com/home/demos/tts/tts\_example.php. Однако по первой ссылке Ivona пару раз (не более) произносила слово неверно (что "подтвердили" своим произношением "другие" из данного сайта).

Очень хороший иностранный сайт с аудированием слов:
<http://www.wordsmyth.net/?level=3&ent=clearly#wp>

А в данном примере - в отношении "глотания" середины слова роботом, я с вами солидарен. Кстати, это "подтверждают" и герои фильмов по приведенной выше уважаемой Ларисой ссылке.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Siarhej 14
Смотрите в словарях фонетическую транскрипцию. И учитесь читать её. Очень помогает, когда не знаешь, как произносится слово :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

17Valery05 7 4 3

Почему не подходит перевод "Однозначно!" По моему "Определенно" и "Однозначно" это синонимы

6ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

KostyaShreK 17
Робот глотает середину слова, хоть быстро слушай, хоть медленно!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

R-r-Leo 16 15 15 14 13 7 4 2 1124
Её и не роботы глотают. Робот вполне адекватен в данном случае.

13ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

VladimirGr18 14
глотает....вот и слушай его хоть вверх ногами...от такого напряжения просто наступает раздражение к программе....ну в конце-то концов, у вас там есть спецы, кто бы мог нам помочь не фильмы подставлять, а элементарно сделать произношение чёткое, полное, обучающее??

-27ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4
У нас нет таких спецов и денег на них. Вы можете создать свою программу, где всё будет, как вы хотите. А можете просто отключить звук в настройках.

27ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lordofsol 16 10 6
А кто говорил, что будет легко? :) Вы, к примеру, смотрели какие-нибудь фильмы британские в оригинале? Там не то, что середина слова, там целые предложения сливаются в один поток звуков, что сам черт не разберет, что они там говорят.

С произношением у этого робота есть небольшие огрехи, но их немного и не в данном случае. Гораздо хуже реализовано распознавание речи.

27ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

VladimirGr18 14
при чём здесь фильмы? Мы учимся и нам нужна приятная аудитория и располагающий климат! Просто цените нас, учеников, которые нажимают ваши кнопки и вам капает бонусы! Будьте любезные с нами! Идите нам на встречу!

-53ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4
Мне всегда любопытно, кому и какие бонусы капает за то, что вы нажимаете на кнопки? Мне точно ничего не капает - я волонтер и работаю тут уже больше двух лет совершенно бесплатно.

Если вам нужны аудитория, климат, массаж, кофе в постель - то это все можно купить за деньги где-нибудь в другом месте. А мы тут делаем, что можем и никому себя не навязываем.

91ReplyGive Lingot17•1 year ago

D.A.V.1 13 3

Отличный ответ!!!!!!

14Give Lingot1•1 year ago

lordofsol 16 10 6

Чем хорош английский язык? Тем, что в словарях, кроме перевода приведена фонетическая транскрипция почти всех слов. Если у Вас возникают проблемы с определением правильного произношения каких-то слов, рекомендую обращаться к этой транскрипции.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

вот тоже замечательный ресурс - <http://ru.forvo.com/languages/en/>

9Give Lingot•1 year ago

sergeyshipulin 11

Написано законченным потребителем

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Gibby4Tales 12 5

Объясните пожалуйста разницу между definitely и exactly

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lordofsol 16 10 6

Definitely - определенно, exactly - точно, именно.

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Oleg_Lennet 13

Хотя нужно сказать, что часто они выступают как синонимы при утвердительном ответе на вопрос.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RuJanRe 10 8

Дефиниция - это "определение". Слово означает именно "определенно".

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Dust_ 17 3

предложение из одного слова, а как же " в каждом в предложении должно быть сказуемое и подлежащее"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Alinyonoc 8 6 2

А Вы когда на вопросы отвечаете, тоже предложение всё озвучиваете? Например, Вас спрашивают: "Как дела?". Вы же не будете отвечать "Мои дела хорошо" Вы просто ответите "Хорошо". Так же в английском языке.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Dust_ 17 3

Да, но в английском прилагательные никогда не используются сами (говорят: It's normal, it's perfect и т.д.). Меня заинтересовало, нужно ли использовать it's с наречиями (it's almost, it's definitely и т.д.). Видимо, я неправильно задал вопрос.

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

и нет, не бывает таких предложений как It's almost. В предложениях типа It's hot прилагательное характеризует подлежащее, то есть it. А наречия характеризуют глаголы, прилагательные или другие наречия, если ничего этого в предложении нет, то зачем там наречие?

7ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Dust_ 17 3

Теперь понятнее, спасибо.

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

не совсем корректное сравнение. Как реплика и прилагательное может стоять само по себе - У неё какого цвета глаза? - Голубые.

4ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

WhiteTiger01 24 22 19 7 57

а "наверняка" не подходит?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Oleg_Lennet 13

Нет

1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

vaagmarPS3 9

Definitely Watson!:)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 days ago

Karatemistrz 9

А "очевидно" неправильно?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

нет

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

657 How to Learn English Fast and Easily

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19944500>

Posted 2 months ago by [deactivated user]

- When you want to learn English fast and improve your English vocabulary, you can use a variety of free tools available online, or invest in some English vocabulary software programs. Another option is to take a formal English language online course where you are responsible for submitting assignments and completing quizzes as you work through the program. Whatever strategy you choose for learning the English language, there are some great tools available to help you learn English fast. Here are just some of the tools available:

- Flashcards: One of the more traditional ways to learn English fast, flashcards and vocabulary cards can help you build your English vocabulary skills with ease. You can buy a pack of flashcards designed with certain groups of words and phrases, or create your own by referencing an English vocabulary book.

You will need to write the word on one side of the card and the definition on the other side, and then shuffle the pack as you learn each word and its corresponding definition. Flashcards may also be embedded into English language software programs. In these cases, you will need to click on the card to 'flip' it as you memorize each definition of a word and use it in a sentence.

- Software programs: English vocabulary training software programs and English grammar software programs give you a chance to improve your English skills and learn new words and phrases very quickly. When you use a software program for vocabulary building or grammar, you can play games, solve puzzles and work through tutorials at your own pace. English vocabulary software programs make it fun and easy to build your English vocabulary and acquire better English speaking skills.

- Online tutorials: One of the best ways to learn the English language quickly and build your vocabulary is to watch and review online tutorials. There are a number of different types of online tutorials available. Some are offered through a classroom format where you need to attend a certain number of online classes over the course of the week. Others are available for immediate access or downloading so you can learn the English language at your own pace. Whatever format you choose, this interactive approach makes it easy to build your vocabulary and practice your pronunciation.

- DVDs: DVD learning is another one of the tools to help learn English fast, and can help you understand English words, phrases and manners of speech with a combination of visual aids and audio pronunciation guides. DVDs that include grammar activities and games can make it fun to learn English fast and build your vocabulary with ease.

- CDs: If you prefer to learn away from the computer, CDs may be a helpful tool to help learn English fast. Audio files that contain lists of words are great for hearing and practicing pronunciation of new words and phrases. This type of learning also gives you a chance to hear words and sentences used in conversation, so when you start to speak them, you will sound like a native English speaker.

Studies show that people with mastery of the English vocabulary make more money and do better in school than those who do not. Today, you can improve your vocabulary faster and more effectively with the help of a vocabulary builder, which comes in the form of software and or audio vocabulary training.

Source: http://EzineArticles.com/?expert=Jamie\_Pickrell

Give Lingot
92 months ago

Leave a new comment
11 Comments

...Fly... 2
Mik nhìn mà chẳng hiểu một cái j hết, dịch đề! @@

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

...mama-mumu...
bạn nên cho ảnh đi kèm để các bạn dễ hiểu hơn

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

...Anhp... 10 9
ảnh bị lỗi kìa bn

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Sakura_009212005 12
dịch đề ko hiểu gì hết

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

...Lucy-Ann... 12 8 4 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 2 1
Đây cũng là cách học Tiếng Anh nhé bạn! Bạn nên dịch trước, rồi kiểm tra lại đi chứ đừng ỷ lại vào dịch quá

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

_Nhox...Cho_ 10
bn ThanhHang2006 nói đúng :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Hanabi-Jan.04 8 7 158
Dễ hiểu mà! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

_Nhox...Cho_ 10

bn ơ ảnh bị lỗi rùi kìa and 1 like

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

_Shadow_Girl_ 8

hiếu một số hình thức đề học

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

hufhunhun 5

:)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Characters7 20

Why don't I see the image?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

658 How much does Duolingo cost?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/207362396-How-much-does-Duolingo-cost->

You can learn languages on Duolingo completely free. You can use it on your computer and sync it with our free apps for your mobile device. You can even use Duolingo for Schools if you have students to track—with the same account. Also at no cost. No catch. Sign up today and get started!

659 Genders for non-French brand names?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6179309>

Blazewind 8

Obviously many North American product brand names, would just be said in English when mentioned in a french sentence, as far as I understand it so far. But we would still use the French 'le' or 'un' before it as required. How though does one determine the gender to use for a product name. For example, would it be "un Rolo" or "une Rolo?"

Give Lingot

32 years ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

Artilex 25 6 2

I'm not sure.

I went to Nèstle's French website to see if they would call it "un kit kat" or "une kit kat"

Everything was just "kit kat".

But there was this one bar called "Sundy" and when they were describing it they said "une barre Sundy"

It's possible that they just call it Kit Kat.

So if someone would ask for a "kit kat" they would ask for a kit kat but without the "un"/"une"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

"un Kit Kat" (British brand), un Mars, un Snickers, un Kinder (Italian, any product in the range, starting with the egg: un oeuf Kinder)

Official French translation of the baseline (<http://www.KitKat.fr>): Have a break, have a KitKat.® Un break, un KitKat®

Most foreign brand names are masculine, but many are gendered by analogy with the generic noun describing the product:

une PS4 (une console)

un Apple, un Dell, un Asus, un Samsung (un ordinateur, un téléphone)

un iPad (but "une tablette") une Citroën, une Ferrari, une BMW, une Rolls Royce, une Chevrolet... (une voiture/une automobile)

un Kleenex (un mouchoir)

de belles Ray Ban (lunettes is feminine)

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Rattl 25 19 16 1044

That's weird. The kitkat.fr website translates the brand slogan to "Un break, un KitKat", but the French Canadian website (kitkat.ca) has a couple of texts that are written with "une KitKat".

We need an avid French KitKat connoisseur, stat.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

eateroflanguages 18 14 13 13 13 12 12 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 6 6 5 4 4 3 504

My understanding is that, by default, modern foreign loanwords are masculine. Maybe there are exceptions, but I would naturally assume it would be un Rolo, not une Rolo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

660 – 706 of 911

[accessed March 22, 2017]

660 "Die Mitteilung ist von mir. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1077910>

Translation: The message is from me.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

[deactivated user]

Whats the difference between Meldung Mitteilung and Nachricht

36ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

KalinaZ 23 20 12 11 121

I thought Mitteilung meant text in the sense of sms text.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ghoencke 16 13

That would be "die Nachricht" or "die SMS-Nachricht", or just "die SMS"

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KalinaZ 23 20 12 11 121

Well, on the menu of the mobile phones (e.g. Nokia) it's "Mitteilungen".

13ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ghoencke 16 13

Interesting. The iPhone calls its "Messages" app "Nachrichten", and "Mitteilungen" is used for app notifications.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4

Android just called it SMS for me

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MagikPaul 9

The statement is from me.

Warum ist das unmöglich? Ich glaube, dass Mitteilung 'statement' auf Englisch bedeuten kann.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

erlkoenig 13 12 9

"Mitteilung", as implied by the "Mit-" prefix, refers to something that is shared, or transferred, from one person to another. "Message" or "notice" is a much more effective translation.

23ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

morishka 24 17 238

Does "von" always goes with dative? It sounds strange.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

az_p 23 9 4

Yes, always with dative.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•11 months ago

joseph.lon 16 12 6

What about "report" as a noun? I see that in the German newspapers all the time, so I think that would be correct as well.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Alados 13

Can the preposition "von" mean "about" in this sentence? Or it only receives that sense with the verb "sprechen"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mcmeehanroberts 10

Statement, as in the context of an announcement to be shared with others, is perfectly reasonable.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

661 "Мы начали в шесть."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5827689>

Translation: We started at six.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

maxim-english 23 14 10 7 5 2 606

We have started at six нельзя?

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Vladosiz 10

Я тоже не понял почему не принял такой вариант

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

maxim-english 23 14 10 7 5 2 606

Потому что указано точное время. В таких случаях всегда past simple.

2ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

A_Danila 13

We began at six - не подойдет?

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dr.Andrew 23 593

У меня подошло.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

iMId1 16

Почему нельзя написать in six ?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

111George 19 8 111

Тогда бы переводилось «Мы начали через шесть».

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5056133>

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreyDeni1 14

А почему неправильно six o'clock?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

maxim-english 23 14 10 7 5 2 606

Потому что здесь нет слова "часов".

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ann96069 10

Почему start, а не begin?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

662 "Saya makan kepiting itu."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5275815>

Translation: I eat the crab.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

37 Comments

FaQihmubar 7

Kenapa pakeknya the bukan that

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zuliyanto 7

Kenapa eat tidak dtambah s?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

joanne948289 8 1

Karna menggunakan 'i'.. kalo pake he, she, it baru d tambah s..

15ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DwiHairani 5

Tidak begitu juga karena kata eat ada di awalan atau di depan. Kalau di belakang maka juga memakai s.

5ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

juanda645612 6

Thanks

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

DwiHairani 5

Your welcome

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

DwiHairani 5

Karena kata eat berada di awalan atau di depan.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

xfred06 4

Kenapa the crab, bukan a crab?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

t.en.id.0 22

"A crab" berarti seekor/satu kepiting. Karena ada kata "itu" di belakang kata kepiting, jadi harus menggunakan artikel the. (kepiting itu = the crab)

21ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pebiyanti1 3

Because a crab artinya sebuah

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Oib1 5

i eat the crab ✓

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jcsandyaga 4

Kenapa menggunakan I am salah ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DwiHairani 5

Karena i am artinya saya adalah jadi kalau i eat artinya saya makan

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

anisaagust 5

Kenapa pake that salah?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DwiHairani 5

Karena that adalah kata benda kalau pakai the untuk dipakai ke dalam kalimat. Coba aja pakai the pasti benar.

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

arul152515 7

Gimana ya emg lebih enak i eat the crab. Bukan that crab

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hari477139 4

Hai

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

sondang550753 7

Maaf

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

RamadhanRi1 15 20

Let us learn together with me at my club : NZPQYX

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

In_Gundo 4

Bedanya "eats" dengan "eat" apa?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DwiHairani 5

Kalau eat dipakai di awalan kalimat kalau eats dipakai di tengah/di belakang kalimat. Begitu.

3ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

663 "Was soll das? "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/307195>

Translation: What is the point?

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

27 Comments

Soglio 25 24 20 17 17 11 11 8 2 2 330

Is this translation accurate?

52ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2

Yes.

36ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

miaerbus 24 22 14 14 9 8 7 6 5 15

Is it an idiom?

33ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

christian 22 22 22 21 18 17 13 9 8 6 4 2

It's more of a shortened expression.

<http://goo.gl/s8h3Or>

81ReplyGive Lingot4•3 years ago

LindaB_Duolingo 25 25 25 12 49

Hi, Christian

Your link gives (amongst other phrasea)

'was soll das für einen Zweck haben?'- is this the expression you mean?

In English, 'What's the point of that?'- means - what purpose does that serve? How does that help?

However, 'What's the point?' can often mean - I give up, there is no point in trying. [More colloquially: #@! this for a game of soldiers.]

So the two are rather different. :)

15ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Soglio 25 24 20 17 17 11 11 8 2 2 330

Thank you.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

personally, i think not because the english sentence is asking about the meaning of a thing e.g. whether it's worth doing or not whereas the german sentence is more of a "what the heck are you doing?"

8ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

jodwyer 18 13 10 10 7 2 8

How about: What's that supposed to mean?

28ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TimFuller 17 17

Yes, I think you are right. When I was in Germany and someone said, "Was soll das?", they usually meant "What's that all about" or "What does that mean?" or exactly what you have suggested.

23ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LindaB_Duolingo 25 25 25 12 49

Bad news, guys - 10 months down the line, and they still don't accept this as a valid translation.

Since you all agree, I'm off to report it.

Have a good one.

:)

11ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Arianne893279 14

Good

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Beneficium 25 16 7 1023

PONS recommends your translation.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

LindaB_Duolingo 25 25 25 12 49

Beneficium - you are well named!

Thanks you for PONS - it is a cool site.

:)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

LukaZaplat 21 10 2

Another good site: <http://www.dict.cc>

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Beneficium 25 16 7 1023

Thank you and you're welcome. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

G-Shumway 25 136

It also accepts: "What is it?" Is that also a good translation?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago chrysaphi 24 23 19 14 6 5 989

But it doesn't accept "What should that be?"

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

which is not exactly the same... "was soll das?" is more in the sense of "what is going on?" in a general sense whereas "what should that be" is object-specific e.g. a child paints something and the parents cannot recognize what it is supposed to be, so they ask "what should that be?" (German: was soll das sein?)

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

benw7 23 67

Which is a perfectly correct translation. Report it!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DieSumpfHexe 9 8

What is the point...I ask myself that every day. What is the point of existence. Then somebody calls me and interrupts my creeping thoughts.

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

FreekVerkerk 25 25 25 6 12

How about: "What are you doing".

Like when you meet somebody walking in your garden. Or touching your car.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FreekVerkerk 25 25 25 6 12

"Or what do you want." The german expression is not something you say to your beloved one, it is quite aggressive.

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

reengr 17

I wrote 'what should that be' as in a situation where a kid draws something and someone asks him what he wanted to draw because it's not clear. Could that be used in this context? Duolingo clearly says this translation is wrong.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pellucidon 22 12 8 8

I wrote: "What does that mean?" (Sept 2015). Not accepted.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

2200Lucia60 22 22 21 21 19 675

I think you can say "Was soll es?" too. And equally, " Was soll das bedeuten?" ... "Was meinst du damit?" I am waiting for a confirmation from a german speaker.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

HamzaBashir1 16 9 5 5 4 4 2

I think of this like "What is that supposed to be?" as "Ich soll studieren" means I am supposed to study.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Pwmjkm 24 21 11 24

Why "big"? Why not just "what's the idea?"

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

664 BonPatron finds your mistakes and tells you why they're wrong

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/17508575>

janey89 25 22 7 7 5 411

BonPatron is brilliant!

Give Lingot17

166 months ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

anthgrl 25 15

This looks wonderful - thanks so much for the link!

2ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

minion.mark 18 6 81

It's brilliant but doesn't pick up everything of course.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•6 months ago

JR_Cthulhu_Dobbs 18 17 6

Thanks, a lot of other interesting stuff there as well.

<http://bonpatron.com/menu/>

2ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

_ _ Lizzy _ _ 10 72

Gonna try this, thanks much!

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

ThomasGabr13 22 166

References to 'second word' and 'preceding word' do not adequately express the rule that an article and noun should agree in gender and plurality. I hope that the error description also mentions, when appropriate, that the noun does not obey the 'feminine nouns end in e' rule as the reason why the article does not agree with the noun in the sentence provided.

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

whoisalex 7

Gonna try this

1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

665 "No es un salón de clases. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/111492>

Translation: It is not a classroom.

14 years ago

Leave a new comment

30 Comments

michisjourdi 12 11 9 8 8 5 5 4 3 3 3 2

I really didn't get the answer from the dictionary hints....it seemed more like "hall of classes" which really doesn't make much sense but I didn't know "salon de clases" meant classroom.

80ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

gro_com 16

I've never used 'salón de clases', it's an expresión used in Mexico, Peru or puerto Rico, in the rest of the spanish speaking world it would be understood but is not a good expresión.

62ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

michisjourdi 12 11 9 8 8 5 5 4 3 3 3 2

What would you say instead?

15ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

gro_com 16

for classroom i would use 'aula' o 'clase', 'clase' is more use for kids and 'aula' for university, but they are interchangeable in every day speaking..

101ReplyGive Lingot4•4 years ago

kalina713 11 3

In Spain I have never heard this expression before, but have found it more common to use "aula."

47ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

michisjourdi 12 11 9 8 8 5 5 4 3 3 3 2

Muchas gracias!

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

forkid 13

Thank you. very useful

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

m.j.banks 20

o sala de clase, aula andaluz

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Fricatives 12 12 8 7 5 5

I am Mexican, and while trying to test out, this one stumped me. We do not use this. We just use 'clase.'

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

s_helmer 12

I agree, never heard this used, but I am not a native speaker. Duo is really getting fancy.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Randy_O 15

I don't even think they use that in Puerto Rico because I'm from the island and have yet to hear anyone use that phrase.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mr_Roboto96 20 19 19 7

In the Southwest United States (from Texas to California) and Northern México, we do use "Sala de clase" for classroom, kind of like "Sala de estar" for a living room. Never heard "salón de clases" before, though.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vicki.kura 25 8

Interestingly Spanishdict.com knows all of these if you type them in individually, but it doesn't give "salón de clases" as one of the options when you ask it to translate classroom. Wonder where it is used.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GeoEco 14 9 9 9 6 2

The hints are completely confusing and misleading! I had to make a guess, so I wrote "It's not a classy living room"! Of course, it was a wrong guess...Bad, bad sentence!

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

KatTancock 15 11 11 7 7 4 4 3 2 1

But on the other hand, a great example of real-world language use. It so often happens that we have to guess a meaning like this when we're having conversations or reading. So consider it practice! :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rmcgwn 21

Find a good dictionary or a good website that not only provides definitions but examples, phrases, expressions and idioms. The list is not specific to a particular sentence. There are examples where the database has over 100 possibilities for one sentence. It's our job to introduce new possibilities to Support.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GeoEco 14 9 9 9 6 2

Thanks for the alternative approach guys! The wrath of GeoEco has calmed down and his vision has cleared up!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rmcgwn 21

Why is clases plural?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Elizabeth0 25 9

Maybe because a classroom is a room where multiple classes are held. So it's sort of like a "room for classes."

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Jeannem 11

Good question. I didn't get the right answer from the definitions at all.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

CARMEN_SIMONA 11

Glad to see i am not the only one to not get this classroom translate

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

daisy211 16 15 11 4 12

It was a really confusing sentence for me also.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rozioactive 9 9

I said this is not a classroom and it wasn't right.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

PatriciaJH 25 25 17 7 2

That would be "Esto no es un salon de clases." Duo is very picky about that.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Floreen 12 8 6

Why is "It is not a room of classes" not correct? I understand that's not said, but usually things like this work both ways

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rkelbaugh 21 98

Why is "it is not a hall of classes" correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AurosHarman 23 11

Should they accept "lecture hall" here? "Salón de clases" sounds like a bigger or more formal kind of room, like a big university lecture hall...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

geneven 25 20 10 9 8

On the internet I found the phrase "classroom building" that seems similar to me. There are multiple classes, each in its own room.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AnnPerekoti 15 7 6 4 3 2

Why 'one' is correct but not 'an'?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Charles924768 16 4 74

Bad, trying to learn to speak with people normally.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

666 Gender of Kleidung?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5925141>

adlihtam 20 18 17 9 6 6 3 3

What are the genders of the words Kleidung and Klamotten? Thank you.

Give Lingot

22 years ago

Leave a new comment

12 Comments

Gomos 11 7

It's nouns that have genders, I don't think it makes sense to talk about "the gender of the plurals". The plural has the same gender as the singular of the same word, it's just the articles that change.

"die Kleidung" is feminine and singular. Even though it's plural, it can be translated to English as "the clothes" (or "the clothing"). It also has a plural: "die Kleidungen"

By the way, all words that end in -ung are feminine, and their plurals end in -ungen

"die Klamotten" is feminine and plural, and its singular is "die Klamotte"

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Abendbrot 13 12 12 8 4

[deleted]

3Give Lingot1•2 years ago

adlihtam 20 18 17 9 6 6 3 3

Brilliant site thank you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Magister_Smith 18 9 6 5 4 2

One thing that can help with the learning of genders is the patterns which exist in the endings.

All nouns (unless there are a few exceptions) that end in -heit, -keit, -ung, -taet, and -schaft are all feminine for instance.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DrWho100 25 25 12 11

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

quantmeyer 22 14 11 8 7

All plurals are NOT feminine, they are plural and take the feminine article. It sounds pedantic as feminine and plural are the same in most cases, but grammatically plural is different than feminine. (e.g. adjective endings that modify a feminine noun are not the same as adjective endings that modify a plural noun.)

I only point this out because I was offered similar advice when I started learning German and ran into trouble later on when I was treating plural nouns as if they were feminine nouns.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 112
they are plural and take the feminine article

They take the plural article, which happens to have the same form as the feminine article in the nominative, accusative, and genitive cases (but not in the dative).

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

quantmeyer 22 14 11 8 7
Great catch! Thanks for the correction! :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DrWho100 25 25 1211
I stand corrected, thanks.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Saphiraugen 18 9 7 4 4
"Kleidung" has no gender because it is a plural word. But a possible singular form could be "das Kleidungsstück" which is neutrum. "Klamotten" is more colloquial and you can sometimes hear the singular form "die Klamotte" (female). I hope that helps you. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Saphiraugen 18 9 7 4 4
Reading DrWho100's comment, I have to correct myself. Of course "Kleidung" is a singular word and it is feminine. Sorry, but I'm no language expert. ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DrWho100 25 25 1211
I think the confusion for Kleidung is that it can be translated "clothes" (plural) in English, similar to Hose (pants in English). Thanks for your clarification.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

667 "Guten Abend. "
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11149697>
Translation: Good evening.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment
94 Comments

Bruhtall 7

Why can you not put good afternoon?

13ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29

"Abend" is later than "afternoon"; it's like evening. During all the day, you say "guten Morgen" only in the morning, "guten Abend" just in the evening, "gute Nacht" just after evening - at bedtime, for example -, and "Guten Tag" at afternoon or other parts of the day.

43ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

AhmetEminAydin0 6

You are true.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29

(someone please correct me if I'm wrong)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RJWheeler 7

still they're basically the same. also I was level 16 and my account got lost so im sad :(

-17ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

You really want to say that afternoon and evening are the same? Honestly? "Nachmittag" and "Abend" are not the same, at least in German.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

RJWheeler 7

But still evening and afternoon are the same time. if you think I'm wrong I want proof that evening and afternoon are not in the same time

-18ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

That's common sense, man. I can't proof - how should I? - but go out and ask people. I'm afraid I can't convince you anyway.

At least in Germany, Nachmittag begins after noon (as it says, nach Mittag). Abend definitely is later. Take for example 14 Uhr (2 pm). This definitely is Nachmittag, but nobody would call it Abend. I'm pretty sure the same is true in English.

12Give Lingot1•1 year ago

gmiller744 6

Afternoon is literally after noon. You wouldn't say "Good evening" to somebody at 1 pm, and if the sun is about to set you shouldn't be saying "Good afternoon."

6Give Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 2 hidden comments

Thunderbolt-1983 20 13 156

Biertopf is right, you can also say "good night" in state of "good bye" when you or some one else leave in the night.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

estoycalor8 15 11 5

Cant evening be the same thing as night? I dont get it. Whats the difference?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

It's definitely not the same. However, there's no real rule when evening ends and night starts. But: night comes after evening, of course.

And for "Guten Abend" and "Gute Nacht": "Guten Abend" is "good evening" (if you meet someone in the evening and want to say hello). "Gute Nacht" is usually used to say goodbye when you (or someone else) go(es) to bed.

16ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ratmotor13 25 24 11 784

I believe evening could be anytime between 6 and 11 p.m., and night would be 11 p.m. until perhaps 4 a.m. "Guten Abend" oder "Gute Nacht"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Jack_Sherman 4 exactly

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

draculavampire 23

i thought abend meant afternoon

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

No, Abend (capital "A"!) means evening. Afternoon is "Nachmittag". In the afternoon you wouldn't say "Guten Abend", but "Guten Tag".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RJWheeler 7

lol I love how you don't even take German on Duolingo...

-2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago
[+] 2 hidden comments

errakesht 5
Guten Abend :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Fyrelizzar 3 3
[deleted]

0Give Lingot•7 months ago

biertopf 19 2
Why can't you read the other comments? :P This has already been answered.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Olti164571 2
You cant say good night for Guten Abend

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

kiralee.ch 10 2
How do you know when to use "Guten" vs "Gute"? Some of the night/evening/ect seem to be different

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2
It depends on the gender of the noun. It's akkusative case here. Nacht is feminine -> gute Nacht, Abend masculine -> guten Abend.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kejunke 8 5 3
What does 'gern' mean. Duolingo mentions it at the start but it doesn't tell you what it means.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29
"Gern" is an adverb that means "like". It's only used when talking about "liking/enjoying to do an action", and never an object, a person or something else; for that we use the verb "mögen", for example.

"Ich lese gern Bücher" - "I like reading books" (enjoy the action, use "gern")
"Ich mag Bücher" - "I like books" (enjoy the object, use a verb like "mögen")
-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29
"gerne" is correct as well

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

leandrokenedy15 13 12 5 3

Could be "Good morning" too? I'm not speaker of native English, just because I'm still learning the English language, I'm only advanced a little and now I'm learning German language.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

Nope, morning and evening are really different times of the day.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Summeranni 6 6

Interestingly in my test was to translate " Guten Abend" in writing. I did. Answer..... Good evening. I was marked incorrectly. No drama really but i was right. It also happened one previous test. Im a newby.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29

Why is it acusative case here??

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

It's like short for "Ich wünsche [dir/Ihnen/euch/Frau Müller] einen guten Abend".

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29

Thank you so much! So, whenever we're hoping or asking for something in German we use the shortened form in the accusative?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

az_p 23 9 4

Whenever you're wishing something to someone, at least. Guten Flug! Gute Reise! Guten Appetit!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emegele 16 8 6 29

Thank you!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tbh.beccasteiert 4

i put good night! what's the difference :(

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

It's the difference between night/Nacht and evening/Abend.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

snowflake142 8 3

It should be "Good Night

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

I don't think so.

Usually you say "Gute Nacht" only if you say goodbye to someone who's going to bed. I assume it's similar in English?

Anyway, "Guten Abend" is used to say hello in German in the evening, I don't think "Good night" is a good translation, "Good evening" fits better.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

snowflake142 8 3

Thanks for the correction

-1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

AndreaDiAngelo 4

Why cant you say Good Night?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

Usually you say "Gute Nacht" only if you say goodbye to someone who's going to bed. I assume it's similar in English?

Anyway, "Guten Abend" is used to say hello in German in the evening, I don't think "Good night" is a good translation, "Good evening" fits better.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Samuel655194 10 7 5

whats wrong with good night?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2

The fact that it means "Good night" and not "Good evening". See other comments.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JeannyWijd 7 6 6

German is just like Dutch! <3

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AineMcD
omfg its kanye west

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

toofan82 2
I can not write this to Germany

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Christoffe853756 5
good night why not?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2
Just read the other comments. Night and evening are not the same.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AutumnBillow 5
O.k. so good night doesn't work?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•12 months ago

biertopf 19 2
Please read the other comments. Nope, doesn't work.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

hedgehoghuskie 5 2
Hallo isn't German cool?!):)** Why won't people do Polish? It's my dad's language.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

lizzbie123 6
I do not understand why we cant answer with "good afternoon" either. Before starting Duolingo, my dad taught me some German and I was taught that "guten abend" meant "good afternoon" and so im quite confused.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

biertopf 19 2
Usually we say
"Guten Morgen" in the morning (when English speakers would say "good morning")
"Guten Tag" the whole day (especially in the afternoon, where we don't use "Guten Morgen" anymore. "Guten Nachmittag" doesn't exist in German).
"Guten Abend" in the evening (when English speakers would say "good evening")
So I'd translate "Good afternoon" to "Guten Tag" and "Good evening" to "Guten Abend".

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

draculavampire 23
can you still put good afternoon here?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

biertopf 19 2
Please read my answer to lizzbie123's question.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

1140573920 2 2
i cant do microphone

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

az_p 23 9 4
<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204642264-My-microphone-is-not-working-How-can-I-fix-it->

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Sabrennal 7
No Chinese here?No?Just me?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

biertopf 19 2
This forum is about the sentence "Guten Abend".

-1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

patrik902122 6 5
Can the sound listing lesson not be skipped and does not remove score? Cuz I'm deaf.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

niallsboothang 8 4 3
How exactly do you pronounce Abend? When the women pronounces it she sounds like she says it with a T sound however when the man says it it sounds completely diffrent, I'm not exactly sure how to sound out this word.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

DanaElimbi1 5
I put guten abend and they said it was wrong I am advanced German my first word was in german it was ich

-1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

biertopf 19 2

You probably made a typo or s.th - Guten Abend (uppercase G and A) is correct.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Salvatorecifalin 4
good evening

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

vipool 7
difference between gut or guten?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

YushDAB 4
the typebar is not there

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

rogerjorda1 5
How do you pronounce "nacht"?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

gamerx54677 6
oops

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

verita217 7 5
How come good night is incorrect, and good evening is correct? Is the German extreme polite?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kiralee.ch 10 2
Evening refers to dinner time, night is later

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 4 hidden comments

AhmetEminAydn0 6
Evening is before than night.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

biertopf 19 2
Read my comment above, there I explained the different usage.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ali952290 4

Ich lerne deutschkurs seit ein jahre, ich denke sehr schwer

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OmarShawad 2

Guten abend

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OmarShawad 2

H

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OmarShawad 2

Tschuss

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mfarouk23776 7

good evening

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mandamarine 6 2

Why doesnt doulingo have japanese?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

biertopf 19 2

Why do you ask this in a discussion about the German sentence "Guten Abend"!?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

mandamarine 6 2

Btw i just moved to germany

-2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

668 'Das Plastik' vs. 'Der Kunststoff'

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19064390>

Adler2302 20 296

Any differences between 'Das Plastik' and 'Der Kunststoff'?

What is the difference between 'Motor' and 'Maschine'?

What does 'Auf gut Glück' mean?

Is there any logical reason why it is 'in' on "Er ist schlecht in Chemie," rather than "Er ist schlecht auf Chemie,"?

Give Lingot

74 months ago

Leave a new comment
17 Comments

person243 15 4

1) I leave that for a chemist to explain. In normal conversation there is not much of a difference. "Kunststoff" is higher in tone and preferred if you build compound words.

2) "der Motor" is the engine, the thing that lets something move. "die Maschine" is, beside the meaning as motorcycle, the whole construct that was made for a certain task, including the engine which is needed to separate the word from just a "Gerät" (device).

3) "Wir versuchen es auf gut Glück." = "We give it a chance/We try hoping for the best." It means that you are not sure you can do it but try it nonetheless, hoping for good luck. The "auf" is here like in the chant "Auf gute Gesundheit!" = "To good health!" which expresses a wish.

4) "Chemie" is here the subject not the field of research. "In etw. gut/schlecht sein" = "to be good/bad at something".

I hope I could be of help.

7ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

GlobalJim711 16 13 12 11 10

I leave that for a chemist to explain.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

person243 15 4

Thanks.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Adler2302 20 296

So 'Auf wiedersehen' literally means "to see you again," and connotes a wish?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

person243 15 4

Exactly. "Auf Wiedersehen!", "Auf dein Wohl!" = "Cheers/Here's to you!", and also out of idiomatic clauses, but sounding very poetic: "Ich lerne eifrig, auf dass ich die Prüfung bestehe." = "I am eagerly learning, such that I will (hopefully) pass the exam." They all express some kind of wish or hope.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

esgerman12 13 13 12 7 5 2 580

... the word from just a "Gerät" (device).

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Osnakezz 15 11 11 301

Disclaimer: I'm not a German native speaker, although the words often roughly share the same meaning in Dutch.

There's not really a difference. One word is Germanic (der Kunststoff) and the other is Germanic, (das Plastik).

Motor can refer to the two wheeled motorcycle, or the engine of a technical thing itself, whilst 'Machine' refers to something that works in a technical way like with gears and cycles and such. Now, the latter two are harder for me to explain.

3) 'From good luck' is the literal translation.

4) Hard to explain, I think the idea is that chemicals are something you study in. You major in physics, you major in chemics, and so on.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

biertopf 19 2

ad 2. "Machine" is used for motorcycle, not "Motor".

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Salomee_e 18 15 15 14 12 12 11 4 2 521

Plastik ist ein Kunststoff, aber Kunststoff muss nicht Plastik sein.

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ally.x 22 14 14 5 326

agreed :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

fugshdrkh 12 11 10 146

Plastik = plastic, Kunststoff = a more general word for artificially made substances, though they're mostly interchangeable.

What is the difference between "engine" and "machine"?

Let's just try something and hope to get lucky. For example, when you go bowling, instead of aiming, you might just shoot "Auf gut Glück" and maybe you'll hit something if you're lucky, or maybe not.

I'm not sure, but auf is usually used in a literal sense of physically being on something, or getting onto something. You definitely can't use it with school subjects or other skills. In English, you wouldn't say, "He's bad on chemistry" either.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

biertopf 19 2

"Plastik" is the common/colloquial term. In a conversation with a technical background you'd use "Kunststoff" (or even "Polymer").

1ReplyGive Lingot1•4 months ago

GlobalJim711 16 13 12 11 10

Hallo Biertopf! Kann Plastik auch Kreditkarte heißen?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

biertopf 19 2

Kann sein, dass manche "ich zahle mit Plastik" sagen und damit eine Kreditkarte oder eine EC-Karte meinen. Das ist dann aber sehr umgangssprachlich.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

GlobalJim711 16 13 12 11 10

Schon gut. Dann sage ich halt Kreditkarte.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Salomee_e 18 15 15 14 12 12 11 4 2 521

Wenn du verstanden werden willst ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

669 using a macbook air

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6342337>

saintbart 15 2

I've been using Duolingo to learn Italian for some time on both the ipad and iphone apps and have found the speaking exercises have gone quite well - invariably I'm understood - even sometimes when I know I've said it wrong!

However, I have recently started doing my DL on a Macbook Air . Although in many ways this is an improved experience over the mobile app versions, I am finding that I'm hardly ever understood. This makes me think it's a microphone issue, rather than just my dodgy accent. Has anyone else had this problem with Macbooks?

Give Lingot

42 years ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 112

If I recall correctly, the DL website version has two possible speech recognition engines -- the old one which doesn't work very well, and the new one which only works on Chrome. So you could try switching to Chrome for your DL lessons, if you're not using it already.

You could check if it's a microphone issue by trying it with an external mic. I know that some laptops do have pretty noisy internal mics, though I don't know about Macbooks specifically.

(I can't speak from personal experience since I disabled the microphone input ages ago.)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

thenoblesunfish 25 21 12 11 11 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 2 4

I'd highly suggest getting a mic (I just use the headphones/mic that came with my iphone) - I presume that a laptop is just noisier than a tablet or phone, which makes it harder for the speech recognition software. Speaking is arguably the hardest of the four skills (reading/writing/listening/speaking) to master, and you will need all the practice you can get (plus you get XP more easily if you use the mic, since you can't get those questions wrong!)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IvanIsLearning 24 14 10

I've had a similar problem using Safari on my iMac, but when I switched to Chrome the problem disappeared, so try giving Chrome a shot and come here later to share your feedback

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MusikLover 14 11 8

I am using a MacBook Air and I usually use the headphones that have the microphone on the right earbud. You're correct from my own experience that the microphone doesn't quite work right with duolingo

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

saintbart 15 2

Thanks to everyone for their helpful advice. I have been using Chrome rather than Safari, so unfortunately that doesn't seem to be the answer to the problem. I think it's looking like I need to get an external microphone.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

No, so just stick with your ipad. :D

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

670 What does Shadow Banned Mean?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/13318110>

PINKMOOD 9 3 2

Give Lingot

51 year ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

Raizindabern 17 12 8 5 490

C'mon guys, this word is old as web 2.0; even Wikipedia knows what it means.

Banning a user from a web forum in such a way that the banned user is unaware of the ban. Usually takes the form of showing that user's posts/profile/etc. only to that user; other users never see them.

Sauce: Urban Dictionary.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Ddesgagne 25 16 7 2

It means that one of the moderators has restricted or banned a certain user's access to the Forums, commenting, and other communication aspects of Duolingo. Although I'm not entirely sure why it's called shadowbanning...

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PINKMOOD 9 3 2

Yeah Me too. My sister explained it to me And I didn't understand so.... Thanks!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LanguageButcher 10 8 7 1

I think it's because it's like a shadow. The person can move around and do things but no one knows or hears it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

671 "Hiçbirimiz mükemmel değiliz."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4008361>

Translation: None of us are perfect.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

23 Comments

4342112 12

"None of us are not perfect" neden dogru degil?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Selcen_Ozturk 23 11 10 6 6 2

İngilizcede iki olumsuz yanyana kullanılamıyor. Aynı şekilde mesela "I have nothing" ya da "I don't have anything" diyoruz; "I don't have nothing" olmuyor vs

17ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xblackbrainx 10 2 2

'No' lu şeylerde is kullanılmaz mı? Örneğin 'nobody, no one vs'

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EminTopcu 12 7 4

Ama burada "us" kullanılmış yani cogulluk var. Dolayısıyla are kullanmak zorunda. Ama dedigin gibi nobody, nothing gibi kelimeler "is" alır.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

osenturk 16

guzel yorum tskkler

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

ajcee7 25 25 25 24 21 21 18 16 15 15 14 12 1182

This should be "None of us is perfect". The subject of the sentence is not us, but none < not one, so the verb should be singular not plural. I appreciate that many native speakers also make this mistake in colloquial English, but I think it will only cause confusion for learners.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ozlena 17

Anybody is not perfect neden olmuyor

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EminTopcu 12 7 4

Hicbirimiz demis, hic kimse dememis

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mssoylu 14

Bu cümlede are kullanılmış. Başka bir none of them'li cümlede yardımcı fiil yok. "None of them look like my husband." Hangisi doğru ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Viforvendetta 15 9 2

dostum geniş zamanda 2 çeşit cümle vardır.

fiil cümlesi ve durum cümlesi

fiil olmayan cümleler durum cümlesidir ve am,is,are kullanılır.

fiil cümle = i go

durum cüm = i am a doctor.

"None of us are perfect" burada fiil yok.

"None of them look like my husband" look like = gibi görünmek

"onların hiçbiri kocam gibi görünmüyor"

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

omercito 16 10 9 6 5 4 2 2 2

None of them (do) look like my husband. = Burada fiil "to look like", yardımcı fiil "do"; fakat geniş zamanda olumlu cümlelerde fiile vurgu yapmak istemedikçe yardımcı fiili kullanmıyoruz.

None of us are perfect. = Burada fiil "to be".

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cousra 8 2

Nobody is perfect abi bu direk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Selcen_Ozturk 23 11 10 6 6 2
"hiçbirimiz" ve "hiçkimse" aynı şey değildir.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kosmos_ 13
nobody is perfect, and i'm nobody!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ozlena 17
Is mi are mi kulkanacağız neden

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mukulele 11
not any yanyana geliyo ama

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ozlena 17
Anybody are not perfect olmazmı

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ersinturac 21 11
anybody ,anything,anyone bunlar cümle başında kullanılmaz.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

sametciftci 16 5
noone is perfect yazdim. neden olmadı?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

candost2 25 23 473
None of us is perfect. Ve None of us are perfect. İkisi de (is ve are ) doğru kabul ediliyor. Bunun sebebi nedir?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mkaanakd 14
Mükemmel yerine excellent kullanılamaz mı?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aysegulaltinalan 8
Non of us are perfect olmadı ne bunun cevabi acaba

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wooden_girl 12
we are not perfect'i neden kabul etmedi?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

672 "¿Quién vive en el castillo?"
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/675546>
Translation: Who lives in the castle?

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
13 Comments

romancadete 10
porque no: who does live in the castle?

12ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Yumi.V 14 8
No es necesario, ya "lives" te indica la persona de la pregunta.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Evaester82 10
lleva S porque es tercera persona. Quién vive en el castillo, solo puede ser el o ella.

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

edmundloedmundo 12
puede ser: ello, o yo vivo en el Castillo y no es la tercer persona... porque lleva s el vervo en este caso.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

emnp 16
Porque no puedes ser tu mismo sino no preguntarias tiene que ser el o ella . tampoco seria ellos porque entonces la pregunta seria quienes viven en el castillo. Ok

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ppuialto 15
Por qué da erróneo el uso del auxiliar (does en este caso)?

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Alejandro_Bartra 13 9 7 6 3 2
Cuando se usan las partículas interrogativas who,which, what refiriéndolas al sujeto no se usa el verbo do/did.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cinthyacriollo 11 10 9 7
La pronunciación de lives esta mal.

2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

pitorresb 10 3 3 3
ño :3 jajaja

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

eloisa144098 22
Lives se pronuncia livs

1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

jrwarriorsr 17 9 97
el comentario de alex nos enseña.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ratucha45 9 5
dice quien vive , no quienes viven poque la "S"?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MarcelaAba 10
La S es para tercera persona del SINGULAR no plural

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

673 Most common Italian expressions?
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/17368598>

JulieR97 11 9
Ciao a tutti!

I would like to know what are the most common Italian expressions... especially the ones that can be used in conversations or in daily life.

Grazie!

Give Lingot
26 months ago

Leave a new comment
6 Comments

Linda7Italian 20 81
Ciao! I call them "my Italian fillers". Che pizza! (what a pain/bore). Caspita! (wow!) Davvero? (really?/seriously?) Ma, che sei grullo? (are you joking?! - used a lot in Florence, evidently. Allora .... (so, well then). Boh! (indicating "I haven't a clue" sort of thing. Pop them in as often as possible. Ciao.

3ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

fede_br 22 10 9 6 544

"Ma, che sei grullo?/ sei scemo" are translated literally with "are you nuts / mad?" and should be used only with people you are familiar with. The meaning is correct, but, as one can see from the literal translation, it has to be used with care or someone could feel hurt.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•6 months ago

Linda7Italian 20 81

Ciao fede_br. Hai ragione, grazie per il consiglio. Rest assured we only use such "fillers" in our regular fun friendly conversation group and totally appreciate Italian etiquette. Mi dispiace JulieR97, sono un po' cattiva.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Rafforza 14 11 3 3 2 2 2

Try this, - <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10484257>

you'll find over 700 expressions there

Hope you enjoy it :)

2ReplyGive Lingot1•6 months ago

Linda7Italian 20 81

Grazie mille Rafforza. Non vedo l'ora di usare queste parole interessanti!

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Nello.Papi 13

In the countryside you will meet people lots of people who speak little or no English, In the big cities most everywhere you go people will understand or speak English

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

674 What is Tinycards?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/218172863-What-is-Tinycards->

Tinycards is Duolingo's fresh and fun study companion app that can make you study and memorize anything.

You can browse Duolingo course decks (we are transferring the vocabulary over little by little), official Tiny decks created with a lot of love by our designers here at Duolingo, Staff decks, User decks, Student decks, or create your own. We chop up the decks into bite-sized lessons similar to Duolingo and you get a clean and fun learning experience. For free!

Right now it is only available for iOS on the app store, but you can sign up to be notified when it comes out on other platforms by visiting the website tinycards.com (select "Don't have an iOS device?" when you land).

You can also follow us on Twitter to get the latest news and awesome decks -- just follow @tinycardsapp

675 Does anyone know of documentaries in German?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19140322>

germanwannabee 25 15 11 6 8

I like to watch documentaries in English, things you might find on PBS, but I was wondering if anyone knows of any German documentaries. If you do I'd love to hear about them.

Danke :)

Give Lingot

64 months ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

IceAly 25 13 4 2

There are tons on Youtube. Just search "doku."

Alternatively, ZDF has free documentaries on their website. I'd recommend <https://www.zdf.de/dokumentation/die-deutschen> on German history. There are two whole seasons of documentaries!

If you like watching the news, try heute.de . For satirical news (think German 'The Daily Show') try <https://www.zdf.de/comedy/heute-show> .

5ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

germanwannabee 25 15 11 6 8

Danke

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

godonlyknows 25 14 12 9 9 3 60

If you have netflix and change your language to German under "My Account" -> "My Profile" then lots of documentaries will now have German audio option enabled.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

ally.x 22 14 14 5 326

Hi, this is a good source, some of the documentaries there are great, some are less great, but overall, you might find something interesting.

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UCplXje1dToPO0VBWjPyMgQ/videos>

If you are into math (and even if you're just not against math :-)) I would recommend this series:

<https://www.youtube.com/playlist?list=PL12570B51A69CF67C>

it's spoken in a nice clear german and you will learn some interesting things along the way.

Have fun :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

germanwannabee 25 15 11 6 8
Thank you :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

mizinamo 17 16 14 14 14 14 13 10 9 6 6 6 4 3 2 2 669
Yes, lots :)

They tend to run on state-financed television, which doesn't have to care as much about number of viewers who can be advertised to. For example, the "PHOENIX" channel in German regularly broadcasts documentaries about things such as the icebergs of Greenland or the animals of the Sahara or the history of the French Revolution.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 886
I like this one:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=2KAmqiTpa8Y&list=PLzuWdvSduNtWlrVrqiCrFy\_UAFgafelgg

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Emerald.Isle 13 8 5 5 3 3
I don't know of any documentaries, but you might try watching German cartoons, if that's your thing. I would recommend "Peppa Pig". It's easy to understand because of the context.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

AwLYMM 21 464
The best German one I like to watch is: Quarks & co.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Cam_and_Alex 20 16 10 10 9 7 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 135
Heh. Not exactly a documentary, but if you want something funny and short to watch in German, look up "German Forklift Safety Video". It's hilarious. =P

The name of the legitimate video is "Forklift Driver Klaus English Subtitles", but I think there may be one without subtitles if you wanted the full German experience.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

676 How do I create my username?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204567804-How-do-I-create-my-username->

A username is a unique name that you choose for yourself. It is the name that you use to log in to Duolingo. This is also the name that community members will see if you comment in the forum on the web.

When creating your username make sure that:

It has a minimum of 3 characters
It has a maximum of 16 characters
Special characters or blank spaces are not allowed. (Please no profanity either)
Also, if a username is already taken, the system will show an error — so be creative!

If you are looking for a way to change your existing username, please check this out.

677 Vocabulary site BEOLINGUS

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2044628>

AliceMarie 19

I thought I would share one of my favorite vocabulary sites:

<http://dict.tu-chemnitz.de/dings.cgi?lang=en;service=deen>

I like it because it brings many, many citations for the German word you enter, and sometimes when you find several different translations of the word, you begin to get a feel for it.

For instance, I tried "verlassen". It can mean: to leave, to lose, to desert, to exit, to quit, to abandon, to vacate, to forsake and probably a few more things that essentially mean "adios". Except when it's a reflexive verb, in which case it can mean: to depend on, to trust, to count on, to confide in. That wide variety of translations can be very helpful when you are struggling with a sentence in immersion and the literal translation isn't making a lot of sense.

Anyway, I mostly use the site for translations, but there are a few other helpful things, like the grammar (preposition list).

Give Lingot2

103 years ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

robstar1a 14

Another good online German dictionary is <http://dict.leo.org/>

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pont 25 23 18 16 10 5 112

Between this, dict.cc , and pons.eu , German/English is pretty well-equipped with good online dictionaries! If only every language had equally rich resources...

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ViceMayor 21 6

This is usually my go-to dictionary. It also has a nice vocabulary trainer that you can really make use of when you make an account on there (free, easy-to-do). Any time you look up a word, you can click the downward-facing arrow furthest-right of the entry and enter it into your general vocabulary pool, from which you can further sort things into your own categorical vocab lists or whatever else you might like (they also have a library of community-shared vocab lists). You can then go into these lists and run through a couple of different types of exercises. Probably the most convenient way of doing "flashcard"-type work that I'm familiar with.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

sabisteb 24 23 15 14 12 12 1078

There are some more real good ones. You always should use 1-2 in parallel to check, each of these sites has other small problems.

<http://de.pons.com/> (also has a vocabulary trainer, normally they sell printed dictionaries. PONS is a big German publisher. The dictionary is very flexible)

<http://dict.leo.org/>

<http://www.dict.cc/>

For really hard cases and indiomatik stuff: <http://www.linguee.fr/>

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

678 Qu'est ce que le cinéma?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19391718>

James364536 16 8 3

I came across this book by Andre Bazin, but I couldn't quite make sense of the sentence. Shouldn't it be "Qu'est ce que le cinéma est ?"? This is supposed to mean "What is cinema?", but another sentence like "What does he do?" is translated as "Qu'est ce qu'il fait ?". Isn't "être" just another verb like "faire"? Or is there any special rule for "être"?

Give Lingot

23 months ago

Leave a new comment

4 Comments

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

In standard questions, "qu'est-ce que" can be followed by a noun as a question asking for the definition of the noun, or by a statement with subject and verb to ask for information:

qu'est-ce que | le cinéma ? = what | is cinema?

qu'est-ce que | tu fais ? = what | are you doing? / what | do you do?

Please note that since "qu'est-ce que" is used in standard questions, there are other ways of asking the same questions:

Formal questions:

- qu'est le cinéma ? = what is cinema?

- que fais-tu ? = what are you doing? / what do you do?

Informal questions:

- le cinéma, c'est quoi ?

- tu fais quoi ?

4ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

James364536 16 8 3

Thank you very much. So, a noun can be used after the "qu'est-ce que" construction without "être", I didn't know this.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

dorianbtdp 25 25 25 25 17 16 216

Well that's kinda weird to write it like that, but as a French native I'd understand it like "Qu'est-ce que le cinéma?". Also it's the same construction as "Qu'est-ce que c'est?" so it's probably right grammatically

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Arcaeca 17 13 6 5 5 3 3

As far as I can tell, it's not strictly grammatically incorrect to end a clause/sentence with être, but in general (I'm aware there are exceptions, such as Qu'est-ce que c'est as dorianbtdp mentioned) it sounds insufferably awkward, and as such you should do everything in your power to move the verb anywhere else you can. In a more informal situation, I believe C'est quoi, le cinéma? would fit the bill.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

679 "It is a necessary thing."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/256904>

Translation: Es una cosa necesaria.

04 years ago

Leave a new comment

76 Comments

marcoe14 7 2

es un asunto necesario, es correcto por que me la califican mala. deben verificar las respuestas. ojo.

15ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

edwinjoel369 14 6

Thing =cosa no asunto

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

liliana.ar5 11

pienso lo mismo

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[+] 2 hidden comments

[deactivated user]

Complicarse es un asunto innecesario.

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Joserraro 15

En efecto, despista (a mí me pasó) que al poner el cursor encima de la palabra "thing" te diga que se puede traducir como asunto, pero pienso que eso será en otro contexto, en esta frase quedaría raro: "es necesario hablar de ese asunto", "es un asunto a tener en cuenta", pero parece extraño lo de "un asunto necesario".

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

skbeto 7
eso es una cosa necesaria

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RM-65 23
this is a matter very confuse, since i started with doulingo , he is teaching us that a sentence must be an complete idea, but in this ocassion , i think than not!, i wonder myself " what thing is necessary"?, because i could think , that the sex is necessary for the health!, for example!, and it's a complete sentence. i am sorry if i am so expressive about it!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rosnysaldarriaga 15
amigo estas aprendiendo ingles o espanol

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarlosAlfo472085 11
YO TRADUJE ES UNA COSA NECESARIA

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DoraVasquez 23
Escorrecta mi traduccion

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JuliaAleja 9
Esto es una cosa necesaria

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GreeCardenas 11 8
Debió ser aceptada, ¿Qué pasó? 0:

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Guilermana1819 16
La escribí correctamente y marcaron como error

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sonnialv 13
Esta bn

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mmisaac 12
me califico cien antes de hora y me toco repetir

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

j1h2y3c4l6 15
Tiene el mismo sentidoUna cosa es necesario

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fer_stirlingite 11 7
porque a veces las palabras se cruzan por ejemplo hombre fabuloso = fabulous man no hiria primero man o como? help me please

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RubenAceve6 17 5 3 2
Es una cosa necesaria. Esa deberia der a respuesta

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gabo334943 9
Me voy mas por: "es algo necesario"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

laura130725 12 3
Para que tu traduccion sea correcta te falta el contexto. Por eso yo creo que hay que atenerse a lo literal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ingridrub 22 7 1
la traducción es un objeto necesario es también posible

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RodericoDe 15 50
Necessary no significa necesariamente??

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ulisescantillo 12
En la aplicacion de android califica mal la respuesta correcta

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MagdaPD2015 16

Esto es algo necesario, considero que la traducción es precisa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MagdaPD2015 16

Considero que no es correcta la calificación.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

cgalvez.sma 21 8 129

es lo mismo en español.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ErnestoAre12 20 18

Se quedó trabado el ejercicio

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

linamarce831 8

Esto es un asunto necesario es lo mismo que decir es un asunto necesario.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

DanielaGon694239 14

"es necesario una cosa tambien" se puede no???

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Emma125632 11

Es necesaria una cosa deberia estar admitido?

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

justiniano 13

No mola y es una caca

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

skidesse_2B 11

¿La palabra "objeto" no es válida? ¿Por qué?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

AlejandroS716082 11

En México se acostumbra es necesaria una cosa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

josers205 13

Es necesaria una cosa porque me dicen que me equivoque porque ayuda please gente buena y culta

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

EliseoGonz644311 21 4

Es necesaria una cosa.cual es la diferencia?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

fjgb58 12 1

es necesaria una cosa

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

pepevic 15

no se oye bien . thing

-1ReplyGive Lingot•4 years ago

abikor 12

me parece que cosa o asunto es correcto, podria aclararme?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rosnysaldarriaga 15

el contexto te da la explicacion en el texto hablan de algo general cosa , el asunto es mas concreto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

edwinjoel369 14 6

Asunto pude ser algo pendiente y cosa puede ser que se refiera a un objeto como desir el agua es necesaria para la humanidad espero haber sido de ayuda

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

moderna 22 12

Puse es un asunto necesario y me la dió mal- no entiendo porqué-Si alguien puede explicarme le agradezco

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

KaterinAvila 10

OJO es un asunto necesario deberia ser correcto !!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

msans25 8

Ésto es una cosa necesaria debería ser correcto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LeVe1740 11 3

cuando una frase empieza como "It is" se traduce solo como "es". Al menos, eso me explicaron a mi. Por eso te lo dieron como mal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

CataaRalde 8 3

"Es un objeto necesario" Por que esta mal?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Belar... 12

Traduje "es necesario una cosa" y no lo calificó bien...

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LeVe1740 11 3

necesario es usado como adjetivos del sustantivo "cosa".

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mervingalindo 13

mi respuesta debio ser aceptada, ES UN ASUNTO NECESARIO es lo mismo que ES UNA COSA NECESARIA

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gelema 19

Es un asunto necesario. Para mí es correcto. Si alguien sabe cuál es el error por favor dejarme el comentario.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Daniel-in-BC 19

"thing" es muy general, "asunto" es más específico

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mayomayo1 9

efectivamente, si pones el ratón encima de "thing" lo traduce como asunto, y luego no te deja escribirlo...., por favor revisenlo

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

guiralon 6

esto es una cosa necesaria

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

guiralon 6
esto es una cosa necesaria " IT IS .....

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LeVe1740 11 3
cuando una frase empieza como "It is" se traduce solo como "es". Al menos, eso me explicaron a mi. Por eso te lo dieron como mal.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JerlynMarcela 7
si en la propia traducción que ustedes nos dan de thing dice ( cosa o asunto ) y no la dan valida con asunto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

pradocd 14 2
Me parece mal que no acepte "es un asunto necesario", ya que lo pone como posibles traducciones

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rosyyy100 14 9 4
por que si escribi "'es un asunto necesario"

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JC.Diaz 9
Es una cosa necesario -> me dice q esta mal porqueeeeeee!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LeVe1740 11 3
necesariO esta mal porque deberia ser necesariA. El adjetivo lleva el mismo genero q el sustantivo. "IA manzanA es roja" "el perrO es feO" "la cosA es necesariA".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

christiandavidxf 12
Es un asunto necesario debería ser valido.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Paty.q.g 8
Yo escribí esto es una cosa necesaria. No sabía si debía ser muy literal o no, también me la califican mal.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LeVe1740 11 3

porq traducis IT. Cuando una frase empieza como "It is" se traduce solo como "es". Al menos, eso me explicaron a mi. Por eso te lo dieron como mal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kmilog06 10

"Es un asunto necesario". Deberían incluirlo como respuesta válida. Gracias

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Guti94 9

es necesario una cosa por que no?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IrmaL.Gonzalez 25 6

en español puedes decir: es una cosa necesaria o es necesaria una cosa. pero me marcaron error y si nosotros respetamos su idioma ustedes háganlo también

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IreneFajar1 14 13

Es una cosa necesaria, no es lo mismo que Es necesaria una cosa.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

laura130725 12 3

Efectivamente, desde el punto de vista se la corrección, se puede elidir algunos pronombres como yo, tu, esta, nosotros y ellos en la mayoría de las circunstancias porque se sobreentiende que otro pronombre no puede ir. Pero esto no significa que usarlos sea incorrecto. Así que Duolingo debería tomar como valida la opción "Esta es una cosa necesaria". "Esto" no es correcto porque remplaza a "este asunto" o "este tema", y, como carecemos del contexto de la oración, no sabemos si se refiere a un asunto o, literalmente, a una "cosa" u objeto.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lyon_elias 13

No hay como equivocarse escriban lo que el juego pide no lo que ustedes creen

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dlateraliz 13 6

Es una cuestion necesaria! Deberia estar correcto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JerlynMarcela 7

si en la traducción de thing que ustedes nos dan aparece (asunto) por que no la dan valida

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

robert2204 15

El ASUNTO es que tenemos que aprender mas inglés, porque la COSA es que nos equivocamos

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PedroBallesta 16

" es necesaria una cosa " o " una cosa es necesaria " significa lo mismo y debería ser correcta.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

680 2^ frase latina da tradurre, la prima è stata tradotta grazie a papimarce.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/520779>

Posted 3 years ago by [deactivated user]

REMOVERE VIVENTES IN HAC VITA DE STATU MISERE ET PERDUCERE AD STATUM FELICITATIS (Dante). Allontanare coloro che vivono in questo mondo dallo stato di miseria e condurli ad uno stato di felicità.

Give Lingot

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

Papimarce 25 32

keep away the people who live in this world from state of misery and to lead them to a state of felicity

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

Molto bene, risposta accettata, grazie. Un'altra risposta è: Alienate those who live in this world from the state of misery and lead to a state of happiness.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

681 Does someone know of a chat group for people who want to practice their German

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/13578989>

misho130249 14

Please if you know about a chatting group for the people who want to improve their German language tell me about it. I really need that. Thank you

Give Lingot

11 year ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

PierreRousselFan 16 15 14 11 11 10 10 8 8 7 5 4 4 4 3 2 19

You could also try HelloTalk to find a language buddy. Many polyglots also use Twitter and it's easy to connect with people there too.

Off topic: what is the deal with all the downvotes for perfectly legit questions? I have not seen that in any other language board, only the German one. Am I the only one who thinks that this is a rude behavior?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

El_Gusano 25 25 15 12 7 6 5 5 5 5 2 424

I was trolled for making suggestions and it's not just the German sites.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PierreRousselFan 16 15 14 11 11 10 10 8 8 7 5 4 4 4 3 2 19

Urgh, that is so stupid. Well, maybe it is because there are not so many participants in the minority languages, but somehow it seems like people are a lot nicer over there.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

El_Gusano 25 25 15 12 7 6 5 5 5 5 2 424

I don't know what city or country you're in or your age so this suggestion may not be useful (or very useful)...

I got a free account a week ago in meetup.com and have already met with 3 Spanish speaking groups. Great meet ups in restaurants and coffee houses! I've spent almost 9 hours this week speaking and listening to Spanish. Learned so much!

There's also conversationexchange.com I've used to chat with online friends in Spanish by text and by Skype.

Of course you're learning German but I'm sure there's people out there who you could help learn English while you learn German!

Good luck!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jayeidge 22 14 10 2

You could have a look here. The German group is rather active.

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/12588764>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

necronudist85 24 14 9

The Telegram link doesn't work for me. Is it the same group of /r/German?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jayeidge 22 14 10 2

Do you have a problem connecting to the group or with installing telegram? For the German Group try <https://telegram.me/joinchat/Cei4oDyBfJuym9ToT3T74Q>

If all else fails and you are at telegram contact me:@jayeidge

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

necronudist85 24 14 9

This link worked, thank you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Frau_Carrie 13

Did the group change? I'm looking for a chat group. Danke

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

jayeidge 22 14 10 2

Yes, the links changed:

Beginner German: <https://telegram.me/joinchat/CLreZz42Ze-iuctwBk8zVw>

German Chat: <https://telegram.me/joinchat/CLreZz-Usy73R8w8j5foOg>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

682 What does this mean?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19812965>

Meadows24 7 4 4 2

I am ms. Honey in the play matilda for my school. She says something in itslian and i want to know how to say it and what it means.

"Ah si parla italiano! Buona! Parlo un pocosi! Come stai?

Give Lingot

73 months ago

Leave a new comment

13 Comments

therealpalumbo 19 11 9 2 2 3

"Ah, you speak Italian! Good! I speak a little bit! How are you?"

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

DuoFaber 14 13 12 12 11 11 9 9 300

Would it be possible to correct the screenplay? The correct phrase should be: "Ah, parla italiano! Bene! Anch'io lo parlo un po', sì! Come sta?"

Good luck with the play! :)

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Lento_Rodriguez 13 12 11 10 7 5 3 2 2 2 2 2

I don't know anything about the play but maybe it's supposed to be wrong.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

DuoFaber 14 13 12 12 11 11 9 9 300

Google Translate translates "you speak Italian" into "si parla italiano", so I'm pretty sure that's where the bad translation came from. But you're right, it would make sense that a character who speaks only a little Italian would make a few mistakes :)

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Lento_Rodriguez 13 12 11 10 7 5 3 2 2 2 2 2

You are probably right then, they may want a correct translation.

I was thinking of Sam on Extr@ en español when he first arrived in Spain trying to introduce himself in Spanish, thinking maybe it was a scene like that.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

hattieeee 17 8 6

I love Matilda! I saw it on stage for my 13th birthday and it was awesome. I wish you luck! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

hughcparker 21 19 14 435

Since this post is about Italian, could you move it to the Italian forum? More of the people who are interested in Italian will see it there, and it will help keep this forum easy to navigate for those who aren't currently studying Italian.

Don't delete it and create a new one, just click edit, and change the topic from Duolingo to Italian. Here's a guide on how to move a post: <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16609773>.

Thanks :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

KristenDQ 19 16 15 13 13 13 12 10 9 768

"Ah you speak Italian! Good! I speak a little bit! How about you?"

On a side note, I LOVE "Matilda" and would LOVE to play The Trunchbull some day! Break a leg!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Meadows24 7 4 4 2

Thanks! I am so excited. I was the understudy. The girl that was playing ms. Honey was a famous actress. But now she has a new movie so I am doing it for her

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

WaterPolyglot 15 10 8 101

Wait a minute, Ms. Honey never says that in the book! Is your play a different version? Because the book does not mention anything about Italian and Ms. Honey in the same sentence, much alone together.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

[deactivated user]

The musical is different than the books. I'm pretty sure there wasn't music in the books either.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

WaterPolyglot 15 10 8 101

Yeah, there wasn't. Thanks.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Meadows24 7 4 4 2

The Broadway play is nothing like the book

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

683 "Ich gehe zum Park."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/997154>

Translation: I go to the park.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

24 Comments

TiagoSaboga 19 12 10 10 9

What is the difference between "ich gehe zum Park" and "ich gehe in den Park"?

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dobbs17 11

"Ich gehe zum Park" means you're walking to the park, and "ich gehe in den Park" means you're walking into it. So it depends on context really. (Also, the first is dative and the second is accusative)

15ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HealThySelf 24 18 11 95

I'm confused here. Previously, I had made some notes about going 'to' somewhere = change = accusative. z.b. Ich gehe in den Park. I am going "into", or "to" the park. I wasn't there before, but I will be. Whereas, Ich gehe im Park = I was already in the park and will continue to be, thus, I am walking in the park. So, if I understand correctly, I go to the park can be either accusative or dative depending on how it's written. Entweder "Ich gehe in den park" Accusative. Oder "Ich gehe zum park" Dative. Both imply movement, but even so, can be either accusative or dative, so, can we just choose how we want to say/write it?

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dobbs17 11

There are certain prepositions that always take the dative case (aus, ausser, bei, mit, nach, seit, von, zu).

And also for accusative (dass, für, gegen, ohne, um, bis)

The rest of the prepositions (an, auf, in, über, etc.) depend on whether or not there is movement, so you're right! In those cases that's how you figure it out. But you need to memorize the prepositions that are only dative/only accusative.

Hope I help! :)

20ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AZAizaz1 8

You can remember two words. SNAM BVZ (Seit, nach, aus, mit, bei, von, zu) and for Accusative you can remember FUDUGE (für, durch, über, gegen, entlang)

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HealThySelf 24 18 11 95

Hi dobbs17. Yes you do help. Thanks for taking the time to explain. I have picked up the Accusative prepositions along as my studies progressed (DOGFU, Durch, Ohne, gegen etc.). have a lingot. Schönes Wochenende auch :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Stickmind58 19 224

Is zum a contraction of "zu dem"?

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SilverBaron 8

Yes it is. :)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ry_Dawg 25 8 3 2 2

Why is "zu" used instead of "nach"?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mahoney20130702 18 7

Since zu is a two way preposition wouldn't zum the dativ mean the verb is doing something stationary. and therefore translate as I am going in the park.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Katherle 25 22 12

"Zu" is not a two-way preposition. It's a dative preposition, i.e. it is always followed by the dative case. The motion vs. fixed location distinction is not relevant here, as it only applies to two-way prepositions.

See: http://german.about.com/library/blcase\_dat2.htm

15ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mahoney20130702 18 7

okay thanks, I had the lists of dative prepositions and the list of two-way prepositions switched in my head

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

fochoac 13 6 6

Whats the difference between zum and zur?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Stickmind58 19 224

Zum is a contraction of "zu dem" which would be used for masculine and neuter nouns, and zur is a contraction of "zu der" which would be used for feminine nouns. Zu requires dative case.

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

zulfikarbiruni 22 9 8 8 7 6 3 2 16

Noted thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Aigabolia 10 8

What's the difference between nach and zum?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Bekir978479 25 191

Prepositions such as to the, into etc. which one uses when describing a movement toward something are confusing. zur-zum, ins, in den, nach, nach der, etc. (Ich gehe nach Hause-Ich gehe zur Schule.) Is there a definite rule or does one simply learn-memorize them as they come?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

hechap 14 3 185

What about is you are going to something female? Ich gehe zu der Brücke. I go to the bridge. Can you use the contraction for "zu + der" in that sentence?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Stickmind58 19 224

Yes, "zu der" is contracted to "zur".

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

SkyChelcy 12

What about "Ich gehe nach dem Park"? Would that be grammatically correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

MatteoMonz 13 11 9 9 3 3 1

Could I say "Ich gehe aus den Park", using aus instead of zu?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Stickmind58 19 224

I think "aus" would mean "from" or "out of".

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MatteoMonz 13 11 9 9 3 3 1

Thanks! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

JANETAFEKU 13 1

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=com.atistudios.italk.de>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

684 New German voice

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8130426>

lori28 24 23 18 14 10 7

Finally a male voice! I like it!

Give Lingot

171 year ago

Leave a new comment

48 Comments

PenKnight 17 16 9 7 4

I don't like the new male voice. It's much less clear than the regular female voice. :(

34ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

Chezzik 15

I think it's actually recorded at a lower bitrate than the female. It makes it much more difficult to understand.

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

p8c 16 16 16 16 16 16 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 657

i agree. i do not like it. it is scratchy, it repeats syllables in "essen" to "essensen" and often times completely unintelligible. the female voice is very clear. i am hoping they can fix it.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

egopista 21 10 334

The new male voice is much worse than the female :( I have to repeat voice recognition sentences many time, so I fail all my timed practices :(

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MohamedAshraf0 23 7 2 2
can't agree more with you

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ich-bin-Ben 23 8 6 4

How do I select the female voice? I'm getting frustrated at this point with the new voice. Its not as clear as the female one. I know in the real world I am likely to encounter lots of varied voices and accent subtleties. But at this point I feel a little like I'm trying to learn German from a drunken sailor. Well maybe not quite that bad, but frustrating all the same. It's more the abrupt change at a point I felt I was starting to make some real progress. I feel this should be an option, and not forced test groups.

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ich-bin-Ben 23 8 6 4

I found I've needed to go back to the first lesson to get used to the new voice. I guess it will make my comprehension stronger in the long run.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SpongeOver 23 10 7 6 3 2

I like it too. Caught me off guard though. I'm getting a mix of male and female. I think it's good practice to mix it up a bit. :)

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OldSpiceGuy 25 25 13 5 4

Maybe you're in a test group? I still get the woman. Was there a setting, or does it switch back and forth? Is this on the phone app or website?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Rattl 25 19 16 1045

It looks like there is a new test, it is called "multi_voice_tts_experiment". I'm in the group titled "female"--so I assume no noticeable change for me, either. I would also be interested in the mechanics of it (if it switches back and forth, etc). It sounds nifty!

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PenKnight 17 16 9 7 4

How can you tell if there is a test and what group are you in?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Rattl 25 19 16 1045

Here is the thread on it that I keep bookmarked:

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5023812>

It probably explains it faster than I can. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PenKnight 17 16 9 7 4
Cool! Thanks! :)

btw, my group is "both", and indeed I'm getting both the female and the male voices.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Rattl 25 19 16 10 45
Interesting!

I have to admit I ... I'm a little bit jealous. :)

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

tomsherida 13 5
I am also in "female" but I would really like to hear the man's voice. I logged out of my account about ten times and started German again in a get started account and check the duo.user.attributes.ab_options log. Many of the experiments change between true and false as well as a few other but it was always 'female'. Looks like only people using duo for awhile get it. I could be wrong.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

lori28 24 23 18 14 10 7
I have only done the website today, so I don't know if it's on the phone app. Some of the website lesson was with the same female voice, but some of it was with a male voice. I guess I'm in the test group.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FruzsinaSi 13 10 2
I just did a lesson and was surprised to hear a male voice. It is randomly switching between the female and the male after about 2-3 questions. I do not like the sound of the guy though :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Shugah42 19 10 3 2
The pronunciation of the new voice it terrible... I had "Das Essen" and it said it like "Das Es-essen".

5ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

p8c 16 16 16 16 16 16 15 14 13 13 12 12 11 11 657
and "essen-sen"! i wish they would fix it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bvogel1 25 24 11 8 3

I was quite startled at first, along the lines of "Whoa, I thought I was doing my Duolingo; am I on Memrise by mistake?" But I do like it, I think the male/female contrast is very important for the audio portion and I think it's a great addition to the course.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tattertodd 23 22 12 12 10 857

I like it! Sure was surprised. I hope ultimately they offer three options: Male, Female, and alternate between both voices (or even have both voice clips available to mouse over so you can hear the same sentence in both voices). Makes for better listening practice if you are hearing more than just one voice all the time.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kjaereste 25 9 8 7

I have both of the voices and I like the new male one. Training your audio perception isn't fun with just one clear voice, imo. Plus, I find the male voice oddly soothing.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HeatingUp 18

I love both voices. I now have the mans voice.. awesome to switch it up

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ReWorst 25 6 4

i like it

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Cyneburg 15 15 11 11 9 5 1

I like the male voice. At least he gets er and ihr right. The female voice sounds the same also she annoys me. Just my opinion.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MintyNinja41 18 14 7 7

Is it just me... or does the new male voice sound rather like Rainn Wilson a la The Office?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MusingThoughts 11 4 2

How odd! I have the female voice. How did you set your voice?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bvogel1 25 24 11 8 3

That's the weird thing; I didn't set anything... I just started hearing a male voice during this morning's future tense exercise totally out of the blue.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MusingThoughts 11 4 2
Were you freaked out a bit?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bvogel1 25 24 11 8 3
Yeah, for a second I thought I was on Memrise by mistake! :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lori28 24 23 18 14 10 7
You can't set it. It looks like some people are part of a test group and some people aren't.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dave.pretty 25 25 25 22 21 20 2 28
I'm in the alternation group, and I really like. They have slightly different pronunciations and maybe even slightly different accents (that is for a native speaker to say). Not only is "er" and "ihr" clearer with the guy, as someone else has noted, but finally "ist" does not sound like "list." OTOH, "Länge" sounded like "Linge" instead of the "Laynge" I've always heard (and not just here).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MarionMoonlight 21 5 2
The quality of the "male" voice is terrible. I guess he was chewing his microphone during recording sessions.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bossy_Boots 15
I hate it

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Seamus747 24 18 16 7 908
I absolutely hate the new German male voice. It is too deep and so much harder to understand than the previous female voice with her extra clear diction. Please bring the lady back or, at the very least, allow us users to select the voice each person prefers.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Brummig 19 15 976
Whilst having different voices should be a good thing, I find the male voice all but impossible. It's gurgly, and the pronunciation is appalling to the point of being incomprehensible. Sometimes I have to play speech on the slow setting over and over again, and even then I can't always work out what he is saying. But at least the last mispronounced phrase I had made me smile - "Sie laufen mit ihren Enten" (it should have been Eltern, of course).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SolomonPierce 17 7 6 3

VYE KANT ZEY ADD A WOICE ZAT SCHOUTS ZE GERMAN ATCHU!?!?!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lori28 24 23 18 14 10 7

Haha

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PacaViro 10 10 8 7 6 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 1

I want to hear it but I'm not part of the group I guess.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SpongeOver 23 10 7 6 3 2

Perhaps it's only in the later lessons. I'm on "Future 2". I've only got 14 lessons / topics to go till I finish my tree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

microwavers 11 11 5

i don't like the new male voice at all. it's so low! it makes it really difficult to learn new words when the voice saying them is this low. i always feel compelled to repeat sentences in the same intonation as the voice on duolingo, so this baritone definitely sets a challenge.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

denlan99 17

Hard to understand. Please switch back.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

phummon 9

I have a very difficult time understanding the new Male voice. It seems that some like him, but I don't. I would appreciate a way to switch between the two to fit my preference.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

bmtravis 14 7 5 3

Is there any way to change it back to the female voice?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lori28 24 23 18 14 10 7

I don't think so but I'm sure they will work on improving it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SabineK88 8 3

Glad you like it, but I would like to have the option to switch back. :( I liked the female voice better.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

grumpy6165 11

I find the male voice very hard to understand even on the slow voice speed mode. Sounds like has has a mouth full of marbles. I find it frustrating that with some words I am guessing what the male voice is saying and then getting the answer wrong. It takes alot of the enjoyment from the learning with pointless repetitions from a voice-over who has had too much Weissbier.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Irmgardsdottir 12 2

I'm not liking the male voice, personally. shrugs

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

685 "Er war vorher zu Hause."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3823310>

Translation: He was previously at home.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

12 Comments

sandrayojana 21 11 5 5 2

Why not before ?

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bharat_India 18 9 6 5

Haus and Hause! I am unable to get it. Please explain.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EeroK 12 5

das Haus = the house

zu Hause = at home

nach Hause = (to) home

The latter are exceptions, fixed expressions. If you look up your dictionary, you won't even find the gender for the word "Hause" because it does not exist as a standalone word. If just talking about home in general, you use words like "das Zuhause" or "das Heim".

22ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Bharat_India 18 9 6 5

Thanks a lot!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

helrasincke 21 20 15 14 12 11 8 6 2 2

'Hause' is archaic German, hence being no longer used as a word except in some fixed expressions. I think it's a relic of a mostly obsolete part of the dative case, which affixes an -e to the end of some singular nouns. This can also be seen in the motto "Dem Deutschen Volke" (which means "to the German people"), and expressions "am Tage" (during the day), "auf dem Lande" (in the country).

At this point I wouldn't stress about them, and as @EeroK said, they're an exception. Just know when to recognise it in expressions.

Further reading if you're still confused: <http://forum.wordreference.com/threads/haus-vs-hause.1574076/>

Hope this helped!

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JackBond 18 9 5 5 4

So I was under the impression that davor and vorher were subordinating conjunctions. This doesn't look like it has a subordinate clause.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sninguistics 15 11 11 10 4 2 3

What is the difference between using 'zu Hause' and 'heim'? Are they interchangeable? Is 'heim' restricted to 'heimgehen', or is er war vorher heim also acceptable?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vladimirbulgaru 23 143

What is wrong about "Before that he was home"?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

aminx10 17 42

May I use zuvor instead of vorher? "ich bin zuvor zu Hause"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

talsfan 16 13

[deleted]

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

TiagoSaboga 19 12 10 10 9

See the previous answer: it is not at the house, but at home.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ingolfr7 25 5 2 42

The audio on this always trips me up, I hear "warvor her" rather than "war vorher".

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

686 What is Duolingo?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204829090-What-is-Duolingo->

Duolingo is the world's largest online language learning platform. It was recognized as Apple's iPhone App of the Year of 2013 as well as Google Play's Best of the Best of 2013 and 2014.

Duolingo's adaptive experience has gamified elements to make language learning more fun and effective. 100 million students are learning a language with Duolingo. Did we mention that Duolingo is also 100% free? Join the movement, sign up today!

For more details, visit our about page.

687 "Si vive solo una volta."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1310861>

Translation: You only live once.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

14 Comments

daniela.ni4 11 6

"We live only once" me la da sbagliata ma io penso che si possa dire..

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lorena.stu 25 2

Guarda che quella che leggo come risposta giusta e' quella che scrivi tu sai "we live only once".
Perchè dici che te la da errata?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cavana 20

Hi daniela: la frase è una forma impersonale. La tua osservazione è giusta, perché rientra in una delle modalità. "we" si usa quando si include anche chi parla. Bye!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

inventable 12

Nelle risposte, propongo che sia rimpiazzata la frase "You only live once" per "We live only once" lasciando anche "One lives only once".

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

algiango 8

Se dovessi tradurre dall'inglese all'italiano sarebbe " voi/tu vivi una sola volta" quindi come si traduce in forma riflessiva "si vive una sola volta" ?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cavana 20

Hi algiango ... "Si vive una sola volta" non è una forma riflessiva, ma "impersonale". Le tre forme suggerite da Inventable sono corrette. Se non si vuole indicare chi compie l'azione, spesso si usa il "si" con il verbo nella forma attiva, come in questa costruzione " You only live once " (impiegata nel linguaggio informale ). Alcuni esempi. (a) You can see the snow from far away. La neve si vede da lontano. (b) Le cime delle montagne non si vedono per le nuvole. You can't see the mountain top, because of the clouds. (c) Vendendosi all'ingrosso, i vestiti costano meno. Being sold in bulk, clothes cost less. (d) Vedutesi le conseguenze, il progetto fu abbandonato. When the consequences became apparent, the plan was abandoned. (e) E' un formaggio da mangiarsi fresco. One must eat this cheese fresh. Bye!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

laurarigo 16 7 3 55

A me ha dato per buono we live only once

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

makemesmile 10 6

Yolo:')

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrancescoM7878 9 8

"It lives only once" perche it non va bene?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ElvioTidili 18

La pronuncia di "live" è completamente sbagliata. Continuano a pronunciare "laiv" invece di "liv", quando "laiv" significa "vivo" e non "voce del verbo vivere"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

poetto66 15

Che c'entra con la sezione animali??????

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

carlopet 18

Perchè è sbagliato " we live only one time " ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mariangela216039 8

E quando si usa "onself "?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DRAGONIK1 14 1

Scusate ma in questo caso We live non stá ad indicare "viviamo"? E come mai si vive lo da uguale?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

688 "Both parents are at home now. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/429283>

Translation: Ambos os pais estão em casa agora.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment

34 Comments

Josuel 25 13

Em português nativo do Brasil os brasileiros não escrevem e não expressam-se desta maneira. o correto seria "Ambos estão em casa agora" ou "Os pais estão em casa agora" as palavra ambos pais ficam redundantes na frase.

23ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cezarcenario 25 25 25 11 8 359

Josuel, não costumamos falar, mas o correto é mesmo "ambos" = dois (pai e mãe, por exemplo) . Exemplifiquemos : marquei uma reunião na Casa do John com os pais de mais quatro adolescentes. Pergunto : Todos os pais já estão aqui ? Ele não pode me responder : "Ambos os pais" mas sim "Os pais" ou "Todos os pais" já estão aqui, ou já chegaram.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lisergic 9 8

Concordo josuel. Falar em "ambos os pais" fica esquisito e não é usual, a não ser que seja um casal homoafetivo (pode ser o caso, não sei...). Errei esta pois usei "Os pais estão em casa..."

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

Perfeito!

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

guilhermenarbona 15

em inglês acho que tbm não a frase quer dizer (ambos os casais, ambos os pais)

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Elielduolingo 14 9

Ambos os casais seriam dois pares, e só tem um casal.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

guilhermenarbona 15

Não, tem dois casais, dois pares. Parents quer dizer casal (pai e mãe), então os dois casais, ambos os casais. ok ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DelanePaiva 20 7 12

Não, Guilherme. Quer dizer apenas um casal mesmo, que é o pai e a mãe. Se fosse dois casais seriam 2 pais e 2 mães.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

joseoiteiro 7

A tradução não parece de facto a mais correcta. Qualquer coisa como: "Os dois pais estão agora em casa." também deveria ser aceite.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

psouza.felipe 10

Coloquei o mesmo, também acho que deveria ser aceite =/

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jorgedevargas 25 24 20 4

por que não foi aceite em casa, se na tradução existe a tradução no/na para at

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

godoyfabio 12

no lar ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

kerissonfalcao 13 5

both the parents..... ficaria errado?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SantosLuciane 21

Não entendo mais nada,,, uma hora eu escrevo other, e está errado outra hora escrevo another e está errado também; o pior é que nem o google tradutor sabe. Eu realmente não sei como usar essas palavras o duolingo não fala nada,, Tá difícil!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vontade 21 9 7

Olá SantosLuciane. segue um link de um site onde você pode estrudar e tirar suas dúvidas.

<http://www.inglesnapontadalingua.com.br/2010/12/qual-diferenca-entre-other-others-e.html>

Espero que seja útil!!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Rafaelalves2 17

Eu poderia estar falando de pais de pessoas diferentes.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GuaracySan 16 15 3

No Brasil seria também corret Meus pais estão em casa agora.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alexandre756537 13 14

Devemos usar a norma culta

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

REdS_95 14

Não deveria aceitar "Both parents are home now"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

emeyr 25 25

Certo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

REdS_95 14

Obrigado pela resposta, vou reportar.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

emeyr 25 25

Both = dois

Ambos os pais = Both parents = Both the father and the mother are at home now.

Recife and Olinda are located in the Northeast. Both cities have beaches. (Ambas as cidades têm praias.)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

RafaelsilvaCosta 15 2 2

não entendo porque não aceitou, ambos dos pais estão na casa agora

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Vontade 21 9 7

RafaelsilvaCosta, nesse caso a tradução correta fica: Ambos ( o pai e a mãe ), sendo assim fica " Ambos os pais" e não, "Ambos dos pais", como vc traduziu. Afinal, em português sua tradução, também não está correta. Espero ter ajudado! Abraço!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nifeab 12

tambem queria saber pq nao pode usar NA casa

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

emeyr 25 25

na casa = in/at the house

em casa = at home

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

VerdandiFate 18

mas.... Não deveria ser ...'at the home...? Por que dispensou o 'the' de sempre?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ronildon 17 3

Tradução ridícula

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AdemirRamo1 12

Dá no mesmo...!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DavidCosta715646 14

Deveria ser in, e não at.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

689 "Yo hablo."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/314021>

Translation: I speak.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

152 Comments

cam11111 3

No m quiedan vidas :-(-(-(-(-(-

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarolinaCa535417 5

Bueno esfuercesen le voy a dar un gran metodo todo lo que aprendan esrbanlo en un cuaderno

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

eudys1984 7

Muy buena idea

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RosaVargas518727 6
todos no creo que quieran

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

SantiagoPa873119 6
Todo lo que escribamos o agamos tambien se puede?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sirenanere 5
Lo siento , tendras que repetir

2ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

MiaVale77 4
Sorry

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mariadelpi420830 3
Porque no sabes

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mgdlrosa 6
Oooooo queeee pena

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago
[+] 3 hidden comments

camii11111 3
Es verda

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago
[+] 2 hidden comments

Cynthia 2
Porq me marca equivocacion cuando selecciono speak

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LuisGCH 13 3
"I speak"

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

krmn.ahaba 7

tienes que poner i speak (yo hablo), ya que si únicamente pones SPEAK diría HABLAR

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JhonAngl 3

Es cuando hay terceras personas verdad ?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Abrahamer8 4 4

Eao digo yo,a mi me pasa igual

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KaryCH14 18 7 7 7

Debe ser "I speak" si no se lee como "habla"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

juanjo122601 5

Esa es mi pregunta tambn

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MiaVale77 4

Escribiste= I SPEAK?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fatudabo 4

Pq speak es verbo hablar, pero hablo es speaking

-11ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JhonatanJa8 3

Speaking es hablando

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

juanita_1tkm 3

tienes razón

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 2 hidden comments

keyli 8

cual es la diferencia entre talk y speak?

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Joshep17 8

Es complejo, pero para resumírtelo es: Speak se utiliza para referirse al acto de hablar en sí. I speak English (Yo hablo inglés). Talk se refiere más a conversación. I would like to talk to you (Quisiera conversar contigo).

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

IsaacGuill 6
que talk es platicar y speaks es ablar

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JhonatanJa8 3
Speak se usa para decir que habla en un idioma diferente o un tema específico

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GonzaloAgu17 3
si es cierto

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

deimisterio 4
No hay diferencia solo que son diferentes palabras pero con el mismo significado

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago
[+] 3 hidden comments

Nogari 6
porqué I am si es tiempo presente

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JhonatanJa8 3
Am es presente y was y were pasado Y porque dice soy o estoy

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rosamariingles 8
Por q speaking?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jaquimisso 11
...ing es presente progresivo es decir q se esta realizando la acción: hablar- hablando...speak-speaking

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gmartinezr 3
El ING por qué

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

EdwinJDC 18 5 95

El "ing" es en gerundio, o sea, es cuando estás realizando la acción en el momento. Ejemplos: Yo estoy corriendo = I am running | Él está durmiendo = He is sleeping

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kayronmartin 6

Oye tu repuesta me ayudo mucho gracias!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JhonatanJa8 3

Es ando endo e indo

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

caro96050724074 4

Lo mas complicado son los verbos hay reglas para eso

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

JhonatanJa8 3

Si, si se usa she he o it se pone una s al final

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

joe.reyes.1 8

Casi no entiendo speak y speaks

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EdwinJDC 18 5 95

Hola, Joe. Realmente es algo muy sencillo, pero sino lo comprendes es muy fácil que te confundas y hasta es fácilmente frustrante también. Mira: "speaks" con la "s" solo lo debes usar cuando el verbo (en este caso "speaks") está en tercera persona del singular. No sé si te sabes el orden de los pronombres personales, sino es así, me lo haces saber. Regresando con "speaks", por ejemplo: He speaks English very good. ← Si te das cuenta "He" es en tercera persona del singular, al igual que "she" y "it", entonces en estos casos se le debe agregar la "s" al final al verbo como es "speak". También hay que entender que cuando vas a mencionar a una persona ÚNICAMENTE, esta estará como tercera persona del singular. Como por ejemplo: Juan speaks Spanish very fast. ← Juan está en tercera persona del singular. En el caso de los otros tipos de pronombres, no llevan la "s" al final del verbo que les sigue y esto hace al inglés mucho más fácil o mucho menos difícil. Espero te halla servido. ¡Suerte!

26ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

felipeCxcv 7

Me explicas lo de los pronombres, gracias

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ElChiniNet 14

@EdwinJDC se refiere a los pronombres personales, de manera resumida estos son:

Yo (I) [Primera persona del singular]

Nosotros (We) [Primera persona del plural]

Tú / Vos (You) [Segunda persona del singular]

Vosotros / Ustedes (You) [Segunda persona del plural]

Él / Ella (He / She) [Tercera persona del singular]

Ellos / Ellas (They) [Tercera persona del plural]

Sólo se debe añadir la "s" al verbo cuando se trate de la tercera persona del singular.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Inti_13 3

Uno es singular y otro prural

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

fernandomen84 5

Diferencia entre "speak" y "talk"? por favor.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

OmarMoreno284479 11

Casi siempre se usa así: Speak=hablar. Talk = platicar

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FernandoXi1 5

Speak se usa para hablar y talk es más bien para una conversación

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Inti_13 3

Speak: Hablo

Talk: Habla

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MaVa2 5

,

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ajedrez100 12 7 123

I talk, sería lo correcto, no?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rts6891 11

I. Speak

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PabloDARKE 2

Por que me puso mal "I am speak"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SantiagoPa873119 6

I m speak = yo estoy hablando.

I speak = yo hablo

Si mi respuesta esta mala corriganmen por favor

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ElChiniNet 14

La primera que has puesto debería ser "I am speaking", debes utilizar el verbo en gerundio en ese caso. El error de @PabloDARKE es que utilizó el verbo "to be" (ser o estar) que no era el caso de este ejercicio.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EstefanySo11 8

Wow! Jaja no entendia cuando me lo corrijo.

Speaks es para la 3ra persona

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AtaraxianSpa 11 5

Pero 3ra persona plural es "speak"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

javiergoet 3

Hello

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

ElviaMom 2

I speak

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MARIOALBER289070 7

No rntiendo mucho por que la traduccion no es muy buena

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MARIOALBER289070 7

No rntiendo mucho por que la traduccion no es muy buena

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jjgf8212 4

Escribi bien y me sale error ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariacVenera 10

I speak, me parece que esta correcto, es primera persona, no es la trecer

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

valehello 6

Speak es el verbo que significa hablar y se encuentra en el presente simple.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DragonPhase 7 5 3 2 2 2

Hay diferencia entre Talk y Speak?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AtaraxianSpa 11 5

Usualmente, no. Para algunas frases, sí. "Speak up!" "Talk down to" "Speak the truth" "Talk is cheap"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

almaluz21 4

No comprendo lo que me quieren decir con la tercera persona

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ElChiniNet 14

Lee mi comentario a @felipeCxzcvb más arriba

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ericduarte89 3

I speak

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arevp 8
Buena la aclaratoria

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AndresRuiz190694 6
Cuando pones "speak" te ponen la respuesta mal porque significa hablar lo correcto es "i speak" que significa "yo hablo"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

waleska_maria 2 am esta de mas que significa??

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ifnfk 4
I talk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Etradiablo240 8 5
"I talk" no se podría tomar como respuesta correcta también ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mellojerk03 5
Yo no me equivocado lo que se an equivocado son ustedes, porque i speak sinifica yo hablo .....

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Davdpc 4
No entiendo a mi me salia traduce "nosotras leemos el menú" y me dice que la respuesta correcta es "i speak"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CarinaCayu 5
Mnm

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CarinaCayu 5
X Zxcnn b

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EnriqueBbp 8
I talk tambien no ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JakelinFer 3
Hi

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SilviaRodr91006 14
8 .

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PakoCarrera 11
What is the diferent? when to use the first? and when to use the second?

Help me!

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

PakoCarrera 11
to talk and to speak, I do not undertand.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

cristiancp3 9
V

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

cristiancp3 9
BcvçñzDmpe źzbvnnb

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

seyla563567 4
Como puedo aprender mas facil el ingles??? Ayuda nesesito aprender pero se m olvida :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

SamuelEnri476093 4
Yo quiero prender

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

RosaVargas518727 6
yo no hago examenes asta que me sepatodas las palabras y aci no me equiboco

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

enero49 6
,

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Marty193763 2

Ose porque no te dan dos oportunidades

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TefiFender 6

Che pero I speak (yo hablo) tambien se puede decir I talk (no?)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

FabiolaOrt401255 3

I am speaking english,

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

javiergoet 3

Hola

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

natalia350849 2

Hola coko que falló

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

anyipaola116704 6

Cual es la diferencia entre speaks y speak

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Paula837807 10 4 4

speak = hablo speaking = hablando.

Me ha corregido en la oración "yo hablo" como si dijera " yo hablando"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

SanchezFor3 2

Ola

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

franciscote123 8

yo escribi i am speak y me la tacharon como mala

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nalfarov 5

Porque me la pusiern mala.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Melani2005 2
Me confundi lo siento

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

akanetorres 3
es que algunas cosas las ponen y ala hora de la verdad estan mal ya se pasan de verdad

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

luisalfonsoarcay 8
tienen razon

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AguussCot102513 2
Mira yo a esto no lo sabia y eso que voy a Ingles a un instituto ! :3

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dafne._. 3
Pico<3

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sirenanere 5
Holaaaaa

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JalmarieRa 3
Debi ser aceptada

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

carolina220787 2
Διψι

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

YenkaynaMa 3
DIOS MIS PENSAMIENTOS Y DECISIONES EN TUS MANOS.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FelixAnton232737 5
Escribi I speak english. Me puso mal

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alcaicedoc 3

Si me dicen que traduzca en ingles yo hablo inglés como me rechazan la respuesta si es I speak englis como así que. La respuesta es I speak hay claramente esta contestando yo hablo pero que? No entiendo entonces porque mi respuesta es nula

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Taffyta25 4

Yo puse i am y me la puso mal. ¿Porque ?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kcadayanamarin 6

Ninguno dijo lo q pregunto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

byronemilio 6

solo por un pequenño error aunquesea es medio punto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hassbleydi 5

Huuuuuuuuuuuy esta muy facil

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nievesamo 3

.bhhvhfUha Ba HAEH

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

angelesdayan 6

No se nada de ingles

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Deboarruti 6

Respondi biennnn loco

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

YankoPerdo 2

easy

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jowe.rodz70 7 2

Yo puse i talking eso esta mal???

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NILKABARRETT 2

yo escribi I speaks es lo mismo nada mas puse la s

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JeangelyVa 4

Es lo mejor

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

danysierra 2

.....

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

maricruz001 6

I talk

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

47661232 4

:D

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GabrielaSa936091 5

Tonto buo

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dannahp 5

Ddfevbrcdvx asid dgd filtrad

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

valeepaz098 3

Hola xd

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nandovz 4

Me lectores un shaver godos kickoff hvccdfh-subsidy su x

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

co

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-lucillilla- 5

YO PUSE: I am speaking Y ME CONTO COMO MAL!!!!NO ES JUSTOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rpinedaks 4

Nkkjjbb

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

genesis9012 4

N9

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marianevar2 16

hji

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marianevar2 16

byygubj

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marianevar2 16

uj

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

zaratito1 6

Ntsjczhhdhx

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gregorymc4407 6

cfcc

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

690 Get a refund for a paid test

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19824402>

Posted 3 months ago by [deactivated user]

How do I get a refund for a paid test? Keeps crashing. Very unhappy with platform and want my money back. I submitted a bug report? Any other contact I can go through.

Best,

Jeff

Give Lingot
23 months ago

Leave a new comment
4 Comments

psionpete 25 21 16 15 14 6 5 4 3 1160
Do you mean you paid real money or was it bought with lingots?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

[deactivated user]
real money, it was for a certification exam I had to take for a job

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

psionpete 25 21 16 15 14 6 5 4 3 1160
Then I would expect you could contact the test centre and explain what happened. If that fails then you could contact your credit card provider and ask them to refund the money

However I have never used the test centre and don't know how you could contact them. Maybe someone else will know how to go about it.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

hughcparker 21 19 14 435
Go to <https://testcentre.duolingo.com/> and click the support link at the bottom of the page.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

691 للعربية مترجمة انجليزية واقوال حكم
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8639347>

Ahmed-JD 17 14 3

Don't be sad and smile to life
للحياة وابتسم تحزن لا

A life is a school its teacher is a time and its lessons are experiments
التجارب دروسها و الزمن تاذها أس مدرسة الحياة

People can't change the truth, but the truth can change people الناس تغير الحقيقة لكن، الحقيقة تغير لا يمكنهم الناس

We cant predict the future but, we can prepare for it
. مل التحضير يمكننا لكن بالمستقبل التنبؤ على قادرين غير نحن

People change, Feelings change, Things change... That's life.
الحياة هي هذه ... تتغير الأشياء، تتغير المشاعر، تتغير الناس

Forgiving is easy, but forgetting and trusting again is the hard part الصعب الجزء هو أخرى مرة الثقة و عودة النسيان لكن، التسامح السهل من

Over thinking does kill your happiness

سعادتك يقتل الزائد التفكير

First step is always the hardest. Stop thinking about it and just do it.

إنجازها عليك فقط, فيها التفكير عن توقف. دائما الأصعب هي الأولى الخطوة

When you feel alone, Quran is the perfect best friend to be with.

معه لتكون صديق أفضل هو الكريم القرآن، بالوحدة تشعر عندما

Only love lets us see normal things in an extraordinary way

عادية غير بطريقة العادية الأشياء رؤية لنا يتيح فقط الحب

أعجبكم؟ حكمة اي ٧

Give Lingot2

101 year ago

Leave a new comment

16 Comments

ABTASM 14 8 5 3

wow , All fantastic sentences

Good job , Thanks...

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

rahmaakhassiss 23 10 10 10 8

Forgiving is easy, but forgetting and trusting again is the hard part.

الصعب الجزء هو أخرى مرة الثقة وعودة النسيان نلك ، التسامح السهل من

*First step is always the hardest. Stop thinking about it and just do it.

إنجازها عليك فقط, فيها التفكير عن توقف. دائما الأصعب هي الأولى الخطوة

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mr_7amadh 4

When you feel alone, Quran is the perfect best friend to be with.

شكر الروعتك

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hafiz_ahnomi 10 2

When you feel alone, Quran is the perfect best friend to be with.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

yassinAl-swaite 3

A life is a school its teacher is a time and its lessons are experiments.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Farah1012 9 2

All your sentences are beautiful... thank you for them :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ameena.awal 6

A life is a school its teacher is a time and its lessons are experiments

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kennouchi-youcef 7 6

less is more

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kennouchi-youcef 7 6

train hard fight easy

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DohaMohamedSaleh 9

Forgiving is easy, but forgetting and trusting again is the hard part.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Mayuus 3

رأيتك انت

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MouradElalmi

When you feel alone, Quran is the perfect best friend to be with

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EtharWL 4

Forgiving is easy, but forgetting and trusting again is the hard part.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mohammadaref44 9

Don't be sad and smile to life

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lolo987654 7

Only love lets us see normal things in an extraordinary way

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hafiz_ahnomi 10 2

تضيفها لم لماذا the اضافة الى تحتاج,,, الناس الحياه

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

692 "Ellos habrán elegido ser amigos."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/756965>

Translation: They will have chosen to be friends.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

21 Comments

cartot08 10

lo hice bien, y aun así también pienso que una alternativa es: They will have chosen to BECOME friends. (dado a que cotidianamente la gente se vuelve amigos y así lo dicen en EE.UU.)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

am.casablanca 10 6 5

decided = chosen esto es retrasado....

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Arymtoteles 11 8

En vez de to be friends -> being friends

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

metacar090 14 1

No, el verbo to choose exige el infinitivo después del verbo que le sigue en este caso "to be". No es correcto escribirlo being friends.

12ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

GriffLA 13 6

Saludos.

"They will have chosen to be friends" es la respuesta correcta. "They will have chosen being friends" no tiene sentido en inglés.

Espero que les ayude!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

tonychxp 15 6 5 3 3 4

I found you in the comments! hahaha see you later! (:

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GriffLA 13 6
:D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tonychxp 15 6 5 3 3 4
"Being" es "siendo" y no "ser" que es la palabra que sirve en el enunciado.

Espero haber sido de ayuda.

Saludos!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jovaspace 16 15 9 2
No, "Being" es también ser.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nacho_haller 11 7
Exacto, como verbo infinitivo y como sustantivo.

Los gerundios pueden cumplir, además de esta función, la de infinitivo y de sustantivo.

Slds.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ram_tonio 21 2
Es cierto.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jose.yrun 3
Estoy de acuerdo

-2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MiguelLuna0 10 5 2
What about "They will have decided to be friends"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

locofercho 14 9 8
Una cosa es que dos palabras signifiquen lo mismo, y otra es que en determinado contexto en conjunto dan el mismo mensaje

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

693 "Die Familie hat Hunger. "
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/269217>
Translation: The family is hungry.

04 years ago

Leave a new comment

30 Comments

Thelinguist 13

Why does it read as Die Familie hat (not haben) Hunger? The family implies there is more than one and therefore plural no?

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

hungover 15 14 10 6 5 4 4 3 2

Familie is a singular noun, just as family is in English. You wouldn't say "The family have hunger" because the subject is singular. You would use haben for something like "Die Familien haben Hunger" ("The families have hunger"). Maybe the feminine die is what makes it seem even more plural?

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

thefollowersvevo 11

[deleted]

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

octavzlatior 12

Doesn't sound too English too me... But I am not a native speaker, so I might be wrong

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

smalltime0 7

I agree with octavzlatior (except I am a native English speaker). You would normally use Hunger as an adjective, rather than a noun

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gregoryje 7 5

I feel like this is wrong. (Native british speaker). Hunger rarely works as an adjective and is mostly a noun. Hungry is the adjective.

Actually apart from things like 'the hunger games' I'm not sure when it is an adjective (If indeed it is here, 'the games of hunger' would mean its a noun).

On the subject of having hunger. Will you be understood? Yes. Will you sound strange? Yes Is it grammatically correct? I have no idea, but I think not.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HeatingUp 18

Native here .. You are right :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dsarah7 5

That's not normal English. People will understand what you're saying, but it's awkward phrasing.

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

MontyWales 25 354

I also speak the Queens English; I have to say it's awkward phrasing when used in that context. Stick with recommended suggestions.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LadyGilrean 6 3

I only say that because I've been studying German for many years. But it isn't good English.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Superjey 15 10 10 8 4 39

Because In english you cannot have hunger. In english you may be hungry but to have hunger is not something you can't physically have (possession) it's a state of being. As in german and french you will say Ich habe Hunger / J'ai faim. Because its gramatically build as something that you can have and not a state. German and french both use the verb to have and english use the verb to be. :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-Sapphira- 25 16 9 8 6 6 6 2 9

I agree. (also a native speaker) Also, why does hunger have to be capitalized?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jan-Olav 14 13 13 12 10 496

Because it is a noun.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-Sapphira- 25 16 9 8 6 6 6 2 9

Ok! I got it now. :) Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MThoriqMalano 16 16 15 14 11 10 3

well, it is possible. But you won't usually say that to people though.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gennuisance 23 22 3 196

I'd go back to your school and have a word with your former English teachers in that case...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

joshkim88 17 4

I'm not sure but the case is the same with "thirsty", as in "Die Familie hat Durst". There is another way I've found and it is "Die Familie ist durstig" which translates directly to "The family is thirsty." Maybe there's another word for "hungry" that can be used this way.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

obscurepanda 8 4 2

Hungrig.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

rokcrow 11 6 2

Learning deutch when you are not a native english speaker, make that not a little bit easy.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

waztaz 13 5 2

Yup, i agree. Sometimes I make the mistake of exchanging have/has and lose a heart and wonder which language am i really learning?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JazzZamora 7 3

Although "the family has hunger" sounds awkward it is NOT, however, grammatically incorrect. No one would ever use "I'm a bird" because birds can't talk, but it's grammatically correct.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RoerKillz 7 3

Why is hat , is ? I thought it suppose to be ist ? Or do you use hat when family is involved idk,someone give me some advice lol.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

-Sapphira- 25 16 9 8 6 6 6 2 9

Hat isn't "is". When we say hat Hunger or hat Durst, it means "is hungry" or "is thirsty". "The family has hunger (or thirst) is not commonly used. At least we don't say it in English. If you want to say "is hungry" or "is thirsty" in German, you would say ist hungrig or ist durstig. (Note that they aren't capitalized, because they aren't nouns like "hunger" or "thirst"). So there are 2 ways of saying "The family is hungry": Die Familie hat Hunger or Dir Familie ist hungrig. So getting back to your original question, hat is "has" not "is", so you are correct. Hope this helps. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jean-rousseau 15 12 10 7 4 2

Why is 'The family's hungry' incorrect?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

-Sapphira- 25 16 9 8 6 6 6 2 9

It's not. All you've done is contract the words "family" and "is", which is totally fine. Sometimes Duo just doesn't accept contractions.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

musicislife2 17 5 4

Awww... :( Ich fühle mich schlecht für den Familie.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

gina193929 10 7 4

Is hat used for the family instead of haben because its a collective noun?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

694 "Was ist falsch?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1546429>

Translation: What is wrong?

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

Anie_is_okay 21 6 2

Could "Was ist falsch?" be used when asking someone what is the matter? What's wrong, dear? In that manner, or is this more meaning "What about this is incorrect?"

29ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jenzi 11 6 4

I reckon the best translation of "was ist falsch?" is "what is incorrect?" ...and the most common way of saying "what's wrong?" in German is "was ist los?" If this isn't right, pls tell me: WAS IST LOS? (Oder falsch)

36ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AliDadban 18 17 10 408

You are right.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kayla_pruett 13

I wondered the same thing...would "was ist falsch" be more correct in the context of "what is incorrect", as if you were asking a teacher to tell you what you did wrong. I've always heard "what is wrong", as if you are asking someone who looks sad, as "was ist?"

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Abdallah_Desoky 23 48

doesn't "was ist?" mean what's wrong? I believe I saw it in a previous lesson

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alexa22003 8 2

Why not What is incorrect?

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Pfiff 24 12 9 8

That should be fine; report it.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

earlangu87 11

apparently "what is false?" is incorrect... makes sense in English?

3ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

jcake19 21 6

I wrote that sentence and I got it right :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Majno 12

is "What is fake?" also correct?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mr...rM 22 14 13 12 744

Maybe. If you put a noun after it, then it is less ambiguous.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

crystal.wa4 20 3

No one has answered Anie...

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

DayoTokyo 17 10 2 2

It is 2016 and I looking forward to the answer to Annies question.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

maja14985 13

Was ist loss?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Davarrel 17

Well actualy hear das ist falsch but actualy is was ist falsch

-1ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

695 What am i writing =))

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10890474>

Andiep227 14

i have no purpose for this topic, just wanna lament about my upcoming essay. I'm trying my best to analyze about the condition and the process of the bankrupt law. It's so tedious and burdensome. You know everything concerning law is always complicated and i have to present it correctly, error-free essay is the prerequisite condition. Completing a twenty-page essay within 5 days is almost impossible but i have to keep up with it. I mean nothing, just wanna write it down in order to reduce my stressful feeling. I think i have to do errands before i come back to it. Thank you for spending time on reading it, but actually i have to say - What a nonsense topic =)), anyway hope you have a nice day.

Give Lingot

11 year ago

Leave a new comment

7 Comments

f3j 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 835

Poor you! Wish you will come over it easily because nothing is impossible ;) Good luck!!! And at which university are you studying?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Andiep227 14

Thank you! i hope so, I'm not a student anymore, I'm an old man =)) , I work in a canned food company as a exporter/importer, I'm in logistic department, this essay is just a semiannual test of my department, but I don't know why my superior decided to choose the bankrupt law whereas it is not related to my major at all @@, I think he wants us to prepare the darkest time, if any =)) , btw if you wanna know what logistic is, you can search for it on GG, in a simple way, my work is related to C/O, B/L, custom declaration... I prepare the document for shipments to be imported/exported

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

f3j 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 835

Ok, I got it. Anyway, Good luck & try your best!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Andiep227 14

hope you so ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

_Yui_ 22

I hope you have a nice day too and finish the essay soon! ^-^

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Andiep227 14

thank you ^^

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

_Yui_ 22

You're welcome! ^.^

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

696 "Tomorrow is Monday. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/754087>

Translation: Mañana es lunes.

03 years ago

34 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

Leonanton 18 12 76

"Tomorrow is Monday" y su traducción, «Mañana es lunes», están bien conjugados. «Mañana» está siendo usado como un sujeto y como tal no debe afectar al tiempo de la oración. Si fuera un adverbio si afectaría al tiempo de la oración. Si quisieramos decir en inglés tal cual «Mañana será lunes» sería algo como "Tomorrow it will be Monday" (más largo y por lo tanto raro de usar).

"Tomorrow" pasaría a ser adverbio (pudiendo afectar el tiempo de la oración) y como en inglés no se pueden omitir los pronombres, debemos usar "it" (como en "it rains", «llueve»). Simplemente es más rápido decir "Tomorrow is Monday" que "Tomorrow it will be Monday".

6Give Lingot•1 year ago

Maverick502 7

Alguien mas penso en Tomorrowland :3

5Give Lingot•1 year ago

Romi1D1 8

No! :$

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

:'(

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

fuko99 13 4

jajajaja realmente sii .... xD mañana si va a ser lunes para mi xD

the program is right, tomorrow is monday i hate mondays xD

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

AnaKarenMa18 7

Si Mañana Es Lunes :( Trizte Historia

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

MargaritaL681695 5
triste "s"

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

LauraLondo17 8
Mi pesadilla

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Joaquinorantes 12
No se porque me dicen que me dicen que tomorrow tiene error

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Joaquinorantes 12
C.I.O.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

arianna_vera 11 11 9 9 9 8
mñn es abreviamento de mañana qqqqqq injusto es mi idioma atte:angele

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MiquelFerrer13 7
en tu ifon cacho choni <3

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

GOOPLE 9
por que no me sirvio el dia de mañana es lunes

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

nazanielhhf 6 2
I hate mondays

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

yany03-_- 7
Tomorrow is monday

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MariaPalac18 6
no tengo sonido

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

silvia709065 8

Se que tengo la respuesta correcta, pero me dice que esta mala ????

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MiquelFerrer13 7

dice claramente my dog is black!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

omegaOROSHI 12 16

Tumorrow is friday not monday

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

saram361112 9

Mier# $! Si mañana es lunes!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Lalin120 5

Entendo tomorrow is my day!!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Chelse17 6

gracias por corregirme

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

DiegoJones1 6

Yo pense que dijo "Tomorrow is my day" xD

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

peligue 21 15 12

Mañana es futuro por tanto la oración debe estar en futuro no en presente

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

EmanuelVar4 25 6 19

Pero estamos en la unidad "fechas" no verbos

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

201A607B102C 11 2

Cierto, pero deben tener cuidado con eso, es como que yo dijera You does not do anything y dijera solo porque estamos con pronombres y no en auxiliares no lo vamos a notificar como un error.

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

GILBERTOG4 7

A mi entender debería ser en inglés: tomorrow will be Monday

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Leonanton 18 12 76

Pero si "tomorrow" afecta al tiempo de la oración es adverbio (en vez de ser sujeto, como en la oración del curso). Como en inglés no puedes omitir sujetos sería "Tomorrow it will be Monday" ("tomorrow": adverbio, por lo tanto determina el tiempo [futuro]; "it", sujeto). Mientras que en "Tomorrow is Monday", "tomorrow" es sujeto, los sujetos no afectan el tiempo de la oración, ya que no califican la oración.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

sabinos1 8

Xd

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

MariaMaya5 14

..

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

st1v3nbaena 5

Hola.Dicen que podemos chatear en inglés es verdad?

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

JoynerPadron 16

Tomorrow is Monday / Mañana es lunes

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

697 "Sí, son gatas."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/16967324>

Translation: Yes, they are cats.

17 months ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

AmySwang 11 9 5 3

I'm a native speaker Spanish and I can help you. Usually in Spanish the pronoun is omitted Example:

1° - I'm a teacher. (Soy profesor) 2° - Yes, son perros ( Yes, You are dogs ) // ( Yes, They are dogs ) 3° -

It's a book (Es un libro)

9ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

marcy65brown 24 21 7 640

Dead-Master, just to be clear, in your example #1: "I'm teacher" needs an article in English. "I'm a teacher" is correct.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

NagaChetana 4
here, "son" is they are?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

AmySwang 11 9 5 3
hello, I'm still an english student; but I could explain you : -You are: Tu eres, Ustedes son -We are: nosotros somos -They are: ellos son, ellas son

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

foxygamer036 7
where do you get the they

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

ben272895 3
Its supposed to be "Si son gatos" right?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

EdSD1Y 7
What is the difference between gato and gata?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Kaya931290 18 75
Gato is a male cat and Gata is a female cat. For some reason they don't do this with other animals, like perro. But with cats they differentiate the gender of the cat.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

adripincho 11 5
As a native spanish from Spain that sentence don't make any sense. If u speak spanish from South America can be, but anyway don't malr any sense how they translatr it. On the reallity they tried to say something like: imagine you ask your neighbord oh your cat was mother? Are they males or females? And she answer: yes, they are "gatas" (female cats). is the only example that can be ok. Anyway, i am here because my kids plays duolingo to learn english, and many times i see some mistakes.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

imogen755937 5
AH IT WAS A SPELLIN MISTAKE FFS KEYBOARD

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

ema885879 6
G

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

joeylorecurrydab 7
bosior itiets

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Anita391151 6
Why can't I say: It is you're cats?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Lucas646609 10 10
How come 'they'. 'These are cats' is more grammatically correct. Can 'they' be used with reference to animals?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

marcy65brown 24 21 7 640
Absolutely! With reference to animals, chairs, cars, and stars.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

698    *How Hard Is Greek?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20065226>

Sir_Culek_III 8 2

I really want to learn it. How hard would you say it is? How much practice a day? Thanks.

Give Lingot
52 months ago

Leave a new comment
8 Comments

Don_Cristian 25 25 22 22 15 14 11 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 7 5 5 4 4 3 2 1
For me it's harder than Dutch or Swedish but much easier than Vietnamese, Hebrew or Irish. When you learn the alphabet it's not that hard. One of the hard things is the gender system with feminine, masculine and neutral which affects their articles and in different cases.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Sir_Culek_III 8 2
Ok

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

David--- 18 12 4 10

How is it for you in relation to russian? Not just the alphabet but the language in general. I will give russian a try too, as I am currently building up some vocabulary for it. Even though it is totally subjective I wonder which one seems to be "easier" for you.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Don_Cristian 25 25 22 22 15 14 11 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 7 5 5 4 4 3 2 1

I haven't made enough lessons in Greek to be able to answer that yet. The both have different alphabet, 3 genders, Greek pronunciation is easier to me than Russian, but otherwise it's quite even and I'll be able to make a conclusion after completing the tree.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

JosefinaNike 15 14 13 13 13 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 9 7 7 4 3 3 32

Just give it a try! The first step is learning to read the alphabet, then everything else will get easier. The Greek course has many helpful explanations on all the lessons, so I took notes on all of these, which helps me understand the lessons better. Greek is hard, but if you have the motivation, I think it will be fine. For me, Greek mythology and history got me interested in learning Greek. One lesson a day and some review is a good start, I think.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Dimitra956826 19 12 8 16

I would say that the level of language learning difficulty depends on a couple of things, like

How close your native language to the one you want to learn how much you practice

The complexity level of the language

Your interest in the language.

(Not just for Greek, for pretty much any language.)

As far as Greek is concerned, as a native Greek, I think that if your native language is English, the difficulty level is medium. It's probably harder to learn than French, Italian, Spanish or German would be, but definitely easier than Vietnamese, Arabic, Hebrew, Japanese or Chinese. ^.^

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

spdl79 17 145

That all depends how fluent you want to get in it, and how quickly, I guess. Motivation is a big, big factor.

I think Don and Dimitra are completely right in that it's a 'medium difficulty' language. That's how the US State Department classifies it as well (they rank languages by difficulty).

There are some 'easy' bits to Greek. I'd say around 20% of all Greek words are in some way cognate with English (often via Latin and the Romance languages), so that's a massive help. I think Greek also relies on prefixes and suffixes a lot more than English, so once you're familiar with them, that can often help you to roughly figure out the meanings of words you haven't encountered before.

But there are features like case, conjugation, declension, stressing and gendering which are quite alien to modern English. Syntax is also a lot more flexible than in English. So there are some really hard bits too.

To give you my story, I came to Greek about nine months ago essentially monolingual (I really only had a tiny bit of spoken 'taxi driver Arabic') and with no English grammar knowledge whatsoever. Excluding about two months when I was travelling and couldn't practice, I've been putting in at least 20 hours a week (often more) between Duo/Memrise/Clozemaster and reading Greek children's books etc. I haven't taken any formal lessons yet (will start those soon), but I'd say I've got a vocab in the range of 6,000 words, can put together simple sentences and can just about read most Greek kids' books aimed at 4-6 year olds.

Last time I was in Greece (around four months ago) I had absolutely no problem making all my needs understood in Greek - albeit in pidgin Greek, with completely incorrect grammar and syntax, using basic/somewhat incorrect words. I couldn't understand a word that was said back to me though, and that's probably still what I find hardest about Greek.

Good luck, anyway. I'd highly recommend it and I'm really enjoying it.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

boscoejoe14 9

I tried learning Greek myself, and it was pretty hard. To get it down I guess you'd want to memorize the Greek alphabet before you started. If you still want to try it all I can say is you do you! :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

699 "Nummer ett "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10013122>

Translation: Number one

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

9 Comments

MonsieurCal 19 11 8 5 3 2 2

How do you say year-dates in Swedish? We'd say nineteen-thirty (1930) but two-thousands and three (2003) and in French mille neuf-cent trent or dix-neuf cent trent.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreiFelix 16 11 10 10

For years in the form (X)XYY, it's (X)X-hundra-YY, so it's almost like in English. They say nittonhundratrettio (nineteen-hundred-thirty) and tjugohundratre (twenty-hundred-three), respectively, so, unlike the Anglosphere, they actually kept their rule after 2000.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Arx 19 9 8

Is this what Riker is called in the Swedish version of Star Trek?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MarkBorkBorkBork 15 10 2

I wonder that, too. Twice now when I've posted a picture of him they've deleted it lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jcaitlin61 8 7 7 2 2

Luckily I know all Swedish numbers from watching Melodifestivalen ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AndreiFelix 16 11 10 10

Same here, the first things I learned in Swedish were the numbers from 1 to 12, and words like rösta, bidrag, trafikavgifter, avslutad, gå, vidare, spännande, motsvara, poäng and vinnare. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lydiaoxenstierna 11 9 6 5

Tonight the super trouper lights are gonna find me Shining like the sun (sup-p-per trou-p-per) Smiling, having fun (sup-p-per trou-p-per) Feeling like a number one!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ShadowMetaru 17 15 904

I just got "Number three", "Number two" and "Number one" in a row! Nice work Duo. ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

_JesseKat 13 5 5 1

Remember, Mr. Krabs, he was number one!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

700 Is Duolingo down right now?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000472386-Is-Duolingo-down-right-now->

If the apps or website is acting slow, you can check the current status of Duolingo, Duolingo English Test, and Tincards' servers and uptime at status.duolingo.com

This page will always show the latest information about servers, technical issues, uptime, outages, and so on. If we are experiencing issues, it is possible that the app or website behave in unusual ways (some features may be turned off or not working as expected). Please be patient as we will be working very hard and as quickly as possible to get everything working smoothly again.

701 In Line vs. On Line vs. In Queue

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1703283>

856pm 13 3

Hello everybody! 856pm here again with regionalistic differences. This is in English because only fluent speakers would care about this trivial nonsense. Note that I'm talking about lines (queues) of people, not the internet. Some people say, "I'll stand on line," and some say "in line," and others say

"in queue." So, which is right? It depends on where you are. Generally, if you're in the vicinity of New York City, you should say "on line." In the rest of America, say "in line." In Britain, say "queueing" or "in a/the queue." If in doubt, say "in line," unless you want people to think you're British or a New Yorker.

Give Lingot1
43 years ago

Leave a new comment
5 Comments

lystiesanger 25 25 20 16 12 4 430

Thank you this is in fact very interesting ; I've been saying "stand in line" and "queueing", but there is no doubt I'm neither British nor a New Yorker!

How about the motion? I mean, this pretty much describes standing, but do you tell someone to "go stand in line while I am []"?

Also, how about "queue up"?

I'm taking advantage of your kindness here, just trying to clarify things I've heard or said ;)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

856pm 13 3
General American= standing in line, go stand in line

New York=standing on line, go stand on line

British=queueing, queue up

0ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

lystiesanger 25 25 20 16 12 4 430
Thanks! Have a lingot!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Alipaulam 25 23 18 11 7
Plus in BE you can wait (or stand) in THE queue (or a queue, never just 'in queue' ) as well. I'm a BE speaker, but I believe you can also say 'wait in line' in USE too.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

856pm 13 3
Yes. You can substitute wait/stand.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

702 "I want to go out with you."
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1317272>
Translation: Je veux sortir avec toi.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

29 Comments

[deactivated user]

I put 'Je veux sortir avec VOUS' and it said I was wrong. I see no reason why I'm wrong, considering the fact that 'vous' also means you, and in a situation like this you would probably want to speak formally, and 'vous' is the formal way to say toi! Why am I wrong?!

24ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Did you report it?

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

gerching 4

Uhm, hi! I answered "Je veux sortir avec vous." and it was correct. i think they accept it now. :)

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

Thanks!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

acebushmaster42 7 6 3

they don't as i did that and it was wrong

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Poitevint 19 15 10

still not accepting it =/

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

PutuCrishn 9 3

Why not both?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rebecca.de9 9 4 3

It says je peux not je veux. Je peux mens I can.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

noahbird 9 6 6 5 3 3 2

Duolingo, please teach me a phrase BEFORE you test me on it

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AabLundin 14

That is not the Duolingo model.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

acebushmaster42 7 6 3

should do

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

VeronicaNagorny 7

I said "Je voudrais sortir avec toi" instead of "veux" and it said I was wrong. I've been taught my whole life it works that way...

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Ariaflame 25 25 14 1354

Well, that would be 'I would like to go out with you' not 'I want to go out with you'. Sure it's a bit politer, but when you're learning a language you should try and make sure you don't mix up 'want' and 'would like'.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iphis17 15 13 13 9 5 4 4 4 2

Does sortir have the same connotations as 'go out' in English, as in dating? And is it always so?

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Yes, the meaning is the same. It would be different with a specific context but as a single sentence it is clear.

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Tintin_73 25 25 13 12 9 7 6 3 3 3 2 333

Why not Vous? I imagine if you are asking someone out you may not be on a "toi" basis yet.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

LingoKiwi 14 3

I'm not sure but I feel it may be culturally polite, however it does seem very strange.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dalstock 16 7

I tried the same thing. Will report

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Claudia146 13 3 2 2

Wouldn't you use 'toi' rather than 'vous', as you'd have to know them pretty well/be of a similar age if you were asking them out.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

KateSimpson0 15 11 5

you still want to show respect to someone you are asking out though.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

tinasparkles32 11 9

What is the difference between "je veux" and "j'ai envie"? They both mean "I want" don't they?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Camerican 21 2 2 76

What is the difference between "je veux" and "j'ai envie"?

They're similar. Vouloir is to want while avoir envie is literally to have envy which is often used to describe similar feelings.

avoir envie de - to feel like avoir envie de faire - to feel like doing avoir envie que - to wish that

<http://dictionary.reverso.net/french-english/envie>

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AndresGarc652115 6

"Je voudrais sortir avec toi", is that wrong?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheAwesomeGreat 13 8 6

What's wrong with "je veux à sortir avec vous"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

Verb "vouloir" behaves as a modal verb, ie no need for a preposition to introduce another verb in infinitive: je veux sortir

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MichaelPatrick4 16 14 6 7

Why can I not ever use voudrais?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

You cannot as long as the conditional present has not been taught.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Gronibard 8 6 6 6

I put "je voudrais", I know it means "would like to" but is it really that wrong?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

The conditional mood has not been taught yet, so in the meantime, please use the indicative.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

703 Wrote vs. Written

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7580459>

TaniaRedHot 25 8 3

Me surgió la duda en cuanto al uso de los verbos "wrote" y "written", así que investigué y encontré una breve explicación:

The irregular verb WRITE.

Wrote is the past simple tense. Written is the past participle."

-> Lo que quiere decir:

El verbo irregular WRITE:

Wrote es el PASADO SIMPLE /acciones que ocurrieron en el pasado/ Ejemplo: I wrote you a letter last week.

Los verbos regulares forman el Simple Past y el Past Participle agregando -ed al infinitivo. Los verbos irregulares no siguen esta regla.

Los verbos en past participle tienen la misma forma que el pasado simple, en los verbos regulares y en los verbos irregulares sufren ciertas modificaciones

Written es el PASADO PARTICIPIO /requieren el acompañamiento de otro verbo para formar un tiempo compuesto (to be, to have). Ejemplo : I've written three letters.

Espero que les sea de ayuda. Aquí pueden realizar algunos ejercicios:

<http://www.ecenglish.com/learnenglish/lessons/write-wrote-written> Y pueden encontrar la información más detallada aquí: <http://comoaprenderinglesbien.com/verbos-en-past-participle/>

Give Lingot4

102 years ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

paradoxmo 25 25 12

Dicho simplemente:

"wrote" = escribió / escribí / escribiste / escribimos (pretérito indicativo)

"written" = escrito (participio pasado)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cabraloca2 25 11 10

I wrote two letters this morning. This book was written by Noemy Luis As You can see It depends on the time of conjugation to the verb. Who wrote these letters. It was written by my son this morning

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wazzie 25 11

Sort of.

Written is a past participle. In your example, "...was written...", was is the conjugated verb (to be) and written is the past participle.

You would also use written with the perfect tenses, "I have written...", "I had written.." and "I will have written".

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TaniaRedHot 25 8 3

Thanks for the advice. :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

javierjesus2

hi mi name is javier . estoy aprendiendo soy nuevo noto q estas avanzada

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

roberto727 25 25 3

Creo que es muy parecido al español, sino que el español es regular con fin de "ido" o "ado", y hay muchas excepciones en el inglés. La mayoría de los participulos pasados terminan en "ed.", pero hay no pocos que terminan en "n". otros en "d" y algunos en "t" "She has looked for it all day, but still hasn't found it." "looked" and "found" are participles. "I haven't eaten". Your mother has left a snack for you in the kitchen. "eaten" and "left" "I haven't received any news from her." It is probably because you haven't written." "received" and "witten" "You have changed so much." "Yes, I have grown old." "And you have lost so much weight."--"changed", "grown" "lost." En inglés como en español a veces se puede manifestar casi lo mismo sentimiento si se usa el perfecto o no. He wrote the letter. He has written the letter. When we use the preterite form in English, we could be stressing the subject, the action, or the object. HE wrote the letter. (not me) He WROTE the letter. (He wasn't just passing it on, but he originated it.) He wrote the LETTER. (not the postcard or the invitation, but the LETTER) When we use the perfect tense, 'He has written the letter' we are often stressing the situation, maybe the fact that it is taken care of, or a process has been started.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

704 sehen

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/German/sehen-verb-infinitive/aa25d0cb50f00488a01373389d0ec160>

ENGLISH

see, look, watch
Example sentences

| WORD              | EXAMPLE                                  | TRANSLATION                              |
|-------------------|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| sehe              | Ich sehe mich im Spiegel.                | I see myself in the mirror.              |
| siehst            | Du siehst das Insekt.                    | You see the insect.                      |
| sieht             | Die Katze sieht sich den Fisch an.       | The cat is looking at that fish.         |
| sehen             | Wir sehen den Apfel.                     | We see the apple.                        |
| seht              | Seht ihr euch selber im Spiegel?         | Do you see yourselves in the mirror?     |
| sehen             | Die Tiere sehen sich selber im Wasser.   | The animals see themselves in the water. |
| sah               | Als ich ihn sah, war er noch jung.       | When I saw him, he was still young.      |
| sah               | Sah er wie ein Arzt aus?                 | Did he look like a doctor?               |
| sahen             | Was sahen wir am Dienstag?               | What did we watch on Tuesday?            |
| gesehen           | Hast du die Toilette im Schloss gesehen? | Did you see the bathroom in the castle?  |
| sehen             | Ich will meinen zweiten Großvater sehen. | I want to see my second grandfather.     |
| sehen conjugation |                                          |                                          |

Indicative

Conditional

Others

| PERSON    | PRESENT     | PAST        |
|-----------|-------------|-------------|
| ich       | sehe        | sah         |
| du        | siehst      | sahst       |
| er/sie/es | sieht       | sah         |
| wir       | sehen, sehn | sahen, sahn |
| ihr       | seht        | saht        |
| sie/Sie   | sehen, sehn | sahen, sahn |

Discussions with the word "sehen":

13 commentsDu kannst nicht aus dem Fenster sehen.
12 commentsIch will meinen Sohn jetzt sehen.
10 commentsIch will meinen zweiten Großvater sehen.
9 commentsMan kann den Mond sehen.
5 commentsWir können die Stadt sehen.

705 "Nous sommes français. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1212985>

Translation: We are French.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

15 Comments

gramyam 11

If 'we' were female, wouldn't francaises be correct?

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

yes, nous sommes françaises.

20ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Guntersmead33 23 8 7

Why is it not allowed then

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

henrydwatson 14 11 8 7 7 7 6

If you're referring to why you can't say 'françaises' here then this comment applies. On this listening exercise, the 'z' sound at the end is not pronounced. This means it cannot be 'françaises' as the fact the first 's' is followed by an 'e' means it must be pronounced 'z'. In 'français', the 's' is not followed by a vowel so it is not pronounced. If, however, you have just completed a translation from English to French, then this solution should be accepted.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

joanne3685 10

I have noticed that the French don't use capitals the same way we do in English. For example, above, francais = French however no capital F. Another example is je = I, again no capital J. Just wondering why that is?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

It is just the way it is, I cannot give you any clever rationale.

un/des Français/une Française/des Françaises are capitalized as nouns.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

zhekau 20 11 10 10 3 25

It is the same in Russian - nationalities, days of the week and months are not capitalized.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

BethanyAgnew 10 6

I just have to ask why it is "nous sommes francais" if nous is "we" and we is plural would it not then have to be plural? this confuses an English person such as myself.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

"nous" is 1st person plural

"sommes" is 1st person plural

"français" is identical in singular and plural for masculine

"française" is feminine singular

"françaises" is feminine plural, so "we are French" can also translate to "nous sommes françaises"

11ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Cyndiluwho 25 560

Thanks for that, I was confused and tried to make francais plural, ended up making it female plural and lost a heart. Won't happen again.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

itastudent 15 14 10 9

Is it common for some classes of adjectives to have the same form for masculine (singular and plural) and two different forms for feminine (one for singular and one for plural)? Or does this happen only for this one?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

if the masculine singular ends in -s, its plural will not change

if the masculine singular ends in -e, the feminine version will be identical

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

itastudent 15 14 10 9

Thanks! A lingot for you. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dunklerwolf 11 6 17

Why does Japanese just randomly appear in sentences?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

It is there for you to disregard it and choose a correct answer instead.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

706 Dự án "Trip to Viet Nam" past I: Bài văn tiếng anh giới thiệu khái quát về Việt Nam
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10910808>

Megasky2501 12 8 5 4 2 8

Mình sẽ bắt đầu dự án "Trip to Viet Nam" bằng 1 cuộc thi nho nhỏ : Bài văn tiếng anh giới thiệu khái quát về Việt Nam

Các bạn sẽ viết một văn bản khái quát về đất nước việt nam bằng tiếng anh sau đó sẽ chọn ra 1 bài đăng lên duolingo cho người anh để giới thiệu sơ lược về đất nước việt nam cho mọi người trên thế giới biết thêm về đất nước việt nam

các bài viết sẽ được bầu chọn bằng số lượng upvote và mình có một phần quà nho nhỏ cho các bạn đó là ai viết hay nhất thì sẽ được 25 lingots

Thân

Không nên đăng sai chủ đề để tránh loãng topic

Give Lingot

51 year ago

Leave a new comment

15 Comments

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38

Vietnam, official name: Republic of Socialist Vietnam, the old name: the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (named in 1945 to 1976), is a country located in the eastern peninsula of Indochina, under southeast Asia. Vietnam has a northern border with China, to the west with Laos and Cambodia, to the southwest bordering the Gulf of Thailand, east and south China Sea and has more than 4,000 islands, large and small reefs, near and offshore, with internal waters, territorial sea, exclusive economic zone and continental shelf of Vietnam Government identified nearly three times the land area (over 1 million square kilometers). On the East Coast there Spratlys and Paracels are claimed by Vietnam but still being claimed by other countries such as Taiwan, China, Malaysia and the Philippines.

After North Vietnam in the North and the National Front for Liberation of South Vietnam victory over Republic of Vietnam in the South April 30, 1975, North-South were unified. July 2, 1976 of Vietnam National brand is placed Socialist Republic of Vietnam.

In 1986, Vietnam conducted a number of economic reforms (known as Innovation), opening up Vietnam's economy integrate into the world. Vietnam has established diplomatic relations with 178 countries, economic relations - trade - investment with over 224 countries and territories, is a member of the United Nations, ASEAN, ASEM, APEC, WTO, International Francophone Organization, Movement for nothing Links and many international organizations, other areas.. Since 2000 Vietnam is one of countries with the fastest economic growth in the world, and according to Citigroup, a high growth rate This will continue to grow. According to the BBC, in 2004, Vietnam ranked 11th in the fastest growing economies in the world. However, the growth rate slowed in some years later, in 2013 growth of 5.42% , ranked No. 6 in the 11 countries in Southeast Asia. The successful economic reforms have led the way for Vietnam to become a member of the World Trade Organization in 2007.

However, Vietnam still faced many problems such as high inflation, inequality of income, health care and the poor state of gender inequality still many

Imgur

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

f3j 25 25 25 25 25 25 25 835

Nhìn cái hình mà muốn khóc :v

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38

sao muốn khóc :v

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PhuongLy2005. 15 12 3 2
đất nước mình bé quá,chị ạ

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38
tham lam quá, nước có to cỡ nào thì cái nhà mình ở vẫn chả to thêm dc đâu :v

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PhuongLy2005. 15 12 3 2
em đâu có tham,chẳng qua nước mình hơi bị bất công chút thôi

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38
thôi như vậy được rồi, như singapore nó bé bằng cái sài gòn thôi mà nó giàu sụ đấy

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PhuongLy2005. 15 12 3 2
kệ nó,dân càng ít nước càng giàu,dân đông thì nghèo

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Klingon1234 25 23 12 8 8 6 6 5 3 3 3 3 2 2 2
Góp ý : Bài của chị Châu có trên wikipedia rồi

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38
-_- sao tìm dc hay vậy tui lấy nguồn từ đó đấy

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38
thảm quá mỗi mình mình viết -_-

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuoilachetHuyen 3
em cũng muốn viết nhưng vốn từ không đủ để viết ạ! huhu

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38
-_-

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Megasky2501 12 8 5 4 2 8
Em ko nghĩ đây là nơi trò chuyện

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ChauLe3 25 25 25 25 11 11 11 8 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 4 3 38
oh sorry sẽ ko spam và 8 ở đây nữa

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

707 – 740 of 911

[accessed March 22, 2017]

707 "Voy a establecer un nuevo récord de natación."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/766511>

Translation: I am going to establish a new record for swimming.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

31 Comments

lolojairo 25 715

Por que no es válido: "I am going to stablish a new swimming record" ?, me reportaron error.

17ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

palocortado 25 25 15 13 12 7 7 6 6

Hmm, esta es una cuestión de normas y del uso. Soy hablante nativo del inglés, y a mí me suena un poco raro "a new swimming record".

Me suenan mucho mejor "a new record FOR swimming" o "a new record IN swimming".

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

metacaro90 14 1

Hola Palocortado, en ese caso seria:

I am going to establish a new record for swimming or I am going to establish a new record in swimming ¿La expresión "record for" significa en este contexto "record de"? otra pregunta, en este caso el verbo "to swim" esta sustantivado y por eso lleva el "ing" ¿no es cierto?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlfonsMercader 22 2

Y a mí. Creo que es correctísimo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

UnPlatillo 10

Igual yo puse eso

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Quintodela93 18

Me pasó lo mismo... a ver si corrigen este tipo de cosas ya, por que a veces te desespera.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

palocortado 25 25 15 13 12 7 7 6 6

Ya he dicho que no suena normal. Puede entenderse como "un récord que nada". Claro que no tiene sentido.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Quintodela93 18

Buscando en google obtengo resultados tanto para "records in swimming" (muchos resultados) como para "swimming records" (algunos resultados). Puede que no sea la mejor manera de decirlo pero si una opción válida.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Christophe2068 25 20 8 7 3

Cuando se habla de récords en Inglés es más común decir "set a record."

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jaydee94 10

I am going to establish a new swimming record!!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

valle 25

"... SWIMMING RECORD"

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Hipolito_David 13

Por lo que veo, somos muchos los que pensamos lo mismo. Yo puse "i am going to establish a new swimming record" , como unos cuantos y creo que es correcto.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JoMerRod 25 8 15

Yo tambien asi lo puse, mas bien los que estan mal son ellos, pero no lo van a decir.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rafaelcdiaz 25

Me ocurrió lo que a muchos: tomo nota de que no suena bien, pero me da la impresión de que está bien dicho. Swimming record

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Felipot 10

No sirve la frase: "I'm going to establish a swimming record" ? por qué no?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Babella 17 14

Te falta el "nuevo" ;]

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

mariorulo 13

porque no acepta como variante swimming record en lugar the record of swimming

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

WandaLugar 10

Swimming record debe ser la respuesta correcta

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jordi_1 13

Me ha pasado lo mismo. "new swimming record" creo que debe ser lo mismo que "new record of swimming" que es la que dan como correcta.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FranciscoU304414 10 10 4

Esta frase parece escrita por alguien que no piensa en inglés. Parece escrita por alguien que piensa en español y traduce literalmente al inglés.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SantiagoFd3 14 6 4 2

"I am going to set a new swimming record". Que os parece?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Zorro-Plateado 21 19 49

Es correcto, pero SWIMMING tiene dos M. Soy hablante nativo de inglés.

En inglés la regla es si la palabra termina con 'ING' doble las letras (en la mayoría de los casos) .

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NaimRoldan0 10

siento que esta bien la respuesta que puse y me la califico mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NaimRoldan0 10

siento que esta bien la respuesta y me la califico mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sadoval 19 3

I am going to beat a new swimming record.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luisano 10 2
Esta mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ElizabethR341589 13
O p vi pkiazkzkzk

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

juan842983 10
Alguien puede explicarme el uso de la palabra set, ejemplo, " I set establish a new record of swimming"

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

rocker71974 23
I'll establish a new record of swimming

-1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

jvdiana 21 15 15 8 8 66
The other way to say "récord de natación" is: "swim record"

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MrBrown14 10
I would set up a new record in swimming. :/

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

708 höheren

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/German/h%C3%B6heren-hoch-adjective-adjective+%28comparative%29-masculine-feminine-plural-nominative/ead1a6a7dcd27246127c0a7e0028e31d>

ENGLISH

higher, taller, greater

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

höchsteWo ist der höchste Berg dieser Insel? Where is the tallest mountain of this island?

hoher Ein hoher Baum steht am See. There is a tall tree at the lake.

hohe Der hohe Berg reicht in den Himmel. The high mountain reaches into the sky.

höheren Die höheren Tomaten sind rot und nicht grün. The taller tomatoes are red and not green.

hohen Die hohen Tische in der Küche The high tables in the kitchen höhere Wer hat die höhere Leiter? Who has the taller ladder?

hohe In Österreich und der Schweiz gibt es viele hohe Berge. In Austria and Switzerland there are a lot of high mountains.

höher Dieser Berg ist höher als dein Haus. This mountain is higher than your house.
hoch Das ist hoch. That is high.
hoch Ich lade mein Programm auf eine Internetseite hoch. I upload my program to a website.
Discussions with the word "höheren":

36 comments Die höheren Häuser sind auf dem Berg.
31 comments Die höheren Tomaten sind rot und nicht grün.
21 comments Die höheren Bäume stehen auf dem Berg.
9 comments Die höheren Preise
65 comments Es ist hoch.

709 "Sí, Virginia es vegetariana. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20783115>

Translation: Yes, Virginia is vegetarian.

11 month ago

Leave a new comment

28 Comments

Jordan312983 5

Good to know the word "vegetariana" even though it is vegetarian - 1 letter. And besides the fact that I'm not! xD

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

han4492 5

Is the pronunciation for this a bit off?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

magicgirlcanada 7

why does it have a "j" sound in the last syllable of the word?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

psluk 18 14 11 11 9 8 8 6 6 5 4

It should sound like it does here or here. The last one is "vegetariano", just change the last o to an a when pronouncing it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

magicgirlcanada 7

i listened to it over and over and she's pronouncing it wrong vehe tari jano

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

JONAHTORRES19 3

how do you spell vegetarian

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

velvelajade 8 6 6 5 5 5 4 4 4 3 3 2 vegetarian = English vegetariana = Spanish

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

rgonzalez53 5 2
vegetarian

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Katy61450 9 7
Que mal pronunciado :S Suena como "vegetaryana"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

kwoodruff18 5
So I listen to Star Wars bad lip reading, and I get every one of them correct. Magic. But when I don't, I miss a lot. Weird.PS: I'm listening to Bushes Of Love. :

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

magicgirlcanada 7
Why is there a "j" sound at the end of this pronunciation ?

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

psluk 18 14 11 11 9 8 8 6 6 5 4
It should sound like it does here or here. The last one is "vegetariano", just change the last o to an a when pronouncing it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

AceTheGreat2 5 1
Spell Virginia

Now take away the "ia"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

JonicaLord 7
I like how the word Vegetarian in Spanish is only one letter difference, so it's easy to remember!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

psluk 18 14 11 11 9 8 8 6 6 5 4
Yeah, but sometimes it might confuse you. For example:

actualmente → currently actually → realmente, en realidad, en efecto, ...
0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

JonicaLord 7

Thx! That really helped! I'm not being sarcastic either, that really helped!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

SophieJade_Dance 7 3 2

yes, it is nice for a change :) it usually does not mind when i do a small mistake in spelling, but this time it said i was wrong, why??

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 month ago

JanainaAlv11223 4

I know

0ReplyGive Lingot1•1 month ago

jennycharl3 5

I tape some of your answer.why do you correct me

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

ellahannon2 5

oh Virginia back again

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Lynne359432 8

Is he pronouncing his v's as b's "becitariano"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

psluk 18 14 11 11 9 8 8 6 6 5 4

b and v are usually pronounced /b/ after consonants, and pronounced /β/ after a vowel. However, this changes with some consonants. You often pronounce /β/ to sound softer, not because of the letter. It happens with the letter d as well, for example, the word "dedo" is pronounced /'de.ðo/. In Spanish, we try to sound softer.

/b/ sounds like bathroom.

/β/ sounds like vase.

/d/ sounds like dice.

/ð/ sounds like the.

Btw, I don't know if soft is a correct word for what I'm trying to say, but I hope you got it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

Wanda630464 11 1

Is the "r" supposed to sound like "ch" like that? Like "vegetachiana"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

psluk 18 14 11 11 9 8 8 6 6 5 4

It should sound like it does here or here. The last one is "vegetariano", just change the last o to an a when pronouncing it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

demi11506 3
TO HARD

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

jane163718 5
Uhggggggggg! I can not beleve i play ths sight

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

jane163718 5
Yet i do

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

michele967484 5
Ok

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

710 Whose cat is this? or Whose is this cat?
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6795061>

glauciasilva92 6
Which one is correct?

Give Lingot
112 years ago

Leave a new comment
23 Comments

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2
The first one without a doubt !

Whose is this cat?... that sounds like a direct translation from Portuguese, don't you think? Like, if you were about to translate that, like "De quem" ! I don't remember ever seeing anywhere that the second sentence is wrong, but... really, it doesn't sound that common. Definitely, to be on the safe side I would say, go for the first one!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

glauciasilva92 6
Thank you ! Are you american?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

I'm Brazilian!! Looks like you have started a war around here, the jury is still out on whether "Whose is this cat?" should be acceptable or not ! :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Sir-Bender 10

He's Brazilian! But yeah, he knows English like nobody's business!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6680078>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

You flatter me! my English is far from perfect

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jhill11 12 9 5 2

The first one is by far the better option. You should always use the first one rather than the second one when asking questions like this. However, if someone asked me "Whose is this cat?" I would still fully understand, it just would sound a bit off.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 5

Ouch... from a Brit, hearing from someone else that a common way we speak sounds 'off' is quite... disheartening.

<http://learnenglish.britishcouncil.org/en/english-grammar/pronouns/questions>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

lol we were bound to find someone !!! But, who knows, maybe it's an influence on British English from Spanish or Portuguese! It's not impossible !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 5

I'm not saying it is impossible, I know our language is very freely influenced by other languages, because we are at heart very casual about it. Despite some loud purists among us, as a people we generally see grammar as a futile attempt to explain a language, rather than a prescription to follow :)

But I think if it was a real influence from Spanish or Portuguese, the translation would probably be more like 'Of whom is this cat?'. Although I find myself repeating the statement I originally responded to, in that it makes perfect sense to me, it just sounds a bit.. off..

So I see the irony, hehe :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jhill11 12 9 5 2

Disheartening how? In my dialect of English, no one would ever ask the question the second way. Not saying it's wrong, but to me it sounds unnatural.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 5

It's disheartening, because I thought I was English, but I would instinctively say "Whose is this cat?" or "Whose is this ball" or "Whose is this cup" or "Whose is this shirt?", with the full intention being to leave the emphasis on the the final word, but in light of recent events I don't even know if I have been doing it wrong these last 30 years...

:(

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

G0108 7 6

You're not wrong at all. I'm American and I could casually switch between the first and second without a problem. To me it sounds like a natural phrase in English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 5

So it would seem that with respect to the original poster, Glauciasilva, not every question has a straight answer.

Apparently then, both are correct, so we all win, no rules to follow :)

And a word to the wise, we would probably prefer it to stay that way...

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

Well, you live and learn! The funny thing is, if you look up "Whose is this cat?" on the internet the results will be "Whose cat is this/that?" Maybe it's because that would be the most common way to ask. But, like Chilvence said, when you say, "whose is this coat", the emphasis is on the final word.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

chilvence 14 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 12 10 9 6 6 2 5

In reply to Tom-Riddle, Well I am certainly with you , in fact I have to smile because I often just use google myself to check my sentences if I am not confident, its quite a relief to be able to type a sentence in quotes and see if it exists in the wild :)

What I think I would like to share with everyone learning English, is that it does not exist in a bubble of grammatical perfectness; we ourselves are usually very flexible because we have so many dialects among ourselves that it barely makes sense to define any as the 'correct' one. Even in the UK, we, the general population, barely have the slightest respect for the Queen's English, we just talk however we like, and call it English after the fact.

So I would hate to imagine that anyone torments themselves with getting the minute details of speaking English correctly, over questions like the original post, because we are far more willing to bend our ears to someone trying to make themselves heard than we are to hold them to our own standards of English - We know when we have the home advantage, it is very unsportsmanlike to revel in it.

I know I have gone wildly off topic, but I am just going with the vibe I'm feeling...

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

Btw jhill11, where are you from ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

glauciasilva92 6

I cannot follow you guys !

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

_A.R.B._ 25 12 11 2

Chegamos a conclusão que ambas as formas "Whose is this cat?" e "Whose cat is this" são aceitáveis !!

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

jhill11 12 9 5 2

US

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

emeyr 25 25

Both are grammatically correct.

Whose cat is this? whose= possessive determiner

Whose is this cat? whose = pronoun

As a native speaker, I prefer Whose cat is this? The second sentence sounds awkward, especially based on how it sounds - pronunciation wise...too many "s's" in a row.

2ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Danmoller 15 13 12 11 10 6 4 2

Reminds me of Corona singing "zeezeezee rhythm of the night" (this is the).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AmandhaSun 6

kkk hi flowless

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

john_thcg 3

Do not trust Google Translator...just saying !

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

711 Um ano de Duolingo!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5506603/Um-ano-de-Duolingo>

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Amanhã, completo um ano de Duo, único curso de inglês que conseguiu me pegar de jeito. Minhas conquistas: Inglês (nível 25, tradução categoria 13, árvore completamente dourada, continuo praticando c/cronômetro sempre que posso), viagem de quatro meses aos Estados Unidos, morando com uma família americana que muito me ajudou na conversação. Português (nível 16, tradução categoria 2, quase completando a árvore, que também mantenho sempre dourada com prática constante).

Give Lingot14

142 years ago

Leave a new comment

43 Comments

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Congratulations iracemapg. You made a good work.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Thank you, Carl_os. I tried to do my best (but I know it was not, I could do better, I am a little lazy person)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Diogo.D 25 25 25 22 12 5 5 3

Parabéns por cada conquista Iracema.

Como diria alguém: "a prática leva à perfeição"... ;-)

Como presente de aniversário vou te dar 12 lingots, um para cada mês do ano!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Thank you! Good luck and good studies to you too

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Wow, this really makes me happy! Thank you !!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Diogo.D 25 25 25 22 12 5 5 3

:-) I'm Glad you liked! And for all your effort, you deserve more than that!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PedroRosa123 9

E eu com isso. Para mim isso não é nada, a verdade nua e crua é você está ou não fluente no inglês? Se não está! Não adianta nada ficar com essa conversa pra boi dormir.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Comemoro uma conquista e divido minha alegria com quem está aqui para estudar que nem eu (cada um só pode dar o que tem). Se você não tem nada a ver com isso (mas, quer saber se "estou" fluente), não desperdice tempo, vá estudar (nada te impede de chegar ao nível 25 e acumular 798 lingotes).

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PedroRosa123 9

Vou estudar, mas não para ter 798 lingots, mas para ficar fluente, assim como eu já sou. Talvez algum dia você venha a ser fluente assim como eu sou e não fico com essa conversa para boi dormir, eu simplesmente sou fluente e gosto muito de ser.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Bom pra você, parabéns! Quanto a ser fluente, isso depende do nível de exigência de quem faz a avaliação. Dicas para chegar a 798 lingots: praticar diariamente se possível; não usar atalhos para subir de nível; ter registros na timeline relacionados às lições do Duo em vez de coments na página "Discussion", entre outras.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Feliphesa 11

Babaca mesmo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Antonio2077 25 4 5

Pra que você faz Duolingo então, se já é fluente como diz, não tem nada que esse site possa te oferecer.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Por favor, Antonio2077, aceite minhas desculpas por não ter entendido que esta sua resposta era dirigida a um comentário anterior e não ao meu. Se preferir, posso deletar. Deixo três lingots junto com o pedido de desculpas.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Desculpe, não concordo com a sua opinião. Se não tiver nada positivo a dizer, guarde-a para você. Basta ler meus comentários anteriores para saber que eu estava comemorando uma conquista, não tripudiando sobre quem não tem o mesmo pique para estudar. Aprender, se pode todos os dias. Praticar, exercitar, fazer imersão e estudar ajudam bem mais do que criticar e ser mal-educado com quem não se conhece. Bons estudos!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Antonio2077 25 4 5

Acredito que você entendeu errado, me referia ao comentário de PedroRosa123, logo acima, onde ele diz que é fluente, mas de toda forma, nunca iria entrar em um comentário para tirar o mérito da vitória de alguém.

2Give Lingot3•2 years ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

Anderson969 17 6 5

Você paga quanto para viajar?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Diogo.D 25 25 25 22 12 5 5 3

Pena que com os lingots não dá para comprar passagens aéreas rs...

Se desse eu viajaria hoje mesmo! rsrs

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Verdade. Mas, já comentei isso antes, o Duo me deu a confiança que eu precisava para encarar os nativos. Valeu mesmo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Você quer dizer pelas passagens, Anderson969? O preço mais em conta que encontro em sites de companhias aéreas. Minhas despesas são mínimas possíveis (troco horas de trabalho por casa e comida e não costumo comprar nada). Fui com o objetivo de usar e melhorar o inglês, não para fazer turismo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Anderson969 17 6 5

Sim eu estava falando de quanto você gasta para ir viajar fica na família americana e tals

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Oi, Anderson969, como expliquei antes, gasto praticamente só o valor das passagens. Não quero falar em valores exatos, pois você pode viajar gastando pouco dinheiro, ou muito, isso vai depender do seu perfil. Se for para turismo, logicamente você vai gastar mais, pois precisará pagar pelas viagens internas (ônibus, trem), mais as atrações, talvez algum albergue ou hotel. O meu perfil é gastar o mínimo possível. Portanto, se quer ter uma idéia, põe aí o valor de passagens de ida e volta em promoção (o menor que você conseguir) e algum dinheiro apenas para pequenas despesas. É o que faço.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Feliphesa 11

Legal!!! Você só usa o duolingo? Somente com ele é possível colher frutos?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Mais ou menos. Uso o Duo, que me dá motivação suficiente para continuar praticando (odeio perder corações). Mas, olho os coments e muita gente boa compartilha ótimos links para gramáticas, dicionários ou vídeos. Falar nisso, aqui vão dois que gosto muito:

<http://www.englishexperts.com.br/> e <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ohJCdihPWqc> Peguei os links por aqui mesmo. Bons estudos pra você, Feliphesa!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Feliphesa 11

Obrigado !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lehu. 23 23 19 16 14 10 6 6

boaaaaaaaaa! parabéns!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Obrigado. Continuo praticando, pois ainda não cheguei lá!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eduardopaolucci 7

Cool! Congratulations! Have a nice week

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Obrigado. Boa semana pra você também.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AmandaCard909971 14 8 8 3 2

Nossa, quero chegar nesse nível também.. rs

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Boa sorte, AmandaCard909971! Não precisa levar um ano (como eu), é que viajei durante alguns meses, então praticava só quando podia. Assim que eu concluir a árvore de Português, vou partir pra do Italiano. Quero cultivar um pomar de árvores douradas. Se é pra sonhar, já sonho logo bem longe. Bons estudos!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jncheroso 5

estou uma semana nesse site DUOLINGO e estou amando , a cada dia eu vejo o meu progresso nesse site muito bom msm :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Pois, comecei há 12 meses e continuo amando. Bons estudos!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jncheroso 5

estou novo ainda nesse site e tenho uma dúvida sobre OFENSIVA , vc poderia me explicar isso melhor ? n sei o que é isso...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Você já está com três dias seguidos em que você pratica (faz lições). A cada dez dias seguidos, você ganha um lingot (ex.: dez dias = 1 ; vinte dias = 2; trinta dias = 3, etc...). Você não ganha lingots se usar um atalho para pular lições.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jncheroso 5

ha entendi agora muito obrigado iracema , vc sabe como faço para pôr minha foto no perfil ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Go to "your profile" (on top right of the screen) and then click "settings"

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

jncheroso 5

I'm so sorry , but I don't managed to exchange the photo yet , I made what you told me , however I don't find this option to exchange my photo.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Aislan-Neves 25 10

Sim parabéns iracempg haha :D

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iracemapg 25 25 25 6 3 2 2

Obrigada, Aislan. Boa sorte com seus estudos!

1ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

Aislan-Neves 25 10

O mesmo :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

712 "Ich mag meine Verwandten. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11117422>

Translation: I like my relatives.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

Yvickz 8

Said no one ever

47ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Laruthell 23

Hey, I like my relatives.

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Luscinda 25 25 25 14 11 10 8 7 6 6 5 4 3 3 2 2 16

So do I, but I wouldn't express it like that. I'd always say 'family'.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

Hu, a minute ago relatives was Verwandte??

14ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SimoneBa 15 13 9 107

This is the accusative case now, which changes the endings. The verb "mögen" triggers the accusative.

24ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

Tor_Heyerdal 25 7 2

But just a minute ago, Duo gave me "Hast du Verwandte?" That's accusative too. What's going on here?

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

amaslac 25 13 7 4 480

It's an adjectival noun which means it's declined as an adjective.
<http://www.canoo.net/inflection/verwandte:N:F>

It was the same thing with "Erwachsene" in some earlier lesson.

I learned the adjective endings here:

<http://www.nthuleen.com/teach/grammar/adjektivendungenexpl.html>

18ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

Tor_Heyerdal 25 7 2

I'm definitely familiar with the adjective endings already, thanks to the charts in the tips area of the colours section here on Duolingo. But I did not realize that words such as these were being treated as adjectives, inflectionally. It all makes sense now. Thanks a lot.

For anyone who may be stumbling upon this thread and is also having problems with this concept, here's a page I found with much more information that may help:

<https://www.dartmouth.edu/~german/Grammatik/AdjectivalNouns/AdjectivalNouns.html>

17ReplyGive Lingot8•1 year ago

electriclinda 19 240

Thanks!! I love this page. It has great info.

0Give Lingot•6 months ago

sofia.berg 17 14 4

I know this is random, but in Danish (which is usually very similar) there is no easy way to translate this. The closest way would be to say "jeg kan lide dem jeg er beslægtet med" (I like the ones I am related to) or "Jeg kan lide min familie/slægt" (I like my family/kin)...

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

In Swedish, there is the word "släktingar" (Singular: (en) Släkting). Doesn't Danish have something similar to "släktingar"?

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EdwinoRasmijn 12 12 12 12 293

Is it not Der Verwandte?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

-Copernicus- 23 3 615

"Verwandte" is actually feminine ("die Verwandte"), but it does have a masculine form ("der Verwandter"). However, in this sentence it is plural ("die Verwandten", which could be plural for "Verwandte" or "Verwandter" alike).

Regardless of the gender, the correct article is "die" since "Verwandten" is plural.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

az_p 23 9 4

Careful! It is indeed der Verwandte, not 'der Verwandter', for "the (male) relative". The -er ending turns up in other combinations of article, such as ein Verwandter.

Source: Canoo.net

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

-Copernicus- 23 3 615

Ah, so it conjugates like an adjective. Interesting! Thanks for the correction.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

az_p 23 9 4

Exactly. This link, already posted above, is a good overview:

<http://www.dartmouth.edu/~deutsch/Grammatik/AdjectivalNouns/AdjectivalNouns.html>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

713 "I will register for that class."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/404672>

Translation: Eu vou me matricular para aquela aula.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

46 Comments

alvaro1944 25 16 13 12 8

Para todos desta página: acredito que, em 99,99% dos casos, as pessoas se matriculariam NUM (ou 'em um') curso ou numa classe para ASSISTIR A aulas de determinada matéria, assunto, etc. A expressão adequada é pois "matricular-se em". Além disso, embora 'class' possa significar 'aula', muito dificilmente, alguém se matricularia em APENAS uma aula. 'Class' tem também outros significados em português, como 'classe' e 'turma', que parecem verter melhor para a nossa língua a palavra inglesa. Concluindo e em concordância com outros desta página, a meu ver, a melhor tradução seria a seguinte: "Vou me matricular naquela classe (ou turma)". E para os apreciadores de uma sintaxe purista, teríamos a seguinte: "Matricular-me-ei naquela classe (ou turma)". Saudações. Em 15.07.2014.

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

juliana_marra 14 6 3
matricular=registrar

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Vossler 13 3
[18-08-14] Sim, mas ainda não é aceito pelo Duo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RaisaBacelar 14 10 2
Não poderia ser "i will register ME"?

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Francielton_Eng 21 20 17 614
Também tenho dúvidas quanto a isso, o porque do ME estar oculto?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

ErJones1 15 10 5
Acho que nessa caso gera uma redundância.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Socerante 24 9 2
[deleted]

5Give Lingot•3 years ago

SpeedMAXX 14
Pois é... Eu usei "eu vou me matricular naquela classe", mas o Duo disse que tá errado. E ainda por cima diz que "eu vou me matricular aquela classe" está certo kkkkkk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

uallacecaze 14
Por que não "I WILL REGISTER MYSELF" ?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

vivikabrum 21
Ninguém se matricula para aquela aula e sim para aquela classe, turma ou curso, o próprio Duolingo ensina que é a mesma coisa e portanto não poderiam desconsiderar a resposta.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Deividson.Mean 21

yeah

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

AHDianin 10

Eu vou me matricular naquela classe.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dbcouras 13 8

"Eu vou me matricular para aquela classe"

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kelqs 12 9

"Eu me matricularei aquela classe." Essa tradução correta do Duo não faz muito sentido.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarioHenriq 19 19 10 50

Pois é, faltou o "para aquela... "

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MartinsE. 18 6 1

A frase ficaria melhor se fosse Classe e não Aula. O Duolingo não aceita Classe na frase.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Luiz_BR 11 11

Atualmente aceita.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Gianlucaps 14 12 10 8 8 5

The duolingo hasn't accepted this: "eu me matricularei naquela classe" I believe that there is no mistake in that phrase

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

dalmar.ame 15 3

I have put the same

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ValeriaSQ 25 25 14 13 10 4 4 15

"Eu vou me matricular (na classe, no curso) para aquela aula."

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Igor_MSA 15 2

Coloquei i'll e deu errado -.-

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Andrew.C.L. 24 5 4 3 3 2
[deleted]

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

Cleisonn 15 2

AndreLC, na frase o "I will" (Eu vou) está se referindo a você. Então entende-se que o sujeito da frase é você "Eu vou me matricular". Algumas palavras ou preposições em inglês ficam subentendidas.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alvaro1944 25 16 13 12 8

Para Andre.L.C.: o uso do verbo aqui é pronominal, portanto, "o aluno SE matricula em um curso". Entretanto, em relação ao funcionário da instituição que realiza a matrícula, diz-se: "O secretário da escola matriculou o aluno", em que 'o aluno' é objeto direto e o verbo não pode ser pronominal. Espero ter ajudado. Saudações. Em 28.07.2014.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lourilucio 17 11

"eu vou me matricular para aquele curso"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jotaborges 14

Para a tradução dada a frase em inglês não deveria ser I WILL REGISTER ME FOR THAT CLASS??? Parece que sem utilizar o ME a tradução ficaria um pouco "capenga"... Pergunto se o verbo register não pede complemento.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Luiz_BR 11 11

Seria "myself" e não "me". Mas mesmo o "myself" não é utilizado neste caso.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BrunoTauil 21 14 9 7

Desculpe pela ignorancia, mas neste caso o "me" faz tanto sentido assim de dá errado se a frase já começou com "I"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RaisaBacelar 14 10 2

But, register what? Him, her, us?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Luiz_BR 11 11

Seria "myself" e não "me". Mas mesmo o "myself" não é utilizado neste caso.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Tessiavpignaton 12

Eles usam apply e não register nos EUA

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuizRN.Co39 25 671

Dúvida?? 1- "I will register FOR that class" - Entendo que a tradução mais simples e mais adequada, até para seguir o princípio do "menor esforço", seria a proposta pelo DUO, ou seja: Eu vou me matricular (registrar, inscrever) para (FOR) aquela/essa (THAT) aula/turma/classe. 2 - "I will register IN (substituindo o "for") that class" - Entendo que em tal construção, poderíamos traduzir para: Eu vou me matricular naquela/nessa (IN + that) aula. Aqui teríamos o "IN" substituindo o "for". Espero que o meu raciocínio esteja correto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PedroGonza920679 13

Qual seria a frase em inglês para essa frase? "Eu registrarei para essa classe"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AnneEly 19 12 10 6

Por que não posso colocar somente 'Eu vou registrar para aquela aula' ??

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Marcelo.Eduardo 11 5 3

Outra tradução correta seria: Matricular-me para aquela aula.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PetieBeca 12

não falta um "me" para indicar quem será matriculado? na falta, devo admitir que a pessoa atribui a ação a si mesmo?

0ReplyGive Lingot•12 months ago

Durci1 18

aonde está o ME? Não seria: I will register me for that class?

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Jackson__Daniel 18 2

Seria uma regra para o verbo "register" vir acompanhado do "for"? "register for"

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

leo.gallo.nunes 19

"Eu vou registrar para aquela aula" Por que deu errado ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

JosuPersuh 16 8 7

Por que não tem o "me" ou "myself" ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Medeiros2014 17 12 8 7

Teria que ter" me" antes do register nao é

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

andresthal 11

Ou eu ou o duolingo ta ficando maluco...

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carmen_ccac 15 10 10

Que traduções malucas para "that"... o_O

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gqresende 11 3

Favor checar esta traducao nao esta fazendo sentido.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

714 "Benim küçük kitabım"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6786543>

Translation: My little book

12 years ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

halil.mutl 10

Belli bir kitaptan bahsetmiyor muyuz neden the kullanamıyoruz

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Emma-lee93 11 9 6

Belirli ama the'yi nereye koyabilirsin ki my var zaten, the little book deseydin küçük kitap olurdu o zaman benim anlami olmazdi :)

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

devecci 8

My kullanarak belirli bi kitaptan bahsetmissin zaten

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ferdi48130 12

My ile the kullanılmıyormuş burada öğrendim.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AliErenEmi 6

"The little book is mine" şeklinde söyleyemez miyiz?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

buketsevcan 11 10

The little book is mine.=Küçük kitap benim(dir). Benim küçük kitabım bir cümle değil, yalnızca kelime tamlaması. Yazdığınız cümle dil bilgisi yönünden doğru ancak bu soruya alternatif bir cevap değil maalesef.

7ReplyGive Lingot3•1 year ago

ersinturac 21 11

little yaşça küçüklüğü ifade etmiyor mu?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Emma-lee93 11 9 6

Hayır, sadece yaşça değil.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

osmanakbyk 14

I am a little book kitabı konusturur gibi yapamazmiyiz

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Emma-lee93 11 9 6

"Ben küçük bir kitabım" demiyor :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

aydinusta 15

my small book bende bu şekil yazdım kabul etmedi ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Emma-lee93 11 9 6

Raporlayın

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

CAGRI_reyiz 7

raporlamaya gerek yok açıkladım ben small neden kabul edilmediğini

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

CAGRI_reyiz 7

my little book daha doğru misal verirse bir yabancı gelip sana benim saçım küçük dese sen onun saçının kısa olduğunu anlarsın ama yanlış söylemiştir little burada daha uygun bir kelime seçimi yani bir yabancı my small book derken ne demek istediğini anlar ama yanlış bi kullanım olur

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

CAGRI_reyiz 7

my little book daha doğru misal verirse bir yabancı gelip sana benim saçım küçük dese sen onun saçının kısa olduğunu anlarsın ama yanlış söylemiştir little burada daha uygun bir kelime seçimi yani bir yabancı my small book derken ne demek istediğini anlar ama yanlış bi kullanım olur

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

ersin707053 11

Dogrusu small

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CAGRI_reyiz 7

my little book daha doğru misal verirse bir yabancı gelip sana benim saçım küçük dese sen onun saçının kısa olduğunu anlarsın ama yanlış söylemiştir little burada daha uygun bir kelime seçimi yani bir yabancı my small book derken ne demek istediğini anlar ama yanlış bi kullanım olur

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

715 "Jeg skriver det i min kalender."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4384293>

Translation: I write it in my calendar.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

11 Comments

Hantastisch 16 10 10 10 4 4 4 3

Is it just me, or would "I write it on my calendar" sound more natural?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Actually I would use both. I would write it ON my kalender if it was a kalender hanging on the wall. I would write it IN my kalender if it was a little pocket kalender or the one on my phone.

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Derpikus 13 10 9 5 5

You must be Dutch. ;-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Hantastisch 16 10 10 10 4 4 4 3
Haha, so that's the reason :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hamishNL 25 25 21 14 10 9 9 7 3 1005
It's not just you; it's most of the English-speaking world.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14
"I write it on my calendar." is also accepted by Duolingo. At least it is now if it wasn't before.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Torsby 10 9 7 5
I write it down in my calender? What's wrong with that one?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Hantastisch 16 10 10 10 4 4 4 3
Apparently nothing, though to me it feels wrong. To me a calendar is a thing you hang on the wall, a surface, that you write on. Not a book-like thing like an agenda, that you write in. But that's my faulty brain, alright:p

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MinervaCerridwen 22 17 15 12 12 11 11 10 439
Yeah, I think that's our Dutch interpretation. As far as I know, the word "calendar" can be used for both our "kalender" and "agenda" in English.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SamCached 11
I agree with those above, in English we write ON a calendar and IN a diary.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sue416173 14
Diary not calendat

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

716 At æde vs at spise
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20307126>
Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4
Question:

How is æde used in Danish? It looks like it's the equivalent of German fressen from my trips to the wiktionary but I wanted to make sure it would actually be used that way.

Give Lingot
22 months ago

Leave a new comment
6 Comments

RaiNey037 17 11 3 144
"æde" is when you consume food, but "æde" is a more barbaric way to say that you are eating in a sense. It's much more common to say "Jeg spiser" which means "I eat"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4
Sounds like fressen in German.

Would æde be used for animals?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

RaiNey037 17 11 3 144
I would probably be used for wolf and such, but not for bunnies and those kind of animals.

Ulven æder en fugl.

Kaninen spiser sine guleroder.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

VictorLassen 13 12 9 2
"Æde" is usually used for animals and "spise" is used for people, though it can be used for animals too. The most important thing is to not use "æde" when talking about people as it is very barbaric.

1ReplyGive Lingot1•2 months ago

Vibeke737428 18 9 17
You can always use "spise" instead of "æde". Living in Denmark and being Danish I rarely hear "æde"...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Logantj13 11
æde is more the connotation of devour

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

717 terrà
<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Italian/terr%C3%A0-tenere-verb-future+indicative-third+person-singular/9ce34ff82cc1a03ddd53701f8b7c282d>
ENGLISH

(he/she/it/you) will keep to, (he/she/it/you) will keep, (he/she/it/you) will give

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

tenete Dove tenete il pane? Where do you keep the bread?
tengono Dove tengono i polli? Where do they keep the chickens?
tenga Voglio che tu mi tenga la mano. I want you to hold my hand.
tenga Voglio che tu tenga il cane a distanza. I want you to keep the dog at a distance.
tenga Voglio che lui si tenga pronto. I want him to be ready.
tengano Ora vogliamo che loro si tengano fuori. Now we want them to keep themselves out of it.
tenevo Tenevo i cani in cortile. I kept the dogs in the courtyard.
tenne A cinque anni tenne il suo primo concerto in pubblico. At five years old he held his first public concert.
teneva Lui si teneva lontano dall'avvocato. He kept himself far from the lawyer.
tenesse No, vorrei che lo tenesse lei. No, I would like her to keep it.
tenessimo Se lo tenessimo d'occhio, non andrebbe via. If we kept an eye on it, it wouldn't go away.
tenemmo Mi ricordo la prima volta che ci tenemmo per mano. I remember the first time we held hands.
tenevano Dove tenevano i passaporti? Where were they keeping the passports?
tenuto Non so chi abbia tenuto il segreto. I do not know who has kept the secret.
tenuta Sono felice che tu l'abbia tenuta. I am happy that you kept her.
tenuti Penso che loro si siano tenuti le chiavi. I think that they have kept the keys.
tenute Dove saranno state tenute le bottiglie di vino? Where will the wine bottles have been kept?
terrò Terrò metà per me stesso. I will keep half for myself.
terrei Terrei sempre un posto per lui. I would always hold a spot for him.
tieni Tieni la porta chiusa! Keep the door closed!
terrai Terrai la tua parola, vero? You will keep your word, right?
terrà Il marito terrà questa casa e la moglie terrà l'altra. The husband will keep this house and the wife will keep the other.
terrebbe Chi terrebbe d'occhio me? Who would keep an eye on me?
tenere Lui vuole tenere la gente al sicuro. He wants to keep the people safe.
tenendo La mamma sta tenendo il suo bambino per mano. The mom is holding her baby by the hand.
teniamo Teniamo la cosa fra di noi! Let's keep it between us!
tenete Tenete duro ragazzi! Hold tight boys!
terranno I corsi si terranno di pomeriggio. The courses will be held in the afternoon.
tenere conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON  | PRESENT | REMOTE PAST | FUTURE   |
|---------|---------|-------------|----------|
| io      | tengo   | tenetti     | terrò    |
| tu      | tieni   | tenesti     | terrai   |
| lui/lei | tiene   | tenne       | terrà    |
| noi     | teniamo | tenemmo     | terremo  |
| voi     | tenete  | teneste     | terrete  |
| loro    | tengono | tennero     | terranno |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "terrà":

7 commentsIl marito terrà questa casa e la moglie terrà l'altra.

59 commentsPerché mi stai tenendo la mano?

58 commentsDove tenete il pane?

52 commentsTerrai la tua parola, vero?

35 commentsTenete duro ragazzi!

718 Russian Level 25 reached! My story -

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20001467>

justinworr 25 13 8 3

So I finally finished Duolingo Russian and got to level 25. Very proud of myself :-)

My summary stats are roughly as follows - started Jan 23rd 2016

no prior knowledge of the language

'insane level' - min 5 lessons / tests per day completed course Sep 22nd 2016

100% gold tree throughout :-) reached level 25 Dec 30th 2016

current 333 day streak (!)

So what to make of my journey ?

Well firstly a big thank you to @shady_arc. I have wanted to learn Russian for over 30 years but never really had the chance. Despite a stellar education Russian was never offered at school, and diving solo into the language seemed too steep a wall to climb. I have a 20 year old copy of 'The New Penguin Russian Course', pristine, mocking me silently as I pass it in the bookcase; so when Duo announced their Russian course I was ready!

My great- great- grandfather was a Manchester engineer who went to pre- Soviet Russia in the 1880s to work as a foreman at the 'Scherbatova' cotton mill in Ozyory, 20 miles south of Moscow. He married a Russian woman and had four daughters - Agna, Nina, Greta and Serafima. They must have moved back to England before the revolution because my father remembers all his maiden aunts with Russian sounding names.

Agna was my paternal great grandmother. She bequeathed a number of Russian items to her dependants including a large, fabulous gold icon which hung in grandfather's attic for many years because grandmother didn't like it. Eventually she donated it to the local church! Not sure they could believe their luck. We see it once a year now when it graces the altar on Christmas day. Think the insurance means it can't be viewed more than that :-/ :-/

Memories of school Latin and German helped a lot, particularly with the case structure (Russian being very case- heavy). Not sure I would advise tackling Russian without some understanding of cases (and also aspects if possible); can be daunting, especially as Duo is very 'grammar- lite' (not a criticism); prepare to spend a lot of time with a grammar book.

I really liked @shady_arc's grammar notes, they are informative and breezily written. A shame they are only available on the website version and not on mobile; I would have liked to dip in and out of them during practice. I was naughty and 'liberated' them for the web as a whole (apologies); you can find them here - <http://duo-russian-grammar.s3-website-eu-west-1.amazonaws.com/>

You have to find a workflow that works for you, Personally I found that the way Duo introduces new words, by effectively 'dropping them into the conversation', didn't work for me; they simply didn't stick. Perhaps it's a Russian thing, that new words can look and sound very alien to an English speaker. I progressed much faster when I discovered Memrise which mercifully has parallel Duolingo vocab courses. By using Memrise to drill the vocab into my brain ahead of tackling the equivalent Duo level, I was able to progress much faster. So Duo's TinyCards is definitely a step in the right direction; now all we need is the Android version to be released #yawns

You need determination. Determination determination determination. Even if it's only one lesson a day, you need to complete that lesson and then repeat the next day and the next. It's like compound interest - you are compounding your understanding much more efficiently through small, frequent gains than through big one-off learning splurges. So don't expect to get anywhere without putting a little bit of time in, every day.

Mobile really helps. Suddenly that 10 minutes in the queue, that 20 minutes on the bus is no longer wasted time, but an ideal moment for a bit of language practise, an ideal moment to compound your knowledge a little bit further. You have a supercomputer in your pocket! Use it well! What a time to be alive!!

Duo's machine learning is impressive. I mean an app like this would be pretty simple, nay trivial, to write if it just matched single words or exact phrases. But how much utility would it have to a learner? Not a lot. It's the way it can present you with phrases rather than single words, and then 'fuzzily' assess the quality of your answer, that makes it compelling. In this respect I suspect it's a generation ahead of the competition.

It's hard to access exactly what standard I am at now. The Duo tests seem relatively easy; even if I close my eyes, ignore the text and focus on understanding the speech, it's unproblematic. So I must have acquired some kind of expertise! But reading BBC Russian News is still tricky. I can maybe understand 30-40% of what's going on, but there are (obviously) lots of words I have no idea about. Need to knuckle down in 2017 and learn more vocab :-/

It's also hard to see exactly where to go to from here. Completing a Duo course feels a bit like leaving university and being pushed into the big wide world; you want to keep moving but suddenly there's no roadmap; it's all down to you. I feel there's missing product out there for advanced users .. something like Readlang which allows you to 'gather' vocabulary from real world text. But it would need to work better on mobile and ideally integrate with Memrise for vocab learning. I'm guessing the fraction of people who actually complete a Duo course is tiny and thus it's too small a market for Duo to bother with. But I also know that Steve Rideout (Readlang's creator) now works at Duo; come on Steve, make it happen!

I'm not sure Russian deserves its reputation as a 'hard' language. I won't say it's easy, but once you overcome the initial barrier of the alphabet it has a lot in common with many other European languages, certainly German (case-wise). Yes, it's unusual; but with so much structure it's also very logical. It gives an interesting perspective when one then looks back at English, which by way of contrast has very little structure. How on earth do you explain to a poor Russian an English phrase such as 'he had to have had'?

Overall it's been a fantastic journey. Duo is literally the app I would have on my phone if I was only allowed one. Am trying to determine the way forward in Russian but am sorely tempted to complete German and maybe even have a crack at Polish. Choices, choices ..

PS Thanks also to Alex Rawlings who bore my mangling of one of his favourite languages with good grace. Looking forward to the book!

PPS I really want to see Duolingo Bulgarian. Come on Duo!

Give Lingot25
652 months ago

Leave a new comment
26 Comments

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166
Congratulations! :-)

(Speaking of "insane", I seemed to remember your profile picture, and you are indeed the Memrise user who has scored more than double the number points of the second highest scoring Memrise user doing the Duolingo Russian course... I was always wondering how it was even possible to score that many points, since one only gets 5 per question once everything is "watered"!)

Anyway, I can recommend using Lingvist to widen your vocabulary to get you better prepared for reading: I went through their stack of French words (4774 items, their stats tell me, in a total of 35 hours) a couple of years ago, and it really helped me to start reading. The vocab is presented in the context of sentences, so it makes a bit more sense than just words (like on Memrise), and the program doesn't let you off the hook until you've got it right and done so often enough. There's also a pretty sleek Android app... I finished my own Duolingo Russian tree in November, started Russian on Lingvist as soon as it was out (some time in the autumn), have so far spent 21 hours on it, and am currently at 1281 words...but I'm spreading myself thinner now than I was back when I was doing French. Russian being Russian, this course will take me way longer than 35 hours total, anyway. Lingvist is free to use (for now, which they've been saying for years).

A similar website/app to Lingvist is Clozemaster, which is the opposite of sleek, but which teaches (or "presents you with" -- it doesn't check you're actually learning as well as Duolingo, Memrise, or Lingvist do) pretty funny sentences and words, including swearwords. I do just a little bit of this one per day, but if I had to drop one of my routines, I think I'd rather drop this one than Lingvist. Clozemaster is also free to use.

Neither of these is quite as addictive as Duolingo, but I guess at 333 days, you're basically addicted to your daily Russian anyway! ;-)

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

Thank you. Lingvist Russian looks really good! I think re Memrise that if you take the speed courses they award 50 pts per correct answer. So for (say) 10 mins doing 100 words with the speed test you can amass about 5000 points. I don't think much of Memrise really, but it did help me here.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

pigu3 25 25 20 17 15 14 13 12 11 10 10 10

Мои сердечные поздравления! Я рад, что я мог быть мельчайшей частей путешествия!

I 100% agree that there's a gap in the learning options available between mastery of the Duo tree and something like Readlang. The vocabulary breach is so much bigger than with Romance languages, at least; I actually consider this to be the hardest part of learning Russian. People complain about the six cases, but people rarely get far enough, I think, to know to complain about the thousands and thousands of words you've got to learn, almost none of which are familiar, to have a minimally functional use of the language — even to read a simple children's book [I remember how pleased I was to understand one - whole - sentence of Маленькая Обезьянка, a book with one - sentence - per - page]. With Romance languages, at least, I can certainly attest one can do amazing things with a couple thousand basic words and, oh, that helpful 2/3 of English vocabulary that comes from... Romance languages. Not that you don't know any of this, of course. I'm just saying I feel your pain!

I've been vaguely meaning to have a look at the Lingvist Russian course. I know I enjoyed it for French. I know for me there was effort that I needed to expend to get my mind to not just want to slack off at the sight of bunches Cyrillic sentences. I've gradually whittled that reticence down with the sentence-by-sentence reading in Immersion. Lingvist's set-up would help with that, too, it would seem to me. I found learning new vocab in context to be much more valuable than Memrise — since you get to learn the language, not just the words.

For the conquering of the new vocab in the reverse tree or elsewhere, I'd briefly share my non-Memrise method for getting unfamiliar vocab to stick (which I think is a problem for most non-Slavic language speakers learning Russian: I sure didn't retain all that much from the basic Duo drop-new-Russian-word-in-sentence gambit, either, whereas that method works marvels for me in more familiar languages): bunches of consecutive timed practice. I have not the slightest compunction of doing 5 or more in a row on a single skill. I think the time pressure helps me overcome the self-consciousness of not knowing everything perfectly and just getting on with it. Lo and behold I discover after a few go-rounds that the words are actually there available for my active use! That said, I am a primarily desktop Duo user. Timed practice is available at least on the iOS browser version, and I have used it, but it's obviously more of a stretch.

Once again, congratulations! Welcome to the oh-so-elite club ;)

ETA: I don't think there's anything "machine learning" about it. All the right correct answers are input / selected by hand :)

5ReplyGive Lingot2•2 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

(The following would carry more weight if I had actually crossed the line of starting to read properly already, but...)

I'm starting to find that the difficulty of Russian, compared to French or German, is a combination of the different alphabet (like what bookrabbit wrote), which means you always need just that little bit longer to look at the word and read or memorize it, and the cases (just the fact that there are more of them than in German, so more options).

In contrast, now that I'm expanding my vocabulary beyond what is taught in the Duolingo course, I'm often pleasantly surprised by being able to see links between similar words or being able to deconstruct long, complex words into their basic bits (like one often can in German, too).

This latter thing is actually my favourite aspect about using Clozemaster: I can't claim that I learn the words I see there, but I get pretty good at guessing at the meanings of sentences and words. Which is, of course, essential for reading.

I know I should make an effort with the grammar and especially the cases, and I have the same book as the OP (although it has been used a little bit, and I've only had it for a year, but I do have other similar ones that have mocked me from the bookshelf since the 90s...), but for future reading it just feels more intuitive to go for the large, passive vocabulary for now, and continue to allow myself to be lazy about the grammar.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Selma-Ibrahim 25 16 5 3
Hello Justin!

First of all, I would like to thank you for writing this discussion (or whatever it's called). Congratulations on finishing your tree, reaching level 25, and learning Russian. Even if you only understand about 30-40% of what's going on on BBC Russian News, it's still an accomplishment. I won't lie, I'm impressed! I usually try not to be biased, but Russian really does seem like a crazy-hard language. Well done!

Secondly, you mentioned that you didn't know where (or how) to continue your Russian-learning journey. Well, here's my advice: Don't take a course.

I know many people will disagree with this, but hear me out.

If you keep taking courses and treating Russian like an experiment -- like something you're learning -- I doubt you'll ever reach native-like fluency (assuming that's your goal, of course). Instead, use Russian. Stop taking courses and lessons. You've already done that. Now it's time to move on to the real world. You might be far away from fluency, but you can't deny you speak the language. Take advantage of that. Read books, watch movies, travel to Russia (if you can). Don't perceive Russian as something you're learning, but something you already know. I hope you get my point =)

Good luck!

PS: Do you mind describing your language-learning journey in more detail? I'm thinking about starting to learn Russian but I'm not really sure yet. I want to know more about the hardest/easiest aspects of learning Russian in your opinion. Feel free to write on my wall (or whatever it's called).

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

Yes I need to speak it more. I will probably get a tutor at some point. I would say Russian definitely worth it, but then it helps if you're fascinated with the place itself. If not, then maybe not for you. Not saying that Russian is easy, but don't think it's as hard as many make out. The alphabet seems like a major barrier but is easily learned. Once you're past that I'm not sure it's that much harder than German, say; more difficult, but not 10x difficult. Go for it!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

bookrabbit 22 22 20 20 19 17 16 16 16 15 14 14 13 13 13 12 8 5 28

Great work:))

After you finish the German tree you could try the German from Russian course next. There is different vocabulary and because it assumes that you know Russian it is that bit more challenging. I am working my way through all four from Russian courses, I just wish I could hear the Russian tts on them instead of the other direction. I am close to having the xp for a level 25 spread over the 4 courses. I'll reach that point when I level them all up to 15.

I found the same thing as you with Russian vocabulary, that I needed memrise to make it stick at first. And now I need it for Hebrew too, although that is more due to lack of sufficient audio. I haven't needed memrise alongside other duolingo courses, although I have used it to learn extra after a couple of trees to make the step up to a big enough vocabulary to read. I think the different script makes a big difference in how difficult it is to retain vocabulary until you are really familiar with it.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

I really want to try the reverse English from Russian course, certainly. Problem is I want to use my mobile exclusively so I can take advantage of the Cyrillic virtual keyboard; but if I select this course my entire phone gets Russified! (at least the assumption seems to be that you must be a Russian native). All solutions gratefully received

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1166

That doesn't happen to my Android (an LG one). I select the keyboards I want to use somewhere in the settings of the phone itself, and then those are the same regardless of what app I'm using.

So I do have to keep switching between a Latin (Swedish/English) one and the Russian Cyrillic one, but that's just one click and I have to do that just within one Duolingo lesson anyway.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

piguy3 25 25 20 17 15 14 13 12 11 10 10 10

The Duo interface will indeed be in Russian. But, hey, the forward tree taught you настройки сайта, right? ;) You can do it! You already know what all the buttons do.

There are phonetic Russian keyboard layouts if that's what's keeping you from ever using the desktop version.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

You're right. It's not the phone itself which gets Russified, just the Duo app. I think I have been put off switching to Duo Russki because I have been learning German as well. But time to bite the bullet!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Cici_Lini 12 11 11 7 5 2

Thanks for that new year's motivation :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

brittalexiswm 14 12 12 11 8 5 5 4 4 3 2 2 7

Try the English from Russian tree for strengthening your Russian, if you're up for it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

How can you access it on mobile without Russifying your entire phone ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

SLzrnk 25 21 3 5

Do you have Android or iPhone?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

SLzrnk 25 21 3 5

Press "Add a course", scroll to "Для знающих русский", press " Английский"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

Android

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Mihail_Emelyanov 11 9

Для большего погружения в русский язык можно даже полностью изменить язык системы на русский. В таком случае весь интерфейс, меню, системные сообщения и т. д. будут полностью на русском.

Плюс вам нужно будет добавить в языки ввода английский, чтобы с клавиатуры можно было писать и по-русски, и по-английски.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

PicoTesla 14 14 13 13 12 12 11

Wonderful story.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

w1ndh0ek 12 11 11 11 10 6 6 56

Congrats! Awesome story!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

XD29 25 25 23 23 20 19 18 15 14 14 13 13 13 13 12 12 12 11 11 10 3 2 608

Congratulations!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Shiam6 4

Hey everyone! I made a Russian language learning club. Join with this code HTAGX4

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Cesarfeliix_ 25 20 12 12 12 11 11 7 6 6 2 2

How many points have you done each day - to become a Russian Level 25?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

50-100

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Dzheym007 7 6 6 4 3 2

Hey, may I say this is one of the best and most motivational pieces I have read in the discussion? What a refresher. I needed to read this. Thank you so much for posting your journey. What level would you say you're officially at now? Perhaps intermediate?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

justinworr 25 13 8 3

I wouldn't say "intermediate". Probably "good basic level". Maybe B2 on the language scale.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

719 "Hola Antonio, ¿hablas español?"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19314682>

Translation: Hello Antonio, do you speak Spanish?

23 months ago

19 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

AbbyBonnaF 5

How do you type the upside down question mark?

1Give Lingot•3 months ago

DanielMath59147 2

Hold down the question mark itself ¿?

0Give Lingot•3 months ago

nrhfzh 3 1

What is the different about hablas and ¿hablas

0Give Lingot•3 months ago

Lisi_Reus 25 14 11 6

There is not difference between both, in fact is the same word, but in spanish when you will begin a question, always you have to open your question mark with that symbol ¿ --- ----- ? and then you have to close it. It's a spanish grammatical rule

If you want do it in your keyboard you can put Alt+168 and will appear it "¿"

5Give Lingot1•3 months ago

danielsund11 4 3
It is ok

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

NicholasS.11 8
No hablo espanol

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

CarlosFlor455195 4
Hi Antonio speak spanish?

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

feefee538054 5
I like it

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

DillanPeplinski 4
shift and it this /

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

Aljale0 3
hola anthony de yo speak esponal

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

MarieGrzes 5 3
Why is "hey" wrong?

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

tonyrentrop 8
got me too

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

CharliRoss1 2
this app is wrong I typed it right because i have google translate

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

CharliRoss1 2
i dont like this app

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

Miller_Kourtney 6
my answer is right but they are saying it wrong

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

22colon24 2
i do not know

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

GioBabineaux0 3 1
in any part of the answering do you have to translate

0Give Lingot•2 months ago

Devy400 2
Who else said spanish do you speak antonio

0Give Lingot•1 month ago

720 poner
<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Spanish/poner-verb-infinitive/7467cdf4ccc3545e2ae77f971582074f>

ENGLISH
put, (to) put, (to) put in
Example sentences

| WORD   | EXAMPLE                               | TRANSLATION                           |
|--------|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| pongo  | Lo pongo aquí.                        | I put it here.                        |
| pone   | Ella pone la ropa en la cama.         | She puts the clothes on the bed.      |
| ponen  | Ellos ponen el pan en la mesa.        | They put the bread on the table.      |
| puso   | Ella puso los platos en la mesa.      | She put the plates on the table.      |
| puesto | Ella ha puesto los platos en la mesa. | She has put the plates on the table.  |
| poner  | ¿Qué te vas a poner esta noche?       | What are you going to put on tonight? |
| poner  | conjugation                           |                                       |

Indicative
Subjunctive
Others

| PERSON            | PRESENT | PAST    | FUTURE    |
|-------------------|---------|---------|-----------|
| yo                | pongo   | puse    | pondré    |
| tú                | pones   | pusiste | pondrás   |
| él/ella/usted     | pone    | puso    | pondrá    |
| nosotros/nosotras | ponemos | pusimos | pondremos |

vosotros/vosotras    ponéis    pusisteis    pondréis ustedes    ponen    pusieron    pondrán ellos/ellas    ponen    pusieron    pondrán

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "poner":

69 comments Las voy a poner allí.

64 comments ¿Cuáles zapatos te vas a poner?

58 comments ¿Qué te vas a poner esta noche?

131 comments Ella puede poner la mesa.

65 comments Lo puso aquí.

721 gehen

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/German/gehen-verb-present+indicative+tense-third+person-plural/c573a33558976871957aa7410694c8a8>

ENGLISH

go, are going, walk

Example sentences

| WORD | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|---------|-------------|
|------|---------|-------------|

|      |                 |                 |
|------|-----------------|-----------------|
| gehe | Ich gehe nicht. | I am not going. |
|------|-----------------|-----------------|

|       |           |         |
|-------|-----------|---------|
| gehst | Du gehst. | You go. |
|-------|-----------|---------|

|      |                |                       |
|------|----------------|-----------------------|
| geht | Die Frau geht. | The woman is leaving. |
|------|----------------|-----------------------|

|       |                  |                      |
|-------|------------------|----------------------|
| gehen | Wir gehen essen. | We are going to eat. |
|-------|------------------|----------------------|

|       |                              |                                    |
|-------|------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| gehen | Die Frau und der Mann gehen. | The woman and the man are walking. |
|-------|------------------------------|------------------------------------|

|      |                                                               |                                                      |
|------|---------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|
| ging | Als ich aus dem Ferienhaus ging, dachte ich an den Schlüssel. | When I left the vacation home, I thought of the key. |
|------|---------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|

|        |                                  |                           |
|--------|----------------------------------|---------------------------|
| gingen | Wir gingen in ein kleines Hotel. | We went to a small hotel. |
|--------|----------------------------------|---------------------------|

|        |                                     |                                    |
|--------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| gingen | Meine Eltern gingen ins Restaurant. | My parents went to the restaurant. |
|--------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------|

|          |                                    |                                 |
|----------|------------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| gegangen | Ich bin gestern zum Arzt gegangen. | Yesterday I went to the doctor. |
|----------|------------------------------------|---------------------------------|

|      |                           |                             |
|------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|
| gehe | Gehe nicht durch die Tür. | Do not go through the door. |
|------|---------------------------|-----------------------------|

|     |                   |              |
|-----|-------------------|--------------|
| geh | Geh nach Italien! | Go to Italy! |
|-----|-------------------|--------------|

|      |               |                   |
|------|---------------|-------------------|
| geht | Geht alleine! | Go by yourselves! |
|------|---------------|-------------------|

|       |                                |                                      |
|-------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| gehen | Sie müssen nicht sofort gehen. | You do not have to leave right away. |
|-------|--------------------------------|--------------------------------------|

gehen conjugation

Indicative

Conditional

Others

| PERSON | PRESENT | PAST |
|--------|---------|------|
|--------|---------|------|

|     |      |      |
|-----|------|------|
| ich | gehe | ging |
|-----|------|------|

|    |       |        |
|----|-------|--------|
| du | gehst | gingst |
|----|-------|--------|

|           |      |      |
|-----------|------|------|
| er/sie/es | geht | ging |
|-----------|------|------|

|     |             |        |
|-----|-------------|--------|
| wir | gehen, gehn | gingen |
|-----|-------------|--------|

|     |      |       |
|-----|------|-------|
| ihr | geht | gingt |
|-----|------|-------|

|         |             |        |
|---------|-------------|--------|
| sie/Sie | gehen, gehn | gingen |
|---------|-------------|--------|

Discussions with the word "gehen":

25 comments Die Männer gehen.

16 comments Die Frau und der Mann gehen.

77 comments Du brauchst nicht zu gehen.

58 comments Es geht ihr gut.

54 commentsSie ging und sprach dabei.

722 Verbes, temps...(ING, ED)

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1865815>

BrendelV 16 10 6

Bonjour à tous,

Je voulais faire un point sur les verbes dit en "ING" et en "ED" ( en anglais ). J'ai seulement une idée très (trop?) vague de ces deux temps. Je me demandais donc dans quelles circonstances les utilisés, la place dans la phrase, l'équivalent français ...et bien d'autres choses !

Si des âmes charitables peuvent me venir en aide et m'expliquer de manière claire. Je vous remercie d'avance.

Une idée a soumettre : Il serait peut-être intéressant de faire de petit point grammaire clair et concis sur Duolingo, et faire une mise en pratique directement après, afin d'assimiler la notion.

Give Lingot1

23 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

zaza33440 3

Les verbes en ING c est être en train de faire quelque chose, exemple i Am reading, je suis en train de lire, les verbes en ED. c est le passé simple, quand le verbe n est pas dans les verbe irrégulier tu ajoute ED, exemple avec le verbe PLAY, i playED football, j ai joué au football, je te conseille ce site : <http://www.anglaisfacile.com/exercices/exercice-anglais-1/exercice-anglais-100.php> il est top enfin je trouve! Good luck!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

curlyeric 22 13 12 8 7 3

I read - comme habitude / on peut lire / mais ne pas être en train de lire.

I read the newspaper. I read books. I read that/this newspaper. I read the bible. NO: I read that/this book.

I'm reading - être in train de lire or j'ai commencé à lire quelque chose.

I am reading the newspaper. I am reading that book. NO: I am reding books ( à moins que tu es au bibliothèque ).

Unfortunately to read has a small problem, it's spelled the same for past, but pronounced differently. In the present tense it's pronounces like 'reed' and in the past pronounced like 'red' ( duo can not handle this quirk of English ).

I (have) read that book. ( completely )

I (have) read shakespeare. ( au mois un ouvrage )

I was reading that newspaper ( before you interrupted me / yesterday )

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

723 Glad Alla hjärtans dag!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/7014185>

Dobie42 11 2

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rABgN0f-Wlg>

A little video on love and the different ways/phrases to express it in swedish :)

Give Lingot3

72 years ago

Leave a new comment

2 Comments

MissMuse 18 7 5 4

Thank you! At first I thought it was going to be pretty dry, but then I really appreciated her attention to making sure how to say the word, as in not just saying the word, but where to pause or elongate the sound. :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dobie42 11 2

I will admit, I tend to dismiss many of these teaching videos for the reason you stated, but this lady is very helpful, especially with pronunciation :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

724 "Where did you hear that? "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/251346>

Translation: ¿Dónde oíste eso?

04 years ago

Leave a new comment

163 Comments

thorm 9

Acepta "¿dónde escucharon eso?" pero no "¿dónde escuchaste eso?", tenía entendido que 'you' es tanto segunda persona del singular como del plural.

22ReplyGive Lingot1•4 years ago

jojoy 23 22 21 20 7

escuchar = to listen to oír = to hear

18ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

Yumi.V 14 8

El problema es que lo acepta en plural. Si fuera como decís no tendría que aceptarlo en ningún caso.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nectarlimon 24 118

Yo creo que eso si lo tenemos que reportar. You=Tú, usted, ustedes

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

juniorro97 11

Donde oyeron eso ? Probaste?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

TijoMONSTER 11 3

Tienes razón, you es singular y plural.

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

misael1989 12 8 6 2 2

Tambien acepta Donde Oiste eso?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

UlisesZuritaLuna 15 9 2

a mi ya me acepto "¿Dónde oíste eso?" como correcta 21/Nov/2016 Saludos!

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Goura 13

no! puse eso y no lo acepto, pero en realidad es una respuesta correcta, fallo duolingo ahi.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

ManuelSabo2 9

Cierto

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Abraham_Sainete 8 7 6 5 5

Yo puse"¿Donde has oído eso?" y me la dio por incorrecta

9ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alikindoi2 11 7 5 5 5

A mí me ha pasado lo mismo y he dejado una observación al respecto.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CRAFTSALVA 11 5

verdad

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DavidArias166930 13
me too

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Sireldina 23 5 2
pero ahi no aparece has de haber porque es did ,pasado

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

IndiraRada 16 2 2
No encuentro la diferencia entre: donde oyeron eso ustedes? Y donde oyeron ustedes eso? En el español es normal escuchar expresiones de este tipo. Esas son las ventajas de nuestro español, no es necesario un orden específico para poder entender, mientras que el ingles si. Y en esta oración me piden traducir al español no al inglés

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Edir12 10
¿Donde escucho usted eso? ¿puede ser una respuesta correcta?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

neomalcala 22
Deberia aceptar "¿Donde lo escuchaste?"

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

UlisesZuritaLuna 15 9 2
aunque en español si podría significar lo mismo, en ingles está expresión que manejas debería ser:
"Where you listened to it?"
i listened-- escuché (el escuchar es mas de manera voluntaria) escuché música (I listened to music) , escuché la radio (I listened to the radio) heard-- oíste (el oír es mas de manera involuntaria) oí la campana (i heard the bell), oí pasos (i hear steps)

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

alex_m.m 10
toda la razón, yo iba a decir lo mismo, es correcto

-1ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

aranaa69 22 4
Contesté "Donde tu oíste eso?" y fue calificado como malo por haber puesto "tu", no entiendo por qué

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

OsiX3 11 6 5 4 4

"Tu "no se utiliza porque al conjugar el verbo se da por hecho que estas hablando de la 2a persona singular,por lo tanto sobra

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Highways 16 16 16 16 14 14 3 3

Si quieres poner el sujeto, que no es necesario, iría detrás del verbo:

¿Dónde oíste tú eso?

Y recuerda, en español es obligatorio poner los dos signos de interrogación, tanto el de cierre como el de inicio. Se está difundiendo demasiado el no hacerlo correctamente. Y que se escriba desde un teléfono móvil no es una excusa. ¡Yo también escribo desde uno! ;-)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sireldina 23 5 2

lo mismo me paso a mi,porque la pregunta no se refiere en ningun momento a otra persona que no sea tu o usted o ustedes. Eso es error de Duolingo ,y los comete muy a menudo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alexcesar2012 23 1

Me pasó lo mismo

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Nefertari305 19 9 9 8 6 274

El "tú" está implícito en "oíste", por lo tanto, se debe omitir.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Highways 16 16 16 16 14 14 3 3

No se debe, se puede, que no es lo mismo. ;-)

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JersonPerezNike 14

Hola una pregunta, el decir "where did you hear that?" Y el decir "where you heard that?" ¿tiene alguna diferencia, o alguno está incorrecto? ¡Muchas gracias ojala me ayuden! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alikindoi2 11 7 5 5 5

El segundo es incorrecto/coloquial y hablado.Lo correcto sería Where HAVE you heard that?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

DustinMenjivar 10 6

A mi me lo da por bloques, y de respuesta lo puse "Donde oyeron eso ustedes?", pero me lo da incorrecto, y creo que esa no es una falla ortográfica, si no estoy en lo correcto, me lo hacen saber, porfa y gracias.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Noris2 13

Mi respuesta es igual a la aranaa69, no entiendo por qué la califican mala?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Isabel261180 19

oi y oyo es pasado siempre

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ClementeHeredia 17 2

Quien oyó eso? Tu no oiste eso.. igualmente es la segunda persona del pasado

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

proBGH 9

¿para que pone did si la solucion correcta no dice eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jon_alan 15

Donde ustedes oyeron eso

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LourdesDer1 17

Así lo escribí yo y me lo contó mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LourdesDer1 17

El buho dice que lo correcto es Dónde oyeron ustedes eso

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CalelGabri 8

Que alguien me exigue lo del did si no, estamos negando nada que hace ahi did=no

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

carlm.vs 13 6 3

Me calificó error, en "donde has oído eso". Podría alguien decirme cuál es mi error? Gracias!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

victor.a.g4 16 3

Tu error esta, en que oracion esta en pasado simple "where did you hear that?" y tu traduccion es presente perfecto, que seria en ingles asi "Where have you heard that?" (¿donde has escuchado eso?)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alikindoi2 11 7 5 5 5

En el español de España sería muy poco común ese uso del simple. ¿Dónde has oído eso? abarca un espacio de tiempo que llega hasta hoy, el presente. En toda tu vida, ¿dónde lo has oído (hasta hoy)? Es verdad que en el español e inglés americano es uso del perfecto simple está más extendido, pero esto no significa que el compuesto sea incorrecto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BarretoStef 15

Tengo una duda de en qué momento utilizar "This" "That" y "Those"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

isa888basi 12 7 2

en el link de determinaciones en la discusión de la pregunta 2 de la lección 2 de determinante tiene la respuesta a tu pregunta. those seria plural de that , y la traducción de this es este y la de these estos. Espero te ayude, te paso el link para que llegues también así <https://www.duolingo.com/skill/en/Determiners/2>

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BarretoStef 15

Muchas gracias!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Daniela237252 10

No me acepto "donde tu escuchaste eso"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

luadsava 14

Yo puse donde usted escuchó eso y la diferencia como me la corrigió es la tilde de dónde

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuisAdrianTavare 8

Donde tu escuchaste eso ? por que no es valido

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dap51 15

porque se usa el did?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MarianaPat19 12 5
donde lo escuchaste?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

HAMM2009 12
Comparar respuestas la mia esta bien!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ubaldo715 14
escribi ; donde tu oiste eso? y no lo acepto

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alexcesar2012 23 1
Puce: Dónde tú escuchaste eso? Y me calificó de mal

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RosaDilia1 20 3
Quien escucho éso tu

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AnibalRodr20 17
En colombia cuando decimos Donde oiste eso? Es lo mismo que Donde usted oyó eso? Porque nos referimos a la segunda persona

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alikindoi2 11 7 5 5 5
"Usted" es tercera persona del singular, aunque tú y usted traducen el "you" en inglés, que es segunda persona del singular y plural (supongo que te referías a eso).

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AngelaAris 16 9 4
Yo traduzje. Donde tu escuchaste eso? Y no acepto la rrespuesta como correcta. Es un error de la calificacion

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BebyBaez12345678 20 14
Yo aprendi que you es singular y plural, no nos confundan.....

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Oromil 23 17

En castellano creo que es correcto usar ó no el pronombre.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

olga.p.rey 25 4 34
Donde usted oyó eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ballesteros15 15
Opino que es correcta la traducción ¿DONDE OYERON USTEDES ESO ? Pues entiendo que you se utiliza tanto para es singular, como para el plural según lo que he entendido.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alexcesar2012 23 1
Dónde tú oiste eso? Dónde oiste eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

IndiraRada 16 2 2
Donde oyeron eso? Mi respuesta debería ser aceptada puesto que "you" es utilizado para hacer referencia a tu y a ustedes

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RafaelPela4 14
Do de oiste eso es igual dónde ustedes oyeron eso

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Beatriz487315 10
No acepta, dónde lo oiste? y es correcto

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

adrianarod327422 15
Coloque donde usted oyo eso y me califica incorrecto

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hectfue 18 1
Diferentes formas de traducion aplican

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Dominico18 14
yo puse donde tu oiste eso y me lo rechazo, por que

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

GermnReyes4 11

Me colocó mal "Dónde tu oíste eso " O.o

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jorge.erm 19 1

Porque no me quisi aceptar "Dónde ustedes oyeron eso? "

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

pablou33 20 5

En español es lo mismo, donde ustedes oyeron...., que, donde oyeron ustedes. ....

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

josefinabela 6

donde has oído eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

StefanyVicioso 12 2

Puse: Donde tú oíste eso? y me la marcó como mala... por qué no puede ir el tú? si es lo mismo

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RubenVidal5 17

Donde ustedes oyeron eso es correcto y no como dice duolingo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

tobimaru 10 10

y donde lo escuchaste?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hilasaca1 22

donde tu escuchaste eso, tambien es correcto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

emerson821 18 1

No se . Pero para mi. En el audio, no pronuncia el did.. lo intento pronunciandolo.. pero no suena igual.. y si no lo pronuncio.. diria que me suena mejor...

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

CarlosDuarte10 13

Mi respuesta es igual a la aranaa69,

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

josecamilo2002 13
tambien podria ser " ¿De dónde has oído eso?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Soko1 14
Por que no acepta Donde usted escuchó eso? el sujeto no puede faltar. y plantea como respuesta correcta. Donde escuchó eso? la diferencia entre las dos respuestas es el sujeto, entonces?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Joansteven362181 11
Para q se usa el did

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

vegeta37 15
Escribí donde tu oiste eso y me lo puso malo

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

carlos961206 14
Deberian aceptar tambien donde escucharon ustedes eso...!

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

cati83 9 3
Yo puse ¿dónde lo oiste? y me la ha puesto como incorrecta. No debería estar bien? dónde oíste eso o dónde lo oíste no es lo mismo? Gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

english1940 17
Donde tu oiste eso? Me parece que debe ser aceptado.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

DavidCorti3 22 10
Tengo dudas con; oíste u oístes ¿?

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

america2407 10
Dónde tu oíste eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Elbabarahona 18
Where es: donde, o, a donde, no estoy de acuerdo que me pusieron mala por que use a donde oístes eso

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Mr.Jonsson 11 6 4

Yo creo que también está bien "¿Dónde lo escuchaste?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Fco52 25 12 10 9 9 37

El problema es gramatica,no puedes poner el verbo primero y despues el ptonombre

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

JairEmmanu2 11

No me acepta de donde escuchaste eso? que onda?

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

Alexander172132 9

Ok

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

FelixVilla20 13 5 2

Donde escucharon eso? Me sale error y no entiendo porque

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

luis415643 10

Puse: donde tú escuchaste eso? y no lo aceptó...no entiendo porque no

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

GAOHMM 14

la traducción literal es: donde tu oíste eso? porque entonces marca error!

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Nacho14346 10

Donde oyeron eso ustedes - lo pone como error, que yo sepa el usted esta bien colocado en ambos casos

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Henryibaex 10

uno ya ni se puede confiar el diccionario

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

RubenVidal5 17

Donde ustedes oyeron eso, esta bien dicho duolingo. Es castellano, no ingles.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

ana506529 14 2

Donde tu oiste eso.? No se por que no me lo xalificaron correcto

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

guillermo12095 16 4

No se por que lo calificó como mala.

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

luis415643 10

Escuchaste o escuchastes?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

JuanDLearn 14

Disculpen, esta oracion acepta "Donde oiste eso?"; pero no me acepta: "Donde tu oiste eso?". ¿Es alguna clase de error?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

fanny422031 10

Donde ustedes oyeron eso?? ; debe ser aceptado, debido q «you» puede ser tomado en plural o singular

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Sahara885209 21

En español es lo mismo decir: Dònde ustedes oyeron eso? Que decir : Dònde oyeron ustedes eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

AndresYoldi 12

Yo escribi "donde ustedes escucharon eso" y me dio error porque es "donde escucharon usredes eso". Alguien sabe decirme si comparte conmigo de que debio de haber sido valido la respuesta?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

Isigaray 21 2

Yo conteste "donde escuchaste eso" y acepto mi respuesta y me dio otra respuesta válida también "dónde oiste eso"

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

JorgeGiraldo5 15

Dónde ustedes oyeron eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

kenia538173 22 84

En español se puede decir de las forma

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

pitluk86 10

donde has escuchado eso? es valido.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago leyni15 12

Donde oyeron eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

vlado2014 13

Debe aceptar "donde tu escuchaste eso"

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

CeciliaRiv519461 13

Lo que conteste quiere decir lo mismo al derecho o al revés.

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

perdidoentodo 17 113

para mi ( you = tu-usted-ustedes ) me paso lo mismo yo respondi ( donde ustedes oyeron eso ) y marco error!

0ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

ADELUCAH 20 299

Debe aceptar donde ustedes oyeron eso. Al igual que donde oyeron ustedes eso. De las dos formas tienen sentido la oracion

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

hectomanurel 21 11

I put donde usted oyo eso y lo dieron por malo que paso aquí no entiendo a duolingl sometime

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago luisfernand897488 13

Donde ustedes oyeron eso? También es correcto sin embargo me lo rechazó. Se debe corregir

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

CelsaDiazC 24 12 3 179

El orden de factores no altera el producto, en esta frase pasa lo mismo, teneis que darla por valida

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Turcos_y_Caicos 13 11 10 20

Por qué no acepta "¿Dónde lo escuchaste?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

MarH1 16

Puse donde ustedes oyeron eso? Y no me lo dió por válido

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Diegoacd10 11

Wtf? Tiene mucho que ver el orden para calificarme mal por poner ¿donde ustedes oyeron eso? Y lo "correcto" es ¿donde oyeron ustedes eso? I can't believe

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

Diego694330 14

No esta la opcion OISTE

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

FreddyManu11 11 7

Yo escribí "Donde ustedes oyeron eso" y me la puso mala... Dice que es " Donde oyeron ustedes eso". ¿Por qué, si es lo mismo?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

marcosta4 15 54

Donde ustedes oyeron eso?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Ronney569995 11

"Donde ustedes oyeron eso", creo que lo deberían aceptar también porque es español se puede decir sin problemas. No se puede ser un robot

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

gelizando002 20 23

donde usted escucho eso

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

kenia538173 22 84

Y me la pusieron mala y la escribieron igual....

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

edilbertoc169892 21

Significa lo mismo

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Yairel2 11
Where did you hears that

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Yairel2 11
Where did you hears that

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

mariaaleja852424 15
Oiste no estaba como opcion

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

eliece15 9 1
escuchar es sinonimo de oir

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

saurioman 17 9
Dónde tú oiste eso "o" Dónde ustedes oyeron eso, por qué me la declaran mala.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

iris394343 13
"Donde ustedes oyeron eso" me parece una respuesta correcta, pero la da como erronea

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

GabinoAngeles 14
Cual es la diferencia entre "Donde ustedes oyeron eso" a "Donde oyeron ustedes eso"??? Realmente no entiendo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

bryan347 11
Pero la.palabra.oiste no.aparece

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

adrianawayra 22 318
Porque no se puede poner donde tú oíste eso

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

George19811 13
Donde tu escuchste eso? Es primeta persona "tu escuchaste"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

kenia538173 22 84

Donde oiste y donde ustedes oyeron , es correcto tanto uno como otro...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

MARIAQUIROZSIE 11 4

yo puse ¿dónde escuchaste eso? y no lo aceptó

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Angellington 12

Escribi "Donde ustedes oyeron eso" y me lo puso malo. ¿Por qué?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

CamiloMayo 15 3

Donde ustedes oyeron eso es correcto que pasa con los traductores de doulingo que la dan por mala

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

OscarHerna994431 16 341

Porque ponen "oiste" y dan como solucion "oyeron"

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

RosibelCar5 10

Asepto donde oistes eso no. Donde oistes vos eso sorri pero no

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

javiereraz4 11 2

Creo que esta bien la respuesta,no estoy de acuerdo con calificarla mal. Como se escriba sigue significando igual. Bien sea con el sujeto adelante o atras del verbo conjugado.

0ReplyGive Lingot•18 hours ago

GeorginaFelipes 25 289

YOU ES TU Y USTEDES. YO TRADUJE DONDE USTEDES OYERON ESO, POR LO CUAL ME GUSTARIA ME EXPLICARAN POR QUE NO LA ACEPTAN. BUEN DIA. GRACIAS, GEORGINA FELIPES.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JOSEVCASTI1 23 12 111

Me paso lo mismo, donde ustedes oyeron eso ? Es completamente correcto. Estoy seguro.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

lupus03 10

en el resto de las traducciones acepta que agregues la persona del sujeto aunque se sobreentienda en el verbo, en este caso no. "donde tu escuchaste eso?" debería ser valida

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RabatJorge 9

Creo que es correcta mi traduccion . La invalidan porque coloqué el TU.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

janethnava2 14

donde usted escucho eso

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mayda56 13 2

Donde tu escuchaste eso? Me califico incorrecto, no entiendo porque debo omitir el Tu. cuando en otras ocasiones da correcto poner los pronombres aunque en español se puedan omitir.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nectarlimon 24 118

Hola. Yo creo que lo que escribiste esta bien y se entiende perfecto, pero yo no lo diría o más bien yo nunca digo eso, porque se escucha mal; aunque si lo he escuchado en cubanos y es cuando ponen mucho énfasis en el sujeto, es como decir dos veces tú. Aunque por otro lado, si también así se dice en otras partes del mundo, solo hay que reportarlo y seguro lo cambiarán pronto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

mayda56 13 2

Gracias, sabias que era cubana??

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nectarlimon 24 118

No, no lo sabía, pero me pareció una expresión conocida porque tengo una amiga cubana :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ERwin738152 14

En palabras grave terminada en vocal, no se pone la tilde: se escribe donde NO dónde. Si se pone la tilde a las palabras graves que terminen en consonante, excepto si terminan en N ó S.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

merwin01 16

Me parece que hay un error con el orden de las palabras!! En español no importa el orden , donde oyeron ustedes esto es lo mismo que donde ustedes oyeron esto , en tipo de pregunta... lo veo mal que no la den como buena !!

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

CHEEINANAMARIA 12

Duolingo escribió con minúscula al comienzo de oración. Es error.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

725 Anyone else unsure of how to learn german grammar?

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/18495077>

thatskden 6

The big words such as "verb conjugation" are rather scary and jargon-ish. What resources did you use to learn the grammar?

Give Lingot

75 months ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

chooyo 22 5 4

Honestly, if "verb conjugation" is a bit scary, then I think it's going to be a long road for you with this language since there are also adjective declinations, cases for noun articles, passive verb constructions, etc.

That being said, if you're just looking for grammar, I'd suggest sites like <https://coerll.utexas.edu/gg/> (Grimm Grammar) and <https://www.lingolia.com/en/> (Lingolia) and of course Deutsche Welle to start with.

9ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

rosademarzo 15

Dealing with grammatical concepts isn't as difficult as it may sound at first. They're actually a big help. Consider them your friends! Grammar shows you that things obey to standards that appear over and over again. They give things sense and structure. The other forum users have already mentioned great www-resources. I particularly like the duolingo grammar explanations at the begin of each unit.

7ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

AbunPang 19 17 13 212

I guess there is no right or wrong answer here; what works for some people may not work for others. Some people may be fine with memorising inflection tables. Others prefer a slightly more applied way and memorise words in an actual phrase. So for German verbs for example, you could find one sentence, say, "ich gehe zur Schule" and conjugate it through the different persons and tenses: "du gehst zur Schule, er geht zur Schule, wir gehen zur Schule, ihr geht zur Schule, sie gehen zur Schule, ich ging zur Schule...".

I personally like looking for patterns to reduce the memorisation work (for example, for German verbs I'd look for pattern such as "1pl and 3pl are always the same, and both are usually the same as the infinitive in present tense").

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

TorresSessa 12

I know where you coming from, it's really kinda scary to search about grammar and be greeted by some articles with a lot of rules.

My tip for you would be to follow the learning structure Duolingo has. You start with the basics, like "Personal Pronouns", you do the exercises, then you look up for videos and articles about it.

Later you do the same for sentences in the "Present Tense", learn more about it until it looks simple enough. Take it slow, or else you will overthink and end up being frustrated.

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

AHA3006 16 11 8 170

You might not be aware that English has verb conjugation, too. Think about:

I am You are He / she / it is We are You are They are

This is the conjugation of the verb "to be". "Be" changes to "am", "are" or "is" depending on who does "the being". It's not that difficult, is it? True: In German you need to remember more forms, but the principle is the same. Good luck!

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Rutger_W 18 11 11 9 251

I don't think Duolingo presents it in an overly complicated and too much of a theoretical way. You could develop some knowledge of the language first by studying standard sentences or for example by listening to some German songs first, and that might make it slightly less foreign and motivate you to learn more about the language.

3ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Jimmy4793 10 5 4

Go to <http://www.language-transfer.org/>. Language Transfer completely changed the way I looked at German. It broke down the sentence structure and all the other "scary" qualities about German and made it all very simple. Right now there are 37 recordings up on the site and on YouTube (https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1wRGdwf7b\_o&list=PLA5t3dWTWvtU5nXIBbV1F\_dy9VlyGDWb). These 37 recordings would get you pretty far along in the language. The guy who runs this is in the process of completing the entire German lessons. It's also a great site because it brings a sense of community to language learning and you can find other languages to learn once you conquer German. And it's all free. Best of luck.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Gringotodd81 15 3

Don't think too much about it that way. You know how to conjugate verbs in English (I am, you are, she is etc), you just do it without actively thinking "I am conjugating a verb".

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

GlobalJim711 16 13 12 11 10

You do not need to become a grammar expert to learn a language. However, learning grammar rules speeds up the process. As you encounter a rule, try to get the general sense of it and practice until it makes sense. If the rule makes no sense at all, you are probably not ready for that higher level of understanding. Use different sources for practicing and learning. Some grammar rules are more complicated than just memorizing a short phrase. Etc. Have fun and practice.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

zekecoma 17 14 13 59

Here's a German page that has grammar in a story book kinda way. I can't remember how I found it. Maybe it might help you. <http://coerll.utexas.edu/gg/gr/characters.html?rm=turm1>

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

726 besser

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/German/besser-gut-adjective-adjective+%28comparative%29/44b3e33db46246e654561be3671af96f>

ENGLISH

better, superior

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

|         |                                                   |                                                  |
|---------|---------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|
| guter   | Ein guter Freund spricht mit dir.                 | A good friend is talking to you.                 |
| gute    | Das ist der gute Lehrer!                          | That is the good teacher!                        |
| bessere | Er ist der bessere Mann.                          | He is the better man.                            |
| gute    | Wo ist das gute Restaurant?                       | Where is the good restaurant?                    |
| bessere | Das ist das bessere Auto.                         | That is the better car.                          |
| gute    | Sie ist eine gute Frau.                           | She is a good woman.                             |
| beste   | Sie ist die beste Ärztin in Deutschland.          | She is the best doctor in Germany.               |
| bessere | Sie ist die bessere Schülerin.                    | She is the better pupil.                         |
| guten   | Die guten Schwestern spielen gerne.               | The good sisters like to play.                   |
| gute    | Er und ich sind schon von klein auf gute Freunde. | He and I have been good friends since childhood. |
| besten  | Sie sind die besten Äpfel.                        | They are the best apples.                        |
| guten   | Wir mögen guten Fisch mit Gemüse.                 | We like good fish with vegetables.               |
| gutes   | Der Student trägt sein gutes Hemd.                | The university student wears his good shirt.     |
| gute    | Er gibt dir das gute Buch.                        | He gives you the good book.                      |
| bessere | Bessere Häuser haben Fenster.                     | Better houses have windows.                      |
| gute    | Meine Oma ist eine gute Köchin.                   | My grandma is a good cook.                       |
| bessere | Die Schweiz braucht bessere Äpfel.                | Switzerland needs better apples.                 |
| guten   | Katzen sind keine guten Studenten.                | Cats are not good university students.           |
| gute    | Ich mag gute Beziehungen.                         | I like good relationships.                       |
| guten   | Guten Flug!                                       | Have a good flight!                              |
| guten   | Mittagessen im guten Restaurant                   | Lunch in a good restaurant                       |
| gut     | Die Bücher sind gut.                              | The books are good.                              |
| besser  | Sobald es dir besser geht, komme ich.             | As soon as you are feeling better, I will come.  |

Discussions with the word "besser":

23 commentsDu bist besser, stärker.

22 commentsSobald ich schwimmen gehe, geht es mir besser.

18 commentsNein, besser nicht.

17 commentsIch schwimme besser als er.

17 commentsLangsam ist besser.

727 Hidden Flags on Duolingo

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/18476542>

Hyllning 25 15

I was just researching some coding on Duolingo and I found a unique CSS document with a bunch of code. Among that I found the entire list of flags by their abbreviations and I tested some that were used awhile ago in place of actual flags in the Incubator. This is what I came up with:

Hope you enjoyed.

Give Lingot3

165 months ago

Leave a new comment

31 Comments

vytah 13 13 12 12 12 11 10 10 9 3 586

You forgot about the most important course:

21ReplyGive Lingot2•5 months ago

ThatAwesomeGuy16 10 9 8 8 2

Who are the contributors??

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

PolyglotCiro 25 25 25 25 14 13 13 12 11 11 11 6 46
cats?

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

[deactivated user]

lol, can't wait 'til this one's out! ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

NtateNarin 25 14 14 8 6 5 5 807

Why couldn't the young pirate watch the movie? It was rated "Ahhrrrrrr!"

What does the vegetarian zombie eat? Grrrraaaaiinnnnssss!!

Sorry, I couldn't help it. It's awesome that you found these. I can't wait to find out what they are for!

17ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Hyllning 25 15

Ahaha. Great jokes! Very fitting =)

5ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

SenorDustin 25 25 7 35

It's from April Fool's day a couple years ago.

17ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

HackedAcct 4

Is that what this is referring to?

I wonder what the lolcat flag looked like?

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

YellowPlatypus 25 25 11 5 700

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2593333> ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

YellowPlatypus 25 25 11 5 700

They look more like icons for a halloween bonus skill.

11ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Hyllning 25 15

They do, actually. I created this post for the Halloween spirit, because it seems like it fits the mood nicely this month.

6ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

I know what those are. But, I don't want to spoil it. So, shhh. ;)

9ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

ThatAwesomeGuy16 10 9 8 8 2

. Could you tell us anymore info

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Hakim747 15 10 10 6 2 93

Could you tell us what is that actually? :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

DragonPolyglot 21 15 12 10 7 6 6 5 5 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2

Bit of a random fact, you can actually learn Pirate if you use Mango languages.

It's pretty cool you found those flags.

8ReplyGive Lingot1•5 months ago

IVlatjam 25 8 4 4

I wonder who those 3 contributors are....

4ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

DonFiore 16 10 10 9 6

Were those the only two? I'm mostly wondering if it revealed some actual new languages but I was also under the impression that there should be three jokes.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Hyllning 25 15

There are more hidden ones, but I decided to share those two because they were quite fitting. There are a few pre-existing flags that haven't been used in a course yet, so those could come into play soon.

3ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

DonFiore 16 10 10 9 6

But no hints of future courses for proper languages?

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Hyllning 25 15

Not yet. Duolingo hasn't mentioned new ones coming soon. We already had four new courses recently added to the Incubator: English for Tagalog Speakers, English for Bengali Speakers, English for Tamil Speakers, and English for Telugu Speakers. So it could be awhile until more new ones are added.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

DonFiore 16 10 10 9 6

I wouldn't necessarily call almost five months ago as recent. Of course that's just the oldest ones, I'll admit that one month ago is more recent.

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

HackedAcct 4

Have you applied to contribute?

2ReplyGive Lingot1•5 months ago

PolyglotCiro 25 25 25 25 14 13 13 12 11 11 11 6 46

I don't think so, he is not a zombie/pirate XD

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

ThatAwesomeGuy16 10 9 8 8 2

Lol

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

[deactivated user]

I wonder how many lessons it takes to say brains?

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Pok 25 25 25 15 12 11 10 8 8 8 7 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 5 4 3 260

*also, a hidden flag in Esperanto Immersion is an Egg, not the Esperanto flag :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Jessica_person 10

Nice, um how did you exactly find these.....? I mean it would be really nice if those were real actual courses though..heh

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

728 ¡Feliz Año por parte del equipo de Duolingo!

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6184341>

Luis 18 14 9 9 4 480

Por parte del equipo de Duolingo: muchas gracias por otro increíble año. Nuestra comunidad creció de 20 a 50 millones de usuarios, y fuimos la aplicación educativa mas descargada del mundo por el segundo año consecutivo.

Nuestra promesa hacia ustedes es seguir esforzándonos para hacer que Duolingo sea aún mejor este año. Más idiomas, más personalización en cada lección, una manera de usar Duolingo en las escuelas, y nuevas maneras de memorizar vocabulario son algunas de las mejoras que tenemos planeadas para este año.

¿Qué haras tú en el 2015?

Give Lingot21

2752 years ago

Leave a new comment

166 Comments

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 5

Felicidades a Usted y a su personal, por todo el buen trabajo realizado en 2014. Que 2015 traerá aún más logros. ¿Qué haré yo? Voy a ayudar en este objetivo, enseñar idiomas de forma gratuita a todos los que quieran aprender.

32ReplyGive Lingot5•2 years ago

JuanjoGuer 25 9 8

Le tomo la palabra antes de que pierda la ocasión.... ;)

Feliz Año Nuevo.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 5

¡Gracias, igualmente!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nerysl 15

Me puede ayudar, feliz año

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Machoclonon 19

Me puedes ayudar con el ingles? Gracias de antemano

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Priscila.LU 5 2

Happy year!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 5

Happy New Year to you too! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

flavallep 14 4

Hola Jairapetyan... cual es tu secreto para aprender

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 5

Dedicar mucho tiempo y atención a lo que quieres aprender. Malcolm Gladwell escribió un libro sobre las personas sobresalientes, "Outliers." Esto es uno de sus temas.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JuanjoGuer 25 9 8

Aprender y vivir. Es mi meta para el nuevo año.

Felices Fiestas a todos los componentes de esta gran comunidad.

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Isrianth 25 25 23 21 16 4 1306

Continuar aprendiendo los idiomas que llevo, y por supuesto, empezar con el esperanto en los primeros meses del año, después sigue el coreano. :)

Espero sea un gran 2015 para Duolingo. Sé que el desarrollo de los cursos toma mucho trabajo y tiempo, aún mantengo la esperanza que empiecen la creación de algunos cursos de idiomas asiáticos en el próximo año y no hasta el 2016... aunque no estén dirigidos en un principio para los hispanohablantes.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Stella-A 15 9 5

...además me gustaría que incuyeran textos en italiano, me gustaría mucho traducirlos!

Y acá estoy dispuesta a colaborar con DUOLINGO y quienes estudian (español e italiano) de la manera en que les parezca que pueda hacerlo. Otra vez FELIZ 2015!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NoriegaE 14 12 11 5

DL me ha permitido ver el aprendizaje de cualquier idioma de forma diferente, gracias a todos los que forman parte del equipo de trabajo de DL.

Mis metas personales para este año son: llegar al máximo nivel posible (25!) y mantener mi racha hasta el infinito y mas allá :).

Merci a tout et bonne année!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Hola, es posible que me ayudes con mi foro. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NoriegaE 14 12 11 5

Por supuesto!

EDIT. Ya lo hice

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Alexamenos1 2

Gracias y enhorabuena Equipo Duolingo. Una propuesta para este 2015 -tal vez-: ¿Qué os parece si debajo de las palabras del nuevo idioma que se esté aprendiéndose escribe como se leería en el idioma nativo? (Alguna vez vi un caso y me ha parecido de lo más útil). Ya se que tiene sus contras, pero también tiene sus pros, y a eso voy. Por ejemplo: Una persona castellanoparlante que esté aprendiendo inglés: "I speak English" (Pronunciación: "Ái espík ínglish"). Incluso se puede en negrita señalar la parte de la palabra que lleva el acento (aquí lo he hecho introduciendo vocales, pero, como he dicho, es sólo para una pronunciación simulada que aproxime al aprendiz a la pronunciación y le facilite el afinamiento del oído, sobre todo para aquellos que no lo podamos tener tan fino como otros, y a falta de esta guía, vayamos por ahí con lo que meramente hubieramos podido pillar por el audio con nuestros oídos y sin ninguna otra asistencia correctora. Bueno, ya os lo pensáis, que vosotros sois los profesionales en esto (Yost think abaurit!) :-). Feliz y próspero 2015 para vosotros. :-)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LTroya 13

Es buena tu idea, pero pienso que tendría a causar confusión. Ya que es probable que termines asociando la pronunciación que día a día escuchas al iniciar cada ejercicio de la plataforma con palabras que no son. ¿Que piensas tu?

Feliz y Prospero año 2015

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

32412924 7 4 2

Feliz año a todo el equipo y grandes exitos

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eurisel 25 20 11 2 301

Intentaré mantener mi racha todos los días del año, también voy a terminar mi árbol de inglés y por último (No creo que sea lo último) Voy a tratar de conseguir todas las unidades extras.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RafaelVile2 11

Felicidades a todos y todas que nos ayudais en aprender ingles. Seguir asi.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicosli 14

Muchas gracias duolingo!!!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sipuedo 25 22

Primero que todo agradecerle a Duolingo, Por todo el esfuerzo que hace para que podamos aprender nuevos idiomas y desear feliz año nuevo a todos los que estamos aquí con Duolingo. ¿Qué haré yo? Seguir aprendiendo el idioma inglés. Muchas gracias a todos y de nuevo feliz año nuevo.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Saramblanco 13 12 10 5 2 2 1

Felicidades.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

[deleted]

Give Lingot•2 years ago

Saramblanco 13 12 10 5 2 2 1

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Ivanivi 11 7

FELIZ AÑO PARA VOSOTROS Y GRACIAS POR HABER CREADO ESTA APLICACION TAN BUENA , ME ESTA AYUDANDO A REFORZAR MI INGLES Y FRANCES . ;) MI META PARA EL AÑO QUE VIENE ES

COLABORAR CON DUOLINGO Y CON TODAS AQUELLAS PERSONAS QUE TIENEN DUDAS Y LAS PUBLICAN.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ljuvisa 11

Hola, soy Profesora de Inglés y estoy comenzando con el curso de alemán para comprender mejor el aprendizaje de mis alumnos. Hasta ahora bien, pero hay que practicar todos los días. Quisiera proponer que incluyen una pestaña con gramática básica del idioma, lo cual ayudaría a quedarse en la ventana de Duolingo y no tener que visitar otras páginas buscando esa info. Gracias.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marremelgar 21 3 3

Muchísimas gracias igualmente para ustedes, Dios los bendiga, una consulta volví a retomar mis clases de Inglés pero me doy cuenta investigando en otras páginas que hay muy poco vocabulario, por ejemplo en el tema relacionado con comida tuve que buscar otras paginas que me han ayudado e incluso con la pronunciación, por que no ampliar mas el vocabulario de los temas, muchísimas gracias.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SebastianMolin 22 11 2 2

Luis, will others have access to it, if they are not in School? For example I finished Spanish at school last year, and I would really like to get back to master it, after I know fundamental Italian. It would really Interest me to talk to other students, and what if the school I attend has no interest in this, will I still be able to get it? ( I'm going to be In Spanish 3 Honors Next year, and I'm happy to say I'm way above that level with the online tools to learn Spanish. - Thanks -Sebastian (If you wouldn't mind, I have another Question after that.)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cadiluke 21 11 10 4 2 2

Por lo menos terminar dos idiomas y empezar uno más. Gracias Luis...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MartinVV 16 15 11 5 5 3

¡Felicitaciones por esta nueva iniciativa de meter Duo en las escuelas! ¡Vamos por la educación libre para todos! =)

¡Cuenten conmigo para lo que necesiten!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Leumas11 14 13 5

¡Felicitaciones por este año que ya acaba y por las nuevas propuestas que tienen para el próximo! ¿Qué haré yo en el 2015? .... puest trataré de completar todos los cursos de los idiomas que me interesan. Gracias por tu altruismo Luis y felicitaciones nuevamente!!!! God bless you and may the force be with you :-)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Shurliglota 14 13 9 9 5 4 2 2

Feliz año nuevo y a seguir aprendiendo que es el motivo por el que estamos aquí.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

odiseo1 16 13 13 7 5 2

igualmente!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mariageorgina2 4

feliz año, ¡¡¡ y lo que hare es seguir estudiando, nunca es tarde para empezari¡ me està gustando mucho duolingo FELICIDADES A TODO EL EQUIPO¡¡

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

PabloPuell 13

Gracias por todo el trabajo y por ponerlo a nuestra libre disposición. Feliz año y un abrazo enorme a todos los que comparten este interés por los idiomas. Es una buena manera para entendernos un poco mejor.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iscesargt 14 11 5

¡Mil gracias! por haber creado esta maravillosa plataforma para el aprendizaje de idiomas. Felicitaciones también a todo su equipo de trabajo que hacen posible que Duolingo ayude a tantas personas. ¡Que Dios los bendiga! Today, I finished my English tree and I am very happy. My purpose for 2015 is to have the level 25 in English.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

leben1511 11 6

Gracias a vosotros por hacer todo esto posible. ¡Feliz Año nuevo a todo su equipo y a los usuarios de esta maravillosa página! ^^

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pukalucia 6

Gracias a la comunidad duolingo mi deseo es aprender bien el idioma para poder desempeñarm bien en mi futuro trabajo bendiciones y asi ayudar a mas personas

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RanHu7 13

Feliz Año Nuevo a todos, gracias Luis por tan grandiosa manera de compartir el aprendizaje del ingles. Creo que sin esta plataforma de ingles gratuito no hubiese aprendido .Gracias tambien a las mejoras que lo hacen mucho mas atractivo. En fin mi proyecto para el 2015 es terminar(dominar) el idioma ingles y otro como el frances.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

EstebaSSist

Feliz 2015 a todos :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Gracias a ti, por crear esta manera tan novedosa de aprender ingles de manera fácil y divertida.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Stella-A 15 9 5

Muchas cosas! Entre ellas seguir aprendiendo con ustedes. Y hoy, al finalizar este año agradecerles por esta web, ¡buenísima! y con un muy buen servicio para todos nosotros. FELIZ 2015!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dacc_jade 11

gracias de todo corazón y feliz 2015!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

edgar_m_p 23 9 6 94

happy new year , duolingo. por mi parte sigo recomendando duolingo a mis amigos , de todo el mundo

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Nicodelg 11

Hola Luis, Felicidades por esta excelente estrategia para el aprendizaje de idiomas. Quede gratamente sorprendido de tu evolución en el mundo de la computación, una historia de verdaderos lideres a imitar en Latinoamerica, incluso me llamo la atención que según Wikipedia uno de tus mentores fue un profesor Venezolano, que orgullo si esto fue asi.

Te deseo mucho éxito para este 2015, modelos de desarrollo como es tu caso deben ser la norma y no la excepción en nuestros pueblos latinoamericanos.

Honor a quien honor merece, Mis Respetos!

ND Venezuela

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FelixEdoardo 13

Soy guatemalteco y ME ENORGULLESCO DE SUS LOGROS Y agradezco de todo corazón el que haya puesto a nuestro alcance este programa educativo. Una pequeña sugerencia: Un poco de menos énfasis en la traducción literal ya que tanto en italiano como en español existe diversidad de formas de expresar la misma idea y a veces puede ser más enriquecedor entender el concepto. De todas formas Dependiendo de donde lo estén pasando: VERAMENTE SPERO CHE ABBIATE PASSATO O CHE STIATE PASSANDO UN FELICE CAPODANNO. E Ricordate come dice il proverbio: "Natale con i tuoi, Capodanno con chi vuoi" Nuevamente GRACIAS y FELICIDADES

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

vindicari 16 11 8 6

Uju Felicidades y que bueno que sigan mejorando!!! Mi objetivo el siguiente año es aprender alemán!!! espero que algún día estén disponibles el japones o coreano al español. Sigán así.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

compicej 25 19 17

Gracias a ustedes por esta maravillosa herramienta de aprendizaje. De verdad que Duolingo es lo máximo. Mis metas para el año que viene es Alcanzar el nivel 25 en Inglés, Francés, Español (desde el francés) y aprender otro idioma (por lo menos terminar el árbol). Espero aportar mi granito de arena con las traducciones. Feliz año 2.015 para todos.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JesusGentile 23 132

Muchas gracias a Duolingo y felicitaciones a todo su equipo. Nos dan todo y solo nos piden nuestra propia superación. Tenemos que demostrar agradecimiento aprovechando todo para superarnos. Este próximo año quisiera terminar mi árbol y volverlo a hacer asta que logre asimilar todo os conceptos expuestos. Felicidades a Duolingo y toda su comunidad.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eric_Kauffmann 15 14 10 10 9 8

¡Felicidades por crear el método de aprendizaje más sencillo y más significativo para aprender idiomas en internet!! PS: Ojalá algún día tengamos cursos de ruso y holandés para hablantes de lengua española. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

yaravifatecha 19 6 4 2

la verdad con duolingo es muy facil estudiar y aprender,quiero agradecer al equipo y bueno,mi proposito para este año es aprender a hablar en perfecto portugués ya que me encanta brasil y su gente ¡muito obrigada!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnnabelleRV 10

¡Exitos y Bendiciones a los que están aprendiendo algún idioma!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Pilar_Bermudez 8 2
Gracias :) Feliz Año :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ArqMiguelSac 25 19 12 4

Muchas Felicidades. Les deseo muchos éxitos para este nuevo año.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mariam1956 4

HAPPY NEW YEAR 2015

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

0Anxel0 5 3

en alemán : herzlichen GlÜckumsch(creo -w-) en español : Felicidades :3 como yo lo digo : Felicidades!!!!!!!!!!!! wow!!!! Doulingo!!! tengo que practicar el alemán mas este 2015 :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zaragoza77 16

Buenas tardes, lamento usar esta via para esto pero el equipo de soporte tecnico no responde mas alla de un correo automatico...

Haciendo correcciones me conseguí con un usuario que se ha dedicado a hacer un simple "copy-paste" de traducciones con las típicas inconsistencias del traductor de google, lo mas insolito es que goza de un nivel de traductor de 13... ¿Quien vota por sus traducciones? ¿Quien regula estas situaciones?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pecasedi 20

me gustaría aprender bien el ingles, así poder empezar otro idioma

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marta2258 12 5

Hola! Los conocí estando en vacaciones en la isla de Curazao y apenas regresé a mi país, Argentina, me registré y continué estudiando Inglés pero con uds. Me parece la mejor forma de estudiar y voy a seguir haciéndolo de aquí en más durante el 2015, 2016, etc Me encantan los idiomas y después voy a seguir con Italiano y Francés. Gracias por todo y Feliz 2015!!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Enrique-Miranda 14 2

muchas feliciades por una de las aplicaiones mas completas y por la gran idea de crear una pagina tan interactiva y completa que podamos encontrar en el ciberespacio

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Yusef_Castillo 4

superar mis metas

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

crisloexert12 11

Mi esposa, que estudiaba inglés, me introdujo en Duolingo. Ahora, por necesidades, estudiamos los dos alemán y he de felicitar a todos los que hacen posible esta estupenda aplicación, que enseña de forma agradable un idioma. Muchas gracias por vuestro esfuerzo e ilusión en este Proyecto.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marco242 25 21 20

excelente trabajo, el que hacen ustedes felicidades y gracias.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mirianespin 11

gracias por darnos la oportunidad de aprender ingles gratuito, sigan adelante, y yo seguire aprendiendo con ustedes

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Beatriz_Ochoa 8

Feliz 2015. Mi propósito es aprender ingles lo antes posible. Y duolingo me esta ayudando muchísimo. Gracias

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Discúlpame es posible que me regales un comentario en mi foro sobre motivación , agradezco tu tiempo y muchas gracias. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FeeLuziens

hola, es la primera vez q ingreso, no me permite agregar la foto en el perfil y su tamaño es menor a 1gb. Gxs por crear este sitio, siempre quise aprender francés y portugués. ( Sé q por trabajo debería aprender inglés.. pero creo, es una cuestión de piel.. no hay caso.. no me gusta!!!)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

britishmen 12 7 5 5 2

Hola discúlpame es posible que me regales una participación en mi foro , gracias por tu tiempo. <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/6224015>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

raul_jimenez1981 11

Gracias a ustedes, tienen una excelente filosofía. Durante el 2015, seguiré aprendiendo inglés con Doulingo, y a promover su uso. Feliz 2015 al equipo de Doulingo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zambataro 18 8

Muchas gracias por darnos la posibilidad de aprender inglés de forma interactiva con esta herramienta, y de manera gratuita. ¡Les deseo un prospero año nuevo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tomi08 16 2

muchas muchas graciassssss por todo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Geo_Jervin 15 4

Gracias, algunas de mis metas para este año son seguir aprendiendo y mejorar mucho mas. Felices fiestas a todos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

abripagnoni 6

La verdad esta app es MUY util... Siempre eh querido aprender ingles, pero como hago guitarra y deportes, no eh podido. Ahora, con duolingo, puedo aprender muy facilmente!! En estas vacaciones de verano, estoy dispuesta a completar el curso de ingles, rendir el examen final y recibir mi titulo!! MUCHAS GRACIAS

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

velazquezrosario 13 6

muchas gracias equipo de duolingo, mi proposito del año 2014 fue aprender ingles y lograr al menos un 60% de ingles tanto escrito como el vocabulario y para lograrlo fui a la escuela a aprender el idioma y practique con este programa en mi casa, dedique alrededor de tres horas diarias durante todo el año y creo que logre mi propocito he finalizado el año con mucho entuciasmo y deceo de continuar aprendiendo "FELIZ AÑO NUEVO" estoy muy agradecida y feliz de haber conocido este programa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Protonelectro 10

Thank you Duolingo. Duolingo is a platform very good. Excellet grade 2015 years.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sas07 20 15 11 16

Felicitaciones Luis. Es uno de los mejores programas para aprender idiomas.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mendelier2 12

Exitos para todo el equipo de Duolingo, increible la aplicación..!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Edgar_Islas 21 4

Gracias a usted por haber desarrollado esta aplicación, mi propósito es comunicarme en ingles este año y empezar el aprendizaje de otro idioma, teniendo como un apoyo a duolingo. MUCHAS GRACIAS.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

edouardchapeaux 25 25 6

que debemos desear, quienes afortunadamente encontramos Duolingo ?? Que sea mas masivo aun, que nos permita, a quienes habitamos este planeta, comunicarnos mas y mejor. Les deseo que continuen con este exito tan masivo, en cuanto a mi, para 2015 seguire siendo, entre otras cosas, un fanatico de Duolingo !!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

keivinesamor2000 16 14 13 6 6 5 4 4 3 2

aprender nuevos idiomas buscar nuevos aires que permitan dominar el ingles como segunda lengua principalmente y le deseo a usted y a todo su equipo feliz año nuevo gracias por hacer una herramienta donde podamos aprender lecciones de idiomas extranjeros

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MiguelAlva43 15 8 4 3 2

Feliz 2015, iniciemos un nuevo periodo este 2015 con muchas ganas y mandemos a la m... el 2014 :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Andrusmile96 7

Si tengo suerte espero comenzar la carrera de enfermería este año :) y claro, aprender mas idiomas gracias a esta genial pagina :D . ¡Feliz año nuevo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HannahCaparo 3

yo seguiré aprendiendo idiomas , adoro duolingo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

unipolitec 25 18 3 447

Duolingo es el mejor amigo de mi vida. Muchas Felicidades y Gracias por todo!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nbgermanier 22 2

Gracias a todo el equipo de duolingo! Soy un a señora con unos cuántos años a cuesta y he encontrado en duolingo una manera de volver al idioma de mi padre. He sido muy feliz con ustedes en el 2014 y espero en el 2015 completar mi árbol de francés,e iniciar algún curso de conversación para tener mayor fluidez. Bisou,

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mikecorhcp 15 15 12 4 2

Me agrada mucho duolingo, ya que no solo a mi me ha servido para aprender ingles, sino que me abrió las puertas a mas idiomas que he querido aprender, así como ayuda a mis conocidos que han querido aprender un poco mas el ingles, sigan así, a mi me gustaría ver un curso de alguna lengua indígena y además ver corregido el curso de português para hablantes de español, ya que han aceptado algunas de mis sugerencias, pero igual hay muchas cosas que corregir ahí por parte de los moderadores del curso, este año mi meta es terminar el árbol de italiano y el de portugués, igual me gustaría que pronto llegue el polaco ya sea para hablantes de inglés o español, pero eso ya se dará con el tiempo, felicidades por su trabajo y gracias por contribuir al aprendizaje de nosotros los usuarios en un nuevo idioma, sigan así.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Libertad54 25 25 25 25 10 6 3 2 2 2 910

Duolingo me parece bastante interesante como herramienta para aprender nuevas lenguas. Lo mejor es que cada uno puede seguir su propio ritmo, según su edad, facilidad para los idiomas, tiempo disponible etc. Las traducciones pueden resultar muy enriquecedoras, sobre todo la traducción inversa que a menudo corrigen nativos que están haciendo traducción directa. Es muy positivo que haya personas de muy distintos países dedicadas a aprender idiomas y la posibilidad de enriquecimiento mutuo gracias a esa diversidad. ¡Felicidades!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

habracho 12

Yo por mi parte promocionaré ésta plataforma. Es una excelente herramienta para aprender idiomas.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago peasosota 17 11 4 3

Infinitas gracias al equipo de Duolingo. ¡¡¡¡Feliz año 2015!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarthaHena2 8

FELIZ AÑO NUEVO 2015. QUE ESTE AÑO SEA UNA GRAN META DE APRENDIZAJE EN IDIOMAS .
MUCHAas gracias. / martha

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rocho12 25

Feliz 2015 para el equipo de Duolingo!. Felicitaciones por el servicio que brinda, realmente una gran herramienta para el aprendizaje de idiomas. El programa está muy bien diseñado, con mucha creatividad, didáctica, pedagogía, y recursos en general que promueven inevitablemente el aprendizaje y el crecimiento y evolución día a día. ¿que haré en el 2015?, seguiré inserto en Duolingo hasta terminar su programa de Inglés totalmente. He notado que Duolingo con el pasar de los días se convierte en aditivo, y eso es estimulante. Fantástico!!!. Gracias.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Alex2015007 3

(= ¡¡Feliz Año Nuevo!! =), muchas gracias grandiosa pagina y fuera mucho mejor si tuviera chat para conversar el idioma.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrankLo 11

Tomare el reto de poder hablar fluidamente el idioma ingles para finales de 2015 Se me facilita ahora un poco más la lectura y escritura, pero necesito hablarlo más para mejorar la pronunciación y perder el miedo a expresarme en el medio angloparlante. Felicidades y bendiciones a Luis, que es un orgullo para los guatemaltecos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anacarpe 25 11 9

feliz año a todo el equipo. yo seguiré aprendiendo.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Biketico 25 1371

Muchas gracias por un buen año!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Santiagoma574249 12 11 8 3 3

Felices fiestas y muchas gracias por el trabajo que están haciendo!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alejguer 17

Gracias!! Del mismo Exito para este Año Nuevo que inicia!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SofiaPepino 25 15

Gracias, mil gracias por la herramienta para aprender idiomas que han puesto en nuestras manos y completamente gratis. FELIZ 2015 A TODA LA COMUNIDAD Y TEAM DE DUOLINGO!!!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Stephanie.Karen 5

este 2015 quiero reforzar mi forma de aprender ingles :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fishmontepeque 12

Muchas gracias Duolingo! me han ayudado bastante en lo que es el idioma del ingles, ya termine mi árbol así que seguiré practicando hasta aprenderlo en un 100%

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

keniaJ23 6

Feliz año nuevo y sigan con este gran aporte de Duolingo ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jcaceres93 19 9 8 5

Muchas gracias por lo que Duolingo ha hecho en mi, sería genial aumentar el árbol de Duolingo o en todo caso, crear una segundo árbol más avanzado para así poder continuar aprendiendo mediante esta plataforma.

Sería estupendo si crean más adelante una plataforma para traducir videos o subtítulos de videos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cabraloca2 25 11 10

I Will continue studying English, THANK, S DUOLINGO HAPPY AND SUCCESSFUL NEW YEAR

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IsabelMassiel 11

happy new year for u too ..... muxas gracias x haber creado esta page realment es d muxa ayuda ;) definitivamente seguire un tiempo mas en Duolingo aprendiendo mas idiomas :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ivanortiz888789 12 12

GENIOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO GRACIAS

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ruben-Salas 12 8 3 2 2
Feliz año a ustedes igualmente

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

guagranito 11

Para mi esta pagina es de gran ayuda para la humanidad, en estos tiempos es muy poca las personas que ofrecen sus conocimientos a los demás de manera desinteresada, casi en ninguna otra pagina su creador se toma el tiempo de saludar a los usuarios, lo que hace este lugar un espacio mas cálido y cercano. Me uno a las personas que escribieron antes que yo en agradecerle grandemente por este espacio, de verdad es de gran ayuda, de corazón deseo que este 2015 tenga usted y su equipo de trabajo un año lleno de muchas bendiciones, salud y prosperidad, se respira un ambiente muy positivo y sano aquí al practicar un idioma, y todo lo que hace uno en la vida se bueno o no tan positivo se regresa, y seguramente ustedes reciben las buenas vibras que les mandamos.

Mi propósito de año nuevo es seguir aprendiendo, porque uno jamas termina de aprender en la vida, tanto de las personas, como de espacios como este.

PD: Este lugar es como un camino por recorrer lleno de montañas o volcanes y lugares verdes que nos acompañan durante nuestro descubrimiento a nuevos conocimientos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MAT-MIS 10

Un gran equipo, DUOLINGO :) Yo como aprendíz, espero puedan ofrecer más y más idiomas, sabiendo que existen muchos y que son menos conocidos pero divertidos, como el guaraní (idioma principal del Paraguay). Confío en ustedes :) Aguyje pe ndéve :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariaSicay 12

Seguir aprendiendo Frances! Muchisimas gracias por este material de aprendizaje. Saludos desde Guatemala!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Bertalaura 22 6 299

¡Un equipo de 50 millones! ...gracias por este invaluable aporte, ¡Feliz 2015!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nicorodasd 5

HAPPY NEW YEAR

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarthaE.M.C. 4

Feliz Año nuevo 2015.. y gracias por toda la facilidad para continuar aprendiendo...que haré? culminar mi aprendizaje del ingles de una vez por todas...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ademaralejandro1 11
happy new year everyone!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NOEMICOSI 7
FELICITACIONES POR ESTE GRANDIOSO PROGRAMA, MUCHAS GRACIAS!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

OlverDuarte 10 10 7 2
Subir niveles, jajaja en el 2015.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anamariaarenas 12 2
Happy new year too!!Feliz año tambien a ustedes, que este año seamos más.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LariDiNapoli 9
gracias a usted por todo este 2014 y feliz 2015

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sosaprofe 9 3
Felíz año nuevo para esta familia maravillosa que dedica su tiempo en educación. muchas gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

labanda99 25 1
La vida es hoy.....Apoyemos a Duolingo, con mi más sincero agradecimiento al equipo de Duolingo con quien cada día aprendo y deseo llegar a mi meta. Gracias!!!!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cesarmatizmoreno 8
Feliz Año :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

agustin0291 14 12 10 7 3 2
Feliz año, seria genial si colocaran Arabe para hispano hablantes o angloparlantes :) , thanks DuoLingo!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

VALEN_890

GRACIAS TAMBIEN PARA TI

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alex.angulo 24 10 9 9 8 8
Feliz año

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ANGELELEGANTE 16 2

Estoy super conteto de todo lo que he aprendido con esta pagina y aplicación tan útil, ha sido una gran herramienta para el aprendizaje de varios idiomas en especial para mi, el ingles, la he recomendado a todos mis amigos y familiares, y muchos de ellos ya la están utilizando, en hora buena para todo el equipo de DUOLINGO y muy feliz 2015, seguiré al pendiente de todas las mejoras he idiomas nuevos ¡¡¡CONGRATULATIONS!!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Super_Nella 12

Gracias por esta util herramienta, que hare yo?... pues compartirla con mas gente y siga el efecto multiplicador de esta excelente herramienta! Feliz año y muchos mas exitos

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marioaandres 9 4

Gracias por este sitio me esta ayudando mucho a aprender ingles cuando termine iré por francés!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Pilar1085 25 20 49

Seguiré con vosotros. Feliz año a todos.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Consuelo_Luna 22 8 7 428

s'il vous plait; quelqu'un peut expliquer comment participer à la traduction. pas vraiment clair pour moi que je ne fois là, je ai réalisé, je crois que la lecture est un bon outil pour l'apprentissage et la consolidation d'une langue étrangère ... merci pour l'aide supplémentaire.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

juanelegante253 8 3

aunque apena comienzo a aprender un idioma, me fascina la parte grafica y auditiva que se mezcla con la teoria del lenguaje, felicitaciones por este proyecto que se que ah impactado a muchas vidas. att Juan Pescador

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

diannypam 12 7 6
happy new year

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

abiguadalupe 6
gracias

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Cibeles33 15 3
Gracias al equipo de Duolingo por contribuir con el sueño de aprender un idioma. Yo lo estoy logrando gracias a ustedes y por eso les deseo lo mejor para este año que inicia. Seguiré con mi meta de aprender francés, y además invitando a las personas que conozco para que se vinculen a esta comunidad.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SerranoSayra 8
Thank you

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nestorlive 24 20 3
Seguir compartiendo Duolingo con la personas que estan interesadas en aprender idiomas. Y al equipo de Duolingo les deseo lo mejor en este año 2015.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ramon_aleman 12 5
iii BRAVOiii

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marinagarcia_
Happy new year! On this new year I want to start playing guitar, and you?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tejera19 25 9 9 1233
Thank you for making us easier to learn English. Thank you very much

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jggp86 19 3 2
i go to learn english with doulingo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MelyRaxic 6
Es increíble lo que hacen, bendicen la vida de muchas personas y por lo que he visto es un buenísima esta plataforma. No solo desarrollan la vida de otras personas si no también la de ustedes crece juntamente.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Erika22. 14 2

Thank you very much duolingo, ¿cual open english? ni que nada, ¡¡Duolingo es el mejor!! :D

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

miguelh1945 25 23 18 4

Erica good night I like your answer, you're great !!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MelyRaxic 6

Que are? Por lo pronto invitar a mis amigos a usar esta plataforma seguir estudiando en la "U", y crear un programa de proyección social no lucrativa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mario536 25 9 1

Felicidades en este año nuevo y que todos los objetivos se puedan cumplir Abrazos a la comunidad duolingo

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

WilliamLeeMas 25 16 7 4 2

Gracias, por la innovación de este proyecto, eres un gran ejemplo para Guatemala, Luis

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

miguelh1945 25 23 18 4

Felicitaciones a todo el equipo de Duolingo, por su buena dirección en el manejo de los programas de estudio de las diferentes lenguas o idiomas. Muchas gracias por darme la oportunidad de estudiar y extender por todo el mundo esta gran labor. Les deseo a todos muchos éxitos y que el próximo año se realicen todas sus metas y las de nostors.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

miguelh1945 25 23 18 4

Mi objetivo para el 2015 es enseñar y transmitir a las personas mayores nuevos conocimientos adquiridos gratuitamente y con amor y dedicación.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ivanaceleste 9

terminar los niveles que me faltan!!!! dios!!!! ayudaaaaaaa!!!!XD

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pepagualda 12 3

Feliz año a todos y todas

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

viajerafeliz 24 17 12

Muuuuchas gracias a todo el equipo de duolingo por esta excelente iniciativa, en la que todos ganan. Yo seguiré esforzándome al máximo por avanzar en mi aprendizaje del ingles y aportar con el desafío de poder traducir los documentos. Muuuchas felicidades.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RosendoRGlez 13

Felicidades han hecho muy buen trabajo!!!! Como propuesta creo que serviria mucho incluir videos con pequeñas conversaciones, para escuchar un ingles un poco mas fluido.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Consuelo_Luna 22 8 7 428

Hola equipo Duolingo, podrían por favor explicarme por qué ya no me suman los lingotes que gano ?? ni por pasar de nivel ni por mantener la racha..... gracias por su atención

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MaraCandaG 20 3

buenas tardes equipo de Duolingo he aprendido muy bien no tanto como quisiera pero ése es mi problema practicar más muy me gustó mucho ,es muy practico quiero felicitarlo por éste programa quisiera me pudieran decir por que no hay diploma y si me felicitaron y parecía como un diploma el cual no pude bajar por no tener la impresora y quise copiar o guardar y no pude sólo letras pero ni siquiera la firma del profe que lástima con qué yo puedo enseñar en mi país sin diploma ? me gustaría me dijeran y si seguiré practicando y los estoy recomendando y los recomendaré muchas gracias por su contestación estaré al tanto yo empecé como en agosto de año pasado termine hoy pero sigo practicando desde ya mis saludos

0ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

729 "Det kan bli vanskelig. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/9616634>

Translation: It can get difficult.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

5 Comments

ag3n7_z3r0 17 13 11 11 11 10 9 7 6 6 5 5 4 4 4 2 2 1

But it's worth it in the end! You've made it this far, Norwegian learners, keep on going!

55ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Bonjour1227 4

Takk for motivasjonen!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 weeks ago

JegHeterJule 19 10 10 636

Can someone explain to me the differences between "å være" and "bli"? Just to make sure I understand it. :)

11ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Karl_Dilkington 12 11

"å være" = to be

"å bli" = to become

34ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

JegHeterJule 19 10 10 636

Thanks! :)

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

730 Kid VS Child

Thiago-NB 4

existe alguma diferença entre essas palavras? ou elas só são sinônimos?

Give Lingot

31 year ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1099

Ambas as formas têm o mesmo significado. Mas 'kid' é a versão gíria.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Elesino 8 7

Sim! Eu uso 'kid' quando falo com um amigo ou quando quero ser informal, mas se eu preciso de ser formal, eu uso 'child'. As vezes, ambos são aceitáveis.

Exemplos-

'Mom, she is just a kid.' (para sua mãe)

'Kids these days don't understand' (Pessoas velhas o dizem)

'The teacher speaks to the child' (Num livro)

'Children love to play outdoors' (Nas notícias)

'I saw the children last week' (falando para a policia)

Desculpe para não falo bem...eu estou aprendendo português!

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Thiago-NB 4

seu português está excelente, só tem um erro, na ultima frase a palavra "PARA" torna a frase errada, removendo a palavra "para" a frase fica correta.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lahure 25 25 25 25 25 25 13 13 12 12 10 1099

Sim, com certeza, acho que pode usar 'mas' em vez de 'para' aqui.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Thiago-NB 4

sim, usando a palavra 'mas' no lugar de 'para' a frase fica correta

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Thiago-NB 4

obrigado pela ajuda

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

731 finden

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/German/finden-verb-infinitive/49b6b8ab26dcefed458abd23d29499ae>

ENGLISH

find, are finding, consider

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

finde Ich finde den Orangensaft nicht. I cannot find the orange juice.

findest Du findest deine Freunde im Garten. You find your friends in the garden.

findet Sie findet den Körper schön. She finds the body beautiful.

finden Wir finden den Zucker. We find the sugar.

finden Aber sie finden keinen Ring. But they find no ring.

fand Ich fand den Rock im Schlafzimmer. I found the skirt in the bedroom.

fand Er fand mich nicht. He did not find me.

fanden Wir fanden das Hotel. We found the hotel.

gefunden Wo hast du deine Schuhe gefunden? Where did you find your shoes?

finden Ich kann meine Schuhe nicht finden. I cannot find my shoes.

finden conjugation

Indicative

Conditional

Others

PERSON PRESENT PAST

ich finde fand

du findest fandest, fandst

er/sie/es findet fand

wir finden fanden

ihr findet fandet

sie/Sie finden fanden

Discussions with the word "finden":

15 commentsIch kann es nicht finden.

10 commentsIch kann meine Schuhe nicht finden.

5 commentsIch kann meine Uhr nicht finden.

34 commentsEr findet das Baby.

31 commentsIch finde es.

732 How German children refer to their parents

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19935793>

Selenitequeen 14 8 7 7 204

Do they use du or Sie?

Give Lingot1

122 months ago

Leave a new comment

17 Comments

Osnakezz 15 11 11 301

They use du if they address one of their parents, mostly.

It goes like this:

du:

- with close friends
- children until around the end of puberty and the beginning of adolescence
- all family members
- good acquaintances
- teenagers amongst each other
- God, but with a capital D, so 'Du' and not 'du'

Sie:

- in all other situations, regardless of age, job, and social class. All with capital start letter.
- Extras!

- In Hamburg, there also is another Sie-variant: they use the forename and the Sie-form.
- People with a title (e.g. Prof., Teacher, Sir, etc.) always are addressed with their respective Example: "Guten Morgen, Herr Doktor (Meyer)", and "Auf Wiedersehen, Frau Professor".
- Women play a larger role: in a hall for example, one would not say "Liebe Studenten", but "Liebe Studentinnen und Studenten", or shortened to "Liebe StudentInnen" (no typing mistake).
- If you address someone with his or her job, then you use the form "Herr" or "Frau", e.g. : "Guten Morgen, Herr Schaffner".
- In formal contacts, Germans often will use "Sie" for a very long time.

17ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CaribbeanMax 12 11 10 7 5 3 2

You also use TU in Spanish/Italian when speaking with God. and VÓS in Portuguese..

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

belzinhafarias 19 15 11 10 7 6 4 3 2 30

when vós is used in Portuguese? are you referring to Brazilian Portuguese? I've never heard someone saying vós.. I'm just trying to know if there's someone who does that, when and how this useless pronoun of this enchanted language is used.

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 days ago

AHA3006 16 11 8 170

Natürlich duze ich meine Eltern!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

SH1ELDs 19 11 10 9 8 6

Du is the singular form of the informal pronoun "you" in English, which is great if you want to talk to one parent directly. To refer to both parents, one would use the word "ihr" as it is informal and plural.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

BelgianAmerican 14 5 3

I thought "ihr" was formal

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

AHA3006 16 11 8 170

"ihr" is the nominative of 2nd person plural which is the informal "you". Example: "Ihr seid meine besten Freunde". It's only capitalized at the beginning of a sentence.

It also is one declension of the 3rd person plural which doubles as the formal "you". It's always capitalized. Example: "Entschuldigen Sie, ist das Ihr Buch?".

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TheSlavLad 16 10 3

Sie is used when talking to someone you don't know, who is older than you, and/or you're trying to show your respect for them. This of it like this, would you call your dad Sir or your mum Madam? Same with using Sie to talk to your parents.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

JosefinaNike 15 14 13 13 13 12 12 12 11 11 11 11 9 7 7 4 3 3 32

These answers are all correct. I use du when speaking with my family members, because they are familiar to me. Sie is for people you would speak formally to.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

stoopher 20 18 8 2 290

A more general video on du vs. Sie: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PkWbURpp97g> (in German, but spoken relatively slowly).

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TikoPiko 21 123

Ich mag dich.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Selenitequeen 14 8 7 7 204

Wer?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Adam9812 25 6 4

*wen

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

senyb 25 13 13 12

Mutti und Vatti

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

annqueue 17 9

I had a conversation with a German friend about this. Mutti and Vati are like mommy and daddy. After a certain age it sounds really immature to use those words. One would use Mutter and Vater instead, but often, they don't use anything. They avoid constructions that would require naming their parents this way. There is no real equivalent to Mom and Dad. My friend hadn't noticed this but agreed when I asked about it.

I've also seen Germans avoid constructions that require Sie or du. It gets one past the awkward period when you're not quite sure which you should use, where one sounds too formal and the other too familiar (like with your boyfriend's parents). So rather than asking "did you like this book" you'd ask "is this book good".

Using Sie can be a way to create distance; like if you're really pissed at someone you might spit out with frustration "Was moechten Sie denn machen?" rather than simply inquiring "was willst du machen?" This is why Sie can get awkward when you're getting closer to someone. But as a foreign speaker people will understand you don't know the subtleties of it, and appreciate that you're trying to be polite by using Sie. So I'm not trying to cause stress, I'm just pointing out something you'll see in movies and such.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

AHA3006 16 11 8 170

That might be regional, but I call my parents "Mama" and "Papa" even though I've been grown up for a long time now and most persons of all ages I know do the same.

I would never address them with "Mutter" and "Vater". That's what my parents called their in-laws (while their own parents were Mama and Papa) but nowadays you address your in-laws by their first name.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

annqueue 17 9

Good to know. In the US, my Dad addressed and my husband addresses in-laws as Mom & Dad. Some folks do first names; my husband actually did for a while. It was either when we got married or when my dad invited hubby to call him dad that he switched (I forget exactly when).

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

733 "Varsågod! Tack så mycket! "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10043767>

Translation: Here you are! Thank you very much!

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

22 Comments

eyestrain_ 6

How can I differentiate the two meanings of "varsågod": "here you are" and "you're/you are welcome"?

29ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sabastian7 7 4 2 2

I am also wondering this.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Zmrzlina 14 13 12 10 4

Context.

2ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

ApoloNIB 14 11 11 9 5 5 5

I think that depends the context

1ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

J0rdanish 8 5 4

The lessons haven't told me that it means "here you go"

6ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

DianePaaso 7

I think it's "Here you are." I found it in one of the practices.

2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

canahelen 8

No, nor me

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

TPFMcCabe 9

When someone is saying "varsagod" in the context of "here you go" it's because they are serving food. It's like, "Bon appetit".

4ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

e-monshi 6 6

Hi, how to pronounce Varsagod!! is it like Yarshagod!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lundgren8 12 10 9 9 9 7 6 6 3

You can listen to recordings here: <http://sv.forvo.com/word/vars%C3%A5god/#sv>

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

e-monshi 6 6

Thank you so much, it was helpful :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nurzitamahat 17 17

In this sentence/phrase how would I have known that the Varsågod here meant "here you go" and NOT "you are welcome". I mean how could non Swedish native speakers like me know that?

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

arielkangaroo 21 13 12 9 7 5

Context.

"You're welcome! Thank you so much!" doesn't make sense.

5ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

DianePaaso 7

Here you are and thank you. both are varsagod? I found, Here you are! Thank you very much! Varsogod! Tack sa mycket. My key board doesn't allow me to put the dots over the letters.

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Slinksboo 8

You can change the keyboard layout in Windows by pressing Windows key + Space. if that doesn't work you may have to download the Swedish pack for it. Alternately you could buy a Nordic keyboard, I have one and it is much easier. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

Arnauti 25 25 25 21 20 18 16 12 11 11 11 9 9 6 2 2 111

'Here you are' and 'You are welcome' are both varsågod, but 'thank you' is tack.

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

F13d3r 10 8 8 56

Is 'Here are you' wrong? I wonder because you write 'Where are you'.

OReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Lundgren8 12 10 9 9 9 7 6 6 3

Yes, the phrase is here you are in English.

OReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Elena_Bostanica 11 10 39

I'm a little confused about the pronunciation of "å". In the word "varsågod" I hear it more like a regular "a", but in "tack så mycket", I hear it like an "o". I tried to listen the words on forvo too, and I keep hearing the same thing. Is there an explanation for this?

OReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Slinksboo 8

Please don't quote me on this as I'm not definite on this... but I think it is to do with the regions in Sweden. As in southern and northern...

OReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Elena_Bostanica 11 10 39

I thought of this too, but it would make no sense to use two different regional pronunciations in the same course. I think DL should pick one and stick with it.

OReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

Slinksboo 8

I kinda agree with you... but I guess if they try to teach you all variations of pronunciation, then it kind of gives you a good start depending on where you travel in Sweden. I hope that makes sense.. :)

OReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

734 llevo

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Spanish/llevo-llevar-verb-present+indicative+tense-first+person-singular/d2f61cb3c98023dd22dbb146542da015>

ENGLISH

(I) wear, wear, (I) take

Example sentences

| WORD | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|---------|-------------|
|------|---------|-------------|

|       |                      |                   |
|-------|----------------------|-------------------|
| llevo | Yo llevo su vestido. | I take her dress. |
|-------|----------------------|-------------------|

|        |                       |                   |
|--------|-----------------------|-------------------|
| llevas | Tú llevas un vestido. | You take a dress. |
|--------|-----------------------|-------------------|

|       |                               |                               |
|-------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| lleva | Ella lleva al niño a la cama. | She takes the boy to the bed. |
|-------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------|

|       |                                        |                                       |
|-------|----------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| llevó | Usted llevó a mi amigo al restaurante. | You took my friend to the restaurant. |
|-------|----------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|

|         |                                      |                                             |
|---------|--------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|
| llevaba | Usted llevaba el animal al hospital. | You were taking the animal to the hospital. |
|---------|--------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|

|         |                                        |                                            |
|---------|----------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| llevado | Él ha llevado a los abuelos al parque. | He has taken the grandparents to the park. |
|---------|----------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|

|        |                                           |                                                |
|--------|-------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|
| llevar | No es posible llevar perros a este hotel. | It is not possible to take dogs to this hotel. |
|--------|-------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|

llevar conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON            | PRESENT  | PAST       | FUTURE     |
|-------------------|----------|------------|------------|
| yo                | llevo    | llevé      | llevaré    |
| tú                | llevas   | llevaste   | llevarás   |
| él/ella/usted     | lleva    | llevó      | llevará    |
| nosotros/nosotras | llevamos |            | llevaremos |
| vosotros/vosotras | llevais  | llevasteis | llevaréis  |
| ustedes           | llevaron | llevarán   |            |
| ellos/ellas       | llevaron | llevarán   |            |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "llevo":

65 commentsYo llevo su vestido.

249 commentsTú llevas un vestido.

190 commentsElla lleva al niño a la cama.

89 commentsTú puedes llevar la cadena al hotel.

86 commentsElla llevó la pluma al hotel.

735 manter

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Portuguese/manter-verb-infinitive/5b3b988809f3bc8c0a530b6599ef704e>

ENGLISH

keep, (to) keep, maintain

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

|                    |                                                 |                                                           |
|--------------------|-------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|
| mantenho           | Eu mantenho a fantasia.                         | I keep the fantasy.                                       |
| mantém             | Ele mantém o relógio.                           | He keeps the watch.                                       |
| mantinha           | A empresa não mantinha esse tipo de informação. | The company did not use to keep that type of information. |
| mantinha           | Ele mantinha o povo calmo.                      | He used to keep the people calm.                          |
| manteria           | Por que ele a manteria lá?                      | Why would he keep her there?                              |
| manterei           | Eu manterei meus olhos abertos.                 | I will keep my eyes open.                                 |
| manterá            | Ele manterá o poder.                            | He will keep the power.                                   |
| manteria           | O homem manteria seu copo cheio.                | The man would keep his glass full.                        |
| manter             | Ela vai manter a instituição para os filhos.    | She is going to keep the institution for the children.    |
| manteremos         | Nós manteremos nosso comportamento.             | We will keep our behavior.                                |
| manter conjugation |                                                 |                                                           |

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON       | PRESENT   | PAST        | FUTURE     |
|--------------|-----------|-------------|------------|
| eu           | mantenho  | mantive     | manterei   |
| tu           | manténs   | mantiveste  | manterás   |
| ele/ela/você | mantém    | manteve     | manterá    |
| nós          | mantemos  | mantivemos  | manteremos |
| vós          | mantendes | mantivestes | mantereis  |

eles/elas/vocês mantêm          mantiveram          manterão

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "manter":

7 comments Eu vou manter o emprego.

6 comments Ela vai manter a instituição para os filhos.

5 comments Eles querem manter o forno limpo.

29 comments Ele mantém o relógio.

27 comments Nós preferimos manter a escada.

736 entrare

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Italian/entrare-verb-infinitive/4c66758f519024b1ce94e3410db2094e>

ENGLISH

enter, (to) to enter, (to) come in

Example sentences

| WORD | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|---------|-------------|
|------|---------|-------------|

|       |                                    |                                 |
|-------|------------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| entra | La donna entra nel mio ristorante. | The woman enters my restaurant. |
|-------|------------------------------------|---------------------------------|

|         |              |            |
|---------|--------------|------------|
| entrate | Voi entrate. | You enter. |
|---------|--------------|------------|

|       |                                      |                                            |
|-------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|
| entri | Forse è l'ora che io entri in gioco. | Maybe it is time for me to enter the game. |
|-------|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------|

|       |                           |                           |
|-------|---------------------------|---------------------------|
| entri | Voglio che lui entri qui. | I want him to enter here. |
|-------|---------------------------|---------------------------|

|         |                                                            |                                                 |
|---------|------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|
| entrino | Speriamo che gli ospiti non entrino con le scarpe bagnate. | We hope the guests do not enter with wet shoes. |
|---------|------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|

|          |                                             |                                           |
|----------|---------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|
| entrassi | Non era così piccolo prima che entrassi tu. | It was not this small before you came in. |
|----------|---------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|

|       |                       |                                |
|-------|-----------------------|--------------------------------|
| entrò | Entrò dalla finestra. | He entered through the window. |
|-------|-----------------------|--------------------------------|

|         |                                 |                                          |
|---------|---------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| entrava | La gente entrava quando voleva. | People would enter whenever they wanted. |
|---------|---------------------------------|------------------------------------------|

|          |                                                |                                             |
|----------|------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|
| entrasse | Come si chiamava prima che entrasse in Italia? | What was it called before it came to Italy? |
|----------|------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------|

|           |                               |                                     |
|-----------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| entravano | A mezzanotte entravano tutti. | At midnight everybody was entering. |
|-----------|-------------------------------|-------------------------------------|

|            |                                            |                                    |
|------------|--------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| entrassero | Volevamo che loro entrassero prima di noi. | We wanted them to enter before us. |
|------------|--------------------------------------------|------------------------------------|

|           |                                |                                  |
|-----------|--------------------------------|----------------------------------|
| entrarono | I turisti entrarono nel museo. | The tourists entered the museum. |
|-----------|--------------------------------|----------------------------------|

|         |                      |                              |
|---------|----------------------|------------------------------|
| entrato | Sarai entrato prima. | You will have entered first. |
|---------|----------------------|------------------------------|

|         |                                            |                                                |
|---------|--------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|
| entrata | Non penso che sia entrata senza il marito. | I don't think she entered without the husband. |
|---------|--------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|

|         |                            |                                     |
|---------|----------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| entrati | Non so come siano entrati. | I don't know how they have entered. |
|---------|----------------------------|-------------------------------------|

|       |                    |                 |
|-------|--------------------|-----------------|
| entra | Entra in macchina! | Get in the car! |
|-------|--------------------|-----------------|

|         |                                                        |                                                             |
|---------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------|
| entrerà | Possiamo chiudere la porta, ma entrerà dalla finestra. | We can close the door but he will enter through the window. |
|---------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------|

|            |                                         |                                              |
|------------|-----------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
| entrerebbe | Cosa c'entrerebbe l'età dei professori? | What would the age of the professors matter? |
|------------|-----------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|

|         |                                |                             |
|---------|--------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| entrare | Possiamo entrare senza scarpe. | We can enter without shoes. |
|---------|--------------------------------|-----------------------------|

|          |                                  |                                 |
|----------|----------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| entrando | Molta gente sta ancora entrando. | Many people are still entering. |
|----------|----------------------------------|---------------------------------|

|           |                                     |                              |
|-----------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| entrerete | Non entrerete nella nostra piscina. | You will not enter our pool. |
|-----------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------|

|         |          |        |
|---------|----------|--------|
| entrate | Entrate! | Enter! |
|---------|----------|--------|

|            |                                  |                                        |
|------------|----------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| entreranno | I vicini entreranno tra due ore. | The neighbors will enter in two hours. |
|------------|----------------------------------|----------------------------------------|

entrare conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON | PRESENT | REMOTE PAST | FUTURE |
|--------|---------|-------------|--------|
|--------|---------|-------------|--------|

|    |       |        |         |
|----|-------|--------|---------|
| io | entro | entrai | entrerò |
|----|-------|--------|---------|

|    |       |          |          |
|----|-------|----------|----------|
| tu | entri | entrasti | entrerai |
|----|-------|----------|----------|

|         |       |       |         |
|---------|-------|-------|---------|
| lui/lei | entra | entrò | entrerà |
|---------|-------|-------|---------|

|     |          |          |           |
|-----|----------|----------|-----------|
| noi | entriamo | entrammo | entreremo |
|-----|----------|----------|-----------|

|     |         |          |           |
|-----|---------|----------|-----------|
| voi | entrate | entraste | entrerete |
|-----|---------|----------|-----------|

|      |         |           |            |
|------|---------|-----------|------------|
| loro | entrano | entrarono | entreranno |
|------|---------|-----------|------------|

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "entrare":

15 commentsPosso entrare?

10 commentsPossiamo entrare senza scarpe.

9 commentsPuoi entrare.

61 commentsNon era così piccolo prima che entrassi tu.

56 commentsLei entra nel ristorante.

737 "Ne vous en faites pas."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/8741007>

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413

I came across this as an example sentence in an FSI course, and there was no translation. I put it into Google Translate and was told that the phrase means "Don't worry about it."

Is this accurate? Is there another way to express this idea? How would this literally be translated?

Merci beaucoup!

Give Lingot

91 year ago

Leave a new comment

22 Comments

earthkissed 23 10 9 8 8 7 6 5 5 4

i guess for a literal french-to-english translation of the phrase, "don't make (something) of it" could be a possibility. it seems pretty close.

10ReplyGive Lingot5•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413

Merci beaucoup ! That's what I would guess too.

Sometimes I have some problems with the word "en."

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5

Your point has set me off to see what the internet can tell me. As always - there is the excellent article by L.Lawless here

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413
Merci beaucoup !

I'm fine with using "en" as a preposition, but I run into problems de temps en temps when it's used as an adverbial pronoun.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5
and à and de for me as well. I hope one day I will conquer the finesse of this dance of words. The young french lass staying with us says - it is the little words that are the hardest. I wonder if the french have a saying about the little words?
For the seven coordinating conjunctions there is Mais où est donc Ornica ? that is used as a mnemonics learning device. ....
I wonder what would help for à , de and en (apart from practice ;).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5
I like that translation ! have a lingot.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hohenems 25 25 18 14 13 12 11 11 8 7
The translation is accurate, and I second earthkissed's literal translation.
"Don't make [something/anything] [/out] of it".

7ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413
Merci beaucoup !

Hmm, I just realized I have another question now. The whole phrase is within "ne... pas." I know the infinitive is usually within "ne... pas," but this looks like a command.

Do you know why it is not "Vous n'en faites pas"?

Edit: Hmm, there are some cases of "Vous n'en faites pas."

It looks like it can have a different meaning this way.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7
My interpretation: "Ne vous en faites pas !" is short of "ne vous faites pas de souci !" = Don't worry!

"se faire du souci" = lit. give worry to oneself.

"en" as a pronoun stands for "du souci" in this case (partitive + uncountable)

Other close constructions:

ne vous en mêlez pas ! = ne vous mêlez pas de cela = do not interfere!
ne vous en occupez pas ! = ne vous occupez pas de cela = (lit. do not deal with it!) do not interfere!
Please note the colloquial versions:

t'en fais pas ! OR t'inquiète ! (in SMS language: tkt) t'en mêle pas !

t'occupe !

6ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

Hohenems 25 25 18 14 13 12 11 11 8 7

Please not the colloquial versions: t'en fais pas

I'd say "t'en fais pas" is the most often used version over here. Or at least the one that I've personally encountered the most. Ah...Quebec.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413

Merci beaucoup !

Now I know what "en" as an adverbial pronoun is replacing.

I haven't learned the word "souci" yet, but I've learned inquiétude, which seems similar. Using inquiétude in the place of "souci" gives a lot less search results on Google.

Is it less common, or is it wrong to use "Ne vous faites pas d'inquiétude" ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Sitesurf 25 25 8 7

It is wrong because the construction would change to "n'ayez pas d'inquiétude". But the meaning is correct.

"Un souci" is a worry, a little problem. See also "un tracas" for the same meaning. In plural, both "des soucis / des tracas" would also translate to "troubles".

2ReplyGive Lingot5•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413

Parfait ! Merci beaucoup de nouveau !

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Hohenems 25 25 18 14 13 12 11 11 8 7

"Vous n'en faites pas" to me (not a native French speaker, "officially" bilingual according to the Canadian government but my French has dropped off significantly as of late) would be exactly as it looks ---> You [aren't doing/don't do/aren't making] something.

We're making crepes. You aren't making any.

Nous faisons des crêpes. Vous n'en faites pas.

There may be an expression that I'm not aware of though that my overseas cousins will add to the discussion.

4ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413
Merci beaucoup ! Super.

That's what I thought of "Vous n'en faites pas" and how it seems to be used in examples.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lindakanga 21 6 6 5 5
I just went to www.reverso, and plugged this saying in. It came up with: "Do not worry", and several sentence examples:
you should be able to check them out by clicking here
It seems it is a very well used phrase.

3ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413
Thank you! I should bookmark that. I used to use Linguee, but I forgot about that.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

SussexSoleil 25 10
The expression is "ne pas s'en faire", conjugated according to the subject/object of the expression (it's reflexive).

I always think of it literally as: "don't do that to yourself".

In other words, don't get worked up about something or don't beat yourself up over it. "Don't worry about it" is a good translation.

3ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413
Merci beaucoup !

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

evatenn 23 14 7
Very nice-- I was looking for an explanation that made the connection of the "vous" to "yourself." Surely that ought to be worth a few fluency percentage points? Or a great argument against the new system having any real utility or validity!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bvogel1 25 24 11 8 3
I've heard this phrase before and that's my understanding of its translation. You could also say "Ne t'en fais pas" if you were speaking to someone you knew well, using the familiar form instead of "vous".

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413
Merci beaucoup !

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

738 How do I edit or delete a comment?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/204887964-How-do-I-edit-or-delete-a-comment->

To edit your comment in order to fix a typo or add information, select the "Edit" link directly under the comment. You can only edit your own comments.

If you regret posting something, or happened to post a duplicate, you can delete it by selecting the "delete" button under that comment. You can only delete your own comments.

Moderators can delete without prior notice if your comment violates our Community Guidelines.

739 "Es leche, nosotros la bebemos. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20653802>

Translation: It is milk, we drink it.

01 month ago

Leave a new comment
4 Comments

Vermillions 2

Nosotros means "we," and ustedes means "you" (plural).

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

reaghan211221
it is milk we drink it

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

RamonTorre428547 9
We drink the milk?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

AdityaPill1 5 5
What is the difference between nosotros and ustedes

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

740 "Sie sind gegenüber. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1070375>

Translation: They are opposite.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment

119 Comments

syberen 10

Should "across" be right?

43ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

e.marienfeld 18

I think so...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Emnez 11

So "over there" should too..?

-23ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

s33br0wnb0x 13 7

Over there = da drüben.

12ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gallifrey_ 9

"Over there" is "dort drüben"

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NastasiaFantasia 11 3

da drüben = dort drüben, right? There is no certain distinction between "da" and "dort"?

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Daalianer 17 15 13 12

"da drüben" is the same as "dort drüben", but "da" can also have the meaning of "hier". For instance: "They are already here" = "Sie sind schon da/hier"

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

LuisCasseres96 13 10 9 6 3

They are across the street is not accepted... why?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

joanabuck 12 11 8 7 6 3 2

it is now

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuisCasseres96 13 10 9 6 3
Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bersalon 25 17 4 721
You are adding words to the sentence that are not even implied.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ZoeCannon 13
I think in English you would have to say something like, "They are opposite each other."

40ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

conradsteenkamp 20 14 13 3
Yes, one simply cannot say 'they are opposite' in English. This is not correct

17ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

nate8077 15
What? This sounds like a normal description in most cases: black vs white, up vs down, positive vs negative.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

markbooth 18 14 5
I think gegenüber is referring specifically to location. I think Gegenteil is the word to describe your examples.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

__cayac__ 24 13 427
'They are opposite' is perfectly correct in English. 'Where is the bakery?' - 'It's opposite the library.' If someone asks you 'where are the taxis?' then answering 'they are opposite' if they're across the road from you is a correct way of phrasing it (or 'they are opposite us', but the 'us' is implied anyway).

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

h.andy.gos 14 5 4
it is correct, but unfamiliar. In the USA I think this would sound very weird. If you are talking about two people being completely different, one would say they are opposites or they are completely opposite.

I have never heard someone say "they are sitting opposite from us" It is valid english, but "they are sitting across from us" is much more common. The same with any location. "The bank is across the street" never "The bank is opposite"

-1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

__cayac__ 24 13 427

Well, what you do out in the colonies is your business, but around here "they are siting opposite from us" would be the more usual phrasing.

1ReplyGive Lingot•5 months ago

h.andy.gos 14 5 4

out in the colonies made me laugh :-)

I thought about it more this morning. I think that saying simply "they are opposite" is really the trip up here for me (and probably most Americans). If someone said "opposite from us" or "opposite from here" etc. I think it would be totally fine. As I said "across from" is more common in my experience, but "opposite" would not be completely out of place.

As they say, England and the USA - two countries separated by a common language.

0Give Lingot•5 months ago

s33br0wnb0x 13 7

I'm not sure what it is. If it is indeed, "They are opposite each other," then gegenüber is a dative preposition. This means that it requires an indirect object.

If it is "They are opposites," then it would be an adjective and not a preposition. But this is a good point Zoe.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AmishHomeworld 13

In "They are opposites," opposites is a noun. This sentence can't translate to that because gegenuber is not capitalized.

2ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

kirnode1 13 12

That's what I put down, but I guess it does assume the spatial sense of "opposite". But yeah, "You are opposite" and "They are opposite" both sound a little funny in English without context...

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ZoeCannon 13

For the other sense of "opposite," you could also say "They are opposites."

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NeoTubNinja 21 7 7 6 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

The meaning of the sentence changes is incorrect when adding the -s.

"They are opposites." isn't equivalent to "They are opposite."

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago
[+] 1 hidden comment

e.marienfeld 18
Then it would have to be "Sie sind gegenüber voneinander"

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ecmbennett 13 3
'They are opposite us' means just that...imagine a seating plan, for example? Two groups sitting opposite each other. 'Where are they? 'Dude, you blind? They're opposite us!'

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Gardnerwestbound 8 5
If the preposition "uns" were present, then that would be correct and it cannot be assumed.
therefore "Opposite 'us'" is incorrect.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NeoTubNinja 21 7 7 6 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 2
This sentence is actually 100% correct.

Opposite, by definition is "on the other side". Why would "They are on the other side." be correct English, while "They are opposite." isn't? It's simple substitution.

In addition, putting each other at the end could change the meaning of this sentence.

Opposite is a word that shows 2 parties in opposition, hence the name. When you say "They are opposite.", they is ONE party. There still has to be another. The only option left is the speaker.

If you were to change the sentence to "They are opposite each other.", you've now introduced a 3rd party. The person making that statement is referencing two OTHER parties. They no longer becomes one party, but represents two opposing parties.

The same thing is true for "They are opposites." Once again, they is no longer referring to one party, but two.

What if the sentence had said "I am opposite."? You can't just make it "I am opposites." and still have it be correct.

Edit: If you're going to down-vote, do it because you have a counter argument you can use and not because you're feeling hurt that you might be incorrect. It does nobody any good when you're not willing to engage in intellectual discourse.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Rand00X 22 20 11 8 3 7
This translation isn't English. Is the meaning "you are on the other side"?

16ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[+] 7 hidden comments

RonSercely 12 12 2

throughout this discussion - the me, in English it sounds MUCH better to say: You are opposites

10ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lai_mesunda 22 14 12 3 2

I completely agree! I was wondering why this wasn't coming up. I thought that "They are opposite" sounds incomplete, so I decided to add the "s," because I was thinking of it in the "they have entirely different personalities/hobbies/etc." kind of thing. Only upon checking the discussion did I even think of it in the spatial sense. @-)

Would being opposites in terms of personality, as I thought it meant, also use this syntax, or would it use different words?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrederickEason 25 23 19 17 13 11 10 10 9 9 8 8 7 3 2 12 19

"Gegenüber" only refers to opposites in the sense of one thing being on the opposite side of the room/street as something else.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

[+] 5 hidden comments

maripositalinda 21 22

I have to agree, i expected something like "das Haus liegt gegenüber dem Markt"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NeoTubNinja 21 7 7 6 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 2 2

You here would be a single person, no? Who is the second party? It can't be the speaker if you say opposites because he excludes himself when using the plural.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

mathieuvallée27 17

I would like to know in which context you would use this sentence in Deutsch?

9ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Levi 25 11 6 7

@mathieuvallée27 : When someone's across the table.

27ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mark.Z 12

Hi, Levi, could you please tell me, why gegenüber can be used like this without anything following, since it is a preposition, not a adjective? Why isn't it 'Sie sind gegenüber mir'?

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Levi 25 1167

@Mark.Z : I'd say that the part left out (the 'mir' in your example) is implicit / implied.

Another example: "Ich musste zur Toilette. = I had to go to the bathroom." Here the 'gehen' is left out at the end.

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Mark.Z 12

I see , but is there a rule about this in German? Cuz I've never seen this kind of situation in English.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Tor_Heyerdal 25 7 2

You can omit things in English too. Like in "I have to go to to the store", one could just say "Have to go to the store". The things that can get left out vary from language to language. You can't leave out "the street" or "the table" or whatever in "they are across the street/table/whatever" in English, but that doesn't mean that you also can't in German.

1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Levi 25 1167

@Mark.Z : Currently I have no knowledge of a concrete rule regarding this. (Febr 18, 2014)

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

GregHullender 25 25 22 13 10

It's an adverb (of place) in this sentence.

<http://www.wordreference.com/deen/gegen%C3%BCber>

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Hoja.de.Arce 25 25 14 7 6

If that's the case, then my answer ("They are opposites") is a mistake, even though it was accepted.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Hoja.de.Arce 25 25 14 7 6

Two people have downvoted this comment without saying why. "They are opposites" has a totally different meaning from "they are opposite from each other". This is a very important difference, and my answer should not have been accepted.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Tor_Heyerdal 25 7 2

I agree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LuisCasseres96 13 10 9 6 3

What about across the street? (neighbors living/standing across the street)

-Where are the neighbors?

-Sie sind gegenüber. Why not?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Regney 19 16 16 13 5 4 3 1117

"Sie sind gegenüber" = They are opposite.

You might use this sentence to describe a Mutt & Jeff sort of couple. ;)

And Mutt might use, "Sie sind gegenüber," (You are opposite) to describe Jeff... although Jeff might not like it.

-3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Regney 19 16 16 13 5 4 3 1117

Opposite (preposition) - From Merriam Webster

: on the other side of (something or someone)

: across from (something or someone) of an actor : in a play, movie, etc., with (another actor)

1: across from and usually facing or on the same level with (sat opposite each other)

2: in a role complementary to (played opposite the leading man in the comedy)

Examples

She lives in the house opposite ours.

The school is opposite a park.

I played opposite the best player in the league.

She stars opposite Clint Eastwood in her latest movie.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

e.marienfeld 18

I don't think "gegenüber" works in the way of definition 2 in german

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheSupernatural 13 11 5 4 4 3 2

Did some fishing around on Wikitionary. Apparently Gegenüber works like definition 2 as a noun, but it would have to be capitalized.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

StridingDream17 11 2

Does this only refer to position, or can it also be about sides, factions, etc?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rahmcoff 16

Looking over this discussion, it sounds like this translates as "You are opposite (me)" or "They are opposite (each other)". Is this correct?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GregHullender 25 25 22 13 10

I think it can only mean "they are on the opposite side of something." Like most German adjectives, it can be used as an adverb, and that's the case here.

<http://www.wordreference.com/deen/gegen%C3%BCber>

"Opposite one another" seems to be sich gegenüber.

<http://dictionary.reverso.net/german-english/gegen%C3%BCber>

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

tallpapab 8 6 6

So you (or they) are opposed is not right?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

marco1603 11 10 3 2

No. "be opposed" means being against something, to disagree with something. "They are opposed." = "Sie sind dagegen."

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

SmugPhilAnselmo 11 5 5 4

"They are the opposite" Wrong.. "They are opposite" Correct? Why not just add the? Eh.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

With "the" opposite is just as a noun and refers for example to character traits. In German "das Gegenteil (voneinander)". Without "the" opposite is used as a description of a place. In German: "gegenüber"

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BatuhanTum 9 9 8

I wrote "They are opponents." Can someone explain??

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

nate8077 15
Opponents = Gegner

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Bencloete 23 8
They are opposite one another?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

deltafeatures 15 10 10 5 4 3 2 2 2
Opposite to what?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NeoTubNinja 21 7 7 6 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 2
The speaker.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

GivingTree06 12 3
Can someone please explain the meaning of this sentence? "They are opposite" just doesn't sound right...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Airille 14
I think, "They are across the way," should be accepted here. It's a common way of saying the same thing in English.

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

PhilCenters 12
"They are over there" is a correct translation of this phrase though it was marked wrong. This continues to be a pattern and a real shortcoming with this course, namely that it appears that the authors are not fluent in English as they are in German. The phrase "They are opposite" is very ambiguous in English and would never be used alone without some additional words or context clues like a gesture with the eyes.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

NeoTubNinja 21 7 7 6 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 2
"They are over there." is NOT a correct translation for this sentence. Just because they might be "over there" doesn't make them opposite of you.

For example, if you had a long table and you were at one end, the opposite side would be at the other end and ONLY at the other end. All the rest of the seats at the table are not opposite, but you could say of anyone sitting at them that "They are over there." or "They are over here."

If you wanted to say "They are over there.", you would use "Sie sind da drüber." or "Sie sind dort drüber."

As for the phrases in general, I think 99.9% of them are just fine. If you are intent on learning vocabulary and grammar, they do exactly what you need. The only exception that I would make is the occasional idiom where a direct translation is mostly gibberish. Context should be negligible. Would it sound better in a paragraph or with more words for clarity? No doubt, but I would argue that it doesn't add anything to help the learning process and may even hinder it by adding more complexity to a sentence before people are ready for it. In my experience, I think most of the native German speakers who comment on sentences here are just as good at English, if not better, than a lot of the native English speakers.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

PhilCenters 12

"They are over there" IS a correct translation of this sentence IN SPOKEN ENGLISH. One would rarely, if every, say in English of someone sitting at a table or anywhere else, "They are opposite". You might say, "They are sitting opposite of us" but this would be highly unusual in today's English. You would much more likely say, "They are sitting across from us." If they were at the end of a long table you would more likely say, "They are (sitting) over there" or "They are sitting at the far end of the table."

As to most of the native German speakers who comment on sentences here being just as good at English, if not better, than a lot of the native English speakers, that may be true, as most native English speakers, at least in the U.S., have an abysmal knowledge of their own language (and no interest in learning another language). But it's an apple to oranges comparison. Most native English speakers "who comment on sentences here" probably are better at English than most native German speakers who comment, just as most native German speakers who comment are better at German than most native English speakers who comment. To suggest otherwise is to express an arrogance that rarely serves one well.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

mikeb102 22 22 22 660

I put "they are across the way" is that wrong/ to say they're over there? It's pretty common here in the US

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

NeoTubNinja 21 7 7 6 6 3 2 2 2 2 2 2

It's not a bad sentence in and of itself, it's just not a translation for this sentence. "The way" implies some context which you have no clue to here.

Seems like most people here are only thinking of this sentence in spatial terms with some sort of street. In reality though, this sentence should be a valid construction for anything with two diametrically opposed parties. If I'm liberal and they are conservative, I could say "They are opposite." If I'm white and they are black, I could say "They are opposite." If I'm Yin and they are Yang, I could say "They are opposite." If I'm on one side of the street and they are on the other, I could say "They are opposite."

Some of these examples do sound a lot better with extra words to breath a little life into them, but at the same time you have to remember these exercises are more about direct translations than colloquial translations.

2ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Simon924148 22 17 13 4 in the uk we would always say "over the road" rather than "across the street" or "opposite", but this answer is not accepted

0ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

kubasirda 17 6

Why is "They are against each other" incorrect ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

Airille 14

Because gegenüber was used, and that means across from or opposite. If gegen einander had been used, that would mean against each other or, more specifically, against one another.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

RafaRiff 23 23 23 17 13 682

It seems like gegenüber means more than a single word in English could express. I interpreted it like "they are facing each other", and one single word could mean that in German. Am I right?

Edit 03/14/2017: I wrote "thay" instead of "they", and now I corrected it.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Airille 14

Opposite is the closest you're probably going to get to a single word, but, in my opinion, that doesn't capture the flavor of the word. Across from captures the meaning as it was taught to me as a child.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

mfagerburg 21 345

Across from should be accepted

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Airille 14

I agree.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

ChrissieAnders 13

Even after reading all the comments and looking it up online, it's still not clear to me. I mean: I understand what gegenüber means, seen different examples where it was used, but none where it as was used in a sentence like this. So what does it mean in this sentence? The translation 'they're opposite' doesn't mean I understand this...

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Airille 14

If you live in the house across the street from mine, you are gegenüber me.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

MoteRellis 8

Opposite in German is Gegenteil or something

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

a.lpaka 13 4

sound like she says 'gegen ueber' to me.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Airille 14

She is. It's just bolted together.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

mk1978att.com 23 7

Why "You are in front of." is not acceptable?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RafaelMore732370 10 10 10 5

Isn't "Sie sind" the same as "they are"? Should not "You are" mean "du bist" or "Ihr seid"?

-2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Airille 14

Sie sind can be they are (informal) or you are (formal).

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

Duolingo Discussion Forum Messages

741 – 775 of 911

[accessed March 22, 2017]

741 entendo

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Portuguese/entendo-entender-verb-present+indicative+tense-first+person-singular/a1fd1281c796c92f364417855a4b6322>

ENGLISH

understand, (I) understand, get

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

|            |                                                        |                                                         |
|------------|--------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------|
| entendo    | Eu entendo os animais.                                 | I understand the animals.                               |
| entende    | O menino não entende o menu.                           | The boy does not understand the menu.                   |
| entenda    | Eu preciso de alguém que me entenda.                   | I need someone who understands me.                      |
| entenda    | O que eu preciso fazer para que você entenda?          | What do I need to do for you to understand?             |
| entendia   | Eu falei em português, mas ele não me entendia.        | I spoke in Portuguese, but he could not understand me.  |
| entendesse | Eu pensei que ele me entendesse.                       | I thought that he understood me.                        |
| entendia   | Ela não entendia meu inglês.                           | She did not understand my English.                      |
| entendesse | É como se o cavalo entendesse o que o treinador disse. | It is as if the horse understood what the trainer said. |
| entendido  | Eu pensei que ele tinha entendido o que eu disse.      | I thought he had understood what I said.                |
| entenderia | Eu acho que o chefe não entenderia.                    | I think the boss would not understand.                  |
| entenderei | Eu nunca entenderei o sistema.                         | I will never understand the system.                     |
| entenderá  | Você entenderá o problema.                             | You will understand the problem.                        |
| entenderia | Até uma criança entenderia aquele filme.               | Even a child would understand that movie.               |
| entender   | Nós vamos entender o que ela disse.                    | We are going to understand what she said.               |
| entendendo | Eu não estou entendendo o que você está dizendo.       | I do not understand what you are saying.                |
| entenderão | Os médicos não entenderão os resultados.               | The doctors will not understand the results.            |

entender conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON          | PRESENT    | PAST        | FUTURE       |
|-----------------|------------|-------------|--------------|
| eu              | entendo    | entendi     | entenderei   |
| tu              | entendes   | entendeste  | entenderás   |
| ele/ela/você    | entende    | entendeu    | entenderá    |
| nós             | entendemos | entendemos  | entenderemos |
| vós             | entendeis  | entendestes | entendereis  |
| eles/elas/vocês | entendem   | entenderam  | entenderão   |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "entendo":

11 commentsEu entendo os animais.

6 commentsEu não entendo.

30 commentsEu não estou entendendo.
26 commentsVocê precisa entender a você mesmo.
21 commentsO professor ajuda o aluno a entender o texto.

742 "Táim tuirseach. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/11717279>

Translation: I am tired.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

10 Comments

lukeebyrne 25 11 9 4

For anyone wanting a nicer, more Irish phrase, try "táim tuirseach traochta" - I'm really tired. In Ireland they have a big thing about 'saibhreas', which means "richness", as Gaeilge, which means they much prefer usage of old sayings called "seanfhocail" and, for lack of a better word, "nicer" ways to say things, which is where these nice phrases come in. Mar a dúirt an fear fadó, nach bhfuil?!

8ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FoxyAuroraBat 12 3

This would only be used in the particular situation in which you are tired in the moment in which you say it, correct?

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

scilling 24 937

Yes; "I am (habitually) tired" would be Bíim tuirseach.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

FoxyAuroraBat 12 3

Thanks for the reaffirmation! :D Such an odd language. Is maith liom é!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Knocksedan 25 707

What's the difference with tá tuirse orm? Is it a dialect thing, or a béarlachas thing, or do they actually imply different things?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

galaxyrocker 18 2

Tá tuirse orm is synonymous with tá mé tuirseach

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Knocksedan 25 707

Oops. So tá áthas orm/táim áthasach,tá fearg orm/táim feargach, etc are just alternative forms

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

galaxyrocker 18 2

Except, unlike tuirseach the forms like tá mé feargach and tá mé áthasach aren't really used, with the adjective form mainly being used attributively instead of predicatively.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

orkzzzz 9 8 2

Would Tá mé go tuirseach be valid as well?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Knocksedan 25 707

No, go tuirseach means "tiredly", or more commonly "wearily".

chuaigh mé suas an staighre go tuirseach mar bhí mé tuirseach - "I climbed the stairs wearily because I was tired"

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

743 "Adiós "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/429242>

Translation: Bye

03 years ago

258 CommentsThis discussion is locked.

shastown 6 5

It should be noted that "Adios" translates to "to gods". I was told once that it was meant as a good bye for long amounts time (as opposed to a situation where you would see some one in a week). I was also told it should be used similarly to the french word "Adieu". Correct me if I am mistaken.

65Give Lingot3•3 years ago

Kroneaux 10 8 7

Spanish doesn't have another word to say Goodbye, but another way to say goodbye is to say "Hasta luego" or "Hasta pronto", also "¡Nos vemos!".

63Give Lingot•3 years ago

cris12asc 9 7 6

"Chao" is used in Colombia, actually more common

25Give Lingot•2 years ago

ozkroca 12 11 6 2

Yes, but it is originally an Italian word.

20Give Lingot•2 years ago

costa16 11 4
Ciao

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

paxgary 6
'chao' is also the spelling in Cuba - and used often for a 'see ya later' goodbye.

2Give Lingot•12 months ago

SreehithaS 4
really thx

0Give Lingot•11 months ago

spanishlearning 7 3
*Ciao

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago
[+] 3 hidden comments

reimu_hakurei 2
"Hasta luego" in Spanish means "so long" right?

13Give Lingot•2 years ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2
Until now = Hasta ahora, see you later = hasta luego, see you soon = Hasta pronto

18Give Lingot•1 year ago

mcoto101 17 8
yes it does

11Give Lingot•2 years ago

ninjabarbie94 8
See you later, ilbelieve

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

mthscl 6 2
Think it's more like "See you later".

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Keilymar9 4
I believe so

3Give Lingot•12 months ago

DiandreJon 4

The spanish speakers here in Texas say "Hasta luego" means "see you later".

3Give Lingot•10 months ago

DoradoRonald93 15 14 14 8 8 7 2 1

Tambien usamos: - Chau / Chao

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Zittlaly5 2

Hasta pronto im just saying it dont make sense

-4Give Lingot•3 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

It's an idiomatic thing, it means "until soon", but that doesn't make sense, so it gets translated as "see you soon".

11Give Lingot•3 years ago

Tinkerbenz 2

So what is "Hasta pronto", also "¡Nos vemos!" mean?

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

Hasta pronto=See you soon <http://www.spanishdict.com/translate/hasta%20pronto>

Nos vemos=See you later <http://www.spanishdict.com/answers/187034/what-does-nos-vemos-mean>

11Give Lingot1•2 years ago

GabyCalvo1 22 21 19 18 16 10 8 4 365

"Hasta pronto", means "see you soon" and "nos vemos" it literally means "we will see each other" but the closely mean in English is "see you later" or "see you soon".

7Give Lingot•1 year ago

midazz1 2

It's not 'idiomatic', it's like that in much languages :)

-3Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

Yes that may be true, but it's idiomatic (in English) because the literal translation doesn't work/doesn't make sense in English and so we must translate it in such a way that it does make sense in English. Hence, "see you soon!" Instead of "Until soon".

14Give Lingot•2 years ago

Lees-Read 7 2

Grammar check: Many languages, not much.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Pomagranite 15 5 4 2

In Serbian and other Slavic languages, we say "zbogam" which also literally translates to "with god" :D

17Give Lingot•2 years ago

AntonShvyrkov 9 7 1

Spanish have the same phrase: "con dios", which translates as "good speed" (eng) or "zbogam" (ser).

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

Shamrook 13 3

I'm not really sure but I think it's Godspeed not 'good speed' :)

5Give Lingot1•1 year ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2

Al menos en latinoamerica no utlizamos esa frase y nunca he escuchado que un español la diga, "con dios" las personas mayores dicen ve con dios pero son ya muy pocas

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

belma332 7 6 4 4

you mean ZbogOm, :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Pomagranite 15 5 4 2

I speak with a southern Russian accent, and type the way I speak. It gets the best of me sometimes :P

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

TOL4 13 6 3

In Germany, especially in the south, people say "grüß gott" when they meet. Which also means "greetings to god"

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

mrswords 13 8 3 3 2

It is the same in Italian: you say "addio" (to god) to someone that you won't see for a lot of time, maybe nevermore.

9Give Lingot•3 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

mrswords- In French when we say ADIEU, most of the time it's forever.

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

Lees-Read 7 2

Adieu. In Spanish it is Adios. Different spellings, pronounced pretty much the same.

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

KelliDittr 5

Cool

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ozkroca 12 11 6 2

Here in Colombia, 'adiós', 'hasta luego', 'hasta pronto' and 'chao' are used interchangeably, the only difference is that 'hasta luego' is more formal.

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 17

The word "interchangeably" would be better to convey your meaning. "Instinctively" may be what you were trying to say, but simply means without conscious thought. "Indistinctively," is not a valid word.

3Give Lingot1•2 years ago

ozkroca 12 11 6 2

Thanks. I will correct it... I was misled by the assumption that the word was similar to the Spanish "indistintamente".

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 17

De nada. Tengo nivel 16 en Español y yo hablo como Tarzan. Pero cada día es poco mejor. Poco a poco.

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

ozkroca 12 11 6 2

hahahahaha como Tarzán... ¡esa estuvo buena!, pero si tú hablas español como Tarzán, yo hablo Inglés como Cheeta. Siempre trato de leer muchos textos en inglés y ver series en este idioma, pero no he encontrado espacios para practicar mis habilidades de conversación. Pero tienes razón, poco a poco se avanza. Si tienes alguna pregunta sobre el español, no dudes en escribirme, estaré feliz de solucionarla si mis conocimientos son suficientes para ello. Por cierto, la expresión correcta es 'cada día es un poco mejor'. Olvidaste el artículo 'un'.

9Give Lingot•2 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 17

Colombiano, bueno. Mi suegra es desde Bucaramanga. Su esposo es Venezolano y ellos viven en Caracas.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Lees-Read 7 2

Is it not ciao? Correct me if I'm wrong!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tkbnyc 6

I believe there is a space a dios when it means ro God

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

Debbie_Magdiel 3 2

Adios = goodbye, a Dios = to God ,

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ehsan_Mehmed 25 21 20 17 15 15 12 11 10 10 10 10 8 8 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 2 2 58

Adieu is catalanese, right?

4Give Lingot3•1 year ago

neiht20 15 6 5

I'm pretty sure it's French.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MSGamer87 5

I thought "Adieu" was basically, "good bye, until we meet again(/in heaven?)"

2Give Lingot•3 years ago

corhen 11

that would be closer to "Hasta luego" which is "Until Later" "adieu" is effectively "go with god"

1Give Lingot•3 years ago

13artie 4

a bientot and au revoir are excellent for short time goodbyes in French.

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

renfords

Well I don't know all of that, so I'll have to do some researching on it. Thanks for sharing

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

DiandreJon 4

Hey that doesn't sound too far off actually it makes sense to me. Does "Adieu" mean good bye ?

0Give Lingot•10 months ago

neiht20 15 6 5

Yes, but in French

-1Give Lingot•8 months ago

Roger_Burke 24 17

I think it is short for "go with the gods". In other words, go on your journey with the blessing and protection of the gods.

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

frankiielee1 5

Yy

-1Give Lingot•10 months ago

Ravage 5

In french adieu is like Farwell, ain't coming back

-2Give Lingot•3 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

ravage, Adieu is absolutely forever, when you know that you'll never meet again. I'm native from Quebec, Canada.

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

Minimorum 5 2

It is, literally, but no one uses it this way. Now it's a way of saying "See you" (I'm french)

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

ARTPOPER 9 9 6

Actually it means the opposite of "See you" (we use "À plus tard" or "Au revoir" for that). "Adieu" means that you may never see the person/thing ever again.

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

minimorum, I don't know where do you come from, everybody here in Quebec, uses it that way.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Minimorum 5 2

I'm from France. The literal meaning is indeed, that you may never see the person again. But here in France, it has become less profound in terms of "never again"...

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

RenaudFR75 7 7

I am from Paris, France, and i have never ever (!! ) heard "adieu" for "see you soon". It ALWAYS means that you will never see the person ever again, like our Quebec cousins are saying. Please make no mistake. "Adieu" is very "dramatic".

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

PaulHake1 8

Good-bye

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Terrakane 6 5

Dunno but interesting all the same

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

eittek 17 14 10

Same as in English :) I've heard Goodbye was once God be with ye

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2

No entendemos Adiós como "to gods" lo entendemos como una despedida, y en ocasiones se utiliza seguido de otra palabra como hasta luego, hasta pronto, hasta ahora, aunque últimamente y sobre todo en latinoamericano decimos bye

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

lazarushelsinki 16 8 8 7 2 2

It's a shortened version of the idiomatic phrase, "vaya con dios" or "go with God"

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

FireBreather7000 7 5

don't get it-please explain

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

dh0WG 2

I atchualy think your right

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

Percipient

I understand it to mean "Go With God" It is similar to the word Goodbye in English which evovled over time. The original phrase in English was "May God Be With Ye" which then became "God By Ye" and finally "Goodbye"

11Give Lingot•2 years ago

ldfreeman3 6

Wow, I did not know that, but the story checks out on both the Merriam-Webster and Oxford dictionary.

<http://english.stackexchange.com/questions/1505/what-is-the-origin-of-the-word-goodbye>

Thanks Percipient. I even learn something about my own language today!

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

yjoannah 9

I love Spanish

8Give Lingot•3 years ago

dh0WG 2

Me too

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

seench 10 2

My friend stops me from saying 'adios' and to say 'hasta pronto' (see you soon) instead. He says adios is too negative. So does it mean that it can't be told to friends casually?

4Give Lingot•3 years ago

duvet_154 5 5

Where I live (I'm bolivian), people usually say "chau" (which comes from the italian word "ciao") or "nos vemos" or "hasta luego", because "adios" is perceived to be like a more permanent good bye (like "adieu" in french) by SOME.

I personally say "adios" all the time, except for when I know I'll be seeing the person very, very soon, and I find it to be perfectly socially acceptable.

I remember being taught that "adios" vs. "hasta luego"/"nos vemos"/"chau" is similar to "goodbye" vs. "bye". The former is a bit more formal and/or it implies that you plan on seeing the other person soon (I don't know if this is correct, though).

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

NoahWebste 6 2

TO THOSE WHO WANT TO KNOW HOW TO SAY "WHAT ARE THOOOOOOS!?! " IN SWEDISH IT IS "VAN R DEEEEEEEE!?! " hehe LOOK HOW SMALL THE PERIOD LOOKS NEXT TO CAPS.OO. IF YOU PLAY INJUSTICE I HAVE MAX GOLD CARDS AND I DON'T CHEAT!!! IF YOU PLAY INJUSTICE GIMME A LINGOT!!! :)

4Give Lingot•1 year ago

DChafin72 2

It shouldn't be counted wrong if you say god with god which is the literal translation

3 Give Lingot • 3 years ago

HildebrandtTom

Why is there an accent mark over the "o"?

3 Give Lingot • 3 years ago

corhen 11

marks like that denote a subtle pronunciation of the letter. just like you can have differences in the word "moose" and "god", in Spanish this is represented by the diacritic marks.

I suggest you look it up on Wikipedia for more information!

2 Give Lingot • 3 years ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4

Better comparison is hat vs hate because the extra mark (the E) is the only difference

-1 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

ozkroca 12 11 6 2

Notice that when 'adiós', is pronounced with the last syllable stressed. The words that have the last syllable stressed are called 'agudas' (acute). Whenever an acute word ends with 's', 'n' or a vowel, you must put the written accent (known as 'tilde') over the vowel of that last syllable, so 'adiós'.

0 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4

Is tilde referring to all diacritic marks I thought a tilde was the ~ over ñ

3 Give Lingot • 1 year ago

Emzielaa 8 7

My understanding is that with the accent - 'adiós' - it is pronounced ah-dee-OHs, whereas without it you'd have to say ah-DEE-ohs. I was taught that words without any accent typically stressed the second last syllable of the word.

-2 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

You're right in that typically the stress falls on the penultimate syllable (when the words end in a vowel/n/s), which is why this needs the accent mark because the stress isn't on the 2nd to last syllable. However, I just wanted to mention that technically the stress would be "AH-dios" without the accent mark because the i and o create a diphthong, making it one syllable, even though we tend to separate the sound when we sometimes shouldn't.

6 Give Lingot • 2 years ago

Tinkerbenz 2

I'm confused about the i and o create a diphthong that you talking. TT

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

A diphthong is when a strong vowel and a weak vowel are next to each other, which causes them to blend together into one vowel instead of two separate vowels. For example "bailar", the "ai" blend as one "eye" sound (bai-lar) and not two separate sound (Ba-i-lar).

<http://spanish.about.com/od/writtenspanish/a/diphthongs.htm>

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

emziela- but only if the word finishes with S'N' or a vowel. You were right with the first part of your comment. When the stress goes somewhere else , than the regular rule, they put an accent.

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

Henryroos0302 4 2

What's the difference between ¡adiós! And just adiós??

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4

Exactly the same as "bye" vs "bye!"

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

minahakim 4

What is the difference between o and ó ,, and also between i and í in días ?

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

The accent mark over the vowel tells us which vowel to stress when saying a word, for example, the accent over the o in "adiós" tells us that it is pronounced "ah-dee-OS", not "AH-dee-os", or "ah-DEE-os". The accent mark over the i in "días" is to keep the i and the a from blending together and making "eah". By adding in the accent mark, stress is put on the i and the sound becomes "Dee-ah" instead "deah". Hope that makes sense!

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

vicki.kura 25 8

Except I would like to point out that it is not pronounced "ah-dee-os". It's more like "ah-thee-os". I learned this a few weeks ago from a Spanish professor. When "d" is surrounded by vowels it changes the pronunciation. I then asked a friend that is a Spanish teacher about it. She said it isn't quite "thee" (putting the tongue through the teeth) but more like putting the tongue against the teeth.

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

amez16 20 12 7 2

Doesn't that depend on what country you're in?

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

vicki.kura 25 8

No clue. I am hoping some native speakers will comment on this. :)

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

dh0WG 2

I have been trying to find a friend who is not mean who is nice so do you want to be my friend on this game

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

vicki.kura 25 8

Thank you. You can message me by clicking on my icon. That takes you to a message board and we can chat there.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

prestonp357 9

I am pretty sure that everyone in america knows this word. But I don't think they know the other goodbye phrases, like "Hasta luego" or "Hasta manana"

3Give Lingot20•2 years ago

sbchoi 8

ha level 6

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

amit.tadavi44 8

can't we just say bye, see you later... so can't we just use "see you" for Adiós?

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Debbie_Magdiel 3 2

We use "see You" for "nos vemos".

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

pretty56pretty65 8 7

They pronounce the letter "d" like a th instead of a d. Like this, ah-thee-ohs

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

5G-Ronit 6

sup guys

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

AhmedZaid1 6

They gave me it the first question so i got it wrong

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

mohsan0 3

Gracioßsxß

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

straight-boy-01 2

hi if im not mistaken um meat is carne in spanish right

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Waterknife 11 7

I'm certain goodbye can be written as a single word, rather than two.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Mltlanglv 8 2

So then Adios means Goodbye That is two words Good and Bye What if i only want to say just Bye instead of Goodbye by meaning ---i dont like to say Goodbye to anybody

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

[deactivated user]

No me acepta el chau, pero en árbol inverso si.

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

jordz99 2

dfjngdfdsfsfs

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

12095501 2

①↖

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

AlexaG313 6 2

1

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

GokuStimado 25 11 9 8 6 4 3 2 2 2 529

Good Bye

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Av85870 4

0-----€$€$€$€$€$€$| Hahahah!!! Get it!

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Alireza_am 6

What is the difference between o & ó in spanish?

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

<http://forum.wordreference.com/showthread.php?t=475289>

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

aedwardsgmms 3

byeEEEEEEE

1Give Lingot•9 months ago

chaudhary.hardik 10 2

why adios not iAdios!

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

Widemouth 6 2 2 1

Literal translation is go with God. Please add for a more accurate translation experience.

0Give Lingot1•3 years ago

mitaine56 15 6

widemouth- When we learn a new language, we know that we can't always make a literal translation.

7Give Lingot•2 years ago

kbkeele 11

haha just put that but got failed but its okay i know what they mean

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2

Nunca lo interpretamos como "go with god" JAMAS!!!!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

CoryWillia8 10 8 3

I thought "Vaya con dios" was Go with God

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MHallat 6 4

What does the "i" in "¡Adios!" represent? Why can't I leave it out?

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 17

It is not an "I." It is an upside down exclamation mark. Like question marks, you need to use exclamation marks in pairs. It is like opening and closing tags in HTML. And the answer to "Why" is because that is the way it is in Spanish. Either the pair of exclamation marks or no exclamation marks.

8Give Lingot•3 years ago

Percipient

Placing the question mark or exclamation at the beginning of a written phrase also is important because it tells a reader what type of intonation is contained in the phrase. Questions usually end with a rising intonation that falls off in volume, where exclamations usually end loudly and abruptly

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

corhen 11

my understanding as to "why" is for the same reason we do it to quotation marks. it sets you up when entering the sentence for the tone of voice, instead of only receiving that information at the end of the sentence.

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

AshlynBake1 3

I do not know?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

[+] 2 hidden comments

NC3129 11

I was told it meant "God be with you". Also good-bye should be as acceptable as good bye.

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

cearra.hill 6

Troo

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

glo-glo1 20 2

[deleted]

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

FatBiscut 7

well than spell it right kid

-2Give Lingot•3 years ago

Tinkerbenz 2
then Gramps

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

glo-glo1 20 2
really :)

0Give Lingot•3 years ago

Indrajit_Mondal 7
What is the meaning of "nos vemos" & "adeusãnfad"??? And what's the difference between them?????

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5
"Nos vemos" is something along the lines of "see you later!"/"we'll see each other again!".
<http://www.spanishdict.com/translate/nos%20vemos> I have no idea about the other word though.

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

cindy212 5
Does the "dio" in Spanish pronounce as "v" ???

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4
It's more like th - as in the, not as im think

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

kingofme 7
O thought Adios meant Goodbye

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Roger_Burke 24 17
It does, but that was originally expressed in Spain something like "Goodby, have a good trip, may the gods be with you." This got shortened to "go with the Gods" or "a dios" and finally "adios."

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

dh0WG 2
It does retard
0Give Lingot•1 year ago

bikejoy 6
How do you add the accent marks?

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

AlexAlexan254384 2 2
You are speak inglish

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Cocobree 3
falls out of chair when she sees she got it right and says : MOM I AM A CHAMPION!!!

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

Smiley_P 6 5
are there any keyboard shortcuts for the accent marks? its kind of inconvenient to click them every time

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

amez16 20 12 7 2
Maybe you could change your computer settings to use a Spanish keyboard, you'd then need to get used to where the accents are but once you're used to it, it makes things quicker 😊

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

BDoogan 3
I think that this app is awesome because if you learn spanish at school you can correct peoples spellings and you can know everything

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

magictrain 4
I don't think a misspelling of the word should lose all credit. Forgive me for not knowing how to spell words in a language I don't know.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

victoriapink300 6
Yup I respect that but it means bye

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

mohsan0 3
<pre> Fattt </pre>
0Give Lingot•2 years ago

bridget.farley 3
<h1>soboredatschool</h1>
0Give Lingot•2 years ago

eEoL1 3
Me gusta

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

gabriella_0725 2 2
I know the little tilda is hard.

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

tprinzy 3
I'm just learning Spanish!

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

poppystalk 10 7 6
what about accents? i dont get it

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

neiht20 15 6 5
<http://www.studyspanish.com/accent/>

<http://www.studyspanish.com/accent/rules.htm>

<http://users.ipfw.edu/jehle/courses/accent.htm>

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Srishekhar24 2
What is the spanish meaning of "bye and good bye" differentiate it?

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2
Both means "Adios"

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2
Cuando traducimos de nuestro idioma el español al ingles utilizamos Bye Y Goodbye indistintamente

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

levk5043 7 5
i dont think this is a big issue

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Joiedevivre777 15 12 9 8 8 2 239

It Is an issue when they don't accept a dictionary definition of a word:)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Joiedevivre777 15 12 9 8 8 2 239

They would not accept 'goodbye' for some reason

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

KimberlyPa950820 4

No

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

Kyara435731

1000th

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

amandaqd100 4

this sentence reminds me of happiness

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ROSSPOLDAR 2

Hi

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

ClaudiaDow2 5

How do i get the accent marks on my keyboard

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

camilotrevino 4

this one is easy

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

hannah695985 5

El pan el=the which is kinda related to adios as when u say el nino says adios U hear el to make that sentence and u can say adios on its own just like u can forget what ur saying and only say el...

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

paxgary 6

my translation was god bye - a typo. I left the typo as it was to acknowledge Dio meaning God :)

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

neiht20 15 6 5

Dios=God

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

eddytee
its neh a good question

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

GeorgiaHow5 6
Bye

0Give Lingot•12 months ago

LorenaDiaz37693 3
Hola

0Give Lingot•12 months ago

Cayla750158 4
Good learning source

0Give Lingot•11 months ago

Maddyc20 3
Got it right yay

0Give Lingot•11 months ago

CynthiaPasadeos 3
I have heard "adios" used as goodbye as well as hello/goodbye when passing someone you meet on the street.

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

spacedreamteam 12
Isn't "goodbye" spelled together (in English)?

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

louisaholl
It's hard to do Spanish.

-1Give Lingot•3 years ago

yjoannah 9
No its not

3Give Lingot•3 years ago

softball0699 6

Dge bc

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

BrandonWol1
give me a lingot

-1Give Lingot2•2 years ago

Cocobree 3
NOPE.EARN IT DUDE.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

NoahWebste 6 2
i give him lingots

3Give Lingot•1 year ago

Markus16duhh 2
That was wrong it sounded like ah vios

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

FUNGIRLFRIEND
You too "Zittlaly5" read what i said too "levk5043" all so dont"BET about nerds u guys r just B's

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Nikkibabe08 3
BYE

-1Give Lingot•2 years ago

byorke123
why did you say bye

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

MichaelTay18582
Because you just dont leave with out saying anything

2Give Lingot•1 year ago

spanishlearning 7 3
I said "see ya" and it said "incorrect" Seriously!

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Ungewitig_Wiht 24 12 4
Ya is not a word

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

spanishlearning 7 3
yeah - it means "you"

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

LINHARS 15 13 11 6 5 69

In my dictionary the English word is written goodbye in one word. In Duolingo it is two words.

( I don't have time to read all the 172 comments, sorry if someone has commented on this before.)

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

CGerardCon 8 3 2

Goodbye and Good bye means the same

0Give Lingot•1 year ago

CristianGu670951 12 6

we can to say "chao" .im from colombia bye

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Whitetiger159 5

It's just one word

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

CoryWillia8 10 8 3

The answer checker thing keeps telling me to "pay attention to the accents". Being new to Android I don't have the foggiest idea how to add an accent mark or an nyay(sp). Any insight here?

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Mltlanglv 8 2

It is not very much difficult to add accent marks. Suppose u type nina(without accent mark) instead of niña(with accent mark above n) then just replace it with the corrected one by simply press and hold the letter 'n' and then u see a new letter ( ñ ) just above the tip of yöur fingér. If u got your letter then lift ur finger Or if u see more than one letter on press+hold then dont lift ur finger, simply dräg your finger tø the desired letter, Android keyboard will automatically highlight the place where u have taken ur finger and then release it if u a have find the letter

I hope u got my point...

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Joiedevivre777 15 12 9 8 8 2 239

I don't understand this and Id like to be able to put accents too, in the other languages as well. Thanks if you could explain again a little differently.

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Xx_MusiC_xX 5

How would i add accent marks to words on my chromebook? Thanks

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

Kyara435731

Djtfhyguyuh

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

ArunikaK 10 5

Adiós means 'to god'. This says my answer is incorrect! How annoying.

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

RahulDas18 4

can we say 'good bye' as buenos adios ?

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

GabyCalvo1 22 21 19 18 16 10 8 4 365

No. It doesn't have sense in Spanish.

We say "Adiós" (Good Bye) or "Hasta luego" (See you later).

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

AshlynBake1 3

Think of adio and S. Adios!

-1Give Lingot•1 year ago

germagalindo0

a woman a man

-1Give Lingot•10 months ago

_. _Nish_. _ 6

What is the difference between "ó" and "o"?

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

smaayouf2 6 2

I don't know if i heard it right, but it seemed to me the "d" in "adiós" was pronounced like "th" in english! And in other words too like in "buenos días"... Am i mistaken

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

hjbbsbbbm 2
wankers

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

zengamereus 5
it is also on of the first words you learn in spanish

-1Give Lingot•9 months ago

Pratz100 5
How exactly is Adios pronounced ? Should the d be replaced by v ?

-1Give Lingot•8 months ago

VaiaSelena 4
Okay

-1Give Lingot•8 months ago

Manav883981 3 2
How does ò,ó,õ,ö differ anyways? ?

-1Give Lingot•8 months ago

JoelHarris12 4
A teacher of mine oncr told me that in past times in England, people use to say 'God be with ye' which eventually shortened to goodbye...

-1Give Lingot•8 months ago

JohnEMille 10 7 2
What does hasta la vista mean?

-1Give Lingot•7 months ago

dean.orour 8 7 6
What about "Despedida"?

-1Give Lingot•7 months ago

navasdon 6
How to spell it

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

flyavia
the11

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

mira_kami 2
Vuv

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

Jadiel0211 15
So easy

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

kethakarthik 6
What is meant by nada and gusto

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5
Gusto=pleasure/taste

<http://www.wordreference.com/es/en/translation.asp?spe=gusto>

Nada=nothing

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

MercedesPi11 3
I dont know how to add the accents.

-2Give Lingot•2 years ago

VvkKol 8 3
Then what is "hasta la vista"

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

ryleekat 4
Chao

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

pedrojoaosantos 2
Goodbye is a valid translation, as opposed to 'good bye'...

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

Kyara435731
Pisxqwwgef

-2Give Lingot•1 year ago

ankitagarwal0 3
y not Buenas/Buenos Adios since it translates to "good bye"?

-3Give Lingot•2 years ago

neiht20 15 6 5

Because that's a word for word translation that isn't correct in Spanish. "Adiós" alone means "bye/goodbye" there's no need to add in the "bueno/buena".

<http://www.wordreference.com/es/en/translation.asp?spen=Adios>

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

KrystalEva2 2

Krystal I like your idea because than everybody can learn more about spanish so they can do some on the compouter and on there tablet , so I your idea . Also your coment is true because it isn't right

-1Give Lingot•10 months ago

Roger_Burke 24 17

You have mixed up some words and phrases. It is "buenos dias" never "buenas dias." "Dias" is "days." It is masculine in spite of the "a" ending (its irregular). "Buenos dias" is the Spanish equivalent of "good day." "Adios" is NEVER used with buenas or buenos, because "adios" is literally "go with god" or "go to god" and is equivalent to goodbye only if you know the archaic form "god be with ye." Yes, it is confusing.

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

744 How do I create a classroom?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000036686-How-do-I-create-a-classroom->

To start using Duolingo for Schools, you'll need a Duolingo account. If you were already using Duolingo, you can use the same login information when accessing Duolingo for Schools. If not, you can create an account quickly by providing your email and creating a password. We suggest you use Chrome, but Duolingo also supports IE (version 9 and above), Safari (version 5 and above), and Firefox.

To create your first classroom, go to schools.duolingo.com, log in, and click on "Create classroom" on the top right. From there, follow the instructions to add students. If you need help adding students to your new group, check out the step-by-step instructions in "How do I add students to my classroom?"

745 "Å brake" vs. "å bråke"

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19371470>

the.sheepster 10 9 2 2 2

Hei igjen,

in my German-Norwegian dictionary there are two words which confuse me a bit.

"Å brake" and "å bråke" both are translate as something like "make noise".

But the translations of "brake" and "bråke" do not match.

brake = krachen, Lärm machen = to bang, to make noise

bråke = Krach machen, laut sein, streiten = to make noise, to be loud, to argue

So overall it appears that "å brake" tends to refer to things being loud, while "å bråke" refers more to people making noise.

Looking at ordbok.uib.no just confused me more, so maybe someone here can help ;-)

Are the two words interchangeable in norwegian or should I differentiate in some way?

Mange takk på forhånd for svarene deres!

Give Lingot
33 months ago

Leave a new comment
3 Comments

fveldig 14 13 13 12 11 8 5 4 206

You'll usually get away with just using 'bråke'. "Du bråker." ≈ "You are making too much noise."

'brake' is used in a few expressions, for instance "Nå braker det snart løs" ≈ "Things are about to get started" or "Det buldrer og braker" ≈ "There is a lot of low pitched (deafening) noise".

3ReplyGive Lingot1•3 months ago

the.sheepster 10 9 2 2 2

Thank you, this helps a lot. So for the time being I will ignore "brake" but make a note that it can appear in some fixed expressions.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Mandiras 13 12 11 9 7 6 4 2 2 2 2 2

Brake comes from the noun et brak which is a (somewhat) specific kind of loud noise.

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

746 era

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Spanish/era-ser-verb%3A+to+be-imperfect+indicative+tense-first+person-singular/539d82b86bec1d09deea95e488774828>

ENGLISH

(I/he/she/it/you) was/were, (I/he/she/it/you) was/were being, (I/he/she/it/you) used to be

Example sentences

| WORD | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|---------|-------------|
|------|---------|-------------|

|     |                                    |                                          |
|-----|------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| soy | No, no soy el capitán, soy el rey. | No, I am not the captain, I am the king. |
|-----|------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|

|      |                                           |                                |
|------|-------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| eres | Eres tan dulce que me duelen los dientes. | You're so sweet my teeth hurt. |
|------|-------------------------------------------|--------------------------------|

|    |                                                 |                                                        |
|----|-------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------|
| es | Un tío es el hermano de tu padre o de tu madre. | An uncle is the brother of your father or your mother. |
|----|-------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------|

|       |                                  |                                 |
|-------|----------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| somos | Somos distintos cuando dormimos. | We are different when we sleep. |
|-------|----------------------------------|---------------------------------|

|     |                                             |                                               |
|-----|---------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
| son | Sofía quiere los zapatos porque son negros. | Sofía wants the shoes because they are black. |
|-----|---------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|

|     |                                 |                              |
|-----|---------------------------------|------------------------------|
| sea | Ellos quieren que yo sea padre. | They want me to be a father. |
|-----|---------------------------------|------------------------------|

|      |                             |                              |
|------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|
| seas | Quiero que seas mi maestro. | I want you to be my teacher. |
|------|-----------------------------|------------------------------|

sea No quiero que el niño sea estudiante. I do not want the boy to be a student.
 sean Nosotros hemos permitido que ellos sean amigos. We have allowed them to be friends.
 fui Yo no fui un maestro. I was not a teacher.
 fuera Si yo fuera rico, tendría muchos coches y casas. If I were rich, I would have a lot of cars and houses.
 era Cuando yo era maestro tenía muchos estudiantes. When I was a teacher I used to have a lot of students.
 fuiste ¿Fuiste la maestra de mi hermano? Were you my brother's teacher?
 fueras No pensé que tú fueras más inteligente que yo. I did not think that you were smarter than me.
 eras Yo pensé que eras mi amigo. I thought you were my friend.
 fuera Me gustaría ese coche si fuera rojo. I would like that car if it were red.
 fue El bebé fue pequeño. The baby used to be small.
 era Yo no bebía café cuando era niño. I did not use to drink coffee when I was a child.
 éramos Cuando éramos niños, veíamos el mar desde la playa. When we were boys, we used to watch the sea from the beach.
 fuimos Ella y yo fuimos amigos. She and I were friends.
 fueron Mis hermanos no fueron amigos de él. My brothers were not friends of his.
 eran Los niños que estaban comiendo en el restaurante eran mis amigos. The boys that were eating in the restaurant were my friends.
 sido Mi hijo siempre ha sido muy independiente. My son has always been very independent.
 sería No sería necesario. It would not be necessary.
 seré Hoy soy un niño, pero mañana seré un hombre. Today I am a boy, but tomorrow I will be a man.
 serías ¿Serías mi amigo? Would you be my friend?
 serás Tú siempre serás un buen amigo. You will always be a good friend.
 sería Ella sería mi amiga. She would be my friend.
 será Tendré una casa vieja pero será bonita. I will have an old house but it will be beautiful.
 ser Va a ser una noche para recordar. It is going to be a night to remember.
 seremos Mis hermanos y yo seremos doctores. My brothers and I will be doctors.
 serían Ellas serían mis amigas. They would be my friends.
 serán Mi tío y mi tía serán tus amigos. My uncle and my aunt will be your friends.
 ser conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON            | PRESENT | PAST     | FUTURE  |
|-------------------|---------|----------|---------|
| yo soy            | fui     | seré     |         |
| tú eres           | fuiste  | serás    |         |
| él/ella/usted     | es      | fue      | será    |
| nosotros/nosotras | somos   | fuimos   | seremos |
| vosotros/vosotras | sois    | fuisteis | seréis  |
| ustedes son       | fueron  | serán    |         |
| ellos/ellas       | son     | fueron   | serán   |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "era":

49 comments Cuando era niño yo tenía dos tijeras rojas.

29 comments Cuando yo era maestro tenía muchos estudiantes.

26 commentsYo nunca te veía cuando yo era niña.
 20 commentsUsted supo quién era yo.
 15 commentsCuando era niño, mis amigos no tenían un coche.

747 quisesse

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Portuguese/quisesse-querer-verb-imperative+subjunctive+tense-first+person-singular/1f4c0f78191f1fd82d1690f14fe9b17c>

ENGLISH

wanted, (I/he/she/it/you) want

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

quero Eu não quero levar a culpa por algo que não fiz. I do not want to get the blame for something I did not do.
 quer A empresa quer esperar a greve para dar uma resposta aos trabalhadores. The company wants to wait for the strike to give an answer to workers.
 queremos Neste ponto, nós queremos escrever outra definição. At this point we want to write another definition.
 querem Meus amigos estão dizendo que não querem comer naquele restaurante. My friends are saying that they do not want to eat at that restaurant.
 quis Eu sempre quis aprender português. I always wanted to learn Portuguese.
 queria Eu queria ser atriz. I used to want to be an actress.
 quisesse Eu pensei que você quisesse ir para a sacada. I thought you wanted to go to the balcony.
 quis Ele sempre quis estudar inglês. He always wanted to study English.
 queria Minha irmã queria comer na minha sala. My sister wanted to eat in my living room.
 queriam As crianças queriam andar na rua. The children wanted to walk on the street.
 quero Eu quero um sanduíche de queijo e um copo de água. I want a cheese sandwich and a glass of water.
 quer Eu estou fazendo uma campanha de doação de órgãos! Você não quer doar seu coração pra mim não? I am running an organ donation campaign! Don't you want to donate your heart to me?
 queremos Ele e eu queremos uma cerveja. He and I want a beer.
 querem Os meninos querem banana. The boys want bananas.
 queira Mesmo que eu queira, eu não consigo ver nada positivo. Even though I want to, I cannot see anything positive.
 queira Eles esperam que o bebê queira leite. They hope that the baby wants milk.
 quisesse Eu poderia pedir tudo o que eu quisesse. I could ask for everything that I wanted.
 queria Eu queria mais dinheiro. I used to want more money.
 queria Você queria mais alguma coisa? Did you want anything else?
 quereria Eu não quereria aquilo para meus filhos. I would not want that for my children.
 quererei Esse é o único trabalho que quererei. That is the only job I will want.
 quererá Ele quererá depois. He will want it later.
 querer Ela vai querer outra saia. She is going to want another skirt.
 querendo Eles estão querendo nos ajudar. They want to help us.
 querer conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON          | PRESENT  | PAST      | FUTURE     |
|-----------------|----------|-----------|------------|
| eu              | quero    | quis      | quererei   |
| tu              | queres   | quiseste  | quererás   |
| ele/ela/você    | quer     | quis      | quererá    |
| nós             | queremos | quisemos  | quereremos |
| vós             | quereis  | quisestes | querereis  |
| eles/elas/vocês | querem   | quiseram  | quererão   |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "quisesse":

12 commentsMesmo que eu quisesse, eu não poderia fazer aquilo.

12 commentsSe você quisesse , eu ficaria contigo.

7 commentsSe eu quisesse aquele carro.

33 commentsEu não quero ir se você não for comigo.

32 commentsEu quero você.

748 Danish banter in Rogue One interview

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/19813940>

volumniac 25 25 22 22 17 15 14 14 10 8 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 2 2 896

I can't stop snickering over this little interview with Mads Mikkelsen and Ben Mendelsohn for Danish tv. Mads is... less than impressed with Ben's attempt at speaking a bit of Danish.

<http://underholdning.tv2.dk/2016-12-18-hej-tak-mads-mikkelsens-danske-tager-fokus-i-star-wars-interview>

Give Lingot

53 months ago

Leave a new comment

6 Comments

Jonas_Soe 16 6

Hej. Tak.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

volumniac 25 25 22 22 17 15 14 14 10 8 7 6 6 5 5 4 3 2 2 896

Hey (Hej!), we all need to start with the basics ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Jonas_Soe 16 6

Whoah, looks like you've started with quite a few basics yourself :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

MySecrecy 15 12 10 9 8 7 7 6 5 4 3 3 3 2 2 2 104

That made my day. Thank you so much for sharing !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

haveialigned 19

I'd love to know what Mads is referring to when he says he has no idea what Ben is saying when he speaks Danish. Sounds like there's a story there, beyond what we hear in the interview.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

volumniax 25 25 22 22 17 15 14 14 10 8 7 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 2 2 896

Right? There's clearly some background!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

749 "Alguien está en la puerta."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/1395146>

Translation: Someone is at the door.

13 years ago

Leave a new comment

53 Comments

bpmircea 24 19 11 6 927

"somebody is at the door" es correcta tambien

:ok

30ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ivanobregon 11 8

Es correcto colega! ;)

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

joseroland19 13

Someone=somebody

12ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

EJGD93 17 9 6

¿Cual es la diferencia entre somebody y someone?

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

carlo697 16 6 15

Son lo mismo, pero someone es mas formal.

18ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

Talca 25 13

No hay diferencia.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

majocalle 10

Anybody se usa para preguntas. O. K.

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Arana8766 9

Porque se pone "at the door" en vez de "in the door".. Es mas formal at ??

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

alexisivan1x3 9

Porque "at the door" indica una ubicacion. En cambio, no puede ser "in" porque no esta "dentro" de la puerta. Por eso si puede decir en la casa (dentro de la casa)

20ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

OshiroLuhing 15 13 6 3 2 2

<http://www.saberespractico.com/estudios/idiomas-estudios/reglas-para-diferenciar-in-on-y-at-en-ingles/>

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JosimarVelis25 9

Yo puse "somebody is in the door" y me lo tomo como bueno esta bien asi?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MartinGuzm17 16 2

Yo también puse lo mismo que tu y me la dio buena pero com otra solución

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

jamardu1981 12

Es correcta tambien

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MargaritaC984447 13 2

Siii

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

anitamichel 9 6

si fuera: someone is behind you..... creería que es una peli de terror

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

marguerrero661 9

Is the same if u make a question

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

OshiroLuhing 15 13 6 3 2 2

Si alguien necesita ayuda para el AT : <http://www.saberespractico.com/estudios/idiomas-estudios/reglas-para-diferenciar-in-on-y-at-en-ingles/>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ezeves 11 5

Es correcto también: "Alguien está tras la puerta" pero me da error. Esta traducción debería también ser válida.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MarlenyChe 9

Puse "anyone is in the door" y esta mal

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Alexis_Jorge 14 5 4

a mi tambien me la califico incorrecta por que puse anybody ;(

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

antoniograjerap 24 3

A mi tambien me corrigio al poner somebody, Alguien me aclara esto?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

yolferherrera 8

Cual es la diferencia entre anyone y someone respecto a mi respuesta fue anyone is at the door y me calificaron incorrecra

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Tinzito 12 5

anyone se usa en las preguntas

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

aaronreyes15 11

Cual es la diferencia entre someone y nobody

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Tinzito 12 5

someone=alguno. nobody=nadie

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

isabelgdec 14

PORQUE NO SE PUEDE ANYBODY???

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

lbetteCorrea 15 8 7

in or at ??? someone at the door someone in the door son correctas ambas

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

elgama777 25 11 10 8 6 6 5 4 2 87

someone is at the gate por que no lo acepta ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ottocangas 15

cual es la diferencia entre anybody y somebody

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Ottocangas 15

porque no puede ser anybody is at the door?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

leoncas15 8

Claro qe es correcta..... grgrge

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

AlfredoBen126965 8 8

Yo coloqué someone is at the door y no me la acepto.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Fili169645 10

por que no se usa , is

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

frenesk 12

Porque no funciona anything o anybody?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

PedroMartn786191 14 4

Considero que también debe valer: "Someone is at door"

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

LuisEnriqu230885 10

Uso del in y at?

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

regumiel2 17 70

anybody is at the door ,¿ es correcta tambien?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

Montcaro 14

He puesto gate en vez de door y me lo da incorrecto ??

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

PacoMolina10 21 136

anyone también significa alguien

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 days ago

holamily2000 17

Anybody por que no!

-4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ALeZG 18 11 7 22

"Anybody/Anyone" equivale a "Alguien" pero en una pregunta y equivale a "Nadie" en una negación, en una afirmación debes usar "Somebody/Someone"

44ReplyGive Lingot5•2 years ago

BlackSkull

Thabk you very much. You saved my as... XD

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Lcurso 23 54

Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Isantoli2013 14 10

Thank you so much.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RosirisLopez 13

THANKS

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Franciscopitre 21 2 456

eso eso

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MercadesCa 13 11

CUAL ES EL SIGNIFICADO DE ANYBODY?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

750 "Elle est parfaite. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/498068>

Translation: She is perfect.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

32 Comments

Rytilu 6 3

:)

48ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

AstroTheNomer 11 10 7 7 7 4 3 39

I disagree. Nobody's perfect

22ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RaviOnline 20 9 9 804

Il est en l'amour.

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CalebHu 15 3 2 1

She is a nobody. Nobody is perfect THEREFORE she is perfect. (according to your logic)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

eduardocoloda 15 13 9 9 6 4 1

What's perfect?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

haisong.hou 9

Where is 'Je suis parfait'?

14ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

girly43 18 8

LOL

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

kabyrox169 7

when do we use 'parfaite' and 'parfait'? whats the difference?

6ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

StfanieEng 12 8 7 3

'Parfaite' is the feminine form of 'parfait' - so you would use it for feminine nouns :)

14ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

udhay.vasse 5 5

Parfaite for feminine and parfait for masculine

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GenelleCon 9 6 3

I am really struggling to Hear the words in French. I hope that makes sense. I listen to music in French by native speakers to try to train my ears but it's not enough. If you understand and know of anything that can help with this I'd appreciate it if you left a comment.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Lai1 9

I'm struggling with the same thing and I've found watching French films or having French TV on in the background to hear more general conversation helps quite a bit. I listen to French music as well but it's not quite the same as regular conversations. Perhaps films and TV will help too.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

XenaXIII 6

I learned in some random site that 'elle est' or 'il est' should just be "c'est" in French. I'm not really great at French so if I'm wrong, please tell me

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

managerx 25 14 6 6 5

Yes, one example: "C'est une femme parfaite."

MORE: <http://french.about.com/library/weekly/aa032500.htm>

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

XenaXIII 6

Thank you :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CalebHu 15 3 2 1

and obviously hated

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

daniel.w 14 11 6 4
elle = she, it?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aiolini 10 7 5 4
=she

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AstroTheNomer 11 10 7 7 7 4 3 39
and it

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

super_moi 20 18 18 14 12 6
"she" for a girl, "it" when it is an object that happens to be feminine in French: Cette table, elle est parfaite = This table, it is perfect.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AstroTheNomer 11 10 7 7 7 4 3 39
yeah

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

aimieanarchist 7 3
Both

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

shenhou1023 9 8 2
good!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Faith.Worth 10 3
Then you should propose to her... ;)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

RichardTooher 7
Hannah Montana disagrees

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

girly43 18 8
cuz girl you're perfect...

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ZenoMaximus 13

In your eyes

0ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

ThreeArcWave 13 54

You literally just said nobody is perfect, so does that mean she is nobody?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

thatbadwolfgirl 8 7 4

Hey... I thought I was perfect. :-/

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

751 pantalon

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/French/pantalon-noun-masculine-singular/68e0337a0dec2124b52a1ce34a9ba863>

ENGLISH

pants, trousers, a/one pair of pants

Example sentences

| WORD      | NUMBER   | GENDER    | EXAMPLE                    | TRANSLATION                  |
|-----------|----------|-----------|----------------------------|------------------------------|
| pantalon  | singular | masculine | Le pantalon, les pantalons | The pair of pants, the pants |
| pantalons | plural   | masculine | Le pantalon, les pantalons | The pair of pants, the pants |

Discussions with the word "pantalon":

94 commentsLe pantalon est noir.

45 commentsIl a un pantalon rouge.

42 commentsLe pantalon, les pantalons

24 commentsUn pantalon, des pantalons

752 "Je veux ton avis. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/2109758>

Translation: I want your opinion.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment

24 Comments

jdgamble555 25 25 18 8 6 3 2 81

I want your advice? (not accepted)

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Spirus123 13 7 7 6 4

Yes

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BethDuffus1 17 16

'advice' is in the drop down box. I have reported it.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

erinda17 16 10

same :/

2ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

CrazyEddie 25 6 43

I would have thought view would have worked as well

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

ketoacidosis 25 25 15 13 9 6 4 1413

"Avis" is Latin for "bird," so I remember that opinions and thoughts fly by like birds.

16ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

mexicangordz 19 11

is there a difference between "avis" and "conseil"?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Transitioning 23 10

For those who want to know more about the difference between avis and opinion:

<http://forum.wordreference.com/showthread.php?t=392563>

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

sephetteplace 19

I wrote "perspective" instead of "opinion." It seems more synonymous with "viewpoint". But it was incorrect. Am i missing a nuance of meaning here?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

cadilhac 20 9

It may only be idiomatic, but Duo's translation really is the one I'd go with. Note that we have the French point de vue for viewpoint.

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

shemp 25 25 22 12

Any advice for when we should use opinion vs. avis?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cadilhac 20 9

Sure: une opinion is a point on view on something, un avis is an advice as of what to do. An old meaning of avis is notice, which can be found nowadays in expressions such as avis de passage, that you'd receive from Fedex if you're not home. Cheers!

25ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

shemp 25 25 22 12
Merci pour ton "avis"...

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Gori16 24
Hi, could you please also elaborate on how "avis" is different from "conseil" in this case? Thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

cadilhac 20 9
A conseil is directed toward someone, while un avis is an advice voiced in general. This is why it is often synonym with opinion: think of your political opinion, you may want to voice it as an advice
Mon avis, c'est que Sarkozy n'a rien fait de bon.; Ah? Moi je n'ai pas d'avis là-dessus (in both cases, avis can be replaced by opinion).

Je te donne un conseil: quand j'aurai besoin de ton avis, je te sonnerai, d'ici là, la ferme., I give you a piece of advice: when I'll need your opinion, I'll ring you; until then, shut up.

Also, relate this to the word aviser, to give an advice.

17Give Lingot2•1 year ago

Thalass 17 9
"I would like your opinion" has the same meaning. Though it's not specifically what they want, so fair enough that I got it wrong.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

n6zs 25 872
It's the difference between "I want" (Je veux) and "I would like" (Je voudrais).

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

angomb 15
Just now DL had used "leur avis" for "their viewpoint". Then why is avis wrong in this case?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EmperorTheo 19 3
Said no SJW ever.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

hidetouk 22 19 19 18 15 13 8 620

ton avis?? ou ton amie ??? v/m

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JugderGurr 12 2 2

I need your advice. Or i want to listen to your opinion. That'd be rite.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

RobertPick9 25 23 13 77

What is the plural of "avis"?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Msr_Triste64 24 13 205

I want your advice rejeté pour quoi mes amie(s)?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

croonprince 16

Yes, clearly advice should be an option for this.

0ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

753 Atmosphäre

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/German/Atmosph%C3%A4re-atmosph%C3%A4re-noun-feminine-singular-dative/1fe9e814dc72c4928f35a8a6d1919cfe>

ENGLISH

atmosphere, feel, felt

Example sentences

| WORD       | NUMBER   | GENDER   | CASE       | EXAMPLE                                | TRANSLATION                       |
|------------|----------|----------|------------|----------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| Atmosphäre | singular | feminine | nominative | Das ist nicht die richtige Atmosphäre. | This is not the right atmosphere. |
| Atmosphäre | singular | feminine | accusative | Ich mag die Atmosphäre.                | I like the atmosphere.            |
| Atmosphäre | singular | feminine | dative     | Das Gas ist in der Atmosphäre.         | The gas is in the atmosphere.     |

Discussions with the word "Atmosphäre":

13 commentsDas Gas ist in der Atmosphäre.

29 commentsIch mag die Atmosphäre.

12 commentsDie Atmosphäre ist toll.

1 commentDas ist nicht die richtige Atmosphäre.

0 commentsDie Atmosphäre

754 How do I delete a classroom?

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000539186-How-do-I-delete-a-classroom->

If you need to delete a classroom from your Duolingo for Schools dashboard, simply go to the classroom settings and select "Delete this classroom."

Step by step:

On schools.duolingo.com, from your dashboard, select the gear icon on the classroom you want to delete.

Select "classroom settings"

Classroom settings from the drop-down menu

Select "Delete this classroom"

Select delete classroom

Confirm by selecting "Delete". Warning: this will permanently delete that classroom!

Confirm delete

755 ingegnere

https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Italian/ingegnere-noun-masculine\_feminine-singular/7a59f6ce081db80861ff59d39ebf09ef

ENGLISH

engineer

Example sentences

| WORD | NUMBER | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|--------|---------|-------------|
|------|--------|---------|-------------|

|           |          |                                      |                                        |
|-----------|----------|--------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| ingegnere | singular | Lui è l'ingegnere, lei l'architetto. | He is the engineer, she the architect. |
|-----------|----------|--------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|

|           |        |                                  |                                |
|-----------|--------|----------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| ingegneri | plural | Gli ingegneri sanno la risposta. | The engineers know the answer. |
|-----------|--------|----------------------------------|--------------------------------|

Discussions with the word "ingegnere":

48 comments Lui è l'ingegnere, lei l'architetto.

26 comments Tu lavori come ingegnere?

12 comments Cosa dice l'ingegnere?

26 comments Gli ingegneri sanno la risposta.

18 comments Gli ingegneri lavorano con noi.

756 camina

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Spanish/camina-caminar-verb-present+indicative+tense-third+person-singular/bbb6ae42278769195a93b4458abc77a1>

ENGLISH

walks, (he/she/it) walks, walk!

Example sentences

| WORD | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|---------|-------------|
|------|---------|-------------|

|        |                                     |                              |
|--------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| camino | Yo camino, tú caminas, ella camina. | I walk, you walk, she walks. |
|--------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------|

|         |                                     |                              |
|---------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------|
| caminas | Yo camino, tú caminas, ella camina. | I walk, you walk, she walks. |
|---------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------|

camina El caballo corre, el oso camina, el pato nada. The horse runs, the bear walks, the duck swims.

caminamos Nosotras caminamos, ustedes caminan, ellas caminan. We walk, you walk, they walk.

caminan El pato nada, los perros caminan. The duck swims, the dogs walk.

caminaba Cuando era niña, yo caminaba por tu casa. When I was a girl, I used to walk by your house.

caminabas Siempre caminabas en el mismo lugar. You always used to walk in the same place.

caminaba Mi padre caminaba con mi madre. My father used to walk with my mother.

caminábamos Cuando nosotros caminábamos en esa playa, veíamos el mar. When we walked on that beach, we used to watch the sea.

caminaban Mi tío y mi tía caminaban en esa calle todos los martes. My uncle and my aunt used to walk on that street every Tuesday.

caminado Yo he caminado todos los días a tu casa. I have walked every day to your house.

caminar Hoy ustedes van a caminar más que ayer. Today you all are going to walk more than yesterday.

caminando Estoy caminando porque no tengo coche. I am walking because I do not have a car.

caminar conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON            | PRESENT   | PAST        | FUTURE      |
|-------------------|-----------|-------------|-------------|
| yo                | camino    | caminé      | caminaré    |
| tú                | caminas   | caminaste   | caminarás   |
| él/ella/usted     | camina    | caminó      | caminará    |
| nosotros/nosotras | caminamos |             | caminaremos |
| vosotros/vosotras | camináis  | caminasteis | caminaréis  |
| ustedes           | caminan   | caminaron   | caminarán   |
| ellos/ellas       | caminan   | caminaron   | caminarán   |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "camina":

16 comments El caballo corre, el oso camina, el pato nada.

15 comments La araña corre, el cangrejo camina.

11 comments Mi pato sí camina.

11 comments El gato camina, el perro nada.

10 comments Mi papá nada, tu mamá camina.

757 "Hast du morgen Zeit? "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/531226>

Translation: Do you have time tomorrow?

13 years ago

Leave a new comment

47 Comments

smudgeon 15

Lesson number one in German: pay attention to the capitals!

91ReplyGive Lingot1•3 years ago

Wicked_Starfish 19 7 3 2

I know I'm not the only one learning that lesson the heart-losing way...

29ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

smudgeon 15

It's a hard thing to get used to if you're used to speaking/writing English, but I also know many German speakers who tend to go overboard with capitals when writing in English :)

27ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LeoNardoGilberto 11 9

How Would Jaden Smith Handle Learning German?

9ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

NibblyBits 16

Ha HA

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

EU-Leader 12

you are lucky! when i am writing, i have to keep in mind everytime which language i am writing, because i am from another country.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Boseous 15 7 3

Heh, there are plenty of native English writers who do the same thing, my friend.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

BassantGhonim 10 6

Thanks for this note

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Reignman 19

So "morgen" can mean both "morning" and "tomorrow"? Do we just tell by context which one it is?

25ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

[deactivated user]

der Morgen = morning

morgen = tomorrow

148ReplyGive Lingot2•3 years ago

generalzyq 10

So when 'morgen' means 'tomorrow' it has no gender?

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlsEenPoffertje 18 17 15 14 14 13 6 5 3 3

Yep. When it means tomorrow it serves as an adverb, so it doesn't have a gender.

48ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Reignman 19

Ah I see- thanks!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

terdec 25 4 2

but guten morgen is not good tomorrow

13ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

Sleeping-Sun 20 4

I've heard that guten mogen is short for "Sie haben einen guten morgen"

18ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AlsEenPoffertje 18 17 15 14 14 13 6 5 3 3

That would explain the "en" ending on gut. I always wondered about that.

19Give Lingot•2 years ago

XoooOverdose 18

Guten Morgen is good morning

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

rpg565 4 2

Small difference, I think it would mean that literally, but because Morgen is a noun, the sentence would be guten Morgen; Good morning.

8ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BlairScots 21 6 4 4 3 3 3 2 14

Thanks for the clarification!

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

BassantGhonim 10 6

I didn't know this note till i read your comment, cbjj

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Manny4us 13 3 2

Why is "zeit" last in the sentence?

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlsEenPoffertje 18 17 15 14 14 13 6 5 3 3

"Zeit" actually has to go last in the sentence. This is because in German, if an adverb does not go before the verb, it follows directly after (unless there is a pronoun after the verb... then it follows the pronoun). In this case "morgen" is the adverb, and "Zeit" is not a pronoun, so "morgen" goes right after the verb, making it, "Hast du morgen Zeit?"

Hope that helped you all!

37ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

notstarboard 17

How is morgen an adverb here? It's not modifying a verb as far as I can tell.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JackBond 18 9 5 5 4

It describes when the action "having" takes place.

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Harsha-varadhan 11

Can it be "Hast du zeit morgen?" anyone please explain

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sherifalaa55 14

German is really hard but its too late to go back now

8ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

c3230 25 10 9 6 6 4 4 2 2 2 2 2

Same question.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

swes88 18 8 5 3 2

Same question. I presume it has something to do with the fact that Zeit is a noun and morgen is not (it's an adverb?). Would be good to have it clarified..

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bklasic 12 4

DieDeutscheMan clarified above on why "Zeit" is last in the sentence: "Zeit" actually has to go last in the sentence. This is because in German, if an adverb does not go before the verb, it follows directly after (unless there is a pronoun after the verb... then it follows the pronoun). In this case "morgen" is the adverb, and "Zeit" is not a pronoun, so "morgen" goes right after the verb, making it, "Hast du morgen Zeit?"

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bob690 25 879

OK, you and DieDeutscheMan hav clearly articulated a useful rule. Thanks for that. My problem is that it seems to contradict other rules that I have noted on sentence structure, specifically those for a simple declarative sentence: [slot 1 = subject] [slot 2 = finite, inflected verb] [slot 3 = object of the verb (phrase)] [slot 4 = adverbial modifiers (in order by time, why, manner or how, place)] [slot 6 = verb complement].

Now by this rule "Zeit" would appear to be the direct object and would go in slot 3 before the adverb modifiers.

Can you help me reconcile this difference?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sakthidaran 12

I was also trying to rationalize the rules. Rule-1, Rule-2, Exception-1, Rule-3, Rule-4, Exception-2 ....

Now, I treat "Duolingo" my mother. She is always perfect. I take each sentence as a "word" and try to learn. If I am not wrong, that is how children learn their mother tongue!

Learning mother tongue is never a problem till the age of three. At school, even that mother tongue is a problem to learn. It is all the more crazy learning a second or third language by comparing it with the known language.

Enjoy learning.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Jasmina_S 16 5 3 2

How do I say: Tomorrow morning ?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

metliq 14 2

Morgen morgen would sound really weird, so I assume Morgen früh

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Renoized 12 7 4 4 2

Why not "Do you have time in the morning?" Is this because it could mean in the afternoon as well?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zzzzz... 25 25 25 24 23 19 16 15 12 2 913

Tomorrow = morgen

In the morning = am Morgen

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

metliq 14 2

It is because of the capital that the morgen does not have, which means tomorrow, not morning. I failed on it as well same way :(

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JackBond 18 9 5 5 4

I always learned that the common word order was subject, verb, indirect obj, direct obj, time, manner, place.

In which case it would be "Zeit morgen".

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

NibblyBits 16

" "Zeit" actually has to go last in the sentence. This is because in German, if an adverb does not go before the verb, it follows directly after (unless there is a pronoun after the verb... then it follows the pronoun). In this case "morgen" is the adverb, and "Zeit" is not a pronoun, so "morgen" goes right after the verb, making it, "Hast du morgen Zeit?" "

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JackBond 18 9 5 5 4

So if you had a sentence like "Do you have time tomorrow with your friends at school?"

Would it be "Hast du morgen mit deiner Freunden in der Schule Zeit?"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Chessdragonboge 13 6

what is wrong with "Tommorrow do you have time?"

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kmramna 24

It marked me wrong. I am wondering why.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TobyBartels 11 10 9 9 9 8 7 7 7 6 6 5 5 2

The word order is slightly unusual in English, so they probably just didn't think of it, but they'll probably accept it if you report it.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

A.S.Beg 20 601

It should be "do you have time for tomorrow"

SLohr 6 3

Quem pode se inscrever na incubadora?!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KCarw 25 21 10 9 4 4 2

Olá, Bruno. Sou usuário do Duo há pouco mais de um ano, e percebo que o público brasileiro tem diminuído bastante. Acredito eu que seja pela preguiça do brasileiro. A comunidade brasileira no Duo tem potencial para ser uma das maiores por aqui, em minha opinião. Mas enquanto isso não acontece e nem aparece novos cursos para falantes do português, continuemos a estudar com o que temos. Recentemente terminei minha árvore de francês para falantes de inglês, mas nem por isso deixarei de fazer o curso para falantes do português. No dia que a comunidade brasileira realmente se mostrar vamos ter muito mais cursos do que temos atualmente, btw, espero já estou na espera do curso de alemão pra falantes de português.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Evandro_ 18 8

Mesma coisa hahah. Também gosto muito desde pequeno, e quero trabalhar com isso, quem sabe. O inglês é uma língua universal, e possibilita infinitas oportunidades, empregos, viagens, informação. E imagina que louco que deve a ser a sensação de falar um outro idioma? Awesome. Enfim, são tantos motivos...

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sjesusn 9 8

Preciso para ler, pois faço doutorado e tem muitos livros em inglês, além disso nos próximos anos quero passar uns meses em na Austrália ou no Canadá.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lenovaes 12

Comecei a aprender para melhorar meu currículo e fazer viagens basicamente.

De uns tempos pra cá a empresa na qual trabalho começou a trabalhar com clientes gringos e de uma hora pra outra eu estava fazendo calls com eles, hehe. Isso me deu uma motivação extra pra aprender. :D

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carolliny 12 5

Tenho muito interesse por literatura estrangeira e profissionalmente sei a importância e o diferencial que é ter o domínio da língua inglesa. Pretendo e venho me preparando há alguns anos para ingressar no curso de Relações Internacionais o que me exige o conhecimento de outros idiomas como ferramenta de estudo e aprimoramento. Concluindo, estudo inglês por curiosidade, para ter um bom networking e ter uma ótima formação no curso de minha escolha.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jaquinoinn 7

Inglês é mais do que necessário em TI.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brunolencin 9

Curto a língua, a intenção inicial foi para agregar conhecimento ao meu currículo, mas acabei gostando de aprender, e achei muito útil para ver filmes também haha

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carl_os 25 6 4 1391

Era um desejo antigo. Apareceu a oportunidade no Duolingo e eu não a larguei mais. Estou tão motivado quanto quando entrei, jamais desanimei. Também encaro com um hobby, acho realmente prazeroso aprender Inglês.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Nathan_Couto

Am I a woman

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19

I don't know guy, but generally, the name Nathan is male! kkkkk

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dimitriboard 8

LOL

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Puidor 20 16 13

Preciso na Pós-graduação porem sempre odiei Ingles, mas tô gostando do Duolingo

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MathAC 8

Gosto muito de aprender coisas novas e o fato de não saber ingles me limita muito. Os melhores materiais sobre qualquer coisa estão em inglês.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jujuba141414 11

Talvez pq ano q vem vou começar a fazer aula de inglês e pra já ir sabendo um pouco e n ficar boiando na sala de aula(odeio quando isso acontece). Mas também é porque eu amooooooo de + inglês. Acho que quando eu crescer vou ser professora de inglês de tanto que gosto. Eu tenho 12 anos mas já estou pensando qual minha profissão. Talvez eu até vá morar lá nos EUA, mas acho que prefiro ensinar aula aqui mesmo,kkkk.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

miniies2 8

Eu também sempre fui apaixonada por inglês desde de bem pequena sonhava em aprender a cantar em inglês até que esse sonho foi se transformando em algo bem maior.. estudar inglês é a melhor coisa que faço desde então

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

littlecass 11

O que me motivou e ainda me motiva é conseguir assistir filmes/séries sem legenda, poder cantar as músicas que eu gosto sem errar uma palavra, querer morar fora... Fora que pra mim é muito bom aprender sobre uma língua que eu gosto tanto :v

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MariaAndreina5 4

Oi eu sou a maria,me interesso muito pelo inglês e pretendo aprender muito :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Filipe_Pessoa22 14 8

No meu caso , era para tentar entender as músicas que eu escutava , e textos que não entedia , mas agora eu quero aprender , quem sabe morar lá fora ,

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

pereira-natalia 13

Eu também! Decidi fazer inglês nessas férias, e todos os dias venho fazer minha lição, estou adorando!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ivancly 9

Eu tamém... =)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

O meu sempre foi um desejo antigo, agora estou em um namoro a distância com uma mina das Filipinas e acho que isso me motivo mais um pouco a aprender inglês, é bem divertido ela me ensina um pouco de inglês e eu ensino um pouco de português a ela.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dimitriboard 8

O skate,surf e a musica
Curto muito a cultura Americana.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eduardo-muniz 5

Tenho que falar para ajudar no meu trabalho, mas eu gosto de cantar musicas internacionais tenho uma banda então preciso muito do inglês!! e estou aprendendo isso é muito bom.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kaiomoreno 10 2

Estou fazendo porque em breve vou para a Austrália :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19

sortudo vc ein?kkk

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

fabio22111972 9

O meu motivo é desvendar o mistério da língua.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mr.2santos 25 25 835

Inicialmente era somente para adquirir conhecimento, más achei o Duolingo divertido, e comecei a gostar!!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

helineres 8

Eu sempre quis construir máquinas , robôs e etc como nos filmes de ficção científica mas decidi que irei ser engenheiro mecatrônico (olha no google se não souber oque é) e como no exterior tem mais oportunidades pra quem quer fazer isso acho que pra começar o inglês já está de bom tamanho já que no mundo todo tem alguém que fala inglês

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dsafshdafw0

Pra conhecer meninas gatas como você. Obrigado, de nada.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19

OMG huahahaha que loko

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19

obrigado!kkk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

montecastelo1977 15

QUERO APRENDER PARA PODER MORAR E TRABALHAR NA AUSTRALIA E SONHO

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

IVeronika 12 9

Pra mim é um hobby e algo mais: um hobby que pode me levar à Nova Zelândia. :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JBrendo 16 8 5 1

Primeiramente foi para entender o que é dito RPG's. Segundamente minha facilidade para aprender, pensei que seria rápido e fácil, o que não é. Mas apaixonei-me por essa língua maluca.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GilbertoBRA 8

Pois quero viajar o mundo e o ingl^es me ajudar'a a n~ao passar fome, sede e frio nos lugares onde eu estiver rsrs. Al'em disso me ajuda no trabalho, pois volta e meia encontro um estrangeiro e preciso ganhar confian'ca nas conversas.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarzoDeutsch 10 8 4 2

No meu caso, eh para fins de estudos avançados como mestrado e doutorado fora. Há muita bolsas de estudos mais precisa da fluência no inglês. Falo italiano um pouco melhor que inglês e alemão, que também foram os que estudei...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rosaneoviedo 10

acho demais aprender outras linguas e outras culturas,minhas filhas falam pq aprendem nos cursos ,e estao adorando que estou aprendendo com o Duolingo ...adoroooo, e espero que tenhamos mais cursos ou seja outras linguas tal como francês e alemão.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Rodrigo_bass 22 7 6 64

Além de gostar de estudar outras línguas, eu preciso. E me ajuda caso eu queira estudar algum material em inglês.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

WesleyFerr19 14 3

O desejo mesmo de ter um idioma a mais!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ly002 10

Quero estudar música, e muitos materiais que encontro estão em inglês...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Fabioleite17 10 5

O que motivou foi que há uma infinidade de informação na internet e em sua maioria é em inglês, vários cursos do meu interesse inclusive. Duolingo tem sido fundamental para me auxiliar.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nergal8285 5 5

Inglês é uma língua universal e para estar conectado com o resto do mundo é obrigatório saber falar e entender a língua..adoro conhecer novas culturas e com o aprendizado do inglês fica mais fácil interagir...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

eujmoura 10

Inglês é muito além de apenas um conhecimento, hoje em dia tudo é voltado para o inglês. Se tratarmos como a Gabi_Souza146 "um hobby" certamente facilitará muito o aprendizado! No meu caso é voltado para o lado profissional, estudantil e pessoal...resumindo, para a vida!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LaviniaBor1 9 3 2

A necessidade de língua estrangeira no mercado de trabalho

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kamallll 12 2

Meu futuro MBA na malásia :D

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

YasmimTabosa 5

Também acho a mesma coisa além de divertido é muito importante atualmente.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

doruco40 4

o que me motivou foi a ideia de falar outra lingua e o que eu conseguiria com isso...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

adilsonhot 25 22 11 803

Oi Gabi_Souza146! Gostei da pergunta! No meu caso, trabalho com diferentes pessoas todos os dias e não raras as vezes, me deparo com alguém que não fala a Língua Portuguesa. O Inglês tem me aproximado um pouco mais dessas pessoas, mesmo que ainda eu não esteja fluente. Pode até parecer uma frase feita, mas o conhecimento de uma língua estrangeira nos abre portas. E de certa forma o Duolingo é divertido também....além disso é possível fazermos algumas amizades por aqui!! Abraço e bons estudos!!!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19

Obrigado!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HmDias 12

Olá pessoal. O inglês é fundamental hoje em dia, mas o que me motivou foi agregar mais valor no meu curriculum um diferencial. Sempre achei legal o inglês, mas nunca tive a oportunidade de aprender, descobri o duolingo e achei sensacional então agarrei ele com tudo rs... Hoje estudo mais como um hobby também.

Pretendo estudar outras idiomas, é interessante saber diversos idiomas.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

madareno 4

Para romper as barreiras que outras línguas nos dão para fazer novos amigos ,conhecer melhor outros países,etc

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Maielle 11 3

Pois é. Para mim o inglês realmente #é um hobby. Quero muito aprender a falar inglês, acho importante tanto , como uma realização pessoal, quanto profissional, também.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KleytonTrindade 16 111

eu quero fala fluentemente inglês já que é uma língua que abre portas para varias oportunidades profissionais. Se a pessoa soube fala inglês fluente está indo no caminho certa para o sucesso na área profissional. Têm muitos matérias bons que estão apenas em inglês, gosto muito do inglês e do japonês. Eu gosto de assistir séries e animes, quero vê-los sem legenda e também porque vou trabalha numa área ,que quanto mais línguas estrangeiras você souber melhor para você conseguir matérias importantes, que vai ajudar e muito na hora do trabalho.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Romulo.Np 25 25 25 22 8 5 2 2 936

Eu sempre quis aprender inglês, porém nunca tive tempo . Aí sofri um acidente, e como fico muito tempo na net resolvi fazer inglês, e encontrei esse site, o Duolingo. Muito bom.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Andre.Ri 12 5 3

Eu sempre gostei da língua inglesa, mas nunca parei para estudar. Ano passado, na aula de inglês na escola, uma amiga me apresentou o Duolingo e curti bastante. Daí, dia vai e dia vem, quando fui ver eu já estava estudando inglês em sites. Hoje eu mudei meu método de estudos, assisto mais videos aulas no youtube, assisto a algumas séries de conversação e escuto músicas e vivo falando sozinho para treinar o speaking. Mas agora voltei a usar o Duolingo,pretendo usar todos os meios possíveis para alcançar a fluência em inglês, vai demorar... mas um dia eu alcanço. o/

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gilmar_adorno 22 2

O inglês é língua universal e deveria ser obrigatório para todos os estudantes. O que me faz aprender esta língua é que tudo se lê, quando se sabe inglês.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Guilherme-Ramos 7

Quem me motivou a fazer inglês foi a nossa presidANTA. Ela esta me motivando a sair do país

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

KCarw 25 21 10 9 4 4 2

O inglês pode me ajudar muito nos meus estudos, pois posso ter acesso a material em inglês que não está traduzido para o português. Fora isso, tenho o sonho de morar no Canadá, então isso é outra motivação a mais. Fora isso acho o idioma muito bonito.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alexiiia_farias

O que me motiva acima de tudo é o amor que eu tenho pelo EUA.

E dps. por que é uma língua universal, e se um dia eu encontrar minha diwa ((Demi Lovato)), eu quero conseguir falar com ela... Rsrs" ♥

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

deizerjovana 10

oi eu também estou de volta, e também tenho este sonho, inclusive a minha filha de 11 anos está fazendo também e aí vamos poder falar inglês juntas. que legal que vai ser. Vamos em frente, não podemos desistir.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrancinyR 2

oi minha mae falo que era para mim fazer pq ireamos para a belgica e era para mim treinar :b

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19

so q na Bélgica se fala alemão e francês, e não inglês.... 0_o -.-

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrancinyR 2

minha tia mora la eeeh ela falo que tbm fala ingles e tbm olandes kk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

daquila123 13

Acho que você não gosta da língua portuguesa.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19
Não mesmo..kkk

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jeff.cola.loko 5
hey

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19
hey

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MarzoDeutsch 10 8 4 2
kd o grupo Gabi? Vc ficou de enviar uma msg inbox pelo face e estou esperando...rss

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

gabizoka_souza 19
Eh SQN kkkk.. acho q vc tá me confundindo com outra pessoa!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

760 mangia

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Italian/mangia-mangiare-verb-present+indicative+tense-third+person-singular/98b3a185ebdc3c67727d2d1f01094ac6>

ENGLISH

(he/she/it) eats, (he/she/it) eats away, (you) eat

Example sentences

| WORD | EXAMPLE | TRANSLATION |
|------|---------|-------------|
|------|---------|-------------|

|        |                                    |                                |
|--------|------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| mangio | Io mangio il gelato al cioccolato. | I eat the chocolate ice cream. |
|--------|------------------------------------|--------------------------------|

|       |                              |                                    |
|-------|------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| mangi | Perché non mangi la verdura? | Why do you not eat the vegetables? |
|-------|------------------------------|------------------------------------|

|        |                                        |                                               |
|--------|----------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|
| mangia | Lei non mangia l'ingrediente nel pane. | She does not eat the ingredient in the bread. |
|--------|----------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------|

|          |                                |                             |
|----------|--------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| mangiamo | Non mangiamo le vostre banane. | We do not eat your bananas. |
|----------|--------------------------------|-----------------------------|

|          |                        |                           |
|----------|------------------------|---------------------------|
| mangiate | Quanta torta mangiate? | How much cake do you eat? |
|----------|------------------------|---------------------------|

|          |                                       |                                       |
|----------|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| mangiano | Quante donne mangiano nel ristorante? | How many women eat in the restaurant? |
|----------|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|

|          |                                                     |                                                     |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|
| mangiato | Quando hai mangiato con Stefania a quel ristorante? | When did you eat with Stephanie at that restaurant? |
|----------|-----------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|

|          |                         |                                     |
|----------|-------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| mangiate | Quanti panini mangiate? | How many sandwiches are you eating? |
|----------|-------------------------|-------------------------------------|

|          |                                                |                                                      |
|----------|------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|
| mangerei | Lo mangerei solo se stessi per morire di fame. | I would eat it only if I was about to die of hunger. |
|----------|------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|

|            |                  |                     |
|------------|------------------|---------------------|
| mangeresti | Cosa mangeresti? | What would you eat? |
|------------|------------------|---------------------|

|            |                                         |                                |
|------------|-----------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| mangerebbe | Mio fratello mangerebbe qualsiasi cosa. | My brother would eat anything. |
|------------|-----------------------------------------|--------------------------------|

|          |                                                                   |                                                                 |
|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|
| mangiare | I miei amici dicono che non vogliono mangiare in quel ristorante. | My friends say that they do not want to eat at that restaurant. |
|----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------|

|           |                                                    |                                                     |
|-----------|----------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|
| mangiando | Conosceate gli individui che stavano mangiando là? | Did you know the individuals who were eating there? |
|-----------|----------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------|

mangerebbero Le ragazze mangerebbero pesce? Would the girls eat fish?
mangiare conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON  | PRESENT         | REMOTE PAST | FUTURE     |
|---------|-----------------|-------------|------------|
| io      | mangio mangiai  | mangerò     |            |
| tu      | mangi mangiasti | mangerai    |            |
| lui/lei | mangia mangiò   | mangerà     |            |
| noi     | mangiamo        | mangiammo   | mangeremo  |
| voi     | mangiate        | mangiaste   | mangerete  |
| loro    | mangiano        | mangiarono  | mangeranno |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "mangia":

179 commentsLui mangia.

161 commentsLa donna mangia la mela.

120 commentsLa donna mangia lo zucchero.

112 commentsIl suo cavallo mangia il riso.

96 commentsIl ragazzo mangia la mela.

761 "Es geht um die Wurst."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/10985660>

Translation: It's now or never.

01 year ago

Leave a new comment

44 Comments

AddieShell 19 8 7 6 3

the sausages must be very important to germans. they decide now or never based on a sausage i find this idiom funny lol

166ReplyGive Lingot11•1 year ago

heschmat 25 23 13

They also say, "das ist mir alles Wurst" which means "I don't care about any of that!"

It appears there is no logic whatsoever behind these idioms! :-D

44ReplyGive Lingot7•1 year ago

Sand_Squid 15

I would say this makes sense so far as, "That's all sausage to me!" We say "greek", which makes sense because it's talking about a lack of understanding, like with a different language, but sausage? I salute the stereotypical yet arbitrary direction this idiom goes in german.

12ReplyGive Lingot•10 months ago

JohnWycliffe 19 15 14 12 10 10 6 5 5 4 4 4 2 2 2 2 250

Well, the German equivalent of "It's all Greek to me" (I don't understand it) is Ich verstehe nur Bahnhof (I understand only train station). :)

9ReplyGive Lingot•7 months ago

eplus17 25

According to my father (who experienced it first hand), this is because many American soldiers trying to leave Germany after WWII knew only enough German to ask where the train station was...pretty much the only German word they understood was Bahnhof.

4ReplyGive Lingot2•4 weeks ago

Commonmarble 20 14 7

And what about "Du bist ein extra Wurst!" (what makes you so special!)

10ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

JakeWood866726 13

Idioms usually lack logic though. Think about: It's water under the bridge and explain that without symbolism!

0ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Nina_o.O 25 24 22 21 21 21 20 8 479

haha.. there is another one with 'die Wurst' - 'Wurst wider Wurst.' means 'Wie du mich behandelst, so behandle ich dich.' Indeed, the sausages are important! lol

7ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

AntoniaSop 13 12 5

There is also "Alles hat ein Ende nur die Wurst hat zwei" which means "Everything must come to an end".

7ReplyGive Lingot•6 months ago

jzsuzsi 25 23 17 16 13 10 9 9 7 7 7 6 5 3 27

What does "now or never" have to do with the Wurst? We eat the Wurst, now or never?

12ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

"um die Wurst gehen" is an idiom, meaning that the time for a decision or a special action has become and that you have to do/decide it as soon as possible. Another possible English translation is "the moment of truth has come".

44ReplyGive Lingot4•1 year ago

jzsuzsi 25 23 17 16 13 10 9 9 7 7 7 6 5 3 27

But the main point is that Wurst is important for German idioms. I also have read an other idiom: "Es ist Hopfen und Maltz verloren"

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

It's actually "Malz" without a "t". Same with the waltz which is "der Walzer" in German - again without a "t".

8ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

jzsuzsi 25 23 17 16 13 10 9 9 7 7 7 6 5 3 27

Danke:)

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

guada.simo 22 10 10 8 7 7 3 1

Danke

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

marinambAA 25 12 11 11 10 9 8 7 6 6 4 3 190

I was also puzzled by it and here is what I found: <http://blog.oxforddictionaries.com/2014/05/alles-wurst-german-sausage-idioms/>

Since English is my third language, I also got used to idioms as something we get used to, but not always know why they came into the language the way they did.

6ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

Babih10 23 13 11 6 5 236

I couldn't stop laughing after reading "Germans are all about diversity when it comes to their beloved 'Wurst'".

Gotta love Germany!

2ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Topperfalkon 16 8

I can't read the whole article, it's too much.

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

IanCaliban 22 14 11 8 13

Good old Duo. My literal translation of "It's about the sausage" was marked correct.

5ReplyGive Lingot•8 months ago

Domleschg 25 22 22 18 13 9 2 286

Does anyone know the origin of this idiom?

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

eleuthero 15 11 3 139

I am pretty sure this comes from almost 500 years ago during the "affair of the sausages" with Ulrich Zwingli... This event (and the trial that went with it--marked a point of division over whether or not the church could dictate what you could or could not eat on Friday during Lent (and more importantly, whether it should even if it could).

4ReplyGive Lingot1•3 weeks ago

Topperfalkon 16 8
I so hope this is true.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Domleschg 25 22 22 18 13 9 2 286
Interesting possibility. I like it!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

verdide 19 7 5 2 1
Is "it concerns the sausage" very wrong?

2ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2
It is normally a pun meaning "now or never" or "it is the moment of truth", but there is also the situation in which you directly point at a sausage you're currently eating and if you want to express a concern that concerns exactly your sausage in that particular situation, then your sentence is right. That's why we accept it, although we originally meant the pun.

10ReplyGive Lingot11•1 year ago

verdide 19 7 5 2 1
Thanks for your explanation. When learning a new language the idiomatic expressions are always difficult issues. Please allow me a proposal: in case of puns: use the system of a question with multiple choice answers. By doing so learners will recognize a pun more easily, I think.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2
Could you please elaborate how exactly this could help users to better understand idioms?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

verdide 19 7 5 2 1
Well, confronted with a unknown idiomatic expression, the learner will be puzzled. A word by word translation makes usually no sense or little. Frustrating. How to respond? At the first place it is important for him to find out that it concerns a pun, and then what could it mean. There the multiple choice would be helpful because some of the answers will make no sense at all, so he will make a calculated guess, and later on he will recognize the expression more easily. A lot of these expressions are illogical sentences, some sort of code, hardly understandable, I'm afraid.

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Frulenz0 18 12 4 18

Just to add another idiom very similar to this one : "Es mir Wurst" -> I don't care. Pretty similar as "Es mir egal".

2ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

"Es ist mir Wurst". "Es ist mir egal".

12ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

JakeWood866726 13

It seems like this should go under the idioms exercise.

1ReplyGive Lingot•4 months ago

Susanna35 25 20 17

I've never seen a duo mistake like this before. My answer was identical to the duo solution, and I got a "typo" message and the "It's" on my answer was crossed out. Edit: It wasn't crossed out, it was highlighted. My bad. I think I reported it as crossed out, too.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

atlrI 18 6 6 5 2

Just report, this is the wrong place to complain.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

Just as atlrI said: Please hit the "Report a problem" button and tell us what's wrong - it's a mere coincidence that I wrote your post.

By the way: I should have fixed the problem. Could you please repeat the lesson with this error and tell me whether you get it right this time? Much appreciated!

1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Susanna35 25 20 17

I just ran across the exercise again, and it is fixed. Thanks!

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

That's what I wanted to read. Thanks for telling me again =)

3ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Susanna35 25 20 17

I had reported it before I commented on it. I have also encountered it a second time, and it hadn't been fixed yet. I'll let you know when it is. I don't remember which unit/lesson it was in though, now.

I had commented on it because it was such an unusual occurrence.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

topkekNick 19 6 3

i really wish idioms were confined to the idiom lesson.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

MultiLinguAlex 25 15 12 12 10 5 2 2 2

I disagree, because you cannot learn German without any idioms at all - it's the same in English, French, Spanish and other languages. The only problem is that we cannot label these idioms as idioms and that's the real pity.

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

dunk999 21 19 15 14 5 2 2 2 2

I really wish you could and then give both the idiomatic translation and the literal one. It helps me to see the literal words so that I can remember that sausage = moment of truth. :-)

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

willywerk1 12 12 11 8 5 2 2

why does "It's never or now" not work?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

JerrodMiller 23 8 647

Because that is not the order in which the English idiom works. One of the quirks of idioms is that they generally can't be rearranged, even if the new order would otherwise be equivalent.

4ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

willywerk1 12 12 11 8 5 2 2

oh okay thanks for the explanation

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Kickshaw92 23 4

In a way it reminds me of "cr@p or get off the pot." Close to the same meaning, (to at least me) "do something." This would be "do something before it's all ground up into something else."

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

762 Duolingo for Schools Update: Hiding Mature Words

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000598223-Duolingo-for-Schools-Update-Hiding-Mature-Words>

April 2016

You can now hide certain words from your students. This post contains the original announcement and discussion. For updated instructions, go here.

"Many of you have asked, and now there is a way for you to disable certain "mature" words and stop them from appearing to your students in lessons. We are blocking as many potentially mature words as possible, even if some of these could be harmless. For example, we are hiding the word "victim," because although the word could be okay on its own, some sentences generated around it may not be.

Mature words include: alcohol, attack, beer, blood, death, drug, violence, bomb, addiction, murder, war, wine, etc.

To access these settings, go to your main (...) " read full post here

763 escreve

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Portuguese/escreve-escrever-verb-present+indicative+tense-third+person-singular/295086f6fa46c6554244540114f8aa71>

ENGLISH

writes, (you) write

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

escrevo Eu escrevo a receita. I write the recipe.

escreves Tu escreves o jornal. You write the newspaper.

escreve A borboleta escreve um livro. The butterfly writes a book.

escrevemos Nós escrevemos uma carta. We write a letter.

escrevem O homem e a mulher escrevem uma carta. The man and the woman write a letter.

escrevi Eu escrevi naquele relógio. I wrote on that watch.

escreveu Você escreveu este número? Have you written this number?

escreveram Quando eles escreveram a carta? When did they write the letter?

escrever Eu não sei escrever cartas. I do not know how to write letters.

escrevendo Meus irmãos estão escrevendo com aquelas canetas. My siblings are writing with those pens.

escrever conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON          | PRESENT                    | PAST       | FUTURE       |
|-----------------|----------------------------|------------|--------------|
| eu              | escrevo escrevi escreverei |            |              |
| tu              | escreves escreveste        |            | escreverás   |
| ele/ela/você    | escreve escreveu           |            | escreverá    |
| nós             | escrevemos escrevemos      |            | escreveremos |
| vós             | escreveis escrevestes      |            | escrevereis  |
| eles/elas/vocês | escrevem                   | escreveram | escreverão   |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "escreve":

61 commentsA abelha escreve uma carta.

59 commentsEle escreve com gosto.

57 commentsA borboleta escreve um livro.

43 commentsEle escreve uma carta.

35 commentsVocê escreve uma carta.

764 Luis Von Ahn AMA on Reddit

<https://support.duolingo.com/hc/en-us/articles/115000488023-Luis-Von-Ahn-AMA-on-Reddit>

Luis Von Ahn, CEO of Duolingo, did an AMA (Ask Me Anything) today (January 23rd, 2017) on the Duolingo subreddit r/duolingo. You can view the questions and answers of the thread here. Take a look, someone may have asked him the same thing you're wondering about!

https://www.reddit.com/r/duolingo/comments/5pr3sv/i\_am\_luis\_von\_ahn\_ceo\_and\_cofounder\_of\_duolingo/

765 Immersion removed from French

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20176435>

jakethakur22 13 100

I haven't seen any posts on this, but immersion seems to have been removed from French today or yesterday evening (it was there this time yesterday). I am aware they were A/B testing it as they weren't happy with it, so do you think I've just been selected along with a few other accounts to have it removed now? Or is it removed permanently for everyone?

Give Lingot

42 months ago

Leave a new comment

12 Comments

EmilyMMM2015 15 4 2 725

it has gone for me as well but it has happened before many times and it has come back so I'm not worried about it.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Pok 25 25 25 15 12 11 10 8 8 8 7 7 7 7 6 6 6 5 5 5 5 4 3 260

Same, but never when the tab is completely ripped off...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

jakethakur22 13 100

Yep back now, but now bots are gone on ios..

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Amedude 13 10 9 6 3 2 71

Mine's been removed as well, but I never get selected for any testing, so it's probably permanent.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ocf781 25 25 25 16 4 3 2 117

at the moment I have lost the French, German and Italian immersion tabs, but I am sure I was using them earlier today - I have only ever been able to get them on Chrome though with the unlocker - maybe it's a temporary glitch. In fact a number of times now I cannot even get into the tree, and sometimes I cannot even get into Duolingo - I think they must be having overall problems with their servers or something - I can't do anything and I am five points away from a level on my Norwegian tree and I want to do it!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

Lrtward 25 25 8 169

Looks like it's gone from all courses now, but I suspect it's temporary:
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/20176619>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ripcurlgirl 25 25 4 4 3 431

It's back again now.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ocf781 25 25 25 16 4 3 2 117

I appear to have everything back this morning

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

PatsyDunning 25 11 10

Today it is gone from Italian. What is going on?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

TyG15 22 18 7 32

It has been removed for me in both French & Spanish!! as well. Any info on a return?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

becky3086 17 14 8 6 3

I have never seen an immersion tab of any kind. I hear it talked about but don't know where it is.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ArianaMoni 9 2 2 2

Yea it probaly is

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

766 "La tartaruga beve l'acqua."

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/3692177>

Translation: The turtle drinks the water.

02 years ago

Leave a new comment

29 Comments

crileto 7

ma non è corretto mettere water senza articolo, trattandosi di nome uncountable?

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

betterlu 10

Anche a me sembra corretta senza

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

simone.ama 9

La cosa in cui ancora pecca questa fantastica app è proprio il fatto che richiede l'articolo nel momento stesso in cui può essere omesso

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LuciaVirdi1 11

In altre frasi analoghe mi è stato dato "corretto" senza l'articolo . Perché?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NomaConNom 10

Si anche io vorrei saperlo!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

massimo.sedona 18 7

A volte accetta l' articolo altre no , immotivatamente

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Peppe-One 9

secondo me è giusto anche tradurre SENZA l'articolo.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

brosvolante 11

Ma nooooo deciditi ci va o no

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

hellokitty0973 4 3

Sei carino

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

solid84 6

Grazie....come facciamo a conoscerci

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5

Non fare la gallina

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

CarmeloBat2 6

Mi ha corretto tortoise con turtle...non sono sinonimi?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Silvia436699 10

Turtle e' la tartaruga marina, mentre tortoise e' quella di terra.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Elia.Deny. 5

Daiii era la penultima!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Maxzinga 8

Dipende da come gli girano al programma per le traduzioni??!!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

NicoLa637800 6

Ma perché drinks ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rita869924 6

Pensavo si potesse omettere

0ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

fausto.fra 5

Non si dice the water... Accidenti

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AngeladeAn3 9

Perche' drinks ? Anche per la terza persona in questo caso animale vale la regola della s ??

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

stefano.st 13 10 10 9 9 8 5 3 2

"La tartaruga" è terza persona singolare

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Carmela847823 5

S

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
M

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
E

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
T

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
E

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
T

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
E

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
L

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

Carmela847823 5
A

-1ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

767 zijn

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Dutch/zijn/221543d05e5ddf08890bbdaa403078b4>

ENGLISH

are, his, be

Example sentences

WORD EXAMPLE TRANSLATION

zijn Wij zijn naar het park gegaan om te spelen. We have gone to the park to play.

zijn Als er geen zon zou zijn, zou leven niet mogelijk zijn. If there were no sun, life would not be possible.

zijn Zijn de kleine kinderen aan het slapen? Are the little children sleeping?

zijn Zijn kinderen lezen de krant. His children read the newspaper.

zijn De bange kinderen zijn eindelijk gered! The frightened children have finally been saved!

zijn Zal hij voor het volgende seizoen op bezoek zijn gekomen? Will he have come to visit before the next season?

zijn Jullie zijn meisjes. You are girls.

Discussions with the word "zijn":

35 commentsDe kat drinkt zijn water.

31 commentsZijn kinderen lezen de krant.

27 commentsDe vis is zijn avondeten.

17 commentsHet is zijn hond.

17 commentsHet dier eet zijn eten.

768 celui

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/French/celui-pronoun-t%C3%B3nico-masculine-singular/1d22996d854b5482b81f5794e2aad74c>

ENGLISH

this, the one

Example sentences

| WORD   | NUMBER   | GENDER    | EXAMPLE                                  | TRANSLATION                                     |
|--------|----------|-----------|------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------|
| celui  | singular | masculine | Celui qui est dans ma poche est propre.  | The one that is in my pocket is clean.          |
| celle  | singular | feminine  | Celle qui vend des légumes est ma nièce. | The one who sells vegetables is my niece.       |
| ceux   | plural   | masculine | Ceux que tu coupes sont petits.          | The ones that you are cutting are small.        |
| celles | plural   | feminine  | Nous parlons de celles qui dorment.      | We are talking about the ones who are sleeping. |

Discussions with the word "celui":

186 commentsC'est celui de ma fille.

120 commentsC'est celui de mon fils.

108 commentsC'est celui du loup.

41 commentsCe livre est celui de mon père.

37 commentsCelui qui parle est mon père.

769 giocare

<https://www.duolingo.com/dictionary/Italian/giocare-verb-infinitive/e81de2b7215def4e04070a633a2b0f12>

ENGLISH

(to) play, (to) to gamble, (to) to bet

Example sentences

| WORD      | EXAMPLE                      | TRANSLATION                 |
|-----------|------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| gioco     | Io gioco con mio figlio.     | I play with my son.         |
| gioca     | Lui gioca mentre tu lavori.  | He plays as you work.       |
| giochiamo | Giochiamo sul balcone.       | We play on the balcony.     |
| giocano   | Loro giocano nel pomeriggio. | They play in the afternoon. |

giochi Sono contento che lui giochi di pomeriggio e non di sera. I am happy he plays in the afternoon and not in the evening.

giocate Non voglio che giocate con i loro giocattoli. I do not want you to play with their toys.

giocò In tutta la sua carriera lui giocò solamente due partite. In his entire career he played only two games.

giocava Dove giocava tua figlia? Where was your daughter playing?

giocasse Sarebbe un errore se lui non giocasse. It would be an error if he were not to play.

giocavamo Quando ero piccolo giocavamo nelle strade. When I was young we played in the streets.

giocammo Giocammo in spiaggia. We played on the beach.

giocavano Loro giocavano insieme a scuola. They were playing together at school.

giocassero Non ricordo neanche quali squadre giocassero. I do not even remember which teams played.

giocarono Durante quella stagione queste squadre giocarono insieme. During that season these teams played together.

giocherò Giocherò con tutta la famiglia. I will play with the whole family.

giocherei Mi hanno fatto capire che giocherei poco. They have made me understand that I would play infrequently.

giocheresti Per quale squadra giocheresti? Which team would you play for?

giocherà Domani lui giocherà a calcio con noi. Tomorrow he will play soccer with us.

giocerebbe Oggi giocarebbe con me. Today he would play with me.

giocare Vuoi giocare per dieci minuti? Do you want to play for ten minutes?

giocando La bambina sta giocando con l'insetto. The girl is playing with the insect.

giocheranno Domani giocheranno a calcio. Tomorrow they will play soccer.

giocare conjugation

Indicative

Subjunctive

Others

| PERSON  | PRESENT           | REMOTE PAST | FUTURE      |
|---------|-------------------|-------------|-------------|
| io      | gioco, giuoco     | giocai      | giocherò    |
| tu      | giochi, giuochi   | giocasti    | giocherai   |
| lui/lei | gioca, giuoca     | giocò       | giocherà    |
| noi     | giochiamo         | giocammo    | giocheremo  |
| voi     | giocate           | giocaste    | giocherete  |
| loro    | giocano, giuocano | giocarono   | giocheranno |

Show more tenses →

Discussions with the word "giocare":

15 commentsCi piace giocare insieme.

13 commentsSei venuto a giocare con noi?

13 commentsPosso giocare.

9 commentsUn amico viene a giocare con noi.

7 commentsSiamo andati al parco per giocare.

770 "Chaque jour je t'aime plus. "

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/550476>

Translation: Each day I love you more.

03 years ago

Leave a new comment
28 Comments

anamaria.lupu88 11 10 5

PLUS should be pronounced with SSS at the end. With this pronunciation "Je t'aime plus" it could also mean (in oral language) "I don't love you anymore".

85ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

zipster_ 17 16 15 8 6

Agreed. The audio pronunciation is definitely wrong for France. The S is pronounced. Is this a Canadian french thing?

5ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

LeonardoPolly 14 12 11 10 8 7 6 2 52

I'm not an expert, but I believe it's wrong for Canadian French too

6ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

TyriqueFra 13

Wow Duo, I didn't know you felt that way <3

42ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

cockroachlurcher 19 5

how would you distinguish here between like and love, like was marked wrong?

19ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

neverfox 18

If people, love. If not people, like.

30ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

anamaria.lupu88 11 10 5

love = aimer; like = aimer bien

11ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

ebnrgzr 25 8 4 57

The audio is not good for the word "plus"!

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

elliott8814 15 6

I love you, too, Duo.

5ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Maizel4 15 9

This was all I needed. I am now ready to seduce beautiful French women.

5ReplyGive Lingot•3 months ago

cbetremieu 14 11 11

LUS should be pronounced with SSS at the end. Why has this been corrected? this was advised 2 years ago

2ReplyGive Lingot•9 months ago

Candanita 10

Thepronounciation ofthe plus with s gives the meaning more . so the pronounciation inthis sentencesis wrong

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

Baadfisch 11 5 4 3

Does "I love you more everyday" make sense here? That is how I translated it. Am I wrong?

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

KatTancock 15 11 11 7 7 4 4 3 2 1

Yes, it's actually incorrect use of "everyday", which is an adjective ("everyday routine"), not an expression of time ("every day I go to school").

17ReplyGive Lingot•3 years ago

lekaviar 9 8

How do you distinguish between "more" and "no longer" for plus ? Pronunciation ?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Isravn 14 12 10

"I love you more" = "Je t'aime plus" "I don't love you any more" = "Je ne t'aime plus". So, you use the negative construction to distinguish them. However, in spoken french, "ne" is often dropped, and then you distinguish them with pronunciation, "pluS" for "more" and "plu" for "no longer".

11ReplyGive Lingot1•1 year ago

jsquare10 15 4 2

What is the difference between aimer and adorer?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

n6zs 25 872

"Aimer" when used with people means "love". When used with things, it means "like". "Adorer" means "to adore" and can be used with either people or things; it may be translated as love, and depending on context, "to worship". To "like" a person, use "aimer bien".

4ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

geoffrog 14 95

This is a helpful explanation of why Duolingo sometimes marks aimer=to love and sometimes = to like. Still confusing though.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

ParisthePolygot 9 3 3 2

I can't use like now?

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 year ago

n6zs 25 872

Please refer to my note to jsquare10 above.

1ReplyGive Lingot•11 months ago

vicc_walker 18 14 13 11 7 6 6 5 4 3 12

Oh et moi aussi, Duo. Je vais t'aimer pour toujours :3

0ReplyGive Lingot2•5 months ago

prashantkum7 12 3

Each day I like you more -- should be correct

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 months ago

CurmudgeonBob 10 8 3

Awww this is so sweet!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 month ago

JorgeCastro3 15 10 2

I put "like" on purpose because up until now duolingo has been telling me aime is like and adore is love. Suprise, they marked it wrong. So duolingo: je t'aime is I like you or I love you? Since I was a boy it means I love you...now I don't know. Am I learning or unlearning?

-1ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

neverfox 18

DL's rules:

aimer (with people) = love

aimer bien (with people) = like aimer (with things) = like adorer (with things) = love

11ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

LLB1964 23 18 6 6 2 98

Can one adore people? Is so, is there a change/difference as there appears to be between aimer and adorer?

1ReplyGive Lingot2•11 months ago

JorgeCastro3 15 10 2

Hi Neverfox, thank you very much for your tip. Cheers!

0ReplyGive Lingot2•1 year ago

771 First Time 100 days streak :D

<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/21230193>

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Give Lingot3

223 weeks ago

Leave a new comment

30 Comments

FresnoVegas 12 11 11 10 7 7 7 5 4 3 21

Congrats! I never could get past 10. Have a lingot.

4ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Thank you

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

berniesandwich 22 9 6 6 5 3 3 3 3 3 2 73

Congratulations! Have fun learning Spanish!

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Thank you :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

camilabarria 12 10 9 4 25

Congrats! :D Another lingot for you

3ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Thank you :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

LogannnM 25 87

3ReplyGive Lingot10•3 weeks ago

Rachel468637 10 55

You win, you're the fanciest :P

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Thank you :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Cam_and_Alex 20 16 10 10 9 7 6 6 6 6 5 5 4 3 3 3 3 3 3 3 2 2 2 135
Congratulations. =)

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Myah061 5 2

Wow cool!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Thanks :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 887

Congratulations. That is great!

2ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Haha! Compare to your streak, my streak is nothing :D but Thanks :)

1ReplyGive Lingot1•3 weeks ago

Lorel90 25 25 22 7 887

I just started before you. 100 days is a lot of dedication and hard work.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

68dustin 9 3

Nice job!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Thank you :)

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

-BloomingStars- 13 2 1
Nice work! I got up to 65 once.

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120
Set the target and work hard. You can achieve hundred days too :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Rachel468637 10 55
Nice!

1ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120
Thank you :D

0ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Thomas.Heiss 11 10 10 144
Nice!
Pardon me, how have you managed to get to level 16 with only the first 3,5 skills (from the top of the tree)?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120
I don't exactly know! I just practiced 50 XP to 80 XP per day.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

JoeTheYoutuber 5
woah!

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

j.duo 24 21 12 11 8 6 6 524
Congratulations. How did you do it? What made it possible for you to get this far this time?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

AmyVBrink 12
could you give me any tips on how to stay motivated? my goal is to have a 100 day streak by the end of June or July but so far, i can not keep a streak for more then a few weeks. Thanks in advance!

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

HarrySharma891 16 5 120

Maybe i think you should set your daily goal 10XP per day. I use to do 10 XP before sleeping because i don't sleep before 12:00 am. And i go to college by bus so i really get bored in the bus so i do 10XP there. You don't have to change your schedule. You can set reminder in Duolingo app which will keep you posted about your daily goal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•1 week ago

jonathan_info 6
sorry 4 you

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 weeks ago

501_ARF_Trooper 2
dont post this type of discussion i will post dulingo guidelines

-11ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3
There is nothing wrong with the post. It is not against the guidelines. :)

7ReplyGive Lingot•3 weeks ago

772 Coach Feature
<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4898540>

bchan 17 9 8 6 5 4 4 2
Hey guys -

We are currently AB testing a feature of setting a daily goal with Coach. You can now create a daily XP goal that you wish to reach each day. This goal is global, and each XP in all language directions will contribute to this goal. Please note that this daily goal is now the threshold for extending your streak. The graph on the Home page indicates how close you are from reaching your goal for the day. When you have met your goal, the circle and streak icon at the top of the graph will be filled in.

You can change your goal at any time by going to Settings > Coach, and picking a new daily goal.

The time that you have left to achieve your daily goal (and extend your streak) is indicated on Home under your streak count.

Give Lingot18
1552 years ago

Leave a new comment
444 Comments

Soolrak 25 25 25 22 20 19 17 16 15 14 14 11 7 3
I really appreciate the effort the staff puts in these improvements, but I cannot see my old bar in every language I took. For example, now I am taking some French lessons, and I can't see how many points are left for reaching level 25... same with other languages, of course.

I wonder if there is a possibility to see the old, nice and yellow bar again? And also, the number of words we have learned per language?

To be honest, I have lost a bit of motivation. I know I will still learn, but I really miss the yellow bar... that feeling of getting excited when I am/was about to reach a new level.

Thanks in advance.

870ReplyGive Lingot107•2 years ago

Ektrayel 15 5

I have upvoted this response once but I would have done this ten times if it were possible. This is exactly how it feels.

183ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

Transitioning 23 10

I wish there were an easier way to spread the word;

I posted step-by-step tutorials (one for Firefox, one for Chrome) for disabling the coach, or even increasing the daily goal beyond 50 if you choose! <https://www.duolingo.com/comment/5144049>

I hope this empowers users with choice!

18ReplyGive Lingot5•2 years ago

practice2 25 25 16 1033

Vous êtes génial! Merci beaucoup! Je souhaite qu'ils feront plus facile d'avoir un choix. Jusque-là, cela est fantastique!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sooooo 16 9

Mahalo (Thank You in Hawaiian) Transitioning! You gave me my XP Bar back! You mentioned that you have time on your hands (unlikely, I'd say). Is that what it takes, or are you attending Hacker U.?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Transitioning 23 10

No problem! Ha, nope; No diplomas for me! I've just picked up an understanding of how networking operates in a broad sense. I couldn't tell you what any of the scripting Duolingo uses does, but I can tell you how information has to be passed from us to them! Duolingo is just nice enough to leave the door open for people like us who want to alter the daily goal c:

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GalvanTivadar 25 25 25 22 6 980

Thanks a lot!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheBryce 11 7 6 18

If they don't reply to this, I don't know what they'll reply to. I feel like we are being ignored.

76ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

jabramsohn 25 17 15 12 10 9 7 7 6 6 5 2 2 2 2

Don't hold your breath; they never reply. They've had a whole week of people constantly asking for the progress bar back and for the daily goal to be explicitly optional (I mean, seriously, just look at how many posts and comments there are about that everywhere on the forums), and nothing.

Don't get me wrong, I love Duolingo. But it honestly feels like the staff just doesn't care about the users.

43ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

josephfloretta 14 11 3

The staff does care about its users. We wouldn't have 40+ free language learning courses if they did not. The website is free, the world is not -- the revenue that DuoLingo receives is probably not enough to cover a living wage for its staff, and a re-update to its systems after just a week. Trust me, if they knew that this would upset this many people they wouldn't have done it. Therefore, they do care. Just give it time ;)

125ReplyGive Lingot23•2 years ago

jabramsohn 25 17 15 12 10 9 7 7 6 6 5 2 2 2 2

That's a fine thought for the staff. However, I would like to set a few things straight:

1) The language-teaching materials are largely crowd sourced, not staff created. This is not to say that the staff has nothing to do with those courses, but it's rather odd to say that if the staff didn't care about the users they would literally not do anything at all.

2) Your assertion about Duolingo's revenues is patently false. Duolingo routinely receives millions of dollars in investments (look them up in the news). As for not having enough to pay a living wage, I refer you to the Jobs page of this very website (it's linked to at the bottom of every page) <https://www.duolingo.com/jobs> :

Competitive salaries and generous equity

Health, dental, and vision insurance (100% for employee, 50% for dependents)

20 days of paid time off – we don't actually count

Are you a night owl? We have flexible hours

Daily catered lunch, snacks and drinks

Gym membership reimbursement

401(k) with generous match

As you can clearly see, the staff is well compensated. And that's as it should be! But it's certainly not for lack of material means that the staff doesn't bother to reply to people.

3) "Trust me, if they knew that this would upset this many people they wouldn't have done it. Therefore, they do care." This is circular reasoning at best. But just to make it clear: what we have been talking about goes beyond this one update and how we personally feel about it. We're upset about the Duo staff constantly ignoring the users in general.

73ReplyGive Lingot20•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

Talking about that, that doesn't only upset you - the users - that upsets me - one of the Incubator moderators (and I'm pretty sure I'm not alone in those feelings). I may somehow understand why didn't they let know in advance to all users about the new feature, but I cannot understand why they didn't let know us- the course moderators. And they never do. We only find all those "good" news (futura style), when we have pissed off users complaining all around our discussions.

That seems to be a bit unfair to me. I volunteer about 30-40 hours a week for our course, I've gained an immense experience in what I do here which cannot be easily replaced just by some other volunteer. And that is not valued enough to let me know in advance what changes they are going to make to our courses. That is very demotivating, to say the least.

97Give Lingot29•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Thanks for your post, Larisa. Seems like it's a problem (or unwillingness) to communicate and/or act on the part of DL staff when it comes to new feature release. Why go through this same hoopla time after time instead of being transparent from the start with course contributors, and transparent about the release and all that it entails with end users?

It would surely be much easier if they gave us a heads-up instead of springing "pop quizzes" on us every three weeks or so. Less chaos, fewer Support messages, and more happy users and contributors.

43Give Lingot1•2 years ago

wataya 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 10 9 9 5 1170

@Larisa: Fully agree!

@Alexis: Fully agree as well.

Every staff member is extremely busy with lots of stuff. But a lot of the problems they're currently dealing with wouldn't have to be there in the first place if there were better communication and planning and taking some time to really think things through (instead of pushing out lots of ad hoc kind-of-solutions)

28Give Lingot1•2 years ago

Cheryl1 20 11 7 7

Thanks for calling it like it is! From my post way below...." It seems that you prefer a wild, wild west approach to app development. It's a costly approach which, if you're not careful, will seriously damage the trust DL users have placed in Duolingo." I was an IT manager for many years and the hardest thing to do is convince software developers that they are developing for the end user. Don't listen? They turn on you.

17Give Lingot•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

@Jaspert Nobody is arguing that web development isn't tough, however, a little customer service and speaking out to us isn't that hard, all they need to do is give some kinda of statement. So we won't shut up, we have every right to speak out when we are being left in the dark to what's happening with no feedback whatsoever, The duolingo website and webstie enginneers are fantastic but I cant say the same for how they are treating their users and thats a cold hard fact.

10Give Lingot1•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

@Jaspet, dude, there is onyl 350 or so replies in here, it only takes a quick look to see that the overriding opinion is wanting the XP bar back, espeically when the most upvoted comment in this thread is concerning wanting th XP bar back, plus other similar threads that ahve appeared showing the same sentiment, It literally only took me 30 mins or less to see a lot of people are complaining and as for the lost streaks, a shitload of people have messaged them complaing about the same one issue. People arent complaining about a variety of issues here, its the same 2 ones, you only need a quick look at the forum to see that, and with them getting messages contantly, and the forums lighting up, you'd think the messgae would be clear. Im not asking to have the XP bar back RIGHT not or even in days time, however long it takes them is fine, but only until yesterday did they give any official statement, somethign taht should ahve been done a long time ago. When you're a big company, you have to be reayd for these things and customer sevrice is key, espeically when its so easy and fats to get an idea of peoples complaints and then give out some kind of statement.

7Give Lingot•2 years ago

jabramsohn 25 17 15 12 10 9 7 7 6 6 5 2 2 2 2

Oh, Jaspet. Would you like to factually dispute anything I actually wrote in my post, or are you content with just being generally rude and haughty?

In any event, what you wrote is a non-sequitur. It doesn't take a feat of web-development genius to talk to people; it just takes caring and willingness. They have lots and lots of very easy and direct ways to communicate, but they don't. What that has to do with the complexity of the system or the number of dependencies it contains is beyond me, but I'm willing to learn, if you're willing to elucidate.

6Give Lingot•2 years ago

Jaspet 23 6

@jabramsohn @SuperDescartes

Guys, just consider the numbers. There are tens of millions of users of Duolingo, hundreds of new forum posts and thousands of user feedbacks every day. And you expect the handfull of DL employes to follow it all and respond in timely fashion? It's imposible. My strong reaction was to your statement, that they are not willing to listen. I am not affiliated with DL in any way, but since I have active experience with managing much smaller, but still big scale websites, I actually admire them for the way and speed they are progressing with improvements, including the ideas from the userbase.

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

Janetplanet13 10

I concur in reference to the revenue Duolingo generates. The sole reason this website exists is for the purpose of utilizing the members to translate the web, not because some rich people want to be nice and donate to the masses who cannot afford a half way decent education to learn another language. Machine translators are not as accurate as needed therefore human translators are imperative to translate the web. This service can be VERY expensive, up to $0.20 a word or more depending on the content and language. We get to learn a language for free, the owners of Duolingo get human translators for the cost of maintaining this website which is far less than $0.20 a word. I am thankful for the free education however it is not like we're getting something for nothing, all the members of Duolingo are aiding some filthy rich folks in getting even more filthy rich. Nonetheless, Duolingo should absolutely be more attentive to the members who are providing 100% accurate human peer (many peers) reviewed web translation service at no cost in exchange for learning another language at no cost, Rosetta stone is not equally as expensive. There is a professional human translation service called wordlingo.com (this might be a coincidence) of which offers fast accurate document translations, available 24/7 365, native speaking experienced translators in over 141 languages etc., you can order now or get a quote.....

4Give Lingot•2 years ago

01davidjose 11 3

brace yourself, more subcomments are coming. (ned stark meme)

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 2 hidden comments

Successinitalian 9

I agree this is the best online course I have come accross. I love it. Indeed just give it time!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

naybaeaaaa 4

the staff obvioslly cares beacuse we have so many cirriculum activites such as chat test and more " donate a lingot "

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 3 hidden comments

Dessamator 25 14 13 13

Well, that's the nature of testing. Hardcore users are the ones who most likely focus on every single detail to achieve their goals, and will complain about any slight change that affects that. Given the few people complaining about this missing feature, and the fact that most aren't really talking about it in terms of learning (but XP), it seems prudent that Duolingo doesn't make abrupt changes that will cause more problems.

I say few because no single post in Duolingo as far as I know has ever reached 10000 upvotes or more than 2000 comments. There is a difference between perception and reality, and anyway, Duolingo's mantra is:

Also I see people talking about surveys. I've created and conducted a research survey, and it is not as simple as people in post seem to believe. Much research has to be done to design the survey itself, consult literature, develop proper questions, conduct pilots, and choose the right sample. There are also costs and issues dealing with erroneous data. You may end up scrapping the whole survey if the results are inconclusive or invalid.

P.S. There appears to be an A/B test where some users have their progress bar back and the coach.

19ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

davidalso 21 19 16 13 1341

--Everyone just take a second and have a breath. There was no reason to downvote Dessamator's comment.--

You're right about survey creation. If one wants to make a survey that actually provides reliable data, it takes a ton of time and work and iteration--and even then it's usually not perfect because people have a really hard time generating accurate reports about themselves.

I am not sure I see the rationale for your thresholds of 10000 upvotes or 2000 comments, but I think I take your point. I believe you're saying that this particular group of squeaky wheels is a small percentage of total users. I don't know the actual numbers, but I would tend to figure you are probably right. If we actually were a significant percentage, then I would imagine DuoLingo would have a different policy. They would probably take more time to communicate how they perceive the value of UX testing.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dessamator 25 14 13 13

> I am not sure I see the rationale for your thresholds of 10000 upvotes or 2000 comments.

That number (10000) represents 1/1000 of likely active users, if we made an educated guess that there are 10,000,000 active users on average. I think there's a news report somewhere indicating those numbers.

You understood my point perfectly.

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

Rafforza 14 11 3 3 2 2 2

Here's an idea, make it optional: that works just as well as a test.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jimnice 23 20 18 9 8 8 7 6 5 5 963

regarding some users having their progress bar back. I appear to be one. Not the old progress bar, but a listing of point totals and points needed to upgrade to the next level for all my languages. This at 1 a.m. on 10/27/2014. Even better than the old progress bar -- I can concentrate on my language skills rather than simple math!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheBryce 11 7 6 18

I remember when there were riots over the design change in the forums.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jfernatt 22 8

Never 4get

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

01davidjose 11 3
cats do remember :3

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rootyjr 22 5
For sure, dynamic_puppy hacked the css and actually found a way to revert it

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

Wandering.Seeker 15 14 11 10 9 6 3 1
...oh that moment heart aches good old stylish theme instead of this childish one.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Kai_E. 25 23 20 12 4 3
They can't just change the content of the AB test in the middle of it. I'm pretty sure that would make the results unreliable. If this feature passes/fails the AB test, I'm sure it would be a lot easier to put that bar back in.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wataya 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 10 9 9 5 1170
That's certainly true. As long as the test is running they won't change anything. That's for sure. (What I don't get is the point of this and other tests in the first place. They're clearly overdoing it. Too much A/B, too little communication).

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12
Instead of trying to "get into our heads" and predict what we would like, they should simply ask us, through a survey or right here on the forums. No harm in that.

19Give Lingot•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4
@wataya, I don't agree that user retention is such a good metric. As a mobile metrics analyst I can tell that there are plenty of useful metrics. And you can successfully survey people. Gather ideas from users first. Take those suggestions which seem to make sense, assess what is doable, choose top 3, then let users vote for what they need the most - then implement it. Everyone is happy.

I would say that for Duolingo to make profit - metrics are the key. And the key metric is not the retention at all - the profit bringing users are those who are experienced enough and who translate a lot. Those users' needs should be the priority. IMHO

18Give Lingot•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4
I'm moving to Australia this winter, so unless they are interested in remote workers, they will not hire me :)) However, that motivational part of the application and website - I feel like there are so many opportunities just wasted. They got such a great idea - a goldmine - but they only scratch the surface. But I should admit, that it is not only their problem - I use fitbit and garmin and striiv as fitness trackers. Striiv is the best in that sense, but fitbit and garmin - those are really losing points on not motivating people properly. Creating all those game motivation features is extremely cheap (comparing to real commodities) and there is plenty of knowledge of how to do that in the game industry, and they still fail to offer you a comprehensive system of levels, badges, prizes, achievements and so on. Total waste.

If I could create mobile apps or websites, I would totally do something like that, but I'm not a developer. Actually, I'm thinking to go and gain some experience working for a game company and then I want to gather a team and create some app with really great motivational schema.

14Give Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

@Larisa: Tell Duolingo to hire you because you make sense. :)

9Give Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

@Emanuel: No reason why they can't send it out in an email, and also post the link in a stickied discussion. I know a small percentage read the forums (part of this mess in the first place), so Duolingo should take advantage of email. They already send messages for every notification, and used to have a "newsletter", so I don't see that being an issue if they used email. :)

5Give Lingot•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

@Alexis, I love how you first wrote - surgery instead of survey - that was definitely a Freudian mistake :)))

3Give Lingot•2 years ago

wataya 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 10 9 9 5 1170

@Larissa: I completely agree with you. In case it wasn't clear, there are some irony tags missing in my post above.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 5

@Larisa - you are truly awesome. Write to me when you develop something! I'd also be interested in the fitness motivators.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

wataya 25 25 25 25 25 23 20 10 9 9 5 1170

Ah Alexis, that'd be problematic. I don't think you'll be able to put your preferences, wishes and experiences in a single real number :) Much easier to deal with a cover-it-all user retention rate.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

@wataya: Not really. Just have a feature in mind, and ask for feedback. Piece of cake! I've taken several surveys for new features on sites (and one recently for a new learning method). They present the new feature, ask for your dislikes/likes, ask for improvements, and there you go. No outcry, no glitches, no tears.

@Larisa: What the heck, just let them study our brains. That was a keyboard mistake, actually. It was correct until I went back to change another word. :P

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

Eey91 25 25 21 19 16 9 2 9

@Alexis

It is obvious that the problem "they" would have with this is the ammount of users covered by the test (survey), because us (active forum users and moderators) are just a small ammount, but I do believe we are the ones who can give better, realistic feedback to really improve the platform since we are more involved with those other options DL offers, not just the game...

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

[+] 1 hidden comment

dauidalso 21 19 16 13 1341

I don't know how much it matters. I have always been taught that reliable results require that (a) each experimental condition is unaware of the "treatment," and (b) that people in the test condition don't have a client-side work-around (as revealed in other threads). But I don't know. I haven't ever tested millions of users at once. Maybe it washes out.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Artilex 25 6 2

I know right sitesurf is the only good one who responds

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

17YearOldGorilla 13 8

I see your point. We need to do something. If you report a glitch in a lesson, you wait for a week or even a month for the patch... nothing. Why do they do nothing? It's like they made the "report a problem" area a chat area. I mean, are you kidding?

Signed, Praetor Tertius Cliathairi.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Francophilie 13 9 2

cough goodreads cough

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mcampbell 8

Oh, leave the faux indignation at home, please. It's an experiment; of course some are going to not like it, that doesn't mean Duo can just say "Well, let's just kill the experiment, some people don't like it." That's what the experiment is for.

-21ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

jabramsohn 25 17 15 12 10 9 7 7 6 6 5 2 2 2 2

I am at home.

I'm going to suggest you leave the reflexive defensiveness and straw men behind.

I stated a fact: the Duolingo team routinely fails to address the concerns of users. I didn't say this wasn't an experiment (everyone knows that's what Duolingo does), and I definitely didn't say they should kill it. Nobody did.

If you look at the last few days' activity on the forum, you'll see that a very significant number of people (not just "some") have had real problems with it, even people who like it as a whole. No one has any interest in it going altogether.

And what horrible thing did we want from the Duo team? The blood of their firstborn? The sacred bones of their ancestors? No, just communication. Just for them to respond to people. Unilateral announcements with no followup make people uncomfortable; they make users feel disrespected and excluded. Nothing faux about it; it's just being, you know, a human.

28ReplyGive Lingot6•2 years ago

dwduo 22 9 2 581

It's the "no feedback or interaction" metric test! :)

19ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1167

But since they like A/B-testing, they would have to somehow reply to some of us... Maybe only half of us can see this post by bchan?! 8-)

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rootyjr 22 5

No, because I do not have coach and I see it

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eey91 25 25 21 19 16 9 2 9

You can be sure they read these threads, specially this time since was posted by them.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

Not necessarily, some things are done just to let you to steam out.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

I know for a fact that they are in this instance, so rest assured.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Eey91 25 25 21 19 16 9 2 9

I totally agree with your point in response to jabramsohn. Keep in mind that I just say they read it... (which does not imply anything else).

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

Indeed, we have an entire forum for our (incubator contributors') needs and complains. They read it too. And then we also can submit tickets, requests, suggestions, just as users have reports. They read them too, but you would agree, that we don't write those things just so that someone reads them, we want some actions. :)))

9Give Lingot•2 years ago

01davidjose 11 3

Patience, my fellow gato. though i hope they wouldn't not ignore us. ^_^ on the contrary, i can see their effort; that is why i love duolingo xD

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

josephfloretta 14 11 3

Agreed, it sucks. But, if you click on 'your username' on the top right of the screen, then click 'your profile', and on the right of the screen it should show your languages that you are learning and how much experience you have in each one. Here is the chart that shows the experience needed to level:

1 - 60 → 60

2 - 60 → 120

3 - 80 → 200

4 - 100 → 300

5 - 150 → 450

6 - 300 → 750

7 - 375 → 1,125

8 - 525 → 1,650

9 - 600 → 2,250

10 - 750 → 3,000

11 - 900 → 3,900

12 - 1,000 → 4,900

13 - 1,100 → 6,000

14 - 1,500 → 7,500

15 - 1,500 → 9,000

16 - 1,500 → 10,500

17 - 1,500 → 12,000

18 - 1,500 → 13,500

19 - 1,500 → 15,000

20 - 2,000 → 17,000

21 - 2,000 → 19,000

22 - 3,500 → 22,500

23 - 3,500 → 26,000

24 - 4,000 → 30,000

To give an example, I am level 13 in Español and need a total of 6,000 experience to reach level 14.

So for now, use this chart, keep studying, and hope DuoLingo puts the option to see your level progression in a more readily available spot soon.

Cheers!

41ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

freymuth 21 12 12 12 12 11 10 8 6 6 4 4 3 2 203

When I follow that, I see what levels I am in each language, but not how much XP I have in each.

Edit: But thanks for the chart! I'm sure I'll refer to it often :)

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bibeaults 22 9 7 6

Ah, someone else in the same boat as me. There is NO way to determine where you are in any particular language. It is driving me crazy. I can't even imagine if I had as many languages as you how impossible it would be. Hopefully they fix this soon.

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

xiarra 14 12 1

Beeminder.com ftw! <https://www.beeminder.com/kc/goals/spanish> (my spanish goal) Really not a fan of the new layout, but really glad that my goals keep my languages separate!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lepaslandas 25 11 9 8 6 4 3 2 2 2 2
Isn't the XP in your profile?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

freymuth 21 12 12 12 12 11 10 8 6 6 4 4 3 2 203
No, it's not recorded there. It shows my levels (11 in French, 9 in Dutch, etc) but XP is no longer listed anywhere for individual languages. If I click "Home", I can see the aggregated XP for the past 7 days, but nothing else.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lepaslandas 25 11 9 8 6 4 3 2 2 2 2
Woah, I just noticed. Before my French leveled up to 16 it was still there. You can view it in the mobile version though.

2Give Lingot1•2 years ago

Zaaffraan 21
Guess what, Joseph-- Duo decided to remove the level progression info completely so it can't even be found on one's profile page. Bad Duo! Naughty owl! Bring back our XP and level info!

11ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

avarela1981 22 8 7 3
I just saw today that I can no longer see where my individual levels are at, so while this chart is helpful, there is currently no way for me to find how much further I need to go to reach the next level. Very aggravating.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zaaffraan 21
Many thanks!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jairapetyan 25 25 25 25 25 22 15 10 10 9 5 4 2 5
Joseph -- I followed your suggestion but I only see the icons with the level on them. Nowhere does it show my XPs per language. I can see the total XPs on my homepage by clicking the "all time" tab above the leaderboard. I also noticed you said "it SHOULD show your languages that you are learning and how much experience you have in each one." Well, mine doesn't. Does yours?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jimnice 23 20 18 9 8 8 7 6 5 5 963

Joeseeph's method worked last week but no longer does so on the web version. As of today, 10-20-14, I can still see my point totals on the Android version, but I won't count on doing so tomorrow. There seems to be a DL push to hide this information. Some new esoteric instructional technique?

As DL knows far more about language instruction than I do, I will trust them on this, but like the rest of you, I won't like it.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TomHilton1 25 20 14 6 453

I noticed the same thing, and had a similar reaction.

That said, I do think the "Coach" feature is pretty cool.

36ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Eey91 25 25 21 19 16 9 2 9

I totally agree with you, yesterday I saw a post showing pictures of the new layout and this person's goal was in insane and was something like 930/50 (exp). It is really useless for these kind of users, and I would include myself here because after more than 6 months studying I've developed my own (I consider effective) method for my goals. I do think new users can make good use of this feature, I used it myself when I started but dropped it after I moved to web platform, mobile was simply not the best for me, but since I've seen you can't really disable the coach, I would dare to say that for "old" and active users, it just feels like a big loss. I'm B in this test btw, fortunately...

28ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zaaffraan 21

Sorry, Duo, the coach feature leaves me cold. Keep the coach if it revs up some users but please put back the progress bar for those of us who found it interesting or even motivating. Are you planning to revamp the Lingot structure? Is the Level structure on its way out? Are either or both of those possibilities explanations for removing the progress bar and substituting daily goals? Inquiring minds and all that jazz...

26ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

avarela1981 22 8 7 3

I realize I am now just one of many, but hopefully this proves how much we want to at least be able to see our old progress bar, along with our vocabulary score. For me, I was more inclined to push for the next level when I could see it in sight. Now, the next level is very unceremoniously reached.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

8HambyJ 18

You know, I think that they should just let people choose what they want there: the XP bar, the Daily Goal, the Activity Feed, etc. Or they could combine the Daily Goal and XP bar and put both on there.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dasi_ 20 13 10 9 8 8 6 2

I hope they do keep both really.

The new coach feature helped me fix an issue I had maintaining streaks. I could never keep one longer than three days. This now has let me see that problem was a time zone issue. Prior to this I logged in daily and yet lost lingots (that double your lingots betting feature) because apparently that day was rolling over and skipping a day. I emailed to find a solution but didn't get a response and gave up for a bit. Since the new feature I finally see what's happening with the time and can keep up my streak. I don't see why we would need to forsake one for the other.

I also agree with Larisa Alexis and much of what other users are saying. I love the site but felt with the help requests that my emails were just a waste of time. On the other hand I've seen many improvements from one week to another when you use the "report this" button, especially with reference to errors and acceptable answers, so I know there are people working on issues.

I didn't know about the streak losses that occurred with this until a day or so ago but that was how I had felt for months, wondering at why it seemed to work for others. I wouldn't want to lose that now that I've finally nipped that issue in the bud but I do so want the progress bar back.

By the way, is the point system a bit off? Maybe it's because the progress bar is gone—I don't know but it seems I get less points for each achievement or practice than before.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

rootyjr 22 5

I agree with that too! I want both! Here have a lingot!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rootyjr 22 5

That is the first lingot I have ever given away! Been here since 2013-08-11

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dasi_ 20 13 10 9 8 8 6 2

First one I've ever received. Thanks! :)

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

WahahaDrills 22 18 18 12 9 6 5 4 4 3 2

Take my one and only lingot. You've earned it. By the way, for me, I can't even level up let alone see how close I am. It's been completely broken.

4ReplyGive Lingot35•2 years ago

freymuth 21 12 12 12 12 11 10 8 6 6 4 4 3 2 203

I have leveled up in Portuguese since the start of Coach testing, so the XP points are definitely still accruing (so don't stop!). However, it's true that there is no convenient way to tell how close you are to leveling up without the individual progress bars. I suppose one could manually tally the points from each lesson and compare it to the above chart, but I find that outright discouraging (the opposite of what I assume the goal of Coach to be).

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

WahahaDrills 22 18 18 12 9 6 5 4 4 3 2

Whoops. Now it works. Whether it got fixed or I was mistaken, I am happy for this development.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

WahahaDrills 22 18 18 12 9 6 5 4 4 3 2

Maybe it's only broken for me(and maybe a select few others) because I was on the verge of leveling French and Italian up. Italian mostly because I'm at level one with that. And neither have gone up. Either way, I never intended to stop. :D I just hope that everything gets sorted out soon. Which I'm sure it will.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

derangedlinguist 15 14 13 9 9 8 8 8 7 6 6 4 4 4 3 2

Definitely! Seeing how far I have to go until I level up always gave me a big push to work hard! I think the coach feature could be great, but I'd like that XP bar back too...

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

sp3p2parkerc 9

yes, i believe it would be nice to have a status bar to see how much we have to gain in order to lvl up

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cdhicks1 25 23 12 19

Not only have I lost my bar, but now I cant see my point total in my profile. Which I was using as a replacement visual aid. Never log-off and things seem to remain.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

HOUSTONWIL 8

I absolutely agree with this, upvotes to you...

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

swntzu 23 12 11 9 9 5 4 3 2

Thanks for informing us about the daily goal being the minimum that you have to do to extend your streak. I've since changed my coach setting to 1xp.

I don't see the point of this at all. I already see how much I've done on the experience line graph so why add redundancy and at the same time remove the incredibly useful experience bar.

EDIT: th23x has written an excellent userscript to restore the experience bar. If you would like to use it you can find it here (Grease/Tampermonkey required):

http://th23.net/wp-content/uploads//temp/th23\_Duolingo.user.js.zip

95ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

Samy1979 23 10 11 83

Jupp. Same to me. I don't want to lose my streak because of this..

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

abcedbca 22 14 13 10 4 3

I didn't know that it was combined with the streak and I lost my streak :/ Is there any way to get it back?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

Write to Support. See the tab to the left in white on this page, and ask them to do it. There is hope that they will do it. Good luck!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bluesocksTN 25 8 3 3 4 5 3

I agree. Coach is thoroughly useless (as it is) because I am not about to lose my streak just to note my daily goal on Duolingo. Nope. I have always kept my streak and my daily goal separate and will continue to do so. I will, however, note that my daily goal WAS tied to my XP points; I would see how many points were needed to reach the next level, and set my daily goals accordingly.

This new and 'improved' Duolingo is a total bungle.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Aliciaftw 25

Here are my thoughts on this so far:

1.) There oughta be a separate goal for each language you study. Daily goals are awesome, I'm glad it's on the website now. But if a person is studying more than one language, the amount of time they put into each language separately is important.

2.) Why do you guys always remove features alongside adding new things in when testing? Aren't you just creating confounding variables? I don't understand why it was necessary to take out the number of words and level experience.

3.) You should consider letting people have the option to write in their goal as well.

That said, I am extremely excited by this feature and I think mini-goals on the site, like so, will increase activity and retention. HOWEVER, as mentioned, the features that were unnecessarily removed may turn people off of studying. Maybe I don't understand statistics well, but it doesn't seem like the perfect measure to me.

70ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

PedroGBM 13 13 13 12 10

Thanks for the improvement! Two observations, though:

1) The old XP bar and the daily XP by language were really helpful... any chance we get the coach AND the old features? 2) I believe these preset XP goals may not suit everyone's training rhythms... how about the possibility of you choosing your own personal daily goal (like 60XP, 70XP...)?

67ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

CarlosJFort 16 7 5

Please give us back the progress bar. It motivates us more than the coach, for many of us prefer to see how we are going through the levels per language.

64ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

jumpingmario 6

I fully agree, I need to take a breaks on weekend. I cannot reach my 50 XP on these two days.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

freymuth 21 12 12 12 12 11 10 8 6 6 4 4 3 2 203

For what it's worth, you can set your goal to 1xp on those days and do one answer on timed lesson, then reset to 50 when you know you'll have time for it. Not the most convenient, to be sure, but would save time getting to 50.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bluesocksTN 25 8 3 3 453

That renders Coach completely useless for most people.

No. They need to untie the daily streak to whatever daily goals one chooses to set.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Adiaphor 25 25 25 25 25 1016

Please make the Coach optional or at least put it alongside the old features

60ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wazzie 25 11

Coach is basically optional, just set it to 1XP per day and it will act the same as before.

2ReplyGive Lingot10•2 years ago

Adiaphor 25 25 25 25 25 1016

Yes, but because of it the graph shows the combined progress of all languages instead of showing progress of the chosen language as it used to and it's really inconvenient

25ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Flannery65 14 11 10 8 8 5 4 2 24

No the coach is still there and nothing that was taken away has come back. I agree with whoever said it was a bungle.I had a system with the priority of different languages, coach has wiped it out.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bluesocksTN 25 8 3 3 453

Coach is 'basically optional', but it is also completely useless for those of us who keep our streak and our goals separate.

They need to keep daily streak and daily goals separate, so one could continue to keep one's streak, AND be able to set goals with Coach.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

cherub721 17 16 15 15 15 6 6 3 1143

The coach setting seems totally pointless. It's not giving us anything new. It makes it harder to extend the streak while removing the progress bar. It's taking away features and adding nothing.

It might have been cool if it let you set a certain number of XP to gain per week or per month. Definitely allow different settings for different languages. With some languages my goal is just to keep the tree gold. Maybe let us set goals and then wager ourself 5 lingots which we win back if we reach our goal after a week.

This method seems so punitive. You set a goal and all you get is greater risk of losing your streak. I don't really understand why this website would put its limited resources towards that rather than something that would improve our learning, to be honest.

I'm not clicking on set a goal because I'm terrified of getting into something that I won't be able to change (like on memrise where they randomly take away your choice and then you get stuck with your last selection for "number of items to learn per session"...).

46ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

FrenchCrazy 15 8 3 2 2 2

Exactly. IF THE COACH was used as a motivational tool by giving out site-wide "challenges" and then rewarding players who continued their streaks then it may be better. Why do they penalize you for trying to set ambitious goals by making you lose your streak?

Example:

Coach says: earn 50XP for 10 days and you'll be rewarded 50XP or a lingot.

Coach says: earn 100XP for 10 days and you'll be rewarded 100XP or 2 lingots.

etc etc, have the coach dictate a few challenges and have us work towards them.

36ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

cherub721 17 16 15 15 15 6 6 3 1143

Those are excellent suggestions!

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bluesocksTN 25 8 3 3 453

I, too, like your suggestions.

One's daily streak and one's goals should not be forced together. The system should allow users to keep them separate.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

LeoXLIV 16 12 8 3

Please make the coach optional and bring back the words learned count and the XP bar.

41ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

Agree 100%

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

knittinggirl 25 25 21 19 14 12 11 10 7 6 4 2 1241

Thank you so much for posting about this! A big source of complaint lately has been lack of communication from staff. Now, my feedback:

I had happily put a 50 XP "insane" goal up, which I usually hit in a day. Then I realised that it would not continue my streak unless I hit the goal, and since my streak is nearly a year long, it's obviously rather important to me. So my goal is 1 XP a day, and the coach has done nothing for me. To top this off, you've taken away most individuals language stats like the progress bar, the individual graphs (it now lumps all languages into one graph), and number of words learned. Was this really intentional, since I can't honestly see any reasoning behind that. I'm not trying to be nasty, I highly appreciate all the work you guys do!

40ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

Our users are extremely unhappy that they cannot see the level progress bar any longer.

29ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Larisa_L 12 10 5 4

And yes, many people lost their streaks as well. In one case that was 170 days.

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

johncaveishere 14

I lost 70 because of a number glitch where it said my xp for today was way higher than it actually was. :/

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Ariaflame 25 25 14 1355

I'm certainly not finding my 'reported' xp for the day to match anything I'm aware of. I don't know whether different parts of it are ticking over the 'day' at different times. And I still have the bar and words, but my chart is still combining languages or mixing up yesterday and today's xp.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alfasprint 14 9 9 8 8 16

I lost my streak because I stopped using Duo, and switched to an old-style account. Of course I also "lost" or disregarded all my XP and have to start over all languages ;-)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tinnmel 25 25 7 296

For several reasons, my kids cannot do Duolingo every day. Therefore, the progress bar is much more motivational for them rather than a coaches streak that there is no way they can maintain.

26ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

This sucks. It was also not clearly stated. It made me loose a 104 days despite having been doing it every day and also having bought streak protection at the store.

26ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

ReraCikap 22 20 17 9 8 4 3 2 2 2 1

I also lost all my streaks. Duolingo should have notified us the change more clearly instead of informing it here. Only a few people see this page. I can imagine many angry people saying "Why my streak is at 0?".

14ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Fettes 21 4

Yup, just lost my streak too. What a piss off. The worst part is there was no notification that my streak freeze had been used, so even though I was logged in and doing some lessons I had no idea I wasn't meeting the criteria.

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

Ask for them to reinstate it.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

I am asking for them to reinstate them manually to where we were prior to the change. We should all do the same.

8ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

How are you asking? I asked at their contact us link and no reply. The EXACT same thign happened to me, they in no way made it clear the new coach goal was used to extend streaks, horrible design choice! I hoep we get our streaks back :(

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

johncaveishere 14

I've asked them to give me my 73 days back. I'm just writing here because maybe that will help warn people that they may get robbed of their streak because the daily xp that the coach says may be completely different to the actual xp you have earned today.

7ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

I wrote to technical support. No answer yet. Good luck!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bluesocksTN 25 8 3 3 453

I, too, would have lost my streak if I hadn't been paying attention.

How awful to do to people without prior notice. I hope they spend a week giving back user's streaks and learn their lesson to better communicate in the future.

1Give Lingot•2 years ago

SifaP 20 3

Same thing happened to me at 160 days. It resulted in me forgoing Duo for about a week which I secretly have to admit was wonderful. Do you know if anyone has managed to have theirs reinstated?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

luojieli 24 24 22 21 20 14 13 13 10 8 7 7 7 4 260

I love the idea of a daily goal with the Coach feature. However, I am trying to set an individual goal of 20 XP for each language. With the global goal being set, I have to keep track of each individual goal separately, which takes away from the convenience of the feature. Unfortunately, once you've set the daily goal with the Coach feature, there is no way to turn it OFF, it only allows you to change the category. Can you add a feature to Settings > Coach to have NO global daily goal? This will allow me to go back to the original graphs for each language so I can stick to my individual language goals.

24ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

buunny 13 10 9 8 7 7 7 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 6 4 3 3

Please don't implement this feature. The way I keep up in all my languages is by making sure they are all the same level. If I can't see how many points I have in each language, how can I make sure they are all the same level. I'm usually really for everything Duolingo implements, such as the half a heart or duel feature, but I've never really liked the coach feature. I don't mind it on mobile because I can choose not to use it, but I really don't like being forced to use it.

24ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

mintedgarnet 19 8 7 7 5

Please add me to the long list of people that would prefer the progress bar.

If you're dead set on the coach feature, I expect a variety of possible goals & challenges would go over better. Ex: keeping all learned lessons gold; get X answers right in a row; doing X flashcards; verb conjugation challenges, write a paragraph in your 2nd language, etc etc.

So many directions you could go with this, rather than a lamer version of the streak!

24ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Owlish_Owl 16 2

What if I don't use the site altogether? The daily goal in the app is also now a threshold for extending the streak?

What I used the site for though, were the stats on XP, my level, words learned... I enjoy tracking my progress. There will be no more stats? Is there any chance the stats will be brought to the app? (As well as ability to report or discuss the question?)

23ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

kristinemc 16 9 7 4 2

Hi everyone- First, a very sincere thank you for voicing your concerns and suggestions about this feature and how these ab tests appear. We are constantly ab testing updates, and will be making some very important changes to this specific coach feature based on your feedback before it goes to everyone. We are also going to be informing you better of these updates. We absolutely do care about the community- members, mods, contributors- everyone. We are working hard to make sure our future communication is smoother. Thank you for this feedback!

23ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

O-JO 16 10 9 2

Wow, thank you for this update! Communication is what we crave!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iwasrobbed 15 7

Coach is great and all, but I'm not sure I understand the UX decision to completely replace the number of words I've learned and the level chart to show how close I am to level 14, for example.

Small goals might feel easier to achieve, but if you force people to only focus on small goals, they end up losing sight of larger goals that really matter. Small goals don't offer much reinforcement of long-term behavior, but large goals do.

You should consider a mixed approach where new users can utilize Coach to build the habit, but experienced users with pre-existing habits should be able to focus on their larger goal. We don't need Coach anymore, so it's kind of worthless.

22ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Margolf 25 5

making this mandatory is a real downer. I get that you like to experiment - but this is just REALLY a slap in the face at individuals and how they manage their time and their own personal approach.

I have absolutely NO INTEREST in setting a daily streak level - I tried this coach thing on IOS when it first came out - and I hated it. I don't use the IOS platform at all anymore.

Now you're going to force us to use this daily approach or lose all our tracking information - I don't find this to be at all positive from a user's viewpoint-

21ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

JHMcC 21 1

After losing a streak, due to the implementation of the Coach, I no longer care if I maintain a streak. Losing a streak is a big disincentive to using the Coach. I try to practice daily anyhow, but the DL streak is no longer motivational. Since then I have de-activated the Coach by setting the daily XP goal back to zero and re-installed the Progress Bar and Word Count through two excellent computer hacks described elsewhere in the forum discussions. If you look for the two hacks in the discussion threads you will find them. The titles of the two discussion topics are "Bring back XP levels." and "How to see the XP toward the next level (SOLVED)". The two hacks were provided by "th23x" and "dynamic_puppy". If you go to the profiles of those two users you can see their comments on how to implement the hacks.

21ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Baakamono 15 14 11 11 11 11 10 6 3

It would be great to set the goal for every language.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

[deactivated user]

Couldn't there be a way we could have the coach feature And the Xp level bar?

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tjcinmaryland 25 25 25 24 24 23 22 12 12 12 1423

I'm going to join in with the thoughts in the opposite direction. This feature really needs to be per-language. The aggregate coach really makes it difficult for me to be 100% certain that I've exercised each language each day. I'd much rather set individual language goals (higher in languages I'm actively learning, rather than maintaining) and know my daily progress in each.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

adryonsk 18 7 6 5 3 82

Proposal: Keep the online Coach, and have it sync with the iOS coach so work done on either platform is reflected on the other. Have several Coach options: global, individual language, and completely off. Bring back the XP bars for each language.

It really distresses me that I can't see how close I am to going up a level, as this was a great source of motivation. I like having the challenge of a daily goal which I have to reach to extend my streak, but this isn't for everyone and, without easily being able to see how much XP I need to level up, Duolingo loses part of the fun game-oriented framework which brought me here in the first place.

Allowing all users to flexibly choose which features to switch on would be the simplest and best solution, making the most amount of people happy.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 58

That sounds great; yes please!

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

janki77 20 20 14 14 13 12 10 10 10 10 7 7 3 2 2

I think it's really sad that the level progress bar has been sacrificed for the new Coach feature. I feel sort of lost now without it. For me the level progress bar was much more motivating (especially when I was about to level up) than the Coach. Any chance the level progress bar is coming back again?

15ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

dave.pretty 25 25 25 22 21 20 2 28

As a couple of good posts have pointed out, the genius of this site has been to gamify learning. Those who like games, who play games, who become addicted to games--and things game-like--need the score, the knowledge of what level they are on, the adrenalin of measurement. That's why they are here, and indeed why so many become well nigh addicted. Coach is not a game feature, it's a long-distance runner feature. People with that sort of discipline are not going to become addicted to game-like features. And people who might become addicted to game-like features will quite possibly be repelled by that demand for discipline. Duolingo is coming close to shooting itself in the foot, or, worse, somewhere quite higher up on the torso. This is Windows 8 without the entrenched market position that will allow Microsoft to recover.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Cheryl1 20 11 7 7

DL where have you been? And a meek reply at that. Nothing about not being able to turn Coach off, about loosing the progress bar, about the real impact on XP and levels for each language being studied. And yet, another reason not to care about lingots. Are you moving from a gamification model to something else? It seems so.

For over a week people have logged on only to find "surprise" changes that permanently alter how the app works. Doesn't anyone from DL monitor your own discussion forum? Adding a new "feature" that essentially forces users to login and do something everyday is not user friendly. It feels like you're taking attendance.

Despite all the stats you treasure, you don't seem to understand that people have to be very motivated to stick with learning a language long enough so that they learn enough to translate English language documents into various languages so you can sell the translations and turn a profit. Adding motivators = good idea. Removing motivators = bad idea. Adding "features" that are permanent with no warning = very bad idea. Statistics don't tell the whole story. It's been my experience that end users (that's us!) know what they need to do their job better than any software developer.

Again, A/B testing is not an industry standard for making and testing app changes. No experienced software developer would throw unannounced changes into a production app using this methodology. You run the risk of alienating end users (accomplished) and breaking what was previously working (accomplished). It seems that you prefer a wild, wild west approach to app development. It's a costly approach which, if you're not careful, will seriously damage the trust DL users have placed in Duolingo.

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

R.Erin 10 8

I, for one, dislike the coach system. I lost my 61 day streak as a result. Even if you buy a streak freeze, if you do not reach your goal it is used AND you lose your streak! How is that fair?The streak was my motivation to come back every day. Now that is gone and this new system is in place, I lack all drive to come back here and do my Spanish. Big thumbs down Duo. :(

15ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

delapouite 22 19 18 15 14 12 10 7

I find this kind of official announcement quite disrespectful : what is the purpose of creating a nth topic on the subject, providing no new information instead of answering the questions already asked in the other ones about what has been removed (xp bars, words count etc...)?

Forgive me if I sound rude, but you act like a blind staff this way.

14ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

jolynnedougherty 25 19 14 8 5 54

I appreciate the announcement because it comes from someone in blue which makes it official. I was blindsided when I set my coach for 50XP and completed 1 lesson, got 10XP, but no extension of my streak. Imo, it is good for Duo officially to get this information out there to the Duomasses.

11ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1167

I guess the point is to make it pop out from among all the questions: since you see the post is written by a staff member (blue circle), you know this will actually give you information rather than be just another post asking for information or stating opinions of users.

10ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

th23x 23 20 559

I support getting the XP level bar back - at least in addition to the daily coach!

In case you don't want to wait until Duolingo provides the feature back...let me provide you with a workaround. You need to use Firefox and have installed GreaseMonkey ( <https://addons.mozilla.org/en-US/firefox/addon/greasemonkey/> ) allowing some custom JavaScript being executed on a selected page.

Having this program, add a new Custom Script with the following content:

Sorry...can't update the post with the required code - please see my reply for the code to include!

Enjoy your newly "won" XP bar :-)

14ReplyGive Lingot3•2 years ago

th23x 23 20 559

Sorry, editing code posted here doesn't seem to work properly - I improved the script further to reliably bring up the bar after switching actions and completing lessons as well...please download via the link below, if you're interested:

http://th23.net/wp-content/uploads//temp/th23\_Duolingo.user.js.zip

10ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

5string 25 25 25 10

Excellent! Works nicely. Thank you very much for posting it. Cheers.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

iwasrobbed 15 7

Thanks for this! The newer version worked for me. If you're using Google Chrome, install this using Tampermonkey instead of Greasemonkey

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

ailise9 19 13 11 8 4 3

Thank you for trying to improve the site but I prefer the old bar. I am working on more than one language and my daily goals are very different. The other method was very motivating.

13ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alm711 19

I find the Coach feature to be de-motivating. I was always doing enough lessons to get at least 30 XPs a day, but now I reset my Coach to 1 XP to make sure I don't lose my streak if I have an occasional day where I have very little computer time. Until now, I made myself do at least one lesson even if it was difficult to get to a computer (traveling, etc.) to make sure I kept my streak alive. But if I am going to lose my streak anyway, there is no motivation to set my daily goal higher. I am much more motivated by long term progress, going up a level, etc.

13ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

legionmx 21 7

The Coach idea is really good. A welcomed innovation. But is is a TERRIBLE idea to make it mandatory, and to completely overshadow the XP progression. Also is a TERRIBLE idea to change the streak system to count only days when you have met your goal. Maybe reducing it to at least a 10 point practice (the minimum in untimed) could keep away the behavior of 1 point timed practices. But definitely the "couched streak" is terrible, maybe just salvageable by making it optional an giving extra lingots for set number of "coached streak" days.

TL.DR.: The mandatory Coach feature is a TERRIBLE idea

My suggestion, make it completely optional. Maybe give some extralingots for keeping a "coach streak". But please don't force it onto us.

Another suggestion, aimed at like-minded individuals, is to 'downvote' the original post of this forum thread. I don't specially like the 'voting' system, but I think this is one of the few occasions where it may be useful to set a hard opinion. So, Vote Down On The Coach Feature :)

12ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

ComradeFrancis 25 22 19 18 15 14 14 12 12 11 10 270

The streak counter and progress graph were more than enough to allow users to set and keep daily goals.

Also, it imposes a paradigm that differs starkly from the work habits of many users. For instance, rather than maintaining a constant daily rate, I had developed my own system of "up-cycles" and "rest periods". Put simply: I would make sure to accumulate more points each day than the previous one, until I reached the point of the trend's untenability; then, I would either spend a few days doing the minimum to keep my streak or take a break from Duolingo altogether before starting the next "up-cycle".

Using the workflow to which I am accustomed, there is no place for the coach (as it currently functions). During periods where I am committed to over 1000 points per day, the "insane" level threshold of 50 points is meaningless. During my "rest periods", having to reach a daily quota of any kind other than the 1 point needed to keep my streak is equally valueless and serves only as a petty annoyance.

As for me, I have other projects that demand my attention and other ways to keep practicing my language skills; so I am taking an extended "rest period" in my Duolingo training schedule. I assume that my course of action is not unique among users of this site, and the metrics will reflect that trend. I am confident that, by the time I start working down my Spanish tree again, the electronic auguries will have been read and interpreted with the recommended course of action being to either remove or radically modify the coach feature.

Addendum: I also share the same dismays as have been stated by the avalanche of comments posted before mine (concerning word count, separate progress graphs for each language etc.).

12ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Mirifis 19 13 2

I knew the coach on the mobile app and for me it was a useless feature - i did not take care of it. But knowing it will take away, on the website, the number of words learnt by language and the progress of my XP bar, I really hope this feature won't be brought to everyone ! I haven't it yet, so I cherish my stats (actually wondering if I can note them on a post-it, you know, for the day they will be off).

In today's games, stats are everywhere and players are often interested in them. Duolingo has been made according to a "videogame" model ; so those stats should stay as well as the XP and the hearts. The coach, being a new feature to bring "quests" into Duolingo, can be a good idea for some learners, but it should not replace the stats. It could live alongside.

About bringing a feature from app to website, I think the "challenges" thing (where you play in a limited time against another learner or the computer) would be waaaay more interesting and funny !

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

FrenchCrazy 15 8 3 2 2 2

Challenges where you play against another player for speed and accuracy? That's brilliant !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Mirifis 19 13 2

Yes, it exists on the iPad app. It's fun !

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marcownz747 13 9 5 3

Why hasn't Duolingo staff replied to our complaints? This Original post has more complaint filled comments than passive likes. Its main complaint filled comment has OVER 4 TIMES the number of complaints than the original post. PLEASE, either keep coach and give us our old features back or abandon coach for our old features. Coach and language-specific-XP-bars/charts aren't mutually exclusive... and if they are because of a programming error, the MAJORITY of the duolingo community is calling for our old features back.

11ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hello marcownz747,

Staff are aware that this feature is experiencing some issues in this ab test stage. They are currently compiling a list of complaints and feedback people are posting in the forums. This is a priority update and they are working on it. :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tjinmaryland 25 25 25 24 24 23 22 12 12 12 1423

But in the interim, it gives the impression that Staff isn't concerned about this in the slightest.

Look, I'm a software engineer, and even I understand basic customer service. You get complaints, you recognize that they're valid, and you state OPENLY that you are aware of the issues and that you're working on it... and that usually gets your customers off your back enough for you to do what you need to do to fix it.

This is bad customer service, plain and simple. We should have had a response from Staff by now in the open.

13ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wazzie 25 11

Yeah, it is unfair to the volunteer moderators to be put in the position of saying, "trust us, they know and are working on it". It would be so much more effective for a staff member to say, "we realize that there are some bugs in the new coach feature and are working on it... ...if these glitches caused you any problems, please send us a help ticket, and we will get to it as soon as possible".

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

tjinmaryland 25 25 25 24 24 23 22 12 12 12 1423

Though, let me soften a little of what I said (because I'm also realizing that I sound like a petulant child). I do appreciate this site being here, and being free, and I love having the resource with all the work that goes into it.

But c'mon, staff. It takes 2 minutes to jot down a quick "we're listening and we'll respond soon" note. :)

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

My "trust me" statement was nearly a word for word quote from staff. So, I think something else is at issue here besides communication.

-1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

Thats nice to hear but it would be better to it straight from the horses mouth. All teh ahve to do is make a new sticky, that way, they make it clear to EVERYONE, not just some people who decided to scroll all the way down here. Not everyone will see this and it just causes more grief. I agree tcjinmaryland, terrible customer service

8Give Lingot•2 years ago

Prokuratoros 12 9 8 6

I want old XP bar back :(

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jequé 24 15 15 13 10 10 9 8 7 6 5 5 5 5 5 3 2 2 2 2 203

I apparently reached the daily goal but my streak did not stay alive. coach

10ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

johncaveishere 14

Join the club, my friend. This feature seems to just pick a random number of points that you've earned today and goes with that. Note my newfound one day streak

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

m-duke 15 2

Happened to me as well... met my daily goal, walked away all smiles... came back next morning to a zero day streak.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

j.avdeev 24 9 6 5 4 2 2

Ya, same crapp <https://www.dropbox.com/s/zyxskf34f49956q/DuoBug-1.png?dl=0>

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheJack81 16 2

Consider me among the newer users who wishes the coach was optional. I appreciate having a daily goal, but having that goal override my ability to track my progress on longer-term goals (i.e., the level) is really demotivating. How about just give us both? Give us a daily goal AND give us our progress bar to the next level.

10ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

I didnt see the fact that the coach EXP per day target was the new Threshold for extending your streak!!!! I only foudn this out after I lost my streak, no where was that said when I set my goal for 50 XP each day!!!!!! Something like that should be said as soon as you choose to turn on the coach!!!! Has anyone else lost their streak like this? And DUO, Can I PLEASEEEEEEEEEEE have my 37 day streak back, this is really not fair when it was never clearly stated the new threshold for extending your streak is now based on the coach :((((((((((((((((((((((((((((((((

9ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

bibeaults 22 9 7 6

The coach is fine, but I still have no way of knowing what my total XP are per language. It is extremely frustrating.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

marcownz747 13 9 5 3

Coach is nice, but the language-specific XP bars and word counts need to come back.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AAananchenko 25 22 22 4

The coach feature broke points accounting. This saturday and sunday I gained only 10 points each day but come monday and I see that I already have 47 points. Where does these points come from? I have no idea! Now I also cannot see the progress bar and have to rely on my memory to remember how much points left at this level.

My vote is: NEGATIVE, bring back the old system! Make coach optional.

9ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

calabalumba 25 18 15 14 8 7 6

Not published in our pages. I lost my streak of 104 days, even if I had bought protection, and I kept working every day. Could it be reinstated manually? Thanks.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TatianaBoshenka 25 12 8 2 135

Well, I feel like I was robbed of my streak, which was over 40 days long. For some reason this has really disappointed me and I have a hard time doing duolingo at all now because it seems pointless if my accomplishments can be erased so easily. I understand that is irrational, since I really am better at reading Spanish than I was, but it still affects my willingness to do lessons each day, which is sad. Please bring back my streak, and my lingots that I would have earned from it. I want to care again!

8ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

YES AGREE SO MUCHHHH! THEY DIDNT SAY ANYTHING UP FRONT ABOUT THIS AFFECTING STREAKS! I am exactly like you, I was enjoying that the fact my streak was reflecting how many days I had been very consistent and now its all gone. Its so not fair and the least Duo can do is give up us our streak back! Very bad design taht they did not mention the coach affects streaks!

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

alm711 19

I was also robbed of my streak, and I am not pleased, as it was not explained that meeting my daily goal would be necessary to maintain my streak. I almost always far exceed my daily goal anyway, but as I was going away for the weekend and did not have much computer time, I could only do one lesson per day for a few days. I reset my coach to just 1 XP per day, meaning to set it back higher when I got back home. But apparently I didn't reset it in time, and I lost my streak.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

And still Duo says nothing....The least they could do is give out a statement saying they are looking into lost streaks, or are taking on board the criticisms of the coach, but nothing. Absolutely nothing. Duo's approach to its userbase and lifeblood is baffling.

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

TatianaBoshenka 25 12 8 2 135

They must be prepared to jettison all of us and begin again as many times as it takes. I do understand that it's hard to be writing software for an existing user base. And it is free, so it's not like we can demand our money back. =) But I would feel better if it looked like they at least cared. Maybe they have no clue how or why the streaks went away?

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

There's no way they can't know, people have been complaining for almost a week now and first streak losses reported around this time too, if they don't know, that's bad management of them on their part in keeping in touch with their community. I definitely agree its hard to code and write software but giving out a statement saying whether they are looking into it, or if its not possible, or if they are investigating etc etc etc doesn't require that much effort, and a good service provider definitely is close to its users. Yeah this is free but keeping the userbase in the dark is not good practise and creates a bad atmosphere as seen here, that's definitely isn't healthy for duo in the long term. I think you may be more correct in that they don't mind jettisoning the existing users for the sake of just getting greater numbers of new users, this whole coach system screams of being geared to new people. I hope I am wrong though and duo do get back to us and rectify this situation :(

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bkamolnick 22

On the plus side, it is an amazing learning tool for absolutely free to be used anywhere for as long as you want...

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

I can't argue with that, duo has accomplished a lot but if duo ever gets some competition that provides better customer service, or they wreck their own really great learning mechanics (ungamifying it as people have said before), I could definitely see people being eager to switch after episodes like this one. I would rather duo just keep on improving though, so our complaints are of help to them

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

allintolearning 25 24 21 16 15 15 13 12 12 11 11 10 10 10 9 8 8 7 7 6 6 6 4 2 2 14

Scroll up because someone from the staff did reply. They are reading all the feedback and will be improving, but if you are looking for something quicker someone else has created a hack to give you your xp bar back. I am lucky, because I used the coach on the mobile android phone already and didn't like it then, so I am glad I didn't have to be one of its testers on the pc.

2Give Lingot•2 years ago

jfernatt 22 8

Don't get discouraged. Your real accomplishments aren't really erased. The streak itself is meaningless. What you've learned in those 40 days is what matters.

2ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

SuperDescartes 24 22 4 2

Yeah thats really true but it does suck, just feels like it was lost for no reason, I will definitely stay on but I hope they give the people who lost their streaks back, the streak ultimately does help to motivate us I feel, in a purely cosmetic way mostly but I dont know, it just works in many peoples minds, I think they wanna keep that number increasing, and when its built up a lot, theres definitely taht urge to keep it and stay on the sire. Thank for the encouragement though!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TatianaBoshenka 25 12 8 2 135

Thanks for the encouragement! I know intellectually that you're right, that the real reason for continuing is what I'm learning, and that's still real, regardless of some numbers shown on my screen. I guess I have trust issues, or something, though. I feel so let down and cheated, and I feel reluctant to invest any more time in a program that's going to treat me that way.

This is an issue in my life, too! I quit my church not long ago because they excommunicated a prominent feminist. So even though there were areas in which I was learning and growing by taking part in that church, the abusive nature of their behavior toward feminists, and really all women, meant I had to quit. Thank goodness duolingo isn't to that point, yet. But it has definitely impacted my motivation and enthusiasm toward continuing.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

DelitaRaeWright 25 10 6 21

So if this is a test almost all comments are dejection and despair, when, please sir, will the test be over and can I have another level lbar and word count feature? I did not lose my streak (yet) but only because some kind sir or ma'am let me know my coach goal would blow my streak if not met. Since I believe goals should be high-ish, something to shoot for, I of course tried to opt out of my test coach cycle but found I was -- ACK! -- trapped. Please just tell us when we can put all this behind us and if you can detach coach from the streak I would keep him, but only if the level bar and word counts come back. He is just too sneaky and dangerous otherwise. Seriously.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Don_Cristian 25 25 22 22 15 14 11 11 11 11 11 11 10 10 10 10 9 9 7 5 5 4 4 3 2 1

Why would I need a coach ? I might do 10, 50, 300 or in the shortcut days even 3000 points a day, I get motivated by getting levels and golden owls and seeing my knowledge increasing. I want to keep my level bar rather than setting any goals every day.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mbroussa1 23 12 11 10

I don't like this at all...bring back the bar. Period.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

uaniets 9 9 5

I agree, I would also prefer to have my golden progress bar back. It was exciting to feel that extra boost of encouragement surge through you when you see that you are close. Its sad that it is gone. :'(

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

This might only be a small consolation, but, I can still see my bar at the end of a Timed Practice when I earn at least 1 point. I think it shows up for others with the Coach as well. :)

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

mbroussa1 23 12 11 10

I can't see the bar at any time...not even at the end of a timed practice.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

El_Sol 16 13

Bring back the progress bar, please! I really like the coach add-on, but I really, really like the progress bar, too.

Leveling up is a great motivator for me, because I have a touch of competitiveness in me, and I really like to compete with my friends and family about what level they are in comparison to me. The good-natured chaffing, and back-in-forth taunts, really seems to do the job in pushing us to advance ourselves through our respective learning-language.

As well, that little yellow progress bar was a great motivator for me, because if I saw that I was only 50 or 60 or however many experience points away from leveling up, instead of quitting after a few lessons I would keep pushing myself until I heard that beautiful, oh-so beautiful, level-up chime.

So, please, please bring back the progress bar in the side-bar area. I'm sure there is a way to incorporate both features.

Much love and keep up the good work!

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Rafforza 14 11 3 3 2 2 2

XP bars are much more motivating than this coach thing, get rid of it.

8ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Zaaffraan 21

Earlier I posted this comment as a new discussion topic. I am reposting it here instead under slight protest in response to a request from a moderator who rightly wanted to reduce confusion and clutter. As I explained to him, one reason I started a separate discussion was because the conversation on the Coach feature line has become so diffuse and frequently off-topic. The more important reason I felt a new discussion was warranted because the Coach discussion didn't necessarily apply to the suppression of other user achievement information.

As those of us dumped into the experimental group in the current Coach feature test are too well aware, Duo had removed our level progress information. For a while after the start of the A/B test the level progress info was available on our Profile Pages. Now that's gone, too. Why, Duo, why?

Okay, granted that the whole business of ersatz awards and faux incentives for doing something we want to do--learn or refresh another language--is pretty silly when a sensible person thinks about it, but somehow progress information can be strangely encouraging for many of us. For instance, I'll confess I find the streak feature to be motivating through its visible confirmation of my constancy in pursuing my goal of increasing my Spanish proficiency. Other people find information about Level rankings or XP totals or Lingots amassed to be important adjuncts to their learning experiences. Why does giving one kind of information have to preclude providing access to any other?

If the aim is to test the utility of the new Coach goal setter why not just add the Coach to people's array of utilities and see how many of us choose to adopt it and how we choose to use it. Leave the rest of the information alone. Making other changes in user interface seems to me to be adding unnecessary variables to the Coach experiment.

8ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 58

Thanks for the information. What happens if we do not want to set a target? Is there a default of 1?

7ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

wazzie 25 11

Yes.

(I didn't set mine and extended my streak today with 1XP)

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

StephenRawr 22 18 11 10 8 8 7 5 4 4 2

There is. The options are 1, 10, 20, 30, 50.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lindaljc 25 13 4 58

I have seen that, my question was if I do not set a target, will doing a minimum of 1XP still preserve my streak? After the comments by those who have set targets, I am a bit reluctant to do so!

7ReplyGive Lingot4•2 years ago

StephenRawr 22 18 11 10 8 8 7 5 4 4 2

I think it defaults to the original way of 1 XP if you don't set a goal. I know if you do set one you can't unset it (though you can change what it is set to). In theory setting a goal of 1 should function identically to not setting one at all. In theory. In practice, I have no idea. I would still assume so, but I don't know for sure.

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

Frosch0066 20 13 10 3

So far I haven't activated my coach and I hope to maintain my streak by doing a minimum of one lesson per day. This seems to work as my streak was updated today after doing my lesson. So either the coach is set at default 1XP or else it just continues as before if you don't set a daily goal.

Personally I don't think this new feature will work for me. I prefer to go with the flow. While on some days I feel up to it and can do 100XP there are other days when I just manage 10XP. Keeping the streak going was motivating enough for me.

16ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

JamesB84 15 12 10 10 9 8 8 7 5

You can change your target at any time. It's your own personal goal. If your goal is to just do something that day, then just opt for 1 point. If you are feeling ambitious or are feeling really motivated to improve your skills, pick something higher. Therefore, you shouldn't worry about picking a goal.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

annika_a 19 17 17 16 11 11 5 2 2 2 1167

Thanks for keeping us informed!

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

phenglai 15

I travel quite a bit and never saw this and my streak was taken away as I was doing one lesson per day while on business. I also submitted a ticket 9 days ago and still have not heard a word back about getting my streak extended.

The new Coach is of no use to me since it varies from day to day on how much time I can spend. The goal was a good motivator for me but I knew on some days I would not hit it due to travel. I now have my goal set to 10xp since the streak is more important than the goal now as I will never hit the goal on days I travel.

It would be nice in the future to better inform people they are getting tested on and it would also be nice to get my 64 days back that I lost when feature was implemented.

7ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GabriellaBohus 20 6 2

I experienced a problem with the coach feature. My xp counter shows that i have already achieved 11 xp. Yesterday this same happened and at first i thought that i did some lessons in the morning because sometimes i learn in the morning and i just forgot about it. So i reached my xp goal a little over 50.

And today this thing happened again and now i know that i didn't learn today. I almost lost my streak because of this confusion, because at the end of the day the system doesn't count these extra xps which appear out of nowhere. So now i have to pay attention to that. Please fix this bug. It is really confusing.

Anyone experiencing this thing or is it just me?

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

m-duke 15 2

Me as well.... reached my 37/30 target, but lost my streak anyway..... frustrating

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nzv8fan 22

Yes I commented about this yesterday.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Thalass 17 9

I really like the coach feature, but I had the same problem as Gabriella. I changed the goal to 1xp to eliminate the confusion, but that kinda negates the coach feature.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

saina 14 6 3

Please send out a notice to everyone that they need to reach their goal in order to maintain their streak and bring back the streaks of people who lost them due to new rules that come with the coach! thanks :)

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lepaslandas 25 11 9 8 6 4 3 2 2 2 2

Why not just put the goal circle under the progress bar? It's not like, you know, you're limited by space or anything. Why must we choose when we can have both?

6ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

KalinaZ 23 20 12 11 121

Exactly! it's as simple as that...

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jakaranter 10

"Please note that this daily goal is now the threshold for extending your streak." Why isn't this stated on the Coach page? It would have been so simple and avoided a lot of users' grief. I was really motivated by my streak (almost to 100) and since losing it, plus my wagers, I haven't completed a lesson in days. I really miss the bar too.

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

saina 14 6 3

It's been over a week, cant wait until the AB testing is finished! Again, Im missing my XP bar :/

6ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

nzv8fan 22

I've got a pretty major bug with the coach. It constantly displays my XP from yesterday as my progress towards today. However, it isn't until I reach today's XP requirement that I get my streak extended. Yesterday's XP also shows on the weekly progress plot for yesterday as well as today so it appears to be being counted twice on the plot, but only once in the overall total.

5ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

ZaneN 20 13 12 2 2

I have the same problem. It makes it really hard to tell how much I have done in a day, when it seems to give you random amount of points at the start of the day, then remove them later once the day is done. Will try the logout/login method suggested

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

GregHullender 25 25 22 13 10

Log out of Duolingo and log back in. That worked for me.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kplife 22 22 14 10 9 9 8 8 7 7 5 3 2

I've got to the point where after each lesson is complete, I am hoping (expecting) to level up. "Any time now!" I say to myself. It's causing so much anxiety!! O_o I love this site.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kplife 22 22 14 10 9 9 8 8 7 7 5 3 2

Woohoo!! I leveled up in Irish! What an exciting surprise. :-)

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bibeaults 22 9 7 6

Thanks for posting. I too have spend a couple days now expecting to level up soon. I was starting to do some math because I cannot figure out how it hasn't happened yet, unless I did a lot more Danish after I hit level 6 than I thought. I was getting to the point where I thought maybe leveling up was broken. Have to push on. I am SO TEMPTED to drop Danish, I just don't know if it will actually do what I think it will do and show me only my German points in the leaderboard. I love this site, too, but the hate is winning out today.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

bibeaults 22 9 7 6

I leveled up in German. OMG Finally. Now I just have to write down every time I get xp and in what language.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

kplife 22 22 14 10 9 9 8 8 7 7 5 3 2

I've been waiting for my German level up too. It should be any day now! I hope....

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jmchuma 14 10 10

Hi there!

As I said here (<https://www.duolingo.com/comment/4978131>) I had a forty two days streak and I lost it because of the coach. For some strange reason it said i had met my goal (the circle was complete) and all of a sudden it turns out I hadn't and there goes my streak. I checked the app on my phone and it says I still have my streak, but it's gone on the web. Is anyone else having trouble with this? Has anybody experienced something similar? Is there a way of recovering my streak?

Thanks!

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

TheJack81 16 2

I would have lost mine had I not been careful on this very point. My mobile app said I had continued my streak even though I knew I was 10xp shy of my daily goal. I went ahead and did one more lesson to get over it, but if I wasn't paying attention, I would have lost it, too.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

MegaSpy 16 7 4 136

So the coach destroyed my streak, it covered up the xp bar, and how is it supposed motivate you? A 'circle of doom' won't help motivate you just like whipping slaves won't make them feel happier.

5ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

heatherzykos 12 9 8 2

Please duolingo people, add another button in the coach settings called DEACTIVATE COACH. That will be perfect. Thanks so much

5ReplyGive Lingot2•2 years ago

vvkrastev 25 25 25 25 24 16 15 15 15 12 9 8 8 8 8 6 6 5 4 4 3 3 2 1191

How does this interact with the coach feature in iOS which is not global in tracking?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jumpingmario 6

The coach has one big logical problem, as I progress the XPs become harder to get, because the lessons becomes harder. So a 50 Xp in the basic levels are not equal to a 50 Xp in the advance levels.

Please remove this feature as this is very annoying. I am very serious in learning the German language. I read simple story books, listen to Rammstein and spend 1-2 hours here, in duolingo. I do not like to to set my coach to casual :(

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

50 XP is still 50 XP. If you can't reach it due to progressively harder levels, then you have to lower it if you want to continue meeting the goal. If the levels didn't get harder (learning more tenses, etc.), then you wouldn't be learning the language. :)

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jumpingmario 6

My effort is constant. So I must be able to maintain my streak. But to maintain a streak with same XP is hard and becomes harder. Besides, the coach also gobbles up my extra XP at the end on the day.

Example: I had scored 220 Xp on the first day, 92 on the second, but it is futile as this is not carried over. So coach does not recognizes my extra efforts, just like my ex.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

delapouite 22 19 18 15 14 12 10 7

You used to date a fitness instructor?

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jumpingmario 6

No and no, she was my wife, and she is one of the leading researchers in immunology in US.

0ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Right, which is why I suggested you lower your goal, unless you can commit more time each day.

-2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

jumpingmario 6

Please ask the coach, to not gobble up mein XPs. I am learning German, so I must have German attitude, I must not lower my goals.

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

legionmx 21 7

What? This is really a bad answer. So basically, he has to commit more and more time to accomplish the same goal?

Do you even understand that what you are proposing is basically an addiction? Addicts need more and more amount of drug to reach the effect of the drug. It is not healthy to become addicted to anything.

The simple solution here is for Duolingo to drop the (what I've named) "coached streak". That is the Ockham's way. The simplest solution.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

Yes, he would. Skills do increase in difficulty. Naturally, if he wants to attain the same number of XP, he's going to have to spend more time on it.

I don't know how you got addiction from that. If we're having issues with school, would we not spend more time, perhaps studying with a tutor or with a book? Yes. That's not addiction. It's just dedicating more time to something.

My suggestion was to lower his goal, anyway.

0Give Lingot•2 years ago

abcdedbca 22 14 13 10 4 3

I lost my streak, because either I didn't see that this coach is connected with streak or it wasn't clearly stated when activating the couch that the streak will be reseted when the couch daily aim won't be achieved. Can you restore my streak, please?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mbroussa1 23 12 11 10

I find myself wasting more time reading about how everyone hates not having the progress bar (which I agree with) than I am spending working...

4ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

AlexYakimov 20 15

Give back the XP bar and words counter!!!

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mallowlark 23 15 6

I don't mind the coach in and of itself --- don't love it either --- but even if all languages count towards it, couldn't we see what we've done in each language? I'm also another one who really does not like being unable to see my progress towards the next level. Okay, a trial is a trial, but having done this as an either/or doesn't seem like the best design. You don't really know what we think of the coach itself --- it's mixed with what we think about having the word counts and progress bars taken away. Why not add the coach and leave the rest of it alone?

4ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Seannibal 21 20 13 11 10 6

I do hope to see the little green check mark back in the streak flame in the header, because not seeing it makes me nervous, even when I'm 50 XP past my daily goal.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jeanette525 8 6

I LOVE the new coach feature. I think it'll really help motivate me. However, I would like to see the XP bar and word count back. :)

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

IrenaPasvinter 18 17 15 11 9 9 5

This is a nice feature, but now I can't see how many XP I have to earn to get to the next level. Perhaps the only way to see this now is to get to the end of a skill, and in languages where you've finished the whole tree there is no way to see your progress to the next level at all.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

suewoods 25 1008

i like the coach feature, but as many have already said, i liked the progress bar very much too. I do have problems with the number of points received per day though and i think there is a problem with different time zones. like today is a new week and my weekly score is 0 which is correct, but the coach tells me i already have 34 points, which i guess are yesterday's points. does anyone else have this problem?

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Dasi_ 20 13 10 9 8 8 6 2

Ditto on liking both.

Yes, I was having a similar problem with point being pushed to the next day/week. It was a time zone issue which I only discovered because of coach. The countdown feature helped me get ahead of this problem though. Is that a feature everyone can see?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Milkho 11 2

Return the progress bar level or do I need to record a video like this?! - <http://youtu.be/kHmvkRoEowc>

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JordanSpar2 18 5 4 4 3 2 2

Lost my streak despite changing my goal and not missing any days. Disheartening but I will continue studying.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JenniferNarzt 21 8 132

Hi, I like this new feature. However, I would like to still be able to see how far it is until the next level. With this Coach feature in place, I literally have no idea how many XP it is to level 13 German. I have found that if I am close, that can motivate me to practice more.

Also, some of the goals are kind of silly. "Basic" being "1" XP. You can't even earn only 1 XP! If you complete any lesson at all, you earn 10XP minimum. I would prefer if you were able to pick a greater variety of XP levels, too (ex. just type a goal # in, instead of selecting from pre-picked amounts).

It might also be nice to be able to pick a goal every day/week (not mandatory, of course). This could potentially be a bigger goal than XP. For example, "reach level 13", or "learn the skill Negatives", or "get 3 hearts on a lesson". Of course, that's probably too complicated, but if it's possible I think it would be great!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

wazzie 25 11

You can earn 1XP in Timed Practice or Immersion.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

JenniferNarzt 21 8 132

Oh, I didn't know that. I'm not proficient enough to be in Immersion, and I find I get too flustered with Timed Practice, so I haven't really used either.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

achampion44 3

I want the bar back!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

2wired 23 10 266

It would have been nice to know that if you don't make your daily goal that your streak is cancelled. That was not at all clear, and after losing my 150 day streak, the "Coach" feels like a disincentive rather than an incentive!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

SteveBosman 20 11 6 5 2 2 2 732

I think we've had the coach feature for two weeks now.

My opinion is I like the idea, but the implementation is broken.

Sometimes it is plain buggy and starts the day showing XP that I have not earned.

There needs to be a target per language, not across all languages. Even different colours on the target or graph to indicate how many XP were from each language would be an improvement.

I really miss the progress bar

3ReplyGive Lingot1•2 years ago

HopeC5 11

Forgive me if this has been said, but as there are 357 comments I may have missed it. :)

But, I think it may be productive to raise the 10 xp goal to an 11 xp goal. If I am correct, any lesson or review, if completed, earns at least 10 xp points, even with all hearts gone. By raising it to 11, you encourage us even more not to mess up, and it's still useful for those who don't have time to do the two lessons necessary every day in order to complete the 20 xp goal. Otherwise, it's just like having the previous streak system-- you do one lesson, or one practice, and it adds to your streak.

Also, PLEASE bring our old yellow bar back, as well! It provides a little bit of "Umph!" and greatly encourages us to keep going!!!

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

8HambyJ 18

If you buy the Timed Practice feature in the store, then practice with that, you can get up to 20 XP in one round. Every question you get right adds one XP and gives you more time, with 20 questions total, just like the normal practice. You don't get a lingot for not missing any questions, though.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

mysticmario1 5

I really appreciate the effort the staff puts in these improvements, but I cannot see my old bar in every language I took. For example, now I am taking some French lessons, and I can't see how many points are left for reaching level 25... same with other languages, of course.

I wonder if there is a possibility to see the old, nice and yellow bar again? And also, the number of words we have learned per language?

To be honest, I have lost a bit of motivation. I know I will still learn, but I really miss the yellow bar... that feeling of getting excited when I am/was about to reach a new level.

Thanks in advance.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AnnePaschke 14 8 7

I was actually interested in using the Coach feature to set myself a goal above the minimum of 1 daily point to maintain my streak. How surprised I was to discover that the Coach WAS the new daily streak requirement!!!! Nowhere outside of this discussion post - which of course I had no cause to look at until the problem became clear to me - was this set out.

Now my streak has gone from nearly 300 to ZERO. Almost a year's work lost because of this extremely ham-handed deployment of what could have been a useful feature. I hope that when the Duolingo staff responds to the multitude of complaints and concerns this error has created, that they also restore the streaks for those of us who continued our work on the lessons, even if we did not meet the "coach" requirements.

3ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jakaranter 10

Yes, it was a rude awakening for many of us who are in the same boat. We can only hope our streaks will be reinstated at some point.

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

lenvm 25 16 16 6 4 2 2

Yeah, just lost a streak of over 450 days over this. I experimented with increasing my daily challenge, not knowing that this would be the new threshold for my streak. I feel your pain!

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Katzenschlafs 14

I really like the daily goal feature. Sometimes I would just do one exercise, get 5 XP or so, and call it good because I had extended my streak. I've got my goal set at 40 XP, and it's a nice way of making sure I hold myself to a higher standard.

I never paid much attention to the yellow level progress bar (I don't really care about levels), so I don't mind it being gone. But I definitely agree that more information is better, so I agree with everyone that it would be nice to have the old information alongside the new in some format (maybe tabs?).

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

rachelrypkema 25 11 6 5 2 213

Can you guys fit both the level bar and the coach on the home page together? Because as much as I'm enjoying the coach, I miss the level bar as well. I think both are helpful, but both should be optional.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Jacsprats 13 10 8

I didn't know until I lost my streak and then thought about that coach feature that I had played with the day prior... Email to support hasn't been answered. Any way to restore my streak?

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Echo101 17 13 11 10 8 6 5 5 4 55

I just discovered that translating documents doesn't count towards your streak or your coach. The sentences we translate to gain a skill are relatively simple compared to the documents we translate. The documents themselves are a valuable insight into how people use the language in every day situations. Therefore, it seems unfair to discourage people from translating documents just because the coach does not count it towards our goal.

2ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

AlexisLinguist 25 21 19 19 13 12 12

That's not true, they do. It's how I keep my streak going everyday for the most part (I have the Coach). :) Your tiers are lower, however, so you have to translate more to get enough XP to count towards the goal.

0ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Echo101 17 13 11 10 8 6 5 5 4 55

I actually tried it today. I set the coach feature to 20 XP and I translated over 40 XP in documents, but it didn't count towards my streak. It said my goal had been met, but my streak was not extended. Maybe it's a bug?

1ReplyGive Lingot•2 years ago

Usagiboy7 25 17 6 5 4 4 3

Hi Echo101, as an A/B test feature, the coche is experiencing some technical difficulties, which can be expected at this stage. Staff is cataloging all of the bugs and then work to get them fixed. Thanks for the feedback! :)

Feel free to check out the wiki's Troubleshooting page for the Coach to see if anything over there can work as a temporary fix.

